We can stop FWA!

by Maj. Edmund Bloom Reese Staff Judge Advocate

Preventing, identifying and correcting fraudulent, wasteful, and abusive practices is critical to the Air Force mission. In this time of a shrinking defense budget, the Air Force simply cannot afford any unnecessary drain on its financial resources.

Therefore, all Air Force members have a duty to report known or suspected fraud, waste and abuse;
this article will briefly review the procedures that

Air Force members can use to do just that.

Before examining those procedures, it may be helpful to review exactly what the term fraud, waste and abuse means. Air Force regulations provide specific definitions of each word.

"Fraud" refers to any intentional deprivation designed to unlawfully deprive the Air Force of something of value or to secure from the Air Force for an individual the benefit, privilege, allowance or consideration to which he or she is not entitled. Fraud also includes conflicts of interest cases, criminal irregularities and the unauthorized disclosure of official information relating to procurement and disposal matters.

"Waste" is defined as the extravagant, careless or needless expenditure of Air Force funds or the consumption of Air Force property that results from deficient practices, systems, controls or decisions. Similarly, "Abuse" refers to the intentional wrongful or improper use of Air Force resources.

An individual who suspects or knows of any fraudulent, wasteful or abusive practice must report it to an appropriate authority. Those authorities include the individual's immediate supervisor, commander, inspector or inspector general. In addition, the Air Force Audit Agency, the Air Force Office of Special Investigations or security police may also be notified.

The individual making the FWA report is encouraged to use command channels before elevating the matter to a higher command level. In this way, lower-level commanders and supervisors may be able to rectify and correct immediately the fraudulent or wasteful practice. Or that same commander or supervisor may be able to address any misperceptions or misunderstandings surrounding the perceived fraudulent or wasteful practice.

In any event, however, the reporting individual is not required to use command channels.

Obviously, some situations will arise in which an individual will feel more comfortable reporting a perceived fraudulent, wasteful or abusive act to an authority outside the immediate chain of command. What is critical is that the individual identify the suspected fraudulent or wasteful practice.

How, then, to report suspected FWA? A number of methods are available — disclosure using Air Force Form 65; a letter; personal disclosure to appropriate IG personnel; or use of telephone "hotlines" specifically established to receive FWA reports. An individual reporting suspected FWA may remain anonymous or decline to have his or her name used during the course of any subsequent investigation. If an individual chooses to release his or her name, he or she may designate that the name remain confidential. For obvious reasons, an individual desiring feedback information from any subsequent investigation must identify himself or herself at the time he or she initially reports the perceived fraudulent, wasteful or abusive practice.

No one should fear that reprisals will follow an FWA report. The right to make such a report necessarily carries with it a right to do so without fear of reprisal. Air Force military and civilian personnel who believe that their right to make a FWA report has been impaired or who suspect that they have been targeted for reprisal(s) after making such a report should immediately report specific reasons for their beliefs through either command channels or to the appropriate grievance or complaint system. In this way, the integrity of the FWA prevention program can be ensured.

Once a FWA report has been made, it's not unusual for the judge advocate's office to get involved with the investigation. Understandably, a commander must ensure that an investigation is proceeding in accordance with Air Force regulations and with any applicable law; the JAG will assist the commander and his appointed investigator with that determination.

Following the investigation, the office reviews the legal sufficiency of a FWA investigation for factual completeness and compliance with law and regulation. Subsequent to the investigation, the JAG continues to assist the commander in implementing a remedies program to prevent similar recurrences of FWA. From a JAG perspective, two issues may arise: (1) Has the individual who committed the FWA also subjected himself or herself to criminal or administrative liability? and (2) Do any civil or administrative remedies exist to allow the Air Force to recoup any of its losses? The JAG will provide the commander with answers to these questions.

With regard to criminal liability, it will come as no surprise that individuals who commit FWA are also breaking the law. Military and civilian personnel who commit fraudulent, wasteful or abusive acts may violate federal or state criminal statutes as well as Air Force regulations. In addition, military members may also violate provisions of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The JAG will advise the commander as to whether the individuals committing FWA appear to have run afoul of the law and whether punitive sanctions are warranted. Such sanctions could involve letters of reprimand, nonjudicial punishment or even a trial by courts-martial for military members. For civilians, potential sanctions include administrative action, demotion, firing and referral of charges to the U.S. attorney for criminal prosecution in federal district court.

The JAG is not concerned solely with any criminal issues arising out of a FWA investigation. Equally important is the Air Force's need to recoup any available amounts lost to FWA. Depending upon the circumstances involved, the Air Force may have civil or administrative remedies available by which to recover these funds. The JAG will review the facts of each case to determine whether any legal remedies exist and will advise the commander how best to go about recovering financial resources lost to FWA.

The wing inspector general administers the FWA prevention program at the base level. Individuals who have already reported suspected FWA through their command channels but who are unsatisfied with that process, or individuals who are uncomfortable with reporting through their chain of command are encouraged to meet with the IG personally to voice their concerns.

Alternatively, the IG has established a 24-hour telephone hotline to take reports of suspected fraudulent, wasteful or abusive practices. Individuals may dial 6547 and then use voice mail to record pertinent details of perceived FWA.

CFC virtues cited during kickoff breakfast

Members mindful of people helped

by A1C Tabatha M. Eanes
Wing Public Affairs

A kickoff breakfast for the Combined Federal Campaign was held Sept. 15 at the officers open mess.

Approximately 130 key workers were in attendance. Guest speakers included David Gutierrez and Glenn Cochran, both volunteers of the Lubbock United Way.

While at the breakfast, members spoke of the importance CFC holds for them.

"The CFC has a little more importance to me due to my family being touched personally through individual help and the volunteer programs that have touched friends and co-workers," said TSgt. Walt Lilley of social actions.

"CFC gives people a chance to help out organizations whose primary goal is to help others," said MSgt. Donald Carroll, 64th Medical Squadron, first sergeant.

The kickoff breakfast was followed by a tour downtown to some of the local organizations sponsored by the CFC. Pictorial coverage of the tour will appear in the Oct. 1 edition of the Roundup.

Thousands turn out for air show

An estimated 60,000 South Plains residents turned out for Saturday's air show and community appreciation day at Reese, thrilling to the aerial demonstrations and marvelling at the technology represented by the different aircraft on display.

Visitors like the youngster at center enjoyed the event, taking in all the day had to offer, such as (clockwise from top right) the Navy's Blue Angels' performance, static displays like the T-1A Jayhawk, the Blue Angel autograph session following their performance and the numerous concession stands.

Other highlights of the day included fly-bys of F-111, F-117 Stealth Fighter and the wing's T-1A, T-37 and T-38 aircraft; pararescue demonstrations; and a demonstration by the Christian Eagles aerobatics team.

OPG command changes today

Command of the 64th Operations Group will change hands today as Col. Frank Geisler takes the reins during a 10 a.m. ceremony in front of base operations.

Colonel Geisler replaces Lt. Col. Julius "Bo" McRee, who has served as interim group commander for the past three months.

Colonel Geisler comes to Reese from Luke AFB, Ariz., where he served as deputy commander of the 58th OPG. He is a 21-year service veteran with more than 3,000 flying hours in the F-4, F-5, YF-110 and F-15A/C/E aircraft.

Full details on the change of command will appear in the Oct. 1 Roundup.

ACC vice commander praises Jayhawk

by MSgt. Ralph Monson Wing Public Affairs

The T-1A Jayhawk' is a "high tech" aircraft that will greatly enhance the pilot training program, according to the vice commander of Air Combat Command.

Lt. Gen. Thad A. Wolfe made that observation after flying a condensed training sortie in the T-1A here Sept. 10. The flight was part of a specialized undergraduate pilot training orientation given the general, who was also the guest speaker for the graduation of Class 93-14.

"It's a magnificent airplane," said General Wolfe. "The avionics, the glass cockpit ... it is just first rate."

The general, a command pilot with nearly 4,000 flying hours, sees the sophistication of the T-1A as one of the major advantages the new aircraft brings to the pilot training program.

"Flying in this aircraft (T-1A) is going to train these pilots beyond what

MSgt. Ralph Monson

many of them will see when they get out in the operational units," said General Wolfe. "They are going to already have a familiarity with many of the systems that we will be using as we upgrade cockpits."

Although the general only flew the aircraft for a couple of hours, he said he felt as though he had been given a good overview of the airlift/tanker training syllabus. General Wolfe noted that his sortie was a combination of what the student would experience over the length of the program.

The general said the SUPT program is too new to totally define the direct benefits the operational flying commands will receive, but, he said his intuition tells him there will be significant advantages to specialized training.

"For example," said General Wolfe, "The students are getting into very high tech equipment in the T-1A. That has got to be very helpful, also, the focus and the challenges being presented to those flying the T-38 in the bomber/fighter track and the aggressiveness of that training will certainly be helpful."

General Wolfe said he was excited to see that the crossflow of pilots from flying commands such as ACC to Air Education and Training Command is increasing.

"I have always believed that having a good crossflow of operational pilots back through the training system and, in return, gaining people who have honed their basic airmanship skills in the training system is very helpful," said the former T-38 instructor pilot.

Citing the recent reorganization that yielded the new Air Combat and Air Education and Training commands, the general gave enthusiastic praise for these dramatic examples of the Air Force's team spirit.

"While we may reside in separate commands," he said, "it is the combination of all that the Air Force does and the tremendous cooperation among the commands that makes us the world's greatest air force."

CHAMPUS begins new billing year

by Elva C. Whitehead Reese Health Benefits Advisor

CHAMPUS deductible for outpatient care starts over for the new fiscal year Oct. 1.

For services CHAMPUS patients receive Oct. 1 through Sept. 30, 1994, most beneficiaries will pay the first $150 (for one person) or the first $300 (for a family) of allowable outpatient medical bills. The only exceptions are the eligible family members of active-duty military sponsors E-4 or below. These families will pay an annual outpatient deductible of $50 for one person or $100 for the whole family.

The limit, or catastrophic "cap," on how much service families will have to pay for CHAMPUS-covered medical bills in a fiscal year also starts over Oct. 1. The cap is $1,000 for active-duty families, and $7,500 for all other CHAMPUS-eligible families.

The cap helps protect families from catastrophically high medical expenses. The deductibles and cost-shares paid by the family are applied to the cap over the period of a fiscal year. When a family reaches the cap in a fiscal year, CHAMPUS then pays all additional allowable costs for covered care for the rest of that fiscal year.

Bills for care not covered by CHAMPUS and charges beyond those CHAMPUS determines to be reasonable or allowable must be paid in full by family members or their sponsors. Likewise, costs paid by families under CHAMPUS Program for the Handicapped are not counted toward the cap. Dependents of reservists are not eligible for medical care unless the sponsor has been ordered to active duty for 30 days.

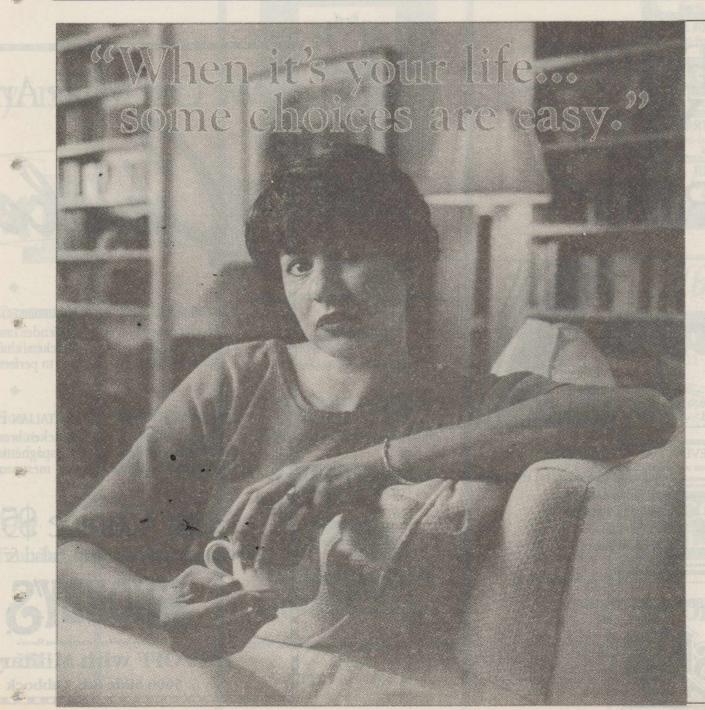

The CHAMPUS processing center makes every effort to process claims and mails out explanation of benefits to patients within 30 days of receipt of billing information from the patient or provider of services. For more information, call 3581.

Commanders'; crew chiefs' names put on jets

Reese and other pilot training bases in the command recently implemented a policy of painting the names of their wing and flying squadron commanders on their jets, along with the names of the crew chief for each aircraft. Pictured at jetside (from top) are Wing Commander Col. Roger Brady and Douglas Lance, 35th Flying Training Squadron Commander Lt. Col. Don Stiffler and Dan Stoutenberg, 52nd FTS Commander Lt. Col. John Mazurowski and Earnest Barbee, and 54th FTS Commander Lt. Col. Terry Gilbert and Tim Martinets.

Power outage set

A power outage is scheduled from 8 to 11 a.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in Reese Village while electrical work is done in housing. The outage is broken into two phases for the convenience of housing residents.

Call TSgt. Ruddy Almonte or SrA. Darrell Rieves at 3589 for details.

Deadlines change

Short notices for the Roundup, such as "Notes," "Updates" and the like are due to the public affairs office, Bldg. 11, by noon Monday the desired week of publication.

For full-length articles, the deadline is noon the previous Friday. For more information, call SSgt. Mike Breslin at 3843.

Hispanic month continues

The following events are scheduled throughout the next week in conjunction with Hispanic Heritage Month:

□ Today: The officers open mess will be the site for this year's "Baile Grande" featuring one of Lubbock's top Hispanic bands – Cervantez and Co. — at 8 p.m. The event will also feature the San Patricio Ballet de Folklorico dancers performing traditional Hispanic folk dances at 9 p.m. Cost is $5.50 per person. Contact Sandi Montez at 3289 or Sandra Briseno at 3499 for tickets. Open to the base, Lubbock and surrounding communities.

□ Sunday: A cultural, bilingual Mass will be celebrated at 9:45 a.m. in the base chapel. The Hispanic heritage committee will also sponsor a reception immediately following the Mass.

☐ Wednesday: Prizes for the coloring contest will be presented at a $3 Mexican luncheon from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the child development center. For more information contact Diane Hernandez at 3226 or call the child development center at 3541.

Oct. 1: The youth center will host a Friday night "Hispanic style" for children 5 through 12 from 7 p.m. to midnight. Several Mexican games, along with a piñata, will be available. Cost is $5 for members and $7 for non-members.

Women's group forms

A women's support group is being formed by the base family advocacy officer for Reese mothers. Anyone interested should contact Capt. Sharon Bailey ay 3739 for details.

Youth soccer postponed

The youth soccer program has been postponed until further notice. For details, call the youth center at 3820.

Chairperson needed

A volunteer Red Cross chairperson is needed. According to family support officials, interested individuals should be dedicated, good-natured, "but most of all, have a big heart."

The chairperson will represent the volunteers in the base hospital. Duties will include attending board meetings, updating job descriptions and orienting new volunteers.

In addition, a volunteer administrative assistant is needed in the base legal office. Call 3305 for details on either position.

Host families sought

Any families or couples who would like to sponsor international pilot training students from Spain should call the international military student officer, Capt. Amy Rosenquest, at 3354.

Firing range open

The base firing range will be open for privately owned weapons firing from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. All pistol-calibered handguns and rifles chambered in .22 LR and .223 Remington may be fired. No magnum rounds may be fired.

All active-duty members, Lockheed workers, retirees and dependents are welcome. Call 3848 for details

Flu shot time returns

The annual influenza immunization campaign will begin Monday. All active-duty members must get the vaccine; times will be established for immunization personnel to visit base squadrons to administer shots.

Times and location will be publicized through unit orderly rooms. When reporting for a shot, members must bring their immunization records as well as any medical waivers prohibiting the flu shot they have, if any. Waivers must be presented in order to avoid a no-show notification.

Flu shots will be offered to retirees, dependents and civilian employees after active-duty members are inoculated. The active-duty program is expected to be completed in late October or early November. For more information, call 3846.

Family support plans class

The Reese Family Support Center has scheduled a home-based business seminar from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday in the FSC, also conducted by the Tech Small Business Development Center. Space is limited; call 3305 or 3310 to make a reservation.

Chapel men, women meet

The Reese Men of the Chapel will hold its monthly devotional breakfast at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. The speaker will be Chaplain (Maj.) Donald Hagler, recently arrived from England. All men on base are welcome.

The Reese Women of the Chapel, another ecumenical organization, will sponsor a couples communication seminar at 7 p.m. Tuesday. Gordon Jones, director of the Navigator Ministry to Reese and Texas Tech University, will conduct the seminar. The seminar is open to everyone on base.

Talent show upcoming

Competition registration for the base talent show will be held Oct. 1 on the first floor (north end) of Bldg. 230. Categories are male and female vocals (not self-accompanied), vocal duet, male and female vocal groups, instrumental solo, mixed instrumental group and performing arts (drama, dance, music and other specialties).

Call SrA. Joseph Jackson at 3408 for details.

Top Three induct members

An induction ceremony for the Reese Top Three Association will be held at 3 p.m. Oct. 1 in the Reese Enlisted Open Mess. All on base are welcome.

Hospital classes set

Classes on breast feeding will be offered to new parents beginning in October at the 64th Medical Squadron. Topics will cover common problems and solutions with breast feeding, as well as breast pumps. For more information, call the obstetrics/gynecology clinic at 3593.

The deadline for entering the base photo contest is Oct. 1. The annual contest is sponsored by the Reese Skills Development Center and will include three categories: black and white prints, color prints and color slides. According to contest officials, each contestant may submit up to three entries in each category. Entries may be submitted at the center (Bldg. 340).

Winning entries in the local competition will be forwarded to the AETC photo contest at Keesler AFB, Miss., in November. For additional information and entry forms, contact the center at 3141.

Preparing for change

A workshop on "Preparing for Change" will be held from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Oct. 5 in the Reese Family Support Center. Dealing with conflict that arises from changes such as divorce, relocation, retirement and the like will be discussed, with emphasis on how to move beyond change.

R.S.V.P. to 3305 by Oct. 1.

GRE, GMAT offered

The Graduate Record Exam will be offered Oct. 13 and Dec. 15 on base; the Graduate Management Admissions Test will be offered Oct. 18 and Jan. 18.

The first administration of either test is free to military members. Call the education center at 3634.

Tennis courts get overhaul

Fitness center officials ask that base tennis players refrain from using the courts until further notice so they can be resurfaced. Call Gary Grant at 3783 for details.

Racquetball court closed

The fitness center has closed racquetball court No. 3 for conversion to an exercise room. For more information, call the center at 3207.

Gridiron action kicks off in IM league

As the end of the second week of the intramural football season draws to a close, the bulk of the National League has yet to taste defeat.

As of Thursday morning, the 35th Flying Training Squadron, 52nd FTS, 64th Operations Support Squadron and 64th Civil Engineering Squadron were all undefeated, as the 35th stood atop the division with three victories.

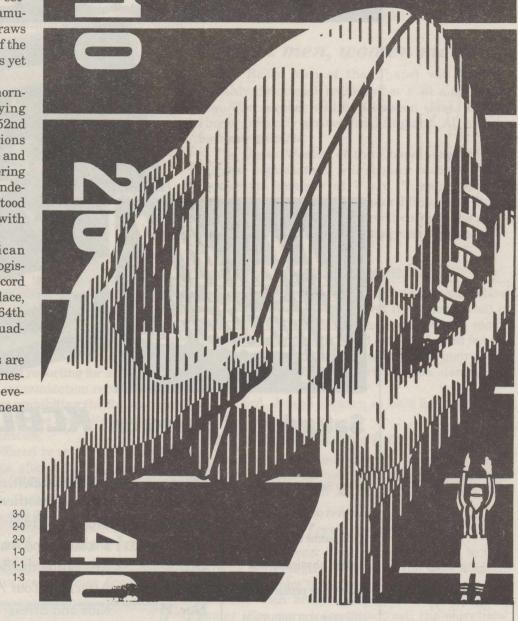

In the American League, the 64th Logistics Squadron's 2-1 record put them in first place, just ahead of the 64th Mission Support Squadron at 1-1.

Intramural games are played Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings on the fields near the youth center.

The region's first free-standing Children's Hospital is now open. It's Methodist Children's Hospital, and it was designed from the ground up to meet the unique needs of children and families throughout this area. Our new Children's Hospital includes:

- •Spacious private rooms
- The region's only Emergency Center just for kids
- A 12-bed Children's Critical Care Unit
- A Child Life Specialist who helps with school work, meets with families and keeps spirits lifted!

- Playrooms with gazebos, aquariums, books, games and more
- Family waiting rooms and lounges
- A magical airplane sculpture in the atrium that lets you know right away you're in a place where kids come first

Best of all, Methodist Children's Hospital is staffed with a dedicated team of professionals whose total focus is on the care and comfort of children, and only children. But then, that's just what you should expect from Methodist Children's Hospital because "We Love Kids."
