Spoutin' Off Once Upon A Dream..

By Bill Turner

WASHINGTON. Somehow the word stuck in my head the other night, as I thought about the election of last weekend. We, the people of Texas, had just elected a short, stocky little fellow from Wichita Falls to be one of our senators, to represent us in Washington. Soon John Tower would be on his way to Washington, I thought. We'll expect him to stick to his campaign promises and give Texas a conservative voice in the Senate. Would he turn out to be just another politician, I wondered, or would he become a great statesman, one who would forget personal gain or favor and vote in the best interest of his state and the people he represents? Pretty soon, I dozed off.

You Can Learn A Lot While You Dream

I AWOKE in a dream. Now it should be easy for me to convince you that this was a dream, because it turned out that I was in Heaven. The first, and only, person I ran across was George Washington. I recognized him immediately, . . . like most other Americans, I'd had my eye on the dollar long enough to know George Washington when I see him. George and I, in my dream, discussed the problems of 1961. He knew all about what's going on. "How do you keep informed up here, George?" I asked. "Same way you do," the President replied. "I read the newspapers." I guess I didn't have enough faith in my own profession, because George could see the astonishment in my face. "Yes, we have newspapers in Heaven," he said. "But only the good ones are delivered here, same as people."

1961 Has Plenty Of Surprises

"I SUPPOSE you've been reading all about how the Communists are working to take over the world, how our Astronaut went up into space, and how Texas elected a Republican Senator," I commented. "That's right," said George. "I'm not surprised at anything the Communists do and I knew America would get a man into space sooner or later. But I still can't get over Texas electing a Republican senator. . . ." "Yeah," I said, "it was quite a surprise to a lot of Democrats, too." And then I put the President on the spot: "George, some of the history books say you were tied in some way with the Federalist Party back when you were President. Is that right?" "We had two political parties back in those days," he replied. "I didn't belong to either one of them." "The other party," I asked, "was the Republican, wasn't it?" "Yes, it was led by Thomas Jefferson, you know. But they later started calling it the Democratic Party," George explained.

It's What's Behind Name That Counts

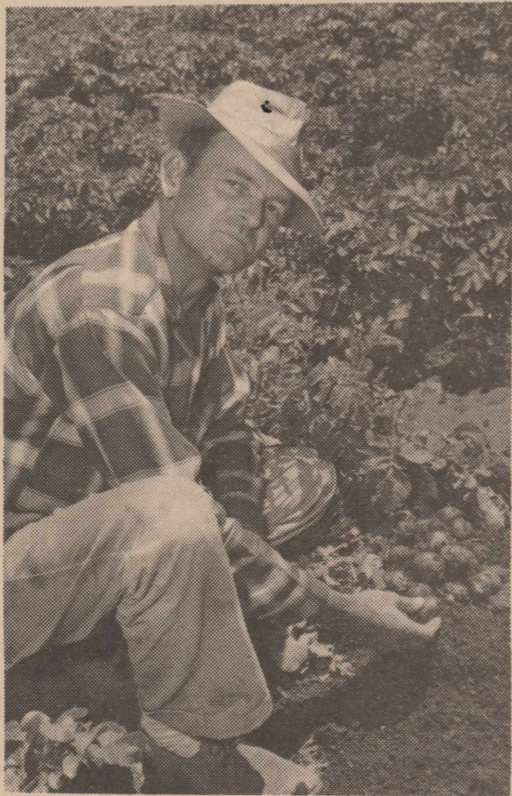

THE WAY he said it made me realize that it isn't the name of the party that counts; it's what the party stands for. "You know," said George, "Alexander Hamilton was the leader of the Federalist Party back in my time. I tried to get he and Jefferson together, because I was afraid they would split up the country." Our problem today, I told George, isn't so much that of differences between parties as it is differences within the parties. "Down in Texas," I said, "we have liberal Democrats and conservative Democrats. And we have liberal Republicans and conservative Republicans. . . ." George broke in: "Maybe you ought to start calling yourselves liberals or conservatives and let it go at that." "That wouldn't be a bad start," I said, "but the problem goes a whole lot deeper. You see, by the time either party gets done with a platform, it isn't acceptable to anybody." "And another thing," I said, "Both parties have let Socialism creep into their platforms. Why we have federal aid for almost anything, and our states' rights are going to be a thing of the past pretty soon." "I know," said the President. "Thomas Jefferson tells me he gets indigestion every time he reads the papers."

How George Sees Our Problem. . .

"YOU KNOW what your problem really is, don't you?" George asked. I told him I'd heard lots of versions on what America's biggest problems are, the one most often mentioned being the threat of Communism. "Well," he said, "let's say Communism is your biggest danger. But why is it? The answer to that question brings your real problem out. . . ." "I'm afraid you need to spell it out for me," I said. Before he could tell me, the alarm rang and ended the dream.

The Answer, As George Might See It

MY DREAM conversation with Washington has worried me ever since. What did he mean? Finally it dawned on me. Why sure that's the answer. . . it has to be. This is about what I think Washington would have said: "You people take freedom for granted. Sure, you've had to win wars to keep it, but you've never had to fight to GAIN IT. "Back in 1775, when we revolted from the British, we were dissatisfied with having British troops at our doorstep, with taxes, with the King. We wanted our freedom. We wanted it badly enough to fight for it. "Your generation was born to freedom and prosperous years. You have grown too satisfied. "Maybe America is like the man who lay down in the shade to relax. He got to where he enjoyed it so much he didn't do anything about the ants which stung him now and then. Finally the ants got so bad that he got up and left. But he waited too long and wound up in the hospital. "That's the way Socialism is doing America now. You've been stung a few times, but this is only the beginning. "Pretty soon you're going to have to get up and do something about it. "Are you going to just get up and let them take over your nice, shady spot? Or will you ever get riled enough to drive them out?"

GENE LIGHT, 8, is all packed and ready to leave for wheat harvest.

Harvest Crew Takes To Road

A giant mass of machinery rolled out of Olton Tuesday as nine local residents began a three-month tour, which will take them through six states and thousands of acres of wheat. The summer wheat harvest is headed by A.C. Light, who initiated his harvesting tour last year. A parade of eleven huge vehicles lined the highway as the three combines, four trucks, trailerhouse, gas wagon and two pickups began their "swing around the states." Other than Light, his wife Alline and 8-year-old Gene, six crewmen will make the trip. Roy Neal Jones will serve as crew foreman as Harold Feathergill, James Hukill, James Loubough and Donald Oursbourn help put the mechanical giants into operation. "We've been getting ready for weeks, and we're taking everything from a television to snake bite kits," said Mrs. Light. "I'll be chief cook and bottle washer, and it's quite an experience---they'll eat anything," Mrs. Light added, recalling her trip last summer. The harvest will begin in Vernon and work north through parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming. The joint operation will include cutting the wheat and hauling it to market. Crew members will do everything from driving combines and trucks to scrapping dishes after "chow." A similar two-month tour last summer took the group through Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and Wyoming. In contrast to last year's tour, when the crew slept in tents and the Lights stayed in motels, this year the Lights are taking a two-bedroom trailer house. But the crew will still have a chance to experience a little outdoor camping. "We got jobs anywhere we went last year. It is a good way to make new friends of all kinds, shapes and colors," Mrs. Light commented. "On rainy days the boys in the crew usually hunt and we play games," Mrs. Light added. The Lights expect harvesting prices to raise the farther north they travel. They expect prices to be about $2.50 an acre in Oklahoma, $3 in Amarillo, $3.50 in Kansas and up to $4 in Nebraska. While Light is gone a farm (Continued On Page 5)

Winds, Rain, Bugs Keep Farmers Busy

Farmers in the Olton area nursed along young crops this week, looking forward to what they hope will be another banner crop year on the South Plains. Almost all of them have their minds on the weather, hoping they'll get a break from the winds and rain which have caused some trouble in the past two weeks. Another worry with this area's farmers is the insect problem. Quite a few farmers declared their annual war on bugs last week. Cotton is practically 100 per cent planted in this area. Some of it was replanted in the past few days, following hard, washing rains which fell two weeks ago. Much of the maize already is planted, but some observers think next week may be the heaviest single period of the season for grain planting. "More than half the cucumber acreage has been planted," Dick Whiteley, Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture manager, estimated this week. The first load of barley for this area was delivered to Olton Grain Co. late Monday. The load, brought in by M.G. Fisher, who farms north of town, was about 250 bushels. Moisture test was 11.60 percent. Wheat harvest is believed to be less than two weeks away. Aside from the big crops of cotton and grain, the Olton area will have about 650 acres of cucumber production this year, along with about 500 acres of potatoes. Some fairly sizable acreages of beans and corn also will be produced. Cotton is the big crop, however, and most farmers are fighting sand, insects and the elements as they help the young (Continued On Page 5)

Tower Takes Olton; Falls In County

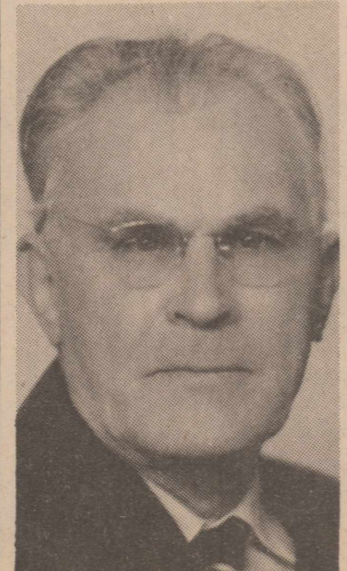

Olton voters again showed their preference for John Tower Saturday as they joined the rest of the state in electing the 35-year-old Wichita Falls conservative to the Senate. Tower polled 188 votes here, leading Sen. Bill Blakley, who polled 135, by more than 50. Over the county, Blakley led Tower, 1,135 to 1,032. Statewide results gave Tower a margin of about 8,000, among the 900,000 voters who went to the polls last Saturday. Springlake voters gave the nod to Blakley, 36 to 31. At Hart Camp, the vote was tied, 18-18.

Olton Delegates At Lions Meet

Olton Lions will file into Levelland this weekend for the annual District 27-28 Lions Club Convention, which is expected to draw more than 1,000 members from its 52 clubs. Eight Olton delegates, G.T. Sides, George Redinger, Joe Turner, Eldon Franks, Ralph Glover, Dr. Lynn Elte, Basil Sherman and Howard Hall, are attending the three-day meeting, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Alternate delegates representing Olton are Kent Pollard, Charles Polk, Bill Kelley, Major James, Archie Sorley, Don Spain, Herman Meyer and James Hall. Highlights of the convention include a cabinet meeting Thursday, a golf tournament, District Lions Club Queen contest and election of district officers Friday and a governor's banquet and ball Saturday, honoring District Governor J.D. Dyer Jr., Lamesa. The ball will feature music by Ray Wray, Dallas, and a floor show featuring "Uncle Willie." Kelley, Olton club secretary, said he expects 16 to 20 Lions from here to enter the golf tourney, at the Levelland Country Club. Cheryl Poteet, Olton Lions Queen, will compete in the district queen's contest Friday night, which has 36 entries. Miss Poteet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Poteet. Another Olton Lion, George Redinger, zone chairman is to participate in the cabinet meeting today, Kelley will take part in a question and answer session Friday to brief club secretary on their duties. The Olton club is co-sponsor of W.A. "Smokey" Hewett, Plainview, for district governor, according to Kelley. Hewett is the present deputy district governor. Jack Strong of Lubbock is his opponent. Two hospitality rooms, for serving refreshments to Lions and their wives, will be sponsored by the local club. At last year's convention in Lubbock, the Olton Lions Club was selected as the outstanding district club. The selection was based on a point system of club activities. Kelley expressed hope that the Olton club will repeat winning the honor.

Twin Ring Ceremony Joins Ann Mills, Daniel Seiple

Beverly Ann Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Mills, Hart, became the bride of Lt. Daniel Emerson Seiple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Seiple, Massillon, Ohio, last Friday at the First Methodist Church, Hart.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Lee Crouch.

The church altar was decorated with a circle lattice, entwined with plumos fern and white snowball chrysanthemums. Baskets of white princess gladioli, mums and emerald palms flanked tree candelabras bearing white tapers and satin bows.

The bridal path and family pews were decorated with white satin bows and white tapers. Vocal selections were presented by Milton Sharp as he was accompanied by Mrs. Sharp.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white gown of imported lace and tulle, fashioned with a fitted bodice, high neckline and a full gathered skirt of lace and tulle.

Her finger-tip veil of French illusion fell from a tear-drop crown of lace trimmed with pearls.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of pink orchids and rose buds showered with Stephanotis.

Mrs. Ted Robb of Dimmitt attended her sister as matron of honor, Nancy Reed, Hart, cousin of the bride and James Seiple, Massillon, Ohio, brother of the groom, were candle-lighters. Flower girl was Gayle Reed, Hart, cousin of the bride, and ring bearer was Larry Robb, Dimmitt, nephew of the bride.

The matron of honor was attired in a turquoise lace sheath with a turquoise tulle overskirt and carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and Frenched white carnations.

The flower girl and candle-lighter wore identical dresses of turquoise silk organza accented with white lace. The flower girl carried a basket of pink rose buds and the candlelighter wore a pink rose corsage at her waist line.

Lt. Stephan Hava, Waco, served as best man and ushers were Ted Robb, Dimmitt, and Mike Reed, Hart, cousin of the bride.

The bride and groom's mothers wore dresses of identical coloring. Both dresses were of beige lace accented with bone colored accessories and pink rose corsages.

Scene for the reception was the church parlor. Members of the houseparty included Mmes. Glynn Reed, Roy Pyeatt, J.D. Murray, Lester McLain, Mack Fry, Melvin McMennamy, Jay Nafzger and Misses Barbara Shaheen and Linda Lilly.

For the wedding trip to Ohio and South Carolina the bride chose a turquoise suit with turquoise and white accessories.

Mrs. Seiple is a graduate of Dimmitt High School and Texas Technological College, Lubbock.

Her husband was graduated from Washington High School in Massillon, Ohio and attended Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, Ohio.

Father Uses Torch To Free Son Trapped In Accident

Tense moments ticked off slowly for Tom Burrus, 24, a former Hart resident, as he spent an anxiety-packed 30 minutes May 24 freeing his five-year-old son from his trap in the cab of an overturned pickup with an acetylene torch. The accident occurred on FM 194 northwest of Plainview.

The child, Thomas Neal Burrus II, was pulled to safety after the father cut away parts of the seat, with the cutting torch, which he acquired from a nearby castor bean plant construction site.

Burrus, his son and two-year-old daughter Lisa Annette were riding in the pickup when it collided with a tractor pulling a drill, driven by Felipe Garcia, 56, a farm laborer in the Plainview vicinity.

As the truck turned end over end and landed on its top, the father and daughter were thrown from the vehicle. But Thomas Neal was pinned inside between the crushed cab and the truck's seat.

Fire threatened to break out as the acetylene flame came near gasoline dripping from the pickup tank.

Motorists, who had stopped, used hub caps to dip water out of the bar ditch and stood ready to fight a blaze if it had started.

The father suffered cuts about the head, but was not hospitalized; Lisa Annette was not injured in the mishap, and Thomas Neal was admitted to the Plainview Hospital and Clinic for overnight observation. The boy was not believed to be seriously injured.

Garcia was uninjured in the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burrus of Hart are grandparents of the injured boy.

Vacation Bible Schools Started In A Beer Hall

BY MRS. BLANTON MARTIN

It all started in a beer hall-Vacation Bible School, that is. Mrs. Virginia Hawes needed a place to conduct a summer Bible school for the children of New York's East Side. The owner of the saloon was glad to oblige since his place of business was not used during the day, and especially since he realized almost forty dollars from its rent.

Mrs. Hawes' humble beginning has spread throughout the United States until today almost every major denomination promotes Vacation Bible School. The monetary cost of VBS is very little, relatively speaking. One denomination has set the expense at from twelve to fifteen cents per pupil per day. Any conscientious worker could tell you, however, that preparation for the school costs much in time and effort. Teachers who are already avid Bible readers find it necessary to peruse that sacred book again in order to "teach from overflow" and to be prepared for the pupils' questions. Mission study leaders deem it wise to familiarize themselves with the geography, culture, and customs of other lands and people. There are flip-charts to make and poster to print. New ideas for creative activities are necessary, and collecting and preparing materials for the pupils to use often become real challenges.

There is no question about the appeal of such a program. In one denomination alone, recent figures show an enrollment of three million for one year.

Even intermediates, who usually consider themselves grown-up and quite removed from the children of the church, cannot resist the beck and call of Vacation Bible School. Many churches, adding an intermediate department for the first time, have been surprised at the enrollment and attendance of the teen-agers.

Results of Vacation Bible School are undeniably good. Whole families have become regular in church attendance because Johnny went to VBS. The simple act of saying "Thank You, God" for refreshments at Bible school many times grows into the parent's realization that all good things DO come from God.

Continued from P 1 hand will manage more than a section of land, which Light farms five miles north of Olton.

Mrs. Light said her family will return to Olton the last of June, four or five days during the potato harvest on their farm.

Then once again they'll head north to spend the remainder of the summer following the harvest, and watching their mighty combines wade through and crush the proud, waving wheat, until fruitful fields are turned into a mass plain of broken stubble.

From morning until night the razor-like teeth of the creeping combines will rip off thousands of wheat stalks to stuff their bins with tons of grain, only to be found empty when the summer ends, closing another saga in the life of this massive agricultural giant called, "Wheat Harvest."

Farmers

Paul Burrus, who farms three miles south of town, says he is "spraying for thrip and they're pretty bad. My cotton looks good except for the bugs." Burrus planted his cucumber acreage last Monday. He also has planted 30 acres of kidney beans.

"We've had about 3 1/2 inches of rain on our cotton since we planted May 10," said James Simmons at the Lee Simmons farm two miles west of Olton. "Those first rains washed it, but we got the cotton up to a good stand and the last rain helped it along. We haven't had to plant any over," Simmons said.

Ross Bryant, who farms two miles east of town, says his crops aren't in too good condition, "just too much rain and wind."

"I'm going to plant maize next week," Bryant said. He planted cotton May 2 and hasn't had to plant any over.

"The bugs aren't too bad in my cotton" said H.A. Hysinger, who farms two miles north of town. "But some of my neighbors are spraying now."

Hysinger said the sand had been hard on his crop. "It kinda burned the leaves."

His cotton, planted April 20, is running a little behind schedule. The cool weather, he said, has slowed cotton more than anything.

He has planted 50 acres of kidney beans and that crop is up to a "nice stand and growing." He is set to plant maize next week.

Asked how his cotton is coming along, Elmer McGill answered in one word: "Terrible."

McGill, who farms three miles south of town, said he had to replant on 200 acres because of about 4 1/2 inches of rain, high winds and thrip. "I started planting May 23rd and finished Wednesday," McGill said.

McGill said he'd have some wheat and barley ready to harvest in about 10 days. He also has about 220 acres of corn.

At the Roy Thurman farm 4 1/2 miles south, Mrs. Thurman said her husband had to "scratch the cotton to get it up." She estimated the crop had received a total of about six inches of rain, with the first two rains "really washing" the crop. Maize will be planted next week at the Thurman farm.

"I've got some of the prettiest weeds you've ever seen," laughed Vance Estes, who farms about seven miles northwest. "No, really, my cotton looks good. . . I had to scratch it to get it up after the rains. My grain is up to a pretty good stand."

"We need some hot weather," Doyle Pinson, who farms west of Olton. He said his cotton is doing "pretty good, although the wind and sand has hurt it some." Pinson also has planted cucumbers and will plant maize next week.

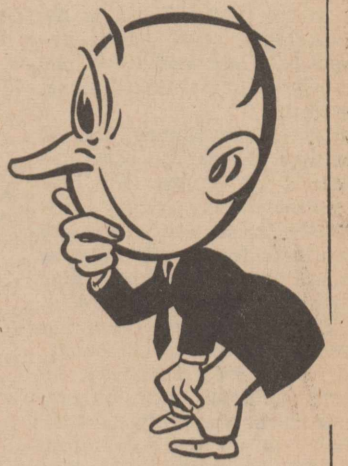

Clovis Poteet, who farms two miles west, said his cotton "looks awfully scrubby. I nearly whipped it to death trying to keep the sand off it."

Poteet also has planted cucumbers, potatoes and corn. The cucumber harvest should start in the middle of July. Brow-Miller Co. has contracted with farmers for about 480 acres of cucumbers, while Dalton Co. has another 160 acres under contract here.

"But maybe you are worried about what you're going to plant on those diverted acres? I know where you can buy

Madrid Clover for $15 per CWT.

"Of course, this fellow has any kind of soil builder you want. You say you'd like to know where?"

Olton Golfer Is Runner-Up In Amarillo Meet

Frank Cornelius was runner-up in the Third Flight at the "Life Begins at 40" golf tournament held last weekend at John Pitman Municipal Golf Course, Hereford.

First place winner, Harold Hamilton of Amarillo, beat Cornelius 1 up on the 20th hole in the match play tourney. Cornelius's prize was a $35 gift certificate for merchandise at the golf course pro shop, which incidently, he took in golf balls. "I think I'd have won, but Owen Norfleet was my caddy, and after the 18th hole, he started gripping about his pay. It seems he wanted 'time-and-a-half' on all the holes after the 18th. After listening to him a couple of holes, I missed a 15-inch putt on the 20th hole," Cornelius said jokingly. Also entering the tournament from Olton were C.S. Silcott, Bill Yates and H.B. Carson.

After receiving emergency treatment at Community Hospital, Oursbourn was taken to West Plains Hospital at Muleshoe.

Local Pictures Are Highlights Of Show

More than 1800 persons attended the second annual non-competitive gem and mineral show, in which six local residents had exhibits, Saturday and Sunday in Lubbock at the municipal Garden and Arts Center.

Lubbock Gem and Mineral Club sponsored the exhibit. Roscoe Thomas is president of the club and Mrs. Thomas is secretary.

Thomas exhibited an Australian and Mexican opal and several stones in the rough and a tektite, while Mrs. Thomas displayed a turquoise collection. Other local exhibitors were Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Cowar, a sphere collection and cabs for jewelry; Mrs. Myrtle Clayton and Don Clayton of Springlake, Indian Artifacts.

"The water fowl pictures of the late Walter Schreier were the highlights of the show. People really like them," Mrs. Thomas said.

From Olton about 45 visitors attended, according to Mrs. Thomas. "Visitors even came from California, Tennessee and New Mexico, besides from all over Texas; the show was really a big success," added Mrs. Thomas.

Last year about 1500 people visited the exhibit. The Lubbock club, which is a member of the Federation of Gem and Mineral Society of Texas, will submit entries in the state gem and mineral show June 8-11 in Wichita Falls. Prizes of money and ribbons will be given in the state show, according to Mrs. Thomas.

A committee from the club will select and send three cases of exhibits from the Lubbock club to the state show, Mrs. Thomas concluded.

The 2 1/2-year-old Lubbock club has about 75 members. According to Mrs. Thomas, some of the most outstanding members are Professor Zukaukas, horticulture instructor at Texas Tech, and Bill Hamm, who is a staff member of the Avalanche Journal, Lubbock.

A Breakfast A Day Keeps Fatigue Away Says Survey

AUSTIN—If you suffer from "ten o'clock hunger," better revise your breakfast habits, State Health Department nutritionists advise.

More and more people are falling into the habit of skimpy breakfasting. Surveys show that two out of every nine children leave for school without breakfast, and four out of ten workers leave for work with nothing to eat.

"Ten o'clock hunger" is the expression nutritionists use to describe the body condition which comes with an inadequate breakfast. Victims usually feel weak by midmorning. They may be hungry, yet have no taste for lunch. Or, if they are able to eat a big lunch, they will become sleepily by early afternoon.

Studies with volunteers of all ages have proved conclusively that poor breakfast habits are directly responsible for fatigue, dullness, irritability, and a general feeling of cussedness. Volunteers fed a good breakfast were more productive and alert, easier to get along with than their hungry counterparts.

Ten o'clock hunger therapy, nutritionists say, calls for the "patient" to eat a solid breakfast. What it should consist of is dependent on physical activity, age, sex, weight and other factors about which a physician can readily advise.

The daily dietary needs of the average man can vary, depending on how active he is, from 2400 to 4500 calories, according to findings of the National Research Council.

Here are some suggestions to meet minimum breakfast requirements for the average adult of relatively sedentary habits:

Fruit or fruit juice from vitamin C, required for normal wound healing and to prevent scurvy; cereal for vitamin A which is essential in resisting infections, and vitamin B, insufficient quantities of which are responsible for the irritability and fatigue occasioned by ten o'clock hunger; bread or grain derivative such as rolls or pancakes for its mineral content; an egg or meat for protein; and a beverage.

It is a false idea that skipping breakfast is a good way to reduce, if anything, this highly injurious practice adds pounds. It works like this:

Skip breakfast and by noon you have lost your appetite or else are afraid to eat for fear of being groggy all afternoon. Then for supper you eat the food your body has been demanding all day. Now you go to bed and your supper is converted into fat rather than energy as would have been the case had you eaten properly during hours of greatest activity. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Olton Students To Appear In Dance Recital

Students of the Larrymore Dance Studios will present the '61 Review Friday, June 2, at 8 p.m. in the Littlefield High School Auditorium.

Olton students who will appear are Cheryl Latimer dancing a hula solo, and Kay Chitwood, Susie Culwell, Kristi Burrus and Joanna Carlisle in a ballet line.

Instructor of the Olton students is Mrs. Shirley Pickrell.

Personal Taste Affects Selection

The modern day models of the large freezers are departmentalized. There are handy racks for a "first in, first out" arrangement of commercial frozen foods, in-the-door compartments for additional storage space, pie and cake racks to avoid crushing these delicacies, and many other features which make it a simple matter to reach any food item at once.

As a current cigarette advertising program says, "It's all a matter of taste", and so it is with your freezer program. You can do what you want, for there's a model for every need.

Families Are Using More Frozen Foods

A natural outgrowth of the two-zone refrigerator was a combination freezer-refrigerator, in which the freezer occupies a separate section, behind a common door. This appliance grew out of the fact that families are using twice as much frozen food as they formerly did. Freezing units, therefore, have started to take over some of the space formerly used for storing fresh food.

These freezer-refrigerator combinations, designed primarily for small families or apartment dwellers, usually provided around 3.5 cubic feet of freezer space which will hold up to 125 pounds of frozen foods.

VISIT GALLAGHERS
Visitors Sunday in the James Gallagher home were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gallagher, and his brothers, Fred Gallagher and his family and Micheal Gallagher.

Olton Man To Work At ENMU Camp

Richard Bentz, Olton band director, has been selected to be on the camp staff of the 14th annual Sunshine Music Camp to be held at Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, starting June 4.

Approximately 400 music students from throughout the Southwest are expected to "band" together at the University for the camp.

Two weeks of intensive study in band and orchestra will be highlighted with concerts by four bands and two orchestras, C.M. Stookey, camp director, has announced.

A public concert is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Saturday, June 10, in the university gymnasium with three bands and two orchestras playing. Introduction of camp queen finalists and a twirling demonstration will also be a part of the program.

A concert featuring a band and orchestra will be heard in University Theatre Tuesday, June 13, at 8:30 p.m.

Concluding music camp activities on Friday, June 16, will be a twilight concert at 5 p.m. and an evening concert at 8 p.m. Both will be in university gymnasium.

"Play While You Play" serves as the motto for Sunshine Music Camp again this year, Stookey reminds. Entertainment will be provided by several movies, parties, dances, and stunt nights. The Amarillo Air Force Stage Band and Glee Club has also been scheduled.

Final Rites Held For Olton Woman In Oklahoma

Funeral services were conducted Saturday for Mrs. Alla Lee Chitwood, 87, Olton resident three years and former matron of Tipton Orphans Home, Tipton, Okla.

Services were in the Tipton Church of Christ with W.P. Dennis, minister, officiating. Interment was in Tipton Cemetery under the direction of Parsons Funeral Home, Olton.

Mrs. Chitwood died May 25 in a Littlefield hospital.

She was married in 1896 to the late R.E. Chitwood at Stoney. The Chitwoods were officials of the orphans home 21 years.

Mrs. Chitwood was preceded in death by her husband in 1950, and an infant daughter.

Survivors include a son, Robert, Olton, four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Amount of Space Important Factor

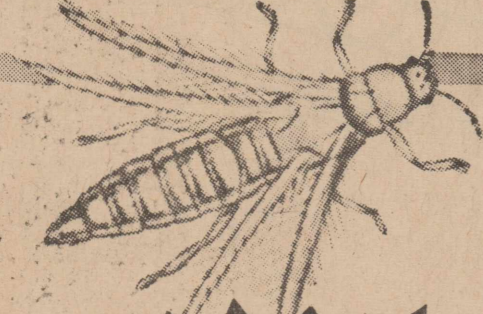

A full-scale freezer program calls for the large models. Size of the family and available space in kitchen or utility room, and just how much money you want to save are the important considerations from here on out. Your personal taste dictates whether you will have an upright or chest type.

A 'Kitchen Super Market' Can Be In Your Home

BY RALPH GLOVER
SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Constant use of the frozen food supply can make your kitchen super market the most important appliance in the household if it is used with the greatest efficiency. The services which are offered with a home freezer may be the basis of a homemaker's work pattern. These services include the advantages of having a large supply of food on hand at all times, economy of quantity buying, storage of farm and garden surplus, and the elimination of frequent shopping.

A continuous supply of food in and out of the freezer gives the highest return on the freezer investment. The homemaker will want to plan her frozen food use to receive all the advantages offered with a home freezer.

Here are some of the services and benefits a homemaker will give a homemaker.

1. The homemaker can freeze and store nearly all fruits and vegetables at their peak of freshness. This includes home grown and those purchased in local markets when they are most plentiful. This helps to assure the family a balanced diet throughout the year, as well as financial saving.

2. Meats and poultry may be frozen in quantities and stored for months. Have meats cut in pieces to suit the size of your family. All meats freeze well, but all meats do not keep for the same length of time. Your freezer instruction booklet will list correct storage times.

Vegetables Remain Tender When Frozen While Young

Quick freezing of fresh vegetables will hold them at their peak of freshness, and preserve vitamins to make the garden produce garden-fresh when served.

Most important is to get the vegetables in the freezer as soon as possible after gathering. The more tender, the better the frozen ones will be.

Vegetables to be frozen should be young, tender, free of insect bite, rust and bruises. To maintain their garden freshness, vegetables require scalding prior to freezing. The heat treatment stops the ripening process, so that vegetables are held at their peak of freshness, it also brightens color, preserves vitamins and softens vegetables so they pack more easily. The scalding process is similar to the method used before canning garden vegetables. This scalding may be done in water or live steam.

For scalding in boiling water, one pound of vegetables at a time is placed in a wire basket, a fine meshed strainer or in a cheese cloth bag and immersed in a large quantity of rapidly boiling water - at least four quarts.

Start counting the scalding time the moment the vegetables are immersed in the boiling water. Agitate the vegetables by moving them up and down in the water, so that they will be thoroughly scalded. Recommended times for scalding various vegetables are given in the home freezer instruction book.

For scalding in live steam, vegetables are placed in container above one or two inches of boiling water. Cover and begin timing immediately. If pressure cooker is used, the petcock should be left open.

Vegetables are drained after scalding and then cooled in cold running water or ice water for about the same time used for scalding. After vegetables are cooled, they are again drained and then packaged.

Proper scalding and quick freezing of garden-fresh vegetables will provide your family with garden-fresh vegetables in the months to come.

3. Game and fish may be frozen and enjoyed long after the "open season" is over.

4. Baked goods and "made dishes" stored in the freezer are a wonderful convenience for the busy housewife. You can bake today and serve the foods days later. The home freezer homemaker can prepare an entire meal, well in advance of the serving, and freeze it, and the meal needs only heating before serving.

5. With a home freezer, a homemaker can take advantage of frequent sales of foods in quantities and special sales of commercially frozen products. A real saving to the thrifty shopper.

6. When the homemaker is in a mood for baking, she can make extra quantities and store them for later use. They come in handy when urgently needed.

7. Practically all leftovers can be frozen for later use - the family need not tire of a big turkey. Remember, a half cake can be frozen and enjoyed later. Gravies and meat stock also serve to help the homemaker at a later date in preparing stews, meat pie, etc.

8. Lunch box sandwiches (except salad greens and salad dressing) can be frozen - also a complete box lunch can be packed and frozen. It's a big help in getting the youngsters off to school.

Your home freezer, when planned and used as a super market can mean much in economy, time and work.

Size of Freezer Needs Considering

The matter of size of your freezer, and whether it will be an upright or chest model, depends on how extensive a freezer program you are planning and how much floor space you have available for the freezer. For farm families - estimates have been made that a farm family will need from 4 to 6 cubic feet of storage space per person. For suburban families - who freeze some food and buy frozen food in large quantities, might be 6 or 8 cubic feet per person.

The upright freezers occupy a smaller floor space. Food freezes faster in upright models that have freezing coils in each shelf. Other models with roll out style shelves make foods stored at the back more accessible. Storage space is now provided in the door of many models.

Home Freezers Need Good Brand Names

Selecting the right model and style of home freezer, like any other long term investment, is a matter for serious consideration. You'll find that you have a choice of dozens of makes and sizes, and, if you haven't any previous experience to call on, you're going to be momentarily bewildered. However, by seeing as many models as possible, talking to friends who have home freezers, and reading as much as you possibly can about freezers, you'll be able to make a wise decision.

Large and reputable firms are in the freezer manufacturing business, so there is little risk if you choose a well-known name. The mechanical qualities that you are looking for in your freezer are relatively simple. You want adequate insulation, tight closure of the lid or door, and a properly engineered freezing mechanism.

New Upright Takes Little Wall Space

Then came the next logical development in freezer progress - a small upright model that was all freezer. Although it occupies only 24 inches of wall space, and is just over a yard tall, this model will hold up to 200 pounds of frozen foods in its 4 cubic feet of storage space. It serves two purposes, too, for its height makes it convenient to use the top as a work space.
