Safety is key on two wheels too!

Summertime is for bicycling. Bicycling is good exercise and family fun - if you follow the rules of the road. Trucks and automobiles own the road. Bicyclists are usually injured during any accidents with automobiles. Bicycles are no match for motor vehicles.

The most important piece of equipment for any bicyclists is a helmet. Helmets are proven protection for your most valuable and vulnerable body parts, your head and brain. A helmet is not a luxury item but a necessity for all ages.

Follow the safe bicycling rules:

Always ride your bicycle in the same direction as the flow of traffic and to the right side of the roadway.

□ Never carry another person. Never carry articles that will interfere with the proper handling of the bicycle.

Always signal your intentions. If you are going to make a left turn, signal in advance of your move to the left by using your left arm in theproper position. The same type of signal is required for a right turn or stop.

During hours of dawn, dusk-or darkness, your front and rear lights must be turned on. Your bicycle must also have the required reflectors to warn motorists of your presence on the roadways.

Gamma Keep your bicycle in good mechanical condition - proper tire inflation, all nuts and bolts tight, seat set at proper height to the peddles and all required lights in working order.

Do not overload the bicycle with items if you are going on an extended road trip. The frame, wheels and tires can only support so much weight. A bicycle is the same as a motor vehicle, the more weight on the frame, the longer it will take to stop.

Reese vision: "Reese people leading the way in supporting and training professional officers and quality pilots for the Air Force."

Quality Air Force

by MSgt. Don Minnis Reese Family Support Center

The Reese Family Support Center has always strived to provide the best services to our customers. During the past year our ability to serve the Reese community has vastly increased.

A service function that has been moved under the FSC is the Air Force Aid Society. Moving this function into the FSC has provided better coordination with the Personal Financial Management Program, allowing assessment of customer's immediate long term financial needs.

The Transition and Relocation Assistance Programs were also added this year. Transition Assistance is a service to aid members in moving into new roles in society by converting military experience into marketable skills for civilian jobs. Relocation Assistance serves as a clearing house of information on any aspect for a permanent change of station.

The Spouse Employment Program has changed to the Career Focus Program reflecting the expanding target population to include all members of the family and members separating and retiring. This program assists in finding employment locally and nationally. It also aids in developing job hunting skills and in preparing employment resumes

The Volunteer Management Program has improved dramatically with the increase in number of volunteers placed. The quarterly and annual recognition programs have been enhanced to demonstrate support and appreciation of Reese volunteers.

Along with the increase and quality of services provided are improvements in facilities and equipment. Two additional offices were provided and renovated for the transition and relocation services; also new computers and software were provided. Some of these systems will be used for customer service allowing clients to prepare first class resumes using provided software and a laser printer.

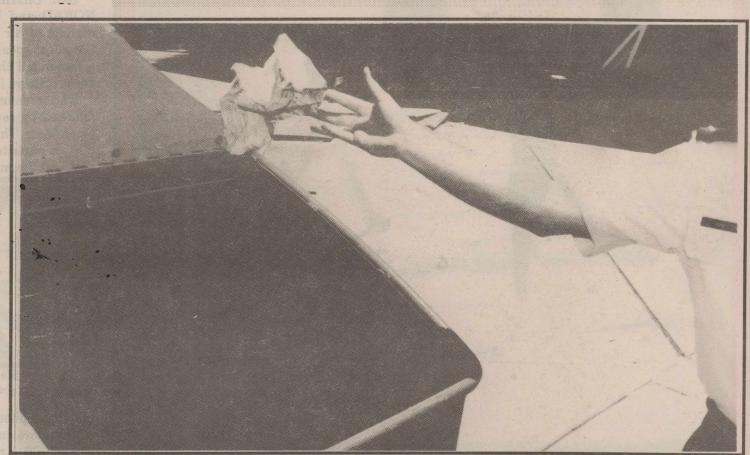

Additionally, departing members will be able to plan trips and obtain information on new locations.

As you can see, the family support flight has made improvements based on customer needs. We will continue to provide quality service to the Reese family.

New uniform changes approved at Air Staff

WASHINGTON — Cuffs will replace tabs on hot weather and desert battle dress uniform sleeves, just one of the dress and appearance changes approved by the Air Force chief of staff.

Improved hot weather and desert BDUs will be adopted in a strong 50 percent nylon-50 percent cotton fabric designed to stop small rips from spreading.

Other changes to the BDUs include keeping the knee and seat patches and: Removing the knee pleats and one lower bellow-style pocket.

Removing the yoke on the back of the shirt but keeping the elbow patch on the desert BDUs.

Removing the waist tabs and taking the waist in three inches.

BDUs will not change to velcro closures on the pocket flaps and the button flies will not be replaced with zippers.

Other recommendations from the 91st Air Force Uniform Board approved by Gen. Merrill A. McPeak are:

The mock double-breasted maternity jumper. It will not be available in clothing sales stores until the Air Force adopts the new polyester-wool fabric in conjunction with the service dress wear test

D Make a women's tuck-in shirt, with a button closure at the neck-and plain seams down the front, the standard issue blouse. The next uniform board will decide whether or not to keep the current overblouse as an optional item.

Conduct a study of women's pants to determine a better fit and design.

Delete the wear of shoulder cords, braided cords and cords denoting military citations with uniforms.

Change Air Force Regulation 35-10 to allow security policewomen to wear Office of the Secretary of Defense, Joint Chiefs of Staff or other identification badges on the left side of their service dress uniform.

Air Force Regulation 35-10 will also be changed to allow medical food inspectors to wear a paper hat or hair net while performing official facility inspection duties

Areas recommended for further study include redesigning the woman's shirt to cover the exposed white button below the neck tab when the service dress coat is worn.

The honor guard uniform will be changed from its present design to a more distinctive uniform to promote interest among volunteers at base level. Items to be kept in the inventory include: D Modified Navy issue utility uniforms worn by water survival instructors at Homestead AFB, Fla., and the water survival training uniform at the Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine.

The Uniform Board recommends standardizing the two uniforms.

Only green Nomex flight suits.

The A-2 leather flying jacket. The black beret with the functional badge worn by Tactical Air Control Party people. Limit beret wear to graduates of the 14-week enlisted school and the three-week officer school.

The blue smock worn by management people working in the Pentagon mailroom.

□ The security police jacket.

D Basic security police and special gate guard uniforms with major command crests on the berets. Uniforms should be standardized among the individuals assigned to those duties.

□ The major command elite guard uniform with the crest on the beret. The uniform should be standardized Air Force-wide.

□ The combat arms baseball cap.

D Hospital whites, smocks and doctors' coats in medical and dental fields. Wear should be standardized where various uniforms are worn in health care facilities. □ Food service whites.

Red berets worn by combat controllers and maroon berets worn by pararescue people, with functional badges on the beret.

Physical training ensembles worn by combat controllers, pararescue and TACP people.

Green coveralls worn by people in logistics.

> □ MA-1 jacket worn by communications maintenance people.

OSI raid identification jacket.

Missile crew uniform. Items to be dropped from the inventory include:

Blue coveralls.

The presidential jacket and blue ground crew ensemble jacket worn by 89th Airlift Wing people who provide executive airlift.

They will be replaced by the polyester-wool lightweight blue jacket with removable liner.

□ Blue fatigues worn by logistics people.

Direct deposit now standard in DOD

WASHINGTON - Direct deposit is now the standard method of payment for most Department of Defense military and civilian employees, Defense Finance and Accounting Service officials said.

The direct deposit-electronic funds effect Aug. 1. It allows people to have their pay checks sent directly to designated accounts at banks, credit unions or other financial institutions of their choice.

More than 84 percent of Defense Department employees are currently enrolled in the system.

Direct deposit is a money-saving move for DOD, officials said. The program eliminates the costs of printing, mailing, processing and replacing individual checks.

Estimated direct deposit-electronic funds transfer transactions cost the department 1 to 6 cents per payment. Processing a check costs between 40 and 81 cents per check.

The new policy covers people already enrolled in a similar program, civilians hired from other DOD or non-DOD agencies on or after Aug. 1 and civilians promoted or reassigned after that date.

New active-duty military and prior service people will be covered by the program when they get to their first permanent-duty stations, and activeduty when they re-enlist or are commissioned.

Reserve and Air National Guard transfer policy for DOD went into members entering or re-entering a reserve component when they get to their first assignments or are mobilized or recalled to active duty will also participate. Those mobilized or recalled will have to participate in the program after demobilization or deactivation.

> Also included in the program will be military retiring on or after Aug. 1, and retirees who were recalled to active duty after they return to retirement.

> New service academy and ROTC cadets, midshipmen, and Armed Forces Health Professions Scholarship Program participants who enroll on or after the effective date will participate.

Once affected, individuals have 60 days to enroll in the program. For, more information, call accounting and finance at 3360. (Air Force News Service).

Your I.D. card is worth

In recognition of your patriotic service, Lincoln-Mercury has a reward for you.

All you have to do is show your military I.D. Here's how it works. Go into your local Lincoln-Mercury dealer; make your best deal on any '92 Topaz or Capri, or on a '92 or '93 Tracer, including any current rebates or incentives, other than the college graduate or first time buyer programs, then present your I.D. card and get an additional $400 off. This program applies to purchase or lease. Just make your best deal, then showwour I.D. This offer is open to all branches of the armed forces. The only stipulations are that you have an active duty military identification card or a dependent unlimited access identification card, and take delivery (only two per customer) from a local Lincoln-Mercury dealer by September 24, 1992. Its SNAFU-proof.

It's as easy as a milk run. No opposition, not hard to find, just go in and get it. That's the way this mission lays out, nice and easy. Just make your best deal with your Lincoln-Mercury dealer, take any rebates... then give him the extra "card up your sleeve", so to speak, and drive out in your new car with your $400. It's as easy as a milk run. 9

So make tracks to your Lincoln-Mercury dealer. He's waiting to salute you with his best deal and make sure your experience in a new Tracer, Capri or Topaz is as enjoyable as an R and R in Hawaii.

WBU, SPC fall enrollments underway

Registration for the fall semester at Wayland Baptist University and South Plains College will begin Saturday and Monday, respectively.

The fall semester at SPC will run from Aug. 24 through Nov. 4. Registration for the 11-week term will be held Monday and Tuesday from 3 to 7 p.m. in Bldg. 920, Room 130. Late registration will be held Aug. 24 and 25 from 5 to 7 p.m.

The 12-week term at WBU will run from Aug. 24 through Nov. 14. Registration will be held at Wayland's Lubbock campus, 4601 83rd Street, Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Monday through Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Registration will also be held at Reese's Education Center, Bldg. 920, Room 139, Monday and Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

According to Jeff Wilbur, Reese's education services officer, enrollments this year in both programs have been steadily increasing, especially with Wayland's bachelor's and master's offerings.

"With more jobs in the civilian market requiring a degree, many people have decided to go back to school," he said. "People who retire or get out of the military with a good education will be more confident and have a better chance of getting the job they want."

Credit hours not only count towards SPC and WBU degrees, but also towards a degree from the Community College of the Air Force.

"Often military members don't realize how close they may be to their CCAF degree," said Mary. Mayekawa, education counselor. "Many could complete their degree requirements within one year, but continue to put it off."

Average cost for a class at SPC is $18 after tuition assistance pays its 75 percent. Cost at WBU is $75 a class for undergraduate, and approximately $94 a class for graduate-level classes after tuition assistance has been paid.

"With the tuition assistance that is available, there's no better time to get the degree you want," said Mr. Wilbur. "We have some excellent programs available at Reese."

One such program offers spouses of active-duty Air Force members up to 50 percent off tuition costs. All spouses pursuing high school through graduate programs can apply. Applications are available at the education center and the family support center, and must be turned in by end the business today to be considered for the fall term.

The education center can help you set up a degree plan and give more information about services available, such as CLEP and DANTES testing and instructional videos.

The education center is open from 7:30 to 4:15 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information, call 3634.

Eligible NCOs may be awarded a new certificate of recognition from the Community College of the Air Force, based on job experience, technical training and professional military education.

The new aerospace management certificate program was introduced in January. The recognition for completion of advanced technical training is patterned after traditional occupational technical certificate programs offered by civilian institutions, Jim DeClerk, CCAF curriculum and training branch, said.

Students need 24 semester hours of Air Force residence course work to satisfy the requirements for the certificate.

Logistics got into the title game on the strength of victories against a strong 52nd FTS team (16-7) and the 64th Operations Support Squadron "A" (11-4), the regular season champ from the highly competitive National League.

The championship match looked good going into the game. That changed quickly, however, as the 54th FTS "A" took matters — not to mention their bats — into their own hands. A nine-

> Pre-game preparation was what the champs cited as the key to their playoff success.

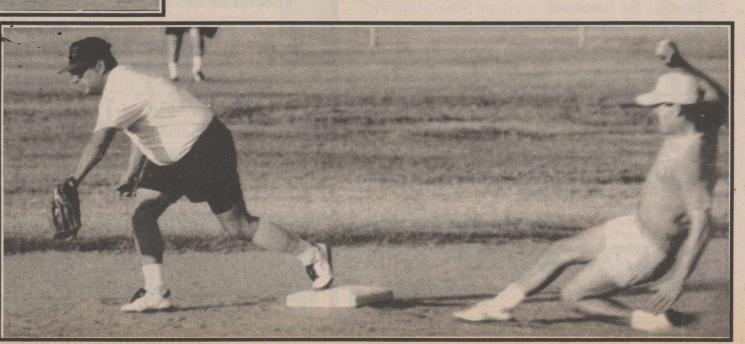

"We knew if we hit the ball well, we'd be okay," said Capt. Kirk Willburger of the 54th FTS "A." "We started warming up with some batting practice before the games instead of waiting for the middle of the game to get our bats 'ginned' up."

Like their previous championship season, the captain said that a loss late in the regular season helped them focus, eliminating any "ego" problems that may have existed. Continuity also played a part this year.

"This was a fairly new squad (from last year's team), though the backbone of the team was still there," said the captain.
