ATC commander advocates 'taking stock in America'

by Lt. Gen. Joseph Ashy
ATC commander

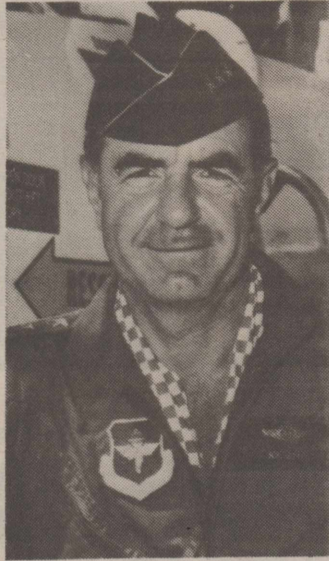

For many of us, saving is hard work. But it doesn't have to be. We can all save more, and do it easily, through the Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds.

Fifty years ago, the United States issued the first of the "E" series savings bonds to defray the expense of the pre-World War II buildup. Issued in denominations small enough for everyone to afford, savings bonds were a way for the ordinary citizen to begin saving for the future.

Throughout our nation's history, the American character has been marked by a willingness to volunteer our services for the public good. Savings bonds give Americans an increased savings rate — badly needed for future economic growth — and citizen participation in debt management.

Today, savings bonds are the world's most widely held security. Nearly 55 million Americans own bonds worth some $127 billion. Why should you start a payroll deduction for bonds?

When you buy bonds, you help finance the government's fiscal needs by providing dollars that might otherwise have to be borrowed at much higher interest rates. For every $1 billion of U.S. Savings Bonds sold, the U.S. Treasury — and U.S. taxpayers — save $70 million.

Savings bonds are a good investment. They're safe, their interest rate is guaranteed, and they'll always be replaced if they're lost, stolen or destroyed.

Interest on U.S. Savings Bonds has always been free from state and local income taxes, and federal taxes on interest is deferred until the bonds are cashed or reach final maturity.

If you buy bonds and use them to help pay for your own or your child's higher education, your interest can be completely tax free, if you meet certain qualifications.

Air Training Command has two goals for this year's campaign, and we can reach both if everyone takes the time to consider what savings bonds can do for them.

First, we'd like four out of every 10 people in the command to purchase savings bonds through a payroll deduction plan. Second, we'd like 20 percent of the people who already buy bonds through allotment to increase the amount of their allotment.

ATC's savings bond campaign kicked off Saturday. When you're called on by your unit bond representative, take the time to consider purchasing savings bonds through a payroll deduction plan. Now more than ever, U.S. Savings Bonds are a smart move.

How do U.S. Savings Bonds resemble locks?

Answer: They provide security. They are backed by the United States Government. Your investment in U.S. Savings Bonds pays a guaranteed minimum rate. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, bonds will be replaced. Buy them regularly through the payroll savings plan.

Sometimes, it's good to be a quitter

by Maj. Rodney Hemmitt
Reese Anti-Smoking project officer

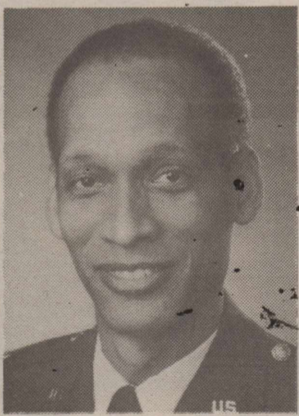

More than 38 million Americans have quit smoking cigarettes, and nearly half of all living adults who ever smoked have quit.

Unfortunately, some 50 million Americans continue to smoke cigarettes, despite the many health education programs and anti-smoking campaigns that have been conducted during the past quarter century, despite the declining social acceptability of smoking, and despite the consequences of smoking to their health.

Previous reports of the Surgeon General have reviewed the health effects of smoking. Scientific data is now available on the consequences of smoking cessation for most smoking-related diseases.

The major conclusions of these studies are:

Smoking cessation has major and immediate health benefits for men and women of all ages. Benefits apply to persons with and without smoking-related disease.

Former smokers live longer than continuing smokers. For example, persons who quit smoking before age 50 have one-half the risk of dying in the next 15 years compared with continuing smokers.

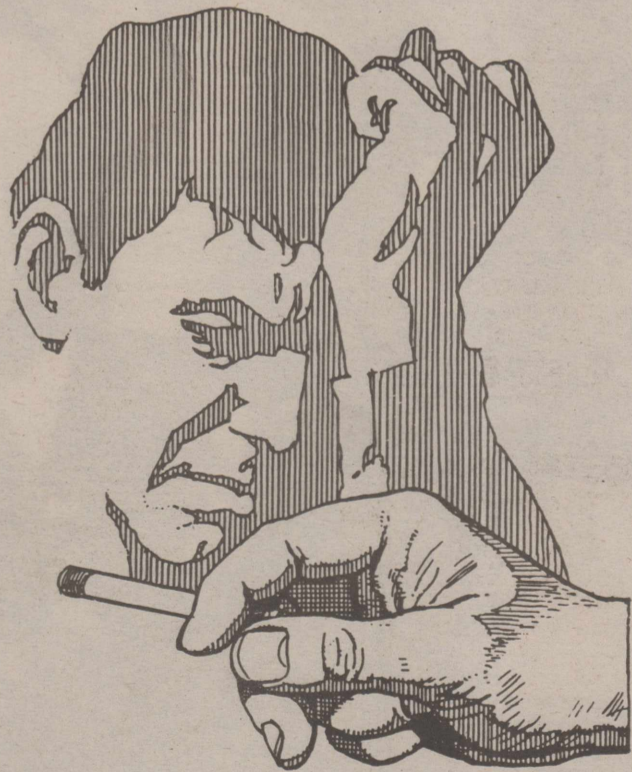

Smoking cessation decreases the risk of lung cancer, other cancers, heart attack, stroke and chronic lung disease.

Women who stop smoking before pregnancy or during the first three to four months of pregnancy reduce their risk of having a low birthweight baby to that of women who never smoked.

The health benefits of smoking cessation far exceed any risks from the average five pound weight gain or any adverse psychological effects that may follow quitting.

Remember how good you used to feel before you started smoking? Well, it's easy to feel that way again. Join those who have quit. Smoking is something you can definitely live without.

For more information on smoking cessation, contact Capt. Larry Friedt, 3739.

T-37 ends 32 - year Air Force career

(Mike Parrish)

Farewell flight

The T-37 is towed to the Officers' Open Mess after its final flight during a ceremony honoring its 'retirement.'

Greater than three million miles flown, equaling 135 trips around the globe.

More than 20 million pounds of fuel turned in its engines.

Flying time in excess of 16,000 hours.

Add it all up and you have 32 years of flying service turned in by the first Reese T-37B to reach its structural life limit. The aircraft, tail no. 57-2338, was retired after its final flight May 30.

Col. Robert Negley, 64th Operations Group commander, and Lt. Col. Bob Brooks, 64th Flying Training Wing, piloted the Tweet on its final flight.

The previous day, 1st Lt. Kenny Crain flew the last operational mission in the jet. The 35th Flying Training Squadron instructor pilot was on a continuation training flight.

After the May 30 flight, a retirement ceremony was held in front of Base Operations, which saw the Tweet towed to the Officers' Open Mess for a brief time before being returned to the flight line.

The T-37 began its service in 1959 with the 3560th Pilot Training Wing at Webb AFB, Texas. It came to Reese in 1977.

The final decision on what will be done with the aircraft has yet to be made.

Activities honor Desert Storm troops

Day's activities highlight beginning of '101 Critical Days'

Children "packed" the fences to get a good view of the "Tops in Blue."

(U.S. Air Force photos)

The Mission Enhancement Day and Reese "wing ding" activities May 31 honored our Desert Storm troops and symbolized the beginning of "101 Critical Days."

"It's good to see everyone take interest in the safety and welfare of the wing," said Col. Bill Henny, 64th Flying Training Wing commander. "It takes everyone to achieve Reese's mission goals, and it is apparent that everyone is interested in achieving those goals."

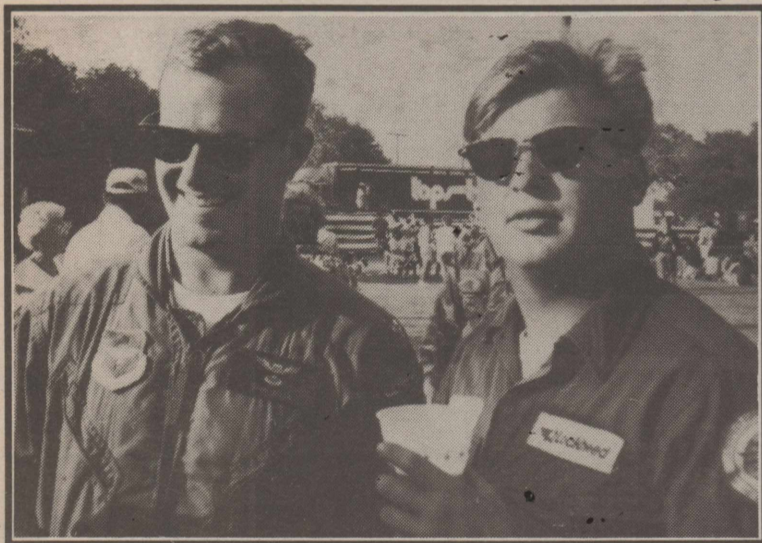

The day's activities began with a safety briefing at the Simler Theater, followed by a "live fire" demonstration at the fire training pit. Additionally, sections were briefed by safety representatives during the day to increase safety awareness.

At 2 p.m., a celebration in honor of Reese's Desert Storm troops began. Volleyball, a "clocked" softball throw, a dunking booth and the Lubbock Fire Safety House were ongoing throughout the day. A performance by the "Tops in Blue" entertainers highlighted the day's activities.

Prior to the "Tops in Blue" show, plaques were awarded to all Reese Desert Storm returnees. Additionally, Colonel Henny was presented three awards on behalf of the Desert Storm participants from Art Bullock, Ann Hall and Lasting Impressions/Ray's Woodcrafts.

Lt. Col. Joseph Buchwald, chief, Comptroller Division, would like to thank the following individuals and organizations for contributing to the Desert Storm picnic: Air Force Association, Enlisted Wives Club, RM Top Four, Comptroller Division, Air Force Sergeants Association and Auxiliary, 64th Operations Group (DO), 64th Mission Support Squadron, 64th Medical Squadron, Lockheed.

"I am happy to see our Desert Storm troops coming home. I am even happier that they have come home safely," said Colonel Henny. "It would be a tragedy to lose someone here at home due to carelessness or inattention as we begin a great summer. Have a safe day, everyday."

The entire wing pulled together to honor our Desert Storm troops.

Commanders and first sergeants kept the grills busy throughout the day.

A "live-fire" demonstration was held.

The "Tops in Blue" rounded out the day's events.

Savings bond campaign 'looking to the future'

The Reese U.S. Savings Bonds campaign began June 3 and will run through June 28.

"When your squadron savings bonds representative asks you to increase your allotment or to sign up for the payroll savings plan for the first time, you may ask 'why?'" said Maj. Rich Willis, Reese savings bonds campaign project officer.

In the 1940s when the series E savings bond was introduced, the U.S. personal savings rate went as high as 25 percent. In 1989, it was 5.5 percent of every after-tax dollar.

"It is clear that we need to do better if America is to do better," said Major Willis, "and saving regularly with savings bonds is one way to achieve this goal."

When held for five years or more, savings bonds pay a guaranteed rate of 6 percent no matter what the market does. If the market rises, the savings bonds rate can rise too.

The tax liability on the interest earned on savings bonds can be deferred from federal income taxes and is totally exempt from state and local income taxes.

Since Jan. 1, 1990 for some purchasers, interest earnings on savings bonds may be eligible for exclusion from federal income tax when the bonds are redeemed to pay education expenses, according to Major Willis.

"Savings bonds are easy to obtain through payroll savings plans," said the major. "You don't need large sums of money to begin a savings bonds fund. In the event of an emergency, your investment is available for use after six months."

For more information, contact Major Willis, 3542.

New Det. 2 commander not new to T-1A Jayhawk

Lieutenant Col. Michael A. Campano assumed command of Det. 2, 3307th Test and Evaluation Squadron May 31 during a ceremony at the Officers' Open Mess.

Prior to his assignment at Reese, Colonel Campano served as chief of the Test Evaluation Division, Headquarters Air Training Command.

"It is unique to get a chance to test and fly the aircraft we selected," said the colonel, who as chief of the ATC division, was part of the source selection team that selected a missionized version of the Beechjet 400, now known as the T-1A Jayhawk.

"It will be an effective training aircraft in specialized undergraduate pilot training," the colonel said.

The purpose of the test team at Reese, according to the colonel, is to determine system efficiencies, identify potential safety hazards, and recommend enhancements to make the pilot training system more effective.

"Our biggest challenge will be testing the ground base training system — simulators, courseware and the training management system," said Colonel Campano.

"The support I have received from Reese has been outstanding," he said. "I am looking forward to working with the wing to accomplish ATC's mission."

Colonel Campano is a native of Chatham, N.J., and has served 18 and one-half year in the Air Force. He entered the Air Force through the reserve officer training corps program at Grove City College, Penn.

chance to see some of the aircraft they may soon be flying.

"The purpose of Career Day is to give student pilots and their spouses the opportunity to see some of the aircraft they may soon be flying, and to discuss the flying missions, family life, and career progressions," said Capt. Robert Huber, simulator training flight commander.

Teams from Military Airlift Command, Tactical Air Command, Strategic Air Command and Lead In Fighter Training will have briefings from 7:30 to 11 a.m. in the theater. The briefings are open to student pilots, instructor pilots, spouses and guests.

Reese mission maker

This week's mission maker is 1st Lt. Donald Jones, 35th Flying Training Squadron.

As the squadron adjutant, Lieutenant Jones serve as the liaison between the 35th FTS and the base agencies. "Working as a liaison allows me to work closely with people who enjoy doing their job which in turn makes all our jobs easier," the lieutenant said.

Lieutenant Jones is also the commander of the Reese Honor Guard. "Being the honor guard commander, lets me work with airmen and noncommissioned officers who represent the Air Force's professionalism in the Reese and area communities," he said.

The Biloxi, Miss., native entered the Air Force in May of 1988 after completing the ROTC program at University of Southern

1st Lt. Donald Jones

Mississippi and has been stationed at Reese since February 1989. "The sense of pride people have in the Air Force is one good reason I join the Air Force," he added. "Everyone in the Air Force can't fly, but my job allows me to part of the actual flying mission," he said.

The lieutenant enjoys playing soccer, softball, biking and running.

Academy cadets to get 'tour of duty' at Reese

About 1,100 U.S. Air Force Academy cadets will find out what the operational Air Force is really like when they visit bases across the United States this summer.

The program, called CONUS Field Trip, offers cadets who are sophomores a three-day visit to 34 different Air Force bases. Approximately 60 cadets will visit Reese AFB from June 1 to June 29, said Capt. Richard Cordell, base project officer.

"We want to give cadets a first hand look at the challenges they will face as junior officers," said Commandant of Cadets Brig. Gen. Joseph R. Redden. "The CONUS Field Trip is designed to do that by introducing the cadets to bases with different operational missions," General Redden said.

The field trip gives cadets maximum exposure to activities and perceptions of junior officers and provides them insight into operational and support missions. During their visit, they will have one-on-one contact with lieutenants and captains, receive briefings, tour several areas on base and may have an opportunity to fly in operational aircraft.

"Because we're training young men and women who will be the future leaders of the Air Force, CONUS Field Trip serves as an aid to prepare them for their leadership roles and shows them the contributions they can make as Air Force officers. As a result of these trips, cadets return to the academy with a better understanding of the Air Force and are much more motivated about their future Air Force careers," said General Redden.

Storm damage minor, say CE officials

Reese's sirens sounded Wednesday evening as a severe thunderstorm struck with winds gusting to 64 mph.

Hitting around dinner time, the storm turned the skies to black as it carried a heavy concentration of dirt into the air. Base weather officials said there was little hail, though a tornado was sighted one mile south of base. Luckily, it moved away to the west.

The action continued even after the storm moved on. Members of the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron responded to the situation, assessing the damage. Capt. Gregory Cummings of CES said that it was minor—in addition to downed tree limbs and some leaking roofs, a light pole in Reese Village was shorted out.

Other CES members also had their hands full, as the fire department helped extinguish a crude oil tank fire near Smyer.

In assessing the storm, base weather officials advised people on base not to call the weather station for information during severe weather.

"Our severe weather management team had about 30 calls Wednesday night," said 1st Lt. Karl Batts, base weather officer. "During these storms, people should turn to base channel 32—that's where our information will go as we pass it to the command post."
