Mrs. Grace Welch Is New KC Resident

Chris Boone of Seymour.

Knox City added another name to its list of new residents last week.

Even though she is a new resident, she has spent all of her working days in Knox City for many years.

Grace Welch, manager of Perry's for the past five years and an employee of the firm for 20 years, had her house moved last Thursday from Munday to Knox City where she purchased property at 308 North Second (East).

Mrs. Welch sold her property on the southwestern edge of Munday just out of the city limits, along with the pecan orchard her late husband Jim worked until his death September 8, 1978.

The Welches had lived in Munday since 1954, moving there from their Gilliland) farm where they had lived since they were married in January 1936.

Mrs. Welch has a daughter, Juanita Killian who lives in Lubbock with her husband

Bob and son Kerry. Her son, James, lives near Gilliland with his wife Gerrie and daughter Leisa.

Mrs. Welch, a member of the Church of Christ, explained that after selling her property, it was necessary to move her home and since her work was in Knox City, she felt that this would be the wise move to make.

1980 Census Is Begun In County

Workers for the U.S. Census Bureau will begin compiling house-by-house address lists within the next few days in Knox County

"The purpose of the address listing program is to compile a complete list of households in the county for use next year when the 1980 census questionnaire will be mailed to each residence," said Ms. Kelly Epperson, census office manager in Dallas, Texas

Census workers will be walking or driving on streets and roads in the county to prepare the address lists. They will be knocking on and asking householders for a correct mailing address.

Ms. Epperson said residents can identify the census employees by a red, white, and blue census identification card which all will carry. Census workers also will carry 11" x 16" books, or address registers, in which the addresses are written.

These address lists will play a vital role in the nationwide 1980 census. They will be used to produce mailing labels for the census questionnaires. Census Day is April 1, 1980.

Council Wants More Practical Regulations

SPECIAL - The president of the National Cotton Council today called for "more practical" transportation regulations, but cautioned against any deregulation that might adversely affect the economic and efficient movement of farm commodities and other essential products to market.

Hoke Leggett, Hobgood, North Carolina, producer, made the remarks in an address at the annual meeting of the Cotton Warehouse Association here.

He especially warned against changes that would allow railroads to 1) raise freight rates "whenever or how ever much they like," 2) abandon spur lines regardless of the consequences to rural communities, or 3) indulge in predatory pricing that would eliminate healthy competition from trucking

The Council president said he was concerned about deregulation that might have a harmful effect on shipments of baled cotton and cottonseed products as well as those of fertilizer, fuel, chemicals, and other supplies vital to cotton production.

New Forms To Aid

In Sales Tax Returns

Noting that boxcar shortages are continuing to delay raw cotton shipments, Leggett pointed out that some rail lines in the Cotton Belt are now showing renewed interest in upgrading their lines and ordering new freight cars. As an example, he cited Illinois Central Gulf's recent announcement that its 1979 capital spending program will be the largest in the company's history. Plans call for adding about 2,000 new freight cars, rebuilding another 800, and improving locomotives and tracks.

"These are encouraging developments," he said, "and should prove beneficial in moving cotton to market.'

Reviewing other issues. Leggett noted that cotton dust continues to head the list of industry concerns. He said an appeals court decision on the Labor Department's strict new cotton dust standard could come as early as June or some months later. "But no matter what the court decides - whether it's in our favor or in OSHA's - the cotton dust problem will remain our most critical issue until we can eliminate or deactivate the unknown

The forms also request less information and more logically follow bookkeeping

"There are also more explicit instructions on or near the information blocks that request information that should make the returns easier to prepare and file," Bullock said.

The new forms are part of a series of internal improvements being made in the Comproller's office to improve efficiency and lighten paperwork for many tax-

Telephone lines are less likely to be busy early in the returns. Monthly returns are morning (8 a.m. to 9 a.m.) or shaded green, with direct late in the afternoon (4 p.m. payment returns on gold and to 5 p.m.), Bullock said.

"Unless Congress restores the funding to its present level, over half a million dollars would be taken away from USDA's Southern regional lab here in New Orleans where important work is being done on the cotton dust problem," he added.

The Interior Department's

proposed regulations to enforce acreage and residency requirements of the 1902 Reclamation Act were cited by the Council president as issue with widespread implications for cotton. Noting that the proposed rules would set a 160-acre limit on the amount of land a farmer could own or lease, Leggett said this would mean that the federal government for the first time would be putting a limit on the size of a farm.

He pointed out that under a recent court ruling these same acreage limitations also would apply to farmers using water Jm Corps of Engineers projects. "There are dozens of such projects across the Cotton Belt, many of which serve our producers," Leggett noted. He said the Council and a number of other groups are supporting repeal of the act's acreage and residency limits "outdated and inequitable" in today's agricultural economy. "We think it's short-sighted to put any kind of acreage limitation on farm size," the Council president said. "With the rapid changes in farming, any figure put on acreage might be just as obsolete a few years from now as 160 acres is today.

The ECA course will meet from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. Monday and Thursday beginning May 10 and ending about June 25. The course was originally scheduled to begin one week earlier, but was delayed one week because of a conflict in the instructor's schedule.

Dr. Robert Borchardt will serve as coordinator for the training. Freddie Butlar, Vernon Intermediate School band director will serve as co-coordinator and skills instructor. Butlar has assisted with the EMT Training conducted at Crowell about two years ago and with three EMT courses that have been conducted at the Vernon Central Fire Station.

There is a fee for the ECA course to be conducted in the VRJC Nursing Department The textbook used is the same one used for the EMT course and may be purchased at the VRJC bookstore. Early registration is encouraged and may be accomplished by mail or in person at the VRJC Continuing Education Office.

Congressional Comment

Washington, D.C.-Old bureaucrats never die and never fade away. Government agencies remain in existence well after they have ceased to become effective. 75% of the current Federal budget is beyond immediate Congressional control. 800 of more than 1,200 spending programs are permanent and never come under any regular Congressional review. Withholding Too Much Is Expensive

COLLEGE STATION -Consumers waste money by over-withholding, says Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

In other words, the money given to the government each payday in the form of payroll withholding tax goes into a holding account pending settlement of the annual tax bill, she explains.

If, over the course of the year, a consumer deposited too much into the "account," the deposits in excess of the tax bill are refunded.

While this surplus was interest-bearing account, it could have been earning at least five percent a year in a savings account, the specialist points out.

Though over-withholding is a method of forced savings, it is an expensive one, she adds.

The words of our mouth play an important part in our salvation. Remember Jesus spoke to the fig tree that did not have figs, "No man eat fruit of thee hereafter forever." The next evening the tree was dead. Peter reminded the Lord that it was he who said, "Have faith in God. For verily I say unto you, that whosoever shall say unto this mountain, 'Be thou removed, and be cast into the sea' and shall not doubt in thine heart, but shall believe that those things which he sayeth shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he sayeth." Farmers Urged To Contact Legislature

Texas Farmers Union is urging all citizens in the rural areas of the state to call upon the legislative leadership in Austin to give lawmakers and the people of Texas a chance to cast an affirmative vote for the family farm system.

Ron Butler, state secretary of the Waco-based general farm organization, has expressed fears that the Family Farm Security Act, a bill to aid entry level farmers in obtaining a loan for property, is suddenly becoming overlooked in the "plethora of political verbage and pet projects being carried by state legislators."

"We've watched for almost four months as the 66th Legislature has 'diddled' with the agricultural productivity tax, mangled and maligned state reimbursement provisions for rural school districts, attempted to excite and appease us with rhetoric about gasahol, stalled on prohibitions against foreign land ownership and otherwise

WACO - An official of the done little beyond giving farmers a little leeway on overweight harvest trailers,"

"We're asking House

Speaker Bill Clayton and Constitutional Amendments Committee Chairman Al Brown to move the Family Farm Security Act out of committee for a floor vote. We want their colleagues to record their support for the family farm and we want the electorate of Texas to have an opportunity to show its support. If the House of Representatives wants to really do something for the small farmer and especially the struggling young farmer, this is the issue to push the green light on."

At issue is a four-step legislative process requiring two votes from each chamber of the legislature to establish a loan guarantee program to undergird conventional loan applications of beginning farmers. The House has already acted affirmatively on enabling legislation now expected to sail smoothly through the Senate and the Senate in turn has sent a constitutional resolution required to fund the program to the House. The Senate bill (SJR 13) now awaits committee hearing and a two-thirds approval by House members. The Senate resolution, however, appears to be bogged down in the House Constitutional Amendments Committee where it has lain without action for a month. Texas Farmers Union observers feel that if the resolution does not clear committee soon, the House will not have a chance to send it on to a ballot proposal for Texas voters before their adjour-

"We want every farmer and rancher, every supporter of the family farm, to know that the bill is currently immobilized," Butler concluded. "We want everyone to stop their plowing and planting for just one moment to contact their elected representatives and especially Speaker Clayton and ask that they get the Family Farm Security Act moving again."

The measure also has strong support from Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Reagan Brown and an endorsement from the Independent Bankers Association of Texas. The Farmers Union spokesman says, however, that it is not lack of official support that has stymied the bill, but rather "some political game playing over their intolerance." Representatives for the Knox County area are: Hon. Ray Farabee, Texas State Senate, Austin, Texas 78711, telephone (512) 475-4446, and Hon. W.S. "Bill" Heatley, Texas House of Representatives, Capitol Station, Texas 78711, telephone (512) 475-2192.

soap. Anybody driving down Acuff is glad to see his Cotton the road could see that I wasn't raising cotton anymore. I was raising Morningglories.

Royce Acuff was definitely having problems. He grows about 800 acres of cotton and runs the Center Gin Company in Ropesville, Texas. Over a period of about four years, his Morningglories got so bad that he was becoming desperate.

'It's an 80 acre block of prime land and we were fixing to abandon the farm. You have got approximately a thousand odd dollar an acre, which is quite an investment just to let some ornery weed have it," he said.

The weeds didn't win, however, because Dr. John R. Abernathy killed them. He is project leader of weed research at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock. For five years, he has been finding answers for many of the specific weed problems that cover the High Plains and cause economic loss to area farmers. His research is partially funded by cotton producers through Cotton In-

The answer that Dr. Abernathy found for Acuff's problem was a stout rate of Sancap, followed by Caparol

"We were just about out of and MSMA. To say the least, periment station and work Incorporated dollars funding this research.

"The Morningglory has become such a problem and it increases so much. It will choke your cotton to death and we didn't have anything to control it. But John developed a program we can get with and stay with. It's really helping us.

Dr. Abernathy's program deals with almost any facet of weed research. "We work very closely with almost any commercial company that's involved with the evaluation of new herbicides for use in cotton and specifically new herbicides that might fit into our cotton production on the Texas High Plains.'

His war on weeds is not without just cause. Dr. Abernathy estimates, that if it weren't for herbicides, the High Plains could lose $436 million worth of cotton to

"We've still got 25% losses due to weeds, even though we have herbicides to control many of these weeds." he

Because finding the right weed control combination is a complex task, much of Dr. Abernathy's program takes place outside the lab.

"It's not too easy to bring weeds into an ex-with them. We rely very heavily on farmers in the area that have these specific problems. We have worked with numerous farmers within a 100 mile radius of Lubbock and put out test plots on their land.

"We carry on a very large field project, probably one of the largest in the United States as far as number of plots. We put out between 10,000 and 15,000 herbicide plots per year."

By using this technique, Dr. Abernathy has come up with answers for Morningglory, Lanceleaf Sage, Spurred Anoda, Prairie Sunflower, Oakleaf Thornapple and Roughblack Foot. He's still working on Cocklebur and Yellow Nutsedge.

This Cotton Incorporated research has helped Chris DeBusk with various weed control problems. A cotton grower from Idalou, Debusk often calls on Dr. Abernathy's expertise.

"If I've got some sort of problem on the farm, I knock on his door because he is supposed to be the expert and he's been a big help to me."

Because of Dr. Abernathy's help in ridding his farm of Lanceleaf Sage, Don Enger of Shallowwater, is a true supporter of Cotton Incor-

"About five years ago, I came up with a new weed on my place that was terrible. It was just solid," Enger explains. "I pulled one up and took it to Dr. Abernathy. He told me it was Lanceleaf Sage. I had never heard of it

"Dr. Abernathy wanted to do some experiments so I let him have about 5 acres. He laid it off, staked it and flagged it. He used all kinds of different chemical combinations to try to find something to control it.

"After he got through, he told me that if I had put down Treflan like I usually did and then came back after I planted with some Karmex, he thought that would control it. I did that the next year and it did a fantastic job. He saved me a lot of money.

"I've always felt that the money I put in Cotton Incorporated has been well spent and this is just another example of it. In fact, I'd be willing to give more than I do. I'm real thankful for what they have done for me as a farmer."
