Red blood cell supply dangerously low

Hello Friona Community!

As CEO of Our Blood Institute, it is my responsibility to alert you that after months of postpandemic struggles, our red blood cell supply is drifting into failure. This difficulty has been worsening despite our continuing, exhausting efforts to correct course. Sadly, our region has finally reached a critical breaking point that other parts of the country have been experiencing since mid-2022.

The goal was to have Our Blood Institute which consists of Coffee Memorial Blood Center, Texas, Arkansas & Oklahoma Blood Centers to find appointments and new drives to yield 1600 donors by Sunday, June 4 to avoid profound problems for our patients and hospitals. Unfortunately, we did not hit that goal. Because of this, we are likely to see consequences such as postponed elective surgeries, delayed transfusions, and the dividing of blood bags (and thus care) to stretch stocks. Our strained healthcare system will be burdened with more stress and frustration and will perform with loss donor efficiency and reliability. We already are missing chances to elevate care and save lives prior to a patient's transport to a hospital because we cannot stock ambulances with enough pints of type O whole blood.

We have not experienced this profound, sustained gap in donations for more than a generation. You are the answer that can keep a blood safety net under cancer, trauma, surgery, obstetric and other patients. we are leaning on the Friona Community and our other communities by asking them to step up to take care of their own. The Friona Community Blood Drive is Thursday, June 15th at the Calvary Baptist Fellowship Hall from 2 till 7 p.m. Please ask your family, friends, neighbors, co-workers and others to prevent needless suffering and, even death. Please donate!

With deepest concern, John Armitage, MD

Friona's New Water Park? — Quite a few people were out and about Sunday afternoon taking pictures of the flooding around town. Reeve Lake was a popular stop which included a submerged bridge and walking trail and the emergence of a super lake. After 10+ inches of rain, even the kid's playground went aquatic.

Xcel Energy offers tips to keep cool on a budget

Xcel Energy customers in Texas and New Mexico are seeing lower fuel costs on their monthly electricity bills this summer and can realize even more savings by boosting the energy efficiency of homes and businesses in relatively easy ways.

"Inflation is still a pressing issue for our customers, but we're finally seeing some relief on the fuel costs that make up a significant percentage of a monthly bill," said Adrian J. Rodriguez, president, Xcel Energy - New Mexico, Texas. "We continue to build cost efficiencies into how we generate and deliver power and remain committed to helping our customers find ways to reduce their bills."

The cost of natural gas that fuels more than 30% of the region's power supply has fallen significantly since last summer. Fuel costs on New Mexico bills are recalculated monthly and already reflect this trend. Texas customers will now see their fuel costs decrease as new, lower fuel cost factors go into effect this week, reducing a typical residential bill of 1,000 kilowatt-hours by approximately $6.35, or 4.1% less.

Customers can achieve further savings by making simple and low-cost efficiency improvements and adopting energy-saving habits. Xcel Energy offers tips to beat the heat and save money at its En-

Saving Tips page at xcelenergy.com, which includes tips such as:

- Using weather stripping to seal doors and windows so cool air can't escape.
- Raising the thermostat level into the 80s when no one is at home, and then gradually lowering it to around 78 degrees when the house is occupied.

- Investing in a "smart" thermostat that allows customers to program and/or adjust thermostat settings from a mobile device.
- Closing blinds and drapes during the heat of the day to block the heat from sunlight.
- Using fans to circulate air throughout the home, even when the air conditioning is on.
- Opening interior doors to allow cool air to circulate in the house. Or, if there is a part of the house not in use, closing it off to keep the cool air where it is desired.
- Putting off cooking, clothes drying and other chores that create heat inside the home until past 7 p.m.
- Shading air conditioning units to boost their efficiency.

Additionally, installing LED bulbs helps stretch savings further because they use 70-90% less energy and last 15 times longer. Xcel Energy has teamed up with select retailers in its Texas-New Mexico service area to provide discounts on certain LED bulbs. Customers can locate these retailers at the company's

Customers can take further steps toward ongoing savings by having their homes tested for air leaks that can make cooling and heating units less efficient and more costly to operate. Area energy efficiency contractors perform the testing for Xcel Energy and make energy-saving improvements free of charge. A list of approved contractors can be accessed on the Energy Efficiency Services page at xcelenergy.com.

Customers having difficulty paying their bills should contact Xcel Energy as soon as possible. Xcel Energy offers payment arrangements on a case-by-case basis, allowing customers to pay over time should they need to. "These pay arrangements vary according to individual circumstances, but most are from three to six months, said Canda Henry, Amarillo-based senior director in Xcel Energy's Customer Care group. "Customers facing loss of income or other hardships that prevent them from making payments can talk with one of our personal account representatives, who can connect them with agencies in their area that offer help with utility bills."

Personal account representatives will have a listing of appropriate community funds in each town served by Xcel Energy and will help qualified customers apply this funding to outstanding balances. Additionally, agents have been reaching out to customers who have qualified for energy assistance in the past to ensure they are aware of the resources available to them.

Customers wishing to visit with Xcel Energy about payment arrangements can call 1-800-895-4999 Monday through Friday or visit the customer support page at xcelenergy.com to learn about options and programs to help manage bills.

About June — The month of June has 30 days though on the pre-Caesar Roman calendar the month only had 29 days. When the winter days were given two months and more days were added to the calendar, June was given an additional day. June is also the 6th month of the year. But it wasn't always that way. In 46 BC, Julius Caesar modified the Roman Calendar by dividing the year into twelve months. by adding two months, the Julian calendar moved June from the 4th month to its current position. June also derives its name from the goddess Juno, Jupiter's wife.

Cochise

By John Grimaldi and David Bruce Smith

The renowned Apache chief, Cochise, was arguably one of the greatest Native American leaders. Little is known about his early life, according to History.com, but in "the mid-19th century, he had become a prominent leader of the Chiricahua band of Apache Indians living in southern Arizona and northern Mexico. Like other Chiricahua Apache, Cochise resented the encroachment of Mexican and American settlers on their traditional lands. Cochise led numerous raids on the settlers living on both sides of the border. Mexicans and Americans began to call for military protection and retribution."

By 1872 the U.S. government, fixed on winding down the Apache raids, convinced Cochise to settle on a reservation in Arizona. He agreed, reportedly stating, "the white man and the Indian are to drink of the same water, eat of the same bread, and be at peace.

Not long after, the chief took ill, and died June 8, 1874. He was buried in the Dragoon Mountains of Arizona.

The Grateful American Book Prize recommends The Wrath of Cochise by Terry Mort.

OPEC cuts production

By GasBuddy

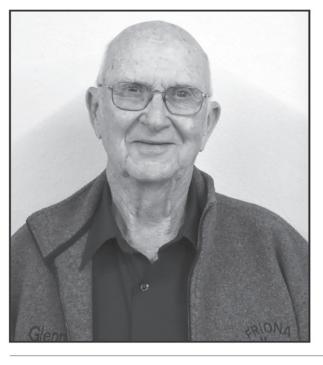

Average gasoline prices in Texas have fell 5.3 cents last week, averaging $3.04 per gallon, according to GasBuddy's survey of 13,114 stations in Texas. According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Texas was $2.64 while the most expensive was $4.17.

The national average price of gasoline fell 3.9 cents last week, averaging $3.51 per gallon. The national average price of diesel fell 3.4 cents last week and stands at $3.88 per gallon.

"While the national average drifted lower last week as oil prices cooled off, the drop may be temporary. OPEC+ agreed Sunday to additional production cuts, while Saudi Arabia is going above and beyond and cutting July production. As a result, oil prices are likely to see upward pressure as global supplies, which have remained tight, promise to become even tighter as a result," said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy.

De Haan continued. "Last time OPEC+ agreed to cut production, it led to a temporarily rally in the price of oil, but the cut failed to hold oil prices up. OPEC+ and Saudi Arabia are likely hoping that the rise in oil prices will stick longer this time, as the Saudi economy relies on oil prices north of $81 per barrel. Any rise in average prices should be fairly small, and we're still extremely unlikely to make a run at record prices anytime soon."

GasBuddy data is compiled from more than 11 million weekly price reports covering over 150,000 gas stations across the country.

"the hand of the Lord was against them."

By Brett Hoyle, Pastor, First Baptist Church

Some phrases you never want to hear. The doctor says, "You have cancer," the DPS trooper informs you "Your child has died," or a spouse screams "I want a divorce," are phrases that crumble the walls of self-reliance and shatter dreams permanently. An equally devastating phrase repeated multiple times in scripture is "the hand of the Lord was against them." This was the indictment against Egypt as Pharaoh refused to let God's people go, the Philistines in Ashdod as they had the ark of the covenant among them, and of the Philistines when Samuel led Israel. These instances would be somewhat expected since these were enemies of God's people, but the grim reality is that scripture says "the hand of the Lord was against them" in regards to Israel more than it says it regarding Israel's enemies.

Deuteronomy 2:15 is one such place one finds this phrase when God sentenced an entire generation of Israelites to wander and wither in the wilderness for four decades. Their unbelief and disobedience caused the Lord's hand to be against them, which was a constant danger for future generations of Hebrews. The prophet Samuel proclaimed the simple truth of the matter in 1 Samuel 12:14-15 when he said, "If you will fear the Lord and serve him and obey his voice and not rebel against the commandment of the Lord, and if both you and the king who reigns over you will follow the Lord your God, it will be well. But if you will not obey the voice of the Lord, but rebel against the commandment of the Lord, then the hand of the Lord will be against you and your king." Receiving the hand of God's favor is experienced in one's life when you fear Him and obey His word, and the result is that things go well for you because you are following God's good plan for you. In a culture that is begging for God's judgment, and where the divine wrath of God's abandonment is being poured out so clearly (Romans 1), you must make a choice with you life of whether you will go your own way, or follow the path of fearing God and obeying His word. Going your own way won't pay off in the end, while fearing and following God will result in tremendous blessings on both sides of eternity.

Panhandle Parables

"When It Rains, It Pours!"

By Jeff Procter, Minister, 6th Street Church of Christ

The phrase that serves as the title of this little story is often associated with negative things happening what seems to be all at once. But this year we can take this phrase literally. We have had blessings in abundance in liquid form the last few weeks and we are thankful. I am sure the weather will cycle as it has since the days of Noah and we will dry out, and words like drought and dust storms will once again be in the vocabulary of those sitting drinking coffee in various places in town.

The reality is life does have its peaks and valleys. There will be "chickens one month and feathers the next." Learning to find value in the desperate times, as well as the good times is a very godly characteristic we call contentment. Contentment, as a term, is sometimes confused with lack of ambition. Yet biblically speaking that is not the case. Contentment actually shows the strength of an individual that is not controlled by circumstances, good or bad. It shows a faith in the One who is greater.

Paul says it this way, "I know what it is to be in need, and I know what it is to have plenty. I have learned the secret of being content in any and every situation, whether well fed or hungry, whether living in plenty or in want. I can do all this through him who gives me strength." Phil. 4:12-13 NIV.

In a culture that thrives on unsatisfied appetites, it would behoove us to see this truth. Learning to do all things even when blessings don't fall like rain, the road is difficult and the climb pretty steep, that we trust the Lord is good and praise Him regardless of our situation will give us contentment and with that

Being Reverent, Part 2

By Teena Hughs

Last week, I said that I would be offering some suggestions from Got Questions and Cindi McMenamin as to how we can become more reverent in our daily lives. So, let's start with ourselves.

Do we have reverence for ourselves, for life, for others? Do we treat our bodies as a temple or 'dwelling place' of God (1 Corinthians 6:19), or do we abuse our bodies with what we eat and drink? Do we take care of ourselves with exercise and regular checkups? McMenamin points out that as God "dwells in believers, we are to care for, nourish, protect, and show awe for the fact that we are 'fearfully and wonderfully made" (Psalm 139:14).

Never forget the importance of prayer and a relationship with Jesus; serving Him with our hearts, hands, and feet; and studying His Word. These are the ways we truly get to know Jesus. We are transformed into the likeness of Jesus by the Holy Spirit, and as Got Questions says, "the more we grow in knowledge and understanding, the more reverence we feel toward Him."

McMenamin points out that when we talk to other people about God, we should be reverent to them and speak to them "in a gentle, non-judgmental, and respectful manner." Even though this is sometimes difficult, 1 Peter 3:15 says we are to "sanctify Christ as Lord in your hearts, always being ready to make a defense to everyone who asks you to give an account for the hope that is in you, yet with gentleness and reverence."

Are we obedient to God's Word? Do we believe it when Jesus said in John 14:6, "I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me."? We show reverence to Jesus when we don't let other belief systems and religions interfere with the Word. We also show reverence to Jesus when we accept His Word as it is stated; not trying to change it to say what we think it should say.

Something I never thought of as a way to show reverence to God is by being a good steward of the earth. God created the earth; He had a reason for every single thing He did. Living down here, I have seen stories and pictures of how people trash the rivers in the summer. I don't understand that. God provides the water for recreation; why can't we take care of it so everyone can enjoy it. We show reverence to God by taking care of what He has given us!

In short, to practice reverence daily, we must treasure God's name; we must treat ourselves and others respectfully; and, we must live holy and blameless lives.

Last week, I began by telling you about Bob. His wife has a form of dementia. We don't know what it is, but she is so sweet and cheerful. Some days are better than others. Some days you don't think anything is wrong; other days, she asks or tells you the same thing over and over. Bob is so good to her. I have seen him get the slightest upset with her maybe two times. Bob is reverent to God by the way he treats his wife, and he is also reverent to her.

One day, I told Bob about the conversation Feller and I had about him. He told me that he can't do much, but what he does, he tries to do well! If we all try to do what we can, and do it to the best of our ability, we are being reverent to God. We won't be successful with everything we do for God, but we will be reverent! People know the difference between real and fake. Being reverent speaks volumes to others and changes lives.

State Sales Tax Revenue Totaled $3.8 Billion in May

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar announced that state sales tax revenue totaled $3.84 billion in May, 4.1 percent more than in May 2022. The majority of May sales tax revenue is based on sales made in April and remitted to the agency in May.

"The rate of sales tax revenue growth continues to moderate, with the increase in May compared with a year ago - representing the lowest annual rate of increase observed in the 26 months since the end of pandemic restrictions," Hegar said. "This slower growth is expected and in line with the economic outlook we detailed in our Biennial Revenue Estimate, as both the rate of inflation and growth in real economic activity slow as demand cools in the face of higher interest rate policy and reduced fiscal stimulus from the federal government.

"While receipts from the oil and gas mining sector continued their large year-over-year gains, with remittances once again nearly 50 percent higher than they were the same month last year, growth in receipts from other sectors driven by business spending stalled. Receipts from the construction, manufacturing and wholesale trade sectors barely exceeded year-ago levels.

"Remittances from the retail trade sector were negative in May compared with May last year, making it the second time in three months receipts from retail trade have dipped below year-ago levels. Declines were evident in most subsectors, including building materials and home improvement stores, clothing and accessories stores, electronics and appliance stores, furniture and home goods stores, general merchandisers, and sporting goods and hobby stores.

"Restaurant receipts increased at about the inflation rate for food away from home in April."

Total sales tax revenue for the three months ending in May 2023 was up 5.6 percent compared with the same period a year ago. Sales tax is the largest source of state funding for the state budget, accounting for 56 percent of all tax collections.

Texas collected the following revenue from other major taxes: (1) motor vehicle sales and rental taxes — $599 million, down 1 percent from May 2022; (2) motor fuel taxes - $340 million, up 6 percent from May 2022; (3) oil production tax — $497 million, down 17 percent from May 2022; (4) natural gas production tax — $199 million, down 52 percent from May 2022; (5) hotel occupancy tax — $71 million, up 4 percent from May 2022; and (6) alcoholic beverage taxes — $156 million, up 2 percent from May 2022.

Fiscal 2023 franchise tax collections totaled $6.22 billion year-todate through May. Compared with collections through May 2022, year-to-date franchise tax collections were up 20.7 percent, an extraordinary increase driven by boom conditions in 2022 following the pandemic as well as pricing dynamics in the high inflation environment driving corporate revenues up faster than costs.

Abbott, Patrick spar over tax relief

Gov. Greg Abbott late last week warned lawmakers to be prepared for several special sessions to pass a tax reform bill that he will accept, as well as a school voucher plan that failed to pass during the regular session.

Abbott and Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick are at odds over how to deliver more than $17 billion in property tax relief, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

During the first special session, called immediately after the regular session ended May 29, the House of Representatives quickly passed a tax relief bill that Abbott supports, then adjourned. The governor said the measure could result in eventually eliminating property taxes. The Senate has not taken action. Patrick, who presides over the Senate, countered that eliminating all property taxes would result in local sales taxes more than doubling to 19%.

"Whenever sales taxes underperform, property taxes will immediately go back up," Patrick tweeted.

Speaking before the Texas Public Policy Foundation last Friday, Abbott proposed reducing the overall tax burden through population growth and an expanded business market paying taxes.

"Texans want to own their own property, not rent it from government," Abbott said.

PUC chairman resigns from panel

Peter Lake has resigned as chairman of the Texas Public Utility Commission, effective July 1. Appointed in the aftermath of the widespread outages caused by Winter Storm Uri in February 2021, Lake oversaw the overhaul of the embattled commission, including adopting weatherization standards for power plants and rebuilding the beleaguered Texas power grid, according to The Dallas Morning News.

"Together we've overcome sometimes seemingly insurmountable challenges and delivered on our promise to Texans that we'd keep the lights on," Lake said in a statement.

Meanwhile, another PUC commissioner appointed last August to the five-member board was unanimously confirmed by the Senate in the closing days of the regular session. Kathleen Jackson of Beaumont previously served on a number of boards and commissions, including the Texas Water Development Board.

Final COVID-19 workers' compreport

The workers' compensation division of the Texas Department of Insurance has issued its final update of COVID-19 worker's comp claims. By April 30, insurance carriers reported nearly 100,000 COVID-19 claims and 472 fatalities. A little more than half of the overall claims and of the fatalities involved first responders and correctional officers.

Because of the low number of new claims, no further updates are anticipated.

Historic investments made in higher education

Texas higher education leaders appear pleased with funding allocated by the Legislature during the regular session, with a record $5 billion allocated for the next two years.

"The 88th Legislature showed Texas' commitment to expanding opportunity through higher education and our determination to be at the forefront of higher education research, development, and innovation," said Commissioner Harrison Keller of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

Several bills overhauled and increased state funding for community colleges and established the Texas University Fund to increase the state's investment in research at the state's public universities. Several other programs should expand access to higher education, including the Texas Leadership Scholars Program, as well as increased funding for student financial aid.

Xcel Energy plans solar plants, eyes battery storage in New Mexico and Texas

After extensive evaluation of proposals for new power generating resources, Xcel Energy has announced plans to move forward with three large solar generating facilities near existing power plants in its Texas-New Mexico service area and extend an existing power purchase contract for firm, dispatchable power generation.

A supplementary recommendation Xcel Energy is considering includes battery storage projects that can store energy generated for use in different time periods.

"As clean energy technologies evolve, a diverse resource mix is of vital importance to ensure continued high reliability while maintaining the affordability of the power we provide," said Adrian J. Rodriguez, president, Xcel Energy -New Mexico, Texas. "Our region's abundant sunshine provides some of the best solar power opportunities in the nation and these new projects help us fulfill commitments to our employees and host communities while utilizing one of our greatest natural resources."

The new companyowned solar facilities would be located at Cunningham Generating Station near Hobbs, New Mexico, and Plant X Generating Station near Earth, Texas. Both facilities currently house multiple natural gasfueled generating units that were placed in service as far back 1950s and 1960s and have reliably served regional customers for decades. Locating solar facilities at these locations supports the existing workforce and host communities while saving customers money by using existing connections to the power grid.

Xcel Energy is also interested in installing battery resources on the system that can store energy generated by other power plants for later use. Proposals for fourhour duration battery storage will be further evaluated and potentially proposed to state regulators for approval, along with the solar facilities and power purchase agreement extension.

new opportunities that will extend these benefits into the future."

Two solar plants near Hobbs would have a combined nameplate capacity of 268 megawatts and the facility at Plant X near Earth would be constructed with a nameplate capacity of 150 megawatts, providing enough clean solar energy to power about 140,000 typical Xcel Energy customer homes on average. Given the intermittent nature of solar generation, total accredited capacity from these facilities would total approximately 280 megawatts.

More detail on the solar technologies to be used and the process for building the facilities at Cunningham and Plant X will be released later this summer when proposals are submitted to regulatory bodies in both New Mexico and Texas. Decisions would be expected in 2024 with the new solar plants in service by 2026 and 2027.

The projects were chosen from both internal and external proposals that were solicited through an all-source, competitive solicitation issued last fall, following review and agreement from an independent evaluator. Xcel Energy's request for proposals sought the best options for replacing retiring power plants with reliable and affordable generating resources. These projects were selected as the lowest cost power generating resources to continue reliable service to Xcel Energy's Texas and New Mexico customers.

The selection process did not include proposals for replacing generating capacity from the planned 2028 retirement of two coal-fueled generators at Tolk Generating Station in Texas. Xcel Energy will take up this issue as part of its Integrated Resource Planning, or IRP, process and will file its IRP proposal in October 2023. This will be followed by another request for proposals to be issued in mid-2024 to select replacement resources for Tolk's retiring coal generation.

Close to 40% of the region's electricity is provided by renewable energy, mostly from area wind energy facilities. Xcel Energy has saved its customers close to $700 million in generating costs from wind energy alone since 2019 and expects to realize even more savings by adding additional solar generating capacity. These investments are also moving Xcel Energy closer to the goal of reducing carbon emissions by 80% by 2030.

Clean energy, a smarter, more efficient power grid and more tools for customers to control their energy use and costs are part of a larger transformation of the region's power system.
