Service In 4-State Area

GTE Introducing 'Charge-A-Call'

A new long distance service for the traveling public is being introduced throughout the four-state operating territory of General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Called "charge-a-call," the service is being described as payphones which won't take money, according to James B. Emery, the firm's vice president-marketing.

The first installations are being made in locations such as airports, hospitals, motels, truck stops, etc., which experience heavy payphone use.

"Charge-a-call," according to B.D. Drennan, Brownwood division manager, "is designed for customers who make collect, third number and credit card long distance calls and frees them from the burden of searching for change in order to place a call. In fact, it's just like using a home or office phone. The customer talks now, pays later and has the advantage of having all of the billing details of the call recorded on his or her phone bill."

Aside from the obvious advantages for those who actually use the "charge-a-call" phones, all customers will benefit, according to the division manager.

"The new 'coinless' phones are less expensive to install, less expensive to maintain and less subject to vandalism," he pointed out, "which thereby reduces the cost to the company and its customers of providing payphone service."

"Charge-a-call" phones are identified by a distinctive blue/orange/yellow striped sign. To place a call, the customer simply picks up the receiver and follows the dialing instructions posted by the phone. The "charge-a-call" station is automatically identified to an operator who accepts only credit card, collect or third number billings. Local calls cannot be placed from "charge-a-call" phones.

Residential or business customers may obtain telephone credit cards by making application for one at the local telephone company business office, Emery said.

"Charge-a-call phones have been in service in many locations for several months now," the division manager commented, "and generally have been well accepted by customers. However, some old habits die hard. Customers are so used to depositing money in payphones, our coin crews frequently find nickels, dimes and quarters jammed into any opening on the phone the caller could find. Truly, no coins are needed for charge-a-call."

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Alma Swearingen has returned home from a trip to Colorado and New Mexico. She reported it was her first time to travel by plane and she thoroughly enjoyed it.

She also visited her son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swearingen and children in Colorado Springs and then traveled to Albuquerque where she was a guest in the home of a niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Sklower.

Mrs. Nellie Force of Bryan visited last week in the home of her sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Buckley.

Guidelines Should Benefit Handicapped

Access to the arts for handicapped persons is the goal of new federal guidelines now being implemented by the Texas Commission on the Arts, according to Allan Longacre, Commission executive director.

"There are estimated to be nearly one million handicapped persons in Texas and they are all potential participants or audience for the arts," said Longacre. "We will be working with organizations receiving Commission support to see that all arts programs funded are accessible to all Texans."

The new federal guidelines were developed by the National Endowment for the Arts in response to Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act (Public Law 93-112). The NEA guidelines stress five major points in regard to operation of programs, activities, and employment.

*Effective immediately, a qualified disabled person cannot be denied employment with an organization which receives National Endowment for the Arts assistance, because of inaccessible facilities or the necessity to provide modified work schedules or equipment.

*Program accessibility for disabled persons involves equal opportunity for them to participate in programs and activities to the fulfillment of their individual capabilities. Programs must be accessible within 60 days from the time the guidelines go into effect.

*Also, according to the NEA guidelines, recipients of federal assistance are responsible for evaluating their facilities, programs, and activities to determine their accessibility and to develop policies to remedy any conditions which do not allow disabled persons to participate in programs.

*Architectural modification of existing facilities are necessary only when there is no other feasible way to make a program accessible. All new facilities are to be designed and constructed barrier-free for the disabled.

*Transition plans for architectural accessibility in existing facilities are required within six months of the time the guidelines go into effect, while plans for proposed facilities are required in one year.

Pocket Gophers Cause Crops, Garden Damage

By DEENA PATTILLO
Wildlife Damage Control Specialist

The gopher (specifically the pocket gopher) is a native North American rodent which, when it comes in conflict with man, often causes a great deal of damage to crops and gardens and frustration to the farmer and gardener.

Pocket gophers are medium-sized burrowing rodents that feed mainly on roots and tubers. Their most prominent features are large, yellowish incisor teeth and large, curved digging claws on the front feet. They vary in size from six to thirteen inches in length and in color from almost white to almost black, but are usually a shade of brown.

Most of the pocket gopher's life is spent in its underground runways or tunnels, nests and food storage chambers, with infrequent visits to the surface. These tunnels are usually about two to five inches in diameter and located four to eight inches under the surface of the ground, although some gophers may tunnel as much as 24 inches deep. The tunnel system may cover as much as an acre of ground. Normally, the gopher lives alone, except during breeding season. Litter size varies from one to seven young, with litters often born twice a year in the southern United States.

There are three genera and nine species of pocket gophers distributed over much of the north central, southern, and western parts of the United States. All three genera and six of the species, which are subdivided into a number of subspecies, are found in Texas. They are usually found in light, sandy soils in the upper Rio Grande Valley at El Paso, the lower Rio Grande Valley to Padre Island, the Coastal Sands, the upper coastal plateau through East Texas, the areas across North Texas, and most of the Texas

Panhandle.

Low, circular mounds of dirt are the most prominent indications of gopher activity. These mounds, usually eight to eighteen inches in diameter and about three inches or more high, are created by the gopher pushing dirt out of the main runway to the surface through short, lateral tunnels.

Control of the problem-causing gophers may be accomplished either by trapping (if the infestation is light) or by using toxic baits.

Traps, available in most hardware stores, are placed in the main tunnels. The main tunnel is found by using a stout garden trowel to clear away a fresh mound. A dirt plug will be found and can be dug out carefully until the main runway is found. Two traps, one facing each way, are set into the main runway and attached to a stake in the surface by a wire. The hole is then left open so that the light will attract the gopher to make repairs. Traps should be checked frequently and reset when necessary.

In heavy infestations, toxic baits may be used. Strychnine coated grain baits are still approved for use in gopher control and are available in many feed stores. However, you must be a certified applicator to purchase the rodenticide. These grain baits are effective for most species of gophers.

These baits must also be placed into the main runway. This may be accomplished by using a probe (either a sharpened stick about as big around as a hoe handle, or a specially made T-shaped metal probe). The probe is inserted into the ground about twelve to eighteen inches away from the horseshoe-shaped depression in a fresh mound until lessening ground pressure indicates the probe has entered the tunnel. (This method can also be used to locate the main runway when traps are to be set.) The probe is withdrawn and a tablespoon of grain bait poured into the hole which is then covered with a leaf or rock and covered over before the gopher discovers it. Bait two or three places along each series of mounds. The process may be repeated when fresh mounds appear. About one-half pound of bait is needed per acre.

Your Social Security

Several changes in the Social Security law have been brought about by the 1977 amendments. These changes affect the marriage requirements for divorced and surviving divorced spouses, increased rates for remarried widows or widowers. The new amendments affect a person's not filing a claim or his intent to file in the month of the wage earner's death. Furthermore, the new amendments apply an offset of benefits of a spouse receiving a public pension.

To be entitled to divorced or surviving divorced wife's benefits a woman had to be the surviving divorced wife of a wage earner who had been fully insured for Social Security benefits at his death. She had to have attained age 60 or have attained age 50 but not yet age 60 and is under a disability. She also had to be unmarried and had to have been married to a wage earner 20 years. According to James H. Harper, the 1977 amendments reduce the duration of marriage to ten years.

Another change brought about by the new amendments concerns a widow or widower who married after age 60 and suffered a reduction in benefits. The new law, as amended, provides that benefits for months after December, 1978, a widow or widower who marries after age 60 can get either the survivor's benefit he or she had been getting or a wife's or husband's benefit based on the new spouse's earnings record, whichever is larger.

One important change, says Harper, concerns the date of entitlement for widows or widowers benefits. Under the prior law, a widow or widower could receive retroactive benefits if they failed to file for survivor benefits in the month of the wage earner's death. The new amendment restricts entitlement of benefits to the month the application is actually filed. For this reason, the widow or widower should file in the month of the wage earner's death or notify the nearest Social Security office of their intent to file in the month of the wage earner's death. This notification of intent to file will prevent possible loss of benefits.

Another significant change, according to Harper, concerns the government pension offset provisions of the 1977 amendments. This provision states that if a spouse of a wage earner is receiving a government pension, Social Security benefits of the spouse will be offset by the pension dollar for dollar. Harper further states that this government pension offset provision does not apply to the wage earner.

If readers have questions regarding these new amendments in the law, they are asked to contact their nearest Social Security office. The Vernon Social Security office is located at 1701 Cumberland and the phone number is 817-552-9346.

Locals' Kin Married Saturday In Houston

Marriage vows uniting Tammy Deniece Tidwell and Scott Lee Patterson were read Saturday evening, May 26, at half past seven o'clock in Tallowood Baptist Church in Houston.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Tidwell of Houston, and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Patterson of Jackson, Mississippi, are parents of the bridegroom.

Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Coates of Knox City and Mrs. Jack Tidwell of Munday.

For her wedding, the bride chose a designer gown of white silk organza accented with imported Cluny lace and bridal pearls. The full skirt of the gown, which was tiered and outlined in Cluny lace, fell into a chapel train. To complement her gown, she chose an illusion veil held by a Juliet cap trimmed in Cluny lace.

Attending the bride were her sisters, Terri Tidwell, as maid of honor and Traci Tidwell, who served as bridesmaid.

Best man for the ceremony was Robert Holcomb, and Tom Branch was groomsmen.

The bride is a student at the University of Houston while her husband is employed by Don's Western Wear in Houston.

Following their honeymoon to Cancun, Mexico, the couple will reside in Houston.

IN ABILENE

Marti Tackitt was in Abilene Saturday, to attend the Abilene Saddle Club open horse show.

The Tackitts' young Arabian stallion, Sudanny, won a first-place trophy in the halter competition for two-year-old stallions.

O'Brien Man's Kin Wed In Friday Vows

Cynthia Lancaster and Gary Evans were united in marriage Friday, May 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Normandale Baptist Church in White Settlement. The Rev. Johnny Johnson of Houston, former pastor of the Normandale Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Lancaster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derwin Lancaster of Springtown, former residents of O'Brien and Knox City. Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Evans of White Settlement. Cynthia is the granddaughter of Marvin Manning and the late Ima Manning of O'Brien. She is also the granddaughter of former O'Brien resident Mrs.

Oscar Lancaster and the late Mr. Lancaster of Springtown.

The bride wore a white crepe gown accented with lace appliques. The skirt of the gown fell into a chapel train and her fingertip veil of illusion was held with a cap of matching lace appliques. She carried a bouquet of white orchid surrounded by white daisies and carnations.

Maid of honor was Chris Crivari of Fort Worth and bridesmaids were Denise Alton and Carla Lancaster of Springtown, sisters of the bride, Diane Harris and Debbie Hudson of Fort Worth. The attendants' gowns were of pink crepe knit with pink lace short jackets. Each carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Best man was Dennis Hudson of Fort Worth. Groomsmen were David Ferguson, Bill Townley, Bob Johns and Ricky Chandler, all of Fort Worth. Ushers were Steve Whisenhunt of Fort Worth and Wendell Lancaster of Springtown, brother of the bride. They wore maroon tuxedos with pink shirts.

The couple exchanged vows before an arch with white gladioli, carnations, greenery and candles. Other decorations were candelabra on either side of the arch with tall baskets of the same floral arrangement.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Evans will live in White Settlement. They are both employed by a Fort Worth bank.

RECENT VISITOR

A recent guest in the home of the A.P. Dentons was their son, A.P. Denton Jr. of Aurora, Colorado.

Also visiting one night last week were Mr. Denton's sister, Margaret Poore and friend, Charlie Delbert of Aspermont.

WEEKEND VISITORS

Weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Fitzgerald were their son-in-law, Dr. Claude E. Ricks of Redlands, California, and his daughter, Tammi Ricks of Dallas and the Fitzgeralds' son, Leslie, of Vernon.

Miss Clarke, Graham Repeat Saturday Vows

Merri Jeanette Clarke and Frank Luther Graham were united in marriage on Saturday, May 26, at two o'clock in the afternoon in the First Baptist Church. The bridegroom's uncle, Dale Graham, Church of Christ minister in Pasadena, Texas, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Charles Clarke and Mrs. Jeanette Clarke, both of Knox City. Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Graham of Knox City are parents of the bridegroom.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Ernie Wilson, at the organ, who accompanied Mrs. Charlotte Griffith, soloist. Special music selections included "One Hand, One Heart" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon and silk Venice lace. The formal length gown was designed along Empire lines with lace outlining the sheer yoke and high neckline and extending into brief cap sleeves. The full chiffon skirt flowed into a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of white imported illusion and lace was attached to a headpiece of lace adorned with seed pearls.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore a diamond drop necklace, a gift from her parents on her sixteenth birthday as "something old"; her wedding gown represented "something new"; for "something borrowed" she wore white slippers worn by the matron of honor in her own wedding; and a traditional blue garter made her "something blue."

Matron of honor was Mrs. Lynn Beason of Lubbock, sister of the bride. She was attired in a blue street length dress. Lanny Cypert of Abilene served as best man.

Ushers were J. Tom Graham of Del Rio, brother of the bridegroom, and David Anderson of Waco, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Timilu Latham of Lawndale, California, registered guests.

A reception followed in the church fellowship hall. Sherry Allen of Lubbock and DeLacy Rios of Knox City served wedding cake and punch.

Piano selections during the reception were provided by Mrs. Elsie Smith of Dimmitt, aunt of the bridegroom.

Rice bags were distributed to reception guests by Bill Beason of Lubbock, nephew of the bride; Jay Graham of Del Rio, nephew of the bridegroom; and Misty Anderson of Waco, niece of the bridegroom.
