Irlbeck to receive honor from TABC

The Texas Association of Basketball Coaches has announced that it will induct former Clarendon High School coach Carl Irlbeck into its Texas High School Basketball Hall of Fame Class of 2018.

The induction ceremony will take place during the 2018 TABC Clinic on Saturday, May 19, 2018, at the El Tropicano Hotel in San Antonio.

Irlbeck of Plainview graduated from Happy High School before playing guard on the Western Junior College Conference championship team at Clarendon College in 1959. He graduated from CC in 1960 and then received his Master's degree in PE and math from West Texas State University. He taught math for 34 years and coached for 45 years.

He coached basketball at Nazareth, Clarendon, Abernathy, and Plainview. He also coached at Plainview Christian, Monterey, and Hart. He was known for his crew-cut hair and cowboy boots, which he used to stomp the floor and get players' attention.

During his career, Irlbeck amassed an impressive record in basketball with 1065 wins to 501 losses. He has been previously inducted as the 138th member of the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame.

Irlbeck took the Clarendon Bronchos to the state basketball tournament in 1971 and overall has had 25 teams advance to regionals and coached nine state champions in four sports – three in basketball, three in tennis, two in cross country, and one in volleyball.

CC Regents hold September meeting

The Clarendon College Board of Regents met in regular session September 20 to cover a brief agenda.

CC President Robert Riza gave an overview of the financials, and the board approved updated bank resolutions regarding signature cards.

The board ratified the hiring of Decee Surratt as a cosmetology instructor in Amarillo.

In his President's Report, Dr. Riza updated the board on meetings held by Senators Seliger and Perry and Rep. Drew Springer. It was also reported that headcounts are at capacity in the dorms, enrollment is at a record high, and CC's new CDL program is underway.

J Bar D wins cookoff

The J Bar D Ranch was the overall champion of the 23rd annual Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff last Saturday, September 23.

The Amarillo chuckwagon team outshined 12 other teams, placing in every judging category as well as placing first in Wagon and Camp, Overall Cooking, and Overall Wagon and Cooking to take home the custom cutting board designed by Clarendon artist Jack Craft.

Officials with the Saints' Roost Museum, which sponsors the event, said tickets to the event sold out last Thursday with wagons serving for a total of 650 people.

The tenth annual Junior Cookoff the day before the big event drew eight contestants, who were paired with experienced wagon teams to prepare potatoes for the cooks' dinner Friday night. Addison Havens from Clarendon won first place and was teamed with the Crosstimbers Ranch from Mustang, Okla.

Haiden Norman of Hedley was second, working with the Honey-Do Spoiler Wagon from Pampa; and Kami Duncan, also from Clarendon, was third and worked with the Cockerbur Camp from Odessa.

Other junior participants included Taylee Ehlert, Zachary Franklin, Jaythan Green, and Aubrey Stidham.

Following the Junior Cookoff, 209 people enjoyed a delicious steak dinner Friday night on the museum grounds, compared to 215 the year before. The invitation-only event was held exclusively for Chuckwagon teams and members of the Museum and their families as well as members of the Goodnight family.

The trade show was held throughout the day Saturday, and live entertainment was provided. Relatives of Chuckwagon inventor Charles Goodnight also were present for their annual reunion.

The 13 wagons served a menu of chicken fried steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, biscuits, beans, and cobbler. Complete results were:

Overall Wagon & Cooking: 1) J Bar D Ranch.

Overall Cooking: 1) J Bar D, 2) HX Chuckwagon of Lubbock, 3) C Bar C Ranch of Hartley, and 4) Palo Duro Cowboy Church of Canyon.

Best Wagon & Camp: 1) J Bar D, 2) Crosstimbers Ranch of Mustang, Okla., 3) C4B Chuckwagon of Amarillo, and 4) Honey-Do Spoiler of Pampa.

Lelia Lake man gets sentenced

Two Donley County cases were adjudicated by the District Court last week during docket calls in Childress and Panhandle.

The court met in Childress on Wednesday, September 20, with District Attorney Luke Inman, assisted by Harley Caudle, prosecuting for the state and the Honorable Judge Stuart Messer presiding.

Clayton Shields was placed on deferred adjudication community supervision for a period of five years for the third degree felony offense of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, enhanced.

Shields, age 24 from Leila Lake, was arrested in Donley County by Deputy Ryan Hill for the offense that took place on July 2, 2017. Shields was later indicted by the Grand Jury on August 31.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, Shields is required to pay a $5,000 fine, $488 in court costs, and successfully complete 200 hours of community service. If Shields violates probation, he could face up to 10 years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ.

The court also met in Panhandle on September 19 where Corey Mark Aragon was placed on deferred adjudication community supervision for a period of ten years for the third degree felony offense of evading arrest in a motor vehicle.

Aragon, 28 from Albuquerque, New Mexico, was arrested in Donley County by DPS Trooper Kelly Hill for the offense that took place on May 6, 2017. Aragon was later indicted by the Donley County Grand Jury on July 19.

Pursuant to the plea agreement, Aragon is required to pay a $10,000 fine, of which $2,500 was paid upfront, $488 in court costs, $853.80 restitution, successfully complete 200 hours of community service, and a $500 out of state probation transfer fee. If Aragon violates probation, he could face up to 10 years in the Institutional Division of the TDCJ.

Due to the fact that Messer issued a deadly weapon finding in the case, this offense is also a Texas Code of Criminal Procedure 42.123(g) offense, which would require Aragon to be incarcerated for at least 50 percent of his sentence if adjudicated before becoming parole eligible.

Carhart family pays visit to Clarendon

Three members of Clarendon's founding family were among the visitors attending last week's Col. Charles Goodnight Chuckwagon Cookoff.

Isaac Whitfield "Whit" Carhart IV and his wife, Mary, of Vashon, Washington, along with their son, Mark, of New York City were in town for several days, visiting important landmarks and learning more about the history of the community so connected with the Carhart family.

Mr. Carhart's great grandfather, I.W. Carhart was the brother of the town's founder, Rev. L.H. Carhart, and he himself was an early pioneer of Clarendon and became the city's first mayor in 1901. He and his family were also involved in banking, the establishment of the local abstract business, and ranching.

Mr. Carhart's grandfather, I.W. Carhart, Jr.,

lived and worked on the JA Ranch for a time as an accountant/secretary for Mrs. Adair before her death in 1921.

During last week's visit, the family donated a wedding dress belonging to Mr. Carhart's grandmother, Bessie Chamberlain Carhart, to the Saints' Roost Museum and allowed local historians to view a family scrapbook with many interesting photos and clippings.

Don't make unkeepable promises

Rarely do I make promises that I do not intend to keep. I am quick to make 'em, though, if they're likely to be forgotten by the person to whom they're made.

Examples of the "likely-to-be-forgotten" include the promise to avoid chocolate for 60 days or to chew each bite of food 28 times.

In neither case is there any "tell-tale" evidence of whether pledges are honored, unless spouses retrieve candy wrappers from pockets, or watch our chewing to count the number of jaw movements prior to swallowing....

Perhaps more important are "second half" promises we make to each other. ("Second half" refers to persons who have filed away 50 years of marriage, and now are bracing, as best they can, for whatever comes next.) Such promises have to do with helping each other to interact, in general, in ways that don't cause others in our presence to gasp, swear, faint, look for soft landing spots, administer the Heimlich Maneuver, alert law enforcement, call an ambulance, ask if we've replaced the batteries or tell us where to get off....

Space limitations make it possible for few specifics to be addressed, so in this piece, only our hearing will be addressed.

Odds are strong, of course, that one or both spouses will eventually experience hearing loss. In our home, we have agreed that when one of us has serious hearing impairment, an appointment with audiologist will be made immediately.

Tests don't lie. So, the spouse whose lungs and vocal chords are working overtime in the interest of communication will determine if and when hearing aids(s) is needed. In years past, oldsters unable to hear have "faked it," utilizing warm smiles, affirmative nodding or possibly warm chuckles to suggest they've heard every word. Truth to tell, they've only seen the other's lips moving....

In our case, we have admitted to each other that our battery-powered toothbrushes may help us to know when our hearing is "going or gone."

Our "togetherness" does not, nor has it ever, involved "synchronized brushing," or whatever might be the term describing spouses brushing their teeth at the same time. Such a scene assumes, of course, that each has his or her own electric brush. Further, it is not an indictment of the aforementioned "synchronized brushing." ("Synchronized swimming" probably drew laughter when the topic was first discussed.)

No, our teeth-brushing is often several minutes apart. What I can expect, however, is for her to pose a usually-mundane question when my tooth brush motor is whirring away. In order to hear what she's saying, I must either ask her to yell, or to postpone her question until I have brushed and rinsed....

She does not like to compete with the toothbrush motor, so either I turn it off or she says "never mind."

It should be noted, however, that her "never mind" is not to be interpreted as an indication that I should forego additional thought to her question.

What it means, instead, is that I'd best give it considerable additional thought. Also, I'd best "sweeten my disposition" as I attempt to emerge from a hole of my own digging caused by poor judgment in timing my tooth-brushing ritual. (Note: This scenario can be avoided if one chooses to use a manual tooth brush....)

I watched my parents deal with Dad's hearing loss; it was early onset, and not until late in life did he get a hearing aid.

"It's an amazing thing," he said joyfully. "I can hear the vacuum cleaner when my mother's running it on 'low' in the back bedroom, I can clearly hear the afternoon newspaper when it hits the driveway, and I can even hear a bumblebee as it lights on the rose bush," he added. "That's wonderful, Dad." I said. "What kind is it?"

His answer: "I'm not sure; I'd guess it to be around 2:30."....

Free speech is the right of everyone

"I disagree with what you say, but I'll defend to the death your right to say it."

With those words, Coach Don Beck ingrained in his history students in 1988 the very essence of freedom of speech. America needs Coach Beck right now.

It's always easy to defend the person whose speech you agree with, but the true test is if you will be willing to extend that same freedom to others.

Over the last year, there has been a growing protest of professional athletes refusing to stand for the national anthem in a move that is meant to draw attention to what they see as social injustices. The move has had the predictable backlash as patriotic Americans have become outraged by this behavior.

The rancor between the protestors and the flag wavers was bad enough, but it was taken to a new level this week when President Donald Trump felt the need to get involved.

Not content to deal with important issues facing this country, the president waded into the NFL controversy over the weekend by insulting those who protest, calling for any "son of _____" who disrespects the American flag should be fired or suspended by team owners. He also went on to call for boycotts of NFL teams over the protests.

This is not new behavior for Mr. Trump. He is consistently belligerent to anyone who expresses anything other than total devotion and admiration of him and his administration.

Consider the case of ESPN's Jemele Hill who recently called the president a white supremacist. Trump took to Twitter to rebuke her comments and then later his press secretary suggested that the network should consider Hill's comments a fireable offense.

It is an absolutely truth that actions have consequences. If an employee behaves in a way or talks in a way that offends their employer, then that person may soon find themselves out of a job. Colin Kaepernick has learned that. Other NFL players will likely learn that. That's just part of life.

But for a White House and even the president himself to intervene in the situation and call for people to lose their jobs, is beyond the pale. This is a man who took an oath to protect and defend the Constitution. It is his sworn job to defend our rights as citizens... not to throw cold water on our rights or bully people for exercising those rights.

And yet, that is just what this president does time and time again.

If you're a reporter who prints something that Mr. Trump doesn't like, you are ostracized and said to be a purveyor of "fake news," which is an odd statement to make from someone who routinely exaggerates at best or just makes stuff up at worst.

Here's a suggestion, if you don't want to see stuff written about your actions in office, don't run for office. If you're a public official, your actions are the public's business, and it's the press' business to make sure those actions stay in the open. But I digress....

As a nation, we need to step back and remember the words of Coach Beck. We have devolved into a society that largely just doesn't want to hear any opposing viewpoints. You can troll Facebook and see that. People would rather "unfriend" someone than be acquainted with someone who holds a different political or religious point of view. That is un-American.

The American way that we used to be taught was that you could agree to disagree. You can have divergent opinions and still be friends if you have mutual respect for each other.

There are many things bigger than the arguments that are consuming society. Freedom is bigger than the flag or the anthem. And the most important thing to remember is that freedom has to be everyone. We are all free, or none of us are. Your free speech means nothing if your neighbor can't disagree with you.

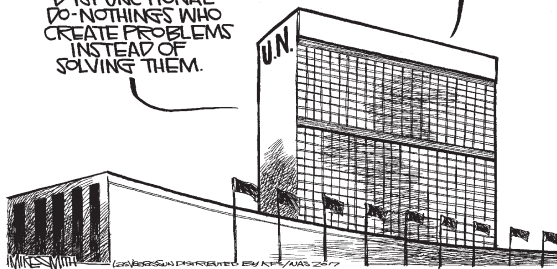

The president would do well to learn that fact and to remember that his job is not to divide this country, but to protect the rights of everyone... even the people who hate him.

* Editor's Note: The above quote is often attributed to Voltaire, but that has been disputed by some scholars. Coach Beck might not have said it first, but his Texas twang made it sound the best.

PRESIDENT TRUMP THINKS WE'RE DYSFUNCTIONAL DO-NOTHINGS WHO CREATE PROBLEMS INSTEAD OF SOLVING THEM.

SO WE'RE LIKE THE WHITE HOUSE?

The story of seven dead puppies

Carl Prewit has taught English and coached tennis at the same high school for thirty-one years. He lives in Portland, near Corpus Christi and rides a bicycle all over the Texas coast. He collects stories about his family and is beginning to put them in a book.

"One of my favorite stories is one titled 'Seven Dead Puppies.' It occurred while I was growing up in Rule, near Stamford, where everybody knew everybody and their kids. They also knew which dog belonged to whom. We always had dogs and we had a dog named Rosie who had seven puppies.

"Dad worked in the oil field so Mom and the other ladies in the neighborhood played Canasta probably every two weeks or so. They'd meet at each other's house. When my mother was hosting the group it was my job to watch my little four-year-old brother and his friend, who was also four years old. His mother was one of the Canasta players.

"So I'm supposed to be watching these two little kids. It was summertime and I didn't want to have to do that. So I ignored them for a little bit. That's when they pulled a tub and filled it with water. It wasn't long before they had all seven of Rosie's puppies in the water. I don't know if they were baptizing them or what. They didn't really know what they were doing. Anyway, these little puppies were drowning.

"My mother and another woman came out and saw what was going on. I've gotta tell you my mother was one resourceful person. She never never gave up on anything or anybody. I had trouble with math in school and she stayed up till midnight with me showing me how to do those problems.

"Anyway she dashed outside and took those puppies out of that tub and got some towels and started drying off

FTC launches new military task force website

Hi, gang! Kind of short this week as Dorthy and I just returned from celebrating our 64th wedding anniversary on the 19th. Audie and they girls gave us a week at Sipapu, New Mexico, resort. Wow! It was great, colors changing. Then we spent two days at Angel Fire.

We only have one article, but it has very good information. Please make sure anyone you know that is serving our country has a copy.

"FTC Launches Website Dedicated to New Military Task Force"

The Federal Trade Commission launched a web page highlighting the work of the agency's new Military Task Force, which is aimed at identifying the needs of military consumers and developing initiatives to empower service members, veterans, and their families, including through law enforcement actions. The Military Task Force, comprised of a cross-section of agency representatives, is part of the FTC's ongoing and collaborative effort to provide resources for the military community.

In 2016, there were more than 100,000 consumer complaints from service members, their dependents, military retirees and veterans, according to data compiled by the FTC. About two-thirds of the complaints were from retirees and veterans. The top complaints from service members by category were impostor scams, identity theft, and debt collection.

"Service members devote their lives to protecting us, so it's incumbent on us to protect them," said FTC Acting Chairman Maureen K. Ohlhausen. "This task force will work on identifying the needs of military consumers and work on several initiatives to address those needs." Service members, like all consumers, are potential targets for fraudsters. Certain scams are more likely to target the military community because those families may relocate frequently and because many service members are living on their own and earning a paycheck for the first time. Some scammers take advantage of concerns unique to service members, such as the threat of disciplinary action or risk to their security clearance for nonpayment of a financial obligation, which can affect their ability to continue to serve.

This year, the FTC hosted two workshops in coordination with the military community. The first event this past July in San Antonio examined financial issues and scams that can affect military consumers, including active duty service members at all branches and veterans. The second event earlier this month in Los Angeles with state and local partners focused on training military attorneys and financial advisors, law enforcement, prosecution agencies, and consumer protection officials to identify, prevent, and respond to consumer fraud and other issues affecting service members and their families.

Last year, the FTC unveiled Military Consumer, a revamped and mobile-friendly financial readiness website for military personnel, veterans, their families, personal financial managers and others who work with the military community — another major initiative featured on the new task force website. Military Consumer also reaches out to the military community through its Facebook and Twitter pages.

Fun times at the cookoff

Last Saturday, me and my family went to the Chuckwagon Cookoff. That's where ranches and teams come to Clarendon to compete to see who has the best chicken fried steak, bread, gravy, and other food that they serve.

I like that we get to eat really good food that is hand made over a fire. I also like all the different chuckwagons. My favorite wagon is the Honey Do Spoiler. I like how tender their meat is, and I also really like their gravy. They make very, very good cobbler.

Also, at the cookoff, I got to meet Congressman Mac Thornberry, who is from Clarendon. It was awesome to get to meet someone who helps run our country.

The day before the cookoff, the school got to go to the museum. Before the wagons had all gotten there, they had tips and targets, and we learned to use atlats. That's how American Indians would spear different animals. It was fun and much easier than just throwing a spear.

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting September 26, 2017, with Boss Lion Robert Riza in charge.

We had 14 members and no guests this week.

Lion Brian Fuller reported on the college where Volleyball will be playing Odessa this Wednesday at 7 p.m., and registration is underway for the eight-week fall term.

Lion Mike Norrell reported on the public school. Hannah Hommel was named homecoming queen, and the Broncos are still undefeated.

Lion John Howard reported on the county, which has received a $200,000 check from Southern Power as the first of the wind farm payments. Lion Howard also discussed men's health and the importance of routine testing.

With no further business, we were dismissed to spread Lionism and good cheer throughout our fair county.

Golden Needles Quilting club met at Senior Citizens

Golden Needles Quilters met Thursday, September 21, at Senior Citizens with Louella Slater hosting. Louella had pieced a beautiful pink and white "princess" crib quilt for an expected granddaughter.

The group also enjoyed quilting on Tiny Alderson's queen-sized "Garden Illusion" with printed flowers in each block. No two blocks are of the same print.

We remembered and appreciated past members, Ann Bunyan and Josie Burgess. Thanks go to Ann's family for donating her quilting frame to the club. Everyone signed a special "you are remembered" card to mail to Josie. The birthdays of Wilma Callis and Frances Smith were celebrated also.

Others present were Dortha Reynolds, Wilma Lindley, Janan Kooztz, Carlene Hollar, Dottie Newkirk, Betty Jean Williams, Mary Lynn Manning, Allene Leathers, Eva Lee Swinney, Barbara Helms, and Gay Cole.

Whistle-Stop owners Jordan & Kimberly salute this legend...
PUD BAIN
James "Pud" Bain moved to Donley County in 1920 at the age of 12 when his family began farming and ranching in the Chamberlain community.
In 1929, Pud and two brothers opened the O.K. Cafe where Clarendon Insurance is now located and later relocated to the 200 block of Kearney. He married Aylene Sandlin in 1935 after he became taken with her at a dance in the old Opera House. In the 1940s and 1950s, the Bain brothers sold and raised cattle.
In 1967, Pud went to work with Aylene at Steve Owens' drug store, and the couple soon purchased the building and fixtures to open their own Bain's Fountain & Gifts at the southwest corner of Third and Kearney. There Aylene sold gifts and antiques and ran the fountain while her husband served up his signature "Pud burgers," making an indelible impression the hearts of Clarendon for a generation.
The business closed following Aylene's death in 1984, and Pud lived out the remainder of his life in Clarendon until 1994.
The Whistle-Stop and the community salute the memory of the late Pud Bain for his friendliness, his legacy as a part of Clarendon's history, and the memory of his cooking. Thank you, sir!

Agricultural leasing workshop set Oct. 19

SAN ANGELO—The final program in the 2017 series of Rancher Learning Workshops covering grazing, hunting and livestock leases is scheduled Oct. 19 in San Angelo by the Texas A&M AgrLife Extension Service.

The workshop addresses the legal risks associated with agricultural leases, said Tiffany Dowell Lashmet, AgrLife Extension agricultural law specialist in Amarillo. The goal is to educate landowners and producers on the importance of utilizing written leases as a risk management tool. The workshop will be from 8:30 a.m.-1 p.m. at the Tom Green 4-H Center, 3168 N. U.S. Highway 67. The free program is funded by the Southern Extension Risk Management Education Center.

Lunch will be provided by Ag Workers Insurance. Participants will need to RSVP at least one week before the meeting to Kim Garcia at 806-677-5626 or kim.garcia@ag.tamu.edu. Joining Lashmet on the program will be Bill Thompson, AgrLife Extension economist in San Angelo.

"We will discuss the potential legal implications of failing to have a sufficient written lease and the potential legal issues and litigation that the development of written leases can help avoid," she said. "The workshops will also familiarize participants with key terms and provisions that should be considered in lease negotiations."

Participants will receive a leasing handbook that covers legal issues, designing lease payment structures and calculating payments, and landowner liability. The book also will provide checklists and sample lease forms for negotiating lease agreements.

Lashmet said this will be the final workshop offered this year, adding the three previous events in Lubbock, College Station and Pearsall have far exceeded expectations on attendance and audience satisfaction.

Some audience reviews so far include:

"Excellent program. Met my needs for life. A morning well spent."
 "Great resource and service to the people of Texas."

"I was so impressed with the professionalism and knowledge I witnessed today. I am interested in any class she teaches. I am a new landowner and a non-traditional landowner, so I need to learn from wise people in many fields."

"Very informative! My husband talked me into coming since this is really his interest on a little retirement place we own and I'm so glad I came. I thought I would want to slip out and go shopping but you hooked me in and I'm so glad I stayed. Very nicely done."

Colts win big over Gruver

The Clarendon Junior High Colts keep pushing forward and added another win to their season by clobbering the Greyhounds 40-16 on the road last Thursday. The Colts were sharp on both sides of the ball and gave their opponent no chance to convert TDs.

"I was proud of how we played, especially after a long road trip," coach Blake Nichols said. "You never know how kids are going to respond after sitting on a bus for that long and I thought we came out and played hard and played well. I was extremely proud of everyone of them."

The Colt offense speaks for itself with Sylvester Ballard finding the end zone three times. Two of the scores came on the ground and one was a punt return. Jordan Evans scored one rushing touchdown, and Josiah Howard scored one rushing touchdown and found Koyt Tucek for a Colt score. Dalton Williamson scored two two-point conversions for the Colts.

Defensively, the Colts were strong against the Greyhounds.

"The entire defense played well only giving up two touchdowns," Nichols said. "Standouts were Brock Hatley with several tackles, and Josh Dunn with several pass break ups."

The Colts will play Booker at home on Thursday, September 28, beginning at 5:00 p.m.

Graci Kidd in the Rebel Run Saturday, September 16th. This meet was held at the John Stiff Memorial Park.

Lady Owls Cross Country competed in the Groom Cross Country meet on Saturday. Placing 6th, and medaling was Jayden Lambert. The Lady Owl team consists of Jayden Lambert, Kasie Hinton, Emma Lambert, Cara Lambert, Madi Gay, and Jasmine Lockety.

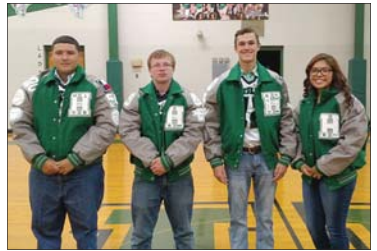

Hedley Junior High Lady Owls has a successful Saturday at the Groom CC meet. Hailey Wilson, Marlee Barbee, Lily Shadle and Avery Sawyer competed. Lily placed 9th, and Avery placed 4th.

Makenna Shadle at the finish line of the Rebel Run for Clarendon Junior High Colts. The Lady Colts ran a two-mile course at the Rebel Run.

Charged and ready to play, the Owls take the field at Higgins. The Owls will have their Homecoming game next Friday, September 29 at 7:30 p.m. against Lazbuddie.

Awarding their long awaited letter jackets, Cody Flores, Josh Fish, Collin Monroe, Perla Carreon, stand with pride during the pep-rally last Friday.

CCC golf season coming to close

By Sandy Anderberg

Twelve players participated in the nine-hole scramble last Friday with the team of Joe Minkley, Carla Carter, and Lauri Mooring taking the top spot at four under par.

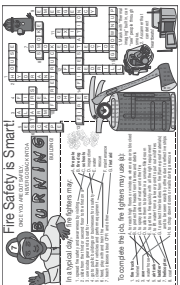

The Six Person Skins game will be held, Sunday, October 8, at 1:00 p.m.

Powder Puff game planned for Oct. 6

The Clarendon High School Student Council will sponsor a Powder Puff Football Tournament next Friday, October 6, in Bronco Stadium.

The games will begin at 5 p.m., and admission will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

The gate proceeds of this year's tournament will go to benefit to Chandace Ritchie to help her battle in fighting cancer.

Have you ever visited the firehouse or had a fire fighter come to your school to speak? It's just plain smart to learn how to help prevent fires. When fire fighters talk about fire safety we tell students:

- Get out of the house quickly if there is a fire.
- Call the fire department from a neighbor's house.
- If your clothes catch on fire remember to...

STOP, DROP AND ROLL!

Family Fire

- Cook in the kitchen only when an adult is helping you.
- Don't touch matches, lighters or candles. They are only for adults to use.
- Do you have smoke detectors on every level of your home? Test them monthly. Change the batteries at least once a year.
- Do you know two or more ways out of the house?
- Never use elevators if there is a fire (stairs are much safer).
- Smoke rises. If there is a fire, stay low: crawl under the smoke.
- Have you picked a place to meet the rest of your family once you are all out of the house?
- Once you are out of the house, stay out of the house.

Safety Checklist

Families check out this list!

- Read each of the 15 words and phrases in the list below. Then, find a word or phrase above that means almost the same thing and fill in the puzzle.

fire

Himm... I spy a hydrant!

New inventions help fire fighters do their difficult work. One invention is a scanner that can detect faint heartbeats, which can help to find people trapped under rubble. Another is a mask with built-in "thermal imaging" that lets fire fighters "see" people and flames through smoke.

Broncos outrun the Greyhounds

By Sandy Andersen

A solid running attack gave the Broncos a big Homecoming win in Bronco Stadium last Friday night.

With the momentum of a 14-7 halftime lead, the Broncos pushed through the second half with no doubt they would win. The win put the Broncos at 4-0 for the year.

Racking up a huge 331 yards on the ground, the Broncos used their strength, and Daquawne Oliver to finish on top. Oliver was a beast with 175 yards on 16 carries that netted him four Clarendon touchdowns. He had runs of four, five, 47, and 50 yards for scores on the night to lead the Broncos in the win. Damarajae Cortez accounted for the other Bronco score on a 46-yard run in the second quarter.

"I thought our kids played really well Friday against Gruver," head coach Clint Conkin said. "Our defense played great and we held Gruver to 76 total yards rushing. They did throw for 200 yards, but our secondary covered well all night."

Defensively, the Broncos were strong. Noab Elam and Colt Wood both had interceptions in the game and several players knocked down Greyhound passes.

The Bronco offense lit up the night and posted 346 total yards. Even though the Bronco passing game finished with only 15 yards against 205 for Gruver, the Broncos filled in the gaps on the ground.

"We had several different kids run the ball," Conkin said.

Along with Oliver, Cortez had five carries for 64 yards and Preston Elam had three carries for 36 yards. Ryan McCleskey ran with the ball seven times for 17 yards, and Noab Elam posted 25 yards on five carries. Dalton Benson carried twice for seven yards, and Antwan Bassett and Collin Butler each carried one time for three yards. The receivers were hard at work as well with Bear Smith and Colt Wood grabbing one pass each for six and seven yards, respectively. Reston Elam also had one reception for two yards and caught a pass from brother Noab for a two-point bonus in the second quarter.

The Broncos will travel to Booker on Friday, September 29, for their last pre-district game beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Texas teens to be trained on police interactions

By Jolie McCullough, The Texas Tribune
High schoolers, new drivers and police officers are all set to receive training in how to act during police interactions under a new state law that went into effect this month. But don't expect these courses to start right away — officials have barely begun creating them, and the courses are scheduled to begin next September.

Senate Bill 30 was pitched to Texas lawmakers amid a growing rift between communities and law enforcement after several fatal police encounters. It came after the death of Sandra Bland, a 28-year-old woman who was found hanged in her jail cell three days after a heated traffic stop led to her arrest, and also followed the fatal shooting of five Dallas police officers during a protest of violent police encounters.

"There's a lot of tension in terms of interactions between law enforcement and citizens in traffic stops," said Sen. Royce West, D-Dallas, who authored the bill. "We've seen some fatalities and we've seen people pointing the finger at one another."

West said he hopes some of that tension will be relieved by training the different groups what is expected of citizens and police during interactions, primarily traffic stops.

Next September, Texas' public high school curriculum, driver's ed classes and training for new and veteran police officers must include instructions on the role and duties of police officers, individuals' rights during a police interaction, proper behavior for both citizens and cops, laws on questioning and detention by police and how to file a complaint or complaint.

The Texas Department of Public Safety already established suggested actions during traffic stops in its latest version of the Texas Driver Handbook, which was released last week. The changes include keeping one's hands near the steering wheel and not reaching into the glove box for one's driver's license or proof of insurance until talking to the officer. The book also adds a section explaining that drivers can ask to leave if they're being held at a traffic stop for an extended period of time and they can decline search requests if there is no probable cause.

The wording in the handbook will "serve as a base foundation for the educational curriculum that will be developed as a result of Senate Bill 30," according to a DPS news release.

The law gave officials the extra year for implementation so they could coordinate training to ensure teens, drivers and police officers are all learning the same thing, West said. A committee to design the courses includes representatives of DPS, the State Board of Education and the Texas Department of Licensing and Regulation.

"We're going to get together to establish the topics that would be required for one to build a course and administer it so that we have some uniform courses out there," said Ray Pizarro, director of education and examinations for TDLR. "We don't want somebody doing one thing and somebody doing the other thing."
