Talking About Important Issues which Affect Citizens In Lubbock And West Texas

T. J. Patterson, Jr. & Congressman Jody Arrington

VISITING IN THE CONGRESSMAN'S WASHINGTON, D. C. OFFICE -- It was a very informative afternoon on Wednesday, October 16, 2019, when T. J. Patterson, Jr. Manager of Legislative Affairs for the City of Fort Worth, Texas, and Congressman Jody Arrington met.

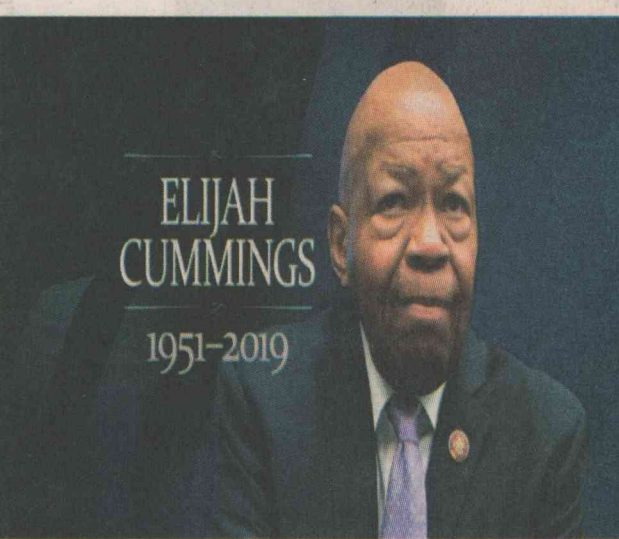

They had several areas which they talked about. Those areas were: Federal Funding for our Military, Federal Funding for Transportation, and Federal Funding for Education.

Both appeared to be very excited on what each brought to the table for discussion. It's amazing on what happens when people sit down and discuss important issues.

Veteran Baltimore Congressman, Civil Rights Voice and Trump Era Protagonist Elijah Cummings Dies at 68

Congressman Elijah Cummings

Elijah Cummings, a veteran Democratic congressman who represented Baltimore and served as a key figure in the impeachment inquiry into President Donald Trump, died Thursday, October 17, 2019, due to "long-standing health problems," his office said. He was 68.

Cummings spent decades advocating for civil rights in Baltimore and represented Maryland's 7th Congressional district since 1996. He had previously served 13 years as a delegate in the Maryland State House. A spokeswoman said he died at Gilchrist Hospice Care in Baltimore at 2:45 am.

His death will cast a lengthy shadow over the 116th Congress, as Democrats who assumed the House majority in January navigate the ongoing impeachment investigation. Cummings chaired the House Oversight and Reform Committee since January, engaging in lengthy court battles with the administration over subpoenaed documents dealing with Trump's finances and management of federal agencies.

Cummings had not taken part in a House roll call vote since Sept. 11. His office said he had undergone a medical procedure, but did not disclose its gravity.

The late congressman underwent a procedure to widen the aortic valve in his heart in 2017 and was later hospitalized for a knee infection. But over the summer, Cummings said his health was fine.

In honor of his years-long quest to lower prescription drug prices, House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, D-California, announced Thursday that the Democrats' bill to lower drug costs will be named after Cummings.

Cummings said his only private conversation with Trump was about drug prices. "Very soon you and I will be dancing with the angels," he said. "The thing that you and I need to do is figure out what we can do - what present can we bring to generations unborn?"

Pelosi, who was close to Cummings, also ordered flags flying above the United States Capitol complex to be lowered to half-staff.

"I'm devastated by the loss. He fought to the end," Pelosi said. "He lived the American dream, and he wanted it for everyone else. He spoke with unsurpassed clarity and moral integrity."

House Majority Leader Steny Hoyer, D-Mechanicsville, called

Cummings "a man of great faith, of great humility, of great humanity," during remarks on the House floor Thursday, October 17th.

Cummings was born on Jan. 18, 1951, in Baltimore. His father worked at a chemical factory, and his mother was a housekeeper. Cummings was one of seven children.

He recalled joining two dozen black boys for a swim in a non-integrated South Baltimore pool in 1962, which prompted white residents to surround them, throwing rocks and bottles. "They called us everything you can imagine," Cummings said.

They shouted, "Go back to where you came from," - a line Trump would use against four Democratic congresswomen in 2019 - he said. "At 11 years old, I declared in that moment that I was going to become a lawyer."

Cummings attended Howard University in Washington, graduating with a bachelor's degree in political science in 1973. He then earned a law degree from the University of Maryland in 1976, and worked as an attorney in his own practice before his election to Congress.

From 1983 to 1996, he represented District 44 in the Maryland House of Delegates. He became the Maryland House's first black speaker pro tempore.

When Rep. Kweisi Mfume announced he would resign his congressional seat in Maryland's 7th District to become head of the NAACP, Cummings won the seat in a special election in 1996, beginning more than 22 years of House service.

Cummings' first piece of sponsored legislation in the House was the National Drug Policy Act of 1997, which would have formed a Commission on National Drug Policy to study the production, distribution, and use controlled substances.

The bill did not become law, but it highlighted the Baltimore Democrat's preoccupation with drug use in his community.

His lengthy career in Congress was marked by the national tragedy of the 9/11 terror attacks, the subsequent war on terror and the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, the recession of 2008, and the bitter politics of the Trump era.

His tenure also coincided with the burgeoning Black Lives Matter movement that followed Michael Brown's 2014 death in Ferguson, Missouri.

After Freddie Gray's death in 2015 - which highlighted tensions between black residents

IMPEACHMENT POLITICS

Many Americans have felt for a long time that our sitting President of the United States should have been impeached months ago. The moment that it was discovered that there was some Russian interference into the national election for the president in 2016 was fuel enough many thought. That did not bring about any formal charges but an investigation of the charges which appeared to have been sidelined by the Republicans of power still left doubt enough that no charges were literally filed against the President, though there was clearly reason felt by many citizens and lawmakers. The leader of the House, Congress lady, Nancy Pelosi refused to lead an impeachment charge.

It has taken a whistleblower to set the widgets moving to initiate impeachment of President Donald Trump. Historically, several presidents of the United States have been impeached, but none have ever been removed from office due to impeachment. The majority Senate would like to avoid an impeachment and some Republicans have even suggested that the Managers of the House not be admitted into the Senate. The U.S. Constitution however, REQUIRES that approved 'articles of impeachment' which have been approved by a majority of the House of Representatives hear the case. This procedure is not to be invoked by political disagreements, unethical conduct or incompetence. Grave criminal offenses are grounds for impeachment. Somehow, it appears that engaging a foreign country to aid in the downfall of a fellow citizen can be defined as 'treason.' This definitely criminal.

Because of work in the House of Representatives to initiate impeachment procedures against Donald Trump, he is not only attempting to put the Tariff situation with China on the front burner, but also to again use Hillary Clinton's e-mails as a distracter of any movements toward his impeachment. It was the e-mail distracter which figured in her loss of the election a few weeks before the election in 2016. This is a sure sign that he plays for keeps when gambling and also plays dirty. This is dirty politics. This administration has been reeking of dirty politics from day one. There is no way that we can have peace in a country led by racism, hatred and dirty politics. This country has become the joke of the century with other countries and lost too much respect worldwide. There are many places now in other countries where American tourists are not welcome. We must get 'in cinque' and regain our country's self-respect.

Re: Impact of Proposed Legislation on African American Business Ownership

Dear Chair Waters:

On behalf of the National Black Chamber of Commerce, I am writing to request help from you and the Financial Services Committee with the Protecting Consumers from Debt Traps and Unreasonable Rates Act, the Military Veteran and Vulnerable Consumer Usury Protection Act of 2019, and any related legislation, to make sure that potential negative impacts on the African American community and especially on African American entrepreneurs are identified and mitigated well before the legislation is considered. For several reasons, we are especially concerned about the idea of imposing a 36% usury rate cap.

First, there are currently many popular loan products that carry APRs greater than 36%, and African American customers are more than twice as likely than white customers to use these products. Over sixteen percent of African Americans do not have a bank account and therefore often rely on alternative forms of credit, which sometimes carry higher interest rates. Instituting a rate cap could run the risk of excluding millions of Americans from the credit community by completely "unbanking" them. We believe it is imperative that research be conducted to understand the full impact of instituting a 36% rate cap on the African American community.

Second, women are more

THIS N' THAT

by T. J. Patterson, Sr.

IT'S GREAT WHEN WE SEE LUBBOCK CITIZENS PURCHASING NEW HOMES IN EASTERN LUBBOCK!!

When THIS N THAT hears about Lubbock citizens purchasing NEW HOMES it just makes one feel great when we hear about these kinds of development. You see NEW HOMES are seen being sold.

This is great and it will make a POSITIVE DIFFERENCE as this is a very GOOD OMEN of greater things to happen on the EASTERN SIDE OF LUBBOCK and allows for some more positive things to happen on the EASTERN SIDE OF THIS CITY!!!

likely than men to be "under-banked" and therefore to rely on consumer loan products that carry high interest rates. Consequently, African American women could be especially at risk of being excluded from the credit community if 36% rate caps were imposed. Therefore, we believe there needs to be research on how a 36% rate cap could affect women and specifically how it could impact African American women before being considered in Congress.

Third, as you know, in recent years, banks have closed branches, and the closures have taken place disproportionately in African American communities. As banks shutter branches and in the absence of credit alternatives, credit "deserts" appear. When this happens, there are many people who are left with no good or convenient alternatives to obtain credit. Without

You see we need to quit TALKING ABOUT WHAT WE DON'T HAVE and come up with ideas which will serve as a catalyst which should bring about more positive activity. You see when we come together and talk about POSITIVE ACTIVITIES then things can't help but to happen.

As the late REV. A. L. WILSON PASTOR OF THE BETHEL AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH once said "BROTHER PATTERSON, YOU CAN'T SEE AROUND THE CORNER, BUT GOD CAN!"

Now that really got my attention, because with God on our side WE CAN DO

MANY THINGS!!

So when THIS N THAT learned about the purchasing of these new homes it really did make a lot of sense. You see when you really believe and you want to see POSITIVE THINGS HAPPEN then things will continue to happen.

THIS N THAT is very happy with what is happening in EASTERN LUBBOCK and there will be more EXCITING THINGS HAPPENING..... Let's keep talking about the good things happening and continue to ask GOD TO BE WITH US AS THERE ARE SO MANY OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE FOR EASTERN LUBBOCK!!!

robust options available, including loans of 36% or higher, people who are desperate to pay their bills and make ends meet are more likely to gravitate toward less desirable options like bouncing a check, bankruptcy, piling up debt on a credit card and paying only the monthly minimum, or worse. We believe there needs to be a comprehensive review of how a 36% rate cap would affect people who reside in places without a physical banking presence.

Fourth, we are very much concerned about the impact of a 36% interest rate cap on African American start-up businesses—especially startups owned by African American women. It is well documented that the average African American's personal wealth is lower than that of the average White American. While the average African American wealth level is $5,446, the average White American wealth is 11 to 16 times higher. Low levels of wealth and liquidity constraints create a substantial barrier to entry for minority entrepreneurs because an owner's wealth can be invested directly in the business, used as collateral to obtain business loans, or used to acquire other businesses. Also, outside investors frequently require a substantial level of an owner's investment of his or her own capital. Moreover, African American entrepreneurs are more likely than White entrepreneurs to rely on personal credit, rather than business credit, to raise the capital to launch their businesses. And regrettably, African American business owners are two to three times more likely as business owners to report "lack of access to business loans/credit" or "lack of access to personal loans/credit" as a reason for their businesses' closures. Our organi-

Steph Curry Responds After Michael Jordan Says He Isn't a Hall of Famer: 'It's Kind of Funny'

Michael Jordan

Steph Curry

Michael Jordan threw the internet into a frenzy last week when he implied that Stephen Curry — the three-time NBA champion of the Golden State Warriors — isn't NBA Hall of Fame material.

During a recent interview with Craig Melvin for Today, Jordan, 56, was asked about a wide range of topics including what it's like being a new grandfather and about the opening of the first of two health clinics that bare his name. But it was famed NBA player's comment about Curry that caused a social media uproar.

When asked what NBA players he'd select to join his team in a pick-up game, Jordan said he'd stick with Scottie Pippen, Magic Johnson, Hakeem Olajuwon and James Worthy — the exact team he picked when he was asked the same question back in 2013.

"I'm going in the trenches. I played against and with all these guys. I'm going with who I know," Jordan said, defending his choices. "Every single night, their responsibility to go out there and represent greatness, every single night."

Melvin then asked Jordan if Curry — a two-time NBA MVP and considered one of the most revolutionary players of his generation — should be offended for not having been selected.

"I hope not. He's still a great player. Not a Hall of Famer yet, though," Jordan replied with a laugh. "He's not."

He's still a great player. Not a hall of famer yet, though."

Michael Jordan doesn't think Steph Curry is set for the Hall of Fame just yet.

The comments drew the ire of many who disagreed with Jordan.

"Michael Jordan said Curry is a great player but not a hall of famer yet. I have to disagree," one Twitter user wrote. "3 NBA titles, 2 MVP's, 6 time all-star, 6 All-NBA selections, 3 NBA first team selections, and All-Rookie first team. Is he a hall of famer yet to you?"

Magic Johnson even chimed in with a humorous tweet, saying that as the owner of the Charlotte Hornets, Jordan couldn't praise Curry or else he'd be fined by the league for tampering (Johnson was fined many times when he was president of the Los Angeles Lakers for complimenting other players).

"Everyone relax. We know Steph Curry is a future Hall of Famer...Michael Jordan couldn't say it because he would get fined by the league," Johnson tweeted.

Everyone relax. We know Steph Curry is a future Hall of Famer...Michael Jordan couldn't say it because he would get fined by the league.

While speaking with Sole Collector, Curry, 31, took the comments in stride and agreed that he has a lot of work to do before achieving Hall of Fame status.

"I think I'm good, but then I'm never complacent... I know I have more to prove to myself," he said, according to Complex. "When you hear a guy like that who's the greatest of all time, it's kind of funny. Since we've been on this stage, we've heard a lot of retired guys chiming in on this generation of basketball players and evaluating talent and saying their generation was better and all that."

"It's a great conversation for the fans to get in on," Curry added. "I know I'm in good shape for that, but I still have a lot to prove to myself."

But Warriors coach Steve Kerr, who played alongside Jordan on the Bulls and has coached Curry since 2014, had his own thoughts on Jordan's concept of Hall of Fame talent.

"I think Michael has his own version of the Hall of Fame," Kerr later told reporters. "It's in his own head... whatever that is, then that's what it is."

ling the state to request this federal assistance. In August 2017, the Department initially approved $10,000,000 to assist with cleanup and recovery efforts in the 19 counties included in the declaration. Today's incremental award of $1,000,000 follows earlier awards totaling $25,000,000, bringing total funds awarded to date to $36,000,000.

Supported by the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014, Dislocated Worker Grants temporarily expand the service capacity of dislocated worker training and employment programs at the state and local levels by providing funding assistance in response to large, unexpected economic events that cause significant job losses.

Beyond the Rhetoric

zation is concerned that institut- ing a 36% credit rate cap could reduce options for African American would-be entrepre- neurs. We believe research is needed to understand the impact of a 36% rate cap and that other options potentially will need to be made available to help African American entrepreneurs to level—and enter—the playing field.

In summary, we believe that there are several factors that need to be understood and quantified before a 36% rate cap can even be considered in Congress. At this point, there are just too many unknowns to upend a system that is at least a known and reliable one.

John Conyers, Longest Serving Black Congressman, Dies At Age 90

Congressman John Conyers is seen during a ceremony for former U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, in Detroit, April 11, 2016. Detroit police say the former congressman died at his home on Sunday, Oct. 27, 2019. He was 90. ((AP Photo/Carlos Osorio, File)

Detroit, Michigan -- Former U.S. Rep. John Conyers, one of the longest-serving members of Congress whose resolutely liberal stance on civil rights made him a political institution in Washington and back home in Detroit despite several scandals, has died. He was 90.

Conyers, among the high-profile politicians topped by sex harassment allegations in 2017, died at his home on Sunday, said Detroit police spokesman Cpl. Dan Donakowski. The death "looks like natural causes," Donakowski added.

Known as the dean of the Congressional Black Caucus, which he helped found, Conyers became one of only six black House members when he was won his first election by just 108 votes in 1964. The race was the beginning of more than 50 years of election dominance: Conyers regularly won elections with more than 80 percent of the vote, even after his wife went to prison for taking a bribe.

That voter loyalty helped Conyers freely speak his mind. He took at both Republicans and fellow Republicans: he said then-President George W. Bush "has been an absolute disaster for the African-American community" in 2004, and in 1979 called then-President Jimmy Carter "a hopeless, demented, honest, well-intentioned nerd who will never get past his first administration."

Throughout his career, Conyers used his influence to push civil rights. After a 15-year fight, he won passage of legislation declaring the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday a national holiday, first celebrated in 1986. He regularly introduced a bill starting in 1989 to study the harm caused by slavery and the possibility of reparations for slaves' descendants. That bill never got past a House subcommittee.

His district office in Detroit employed civil rights legend Rosa Parks from 1965 until her retirement in 1988. In 2005, Conyers was among 11 people inducted to the International Civil Rights Walk of Fame.

But after a nearly 53-year career, he became the first Capitol Hill politician to lose his job in the torrent of sexual misconduct allegations sweeping through the nation's workplaces. A former staffer alleged she was fired because she rejected his sexual advances, and others said they'd witnessed Conyers inappropriately touching female staffers or requesting sexual favors.

He denied the allegations but eventually stepped down, citing health reasons.

"My legacy can't be compromised or diminished in any way by what we're going through now," Conyers told a Detroit radio station from a hospital where he'd been taken after complaining of lightheadedness in December 2017. "This, too, shall pass. My legacy will continue through my children."

and Baltimore police - Cummings spoke at the youth's funeral.

"I've often said that our children are the living messages we send to a future we will never see. But now our children are sending us to a future they will never see," Cummings said. "There's something wrong with that picture."

He endorsed former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton for the presidency in 2016, but remained optimistic on the prospect of working with Trump when he was elected. That outlook soured during the administration's first two years.

"Perhaps if I knew then what I know now, I wouldn't have had a lot of hope," Cummings later said, adding that Trump "often calls the truth a lie and calls a lie the truth."

He railed with special vehemence against the administration's treatment of migrant children in detention facilities along U.S.-Mexico border.

During an Oversight committee hearing in July, Cummings raged at former acting secretary of Homeland Security Kevin McAleenan, "What does that mean when a child is sitting in their own feces, can't take a shower - come on, man! What is that about? None of us would have our own children in that position."

That criticism prompted Trump to go on the offensive, tweeting that Cummings was a "brutal bully" and calling his district a "disgusting, rat and rodent infested mess."

Cummings did not issue a direct response, but said at the National Press Club in Washington that "those at the highest levels of government must stop invoking fear, using racist language and encouraging reprehensible behavior... we are done with the hateful rhetoric."

Despite his predominantly liberal voting record, Cummings was also known for his ability to work with Republican lawmakers and develop friendships with them.

When Trump's former personal attorney, Michael Cohen, testified before the oversight panel in February, Cummings called Rep. Mark Meadows, R-North Carolina, "one of (his) best friends," and urged Rep. Rashida Tlaib, D-Michigan, to clarify that she did not intend to call Meadows a racist during her remarks.

It Was One of Those Weeks

by
Dr. James L. Snyder

At my stage in life, I have experienced a gazillion weeks. I thought about actually counting how many weeks I have lived, but I don't have that many fingers or toes.

I do have one complaint this week. Who was that knucklehead that invented the telephone? I would like to call him and give him a piece of my mind if I have any pieces left.

Don't let this get around, there are days that I "forget" my cell phone and leave it at home. I must confess they are wonderful days of quietness and serenity. To have a whole day when nobody can get a hold of you has to be a day in paradise.

I was going out the door Monday morning to go to the office when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage said, "Do you have your phone with you?"

"Oh no," I said. Then I went, got my cell phone and left for the office.

I didn't turn the phone on until I got to my office and was getting situated to begin my week's work. As soon as I set down the phone started ringing. That may be why they call it a smartphone.

It was one of those telemarketing calls that I get all the time.

Two times a day this past week I received that call that somebody in our house had a hearing problem. To be honest, my problem is not hearing, but rather listening.

I can hear everything the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage says, but most of the time I'm not listening. I wonder if they have some kind of a solution for that.

A similar call has been concerning the fact that someone in our house has a pain problem.

If only there was a real person talking that I could talk back to and say the only real pain problem I have is with somebody like you calling me. But it's a recorded call and I can't respond to it.

As the week developed, I got more frustrated. What's a person to do when there's not anything you can do about these phone calls?

Thursday I did get an actual person that was calling me live. I was so frustrated that I didn't know exactly how to deal with this person.

Then I had a thought tiptoe through the little gray cells in my cranium. That thought was, why don't I respond to this person in gibberish. If anybody is good at gibberish, it's a pastor. I've been a pastor for so long that I should have some kind of a PhD in gibberish.

A few moments talking gibberish to this person on the phone released me of all my frustration for the week. Now the person on the other end of the phone was getting frustrated.

"Please speak English," the person kept saying.

It was one of those weeks that was most frustrating, but then I learned to take that frustration and spin it into gibberish.

I was thinking of what Solomon once said. "It is as sport to a fool to do mischief; but a man of understanding hath wisdom" (Proverbs 10:23).

My desire is not to let the words of fools frustrate me, but to nourish my mind and soul on the wisdom of God.

LBK ROOTS HISTORICAL ARTS COUNCIL

We are raising money for many reasons. One of the main reasons is to help sustain the CAVIEL MUSEUM that is a part of the LBK ROOTS Council. The roof of the museum has leaks that need to be fixed as soon as possible. Second, the museum needs ceiling fans to help keep the air circulating due to the fact that the building is fifty years old plus some years. Next, a marquee is needed to communicate to the public about the different events that are going on currently and in the future at the museum and other events with LBK ROOTS. These are just a few needs that are severely needed at the CAVIEL MUSEUM. Your donations, service and gifts will be highly appreciated by the entire ROOTS board. If there are any concerns or questions concerning any of the mentioned needs, please get in contact with us.

The CAVIEL MUSEUM has been in operation for about seven years. It has been a part of the FIRST FRIDAY ART TRAIL for almost two years. We have had many local and distant artists to exhibit mixed mediums and to participate and appreciate the enjoyment of sharing the variety of arts with the community and educational institutions. Our mission is to educate the community about the contributions the African Americans have given to West Texas and Lubbock, TX.

Please share this information and the link to the GIVING TUESDAY website, where the LBK ROOTS ARTS COUNCIL website is all set up for DONATIONS! OUR GOAL IS $10,000. Last year, we didn't make it because it was our first year to participate in this GREAT campaign. TELL YOUR FAMILY AND FRIENDS LOCAL OR OUT OF TOWN TO PLEASE DONATE TO ROOTS. CHECKS: can also be made out to LBK ROOTS ARTS COUNCIL OR LBK ROOTS HISTORICAL ARTS COUNCIL; and mailed or given to you. Triumph Missionary Baptist Church 90 Year Celebration

Brown was called as the pastor. Rev. Brown and his family served 24 years before resigning. Rev. Wilson came and served 2 years. Rev. E. Jennings became the pastor in 1987. In December of 1998, Rev. Jennings resigned. In May of 1999 the Lord sent us another preacher, Rev. H.L. Brawley, along with his wife, who was installed as pastor. The red bricks and the red metal roof were installed during Rev. Brawley's leadership. Rev. Brawley resigned October 16, 2011. Rev. R.D. Pegues was installed as Pastor of TMBC in 2012. God blessed TMBC in 2013 with renovations. God blessed TMBC with workers and builders who labor to keep our building updated. We serve an awesome God: The Usher Board was blessed and presented with a new church sign. God's blessings continued to rain on TMBC. This Celebration service will begin at 3:00 P.M. at Triumph Missionary Baptist, located at 1255 E. Geneva St., Slaton, TX 79364. Contact Sis. Bessie Peques at 787-7304 for more information.
