Reese jets won't have far to go for Top Flight IV, as the base plays host to the competition. Members of the 64th Logistics Squadron's fuel flight refuel a T-37. Several wing agencies will provide support during Top Flight IV.

Reese to host Top Flight IV

Aircrews and maintenance personnel from seven ATC flying wings will participate in Top Flight IV here Nov. 12 and 13.

Reese's selection as the host site for Top Flight IV was announced by ATC officials earlier this week.

"Hosting Top Flight provides a tremendous opportunity for this wing to demonstrate to its peers — the other ATC flying wings — the type of professionalism that thrives here. This kind of competition generates enthusiasm and esprit de corps throughout the command," said Col. David Love, wing commander.

Reese will host pilots from across ATC. Participating bases include Reese; Columbus AFB, Miss.; Mather AFB, Calif.; Williams AFB, Ariz.; Vance AFB, Okla.; Laughlin AFB, Texas and Sheppard AFB, Texas.

T-43 and T-41 participants will not compete at Reese. Evaluators will judge the T-43s at their base, but Mather's T-37 pilots will compete here. The 1st Flight Screening Squadron's T-41 aircraft and personnel will be evaluated at Hondo Airport, Texas.

Approximately 46 pilots and aircraft and 58 maintenance personnel will participate in the two-day event. The Reese contingent will include: four pilots from the 54th Flying Training Squadron and four from the 35th FTS. There will also be 10 maintenance personnel from Lockheed on the team.

"We will find out who will be selected to represent the 64th Flying Training Wing on Monday," said Lt. Col. Phillip Romanowicz, Reese's Top Flight IV coordinator.

"Since the flight commanders and pilots are selected randomly, Top Flight truly tests how our people operate day-to-day," said Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Ashy, ATC commander. "With the quality people, training and aircraft we have in ATC, I expect the competition to be spirited and keen. Each year teams exceed previous levels of performance while creating new and higher standards to shoot for. We wish all participants good luck ... you are all winners."

The arrival competition will be on Thursday with the aircraft inspection competition slated for late Thursday afternoon. The remainder of the competition will be on Friday, said Colonel Romanowicz.

According to ATC officials, Top Flight has three objectives. It focuses attention on the flight

Col. Larry Driskill speaks at his retirement ceremony, held in conjunction with the Oct. 30 retreat in front of Bldg. 800. Colonel Driskill, former commander of the 64th Operations Group, retired after 24 years of service. He arrived at Reese in the summer of 1990.

Veterans Day greetings sent

by George Bush
president

"The soldier, above all other people, prays for peace," said Gen. Douglas MacArthur, "for he must suffer and bear the deepest wounds and scars of war."

It is fitting that we pause on the anniversary of Armistice Day, a day dedicated to peace, to honor those Americans who answered our nation's call to duty when the United States had no choice but to fight for the principles we cherish.

On this occasion, let us offer a heartfelt salute to each and every U.S. veteran, especially those who are ill or hospitalized.

Let us renew our pledge to obtain the fullest possible accounting for our POWs and MIAs and convey our respect to the brave families of those still missing. Finally, let us remember throughout the year that our freedom — and that of millions of people around the globe — would not be possible without our veterans' service and sacrifice. (Air Force News Service)

by Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Ashy
Air Training Command commander

As Veterans Day 1992 arrives, it is appropriate that we remember the roots of this most hallowed day. When World War I ended, our nation began a yearly Armistice Day celebration to remember the veterans of the "war to end all wars." That holiday, now known as Veterans Day, was best described by President Coolidge when he said, "A nation which forgets its defenders will itself be forgotten." We must heed that statement, and remember those who have so courageously devoted their lives to serving our great nation.

This Veterans Day, I salute your contributions in making our Air Force the best there is — and in making this country the world's beacon of freedom and democracy. Thanks. (ATC News Service)

by Donald B. Rice
secretary of the Air Force

Today, on the first Veteran's Day after the formal dissolution of the Soviet Union, the nation pauses to reflect on the end of the long Cold War and to express its gratitude for the service and sacrifices of America's honored veterans. Our newest veterans continue to earn our thanks every day as they meet the challenges of the post-Cold War world.

Air Force veterans, along with today's servicemen and women, share credit for building our new service and its global reach and power while standing for freedom around the world.

May God bless them and all the men and women who have served this great country. (Air Force News Service)

by Col. David R. Love
64th FTW commander

Veterans Day, this Wednesday, is the day which commemorates the sacrifices of those who have served before us in both war and peace. It is a special opportunity to remember why those who struggled in years past thought American liberty was so important that they were willing to make the ultimate sacrifice in order to preserve that liberty. This is the second fall holiday for 1992. Let's not disrupt our holiday plans with a needless accident or fatality.

In order to avoid a needless accident on this holiday, we all must adjust our driving techniques. Dangerous driving situations can be caused by increased hours of darkness, rain, and possible sleet or snow, depending where you drive. The frequency of bad weather may increase with little warning. It is up to each individual to be aware of the driving conditions and adjust his or her driving to match the conditions.

Those of the Reese community who will stay close to home should remember that a good number of vehicle accidents happen within 25 miles of our homes. Be alert! With alcohol-related deaths on the rise in Lubbock and the surrounding area extra caution is required.

Enjoy this holiday and one day respite from our busy schedules and all return to work Thursday safe and well.

Veterans Day event planned in Lubbock

Military, civic groups come together for parade

The 1992 Veteran's Day parade, set for Saturday, will feature many active-duty military, veteran's and civic organizations.

The U.S. 4th Cavalry, Legion of Honor, Ex-POWs, Order of Purple Hearts and Veterans of Foreign Wars are but a few of the more than 35 groups involved in the parade. The Reese Color Guard will lead the parade.

According to Dan Webster, co-chairman of the parade committee, the main focus of the parade is to increase the public's awareness that veterans are still a valuable asset to the community.

"We want to honor the men and women who have served their country with the parade," said Mr. Webster. "We believe we can assure the citizens of Lubbock that they will witness an outstanding gathering of units, organizations, floats and individuals."

The parade will begin at 10 a.m. at Jones Stadium's west parking lot, and will proceed around the Texas Tech Memorial Circle, east on Broadway to Avenue M and north to the Civic Center and Mahon Library parking lot.

Mr. Webster said this is the largest Veterans

Day parade in the area's history of honoring veterans.

Also, today at noon, the Texas Tech University Air Force ROTC detachment will hold a candle-light memorial service honoring POWs and MIAs. The service, sponsored by the Arnold Air Society, will begin at noon at the Memorial Circle at Texas Tech. Everyone is invited to attend.

For more information, call Mr. Webster or L.B. Ward at the parade committee office at 762-6414 or Bob Bishop or John Severnson at 747-2668.

QUALITY AIR FORCE

Tools for making decisions

Last week's Quality Air Force article described "brainstorming." The result of a brainstorming session is a list of ideas. If this list is too long, the team can boil it down using one of the decision-making tools.

How to select a tool for making decisions

If you need to...	Then try this tool:
Find the important items in a list	Multi-Voting
Prioritize the items in a list (for group use)	Nominal Group Technique
Prioritize items in a short list (for group or individual use)	Pairwise Ranking
Measure your process against another	Benchmarking
Identify significant influences	Force Field Analysis

Multi-Voting

What it is:

Multi-voting is a quick and easy way for a group to find the items of the highest priority in a list. This technique helps you:

- Prioritize a large list without creating a "win-lose" situation in the group that generated the list.
- Separate the "vital few" items from the "trivial many" on a large list.

How to do it:

Empower. Give each team member a number of votes equal to approximately half the number of items on the list (e.g., 10 votes for a 20-item list).

Vote. Have the members vote individually for the items they believe have high priority.

Compile the votes given to each item. You can put a mark beside each item for every vote it receives.

Select the top four to six items. Discuss and prioritize these items relative to each other. If you can't establish the top four to six, remove from the list the items that have the fewest votes and then conduct another vote.

Multi-Voting Example

Members of a system program office attended a lot of meetings at different locations around the country. The meetings were not always as productive as they might have been, so the division chiefs called a meeting in hope of improving the situation. A brainstorming session produced the following list:

- |                          |                                 |
|--------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 1. no agenda             | 8. too much "dog and pony"      |
| 2. no clear objectives   | 9. problems not mentioned       |
| 3. going off on tangents | 10. unclear charts              |
| 4. extraneous topics     | 11. few meaningful metrics      |
| 5. unproductive          | 12. trouble calling home office |
| 6. time spent on travel  | 13. no parking                  |
| 7. money spent on travel | 14. no administrative support   |

To reduce this list to a manageable size, each group member was given 7 votes (half the total of 14 items). The problems received votes as follows:

- |                              |                                     |
|------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1. no agenda (1)             | 8. too much "dog and pony" (5)      |
| 2. no clear objectives (4)   | 9. problems not mentioned (2)       |
| 3. going off on tangents (2) | 10. unclear charts (5)              |
| 4. extraneous topics (1)     | 11. few meaningful metrics (4)      |
| 5. unproductive (2)          | 12. trouble calling home office (2) |
| 6. time spent on travel (5)  | 13. no parking (0)                  |
| 7. money spent on travel (5) | 14. no administrative support (1)   |

As a result of the vote, the group chose to focus on problems 2, 6, 7, 8, 10 and 11.

Roundup, photographer win ATC honors

The Roundup and a member of its staff took first places in the annual ATC newspaper contest.

The Roundup took first place in its category among other command newspapers that average less than 24 pages each week. In addition, Sgt. Greg Spraggins took first place in an individual category for photos supporting a story. He also took second place in sportswriting.

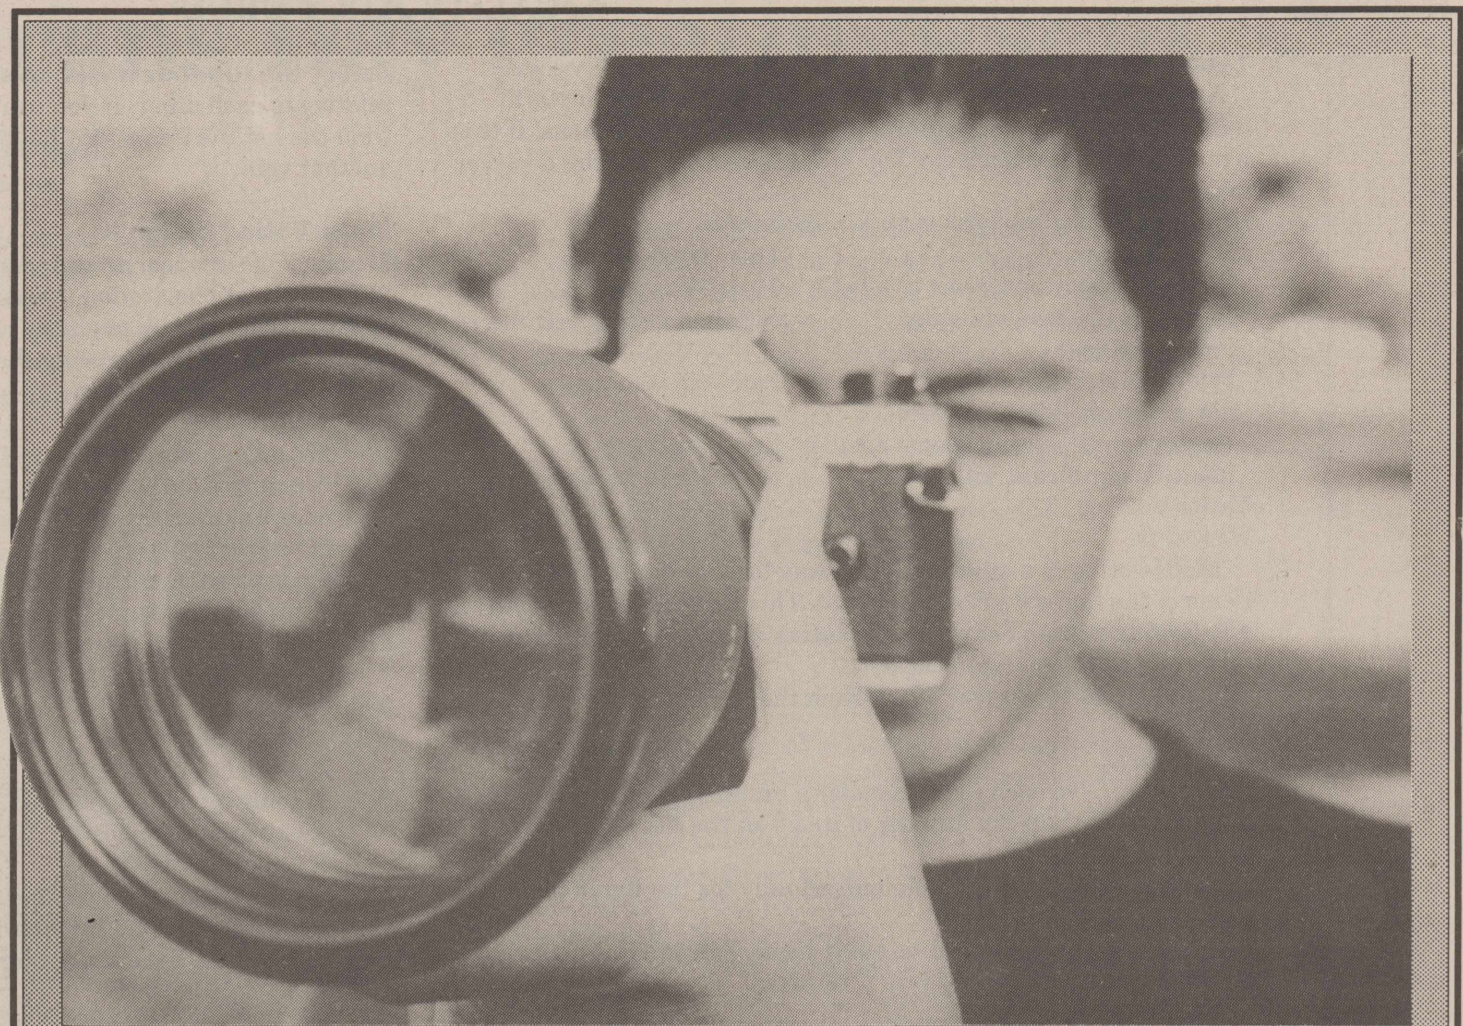

The contest was judged by three journalistic experts — Dr. David Nelson, professor of journalism at Southwest Texas State University; David Tarrant, military reporter for the San Antonio Light; and retired Col. Charles Tucker, former director of advertising and publicity for Hq. Air Force Recruiting Service.

Judges' comments about the Roundup included praise for the "consistent style" of the paper and cited features as "the strongest part of the paper."

Sergeant Spraggins' work received equal praise. In addition to the way he matched his photos to the stories they accompanied, they cited his innovations.

"You took a gamble and won; your technique broke out of the pack," said one judge. "The results are pictures that grab attention and draw the reader into the story."

Both Sergeant Spraggins and the Roundup now advance to the Air Force competition.

Construction projects continue on base

by 1st Lt. Frank Wilson
64th CES

By now you have noticed construction on base is proceeding at full speed. Several of these projects are proceeding on schedule and several more will begin in November. These will affect access to some facilities and close some of our normal routes.

Construction will begin Monday on a project to repair Hays Drive (the road from the Industrial—or Golf Course—gate to Hangar Line Road; see map at right). This project will be divided into two phases. During both phases, thru traffic will be blocked. During Phase I, the only access from the industrial gate will be to the golf course parking lot. Traffic to MWR logistics and recreational vehicle parking must use Perimeter Road north of the water and waste plant. Upon completion of Phase I, Hays Drive will be closed from the perimeter road to Seventh Street. During Phase II, traffic entering the industrial gate will have access to the golf course parking lot and MWR facilities. Construction will last approximately 120 days. Please note, all traffic to the base must enter and exit using the main gate. Allot extra time accordingly.

Construction will also begin on a project to re-route Seventh Street (see map at right). Phase I of this project will close Seventh Street from "C" Street to "E" Street. Phase II will be from "E" Street to Gilbert Avenue. An opening will be provided to allow traffic access to Reese Manor and Bldg. 629 during both phases of construction. Traffic to the main exchange and commissary will enter and depart from Gilbert Ave. Access to the park and playground will be from "G" Street during Phase I, and "C" Street during Phase II. Please drive carefully in these areas.

Alteration of Hangar 70 and repair of South Hangarline Road will decrease parking in the area around Hangars 52 and 70. Alternate parking for affected areas will be provided at the parking lot located at the intersection of 1st Street and Hangarline Road. For further information, please contact engineering flight at 3916.

On Nov. 16, work will begin on a project to resurface six hangar floors. Hangar 52 is slated to be the first facility for resurfacing. This facility will be done in two phases due to the volume of traffic in the building. After completion of Phase I of Hangar 52, the following schedule will be followed: Hangar 82, Phase II of Hangars 52, 50, 60, 92, and 70.

The floors being resurfaced will not be in use during the process and because of safety considerations, the facilities should not be entered by base personnel while work is in progress. Civil engineering is coordinating this project with the wing aircraft maintenance organizations. Personnel working in these facilities should contact their supervisors if they have any questions.

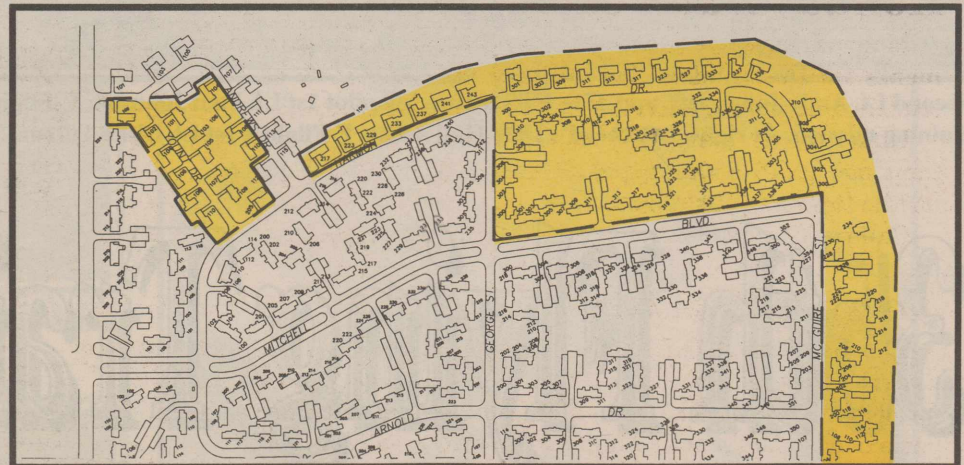

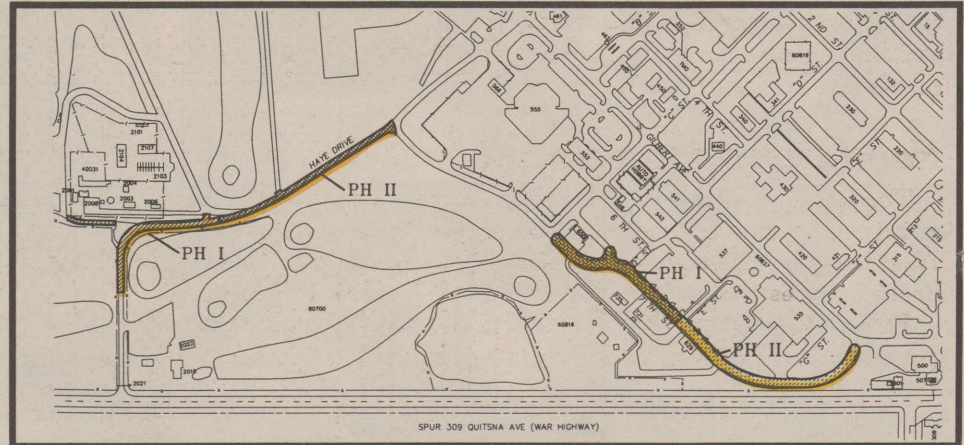

A major roofing project will also begin in the family housing area (see map at right). This project will involve reshingling the roofs on 77 houses. In addition, 34 of these units will have their carport roofs modified with a gable-end roof.

Every effort will be made to reduce the impact to the residents. Occupants will be notified at least two days in advance before work starts on their house. During the dates of construction, please: remove all personal items from carport and driveway (attached carports only), secure any pets, and do not ask the contractor to do additional work on your unit. If you have any questions, please contact the family housing office at 3912.

We appreciate your continued support in making these mission and quality-of-life improvements.

Notes

Clean-up weekend set

This weekend has been designated as fall clean-up weekend. Housing residents are asked to take this opportunity to winterize their lawns, clean their flower beds and trim their shrubs before the cold weather takes permanent hold of the area.

MWR Supply will be open from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday for people needing equipment, and civil engineering will provide curb-side pick-up of limbs, clippings and such on Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Lawn fertilizer will be provided for all residents.

Food donations needed

The Reese Company Grade Officers Council is asking wing members to donate non-perishable food items for Operation Thanksgiving, their annual project whereby 25 to 30 needy Reese families receive a holiday meal.

Food collection boxes have been placed in nearly every building on base. For more details, call 1st Lt. John Pletcher at 3432.

Holiday travel savings set

Many airlines are waiving their advance purchase requirements for the holidays for military trainees, such as UPT students, according to traffic management officials.

Under the program, UPT students can make their reservations now, take advantage of advance purchase fares and pay for the tickets in early December.

Call traffic management at 6143 for details.

New SATO hours

The SatoTravel Office is now open-weekdays from 7:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. for official travel and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for leisure travel. Leisure customers are asked to use the patio door in the rear of Bldg. 920 after normal duty hours.

Call 6144 or 6145 for details.

AFSA meets

The Air Force Sergeants Association will meet at 7 p.m. Nov. 16 in the Reese Enlisted Open Mess. Members and non-members are welcome.

AFSA meetings have moved to the third Monday of each month. Call MSgt. Joe Slack at 3281 for details.

Daedalians meet

The Caprock Flight of the Order of Daedalians will hold a dinner meeting at 6 p.m. Nov. 19 in the Jack Davis Room in the Reese Officers' Open Mess.

The guest speaker will be Lt. Gen. Thomas Baker, commander of 12th Air Force and U.S. Southern Air Forces. Cost is $10. R.S.V.P. to 1st Lt. Todd Gentry at 6187 or Capt. Rodney Green at 3063.

Phone books recycled

Old phone books will be picked up for recycling Nov. 17 through 30. On base, books should be placed next to office recycling bins. In housing, they should be placed next to their curbside recycling bags.

Call 3820 for details.

ALS graduates

Reese Airman Leadership School Class 93-A will graduate during a formal retreat at 11:30 a.m. Nov. 20 in front of Bldg. 421. An awards/graduation luncheon will follow at noon in the Reese Enlisted Open Mess.

Cost of the luncheon is $5. Tickets are available in orderly rooms and the Reese Professional Military Education Center. Call 3147 for details.

Aid available for spouses

Applications for spouse tuition assistance for the winter and spring school terms are now being accepted, according to base education officials.

For those attending South Plains College (Reese) and Wayland Baptist University, applications will be accepted until Monday. For those attending Texas Tech University, South Plains College (Lubbock and Levelland) and Lubbock Christian University, the deadline will be Dec. 11.

All interested spouses, even those awarded the grants last term, must reapply each term. While priority is given to spouses previously awarded assistance, it is expected that the center will be able to assist a slightly higher number of individuals this term.

Selection for the grant is based upon need, with an equal amount going to officer and enlisted spouses. How many can be assisted is determined by quarterly and annual limit guidelines.

Applications will be available at the Reese Family Support Center and the Reese Education Center. All applications must be returned to the education center.

Further information is available by calling 3634.

CHAMPUS advisor answers questions

Carolyn Johnson
Health benefits advisor

Dear Carolyn:

My child was treated the first week in October in an emergency room at one of the local hospitals in Lubbock. Even though I met my family deductible in August, I was charged for the deductible again. How can I be charged for another deductible?

The CHAMPUS deductible is applied on a fiscal year basis, or Oct. 1 through Sept. 30. Therefore since your child received care the first week in October, the charges were applied towards your 1993 deductible.

Dear Carolyn:

My wife was recently seen in the emergency room at Reese and transferred downtown for additional treatment. I don't understand why I am responsible for any portion of the bill when my wife was seen at Reese first. I am retired Air Force.

When any dependent or retiree is transferred to a civilian hospital for additional treatment the charges are the patient's responsibility. The hospitals in Lubbock will file Primary Health Insurance, CHAMPUS or Medicare for you, but the patient will be responsible for their cost share. The only patients Reese AFB is responsible for paying for is the active duty person. If you need additional information, please feel free to stop by the CHAMPUS office.

Dear Carolyn:

I recently took my child to a civilian pediatrician for immunizations and CHAMPUS did not pay, but rather disallowed the charges. The CHAMPUS handbook says immunizations are covered. My child is 3.

Immunizations and well baby care are covered by CHAMPUS, but only when the child is under 2 years of age. After a child turns 2, this is no longer a benefit under the CHAMPUS program.

and flight commander, the first echelon of command. It raises the levels of performance through the competition and incentive it brings and it promotes pride and spirit.

Colonel Romanowicz noted that while hosting Top Flight should not cause any major impact on support operations here, there will be some units affected. "Obviously, there will be little or no billeting available on base throughout the competition," he said. "Parking will also be restricted along the flightline."

Top Flight reserved parking areas will include the parking lots: south of the 54th FTS (Bldg. 105), east of Hangar 82, and west of the 35th FTS (Bldg. 76).

Award ceremonies for the operations and maintenance personnel are slated for Friday evening at the officers and enlisted open messes respectively.

Wee Care offers help

by Lt. Col. Monica Figun
Chief, Nursing Services

As most child development centers, baby sitters and schools will not accept children who are ill, working couples and single parents are often faced with the unattractive option of losing time from work to care for their child at home. The 64th Medical Squadron's Wee Care Program offers an alternative to lost duty time.

Wee Care is a space-available program open to all eligible beneficiaries, ages 6 weeks and older, who are ill and unable to attend school or child care. It is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Children are "admitted" to the hospital during the parent's working hours. They are then discharged from the hospital or if additional days are anticipated, released on pass to go home with their parents.

Children on pass simply return to the hospital the following duty day.

While in the hospital, children are closely observed and cared for by skilled nursing personnel. Meals are provided.

Medication is administered.

Admission to Wee Care requires that children be evaluated by a medical provider. Monday through Friday from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m., parents may bring their child to the Pediatric Clinic without an appointment. Any other time, the child may be evaluated through the emergency room.

For each day of care, the sponsor will pay one day's subsistence, at the current inpatient rate. Payment upon admission is encouraged, since the business office closes at 4 p.m.

Parents should bring to the hospital those things they normally take to day care for their child and perhaps a special book, toy or blanket to help make their child more comfortable in the new surroundings. Schoolwork may be provided as well. The staff sets time aside for work, play and rest. Parents may visit or call the ward at any time to check on their child.

The Wee Care program is yet another way the 64th Medical Squadron reaches out to meet the needs of the Reese community.

The 54th FTS "A" advanced after defeating Lockheed 14-6 Monday and the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron 13-12 Tuesday. The 54th FTS "A" earned a first round bye after posting the best season record at 10-1.

The 35th FTS "B" team advanced after defeating the 64th Mission Support Squadron 19-15 Oct. 30, the 54th FTS "C" 20-12 Saturday and the 54th FTS "B" 6-0 Wednesday.

The championship game is a rematch of a regular season game that matched up the 54th FTS "A" and 35th FTS "B." The 54th FTS "A" won that game 30-21.

Capt. Chuck Greenwald, 54th FTS-A, deflects a pass intended for Lockheed's Tony Oliver. The 54th FTS-A won the game 14-6.
