Rains Dump 4 Inches Of Moisture On Area

Pickle Harvest Slowed To Crawl

Heavy grey storm clouds hovering over Olton since last Friday had dumped more than four and a half inches of rainfall over the area Wednesday and continued to dim the skies with threats of more moisture.

Most area farmers welcomed the rains, but cucumber growers were about ready Wednesday for fields to dry enough to resume harvest which was slowed to a crawl here early this week.

The weather struck a sour note Tuesday afternoon when stormclouds hurled hailstones into fields southwest of town at the Paul Burrus farm leaving cotton "just looking like sticks," according to Mrs. Burrows.

A brilliant display of lightning knocked out transformers in the area, leaving the ORC in darkness for almost two hours Tuesday night, according to Ralph Glover, manager of Southwestern Public Service.

A Lions Club party was being held at the ORC and had to continue by candle light, according to Glover. "There were outages at the A.D. Melton home and two or three other places," Glover said.

A General Telephone Company employee reported Wednesday that electrical storms this week had "sure hurt us over there (Olton), and repairs are still working on it."

Several lines were reported snapped and telephones out of order.

There were reports of a possible tornado south of town, according to Police Chief Emmett Burrows, but it wasn't confirmed. Tornadoes were sighted near Sudan and Lockney.

Besides halting most farming activity this week, rains resulted in three nights of Little League play being postponed. "I doubt if we'll have our games Thursday night unless it clears off," Johnny Schenck said.

Operators of local cucumber sheds had anticipated this to be a busy week after harvest began last week. But rain-soaked fields slowed cucumber picking Monday and Tuesday, sending a mass of idle workers to crowd local businesses.

One local businessman Wednesday reported his department store was "completely full and that's unusual for this time of the week." "My sales all this week have been up wonderfully, so there must be quite a few more farmhands than usual in town," he added.

Cucumber intake at the Brown-Miller processing shed was cut to "about half" through Wednesday, according to Clovis Poteet, manager. "The rain is knocking some of the blooms off and hurting the pickles some," Poteet asserted.

At the Dalton shed, Earl Ray, manager, said his operations had "at least been cut in half." "I think the rains have hurt the vines some, but believe it's more or less temporarily," he commented. Each shed shipped five truckloads of cucumbers Monday and Tuesday.

A total of 2.45 inches of rain fell in Olton Monday and Tuesday, while .80 fell Sunday and

Krazy Daze Set Aug. 3

The third annual edition of Olton's uproarious "Krazy Daze" event is just a week away.

And the theme for this one is "New Ways To Go Nuts!"

The big day is Friday, Aug. 3. This year, Olton merchants are going to make a big effort to get residents of the area to go crazy with them.

They're offering a prize to the kraziest dressed shopper. Also planned for the event are various races and individual drawings by many of the participating stores.

The project's chairman, Lester Thompson, along with Chamber Manager Melvin McReynolds and members of the C-C-A's retail trades committee, are attempting to set up a mall in one block of downtown Olton.

Businesses and civic organizations are being asked to take part by setting up booths along the block. Those interested are asked to contact Thompson or McReynolds.

Besides all the usual kraziness that goes with the annual event, merchants will be offering sale items at ridiculous prices.

Vandalism At Schools Totals $200

Investigation of a break-in at Olton High School continued this week, after more than $200 in damages were incurred last weekend to the building and grounds, according to Police Chief Emmett Burrows.

"Several windows were broken out and some of the shrubbery and grass killed by poison. A sprinkler and 200 feet of water hose were stolen," Burrows said.

The vandals "broke out windows on the north side of the building and stuck a hose in there and left it running," Burrows stated. Several doors also had their windows broken, he noted.

The water hose later was recovered by Burrows at the west end of 7th street. Burrows reported Wednesday afternoon that "not at this time" were there any definite leads as to the identity of the vandals, but that investigation would continue.

Big Prizes Set For ORC Tourney

Prizes valued between $1500 and $2,000 will be given away August 10, 11 and 12 to winners in the annual Pro-Am and Invitational golf tournaments at Olton Recreational Center.

ORC officials have contacted several top-notch linksters in hopes they will enter the tournament.

More than $600 in prizes will go solely to participants in the championship flight of the Invitational meet. In each flight, the winner will receive a $170 set of Stan Thompson hand-made irons, with the runner-up getting a $130 set of Stan Thompson hand-made woods.

In fact, no linkster entering the tournament will go home empty-handed. A DX golf ball will be given to all entries, said the ORC Pro, Fred Pendergrass.

An added attraction to this second Invitational tourney will be a President's flight.

The $15 entrance fee also will include tickets for a barbecue supper Friday, Aug. 10, at 6:30 p.m. for players and their wives.

Qualifying round will be played August 10. A golfer unable to qualify may enter by phone, according to Pendergrass.

Each flight consolation winner will be given a $60 golf bag.

In the championship flight, in addition to other prizes, merchandise gifts of $30 will be given to the winner, with the second place golfer getting $20, and third ranking linkster winning $10.

Golfers finishing in 4th through the 16th positions in this same flight will get a dozen DX golf balls, valued at $15 a dozen. Players in the President's flight also will receive added merchandise.

The Pro-Am tourney August 10 will be the qualifying rounds

Lions Event Staged In Candlelight

Would you continue having a party if all the lights went out? Well, the Olton Lions would. In fact, they did.

Tuesday night should be a night to remember for more than 50 Lions and their wives who attended Lions' Ladies Night at the ORC.

What started out as a salad supper turned into a dinner by candlelight.

Just as the activities were getting underway, the group found itself in darkness. A power failure was caused by the antics of mischievous lightning flashes that danced out of a threatening thunderstorm, striking an ORC transformer.

But the men were determined to go on with the show. Then Basil Sherman solved the problem. He made a quick trip to town and returned with a bundle of candles. So the evening's program continued by candlelight.

Vocalists featured were Mrs. Jean Craft, who sang three selections, and a quartet composed of Don Spain, Sherman, Laus Hair and Lynn Fite.

When the event ended the lights were still off, according to Spain. But, he added, it certainly wasn't a dull evening.

Gospel Meet Is Underway

A gospel meeting is being conducted at the Olton Main Street Church of Christ this week with Wilbur Dennis of Tipton, Okla., doing the preaching.

Services are at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. Concluding services will be Sunday July 29 with the morning services at 11 a.m. and evening services at 7 p.m.

Business Vitality Is High In County

Lamb County is given an above-average rating for business vitality in Sales Management's annual report on buying power, just released.

The majority of local families, it shows, earned more and spent more in the past year than did families in most parts of the nation.

The economic doldrums of the previous year, when business was sputtering along in low gear, locally and elsewhere, were wiped away thoroughly by the strong upturn that took place in the last quarter of 1961.

Facts and figures detailing income and spending per household, and the way they varied from community to community, are presented in the copyrighted report.

In Lamb County, the resurgence of consumer buying produced a sales volume in local retail stores of $28,888,000, an increase over 1960's total of $28,787,000.

On the basis of population, the amount was well above what should have been expected.

Reckoned in that way, local retail business should have amounted to only .0120 per cent of the national volume. Actually, however, it went to .0131 per cent.

The fine result was achieved despite the effects of the recession, which carried over into the first few months of 1961. The consumer was still hesitant and cautious in his spending during that period.

Not until the latter months of the year did he fully come out of his shell and let loose with his dollars. What would have been a moderate year for business was suddenly transformed into a good one.

The upsurge was made possible by better earnings, on the average.

The survey shows that net income locally, after payment of taxes, totaled $33,867,000. It was equivalent to $5,055 per household, an arithmetic average obtained by dividing net income by the number of households.

PECAN MONEY

It Does Grow On Trees

BY GAYLE MACHEN

Most Olton folks don't believe the old cliché that money grows on trees, but Robert Meinecke does.

He anticipates that his 59 acres of pecan trees will make a gross profit of $1,000 per acre, when the trees reach maturity, if market conditions remain stable.

A progressive young farmer with an eye for the future, Meinecke believes pecans could give the High Plains another cash crop of major importance.

More than 1,000 trees line the Meinecke farm, three miles northeast of Olton. The first 480 young trees were planted on the farm eight years ago, while another 600 seedlings were set out during the past two years.

"There are very few pecan trees in Olton, but a lot of them can be found in the Plainview area, and if they grow there, I can see no reason why our trees here can't produce fruitfully," he said.

The last two years Meinecke has harvested about 200 pounds annually from the older trees, but says 10-year-old trees should produce about 1,000 pounds per acre. A mature tree, about 25-years-old, will bear about 250 pounds of pecans, according to Meinecke.

"According to literature from the Pecan Growers Association, we've never had a surplus of pecans and the present market potential would allow growers to double production, and still have a strong market," he said.

Other commercial pecan growers in this area whom Meinecke recalls are Aubry Neinst, Robbie Hawkins of Hart, and John Speck of Plainview who has trees on the C.C. Curry farm.

"They seem to be easier to care for than my other crops," Meinecke asserted. "I just water them a couple of times in the summer and once in the winter, prune them, and spray them with zinc sulfate three times annually to combat rosette."

Meinecke believes that production and harvesting costs won't be excessive either. A young tree costs "from $3 to $5, and if gathered by hand it costs about 2 or 3 cents a pound to harvest pecans."

"But machinery should cut that harvesting cost. A pecan sheller costs about $1500 and I can build a huller for about $300," he said. He says it costs a minimum of $75 to $85 per acre to start an orchard.

"A good cotton year seems to be a favorable pecan year too," the young farmer said.

Each spring male blooms, called catkins, appear on the tree when it begins to leaf. The are followed by the appearance of female blooms, called nutlets. The catkins soon fall off and the nutlets form tiny pecans, according to Meinecke.

November is harvest time for pecans on the farm. During the past two years hand labor has been used for harvest at the orchard. Large canvas sheets are placed beneath the trees and the trees are shaken until the pecans fall to the ground. Then the pecans are hulled.

"A young tree just looks like a stick almost, but my trees now are about 15 to 20 feet high, while a mature tree stands about 35 to 40 feet," Meinecke said.

Some of the essential climatological factors for pecan trees are long growing seasons, plenty of water, and a dormant growing period. "I think you'd have a pretty hard time starting them without irrigation in this country," he said.

Trees in the Meinecke orchard are planted 35 feet apart, with 70 feet between rows. Making use of all his land, while the trees mature, Meinecke has planted cash crops such as cotton, barley, maize, corn and soybeans among the rows of trees. "I think you could grow anything in there you wanted to . . . the only trouble I ever had was gathering my cotton one year," he said.

In the fields where the trees are planted "they use about a fourth of the land the first four years, then about a third of it from then on."

Three different kinds of trees, all papershell varieties, are planted on the Meinecke farm, with one kind, Burkett, being used as a pollinating agent. The two other varieties are Western Schley and San Saba Improved. "Western Schley seem to be the best trees here," Meinecke said.

A pecan tree lives about 200 to 300 years, according to Meinecke. "They say the pecan trees George Washington had are still growing," he laughed.

Marketing the pecans doesn't pose a problem to Meinecke. "Several buyers already have come by, so I should have no trouble selling them. There are markets in San Antonio, Ft. Worth and Las Cruces, N.M.," he said.

"It's hard to believe, but many people in the Western and Northern part of the United States have never even heard of a pecan pie, he grinned, so you can see there's a vast market yet to be filled."

"WE BELIEVE IN MONEY TREES"---Money trees may be a fantasy to some folks but these three lasses found dollars a plenty on one of their father's pecan trees. Left to right are Mitzi, 5, Jackye, 9, and Sheree, 7, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meinecke. It didn't seem to make a bit of difference to the girls that the money wasn't real, and their dad aspires to exchange the pecans along with those from 1,000 other trees on his farm, for plenty of minted money. Meinecke pioneered commercial pecan raising in this area.

EDITORIAL A Necessary Evil

A new and infinitely dangerous concept of taxation has been gaining currency, and it has its enthusiasts in high places.

It holds that taxation should be used as a social instrument, to bring about some desired result other than the raising of government revenue—and that, also, a tax is and should be an effective weapon for regulating the economy.

The Wall Street Journal has printed a letter from a reader, in which this attitude is vigorously assailed, and in which an admirable statement of principle is made: "Taxes . . . are not properly a control measure. They are not a price to pay for civilization or a privilege of freedom or any of these high-sounding terms. They are necessary to raise revenues with which to run the Government—that is all they are. They are a necessary evil but nonetheless evil.

To use the taxing power to direct and to control our energies and our rights is to lay the foundation of dictatorship.

Cotton Insect Situation Is Discussed

Insect pests have increased in numbers and damage in most area cotton plantings, according to reports from county agents. Control measures have been required where fleahopper, bollworm, and boll weevil populations have reached an economic level, the agents add.

W. R. Kimbrough, Lamb County agent, urged cotton producers to check their fields closely for the presence of fleahoppers and the loss of small squares. Fleahoppers adults and nymphs, as well as their damage, are easily overlooked if the fields are not carefully checked, Kimbrough added.

Bollworm damage increased in a number of counties in the Red Rolling Plains and South High Plains areas during the past week, he said.

At this time, the bollworm situation appears more serious than in the past few years. Cotton producers are strongly urged to inspect their fields closely for the presence of this pest and begin control as soon as four to five small worms (plus the presence of bollworm eggs) are found per 100 terminals checked, warned Kimbrough.

"As you know, large bollworms are extremely difficult to control," Kimbrough stated, "and for this reason, control should begin when the worms are small, found feeding in the tops of the plants and are not susceptible to recommended chemicals."

High Plains Area participated in the mid-year board of directors meeting of the Association, in the X I T Room of the Herring Hotel, Amarillo, Thursday, July 19.

It was pointed out that "officers and staff of Grain Sorghum Producers Association worked with the Department of Agriculture and administration officials, as well as with leaders of other farm organizations to get 'the best possible deal for grain sorghum' as new bills or amendments were presented."

Lamb County Commended

Mrs. J.R. Fain, Littlefield, chairman of the 1962 Cancer Crusade for Lamb County has received commendations from the state chairman, Dr. G.V. Brindley, Sr., for the outstanding success of the educational and fund-raising campaign here this year.

Lamb County was one of 46 leading counties in the state which this year adopted an Honor Roll goal for the Crusade here. This goal, $3,400, has already been exceeded by the volunteer workers and contributors in this county.

Dr. Brindley's letter pointed out that Mrs. Fain and all who helped with the Crusade here furnished inspiration to the entire state Crusade. "The real spearhead of our Crusade," he said, "has been furnished by those counties, like yours, which adopted an 'Honor Roll' goal and have now exceeded this goal."

MRS. HAROLD RAY FEATHERNGILL

Bowen-Featherngill Marry In Missouri

Miss Patricia Elaine Bowen became the bride of Harold Ray Featherngill in a ceremony performed in the Presbyterian Church at Williamsburg, Mo., Saturday July 14. Rev. Robert Mahr officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowen of Williamsburg, Mo. and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Featherngill of Olton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of French Chantilly lace designed with long sleeves, a fitted bodice and a sabrina neckline. The very full skirt, worn over a hoop, was gracefully draped over silk. She carried a bridal bouquet consisting of a white orchid and stephanotis on lace atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Bobbye Cameron of Rocky Comfort, Mo., served as matron-of-honor. Candelighters were Susan and Pam Bowen, sisters of the bride.

Flower girl was Lynda Featherngill of Dallas, niece of the groom. All the attendants were attired in dresses of ballerina-length turquoise silk organza, designed with scooped necklines, pleated skirts and short sleeves. Matron of honor carried a bouquet of pink carnations and the other attendants wore wrist corsages of pink rose buds.

Best man was Bob Bowen, brother of the bride.

Ushers were David Parsley and Clay Austin, both of Williamsburg.

Selected wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Cleo Statton, organist, and Linda Baughman, vocalist, who sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer".

Mother of the bride chose to wear for her daughter's wedding a peacock blue sheath dress of nylon organza with lace jacket and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige sheath lace dress with lace jacket, mauve hat and beige accessories.

A reception was held following the wedding ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. A four tier wedding cake was served from a beautifully decorated table accented with silver candelabras and a bouquet of white daisy mums and

Cheese Snacks

Perfect go-togethers for a year-round lunch or light supper are flaky Cheese Snacks and your favorite soup. These pastry appetizers will add zip to a summer salad meal, too, and are great late-evening nibblers or party snacks.

The layers of crisp pastry and cheese may remind you somewhat of intricate puff pastry -- but Cheese Snacks are much easier to make. Simply sprinkle shredded cheese over plain pastry, fold into layers and cut into desired shapes. Lightly press any left-over scraps of pastry together, roll and cut into sticks.

Zesty Cheese Snacks will give lagging appetites a boost --and contribute a nutritional boost as well. Each little pastry appetizer is chockful of essential food iron, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin.

CHEESE SNACKS

2 cups sifted enriched flour 2 tablespoons butter or 1 teaspoon salt margarine, melted 1/2 cup shortening 1 1/2 cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese (about 5 ozs.) 5 to 7 tablespoons cold water

Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle with water, mixing lightly until dough begins to stick together. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and press dough together. Roll pastry into 12 x 18-inch rectangle. Brush with butter or margarine. Sprinkle cheese over pastry. Carefully fold one-third of pastry over center third. Then fold remaining third of pastry over center portion, so rectangle now measures 4 x 18 inches. Using sharp knife or fancy cutters, cut into strips, circles or other desired shapes. Place on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Makes about 1 1/2 dozen.

snapdragons with white carnations arranged in an antique milk glass bowl.

After a wedding trip to Yellowstone National Park, the couple will reside in Williamsburg, Mo.

The bride chose, for her traveling out, a green multi-colored sheath dress with matching jacket and white accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Olton High School and attended the University of Missouri. The bridegroom is also a graduate of Olton High School and attended West Texas State College.

THOMAS FURNITURE CO.

Healthful Effects Of Tan Aren't Worth The Trouble

It will arouse the wrath of sun worshippers, but this must be said: The healthful effects of a suntan aren't worth the time and trouble it takes to get one. After all, a sunburn -- like any other burn -- is a manifestation of a skin injury.

True, a sensible bask in the sun makes a fine mental pick-me-up, and there is no denying the supple appeal of a tawny life-guard. But to overdo it can lead to trouble. In fact it can kill you. More than one person has succumbed to prolonged and unaccustomed exposure to the sun.

Even at best, overexposure can mean two or three miserable days when a mere shirt or blouse is torture, and a friendly pat on the back and end in murder.

The medical term for sunburn is "erythema solaris". It's the ultra-violet light in sun rays which does the damage. And since clouds don't remove all ultra-violet rays, it is possible to get burned even on overcast days in mid-summer.

Some people are physically unable to tan. Known medically as "heliophobes", they could spend the entire summer on Padre Island, and all they'd get would be blisters on their blisters. The reason: Their skin lacks the pigment necessary to produce the tan tint. They never had a tan and they never will, so they ought never attempt one. Each new exposure will only mean a new burn.

Assuming you are the type who can tan -- a "heliophilic", that is -- the well-known rule about doing it by progressively longer exposure times is valid and should be followed.

Sunshine is a source of vitamin D, as most people know. What is apparently misunderstood is that ordinarily healthy people can get all the D vitamin they need through routine activities such as hanging out the family wash, mowing the lawn, or walking to the store. For persons suffering from pellagra, lung tuberculosis, high blood pressure, or hyperthyroidism sunlight may be definitely harmful.

In case you have wondered about the source of freckles, here's the answer: The color of everyone's skin is determined by the amount of pigment in skin cells. Dark-complexioned people have considerable, blondes very little, and albinos none at all. Under a microscope the pigment in skin cells looks like tiny flecks of brown paint. Sometimes, especially in children, it is manufactured unevenly and collect in the spots we know as freckles.

Ultra-violet rays can be filtered, fortunately, by smearing a thin film of olive oil over exposed skin. So if you're a heliophilic, and if you just have to have that golden sheen this summer, it might pay you to try it.

Beat The Heat

Temperature getting you down these days? Whether it's the heat or the humidity or both it's hot this time of year.

Some ideas to help you beat the heat are offered by Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association:

Wear light, loose clothing -- the less the better. Stay out of the sun. Eat your regular diet. Don't go overboard on cold cuts, salads, etc. Drink more liquids than usual. Don't take extra salt if you have liver or kidney trouble, or a heart condition.

Take a shower or a dip in the pool once or twice a day. It will help you cool off. Get a lot of rest and sleep. On hot nights, put a mattress on the floor. Sometimes the air is cooler and circulates better there.

Don't work on the lawn or garden during the hottest part of the day. Work in the early morning or at twilight. Exercise moderately. Don't overdo sports or work.

Too long exposure and too much exercise in the hot sun may produce sunstroke. Prolonged excessive heat, in or out of doors, may produce heat stroke. The symptoms are the same: headache, fever, complaint that things look red. Such strokes can be fatal. Call a physician at once. Loosen clothing and keep the victim as cool as possible until the physician arrives.

Heat prostration also is caused by getting overheated, but instead of a high fever the victim becomes cold and clammy. Prompt medical attention and keeping the patient as warm as possible until a physician arrives are important.

The Stork family reunion was held Sunday at Buffalo Lake. A reunion of residents and former residents of Hardeman, Wilbarger and Ford counties is scheduled Aug. 5 at Mackenzie Park, Lubbock.

The WSCS and the Beta Sigma Phi pledge meetings were held July 19.

The pep squad held a bake sale Saturday. Proceeds will be used to buy cushions to be sold at football games this fall.

Hart Baptist Revival is set Aug. 5 through Aug. 12.

The WMU met Monday and the Hart Methodist Men had a fried chicken supper at their regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. T.B. Cox, Mrs. Wamon Foster, Mrs. Paul Kennedy and Mrs. Ena Bowden attended the WSG meet at Ceta Canyon.

Hart has gained a 15 per cent reduction on fire insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Constant are the parents of a baby girl, Sandra Gail, born July 20 in the Olton Community Clinic, weighing eight pounds, 11 ounces. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. B.B. Pierce of Hart and Mrs. Mary Lee Constant of Purcell, Okla.

Weather---

1.4, last Friday. This brought the total to 4.65 inches during this series of rain storms.

Nearing last year's mark of 14.23 inches of rainfall through July, 13.95 inches have been recorded here this year.

Several local residents have noted their air-conditioners are "helping very little," due to the high humidity.

On the Burrus farm, five miles southwest of town, Mrs. Burrus said their cotton "just looks like sticks, with no leaves left, except for about 20 acres that wasn't completely ruined." About three and a half inches of rain fell there Tuesday.

"It just came a flood here," said Mrs. Elmer McGill, whose husband farms five and a half miles southwest of Olton. "We didn't get any hail on this place, but lost between 100 and 125 acres of cotton on the other place (two miles south and 1 west)," she said.

"It didn't hurt anything here, just knocked off a few leaves, but rained more than three inches here Monday and Tuesday," stated Mrs. Lillie McGill, six miles southwest of town.

No other local hail damage was reported except in the area between two and five miles southwest of Olton. A "pretty good rain but no hail" was reported at the Frank Daugherty farm, one fourth mile southwest of the townsection.

Northwest of Olton ten miles at the J.F. Miller farm, no hail, but one and a half inches of rain was reported. "Any rainfall we receive should be beneficial to the crop," Mrs. Miller commented.

No hail, but .80 inches of rain fell at the Gordon Thomas place, six and one half miles north of town.

"Just a lot of good rain, but no hail," was reported by Mrs. Paul McFadden, five and a half miles southeast of Olton.

"He (her husband) said the rain was good but he was ready for it to stop here," stated Mrs. Kenneth Harper, whose husband farms three miles east of the city. "It's hard on the cucumber vines if they go ahead and pick them because they tromp them so bad in the mud," she added.

Rain fell "off and on all night here Tuesday, but it didn't hail," according to Mrs. Doug Giles, who lives four miles northeast of town. She reported more than an inch of rain fell Tuesday and that Wednesday afternoon her husband was going to try to pick cucumbers if the weather cleared.

At the J.A. Johnson farm seven miles northeast of town, the rainfall count for Tuesday was 1.10 inches.

VISIT ELKINS

Visiting in the L.G. Elkins home last week was Mrs. Elkin's sister, Mrs. J.W. St. Clair and daughter of Muleshoe.

Mrs. Slatten Attends School

Mrs. Ray Slatten of Olton, school lunchroom supervisor, has just returned from Austin where she attended a five-day Institute for school lunch supervisors.

Mrs. Slatten was a member of a group studying "The Techniques of Group Instruction". Special attention was given to continuous on-the-job training for school lunch personnel.

"This conference was interesting and informative. It points up the importance of the job of feeding Texas school children," Mrs. Slatten said. The School Lunch Institute was under the direction of the University of Texas and the Texas Education Agency.
