

New Landfill Acquired For KC Residents

After spending several years in the process of trying to find a suitable landfill site which the state and federal agencies would approve, the City of Knox City has finally received a permit to operate a landfill site adjacent to Benjamin's dump grounds.

The site has been fenced and with assistance from Knox County, roads have been graveled and trenches dug. The landfill is available for use and will be open each day so that residents can haul refuse at their convenience.

An informational sign has been erected and city officials request that residents comply and that they dump their trash into the trenches, being careful that none scatters, otherwise the site will soon be unsightly.

Officials also urge that residents haul only in dry weather.

City officials again remind residents that the dump ground formerly used north of the city has been closed permanently due to state requirements and all hauling must be carried to the new site.

Residents are reminded also to read the garbage rules and regulations in the City's ad in this week's News. Some newer residents may not be aware of the regulations, Fay Railsback, city secretary, said, and with many persons now working in their yards, it is necessary to comply with the rules.

Miller Begins Duties As Foursquare Pastor

The Rev. Stuart Miller has assumed duties as pastor of the Foursquare Gospel Church effective Sunday, April 1. Rev. Miller and his wife of five years, Charleen, moved to Knox City last Thursday, April 5, and are residing in the church parsonage on the Munday highway.

A Nebraska native with a Lutheran background, Stuart is 28 years old and studied four years at the University of Nebraska. He received his ministerial training at Christ Study. Rev. Two Knox City residents, Martha Jones, a local pharmacist and David Counts, a local realtor and insurance man, were revealed to Knox City's annual Chamber of Commerce banquet guests as the Outstanding Woman and Outstanding Man of the Year here last Thursday night.

The pair received plaques honoring them for their "leadership and efforts in a longtime project to clean up a blighted area of downtown Knox City and to provide additional parking places downtown for convenience as well as enhancing the downtown area," outgoing Chamber of Commerce president Bill Baker said.

Martha, a Knox City native, is serving her second term as a board member of the Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the chamber. She is active in community affairs and is a member of the Knox City Church of Christ.

David, a third term chamber board member, is also a past president of the chamber. He is currently president of the Greyhound Booster Club, and is an active member of the Knox City Lions Club and the First Baptist Church.

The Rev. James Patterson offered the invocation before guests enjoyed a delicious meal prepared and served by the homemaking classes, under the supervision of Mrs. Vera Newton and Mrs. Veeta Reid.

Sonia Carter, who recently won the title of Miss Vernon Regional Junior College, entertained with her talent winning number, "American Trilogy". A senior, Miss Carter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Carter.

Dr. Rex Kyker of the Abilene Christian University communications department, added to the enjoyment of chamber members and guests when his humorous remarks paralleled the accomplishments of one of his late aunts to the challenges many of us encounter daily in our individual lives.

Retiring director Joe Clonts and youth director Shane Johnston were recognized for their past service and presented plaques.

Officers for 1979 include Jimmy Lynn, president; Baker, vice-president; and Doris Crownover, secretary-manager.

Cancer Crusade Underway

The Knox City Cancer Crusade got underway Monday, April 2, according to city chairman Mrs. Cornie Covey.

Final day of this year's established safe drinking water standard - a lake that stands brim full at this very moment.

"In the fall, the Texas Department of Water Resources completed a comprehensive study of the ground-water supply in our area and to quote their findings: 'This area has a ground water supply which is capable of providing an excess of 50,000 acre feet of water per year without significant depletion of the ground storage. This is due to the area's unique recharge nature.'

"Also, the report told us our ground water was of exceptional quality for irrigation purposes. 'Our area is in a water bonanza that will have significant economic impact in the future.'

A comparison of water sample chemical analysis of Knox City in January 1977 and Miller Creek in September 1978 reads respectively as follows: Calcium 119 to 36; Magnesium 46 to 5; Sodium 174 to 11; Carbonate 0 to 0; Bicarbonate 334 to 96; Sulphate 138 to 26; Chloride 288 to 19; Fluoride .8 to .2; Nitrate 17.24 to .12; and Iron .99 to .03.

Dissolved solids were reduced from 1000 to 145, total alkalinity from 274 to 79; total hardness from 486 to 110 milligrams per liter (parts per million).

HONORED AS Knox City's Most Outstanding Citizens during last Thursday night's Chamber banquet were David Counts, local realtor, and Martha Jones, local pharmacist. The two were cited for their work toward a downtown parking lot.

Directors include David Albus, Counts, Lynn, Dessie Egenbacher, Jones, E. Hob Smith, Barney B. Arnold, Baker, and Bruce Campbell Jr.

The retiring president summarized the highlights of his 1978-79 term by saying, "The summer of 1978 brought the climax of a dream. A dream to have a long-term abundant supply of good water. The Miller Creek Lake filled to the top in August providing Knox City, Munday, Goree, and Haskell with a seven-year supply of the best drinking water in Texas - water that far exceeds the

Easter Seals Important To Rehab Center

Easter Seals are a reminder not only of the spring holiday but also of the opportunity given the people of West Texas to help the handicapped.

Shelley V. Smith, executive director of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, describes Easter Seals contributions as an important part of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center budget. "Money contributed directly to WTRC stays in West Texas helping crippled children and adults who are your neighbors," Smith emphasized.

In March, more than 45,000 households in 11 counties received Easter Seal appeal letters asking for contributions. "The opportunity to respond does not stop with the Easter holiday, because the handicapped need treatment all year," Smith said. Contributions may be sent to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

O'Brien Happenings

By CHARLENE BROTHERS

I need to change the date of the judging for the Beautification Program coming to O'Brien. I was misinformed, the judges will be here next Tuesday, April 17, from 9:30 - 11:00 a.m. I should have listened to the first information I received on this, it was correct to start with. Now, I'm going to have to get very busy and get my yard cleaned up some more. Some of the places in town are beginning to look very nice. The yearbook is what I'm worried about. It has to be in by the 11th of April, which is this Wednesday, and I'm not through with it. We were told there were only two towns in our district entering this time, so we will place second anyway, in the district. Maybe then next time we will have more time and know more what to do. The volleyball tournament we are having at O'Brien will be April 26, 27 and 28. I do not know how many teams there will be in the men and women's both, but several, I believe. You may be called on to bring something for the concession stand during this time. We need all the money we can make, so please help out if you are asked.

HERE AND THERE
Mr. and Mrs. Rovee Manning and Brad of Abilene were visitors in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Manning, last Saturday.

Mrs. Butch Holland, Jacob and Cole of Hamlin are visiting a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. James Manning, Cody and Christie.

Christie Manning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Manning, visited during the weekend in Hamlin with her aunt, Mary Hollis. While she was down there they also visited in Temple with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mayes and children of Arlington visited with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Ellis over the weekend. Mrs. Mayes is the former Gae Bartell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bartell, former residents of O'Brien. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Draper.

I'm sure there were more visitors, but will try to get all of them next week. Being Easter we will probably have lots of company, I know my family is.

IN FORT WORTH

Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Flores and David, accompanied by Ricky Gonzales, were in Fort Worth over the weekend visiting with their daughters and sisters, Sylvia Irwin and Irene Flores.

Sunday afternoon, the group was in Irving at Texas Stadium where Irene tried out for Dallas Cowboys cheerleader. While there, they enjoyed a tour of Texas Stadium.

SATURDAY VISITORS

Visiting Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A.E. Propps were Mr. and Mrs. A. V. McCombs of Crowell and Merle Tackitt of Knox City.

Bullock Says History "Has A Lesson"

AUSTIN - State Comptroller Bob Bullock said recently history has a lesson for those who think the state can save money with a one-year budget instead of the traditional two-year budget.

"History knocks down the idea that you can write a little budget this year and a little budget next year," Bullock said.

One-year budgets were used in 1968-69 and in 1972-73, Bullock said, and not one thin dime was saved.

"In fact, each time the one-year budget was used it was done for the specific purpose of letting the state spend more money," he said.

Bullock said the combined

1968-69 single-year budgets ran almost $200 million more than the Legislature could have spent under the Comptroller's certification on a two-year budget.

The combined 1972-73 budgets were $92 million more than a two-year budget would have allowed.

"It's strange that the big conservative establishments are whooping and hollering for a one-year budget when history tells us it's more expensive to go that route," Bullock said.

Bullock warned that back-to-back, one-year budgets could jeopardize potential tax relief measures.

"Obviously, the mood is right for tax relief now," Bullock said, "but tax relief has to share the state money pie with the spending bills."

"To share the pie once is risky; to share it twice is double jeopardy for tax relief," he said.

County Soil Survey Meet Set April 25

A public meeting to discuss the new Knox County soil survey will be held at the Soil Conservation Service office in Knox City, starting at 2:00 p.m., April 25, a local conservation official said today.

Arche Lieb, district conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service, said a program has been designated that will help farmers, ranchers, builders, engineers, construction contractors, and prospective home buyers understand how the survey can be interpreted to their benefit.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Wichita-Brazos Soil and Water Conservation District in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service.

Tables in the survey rate soil potentials for building site development, construction materials, agricultural production, recreation developments, sanitary facilities, and wildlife habitat.

The survey can be useful in evaluating areas for houses and other buildings; determining soil properties that affect construction; planning land use; disposing of liquid and solid wastes; managing farm and ranchland; landscaping; selecting areas for water, recreation and wildlife developments; appraising land; and planning conservation.

The survey was made by a team of three SCS soil scientists. They covered the entire county, making test borings to a depth of about six feet. The boundaries of 46 soil phases were drawn on aerial photographs contained in the published survey. The work was done as part of the National Cooperative Soil Survey in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Copies of the document are being placed in each public library in the county. Copies are also available to builders, developers, architects, engineers, farmers, ranchers, and others who can put information in the survey to productive use.

Visit Benjamin Along Way

'Walkers' Complete Five-Year Journey

The famous "walkers" Barbara and Peter Jenkins who walked across America and included in their schedule the city of Benjamin on July 21, 1977, have completed their long five-year journey and are now in Washington D.C. where Peter is at National Geographic finishing their "unique" story.

Barbara and Peter were overnight guests of Wyman Meinzer in Benjamin when they stopped overnight and visited in the community and have kept in contact with Wyman since they departed. Wyman received a letter from the two approximately one week ago with information about Peter's upcoming TV appearance on the Merv Griffith show to be aired April 25 and/or June 1. Jenkins also recently appeared on the Dinah Shore show.

Their book, "A Walk Across America", is number 12 on the New York Times' best seller list and is continuing to climb.

The August 1979 issue of National Geographic will carry a 35-page article concerning the last leg of the journey and after finishing this publication, the couple will move near New Orleans, Louisiana, where he will finish his second book.

Peter began his now famous walk October 15, 1973, in Greenwich, Connecticut. Growing up in the late 1960s and early 70s among student protest, racial violence, and other problems which grew progressively worse, he decided that he would like to see and know America for what she really is.

His dog Cooper, a half Malamute, was his companion for one year, but was killed in October 1974.

After walking almost 1,900 miles and wearing out 13 pairs of track shoes, sneakers and mountain boots, Peter arrived in New Orleans in April 1975, after completing one half of his proposed journey. It was here he recorded the first half of his article for National Geographic. The 34-page article included color photographs he had taken along the way. It was during his stay in New Orleans also that he met and married Barbara. The couple is expecting their first baby during the summer months.

The Jenkins walked about two miles an hour and traveled approximately eight hours or 15 miles a day. His pack weighed about 60 pounds while his wife's weighed about 30. The couple trained for several weeks in order to be able to carry the packs on their backs for this length of time.

After leaving Benjamin, the couple was en route to Amarillo by way of Crowell and Quanah and visited the North Wichita River during their journey.

IN COLORADO

Jeanette Clark returned to Knox City Tuesday, April 3, following a ten-day visit to Creede, Colorado, with the John LaFontes.

Jeanette also went snowmobiling and out of the ten days spent there, it snowed nine of them.

Summer Jobhunters Need SS Numbers

Earlybirds thinking about summer jobs and counting on getting a social security number before they start looking should know that they need to allow themselves enough time to do so.

Many people may not realize that it takes longer to get a social security number than it used to. From six to eight weeks is the average time required.

At the same time, many employers will refuse to hire a person without a social security number because of the potential record keeping problems it poses. Your employer needs your correct social security number to report your wages for social security purposes. If the number or other identifying information does not match social security's records, the employer may often get involved in a time-consuming process to correct the record.

The longer length of time it takes to get a card reflects an effort to tighten the procedures for issuing the social security card and assure the accuracy of social security records.

Each applicant for a social security card must provide evidence of age, identity, and U.S. citizenship or residency status. The type of evidence and how it can be submitted depends on your age.

People 18 or over applying for a card for the first time must apply in person at the social security office. To establish your age and citizenship, bring your original (not photocopy) birth certificate or church record of birth or baptism. If neither of these is available another document may be used if it shows your date of birth or age.

A second record, such as a driver's license, voters registration, passport, or marriage record, is also needed as evidence of identity. Many others can be used. All proofs will be returned to you after they have been examined.

People under 18 may apply for a card either in person or by mail. You can call and ask the social security office to send you a copy of the application Form SS-5. The same proof of age and identity is needed as for people

If you were born outside the United States, but are now a citizen you will need to show, in addition to the above evidence, a U.S. passport, naturalization papers, or similar evidence of your citizenship status.

If you are not a U.S. citizen you need to show, in person, alien registration card I-151, or I-551, or U.S. Immigration Form I-94, AR3a; I-186; I-185, SW-434, I-95a, or I-184.

All applications are sent to the Baltimore office, checked against existing records, processed, and the cards are sent directly to the applicant.

If you have any questions about how to go about applying for a social security number or when you'll need one, please call the Vernon Social Security Office at 817-552-9346.

Seniors of the Week

JONATHAN GODSEY

Jonathan Godsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Godsey, was born on May 15, 1961. He has two younger brothers, Joseph and Daniel.

Jonathan started school at O'Brien and continued there until the end of his freshman year in high school when Knox City and O'Brien Schools consolidated. He was valedictorian of his eighth grade class.

He participated in football for three years and basketball for one year. He was in the Beta Club for two years. Jonathan has been in FFA for four years and holds the Lone Star Farmer Degree. He was also the Star Chapter Farmer his junior year.

He was vice-president of his junior class.

Jonathan is a member of the O'Brien Baptist Church. He likes to listen to country and western music. Blue is his favorite color.

After finishing high school, he plans to attend Western Texas College in Snyder and major in automobile mechanics.

His father operates Covey's Garage in O'Brien. Greg often helps his father on weekends and during the summer. He hopes that after he graduates from high school he can get some more education and work as a mechanic.

Greg was no.75 on the varsity football team this year. He is very proud of their 9-1 record and hopes next year's team can have a 10-0 record.

Greg's favorite color is blue. He doesn't have a favorite group because he likes almost all kinds of music.

Houndettes Complete Season

By Steve McIlhaney

The Houndettes finished their competitive season last week with a sixth place finish in the district meet. Two members of the Houndettes will compete in the regional meet in Odessa; they are Rhonda Skiles in golf and Mindy Hutchinson in the 80 yard hurdles. The rest of the team will now be working in off season basketball and volleyball.

Three members of the Houndettes will be lost to graduation; they are Brenda Albus, Sonia Carter, and Rhonda Skiles. They have done a good job this year for the teams and will be missed when next season begins.

Next year the Houndettes will have a good returning group to try to improve in all areas of our program. There will be several returning starters in both basketball and volleyball; plus many in track who can make us more competitive as a whole team.

I think if we will finish the year trying to improve on what we already have accomplished so far and come back next year ready to work hard, we can improve this year's accomplishments.

Rebate To Be Based On Population

AUSTIN - Representative W. S. "Bill" Heatley said today that the rebate for Texas cities from the 1% city sales tax will be based on population whether it was spent at home or not, according to House Bill 941 by Rep. Ray Keller of Duncanville. At the present time the Bill is in committee.

Representative Heatley also said he will support this legislation because the cities in District 101 will profit by it. The net gain for Knox City would be $28,149 and for Benjamin would be $11,102 if this House Bill is passed.

Reports Of Earnings Are Due April 16

People who received at least one social security check in 1978 and who earned more than the annual exempt amount last year have until April 16 to file an annual report of their 1978 earnings, James Harper, Social Security Branch Manager in Vernon, said recently.

The 1978 annual exempt amount was $4,000 for people 65 or over and $3,240 for people who were under 65 all of last year. A person who was 72 or older all of 1978 does not have to make a report, Harper said. Neither do people who receive benefits because of disability, because different rules apply.

A person who did not receive any checks in 1978 because of expected earnings does not have to make a report of his or her earnings. But, Harper said, if those earnings were less than expected, it would be in that person's best interest to make a report.

This is because just $1 in social security benefits is withheld for every $2 of earnings above the annual exempt amount. It could be that some benefits may be

Describes Residents' Son

A Wild And 'Wooley' Guy

Marshall Wooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Wooley of Knox City, was featured in a full-page article in the Colorado Springs, Colorado Gazette Telegraph recently, by staff writer Peter Rose. Because the Wooleys have many friends in this immediate area, we are reproducing the article in full as follows:

'A WILD AND WOOLEY GUY'

His job is routine, he says. Most of it is paperwork. Not much of a story here, insists state brand inspector Marshall Wooley. But there is one screwy incident to relate: "A couple of GIs started off to butcher a cow and shot into a bunch of 'em in Florence. They couldn't shoot too good, I guess, because they didn't get any, and had to go to Fowler where they shot one with a .22.

"They couldn't kill it, so they ran it over with a pick-up. Then they hit it over the head with an axe. Lights scared 'em, so they drove off and stopped in a bar, where they were drinking beer and laughing and bragging about it.

"The Provost Marshall was sitting behind them taking down every word." Really, not much happens in his realm which could be written about, assures, Wooley, although it is true that he has an unusual job of which most people aren't even aware. Most people, in fact, would probably acquaint him with the Old West rather than present-day Colorado Springs.

Out east of town it is like Colorado Springs used to be. The plains are open there, cut only by railway tracks and barbed wire. No house is closer than a rifle shot away from its neighbor.

Behind a curved windbreak, cows are huddled against the cold, and green-and-yellow John Deere farm equipment has snow cover.

This is the road to Calhan, the road brand inspector Marshall Wooley takes every Friday morning to the one sale barn still operating near the Springs.

On the bulletin board inside the cinderblock auction building in Calhan is a cartoon which shows a cowboy in overalls riding an old nag, speaking to a TV reporter: "$15,000 a year? No sir, what do ya think I am, a brand inspector or something?"

The joke is on Wooley. But whatever he makes, earns it, in the holding pens outside the turquoise-colored auction walls.

Wooley is the only brand inspector in the territory. In a nutshell, what he does is examine livestock for proof of ownership whenever they are sold.

That means that each branded cow and horse headed for hamburger or the gley factory or sometimes merely headed for a home at a different ranch has to be matched up with the appropriate markings among 40,000 recorded in the state, and then okaying or denying the transfer papers.

A.C. Worthen, a workman at Calhan, says "His (Wooley) job is mighty important. He's the one who keeps you and me from stealing someone's horse or cattle and coming in here to sell them.

"He knows his job. We trot 'em right by him and he can pick out the brands. If there's any question, he takes out his little clippers."

It is about as cold as it ever gets in Calhan, with snow coming down and a fierce wind, and Wooley has rubber boots on over his cowboy boots and orange gloves and a heavy visored hat.

He looks up from a pen-full of cattle. "It's the toughest time of the year," he says.

"Yeah, the weather's bad," someone answers.

"I mean because of the long hair on the animals," he clarifies. "I hate to clip 'em, the hair is tough and the calves get cold."

A paint mule has an Arizona brand clearance. From five feet away, Wooley squints at it and picks out the brand. In another pen are mixed calves, a Charolais bull and a red shorthorn.

With each inspection he marks into the sheath of paperwork he carries about, along with clippers in his back pocket and a rope slung over his shoulder, to get the job done.

A black cow, afraid of his approach, tries to climb the fence.

"Oh, she's there on the hip," sings out Wooley, meaning the brand, and he recognizes it immediately.

At another pen he says, "Now there's the Bar-X brand; that's Jasper Ackerman's brand. He's kind of proud of it. It stands out."

Today there are 300 to 400 head of livestock for Wooley to inspect. In the fall, when 80 percent of the cattle sales take place, over 3,000 head have been moved through Calhan pens on a single Friday.

An Arab horse and yellow horse are standing in a corner. Wooley suspects a brand is hidden from sight on the yellow, and gets out his clippers to check it out. As it turns out there is a mark but no brand.

"I think that kid spurred him," comments the inspector. "He's a right nasty little trainer."

His work isn't all cut-and-dried. Much of it goes beyond technical inspection to a rapport he has established over the years with ranchers and other livestock people which serves for much more than enjoyment - it is an intelligence system which allows him to know what is happening throughout the territory and thus do a better job.

He talks to one lady about Montana. A rancher wants to know what makes brands grow so large on some animals and stay small on others (the moon at the time of branding affects them, is his curious reply). There is rodeo talk with a Denver pro bronc rider and talk about girls' basketball.

"Know anything about unfit horses?" a rancher asks. "They're in a pasture next to mine. I want to keep my name anonymous."

"I got a friend at the humane society who does," Wooley answers.

Wooley carries authority and knowledge and also a large, ready supply of West Texas humor with him as he makes the rounds.

Like ranching and farming, his work isn't clocked. It is a different kind of existence than most of us have become used to in the city, not as intent or driven; an existence pointed always in the same general direction, not separated into distinct parts of labor and pleasure.

Wooley says it is little more than a cowboy office job, with a lot of pick-up truck travel between brands, spread over a 7-day work week. But then he manages to come up with stories such as this:

"Rustling isn't such a bad problem. I did have one the other day. Someone stole and butchered a cow and left its head and hide on Rollercoaster, out toward Black Forest. They dropped the of-fal in a wash.

"A few years back, an awful lot of it was going on. Ninety percent of it was these boys going down a side road and shooting and butchering a cow. But we've never had a real outbreak of rustling. We've had more trouble with horses being stolen than cattle.

"These killer horses are getting to be worth a lot of money. Old, crippled horses will bring 34 cents a pound in Fort Worth. That can mean over $500 for a horse. That's the reason they get stolen; to go for slaughter."

Wooley says there are 55 to 60 branding agents in the state. Denver has four or five agents, Pueblo two, and Wooley's is for (the Colorado Springs) area - east to Simla, west to Wilkerson Pass, north to Castle Rock and south to the county line.

In his office in Colorado Springs home is a long list of figures from recent livestock transactions. He would lead you to believe that is about all his job amounts to: a lot of dry office calculation to go along with dust and snowy roads carrying him 30,000 miles a year in his Dodge pickup to inspect 50,000 to 60,000 head of livestock.

Yep, just mostly time-consuming, he claims in his strong West Texas accent, with a shrug. Not much out of the ordinary ever occurs. Nothing which would ever deserve print, even though there was the time when...

"I tore up my knee one time. It was kind of carelessness on my part. It was a Charolais bull. I was inspecting out east of Black Forest and I flat let him walk into me. I thought he would walk by and I let him and he just ate me for lunch.

"He knocked me into the fence and a nail went into my leg and went behind my kneecap and came out below it. That was eight or ten years ago.

"Sure, a guy gets kicked and he gets stepped on. It's part of the job."

Most brand inspectors grew up on a ranch and have a working knowledge of livestock. Wooley says they should know what a cow is going to do before she does it. To qualify as state inspector a person checks 15 penned cattle whose brands must be read correctly within 10 minutes.

Then there is a year of probation working with a foreman at a big sale barn, like the ones in Greeley and La Junta where 7,000 cattle move through in a day. Some inspectors like the regular sale barn hours and stay on; others, like Wooley, prefer the independence of their own district - but they pay for that, like a doctor does, with an odd and endless schedule which eats up weekends and night-time leisure.

Wooley has been here for 18 years now. He knows 90 percent of the district brands by sight, without having to check the book on them.

Sometimes Wooley can't read a brand or even spot it right away beneath an animal's thick hair. Sometimes an animal won't cooperate. Then his on-the-job tools - a catch rope and pair of clippers - come in handy. He will rope an animal to hold it still and then find its brand and clip away hair so he can read it.

"I was working for a ranch at the time and there was a bunch of cattle outside of town and I was riding a little paint horse. An old cowboy asked me, 'Did you ever rope a deer? There's one up there hiding. You ride up one side of the draw and I'll ride up the other downwind, and you can rope it.'"

"It worked out like he said. It was a buck deer and I roped it. It wasn't really as big as it looked. At the end of the rope it looked like an elk."

"What happened was it jumped way up, as high as a house, and the rope broke. At that point I should have left it alone. I tried to get it again and my horse fell and tore up my ankle and knee. I was laid up that winter. And I began to think of the future, and what would happen if I got hurt again..."

So he took a nice, safe, easy uneventful government job as brand agent, where nothing much of note has happened to him over the last 18 years.

Stenholm Questions Hjort

'79 Grain Sorghum Prices To Increase

LUBBOCK - The 1979 grain sorghum target price will be increased as a result of a challenge by the Grain Sorghum Producers Association. The new target price will be approximately $2.35 per bushel or $4.20 per hundredweight, according to Dr. Howard Hjort, USDA's director of economics, policy analysis, and budget.

After the announcement of the 1979 feed grains program, GSPA challenged the 1979 target price of $4.10 per hundredweight. When corn received a 10 cent per bushel increase in the 1979 target, sorghum received only a two cent increase. GSPA contended this was a direct violation of the law.

After making several appeals to USDA and receiving no encouragement, Elbert Harp, executive director of Grain Sorghum Producers Association, documented to the members of the House Agriculture Committee that the 1979 target prices are in violation of the Agriculture Act of 1977. When Dr. Hjort appeared before the Subcommittee on Livestock and Grains on April 3, 1979, several congressmen questioned him about this problem.

When Congressman Charles Stenholm of Texas questioned Dr. Hjort, he said, "There seems to be a discrepancy in the final level of the grain sorghum target. Would you care to comment on how the formula was used to establish the grain sorghum target price for 1979?"

Dr. Hjort responded by saying, "There is, in fact, a discrepancy. The target price that was announced for grain sorghum was too low. The $2.30 will have to be increased, very likely to $2.35 in order to be consistent with the law." In addition to Stenholm, Congressman Kent Hance (D.-Texas) and Keith Sebelius (R.-Kansas), were prepared to pursue this same line of questioning.

Dr. Hjort's acknowledgement of the error and his pledge that it will be corrected assures the grain sorghum farmers of the nation of an increased target this year. This increase will give grain sorghum farmers up to $35 million additional income.

Class Ring 'Turns Up'

By BILLYE ANGLE

On a recent sunny afternoon for lack of something to do, Loyd Stephens decided to plow his garden spot back of their house for the third time. In making a turn and looking back toward the sun, Loyd spotted something glistening in the bright sunlight and said he felt sure whatever it was had to be gold.

When he picked up the shining object, he discovered he had found a 1914 Knox City High School class ring with the lettering clearly visible as were the initials inside, in script, W.E.B.

Mrs. Stephens came by the News office, asking if we would play 'Katharyn Duff', Page One columnist for the Abilene Reporter-News, who occasionally locates the owner of a ring or other lost object through her column.

We immediately jumped to conclusions, thinking the W.E.B. had to stand for our late uncle, William Earle Benedict. However, in checking with his widow, Carrie Belle Benedict, it was learned that he graduated in 1913 and his class members had received pins instead of rings. With the assistance of Mrs. Sammie Carpenter, Mrs. Stephens learned that Wylie E. Boyle of Paducah had graduated with the class of 1914, so Mrs. Stephens' next move would be to write Mr. Boyle and advise him of the find. However, she said she did not know just exactly how to describe the situation, so Sunday after church, her husband suggested that they get Mrs. Selma Word, a good friend who knows the Boyle family, to drive with them to Paducah and just take the ring rather than send it through the mail. So that is just what happened, and Monday morning, Mrs. Stephens brought a picture by the News office and explained that the trip was very enjoyable. In fact, she said she wished that they had carried a tape recorder to have recorded the excitement.

She also explained that rather than telephone first, they would just take a chance on the couple's being at home, so as not to ruin the surprise element. Sure enough, they were at home and thoroughly delighted to have the class ring returned to them. One of their daughters lives about 12 miles from Paducah, and a call to her brought her in to her parents' home with a camera and a cake! Another daughter lives in Lubbock.

Mr. Boyle, who later operated a music store in Knox City, joined the Navy in 1918 and during his time in the service, his parents moved to Plainview.

He is presently in his 42nd year with Southland Life and has won numerous awards through the years, including many trips abroad. He and his wife travel extensively and he especially enjoys deer and elk hunting, Mrs. Stephens said. He is a member of the President's Club, as well as the Diamond Club.

The story is one we believe our readers will enjoy and we appreciate Gladys and Loyd Stephens' bringing the story to our attention and also for seeking out the former resident with the help of Mrs. Word.

ASTHMA IS USUALLY A CHRONIC DISEASE

Its victims have breathing difficulties. Attacks are usually mild. Fortunately it is not contagious. But, if neglected, asthma increases in severity and endangers health. It may be caused by an allergy, infection or even nervous tension.

If you think you have asthma, don't attempt self treatment. It is almost impossible for anyone but a physician to diagnose the cause. With proper medical treatment asthma can be kept under control and often cured.

Tech Halls Expected To Be Full

LUBBOCK - The housing office at Texas Tech University expects residence halls to be full for the fall semester and students wanting to live on campus should reserve rooms immediately, according to Bill D. Haynes, assistant director of housing.

Applications for housing from prospective students have been accepted since October, but rooms will not be assigned until current dormitory residents have made their reservations.

Students who want to live on campus next fall but have not sent in applications should contact the housing office at Texas Tech this week. Students unable to reserve a room for the fall at this time will be placed on a waiting list in the housing office. Officials will notify students of availabilities as they occur from cancellations. If there are students still awaiting room assignments at the beginning of the semester, temporary housing will be provided for them.

For summer school housing on campus, students currently living in Stangel-Murdough residence hall can sign up on April 16-17 to keep their rooms for the summer sessions. On April 19-20, all other students living on campus will be able to reserve rooms in Stangel-Murdough, the only residence hall open during summer terms.

Lions Club News

By Z.I. SMITH

A pleasant surprise at Wednesday's meeting was seeing former resident Doyle Gene Graham who came as a guest with his grandfather, Lion L.W. Graham. Doyle Gene was to be in Dallas a few days to present a paper and couldn't resist driving on "home" to visit his dad and grandfather and many friends. His family is still living in Durham, North Carolina, where he teaches in the University Medical School and does research. His wife, Rita Beth, is a former Rochester girl and is working on a degree there at the University.

President Bill Baker reported on attending the district convention at Stamford Saturday, March 31, at which time Lion Bill King from Graham was elected the new District Governor. Of special interest to all of the KC Lions is that our Club Sweetheart, Angelia Reid, was selected first runner-up in the Queen's contest. We are very proud of our girl. Lion Secretary-Treasurer James Patterson attended the convention and reported a very informative session.

The Boss Lion read a financial statement while reporting on the directors' meeting and was happy to say our club finances are still in the black.

Of special interest to Lions and the entire community was the report that during March our club had bought two pair of glasses for needy children and this brings to a total of four pair the club has secured this year.

Our club nominating committee was the fastest acting of any on record. They were appointed at the breakfast directors' meeting and had a report by the noon meal. Those nominated and elected to office beginning on July 1, are David Lorenz, president; Randy Coale, first vice-president; Barney Arnold, second vice-president; Dick Evatt, third vice-president; James Patterson, secretary-treasurer; Tommy Kent, tail twister (ugh), Tom Edd Orsborn, Lion tamer; and directors to be reported later. Lion Z.I. Smith will be reporter and sickness card sender. April program chairman Lion Joe Clonts gave out copies of a recent water quality report showing the great improvement in our water since commencing to use lake water. He was especially proud of the reduction in nitrates (gyp) and the softer water.

For the free hose drawing, Lion Gary Morris' name was drawn but he was not there. Sorry about that, Connie.

On Diesel Shortage

Stenholm Questions Energy Director

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The following is an excerpt from an Agriculture Subcommittee hearing on March 29 dealing with the current shortages of available diesel supplies for agricultural production. Mr. Barton is director of the Office of Energy, Department of Agriculture and is being questioned by Congressman Charles W. Stenholm.

STENHOLM: I notice on page five of your comments, Mr. Barton, you emphasize that we need to have the ability to meet our fuel requirements for full food and fiber production. My question to you is this: Why do we continue to emphasize massive production of food and fiber in this country when we are unable to sell what we are raising now? We have the price levels to our farmers on commodities below the cost of production. We also have an energy crisis. In West Texas, particularly, the supplies of diesel are extremely tight. And, I am sure that, based on the figures we have, it will be all around the nation before too long, yet we continue to emphasize full production. The Secretary, in this morning's paper, is quoted as saying that we may have to subsidize our wheat exports in order to hold our share of the world market. This means we will have to spend more taxpayers' money. We are going in the wrong direction, I think. What good does it do us to continue to use our scarce resources for full production when we cannot sell what we are already raising?

BARTON: Mr. Congressman, the immediate reason that we are following full food and fiber production is that the Natural Gas Policy Act, in fact, Section 401, expressly states that the protection should be at a level sufficient for full food and fiber production. I suppose one question that could be raised is whether you want to mix in any way this problem of assuring energy supplies and the question of managing levels of farm production. We certainly recognize the problem of current insufficient markets in agricultural commodities.

STENHOLM: All of my farmers are telling me that they do not see the logic in farming all of their acres and producing crops that they cannot sell for a profit when they are having a hard time finding diesel and when they are facing the threat that the price of diesel might go up from its 52 cent price today to 60 or 65 cents after April 1. It would make more sense if we had a cooperative program between the energy and production forces. We need to recognize this. For instance, do you acknowledge that, if we were to increase our set aside for one year to 30 percent and reduce our production some 20 percent, we would save over 200 million barrels of oil? Do you agree with that?

BARTON: Yes, I think in that case, certainly, that would be the case.

STENHOLM: Might there not be a little bit of logic in pursuing the total program by re-examining whether or not it is in our national interest to continue on full production at a time when we may not have the energy to do so? That is my question.

BARTON: Congressman, it certainly makes sense to consider carefully how much land should be placed into production. Every acre that you do not devote to fossil fuel intensive production you save on energy, of course. In that sense, you clearly take energy supplies into consideration in setting set-aside amounts. This certainly makes sense.

STENHOLM: Based on your current assessment of all the facts and figures that you have with you today, what is your assessment of the seriousness of the diesel fuel situation, that is the 60-day outlook and the remaining part of this year?

BARTON: I think all one can say about diesel is that we have got to be ready for significant shortages. That may or may not occur. You have read the statements in this morning's Washington Post, the statements by the Under Secretary of Energy on the supply situation and the positive assessment of the oil supply situation. I think there is too much uncertainty at this point in terms of the supply situation in order for me to say anything that would have any real meaning. It is probably more meaningful for me to say that we need to be ready through the ASCS offices and the state energy offices and otherwise to cope with shortages when they occur.

State Crime Rate Shows Rise In '78

AUSTIN - Figures released recently by the Texas Department of Public Safety show the state's crime rate rose 2.7 percent in 1978.

There were an estimated 721,581 major criminal offenses in Texas last year, compared to 692,450 major crimes in 1977.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, said the largest increases occurred in the rape and motor vehicle theft categories. Both offenses posted crime rate increases of 11.5 percent.

Speir said robbery was up 7.9 percent, and murder up 6.8 percent. Aggravated assault rose 4.8 percent, larceny-theft was up 2.4 percent, and burglary increased 0.3 percent.

Of the 721,581 estimated crimes, at least 648,704 occurred in urban areas. Rural counties accounted for 72,877 major offenses.

Statewide, only 22 percent of the reported crimes were cleared by an arrest. Texas law enforcement agencies, however, cleared 79 percent of the murders, 68 percent of the aggravated assaults, and 54 percent of the rapes. At least 36 percent of the known robberies were cleared.

Lower clearance rates were posted for crimes against property including burglary, theft, and motor vehicle theft. These property offenses account for 92 percent of the state's total criminal activity.

Speir said the incidence of crime was fairly well distributed throughout the year, but noted increases in the summer months. The lowest numbers of crimes were reported in January and February.

Overall in Texas last year, there was one major crime every 44 seconds. Property valued at over $417.8 million was stolen, with property recovered valued at just over $158.9 million.

Firearms were used as the murder weapon in 71.3 percent of the 1,839 murders, and white males accounted for 51.9 percent of the victims. In nearly 40 percent of the murder cases the killer was acquainted with the victim, and was a family member in 18.9 percent of the cases.

DPS reports show that eight Texas law enforcement officers were killed in line of duty by felonious criminal action in 1978, compared to four in 1977.

STREAMS IN DESERT PLACES

Woodrow Wilson's picture is on the U.S. Treasury's $100,000 bill.

"We know that the same God who brought the Lord Jesus back from death will also bring us back to life again with Jesus." (II Cor. 4:14)

The resurrection of Christ brings hope. Resurrection means victory to all who believe in Christ Jesus.

Remember early on Sunday morning, as the day was dawning, Mary Magdalene, the other Mary and Salome went to the tomb? They carried embalming spices to put on Jesus' body but were worried about how they would move the heavy stone at the tomb. What a great surprise they had because they had not remembered that Jesus had told them that He would come back to life. The second surprise was the two Angels clothed in shining robes. They asked, "Why are you looking in the tomb for One who is still alive? Don't you remember what He told you back in Galilee?"

If we could only remember what Jesus has told us in His word; what great difficulties we would escape and what great joys, peace and victories we would have in our everyday life. He is waiting to give us the victories that the Resurrection brought us.

SPOUSE'S BENEFITS

"Beginning January 1979 a divorced woman may be eligible for benefits on her ex-husband's account if the marriage lasted for ten years," stated James Harper, Social Security branch manager in Vernon. The previous duration of marriage requirement was twenty years.

Harper also stated that after December 1978 the remarriage of a widow(er) will not reduce the widow(er)'s benefit as it did prior to January 1979. Widow(er)s receiving reduced benefits in December 1978 will have their benefits increased effective January 1979.

Also after December 1981, a wife's benefit will be reduced by the amount of any governmental pension payable to her. However, beginning in December 1977, husbands and widowers benefits are reduced by the amount of any governmental pension payable to them if they are not dependent upon their wives.

Congress also passed a law which limits the retroactivity of an application to the month the claim is filed when the benefit would be reduced for filing before age sixty-five. Therefore, widow(er)s should always file a claim in the month of death to avoid any possible loss of benefits.

If readers have any questions, they may contact the Vernon Social Security Office at 1701 Cumberland or phone 817-552-9346.

SSI AND SOCIAL SECURITY FRAUD SENTENCING

A 58-year-old Dallas resident, Leroy Williams, was sentenced in Federal Court today on two charges of defrauding the Social Security Program.

Williams, of 5235 Gurley, was sentenced to five years of supervised probation and ordered to repay the $4,589 he illegally received. Sentencing was imposed by U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes.

Williams pleaded guilty to two counts of making false statements in applications for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Social Security Benefits. He was convicted of falsely stating that he was not working, in order to obtain disability benefits.

The two charges stated that Williams, during this time, earned amounts ranging from $350 to $845 a month.

SSI is a federal program which provides monthly payments to persons who are 65 or over, or are blind or disabled and have little income or resources. Social Security provides benefits to workers who are retired or disabled, and to their dependents or survivors.

The Williams case was developed by a unit of fulltime investigators who are assigned the job of looking into SSI and Social Security fraud.

EASTER EGGS - BEFORE AND AFTER
Eggs become an important holiday food with Easter just around the corner.
In ancient times, eggs were sacred symbols and, later, were glorified in paintings and sculpture.

Today, eggs are honored around Easter and can be dyed, painted and trimmed.
Be imaginative - use paper, lace, buttons, even ribbons - there is no end to the fun of decorating.

Before decorating, cook the eggs properly following these steps:

-First, select top quality eggs - Grade A or AA.

-Place selected eggs (not too many) in a medium size saucepan.

Add enough cold water to come at least one inch above the eggs, and heat to boiling.

Remove from heat, cover and let stand 15 to 20 minutes.

TIP: To prevent an egg from cracking while cooking, add a few drops of vinegar or lemon juice to the water.

-Cool immediately in cold water for about 20 minutes.

To properly dye Easter eggs, follow these steps:

1) Prepare the egg dye as directed on the package.

2) Or, use a few drops of food coloring in custard cups or muffin tins.

3) Dye only uncracked eggs.

4) Cover the eggs fully with hot water while dyeing, and spoon dye over eggs with a tablespoon.

5) Let stand, turning occasionally, until evenly colored.

6) Spoon out eggs, and place on paper towels.

For some economical variations in dyeing eggs, cut designs from cellophane or adhesive tape. Paste on eggs before dyeing. Remove tape when dry for white designs.

Refrigerate Easter eggs promptly after dyeing - use the eggs within a few days.

Discard all cracked eggs after the Easter egg hunt or use immediately - exposure to harmful bacteria can be dangerous.

Here is a quick-and-easy recipe for those after-Easter eggs:

SIMPLE DEVILED EGGS

6 hard-cooked eggs

3 tablespoons mayonnaise

2 tablespoons hot dog relish

¼ teaspoon salt

Paprika, if desired

Remove shells from hard-cooked eggs, and slice eggs in half lengthwise. With a teaspoon, remove egg yolks and place in a mixing bowl.

Mash egg yolks with mayonnaise, relish and salt. Fill center of egg white with egg yolk mixture. Sprinkle paprika over egg, if desired.

Chill and serve. Makes six servings.
