City to hold town hall next Tuesday

The City of Clarendon will hold a Town Hall meeting Tuesday, March 29, in the Bairfield Activity Center at 7 p.m. to discuss a proposed $3.9 million project to address water quality problems and other issues.

City officials say residents in some parts of town are suffering from discolored water that is caused by miles of cast iron pipes.

Through a USDA Rural Development program, Clarendon will receive a grant of $1.387 million and a loan for $2.522 million. The loan would take 40 years to pay off at 2.5 percent interest and with an annual payment of about $100,500. Paying the loan would require new revenue equal to $10 per month per water connection.

For more information about the project, contact Dockery at City Hall at 874-3438.

CC, Texas Tech plan joint press meeting

Clarendon College and Texas Tech University officials will hold a joint press conference this Thursday, March 24, at 11 a.m. in the Bairfield Activity Center to herald a new articulation agreement between the schools.

CC and Tech are working together to address a nursing shortage in the region and put local students on a clear path to a four-year nursing degree.

CASA training to be held in Clarendon

CASA of the High Plains will hold training in Clarendon on April 7, April 12, and April 14 for those interested in becoming volunteers for the organization.

Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) has the goal of ensuring the highest quality advocacy possible for all children in the child protection system. CASA volunteers safeguard the children's best interests to ensure that they are placed in safe, permanent homes as quickly as possible.

For more information or to sign up for the training, call 806-669-7638.

Plans set for prayer meeting April 26

Plans are being made for a Community Prayer For America gathering to be held Saturday, April 26, at 5:30 p.m. at the Ten Commandments Monument at on the Donley County Courthouse Square.

The gathering will be held in conjunction with a prayer gathering at the Texas State Capitol led by Franklin Graham.

St. Mary's barbecue tickets now on sale

Tickets are on sale now for St. Mary's Annual BBQ to be held Sunday, April 10, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Donley County Activity Center.

Advance tickets are $12 for adults and $6 for children and can be purchased from any St. Mary's member or by calling 874-1281. Tickets at the door will cost more.

City nears completion of looping project

The City of Clarendon is close to completing a project to loop water lines on the south side of the city, according to a report made to the City Council's regular meeting March 10.

City Administrator David Dockery said the project ties lines along Browning Blvd. from Carhart Street to Parks up to Barcus and then west to Bugbee Avenue.

"This will help take care of the biggest part of the red water in that part of town," Dockery told the council. "I want to compliment the public works crew for accomplishing this job while stilling taking care of their usual tasks."

Public Works Director John Molder also spoke on the looping project, agreeing with Dockery that the works should "just about alleviate the red water" and noting that the city is receiving good water from Greenbelt.

"We're delivering a good product with bad lines," Molder said, referring to cast iron lines that were put into service early in the 20th century.

Dockery also reminded the council of the Town Hall meeting that will be held Tuesday, March 29, in the Bairfield Activity Center at 7 p.m. to discuss further improvements to the water system at a cost of about $4 million through a USDA grant/loan program.

In other city business, the council opened sealed bids on a city-owned hanger at the Smiley Johnson Municipal Airport. John Morrow bid $1,200 on the hanger, and Gary Campbell bid $1,203.99. The council accepted the high bid.

Aldermen also discussed the bylaws and articles of incorporation for the Clarendon Economic Development Corporation. Mayor Larry Hicks said discrepancies had been discovered in how the CEDC is operating compared to what the bylaws actually call for. The chief discrepancies are a requirement in both the bylaws and the articles of incorporation that requires board members to be residents of the City of Clarendon and a provision in the bylaws setting the date of the regular monthly CEDC meetings.

City officials say the bylaws need to either be followed or changed to fit current practice. The CEDC will discuss the bylaws at its next meeting.

Also at the March 10 meeting, Aldermen gave final approval to Ordinance 451, finishing the process of closing a portion of Fourth Street west of Collinson Street.

Up in smoke

A large pile of discarded railroad crossties went up in flames on E. Rosenfield Street Sunday morning, March 20. Clarendon Fire Chief Jeremy Powell said volunteer firemen were paged to the blaze about 7 a.m. and stayed on the scene until noon. Powell said the crossties were a total loss but said there were no injuries. Authorities say the fire was deliberately set.

CC's Hawkins earns All-American honor

Clarendon College sophomore Brayden Hawkins was ranked 7th in the All-American Standings and has been named to the All-American Junior College Livestock Judging Team after 5th place finish at the Houston Livestock Show this weekend.

Each year roughly 300 freshmen start judging livestock in the college ranks, and as sophomores only 15 will be named to the All-American team, a ranking that takes into account both academics and judging success.

The award is fifteen years old and Brayden is only the 6th person in Clarendon College history to ever receive this honor.

Hawkins is the grandson of Glenda Hawkins of Clarendon and the late Jerry Hawkins.

The CC Sophomore Livestock judging team finished the Spring semester strong with a 9th place overall finish at the Houston Livestock Show.

This team has made the top ten at Phoenix, Denver, Ft. Worth, San Antonio, and Houston, and the last time the College achieved this was five years ago. The team was also just 26 points away from winning the reasons contest.

Individually, Hawkins placed 5th overall and was in the top 10 in reasons; Annie Belden placed 2nd high in sheep and goats; and Kirsten Midkiff placed 14th overall in reasons.

Other members of sophomore-livestock judging team are Austin Browning, Quentin Quintana, Trey Tidwell, and Chris Johnson. The team is coached by Johnny Treichel and Curtis Wertman.

Thornberry votes for support of suit against Obama action

WASHINGTON - US Congressman Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) voted last week in support of a resolution, H. Res. 639, authorizing the Speaker to file a legal brief on behalf of the House of Representatives in support of a lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of President Obama's 2014 executive actions on the deportation of some illegal immigrants.

The lawsuit was filed by the State of Texas and 25 other states and will be heard by the Supreme Court this summer. The resolution passed the House by a vote of 234-186.

"The importance of this lawsuit cannot be understated as it goes to the heart of the separation of powers in our constitutional system," Thornberry said. "The Supreme Court should recognize that no president, whether Democrat or Republican, should have the power to circumvent Congress and undermine the rule of law."

"This is very important. If we're going to maintain the founding principle of being a self-governing people, if we're going to maintain the founding principle of government by consent of the governed, the legislative branch of government needs to be the one writing the laws—not the executive branch," said Speaker Paul Ryan (R-WI).

In a ruling last year, the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals sided with the states in the lawsuit. The Court's decision prevents the Obama Administration's implementation of the executive actions while the matter makes its way through the legal system.

In the lawsuit, the Supreme Court asked whether the President's executive amnesty violates his duties under Article II, Section 3 of the Constitution to "take Care See 'Thornberry' on page 10.

Town Hall is a chance to get informed

The Clarendon City Council has some big decisions to make in the weeks ahead, and its members are asking for your input on how they should proceed.

At issue is the town's aging infrastructure... a theme that is plaguing cities, states, and even the federal government. Roads, bridges, and other things often take a toll from time and the elements. Systems that were built 50, 75, or 100 years ago are now extremely costly to replace compared to their original price tag, and finding money for those upgrades is a challenge.

Clarendon's street woes are well known, although there has been some progress over the last ten years or so. But the water system is largely out of view and out of mind until a problem starts coming out of your tap.

Many residents for a few years now have been suffering from discolored water. City officials say the culprit for this is miles of cast iron distribution pipes installed about a hundred years ago that are rusting. As long as the water flows well, the color doesn't have time to set up. But when your service is at the end of the line or in an area that doesn't flow well, you get can get some pretty nasty looking water.

The city proposes to install about six miles of new distribution lines to improve water quality and solve the red water issue.

The city also notes that it is out of compliance with the state's requirement for elevated storage because the east standpipe has been taken out of service. The city's engineer is recommending a new standpipe be constructed on the east side of town to be equal in height to the one on the west side of town.

City Hall would also like to replace the current water meters throughout Clarendon with modern auto-read meters – devices that would use modern technology to measure water usage and a radio signal to transmit those readings to a computer.

The benefit, the city says, is twofold. First, it takes city workers about one week a month to read the almost 900 water meters that are in the ground, which is lost productivity for those men. Secondly, the old mechanical water meters become less efficient over time to the point that they may now 20 percent off in their accuracy. That's water the city is having to pay Greenbelt Water Authority for but is not able to bill its customers for.

The cost of all these improvements will be about $3.9 million, and city officials are proposing to pay for this with a USDA Rural Development Grant/Loan. The grant amount will be $1.387 million and the loan amount would be $2.522 million.

Now comes the kicker, the loan would take 40 years to pay off at 2.5 percent interest and with an annual payment of about $100,500. To pay that, the city could look at any combination of revenue increases, but the simplest way to look at it – and probably the fairest solution – would be to add $10 per month to everyone's water bill.

The 40 years is a bitter pill for sure. Who borrows money on a 40-year term? This is not just something that affects us today. Your children and grandchildren will be paying for this, so everyone needs to be sure they understand what's being done.

Are there drawbacks to the project? Certainly. Any project of this size will come with inconveniences and disruptions to a town's normal routine. That's to be expected. There is also the question of how many brick streets may have to be disturbed to install the new lines and how those streets will be put back.

Are there alternatives to funding? In the past, Clarendon has been able to use Community Development Block Grants to replace water lines. Those are federal funds that pass through the state. A few years ago, CDBG money mostly paid for the west standpipe. But city officials say that type of grant money could likely get more scarce or even disappear altogether in the future. They therefore prefer a go-big-and-get-'er-done approach, noting that it is more economical in the long run. Otherwise, the city could end up paying more for the same work in the long run.

If the USDA grant/loan is what the citizens want to do, then that's great. But if that's not what they want to do, then the city needs to know that.

This is why your City Council is having the Town Hall next Tuesday, March 29, at 7 p.m. in the Bairfield Activity Center. This is the citizens' chance to learn about the project first hand, to ask questions, and to let your thoughts be known. If you have an opinion... or you're going to have an opinion, take the time to go to the meeting so that your opinion is fully informed.

Texans taken by cruising the sea

Though most may not realize it, the main reason cruise vacations rise to the top of bucket lists is anticipation of sameness – like going to Grandma's house for Thanksgiving.

Unexpected surprises also delight. Where else can one find delightful path-crossings with others in a setting replete with "non-stops" of food, comfort and entertainment? Cell phones and other assorted back-home cares are relegated to our memories' farthest reaches. With eyes pleasantly in lock-down on the Caribbean, we relish astounding blueness not found on color charts. Quickly transitioning to vacation mode, we join others in pursuits to discover, remember or forget, always confident we'll wind up with several new friends.

We've escaped from the real world of politics boiled over and drivers who never run out of honks. We're also spared monotonous automated phone warnings to listen carefully, since menu items may have changed, but rarely do. Conversely, we are showered by greetings and courtesies suggesting that man's "humanity to man" is the week's norm, noted long before emptied luggage is shoved under the bed. We smiled at the prospect of "pigging out" on food and picking up on conversations suggesting that others don't have life figured out, either....

There's much yakking about cruises taken and itineraries chosen. Had Carnival Cruise Line not gambled with a single vessel assigned to Galveston for "trial runs" in 2000, most Texas cruisers still would be "landlubbers."

We doff hats to all who've worked to make cruising convenient to families who'd rather drive to Galveston than fly to distant cruise points.

Little wonder that it is now the nation's fourth busiest home port. Come May, CCL's newest vessel, the Breeze, will replace the Magic. Another spring upgrade is the Liberty for the exiting Triumph. The Freedom will "stay put," giving the port three of the fleet's "most popular, feature-laden ships."....

My wife and I boarded the Carnival Freedom recently, notepads and cameras in hand. Soon, we mingled, discovering a half-dozen who live within 20 minutes of our home. Yet, our first meeting is a thousand miles or so away. Go figure.

Consider this: F. D. Andrews and Judy Stone, widowed after marriages of 54 and 45 years, respectively, drew repeated applause each time they danced. Turns out she lives less than 10 miles east of us; he, the same distance west.

At an afternoon newlywed game – following friendly banter between Houstonians David and Hayley Mui – trucking company owner Cal Cline of Fort Worth popped the "will you marry me?" question – on stage – to Cowtown nurse Kanika Choudry. (He'd purchased the engagement ring a day earlier in Cozumel.) Such proposals rarely are seen on cruise stages, since "no way" responses can occur. Her answer was "way"....

At one dinner table, Quan Wong, owner of the popular "Mei Yuan 1" Chinese restaurant in Burnet, was fodder for the idle american by don newbury

stories. He's known for welcoming diners by name and remembering their menu favorites. Recently, some strangers walked in. Asked how they found the place, they said Siri told them.

Quan, unschooled in iPhones, answered, "Siri? I don't think I know her, either"....

Then there were Frank and Sonia Bartolic, who live in nearby Ellis County. He's a manufacturing executive, big in the Ennis, Texas, Lions Club, where I'm invited to speak next month.

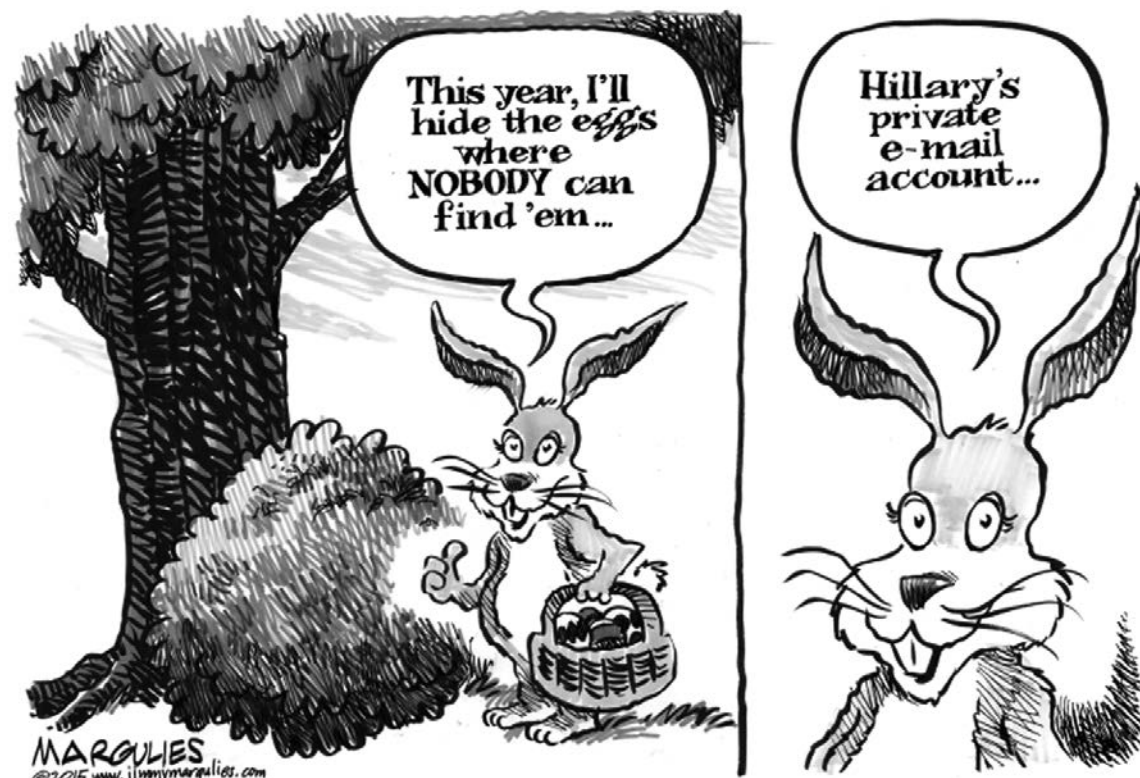

He keeps delaying retirement, despite a bulging bucket list to "fix" a few things, none at Sonia's behest. No, the projects are all of his doing – restoring two dozen motorcycles, 15 tractors (mostly Farmall-Internationals) and five trucks and cars, including a '38 Dodge and '47 Buick.

Oh, he's also building a new home by himself; the project is now in its 6th year....

I found a new, leisurely way to enjoy a port. While Brenda explored Mahogany Bay, Roatan Island, Honduras, I opted for the magical flying beach chair, something of a "ski-styled chair lift." On this $14 ride, most cruisers hop off at the beach. The fee is for the day, so I rode three times, drinking in marvelous views from 60 feet up.

Next time, I'll shoot for four rides. Cruises – and column space – end. I'll tell you later about the Ennis Lions Club talk, and whether Frank puts down wrenches long enough to attend....

Public should have voice in justice pick

Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia was a giant of American jurisprudence. His intellect, wit, and commitment to the rule of law inspired a generation of legal minds – including me – to follow the law as written and to uphold the Constitution for the health of our democracy. Scalia resuscitated our nation's constitutional principles during a crucial time.

With his passing, the Constitution is unambiguous about what happens next. President Barack Obama has exercised his authority to nominate someone to fill the vacancy, but the Senate has an equal authority to determine whether to proceed with that nomination. I believe the American people deserve to have a voice in the selection of the next Supreme Court Justice, and the best way to ensure that happens is to have the Senate consider a nomination made by the next President.

Confirming a new Supreme Court Justice during a presidential election year for a vacancy arising that same year is not common in our nation's history; the last time it happened was in 1932. And it has been almost 130 years since a presidential election year nominee was confirmed for a vacancy arising the same year under divided government as we have today.

In 1992, while serving as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and with a Republican in the White House, Vice President Joe Biden said his committee should "seriously consider not scheduling confirmation hearings" on any potential nominees until the campaign season was over.

Of course, political double standards extend beyond the Supreme Court. Many will recall the blockade of Miguel Estrada, President George W. Bush's nominee to fill a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals in 2003. Estrada ultimately withdrew his name from consideration after waiting more than two years. And in 2013, when the political tide was in their favor, Democrats broke Senate rules to load up the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, often referred to as the second most powerful court in the country.

texas times
by sen. john cornyn

There is a lot at stake here. Depending on who ultimately fills this vacancy, the next Supreme Court justice could change the ideological direction of the court for a generation – and fundamentally reshape American society in the process. As we know from his previous nominees, a court selected by President Obama could impose its views on the people, regardless of the democratic process. The question now before the American people is whether they want to dramatically change the current ideological makeup of the court.

Scalia was committed to the separation of powers, which he understood to be the most important shield against tyranny. With his voice, the highest court in our country was a ready and able check against both legislative and executive overreach.

The direction of the court is now in question, and the Senate has an essential role to play. At this critical junction in our history, the American people should have the opportunity for their voice to be heard. Senate Republicans are committed to making sure that they do.

Reader angry with people dumping pets, trash

For years I have been writing letters to you, all of them about dumping trash or pets on the county roads I live on. In those letters, I stated that if I ever caught anyone or found out who did it, I would file on them.

Well, last week a black dog was dumped on my road, County Road P, and left to starve and die, not to mention getting killed by coyotes. The poor dog was so terrified, all he could do for 2 days was run up and down the road, at least 3 miles one way.

I found out who owned the dog and called the sheriff's office and turned them in. I have proof of the owner and that they are the ones that dumped the poor dog to die. Now if I could find the person or persons who dumped five or six old toilets, animal carcasses and rotten meat. I will continue to find out who you are, and you will be caught someday. Don't dump on country roads.

Amarillo health summit to be March 29

AMARILLO – A Growing Your Health Summit will be presented March 29 by the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service and the Texas Hunger Initiative–Amarillo Region at the Hillside Christian Church North Grand Campus, 3508 N.E. 24th Ave., Amarillo.

The event will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. and conclude by 3:30 p.m. Registration is $15 by March 22 and $25 at the door the day of the conference. To register, go to <http://agrilife.org/nrfcs/growing-your-health-summit/>.

Five general continuing education units will be offered by AgriLife Extension.

The summit is an opportunity for agency representatives, school districts, churches and individuals from across the High Plains region to share their knowledge and expertise about health and wellness, food insecurity and prospective methods to overcome it, said Dr. Angela Burkham, AgriLife Extension family and consumer sciences state program leader in Amarillo.

“We are excited about the partnership of AgriLife Extension and Texas Hunger Initiative in the development of this summit,” Burkham said. “It is designed to encourage the exchange of ideas and to strengthen partnerships as we move closer to our goal of growing a healthier High Plains.”

Dr. Holly Bellah, instructor of social work at West Texas A&M University, Canyon, will open the program with “Understanding how ‘culture’ plays a role in effective service marketing, education and delivery.”

A sociological theory of cultural dimensions will be presented, followed by a discussion on cultural barriers and ways to overcome those obstacles. Participants will be asked to discuss these barriers and possible solutions during the morning session and think about them throughout the day as they experience the breakout sessions and keynote address.

Breakout sessions in the morning and afternoon will follow three different tracts: “Health and Wellness,” “Strategies and Best Practices,” and “Planting and Growing.” These will be:

“Healthy Eating on a Budget” – Lizabeth Gresham, AgriLife Extension Potter County family and consumer sciences agent. Gresham will provide tips on how to stretch food dollars by planning ahead, budgeting, making smart food choices and preparing low-cost nutritious meals. She will also share an overview of Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program benefits for Potter/Randall counties and engage in a nutritious low cost meal demonstration and sampling.

“Turn Over a New Leaf-Gardening 101” – Liz Moore, AgriLife Extension Randall County horticulture agent, Canyon. Participants will learn the basics of gardening, including how to extend the growing season by starting seedlings indoors, what vegetables can successfully be grown and how/when to plant a fall and spring garden to provide vegetables longer.

The keynote speaker, Jody Holland, a motivational speaker from Amarillo, will address “Mindset – How to help people change their beliefs and change their life.” This program outlines the process of retooling any component of a person’s belief system in order to make a better life for themselves.

In the afternoon, the tracts will continue with:

“Physical Activity for your Health” – Suzi McKee, owner and personal trainer at Live-Well-Fit, Amarillo, will discuss fitness and wellness through simple lifestyle changes.

“Square Mile Industries” – Brady Clark, Hillside Christian-North Grand Campus pastor, Amarillo. Square Mile Industries plans to develop a Square Mile Market, a locally staffed neighborhood market and cafe focused on long-term community transformation. This session will outline the vision for the market as it will provide an underserved community the opportunity to purchase healthy food, train for living wage jobs and connect with community partners for additional resources.

“Backyard Basics in the Panhandle” – Amy Wagner, AgriLife Extension Randall County family and consumer sciences agent, Canyon. This session will talk about how these programs support healthy living through home-based food production, preparation and preservation, and participants will make a homemade freezer jam.

The closing speaker will be Dr. Russell Lowry-Hart, Amarillo College president. He will present “Leading to a healthy community: The intersection between education, poverty and you.”

Fraudsters preying on people's poor health

Hi, gang! Well, I guess I am getting old. Come to think of it, I will be 82 shortly, so I am old!

I had last week's column ready to email Roger, and I forgot to send it. I had most of this week ready and forgot to save it. So here is one with some very good information on health scams.

"Are You a Target for Health Fraudsters?" from the Federal Trade Commission.

Health fraud trades on false hope. It promises quick cures and easy solutions for a variety of problems, from obesity and arthritis to cancer and AIDS. But the "cures" don't deliver. Instead, people who buy them are cheated out of their money, their time, and even their health. Fraudulently marketed health products can have dangerous interactions with medicines people are already taking, and can keep them from getting a proper diagnosis and treatment from their own health care professional. Many unapproved treatments are expensive, too, and rarely covered by health insurance.

Health fraudsters often target people who are overweight, have serious conditions like cancer, or conditions without a cure, like: multiple sclerosis, diabetes, Alzheimer's disease, HIV/AIDS, and arthritis

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC), the nation's consumer protection agency, and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) say it's important to learn how to evaluate health claims, especially if you have a serious condition.

Cancer: If you or someone you love has cancer, you may be curious about supposed "miracle" cancer-fighting products – like pills, powders, and herbs – that you've seen advertised or heard about from family and friends. Scammers take advantage of the feelings that can accompany a diagnosis of cancer. They promote unproven – and potentially dangerous – substances like black salve, essiac tea, or laetrile with claims that the products are both "natural" and effective. But "natural" doesn't mean either safe or effective, especially when it comes to using these products for cancer. In fact, a product that is labeled "natural" can be more than ineffective: it can be downright harmful. What's more, stopping or delaying proven treatment can have serious consequences.

The truth is that no single device, remedy, or treatment can treat all types of cancer. All cancers are different, and no one treatment works for every cancer or everybody. Even two people with the same diagnosis may need different treatments. That's one more reason to be skeptical of websites, magazines, and brochures with ads for products that claim to treat cancer, and to decide on treatments with your health professional. People with cancer who want to try an experimental treatment should enroll in a legitimate clinical study. The FDA reviews clinical study designs to help ensure that patients are not subjected to unreasonable risks.

For information about cancer treatments, contact the American Cancer Society. You can find your local chapter at cancer.org. For free publications on cancer research and treatment, or to learn about clinical trials, call the National Cancer Institute's Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER (1-800-422-6237) or visit cancer.gov.

HIV and AIDS: Although proven treatments can extend and improve the quality of life for people with AIDS, so far there is no cure for the disease. If you've been diagnosed with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS, you may be tempted to try untested drugs or treatments. But trying unproven products or treatments – like electrical and magnetic devices and so-called herbal cures – can be dangerous, especially if it means a delay in seeking medical care. For example, the herb St. John's Wort has been promoted as a safe treatment for HIV. But there's no evidence that it is effective in treating HIV; in fact, studies have shown that it interferes with medicines prescribed for HIV.

by bob watson

You also may have considered home test kits. But claims for these products could be misleading. Safe, reliable HIV testing can be done only through a medical professional or a clinic, or through the Home Access Express HIV-1 Test System, the only FDA-approved system for home use. The U.S. government has a toll-free HIV/AIDS Treatment Information Service, 1-800-HIV-0440 (1-800-448-0440), which is staffed by English- and Spanish-speaking health information specialists. Learn more at AIDS.gov.

To find a nearby HIV testing center, visit hivtest.org, a website of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Arthritis: There's no shortage of people selling unproven arthritis remedies, which include thousands of dietary supplements and so-called natural cures like mussel extract, desiccated liver pills, shark cartilage, CMO (cetylmyristoleate), honey and vinegar mixtures, and gimmicks like magnets and copper bracelets. But these remedies aren't backed adequately by science to demonstrate relief. For up-to-date accurate information on arthritis treatments and alternative therapies, call the Arthritis Foundation at 1-800-283-7800, or visit arthritis.org.

Avoiding Shady Sellers and Practitioners: It's easy to see why some people believe product claims, especially when successful treatments seem elusive. But pressure to decide on-the-spot about trying an untested product or treatment is a sure sign of a fraud. Ask for more information and consult a knowledgeable doctor, pharmacist, or other health care professional. Promoters of legitimate health care products don't object to your seeking additional information – in fact, most welcome it.

The same goes if you're considering a clinic that requires you to travel and stay far from home for treatment: check it out with your regular doctor. Although some clinics offer effective treatments, others: Prescribe untested, unapproved, ineffective, and possibly dangerous "cures"; Employ health care providers that may not be licensed or have other appropriate credentials

For information about a particular hospital, clinic, or treatment center contact the state or local health authorities where the facility is located. If the facility is in a foreign country, contact that government's health authority to see that the facility is properly licensed and equipped to handle the procedures involved. For information about facilities in Mexico, contact the Secretary of Health (Secretaria De Salud) in the Mexican state where the facility is located.

Report Scams: If you believe you've responded to a scam, file a complaint with: the FTC, or your state Attorney General

Easter for children in the 1940s

Happy spring, everyone! We have had such nice warm weather then Saturday and Sunday mornings we had hard freezes and probably lost all our fruit again this year. That is life in the Texas Panhandle, and we don't like the weather but accept it. I think we appreciate nice surprises like a fresh apricot cobbler all the more.

Easter will be here Sunday, the day Christians celebrate the difference between our religion and all others, when Jesus died for our sins and arose from the grave. Before you hide those pretty eggs, remember the reason and say a prayer of thanksgiving for Jesus.

As a kid growing up in the 1940s the highlight of spring was the Easter egg hunt. Mother began saving eggs sometime before Easter to be boiled and dyed a pretty color. Each grade school child was expected to bring six boiled and dyed eggs to school for the Easter egg hunt, usually each class had its own picnic and egg hunt.

That was fun but the best time

'wick picks

Howardwick • 874-2886

was with all the grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins. After we moved to the big house at Alanreed and had the perfect pasture to hide eggs, we were hosts of the gathering. What agony to be herded into a back room so there was "no peeking" while the men hid the eggs. There were so many cousins different age groups hunted in different spots with the older kids hunting among the mesquite, cactus and cattle, and some devious uncle always hid eggs under a cow paddy. We now have plastic eggs filled with wrapped candy, but I still like to boil and dye some eggs.

So have a wonderful Easter everyone and happy hunting.

Repairing the family barn

Last week was spring break and me and my Dad got to work on our barn in the backyard. First we started taking out one of the walls, and then we cleaned off the sheets of metal and put them back on. We replaced some of them that couldn't be fixed.

by benjamin estlack

Then we got on the roof and started taking off the roof. We took off both layers and replaced it with brand new tin.

The we had to take off the other half of the roof and replace it.

We replaced a beam that was rotten. If we had stepped on it when we were on the roof, it might have collapsed.

My favorite part was getting to spend time with my Dad and getting to help work on the barn that he and his Dad and grandfather built.

Retired teachers to hold meeting

The Donley County Retired School Personnel Association will have their meeting on Monday, March 28, at 6 p.m. at the Family Life Center of the Church of Christ. A new speaker will be available at the meeting.

Laurie McAfee from the Area Agency on Aging in Amarillo will be at the meeting to present a very interesting educational seminar on Medicare Fraud and Abuse. She has recently finished training in Houston with the SMP (Senior Medicare Patrol).

The SMP was founded in 1997 by the U.S. Administration of Aging, and is also a program of the Better Business Bureau Education Foundation. In other words, the goal of SMP is to help seniors to not be victims and to prevent healthcare fraud through outreach and education.

The presentation will take approximately 25-30 minutes with a message of "Protect, Detect, and Report" which includes a power point and an 8 minute video. In addition, we will receive informative handouts and several documents also. Another part of the regular meeting will encourage retirees to participate in donating to the Donley County Scholarship Fund for students who will be graduating from Clarendon and Hedley schools.

Antibody Improves Psoriasis Symptoms
Results from a sixty week follow up study showed that every person with moderate – to- severe plaque psoriasis had an improvement in the skin after taking ixekizumab for a year. These results are part of a phase three clinical trial for the investigational drug. Ixekizumab is a monoclonal antibody that specifically binds to and blocks IL-17A receptor. The result is a reduction in inflammation. Researchers believe that ixekizumab is an important alternative treatment for people who have not benefited from other psoriasis therapies.
Psoriasis is an autoimmune condition characterized by red, itchy, and scaly skin patches all over the body. An autoimmune condition is a condition where the body falsely thinks healthy cells are foreign and the immune system begins to attack these healthy cells. Plaque psoriasis is characterized by white scaly patches.

Beef conference, ag tour set for Canadian

CANADIAN – The second annual Beef Cattle Conference and Ag Tour on April 26-27, sponsored by the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service in Hemphill County, will bring top names from across the country to address pressing cattle industry issues, a coordinator said.

“Our theme is Wave of the Future Regarding Beef Cattle Marketing,” said Andy Holloway, AgriLife Extension agriculture and natural resources agent in Hemphill County. “This is a critical time in the beef cattle marketing business with prices for our beef product beginning to trend down.

“Producers who have purchased high-dollar replacements are going to have to use every marketing tool available to weather the storm and to keep ag lenders happy,” Holloway said. “This meeting will have some excellent appeal throughout our region and into Oklahoma and Kansas.”

The two-day fee is $100 per person and will include sessions, three meals, two ranch visits, a tour at The Citadelle Art Foundation, a trade show and entertainment by singer Red Steagall.

Two Texas Department of Agriculture continuing education units will be offered – one integrated pest management and one general.

Registration is limited to 300. To register, call 806-323-9114, email kristi.huffman@ag.tamu.edu or fax the registration form, which can be found at <http://hemphill.agrilife.org>, to 806-323-8392.

The conference will begin with registration and the trade show at 8 a.m. and the program will start at 9 a.m. April 26 in the Jones Pavilion, 1101 North 6th St. in Canadian. Speakers and topics will include:

Troy Applehans, CattleFax in Denver, where we are in the beef cycle and their prediction of what's ahead for beef prices. He will also briefly discuss a profit calculator for cow/calf producers.

Jason Barber, Superior Livestock in Fort Worth, current and new technology affecting beef cattle marketing, especially cow/calf and stocker cattle. Superior Livestock is the largest cattle marketing company in the world.

Dr. Tim Steffens, AgriLife Extension range specialist in Canyon, how to take low quality forage and turn it into high quality beef. He will also discuss the Hemphill County Grass Grazing and Animal Management School started last summer in Canadian.

Ken Jordan, Jordan Cattle Auction in San Saba, how to produce more revenue by selling replacement females with the cattle the producer already has in their herd. He also will discuss the premium calf sales for both steers and heifers at San Saba.

The keynote speaker will be Salem Abraham, Abraham Trading in Canadian, who's topic, “How to Survive the Hurricane,” will cover his approach to business, including the use of marketing strategies utilizing hedges and the futures market. He also will discuss his view on the coming world economy, including currency values and their effect on beef values in the future.

The first day will conclude with a panel discussion led by Dr. Ted McCollum, AgriLife Extension beef cattle specialist in Amarillo, who will also summarize the educational talks of the day.

On April 27, participants will gather at 8:30 a.m. at the Hemphill County Exhibition Center before heading out on tours of the Jenkins Angus Ranch near Higgins, where they will hear a program on marketing the genetics from the calf crop of registered herd bulls.

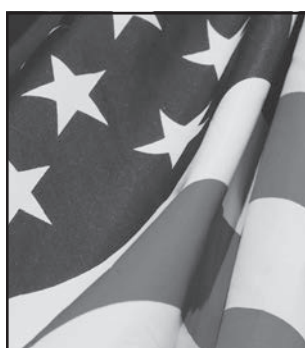

There will also be a presentation there by Zoetis representatives Kevin Milner and Blake Confer titled “Enhanced EPD's from DNA Testing and its Impact on Cattle Values.”

The group will move next to The Citadelle in Canadian for lunch and a tour of the western art display “Texas Impressionism: Branding with Brushstroke and Color, 1885-1935.”

The final stop will be at Canadian Animal Health and Nutrition, 100 Hackberry Trail in Canadian, for presentations by Hi Pro Feeds representatives Kent Mills and Brice Tabor on the new technology regarding protein supplement for beef cows and new script requirements for any feed with antibiotics fed by producers, respectively. For more information, contact Holloway at 806-323-9114 or andy.holloway@ag.tamu.edu.

TOWN HALL Meeting

TUES., MARCH 29

7:00 p.m. • Bairfield Activity Center

The Public is invited and encouraged to attend and ask questions about a potential project for the City of Clarendon.

The City has been awarded a USDA Grant/Loan for $4,000,000 (four million dollars) to fund the following improvements:

- Replace Water Standpipe near S. Hwy 70
- Replace Water Meters with Auto-Read Meters
- Replace up to six (6) miles of cast iron water distribution system.

This is a Grant/Loan combination. The loan will be for a 40-year term. The annual payment will be about $100,000 (one hundred thousand dollars).

Options for funding the loan payment will be discussed. One of the options is increasing the base water fee by $10 (ten dollars) per month on each account.

Your City Council wants your input and suggestions!

USDA is an equal opportunity employer, provider, and lender.

Lady Broncos clobber Booker

By Sandy Anderberg
Allyson Hogan's bat was on fire as she hit another over-the-fence grand slam against district rival Booker in the Lady Broncos' 16-1 blowout over Booker last week.

The win put the ladies at 2-1 in district play and 9-4 overall.

Brianna Butler was on the mound, and, according to head coach Gary Jack, she did a great job. Hogan was behind the plate and also played a solid game defensively.

Shelby Baxter, Karlee Adams, and Brooke Martin also played well defensively, which was noted by Jack.

"We hit the ball well," Jack said. "Allyson hit another grand slam and Martin, Butler, and Jensen Hatley did a good job offensively."

Booker's lone run came in the third, but they were not able to put pressure on the Lady Broncos.

"It was a good game for us," Jack said. "We hope to continue playing well."

On Saturday, the Lady Broncos took on the Lady Bronco Alumni in their annual game and won, 14-3. Hogan continued her domination at the plate and hit another pitch over the fence. Jack said Butler, Martin, Hatley and Zaryia Smith hit the ball well in the game.

"This was a good game for us," Jack said. "It's always fun to see the girls come back. There were 13 girls that came back, and they played well. It was a good time."

The Lady Broncos will take on Claude at home March 25 beginning at 1:00 p.m. They will travel to Follett on Tuesday, March 29.

Alumni catcher Dominique Mason and Lady Bronco Emily Johnson during the 2016 Alumni game.

Last Saturday former Lady Broncos returned to the field for the 2016 Alumni game. The Lady Broncos defeated the Alumni 14-3. Participating in the Alumni game were Elissa Holland, Camra Morris, Dominique Mason, Haley Hall, Miranda Thomas, Maci White, Skyler White, Savannah Topper, Phara Berry, Morgan Wheatly, Caitlyn Burrow, Jency Burton, and Jentry Shadle. Also pictured is Headcoach Gary Jack, former Lady Bronco Brandi Mays, and Mila Santos.

Error leads to loss for the Broncos

By Sandy Anderberg
The Clarendon Bronco baseball team traveled to Amarillo Thursday, March 17, to take on the San Jacinto Patriots.

Despite playing a good game, the Broncos were defeated 3-9. A costly error by the Broncos proved to be golden for the Patriots as they were able to score four runs in the fourth inning. SJ racked up seven hits and five RBI's in the win.

The Broncos held the early lead in the second inning when Nick Shadle hit a double and the top of the fifth proved favorable when they scored two more runs to trail 3-5. After Caleb Cobb hit a two-run single, San Jacinto was able to stop the rally when Kade Hunsaker grounded out and the Broncos took the loss.

The Broncos will be on the road this week with a game in Childress on Friday, in Valley on Saturday, and in Memphis on March 29.

NOTICE OF COMPLIANCE TARIFF FILING

Southwestern Electric Power Company (SWEPCO) filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) on March 22, 2016, its Petition requesting approval of its proposed Military Base Surcharge Tariff.

Section 36.354(a) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act (PURA), at Texas Utilities Code § 36.354, provides that each electric utility in an area where implementation of full customer choice has been delayed by the Commission in accordance with PURA Section 39.103 shall discount charges for electric service provided to a military base. Section 36.354(b) of PURA establishes the discount to be provided to military installations as a 20 percent reduction of the base commercial rate that the electric utility would otherwise charge to the installation.

Section 36.354(c) of PURA provides that the electric utility may assess a surcharge to all its Texas retail customers to recover the difference in revenue between the revenues from the discounted rate for military bases and the base commercial rate. Tariff Sheet No. IV-16 provides the Military Base Adjustment Factor per billing kWh as reflected below:

MONTHLY FACTOR

Major Rate Classes	$/kWh
Residential	$0.0000639
Commercial & Sm. Industrial	$0.0000480
Industrial/Large Lighting and Power	$0.0000183
Municipal	$0.0000515
Outdoor Lighting	$0.0000959

SWEPCO has requested that the tariff become effective with the first billing cycle of May 2016. The Petition has been assigned Tariff Control No. 45727. Persons who wish to intervene in or comment upon this proceeding should notify the Commission. A request to intervene or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 13326, Austin, Texas 78711-3326. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Commission at (512) 936-7120 or (888) 782-8477. Hearing and speech-impaired individuals with text telephones (TTY) may contact the Commission at (512) 936-7136 or toll free at (800) 735-2989.

The Company can be contacted at 428 Travis Street, Shreveport, LA 71101, or by calling Brandon Bradford at (318) 673-3607.

that the Laws be faithfully executed.” Thornberry said that is a question the House is uniquely qualified to answer, because under Article I, “all legislative Powers” are vested in Congress.

H. Res. 639 authorizes Speaker Ryan to file a brief on behalf of the whole House defending Congress’s Article I powers. The decision to file these briefs is usually made by the House’s Bipartisan Legal Advisory Group, not the full body. This is the first time any speaker has done this.

Thornberry voted last year in support of H.R. 240, the “Department of Homeland Security Appropriations Act,” which prevents any funds from being used to carry out the President’s executive actions that grant deferred action to nearly five million illegal immigrants. The bill passed Congress and was signed into law by the President.
