President Bush visits Reese

President George Bush shakes hands with Wing Commander Col. David Love after arriving at Reese Wednesday afternoon. A big crowd turned out at Base Operations to greet the president.

Auto hobby shop reopens

The new Reese Auto Hobby Shop reopens today with an open house from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and a ribbon cutting at noon.

The shop, located just north of the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron, features a wide variety of equipment for all aspects of car maintenance and improvement.

"Today's open house is meant to give everyone a chance to come in and see what we have to offer," said 2nd Lt. Ben Williams, 64th MWR-Services Squadron. He added that refreshments would be available, and that a door prize of a $75 detailing job would be given away at noon; people can register for the prize this morning at the shop. The new facility is designed to give wing members more opportunity for self-help projects on their vehicles, according to Jim Hernandez of MWRS. He pointed to the muffler-welding bay, a feature not available in the old shop, as an example of what the new shop has to offer.

Four other bays feature lifts, while one has an alignment machine which can also be used as a lift. Two others have computer diagnostic equipment that can be used for tune-ups. Other bays for painting, steam cleaning and body work are also part of the shop, as is a tire machine.

Shop officials said they are open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, with the last hour of each day set aside for tool turn-in and clean up.

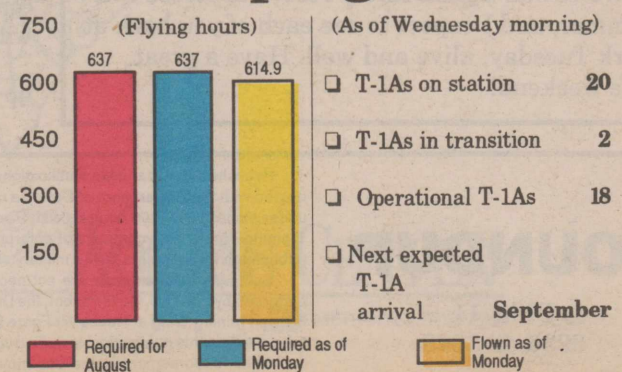

Lieutenant Williams said the prices offered at the shop are extremely competitive, "beating most any" offers found elsewhere.

Military people get a priority in the shop, Mr. Hernandez said, and base civilians and contractors are also welcome.

T-1A program

From my perspective

by Col. David Love
Commander, 64th FTW

As you will see throughout this week's Roundup, the emphasis is on the many construction projects and quality-of-life upgrades that are either taking place or planned in the near future.

There's no doubt about it — Reese is a base with a bright future, and all these improvements bear witness to that. They range from recreational buildings like the new auto hobby shop (which opens today, by the way) to maintenance facilities like the yet-to-be-started T-1A hangar, to renovations of existing facilities like the chapel and the bachelor officers' quarters.

Toward the future

Most anywhere you go on base, Reese's growth and expansion is plain to see. True, some of these changes may cause us a bit of inconvenience from time to time, but all of them will ensure that Reese remains a great place to work and live well into the 21st century.

I hope you'll take the time to look through this week's paper and get a better feel for the scope of these projects and for what lies ahead. I want each and every one of you to take pride in this base and its facilities, and hopefully this issue of the Roundup will give you a better understanding of where the base is now and where it is going.

Long weekend

Labor Day weekend gets under way after work today. This marks the last of this summer's long weekends, and with it comes an even greater need for safety awareness.

People everywhere will be "getting out" for the holiday, leading to crowded highways and recreation areas. Each driver must be alert and drive defensively.

Commanders and supervisors must encourage moderation in holiday activities, especially those involving consumption of alcohol. Moderation will ensure that the weekend is safe as well as enjoyable for us all. Remember, it's safer to pass up that one extra game than to overextend yourself and get hurt.

We've had a good safety record at Reese this summer, and I expect to see each of you back at work Tuesday, alive and well. Have a great, safe weekend!

Reese vision: "Reese people leading the way in supporting and training professional officers and quality pilots for the Air Force."

Quality Air Force

by TSgt. Merrie A. Wright
64th FTW

Hit the cutoff man. Don't throw behind the runner. Break up a double play. Baseball is an involved game where small things done right often mean the difference between winning and losing. Good ideas in financial analysis, though small, have led to quality improvements and made life easier for other offices as well.

First, Dan McIntire had a better idea on office design. Not everyone in his office may have agreed, because for three weeks cost and budget analysts found themselves hanging sheetrock, painting, demolishing office walls, pulling up carpet, laying carpet squares and finally installing systems furniture. When all this was done they had transformed a maze of five small offices into a modern, well-organized and efficient office. Mr. McIntire's staff would now probably rate this effort a grand slam.

Next, TSgt. Leon Sosa developed a pamphlet for data collection. He introduced "how to" explanations in the pamphlet for people who were required to provide the data (our suppliers) and a user-friendly format for each data element. We now see measurable improvements in the quality and timeliness of provided data over our previous trial and error method: the better the data, the better the decisions. We'll use the data as the basis for receiving hundreds of thousands of dollars in reimbursements each year. The idea worked so well, Don Shirley developed another pamphlet to collect data for the Economic Resource Impact Statement. One ERIS customer, the Office of the Secretary of Defense, uses the information in their base closing drills; it's obviously important that the data be complete and accurate, and the pamphlet idea has helped.

Creating customer-friendly pamphlets really caught on in the office with the development of the "lease vs. buy decision" pamphlet. Again, the objective is the accurate collection of data so decision-makers (our customers) can make the best economic choice in spending taxpayers' money. Another objective is to ease the pain of the suppliers who provide the data.

Sergeant Sosa has also implemented an automated project status list. In addition to the obvious, the branch chief uses the list to even out the work load and plan future projects. Nothing revolutionary, but something that didn't exist. With the merger of budget, cost and MWR oversight, the resulting financial analysis branch was much more complicated. Now that we have the project list, we no longer overlook taskings, and we get them done when needed.

The comptroller world is changing fast. To address these new or changed tasks, Sergeant Sosa clarified who is doing what and when. He identified the players and suspenses involved for the Suggestion Program and for Interservice Support Agreements. He then essentially contracted in writing with the OPRs to do specific things at certain times. Now, for example, we have an agreement to provide cost analysis on suggestions within 24 hours.

The improvements make a big difference in the service we provide our customers and in our internal processes. For copies of the pamphlets or a sample automated project list to apply in your office, contact Sergeant Sosa at 3074.

TRAINING TOMORROW'S BEST TODAY — FOR GLOBAL POWER AND REACH

General Ashy sends greetings

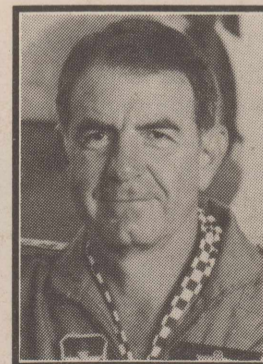

by Lt. Gen. Joseph Ashy
Commander, Air Training Command

America has officially commemorated the contributions of her laborers for 98 years with an appropriately named holiday: Labor Day. Traditionally, Labor Day also marks the last big vacation weekend of summer and, for us, the end of the "101 Critical Days of Summer."

This Sept. 7th, I encourage everyone in ATC to relax and enjoy themselves. This celebration of what we have labored for and accomplished throughout the year should be shared by all. You all continue to perform with quality excellence, and you deserve a well-earned break.

I also encourage supervisors to review planned activities. Everyone is vital to the day-to-day operation of our command, and we do not want to unnecessarily lose anyone — especially because we failed to balance activities with risk. Common sense is the key; and helping each other through a "buddy system" will pay great dividends.

Labor Day should be enjoyable, but we want to see everyone return Tuesday. Enjoy your day off — and keep up the great work.

Be informed - vote!

by Capt. Martin Heller
64th OSS

Do you know what congressional district you live in? Can you define the term "Pro Tempore?" Can you name your congressman and senators?

If not, you're not the only one. Voter apathy has been on the rise in the U.S. for the past 30 years, and the problem is getting worse. One consequence of this is that small, well-organized special interest groups are choosing this country's leaders. Amazingly, many people who complain loudly about the direction our nation is heading are refusing to exercise their right to change it.

While trying to encourage people to register and vote I've come up against the same resistance. I've had people tell me, "Nobody can force me to register. I know my rights." One brave airman finally admitted that he would like to register and vote but is afraid to because he doesn't know anything about the candidates. And he speaks for a larger number of Americans than he could guess—more than 16 percent of Air Force members confessed that as the reason they didn't vote in the 1988 election. That is our problem and our answer can't be, "I won't vote." All of us need to search for the information necessary to make intelligent decisions on who should be in office. There is too much at stake.

The 1992 election is filled with billion-dollar issues such as: Health care; should there be a national health plan? Capital punishment; is it worth the cost? Abortion vs. Pro-life; What should we do about the homeless and the welfare system? Are continued reductions in the size of the military good for the country?

In the opinion of former

CMSAF James Binnicker, "Congress doesn't care about the military because overall the military doesn't vote."

This year's election presents the best chance in years that there will be new blood in high places since 53 congressmen and six governors have decided not to run for re-election.

Many people have the misconception that their one vote does not count. To those who feel this way, it should be pointed out that had one more person in each precinct voted for Richard Nixon in 1960, President Kennedy would have lost the election. Even absentee ballots have been known to decide many elections.

So it is in your best interest to find out who is running for election in your congressional district and where they stand on the issues important to you. Be sure to register now so you can exercise your right to vote in November.

Wing members honored by AFA

Safety officials stress caution

Labor Day weekend signals the end of summer 1992. With the great weather in Texas, it's hard to say goodbye to summer fun, but the days will soon grow shorter and the nights cooler and we can begin to look forward to the start of football.

During the 101 Critical Days of Summer 1992, most people in the Reese community enjoyed themselves with sports and family activities in a safe manner without incident or injuries. Some wing members ended up in the emergency room with sport or recreation-related injuries — the majority of them being an assortment of cuts, bruises, sprains and strains that healed within a few days.

One person was admitted to Reese Hospital for medical treatment after making a U-turn on a Texas highway. He spent two days in the hospital nursing his bruises and had time to contemplate his driving errors that caused the mishap.

As Labor Day closes out the 101 Critical Days of Summer, we cannot forget safety in our work or off-duty activities for the remaining months of 1992. For the hunter, skier or ice skater, dealing with the safety problems related to those sports must once again take priority. Safety officials would like to remind wing members participating in organized tag football that tag football is not tackle football. Both coaches and referees must enforce the rules and control over-aggressive play.

The Safety Office would like to thank the people of Reese for thus far making the 101 Critical Days of Summer a successful and safe campaign.

Achievers

(Editor's note: Items in the "Achievers" column are based solely on submissions to the Roundup staff. Call 3843 for details.)

Reese pair excels at SOS

Two Reese officers were distinguished graduates from their Squadron Officer School class, which recently graduated.

Capt. Rhea Dobson, 64th Operations Group, and Capt. Edward Brockhaus, 52nd Flying Training Squadron, finished in the top 10 percent of SOS Class 92-D at Maxwell AFB, Ala. The seven-week course consisted of four equal phases of academics, writing, speaking and leadership.

MWRS names best

The 64th MWR Services Squadron has selected its top performers of the quarter. They are:

- SrA. Gary Kern, recreation and fitness specialist — military category.
- Michelle Conley, accounting technician at Reese Inn — civilian category.

35th, 54th FTS picks top IP

First Lt. Frank Yannuzzi is the 35th Flying Training Squadron instructor pilot of the month. The lieutenant's accomplishments included selection as a T-1A instructor and top ratings for his programs during two formal inspections.

First Lt. Kevin Mook is the 54th FTS instructor of the month. Lieutenant Mook, a native of North Carolina and an Air Force Academy graduate, was cited by the squadron for his "outstanding initiative, recognized leadership and flying abilities."

Civilians reach milestones

Two wing civilians have reached milestones in their careers:

- Earl Fleeks, a lead firefighter with the 64th

Civil Engineering Squadron, has been in civil service for 20 years. He is an Air Force veteran.

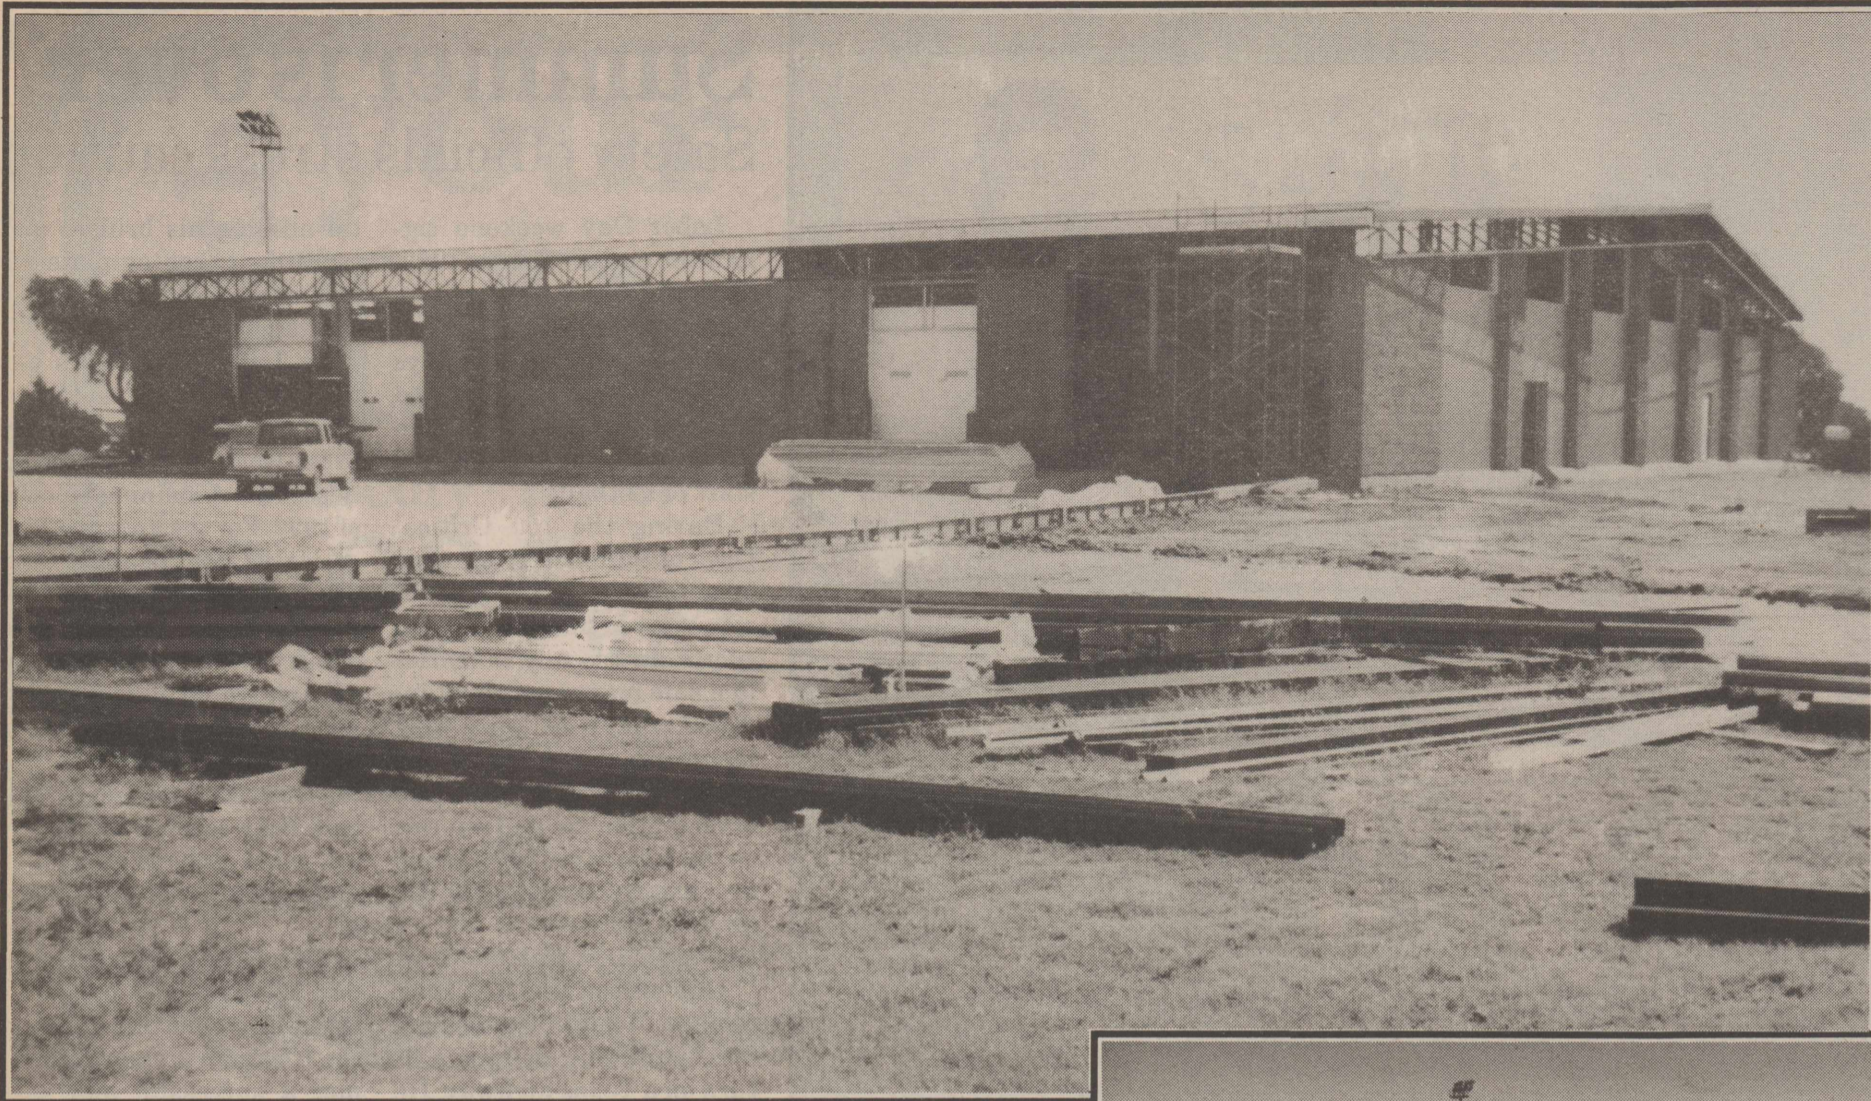

- James Bertrand, also with CES, is a maintenance mechanic foreman. A Navy retiree, he's been with civil service for 10 years.

Your I.D. card is worth $400

In recognition of your patriotic service,
Lincoln-Mercury has a reward for you.

All you have to do is show your military I.D.

Here's how it works. Go into your local Lincoln-Mercury dealer; make your best deal on any '92 Topaz or Capri, or on a '92 or '93 Tracer, including any current rebates or incentives, other than the college graduate or first time buyer programs, then present your I.D. card and get an additional $400 off. This program applies to purchase or lease. Just make your best deal, then show your I.D.

This offer is open to all branches of the armed forces. The only stipulations are that you have an active duty military identification card or a dependent unlimited access identification card, and take delivery (only two per customer) from a local Lincoln-Mercury dealer by September 24, 1992. It's SNAFU-proof.

It's as easy as a milk run.

No opposition, not hard to find, just go in and get it. That's the way this mission lays out, nice and easy. Just make your best deal with your Lincoln-Mercury dealer, take any rebates... then give him the extra "card up your sleeve", so to speak, and drive out in your new car with your $400. It's as easy as a milk run.

So make tracks to your Lincoln-Mercury dealer.

He's waiting to salute you with his best deal and make sure your experience in a new Tracer, Capri or Topaz is as enjoyable as an R and R in Hawaii.

It's our way of thanking those who serve.

Mrs. Gray types a report

(Sgt. Greg Spraggins)

Quality performer

In a manner of speaking, Cathy Gray has gone from one end of the spectrum to the other at Reese.

"I used to work on (UPT) graduations and training review boards, so I dealt with the students as they finished their training," said Mrs. Gray, 35th Flying Training Squadron secretary. "Now I get to work with the students who are near the beginning of their training. I like the change of pace."

A native of Texas, Mrs. Gray grew up in Panhandle, east of Amarillo. She's worked on base for the past two years, though she and her husband, SSgt. Terry Gray of the T-1 Test Team, have been here since 1987.

In her free time, Mrs. Gray enjoys cross stitching, reading and swimming. In the past, she's attended West Texas State University and Park College, and she hopes to complete her bachelor's degree in the future.

The Grays and their children - Chance, 8, and Jennifer, 3 - will leave Reese in November for a new assignment at Randolph AFB, Texas. The couple plan to build their own home in the San Antonio area.

"The thing I'll miss the most (about living here) is the safe, small-town, community atmosphere that exists in Reese Village," she said.

Street dance set for youth

A street dance and barbecue for base youngsters will be held from 7 to 11 p.m. today at the base picnic grounds. Cost is $3 for youth center members and $4 for non-members.

Chapel sponsors programs

Registration for the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine at St. Augustine Parish is under way; classes start Sept. 20 and run from 11 a.m. to noon for children 3 through high school age. Call Barbara Chauncey at 3538 for details.

Also, the Reese Protestant Chapel offers Sunday School from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m. beginning Sept. 13. Classes are available for all age groups including adult. Nursery care is available for children under 3. Registration is under way; call 3237 for details.

Finally, classes are ongoing in the Rite of Christian Initiation for adults. The program, designed for people who want to learn more about Catholicism. Call Terri Deere or Ms. Chauncey at 3538.

Clothing sales hours change

The military clothing sales store will be open as part of a test from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday and Monday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday.

Commissary closed Tuesday

The Reese Commissary will be closed Tuesday in observance of Labor Day.

OWC plans fashion demo

The Reese Officers' Wives Club will present "Hair by Andropolis" at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Reese Officers' Open Mess. The demonstrations will use OWC volunteers and Andropolis models; members interested in volunteering should call 794-4289.

R.S.V.P. is due Tuesday; call 794-7182 or 794-5301.

Health fair upcoming

The Reese Health Promotions Office will hold a health fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sept. 12 under the gazebo by the exchange. Wellness information will be presented along with cholesterol, hypertension and vision screenings. For details, call 3140.

Talent show scheduled

The base-level talent show will be held Sept. 21-25, and deadline for entry is Sept. 15. Categories are vocal, male and female vocalists (not self accompanied), vocal duet, male and female vocal groups, instrumental solo, instrumental group mixed, and performing arts (classical, drama, dance potpourri, musical and specialty).

For details, call 2nd Lt. Ben Williams at 3408 or Dee Marino at 3800.

Stress class planned

A stress management class will be held from 2 to 3 p.m. Sept. 15, 17, 22 and 24 in the mental health clinic. For reservations or details, call 3739.

CATO offers training

The civilian automated training office will offer a mid-level managers training course Sept. 24 on problem solving, positive discipline and dealing with difficult people.

Call 3803 to reserve a spot.

FSC plans two events

The Reese Family Support Center has two special programs coming up:

□ A civilian career options workshop will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sept. 15-17. R.S.V.P. is due Wednesday to Pamela Appel, 3305.

□ "Talking with your child about AIDS" will be presented at 7 p.m. Sept. 17. This educational seminar will feature Liz Paulk, AIDS education coordinator for the city of Lubbock. For details, call Reynalda Schroeder at 6494.

Wrappers needed

Hershey, Mars and M&M candy wrappers placed in collection boxes at the exchange, youth center and student snack bars will earn MWRS five cents each, which will in turn be used for "people programs" on base.

Free gifts will be given to the first five adults who donate 10 wrappers at the exchange and to the first five youths who do so at the center.

For details, call Becky Pillifant at 6703.

Adopt a playground

Playgrounds at Reese can expect to receive better care thanks to an "adoption" program developed by the 64th MWR-Services Squadron.

Units and organizations who adopt a playground will have their name put on a plaque at the site, and they will be able to get all the equipment they need to maintain the grounds at the Reese Pride Store.

The following playgrounds are part of the program; interested organizations should call the points of contact listed below:

□ Youth center playground — Cindy Mitchell, 3820.

□ Child development center playground — Viola Aikens, 3541.

□ Community park and billeting playground — Capt. Kevin Kelly, 3408.

Celebrate Texas at the new location of the Texas Gift Shop.

Grand Opening and Ribbon Cutting for the Texas Gift Shop scheduled for Friday, Sept. 11, at 11:30 a.m. The formal opening week will extend from Sept. 11 through Sept. 19.

Formerly operating in the South Plains Mall for six and one-half years, the YWCA's Texas Gift Shop has moved to Kingsgate Center North, 4210 82nd Street.

The newly expanded quarters allow many new products and services to be offered. Texas gifts, souvenirs and collectibles are available. Also included in the store are flags, Texas related clothing and accessories, art objects, toys, games and books for the young and old, decorator items, holiday specialties, Texas Tech merchandise, and primitives. The store is moving from predominately a souvenir store to include finer gifts as well into the wide variety of selections. Local artisans' products are being added to the offerings.

The YWCA of Lubbock opened the Texas Gift Shop in conjunction with the Texas Sesquicentennial Celebration in 1986. Started as a temporary venture to generate funds for the YWCA programs and services, it became such a successful project that it has become a permanent year-round fund raiser to supplement the YWCA operating budget.

Funds are utilized to provide programs such as those for the handicapped, senior citizens, and low income and high risk children for after-school care and summer day camps.

The proceeds from the Texas Gift Shop have allowed the YWCA to reduce its dependency upon the community for charity dollars. With so many non-profits involved in way of expanding services during the slow economic times. The project has been used as a model for other non-profits across the nation.

Everyone is invited to attend the Grand Opening and Ribbon Cutting for the Texas Gift Shop scheduled for Friday, September 11, 1992, at 11:30 a.m. The formal opening week will extend from September 11th through September 19. Daily door prizes and a grand prize drawing will highlight the events. Special attractions will complete the Grand Opening week. Featured at the Ribbon Cutting will be Musician Cecil Caldwell, Fiddler, and Artist-Author Ruth Little, signing her new cookbook and other selections.

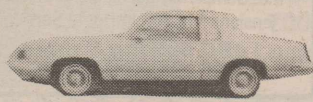

For more information, call Betty Wheeler, 792-2723 at the YWCA, or the Texas Gift Shop, 792-1836.
