35th FTS gets new leader

Command of the 35th Flying Training Squadron will change hands Monday as Lt. Col. Donald Stiffler replaces Lt. Col. Rick Robinson during a retreat ceremony at 4 p.m. in front of Bldg. 800.

Colonel Robinson is departing to attend Air War College at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Colonel Stiffler entered the Air Force Academy in 1970 right after graduating high school. After graduating from the academy, he earned his wings at Moody AFB, Ga. Assignments since then have included Columbus AFB, Miss.; Holloman AFB, N.M.; and Soesterberg AB, The Netherlands. Most recently, he has served as chief of wing safety at Reese, where he has been since 1991.

Before going to safety, he was an instructor pilot and operations officer in the 35th FTS. The Ohio native said this is something he has looked forward to.

"Like most pilots, commanding a flying squadron has been a goal since I entered the Air Force," he said. "I feel very fortunate to have been given the opportunity to lead such a fine unit."

The colonel's military decorations include the Meritorious Service Medal with one oak leaf cluster and the Air Force Commendation Medal with one oak leaf cluster.

OSS commander signs on

The 64th Operations Support Squadron will get a new leader today as Lt. Col. B.C. Hall replaces Lt. Col. Michael Miller during a 10 a.m. change-of-command ceremony at Reese Base Operations.

Colonel Miller is going to Maxwell AFB, Ala., where he will attend the Air War College.

Colonel Hall is a 1974 graduate of Texas A&M. He picked up his master's degree in management from Webster College in 1977.

The Texas native earned his wings at Columbus AFB, Miss., in 1978. Assignments since then have included Travis AFB, Calif.; Columbus; and Randolph AFB, Texas. Among several other positions he held at Randolph, he was part of the ATC Inspector General and Standardization/Evaluation Teams and served as executive officer to the ATC vice commander.

Colonel Hall came to Reese in 1992, serving as the commander of the 52nd Flying Training Squadron before becoming a special assistant to the 64th Operations Group

Why seat belts? Safety officials stress value of restraint devices

by Chuck Gerrior
wing safety

Why seat belts?

Texas state law and Air Force Regulation 127-7 require the use of seat belts and restraining devices while operating government and private motor vehicles. When you operate a GOV or PMV without using installed devices, you are violating the law.

The use of seat belts should not be just a matter of satisfying the law. Extensive testing has shown that the survivability rate in a mishap is much higher when using the devices. You should use seat belts to prevent injury to your body.

To measure the protection seat belts give you, take a look at a car in which a person was forcibly thrown against the windshield. Consider what happened to that person. Parents should consider the safety of their children by keeping them secured in the proper size child restraint devices. If your children outgrow their first restraint device, don't wait to get another of the proper size. Do it now.

In government vehicles, it is the responsibility of the driver and senior occupant to ensure all riders are buckled up.

Develop the habit of fastening your seat belt before starting the engine. It only takes a few seconds. Your worries about surviving on the road will be reduced, plus your chances of surviving a crash will increase tremendously.

In automobiles with airbags, seat belts are still required to ensure you survive the crash. An airbag is a "supplemental restraint system," designed primarily for a head-on crash. When struck from the side, you need your seat belt fastened to hold you in place.

It's been proven time and time again that seat belts can save lives. Use yours and don't become another statistic. Since January, there have been several seat belt "saves" for personnel assigned to Reese. On more than one occasion their vehicles were totally destroyed, but they walked away with minor injuries or none at all.

Air Force vision: "Air Force people building the world's most respected air and space force . . . global power and reach for America."

Quality Air Force

by SSgt. Curtis M. Montez
64th Security Police Squadron

Rigid, inflexible, harsh, unforgiving, etc., etc., etc....

This grouping of words, along with several others of this nature, describe the way communities perceived law enforcement officials in years past. The establishment of laws were centered primarily around the end means, which were then enforced by the strict letter of the law.

There is little doubt that this mindset has come and gone. Communities' expectations of law enforcement services have changed significantly, and so has police operations to meet demand.

Traditionally, the standard police motto, "to serve and to protect," placed emphasis on the latter duty. Today, citizens expect far more of police agencies than simply the delivery of protective services.

The 64th Security Police Squadron has taken the approach of total service quality. Listed below are four key areas to ensure our customer support is healthy:

- Create an atmosphere of teamwork by:
 - Visiting customers on a regular basis to learn of any problem area and keep abreast of upcoming requirements. An example would be our "park-walk-talk" and bicycle patrols.
 - Stressing teamwork at every opportunity within our organization.
- Develop a customer service attitude by:
 - Listening and reacting to customer concerns.
 - Insisting on outstanding support at every level.
 - Requesting feedback from our customers (e.g. suggestion boxes, locally developed feedback forms and informal visits, which is currently being worked by our community policing survey).
- Ensure our customers always leave with a positive impression by:
 - Making customer service our No. 1 priority.
 - Taking the time to explain alternate methods of procurement instead of automatically saying "no."

- Having an open door policy.
- Strengthen our customer education program by:
 - Preparing educational articles for the base newspaper.
 - Taking the opportunity in commanders' staff meetings to inform various commanders of key achievements and other pertinent information.
 - Developing a local education program that is available to all customers.
- High emphasis is placed on the following programs in an attempt to involve all of our customers in day-to-day operations.
 - Home security survey — a physical protection survey of your base quarters or dormitory.
 - Home vehicle watch — checks conducted by SPs while you're out of town.
 - Operation Crime Stop — to report suspicious activity and help take a "bite out of crime" (the customer has the option of remaining anonymous).
 - Child identification — fingerprinting available for children under 17.
 - Operation Identification — getting personnel to mark all valuables for easier recovery.
 - "Ride-A-Long" — spend time with your security police. Ride with us on patrol and see what we do for you every day.

The men and women of the 64th SPS are so proud of its customer service program that we make this unique pledge to you — satisfaction guaranteed! It's our way of demonstrating our pride, confidence and commitment to you, the people we serve. Please take the opportunity to inform us if we fail to provide quality service concerning any aspect of law enforcement. Feedback is one of the most vital aspects of ensuring we continue to improve the quality of our service.

Communications gets new commander Monday

Change of command set for 9 a.m. in EOM

Members of the 64th Communications Squadron will get a new commander Monday as Capt. Frank Rossi replaces Capt. James Williams. A change-of-command ceremony is set for 9 a.m. in the Reese Enlisted Open Mess.

Captain Williams is making a permanent-change-of-station move to Offutt AFB, Neb. Captain Rossi comes to Reese from Sheppard AFB, Texas, where he was chief of maintenance for the 396th Communications Squadron.

The new commander is a 1983 graduate from the University of Georgia. He picked up his master's degree in public administration and political science from Midwestern State University, Texas, earlier this year.

The captain has been around the military all his life, having been born at Ramey AFB, Puerto Rico. He earned his commission through Air Force ROTC, where he was a distinguished graduate.

He did his technical training at Keesler AFB, Miss., and he served at Tinker AFB, Okla., before his assignment at Sheppard.

Looking forward to his new assignment here, Captain Rossi said, "Our goal is to provide quality and timely communications support to all our Reese customers. By working with our customers, we can sustain that goal."

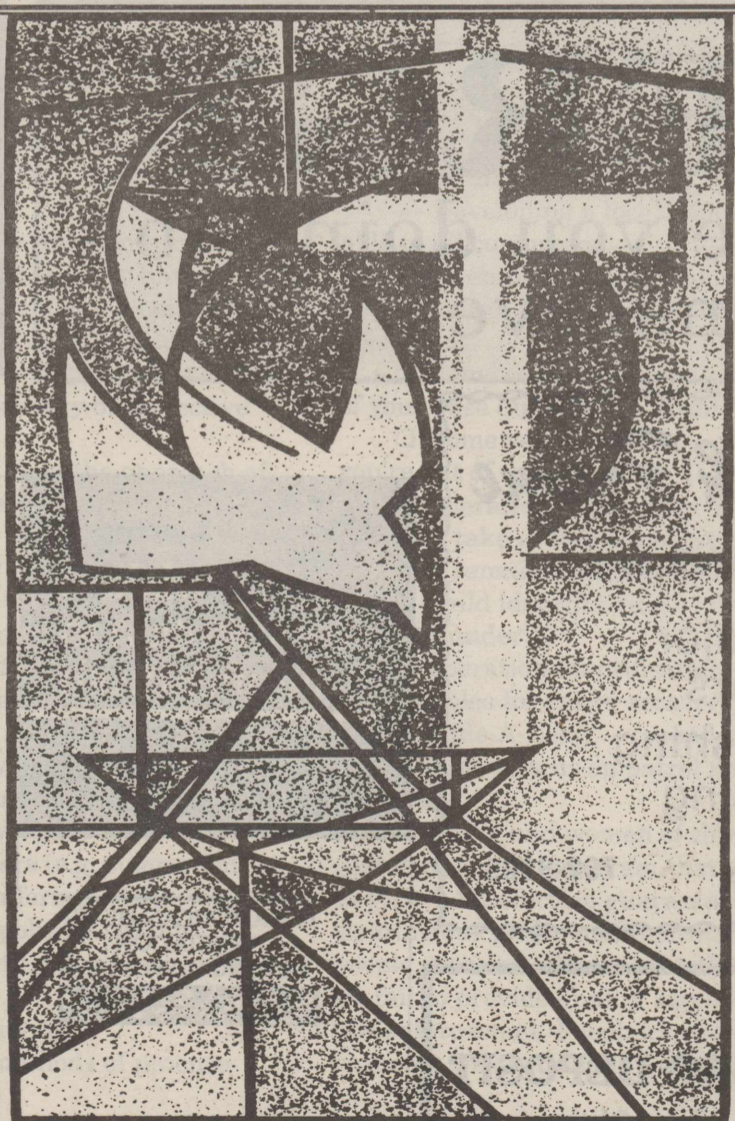

The captain's decorations include the Air Force Commendation Medal and the Air Force Achievement Medal.

He is married to the former Debra Ann Davies of Midwest City, Okla.

Command FEE team starts evaluation Monday

Reese will once again have a chance to shine for command inspectors as the ATC Facility Excellence Evaluation team visits Monday through Thursday.

The seven-person team will evaluate how well Reese maintains its facilities and plans for future needs. The team will be led by Col. Hunter Hopson Jr., ATC deputy director of civil engineering.

The Facility Excellence Evaluation, or "FEE," program has several objectives, according to 64th Civil Engineering Squadron officials. They include encouraging a high standard of general housekeeping, working conditions and living conditions. The program also puts a great deal of emphasis on quality-of-life improvements.

Another objective for the team is to see how the base uses innovative efforts to maintain the command standard in facility maintenance and upkeep.

According to Capt. Steve Moes, the team coordinator, the team also looks at how well each installation uses self-help as a force multiplier.

The captain added that one of the rewards of being on the team is being able to recognize those bases that reflect achievements in base care.

Col. David Love, 64th FTW commander, said the team's visit gives the wing a chance to "show off facilities, self-help efforts and to take pride in where we live and work."

"Everyone on base should take the time and effort to 'water the eyes' of the inspectors," Colonel Love said. "Reese is an outstanding base, and this is our chance to prove it."

The bulk of the team's evaluation will be done Tuesday. The team is scheduled to outbrief the base population at 9 a.m. Thursday in the Simler Theater.

Self-help

by SSgt. Patience Tingley
Reese Self-Help Center

The Reese Self-help center is alive and well and open for customers from 11 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Monday through Friday. Commanders, first sergeants, building custodians or their designated representatives and housing residents are authorized customers at the center.

Many housing residents and base customers have been taking advantage of the numerous items carried in the center.

Everything from fertilizer and decorative bark nuggets have been issued during the spring rush to spruce up lawns and building exteriors. In fact, April was an extremely productive month for the center. Over $25,000 worth of materials were issued — matched only by the month or two of I.G. madness when $37,000 worth of material was issued. The 64th Civil Engineering Squadron is very proud of that record.

But don't stop now! We are here to serve you and assist in giving your residence or place of work a facelift. The following is a list of the landscaping items carried in the center this year: top soil, peat moss, bark mulch, potting soil, cedar edging, plastic edging, decorative bark, weed and feed/refill, Scott's granular fertilizer, round and square stepping stones, fescue and Bermuda grass seed.

In addition to these items, we offer six different types of shrubs and bushes. We take orders for these weekly. Please come by and talk with SSgt. Ron Tebbetts, center manager, or myself about all of your self-help needs, or give us a call at 6390 or 3415.

UPT Class 93-10 graduates, marking end of a training era

Captain Anderson

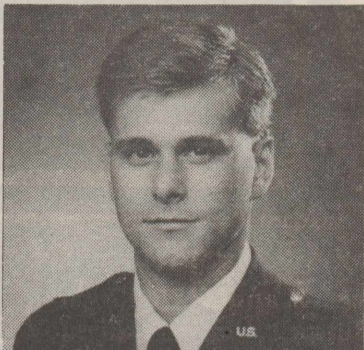

Captain Brockhaus

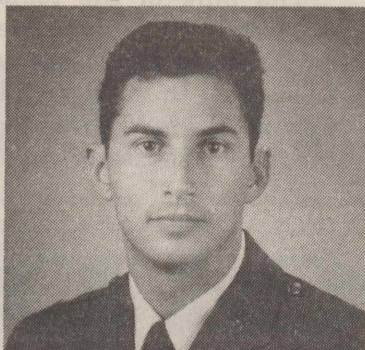

Captain Kelliher

Captain Mihaly

Captain Rosenquest

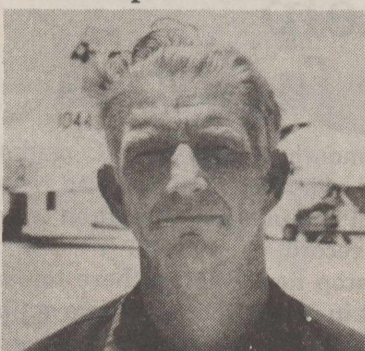

Captain Vaca

Lieutenant Kirkham

Mr. Kelley

Mr. Neumann

Permanent party members and students were awarded for their work with Reese UPT Class 93-10 during graduation activities June 11.

This graduation marked the end of an era, as Class 93-10 was the last to graduate under the old UPT system. All graduates in the future will be products of specialized UPT, wherein, after initial T-37 training, students will be assigned further training in either the T-38 or the T-1A.

The top academic instructor pilots for Class 93-10 were Capt. Matt Anderson (T-37) and Capt. Ken Rosenquest (T-38).

Flightline honors went to Capt. Robert Kelliher and Capt. John Mihaly (T-37) and Capt. Ed Brockhaus and Capt. Santi Vaca (T-38).

Top crew chiefs were Morris Kelley (T-37) and Timothy Neumann (T-38). The Lockheed Support Systems awards went to Mike Davis, and the outstanding mission maker was 2nd Lt. Susan Kirkham.

The top student in the class was 1st Lt. Bo Johnston, who won the Commander's Trophy, and was also a distinguished graduate and winner of the flying training ("Top Stick") award.

Other distinguished graduates were 2nd Lt. Dario D'Ippolito and 2nd Lt. Daryl Newhart. Lieutenant Newhart also won the leadership award. The academic award went to 2nd Lt. Robert Kubarek.

William Corder and Mark Lozier were the outstanding second lieutenants, while 2nd Lt. Jack Colquitt won the citizenship award.

OSS captain retires

Capt. Madge Morris poses with Col. Randall Starbuck, 64th Operations Group commander, during her retirement ceremony June 10 in front of Bldg. 800. Captain Morris, a member of the 64th Operations Support Squadron, served 20 years in the enlisted and commissioned ranks.

Notes

Power outage set

A power outage is scheduled for 2 to 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Nations Bank on base. The bank will close at 2 p.m. that day, but the automated teller machine will be back in service after 4:30 p.m.

Fogging under way

The mosquito fogging program is under way on base and in the housing area. Civil engineering officials said that the fogging will be done every Monday, Wednesday and Friday starting at 5 a.m., and should be finished in the housing area each day before any activity begins.

They asked, however, that residents keep their children away from the fogger.

Summer fun planned

The summer fun program in the Reese Child Development Center will run through Aug. 20. Weekly and hourly care spaces are available.

Preschool children age 4 to 5 will take field trips and practice kindergarten skills; 3-year-olds will learn social and self-help skills. Call 3541 for details.

Volunteers sought

The "Fourth on Broadway" volunteer committee is looking for help organizing and coordinating activities for this year's Independence day celebration in Lubbock.

People interested in volunteering should call the Fourth on Broadway volunteer hotline at 766-7436.

Flag bearers sought

Wing members who would like to march in the base's 50-state flag formation in the Lubbock "Fourth on Broadway" parade July 3 and carry their home state flag should call their first sergeant or the Reese Professional Military Education Center at 3147. Transportation to the parade will be provided.

Chapel dedication set

To celebrate the recent renovation of the Reese Chapel, a special interfaith worship service and rededication will be held at 10 a.m. June 27.

Protestant Communion and Catholic Eucharist will be a part of the service, which will be attended by special guests from the Lubbock and Reese communities. Everyone on base is welcome.

Council meets

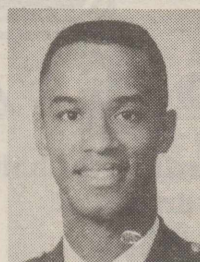

The Reese Base Exchange/Commissary Advisory Council will meet at 2 p.m. July 1 in Reese Manor. People who have topics they would like discussed at the meeting should contact their unit representative.

Troopers needed

The Department of Public Safety will be taking applications for state troopers beginning July 1. Call the Reese Family Support Center for details.

For the future

Why should you buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

Capt. Gerard Jolivette
64th Security Police Squadron commander
Has purchased bonds for eight years

"I like the insurance they provide for your children's futures, compared to other investments. Also, you don't feel the loss each month (with an allotment) as your savings build up."

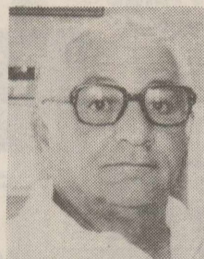

MSgt. Allen Ralph
NCO in charge, 64th Logistics Squadrons
Computer Operations
Has purchased bonds for eight years

"I get them for my kids. My youngest is 8, and I started buying them when he was born. I have two boys now and the bonds are going to go toward their education."

Sam Mele
64th LS Freight Service
Has purchased bonds for 25 years

"Bonds are helping me save for retirement and for my grandson's education. I also like buying them for my country. You really don't miss the money (you purchase bonds with) when you have it taken straight out of your paycheck."

Simler Theater reopens

John Sharp, new Reese Exchange manager, looks at a used rod from the Simler Theater's old carbon arc projectors. The exchange officials upgraded the entire sound and video system in the theater this week. According to Sharp, theater patrons will see and hear a dramatic improvement. The theater reopens tonight with a special half-price weekend promotion. Sharp comes to Reese from Bergstrom AFB, Texas, where he was the exchange sales merchandising manager. He and his wife Ann have two sons, Randy and Justin.

Vet clinic issues parvo warning

Army Capt. Mauna Warren examines a dog in the Reese Veterinary Clinic. Captain Warren said that dog owners, particularly those with puppies, need to be on the lookout for signs for the virus "parvo." Parvo is highly contagious among dogs (regardless of how much contact they have with other dogs), and the symptoms include lack of appetite, depression, vomiting and severe diarrhea. People with dogs showing these symptoms should have it checked immediately. Early vaccination is the key to protecting pets. The clinic will hold an all-day clinic from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday and a morning clinic from 8:30 a.m. to noon Thursday. Call the clinic at 3535 to make appointments.

Quality performer

Sharing, caring and giving. Those are words that SSgt. Harry Washington, this week's quality performer, lives by. The 64th Operations Group member lists the effort to "help make the world a better place" as a primary goal in life. His actions match his intentions — a past winner of the Reese Helping Hand Award, Sergeant Washington devotes part of his off-duty time to working with children, "challenging them to live a drug- and alcohol-free life."

Sergeant Washington

On duty, the 13-year veteran works as an information management technician in OPG, providing administrative support to the group command staff and serving as the functional area records manager for seven offices.

Besides working with kids in free time, he also enjoys weightlifting, swimming, high diving and skiing.

Although all the aforementioned activities might seem like a "full plate" for some, Sergeant Washington has found time during his career to complete two bachelor's degrees with Columbia College in Missouri — one in criminal justice, the other in psychology with a minor in sociology.

His ability to accomplish so much probably stems from his enthusiastic outlook. He lists "life" as his greatest hobby.

Easter Seals camp held on base

Sgt. Luanne Marie Charles, 64th Mission Support Squadron, talks with Amanda, an Easter Seals camper on base Monday. The annual Easter Seals camp ran throughout the past week, as disabled people from the Lubbock area got a chance to take part in numerous camp activities, thanks to the support of base agencies. The events included daily swimming, visits from Texas Tech athletes and cheerleaders, security police demonstrations and more. The camp wraps up today with an outdoor carnival.

Mosquito season here again

by SSgt. Robert Roach
Military Public Health

Mosquito season is upon us once again. Mosquitoes have many natural breeding sites such as tree holes, ponds, temporary pools and leaves. Additionally, humans provide artificial breeding sites like tires, cans and bottles. Also, weeds and uncut grass serve as protection from the wind and sun. All of these breeding sites allow mosquitoes to launch their feeding frenzy upon unsuspecting human victims.

To stop the mosquito assault, we can eliminate their breeding sites by picking up those tires, cans and bottles. Also helpful is pulling weeds and keeping the grass cut short. Second, we can protect ourselves by using insect repellents (odorless repellents are best) and wearing long pants and shirts, especially in the evenings.

Mosquitoes are a nuisance, they cost the government millions of dollars each year to control. They can also transmit diseases such as encephalitis and dengue. Fortunately, mosquitoes cannot transmit the AIDS virus. Mosquitoes are most active when there is high humidity and a moderate temperature. Also, most are attracted to carbon dioxide, which is what humans and other mammals exhale when breathing.

Only the female mosquito bites. In addition to feeding herself, the blood is used to lay her eggs and continue the mosquito life cycle.

Beware of biting ticks

by Capt. Barry Darnall
64th Medical Squadron

Once again, it's the time of year for ticks to be active, and we should be aware of how to avoid tick bites and what to do if we are bitten.

It is not practical to avoid the tick habitat (grassy, brushy or woodland areas) all summer long; however, we can avoid tick bites. It's important to realize the vast majority of ticks are not infected with a disease, ready to transmit it to humans.

So why should we be concerned about ticks?
 They can transmit diseases such as lyme disease and Rocky Mountain spotted fever.
 The bite wounds that ticks leave can become infected.

They can transmit diseases to your dog or cat.

How do you avoid tick bites? If you are going to be in a grassy or wooded area you should do the following:

Tuck your pants into your socks or boots; tuck your shirt into your pants. The idea is to keep the tick on the outside of your clothing.

Inspect your clothes for ticks often. Also, inspect your head and body thoroughly when returning from the field or woods.

Frequently inspect your pets for ticks, as they could bring them into your home.

Wear tick repellents.

And what do you do if bitten by a tick?

see "Ticks," Page 13

From YOUR perspective

(Editor's note: The following is Wing Commander Col. David Love's policy regarding the Careline.)

As wing commander, I need to hear things from your perspective. Your inputs and suggestions can help Reese remain the pacesetter in the command. If you see something good, call me. If you have a problem that you feel needs my attention, call me. First, however, consider using your chain of command.

You may remain anonymous if you wish;

all problems that are called in anonymously will be investigated and corrected if need be, but they will not be printed in the Roundup. Individuals who leave their name and number can get a direct response, and calls that are of base-wide interest will be printed in the Roundup.

Calls can be made to the Careline 24 hours a day at 3273.

Service at service station

I wanted to call to acknowledge the great job the base service service station did on my car today. I had to take my car in this morning for what I thought would be a $40-50, overnight repair job. However, I had my car back three hours later and it cost less than half what I expected.

In addition, the mechanic on duty showed me some things I could do in the future to avoid further problems. All the people involved deserve a pat on the back.

Thank you for the kind words. The folks at our exchange service station work hard and do their jobs well. I appreciate their efforts and I appreciate you taking the time to thank them.

Mosquitoes can be found anywhere there is stagnant water because all mosquito larvae (immature mosquitoes) need water to survive to adulthood. Remember, most mosquitoes don't travel more than a hundred yards from their breeding sites; therefore, if you allow mosquitoes to breed near you, chances are you will be on their menu.

If you have any questions concerning mosquitoes, contact military public health at 3534.

- Remove the tick as soon as possible.
 - If the tick is embedded, the best way to remove it is by gently grasping the tick, as close to the skin as possible, with tweezers or your fingers and gently pull it out.
 - If a tick body part remains in your skin, seek medical attention as soon as possible.
- How do I know if an infected tick bit me?
- Through laboratory analysis, the tick can be tested for several diseases such as lyme disease and Rocky Mountain spotted fever. However, for laboratory analysis the tick must be alive.
 - Any tick for laboratory analysis should be brought to military public health located in Bldg. 35.
