New assignment system a success

The top student in Reese Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 91-09 was the first in Air Training Command to select an aircraft assignment under the new assignment selection process.

Capt. Dennis Pearson got first pick under the new Pilot Management Program assignment selection process, which was implemented April 5 as the five command UPT bases linked up to allow students to choose their aircraft assignments.

Reese students combined to select three trainer, five fighter, one bomber, one tanker and eight transport assignments.

"I am really proud of the way our people went into the selection process with an open mind," said Col. Bill Henny, 64th Flying Training Wing Commander. "Most of our people see the new selection process as a positive initiative and it proceeded like clockwork here," said Colonel Henny.

In addition to Captain Pearson, seven Reese students selected immediate flying assignments. They are: Capt. Mark Sheehan, C-130;

41st gets new commander

Lt. Col. Frank Shealy assumed command of the 41st Flying Training Squadron during a ceremony April 8 on the Reese flight line.

Saying "good-bye" to the 41st FTS, the former commander, Lt. Col. John DiPiero, is moving to Air Training Command headquarters, Randolph AFB, Texas, where he will be the chief of protocol.

"I'm extremely proud to be here, and the reception I got was outstanding," Colonel Shealy said. "Everyone has been extremely helpful and friendly, which is great when you're new."

"With the Air Force restructuring, Reese is going to see sweeping changes within the next few months and the 41st will not be exempt," the South Carolina native added. "We are going to need strong leadership, but more importantly, a re-

AN APPRECIATION SOCIAL will be held from 4-5:15 p.m. April 25 in the Reese Officers' Open Mess to recognize base volunteers. Officials in the Family Support Center said the event is open to everyone on base who would like to say "thank you" to those who donate their time to the community.

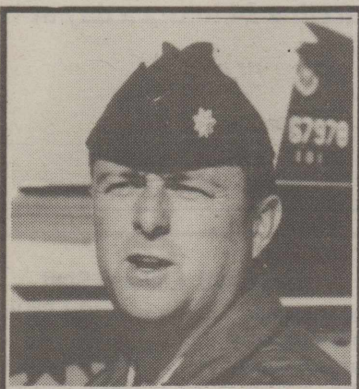

In addition, recipients of the Helping Hand and Angel Pin Awards will be recognized, and officials at the FSC said that organizations should get their volunteers' names submitted for these awards as soon as possible. Call the center at 3305 for details.

NATIONAL VOLUNTEER WEEK is April 21-27, and the Reese Morale, Welfare and Recreation Division will be recognizing volunteers at that time by offering discounts in various MWR agencies. Base volunteers should stop by the Family Support Center, Bldg. 310, during the coming week to get the letter that will enable them to take advantage of the discounts.

From my perspective

by Col. Robert Negley
64th FTW deputy commander for Operations

It's great to be back at Reese — the base looks super and the warm welcome I received has been great. The spirit and enthusiasm at Reese are obvious, and I look forward to working with all of you as we accomplish our mission of training the world's best pilots.

Merit assignment system

Beginning with Reese Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 91-09, the Air Force has changed the student assignment system to one based on merit. The students will be ranked based on their flying, academic and leadership accomplishments during the UPT program and will then choose their assignment based on their ranking within the class.

The merit assignment system replaces the previous system which was not clearly understood by the students. This new system is easily understood and recognizes the students' achievements during UPT.

The new system provides a choice — in both aircraft and assignment location — to each student. The assignment selection is conducted in an "National Football League Draft" format with all five UPT wings participating in a conference phone call.

Who goes first?

The process begins with a drawing to determine which wing selects first. After the top student at the wing which wins the draw makes his assignment selection from those available, the process continues with the top students at the other wings making their choices in wing alphabetical order. The process continues through as many "rounds" as needed, based on the wing with the highest number of graduates. "Byes" are used at certain points in the process to ensure there are no inequities resulting from the variation in the number of graduates among the wings.

Reese student makes history

The first merit assignment selection was conducted April 5 with Class 91-09 making their assignment selections. Reese won the draw and got the first pick. Capt. Dennis Pearson made history when he made the first pick under the new system — an F-15 at Eglin AFB, Fla.

The whole process went smoothly and the feedback from the students was very positive. The new assignment system accomplishes its goal of being easily understood and providing the students a choice based on merit!

Hail and farewell

This week we had a change of command at the 41st Flying Training Squadron. Lt. Col. John DiPiero relinquished the reins to Lt. Col. Frank Shealy. Congratulations to John and Darla on their super work at the 41st FTS and best wishes in your new job at Air Training Command Protocol — you'll be great!

Welcome to Frank and Andrea Shealy. They come to us from Randolph AFB, Texas, and we look forward to their leadership and talents in maintaining the excellent record of the 41st FTS!

'Wait 'til we get home!'

It's 4:45 p.m. You're in the commissary with your youngest child, whose last screech blew out several lights overhead.

It was a long day at work, and you don't need this aggravation right now. If the kid doesn't settle down right now, you'll be the one screeching.

You don't want to make a scene, but what can you do?

The following tips can help parents with their children when they are shopping. They were provided by 1st Lt. Abbie Luck, Reese family advocacy officer, as part of ongoing publicity for Month of the Military Child.

For more information on these tips and others, call Lieutenant Luck at 3739.

□ Give the child a responsibility — (helping select the hardest apples, finding the cheapest green beans, matching the coupons with the labels.)

□ Ignore inappropriate behavior unless it is dangerous, destructive or embarrassing to you or a bother to others.

□ Remove the child.

Take him to a private place — bathroom, behind a counter, outside, to the car — talk to him where no one else can listen.

□ Praise another child's appropriate behavior.

□ Play a game with the child. ("Let's count all the tennis shoes we see on people's feet, let's see how many B's you can find on signs.")

□ "Let's guess how much something is going to cost."

□ Discuss rules before entering the store.

□ Bring a nutritious snack for child to eat during the shopping trip.

□ Bring a story book for the child to look at.

□ Don't let the child out of your sight. Hold hands. Let him hold onto or help steer the grocery cart.

□ Reinforce appropriate behavior. Talk with him, play with him, engage him in the decision-making process. Encourage him to talk, watch, listen and think.

□ Bring a favorite blanket, toy or book from home to help him feel secure.

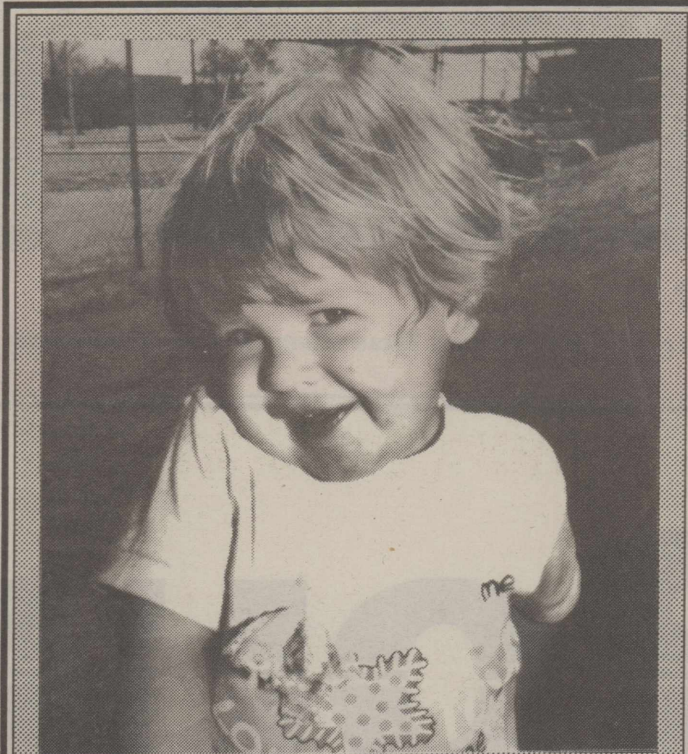

□ Don't bring children who are tired or hungry to the store. Arrange for a babysitter.

□ Role play at home on how to act in the grocery store. Go when you are rested, as well as when the child is rested. Don't wait until the end of a tiring day.

□ Give the child something of yours to play with — keys, pocket book, note pad and pencil and so on.

□ Tell the child you will have to leave him at home next time — then do it, if necessary.

□ Stop unacceptable behavior as soon as it occurs. Don't ignore behavior that is dangerous, destructive or embarrassing. Don't let the child think that you will allow him to misbehave in public.

(Editor's note: This week's "One on one" is with Col. Robert Negley, the new 64th Flying Training Wing deputy commander for Operations, and was conducted by SSgt. Mike Breslin, Roundup editor.)

What are some of your impressions as you take over as the new DO?

On first impression, the wing seems to have very good spirit and lots of enthusiasm.

Also, I've had several chances to visit in the local area my first week, and to meet some local civic leaders who were out here for graduation Friday and for Monday's change-of-command ceremony. The relationship between the base and the community seems real strong.

This past Friday (April 5), pilot training students throughout the command got their aircraft assignments under the new selection system. How did things go here, and how will the students benefit from the different options they have under the new system?

The main reasons we've gone to the merit assignment system are because the old system wasn't really understood by the students and it didn't provide the students a choice of assignments. Now, they understand the system and we can give them a choice of their assignment based on their performance.

Last Friday went very well. The selections were done through a conference call between all the pilot training bases — sort of like a National Football League draft. They start out the selections with a drawing to see which base picks first each round, and Reese was first this time.

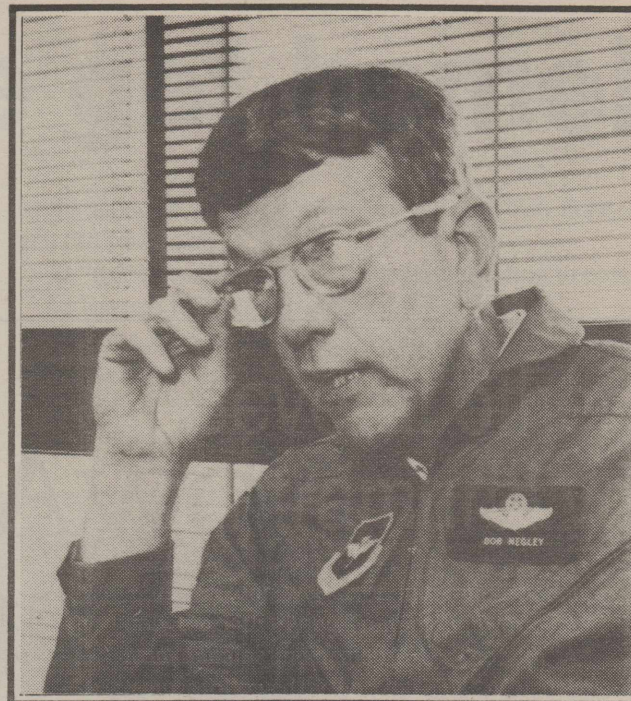

The whole process only took 30 minutes, and there were about 88 assignments to be taken. All the students had a few days beforehand to look at a list of available aircraft, and they came ready to make their selections.

The reaction of the students here has been extremely positive. They know that they're going to get the assignment they earn. If they do very well during training, they'll get one of their top choices; if they are at the middle of their class, they'll probably get a choice in the middle of their list; and so on.

Recently, Class 91-08 was redesignated as 91-09 and their graduation was slid back; in addition, it was announced that we were going back to a six-week cycle for undergraduate pilot training classes. How do these changes fit in with the force restructuring that's going on, and what effects will they have here?

With pilot production requirements decreasing, we would have ended up with extremely small classes if we stayed with the three-week cycle. At Reese, we've produced about 350 pilots per year in the past; now it's coming down to around 200. The cycle change will allow us to train more efficiently.

There will be some impact on bases like Reese, as the fewer trainees will reduce the need for instructors, support people and so forth. However, the quality of student inputs should improve as selectivity increases and instructors have more time for more individualized instruction. Thus, the quality of training will probably be even better than it is now.

Now that it's one year away, what is the status of specialized UPT here? Are all the necessary arrangements for its implementation going well?

Yes, everything is going very well. The syllabus of training is ready, and the new T-1 aircraft appears to be on schedule. We should see the first one in November, and some more are due early next year. The first simulator is also expected early next year.

Also, on a related note, we originally were going to classify people into a fighter-bomber or tanker-transport track before they even started T-37 training. That's changed — they won't be identified for their track until they finish T-37s. Once, SUPT starts, the students will select their track (either fighter-bomber or tanker-transport) based on their merit order of performance in T-37s, similar to the new merit assignment system.

Having just come from Air Training Command headquarters, you're familiar with the "big picture." How would you evaluate the state of UPT in general as it undergoes so many dynamic changes?

Generally, UPT is in very good shape -- all our UPT wings are accomplishing their mission goals. As I mentioned, the biggest impact of the changes will be the smaller class sizes. What that will translate into will be the Air Force's ability to be more selective than ever in picking pilot candidates. A natural spinoff of that may be lower attrition rates. Not that the rates are particularly high now, but attrition rates are historically lower when pilot production is lowest and only the best candidates are getting in the program. The bottom line is that we'll continue to produce the best pilots in the world.

Anything to add?

I was at Reese about 14 years ago, both as an instructor and as chief of CBPO, and it's great to be back. There's been a real nice welcome from everyone here, and I'm looking forward to working with all the people in the wing.

Pieces of the Puzzle

Continued vigilance is a must

by SSgt. Charles Harris
64th SPS

As most of us know, warming relations between the Soviet Union and the United States have not decreased the foreign intelligence threat. However, many people still do not realize that the Soviets are only one of many nations interested in our information and technology.

Procedures for protecting and handling classified information, and standards for personnel who are eligible for access to that information, are critical issues for each of us. Familiarity with our security programs through education and experience will help counter the threat.

Foreign intelligence agencies direct most of their efforts toward "open source collection." Agents gather information from news reports, magazines, the Library of Congress, Privacy Act requests and so on. If one considers a particular classified project as a puzzle, the open source data forms are the border of the puzzle. To prevent completion of the puzzle, we have security initiatives such as the Communications Security, Operations Security and Information Security Programs.

While COMSEC and OPSEC deal with protection, handling and controlled release of any sensitive information, the information security program deals exclusively with classified information. COMSEC and OPSEC, therefore, contain elements of information security. An integral part of the information security program is the Personnel Security Program, which deals with the people who are eligible for access to classified information.

As with any people-oriented program, education and training are essential to the information and personnel security programs. Security education training is conducted in three phases: accession training, indoctrination training and recurring training.

Accession training is conducted during basic training, or one of the officer training programs. Indoctrination training is given shortly after people arrive in their new unit. This training is tailored to the needs and requirements of the unit. Recurring (annual) training is tailored to the needs of the individual, and is based on duties involving classified information. Supervisors are responsible for ensuring subordinates receive recurring training.

Our security programs are primarily designed to deter espionage, not catch spies. We must all realize that we are subject to foreign intelligence efforts.

Remember to report any suspicious contacts or requests for information to the Air Force Office of Special Investigations (3414). Understanding our individual roles in national security encourages involvement and awareness, which are essential to deterrence as well as to good security programs.

CHAMPUS

CHAMPUS officials explain details of 'adjunctive' benefits, dependent dental plan

The Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services "adjunctive" dental benefit (available to all CHAMPUS-eligible persons) is very limited, according to Reese health benefits officials.

The only time dental care is covered is when it's a necessary part of medical treatment that is covered by CHAMPUS. This is called "adjunctive" dental care.

For example, an oral surgeon may have to remove broken teeth as part of the medical treatment for an injury. Or, a medical problem might require that a patient be admitted to the hospital for dental work, as in the case of a person who has a blood disorder being hospitalized so that any bleeding caused by the dental work can be stopped. In the latter case, CHAMPUS pays only for the hospital part of the bill, not for the dental inpatient care — and for any care that is medical, not dental.

In such cases, you must get approval in advance from the CHAMPUS dental claims processor before you get adjunctive dental care from a dentist.

To get approval for dental care related to a covered medical problem, send a filled-out CHAMPUS claim form (Department of Defense Form 2520); a statement from the physician about the condition (if a physician is involved); and a statement from the dentist saying why you need the care, what care you need and how much it will cost, to: "Blue Cross-Blue Shield of South Carolina, P.O. Box 100599, Florence, S.C. 29501-0099."

Also, remember the CHAMPUS dental coverage discussed above is completely separate from the uniformed services' Active-Duty Dependents Dental Plan.

The dependents dental plan is not a CHAMPUS benefit. It's a Defense Department insurance program that offers basic preventive and restorative dental care to the enrolled families of active-duty sponsors in the seven uniformed services.

On a related note, the families of activated reservists and National Guard members may not sign up for the dependents dental plan unless their sponsors are ordered to active duty for a period of at least two years.

Contact the Reese Military Personnel Office at 3276 for questions about enrollment. For questions about benefits and the dental plan, contact the Reese health benefits advisor at 3581.

Or, write the civilian contractor at "DDP-Delta, P.O. Box 26904, Sacramento, Calif. 95826-9024."

Vision

'Keeping an eye' on health is the key

by Capt. Donna Rouinfar
Reese Optometry Clinic

Many of us take our vision for granted and do not realize that routine eye examinations are essential for maintaining our eyesight. We rely on our vision to complete even the simplest tasks every day and may not appreciate it until a problem develops.

School-aged children should have annual eye examinations; parents should be alert to common symptoms of visual problems such as eye strain, headaches or blurry vision. Also, parents should observe their children for signs of visual problems. Examples of these signs may include squinting, an eye that crosses in or out, or eyes that move independently of each other.

Adults should have eye examinations at least every one or two years, or as directed by their optometrist or ophthalmologist. In addition to determining if visual problems are present, the doctor also evaluates eye health for problems such as glaucoma and cataracts.

Glaucoma is a condition in which the fluid pressure of the eyeball is abnormally high. If this condition is not detected and treated, the visual nerve becomes damaged, resulting in a permanent loss of vision.

Cataracts are usually due to a normal aging process in the eye. The crystalline lens is a clear structure in the eye; over time, however, the lens becomes yellowed or cloudy due to ultraviolet radiation from the sun.

Your job performance depends upon how well you see. Routine eye examinations are necessary for maintaining healthy vision.

AFA campaign starts Monday

The annual Air Force Association membership drive kicks off Monday, and association officials are encouraging wing members to look at what AFA has to offer.

"Aside from the many personal benefits of membership, AFA strengthens our voice in Washington and improves our ability to serve," said Capt. Ed Rinkavage, wing membership drive chairman. "AFA's basic mission is to strengthen national defense by gaining congressional and public support for Air Force people and resources."

Col. Gerald Deakin, drive chairman for Air Training Command, said that AFA's aim during the drive is to contact all eligible people with the option to join.

Colonel Deakin, a former wing deputy commander for Operations here, added that he is looking forward to everyone making this drive "our best ever."

Membership in the 200,000-member association is $21 for one year and $48 for three. This cost covers a monthly subscription to Air Force magazine, eligibility for low-cost insurance programs, discount cards for major car rental dealers, employment transition service and eligibility in a major credit card program.

In addition, AFA has been credited with many accomplishments on behalf of Air Force members in the past, such as across-the-board pay raises, transition services for involuntarily separated members and upgrades to Serviceman's Group Life Insurance.

A drive kickoff luncheon will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Reese Officers' Open Mess. Texas AFA President John Russell will be the guest speaker. Cost is $5.45 per person, and people should R.S.V.P. by close of business today to their unit representative (see listing, this page).

Unit representatives can also help people sign up during the drive, which is the "ideal time" to consider joining, according to the service's top enlisted member.

"The need for a strong AFA is more important now than ever before," CMSAF Gary Pfingston said. "The Air Force faces a challenging future, and the type of support AFA provides will be more vital than ever."

Six receive Articles 15

The first quarter of 1991 showed an upward trend in Article 15 actions taken at Reese as a result of Uniform Code of Military Justice violations.

According to the Reese Legal Office, six members received Article 15 punishment in the first quarter.

□ One Article 15 was issued to a second lieutenant for violation of Articles 107 and 134, for making false official statements and failure to pay a just debt. The punishment included 60 days restriction to the limits of Reese and forfeiture of $700 of pay per month for two months ($500 of the forfeiture per month was suspended for six months).

□ Another Article 15 was issued to a staff sergeant for wrongful disposition of military property of a value of less than $100, in violation of Article 107. The punishment consisted of a suspended reduction to sergeant and forfeiture of $50 pay.

□ Another Article 15 was issued for a violation of Article 92 of the UCMJ—dereliction in the performance of duties. Punishment for the violation included a reduction in rank from senior airman to airman first class and forfeiture of $224 pay.

□ Two Article 15s resulted from failure to go, in violation of Article 86. The punishment imposed in one case included a suspended reduction in rank from sergeant to airman first class and forfeiture of $50 pay per month for two months. The punishment in the second case was not suspended because the serious nature of the second offense also included failure to obey a lawful order.

□ A final Article 15 was issued for writing worthless checks in violation of Article 123a. The punishment included reduction in rank from senior airman to airman first class, 45 days extra duty and 45 days restriction to base.

Airman Acevedo is one of the nine hospital deployees who have returned from Operations Desert Shield/Storm.

During his deployment, he worked in triage. "I thought it was great," he said. "Being there, hands on, was something to remember. I like the excitement of working with critical patients," added the airman. "It keeps me on top of my skills."

The 23-year-old enjoys hunting and skiing. He said he would like to get into sports medicine after the Air Force, noting his interest in all sports.

The San Antonio native has been assigned to Reese for one and one-half years.

With Grateful Appreciation General Motors Salutes The Men And Women Of Our Armed Forces, And Offers Them Something Special:

An Easier Way To Buy A New Car Or Truck.

Your Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac and GMC Truck dealers have incentive plans already in place that make it easy to buy a new car or light truck.

But now through the end of the year, the divisions of GM are offering a Special Military Program to all active U.S. military personnel and reservists called to active duty during the Persian Gulf War or their spouses.

Here's how it works. You get three hundred dollars in down payment assistance, plus any additional down payment you make is matched up to five hundred dollars when you buy a new GM car or light truck and finance it through GMAC. That can mean as much as eight hundred dollars toward your purchase. Add that to existing incentives, and you can save even more. The Special Military Program is not available with the college graduate program, first-time buyer program or overseas vehicle purchase program. See your participating GM dealer for qualification details.

It's a small gesture on our part in partial exchange for the tremendous gesture each of you has made. And our way of expressing thanks for a job well done.

A1C Kevin Evans (left) and Sgt. Tony Cohn assemble a new polyurethane chain to a piece of the sludge removal system at the Reese Sewer Treatment Plant. The polyurethane chain was put in as part of an installation done by plant members. By doing the installation themselves, plant workers saved the taxpayers about $35,000. Also, the new equipment will ensure greater durability as the polyurethane parts will shun corrosion.

Notes

Radon testing planned

As a follow up to testing done in 1987, the Reese Bioenvironmental Engineering Section will be doing radon testing in renovated housing units and in enlisted/officer quarters.

All the 1987 measurements were within allowable levels, bioenvironmental officials indicated.

The follow-up tests will take place in the coming weeks as bioenvironmental workers place year-long testers in the units, and everyone's cooperation is requested.

Bioenvironmental will work with residents to determine mutually acceptable locations for the testers. For details, call 3328.

Power outage planned

An electrical outage is scheduled for 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 19 in the 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital. During this time, only the emergency room will be open; sick call for flying members will be held there.

The outage is part of an electrical upgrade in the hospital.

Blood drive upcoming

A blood drive will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 25 in the Mathis Recreation Center. For details, call Glenda Ward at 3885.

Computer courses arrive

The base computer systems security officer has received the computer security computer-based instruction course. The course is designed to teach COMPUSEC duties to computer systems security officers, computer facility managers and terminal area security officers, among others.

This course, along with other introductory courses that are available, run on Zenith 248 and Unisys Desktop III systems with either dual or single floppy disk with hard drive. Base computer officials indicated the courses are done in a way to make them enjoyable as well as educational.

People who hold one of the computer positions mentioned above, as well as people exposed to a computer environment, should call Bill Barr at 3326 for more information about taking the course.

ECI 'virtually closed'

The Extension Course Institute will be virtually closed in May as it moves to a new facility. As such, Reese Education Services Officer Jeff Wilbur is advising wing members who want to enroll in a specialized or professional military education course to do so by April 22.

For details, stop by the Reese Education Center or call 3634.

Couples group scheduled

The monthly couples group will meet at 7 p.m. April 20 in the Reese Chapel. The group is designed to strengthen interpersonal relationships through the video series "Hidden Keys to Loving Relationships" by Dr. Gary Smalley.

This month's meeting will be on "Overcoming the major destroyer of relationships." For details, call Chaplain (Capt.) Greg Timmons at 3237.

Speeches require coordination

The possibility that a wing member may be asked to do a speaking engagement always exists, and it's particularly high for people returning from Operation Desert Storm.

Anyone who is asked to speak at a school or civic organization should contact Bill Tynan of the Reese Public Affairs Division, 3169/3410, to ensure that proper preparation and documentation is done.

Pride store can help

The Reese Pride Store, also known as the self-help store, can help wing members make quality-of-life improvements where they work, live and play. Store officials said they can offer both materials and guidance on projects both indoors and outdoors.

The store is open from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4-5 p.m.

Tuesday through Friday; and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays (the store closes at 1 p.m. Saturday during fall and winter). Appointments for self-help assistance can be made by calling 3415.

The store places orders every Thursday, so they ask that people put in their orders each week before then. Orders placed before Thursday can be picked up Friday afternoon or between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday. Reese Village residents who want to order shrubs, trees or landscape timbers should go through the Reese Housing Management Office for those needs.

Family finance seminar set

A family seminar on money management, estate planning, wills and buying/selling homes will be held from 6:30-8:30 p.m. April 30 in the Reese Family Support Center. For details or to sign up, call Margaret Ramey at 6494.

Lease rules explained

The Reese Housing Referral Office has received several complaints from apartment managers and homeowners who have a co-resident who wants to vacate their quarters because the other co-resident can't fulfil the lease.

According to the Texas Apartment Association, "residents will not be released on grounds of voluntary or involuntary school withdrawal or transfer, voluntary or involuntary business transfer, marriage, divorce, reconciliation, loss of co-residents, bad health, death or any other reason unless otherwise agreed to," except under military clause.

Housing referral officials said that people should not sign any lease they feel they can't abide by, since they are liable for the lease. For details, call housing referral at 3601.

'Sloppy joe' sale planned

The 64th Services Squadron will hold a sloppy joe sale from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday in Bldgs. 105 and 230. Two sandwiches, chips and a pickle will be $3; one sandwich ala carte will cost $1.25.

Lady Rattlers take first win in 35-0 blowout

The Reese women's varsity softball team started its season April 4 with a 35-0 blowout over "Center".

Lady Rattler's Jane Brumley started the first inning with a walk. A single by Lori Oliver and a walk to Darcie Covalt loaded the bases. Jacki Sperry hit a grand slam to clear the bases and give the Lady Rattlers a 4-0 lead.

The grand slam by Sperry opened the lead as the Rattlers exploded for 24 runs and each starter came to the plate three times each before the third out. Teresa Oldenkamp also had a grand slam in the first inning as the Lady Rattlers put the game out of reach. Center never got their offense moving as the Lady Rattlers shut them down. The Lady Rattlers only allowed three players to come to the plate.

The second inning was a repeat of the first inning as 15 Rattlers went to the plate, which resulted in 11 runs and was highlighted by Oliver's two-run homer. The "Center" team never got close to scoring a run that night.

The Lady Rattlers did not get the chance to bat in the third inning due to the time limit.

Other members of the base team are: Claudia Tabares, Angela Williams, Paula Gregory, Terry Soto, Cathy Stanfield, Mary Johns, Leslee Ann Beatie, Tammy Nuessle, Stacie Hotchkiss, Tina Stotz and Toni Williams. The Lady Rattlers are coached by Ivan Cole.

The Lady Rattlers will be in action at 8:30 p.m. Thursday against "Pizza Shack Gypies" at North Mose Hood Field. The field is located at 24th and Avenue Q.

To ensure that each UPT graduate will get the chance to fly, the Air Force developed a complementary career pipeline called "banking."

Some graduates will enter the bank for 24 - 36 months in non-flying roles. Up to 700 command graduates may elect to be banked from now through fiscal 1992.

After banking, each will receive approximately eight weeks of refresher training at a UPT base, and can expect as many as eight years of uninterrupted flying duty.

Students will be rank ordered and earn selection position within the assignment draft primarily through their performance in the cockpit. Seventy percent of the students' ratings are based on flying airplanes. Ten percent comes from academics and 20 percent from flight commanders' ratings.

"The reaction of the students here has been extremely positive," said Col. Robert Negley, deputy commander for Operations. "They know that they're going to get the assignment they earn."

Members of Reese Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 91-09 congratulate each other at the April 5 assignment selection.

newed sense of cooperation among all base organizations."

In February 1973, Colonel Shealy was commissioned as a second lieutenant through Reserve Officers Training Corps at The Citadel. Following his commission, he was assigned to Reese for undergraduate pilot training. After graduating from pilot training in July 1975, he was assigned to Pope AFB, N.C., flying

C-130s, where he served as aircraft commander and squadron scheduler.

In May 1979, he was assigned to the Air Force Academy, flying T-41s. He also was a squadron scheduler and a member of the standardization and evaluation branch. In May 1983, he was transferred to Laughlin AFB, Texas, flying T-37s.

He also served as a flight commander and T-37 chief of standardization and evaluation. After a three-year tour at Laughlin, he was assigned to ATC headquarters, as a member of the standardization and evaluation team.

Prior to his arrival here, he was the chief of rated officer assignments at ATC. Colonel Shealy and his wife, Andrea, have two sons: Wes, 12, and Cy, 10.

DOD travelers can expect assistance

Department of Defense travelers who experience problems once they have left their home station should be advised they can expect service from any DOD transportation office or commercial travel office under contract to the military services.

Reese transportation officials said that in most cases reservations or tickets may be changed even if the tickets were purchased from a different travel company or at a different installation. Each contractor will work with the traveler to arrange new transportation, providing appropriate orders support the change. Charges for any other service not authorized on the orders must be paid by the traveler. If direct ticket interchange is not possible, new tickets or reservations may be required.

DOD travelers should be provided full and complete travel service from any DOD transportation office anywhere, regardless of service affiliation or permanent duty station. The office that makes the original travel arrangements should supply travelers with a toll-free telephone number so changes can be made over the telephone, if necessary.

A trip to the airport should not be required to change reservations or tickets, according to 2nd Lt. David Patton, Reese traffic management officer. However, it is sometimes to the traveler's advantage to go directly to the airport to save time.

Any difficulties the traveler experiences should be reported to the local installation transportation officer or traffic management officer. For Reese passenger service information for official travel, call 6143.
