O'Brien Happenings

By CHARLENE BROTHERS

I'm not sure just what this wind is going to blow up, maybe not anything very bad. Maybe it will bring a rain west of O'Brien. I say in this area because I'm not sure just where they need a rain and where they do not. I know down around Haskell they are probably not wanting it to rain for a little while yet, they just got their cotton planted this past week, so they need to get it up. We could use a rain west of town so we would not have to start watering maize just yet. This high priced fuel is going to take the profit out of what little we get for the crops this year. You know 76¢ diesel and 50¢ cotton is not going to add many dollars to put in the bank very fast. Maybe maize will be a pretty good price. Wheat sold for better than most thought, the only thing is we did not have many acres and it was not watered, so it did not make very good. Good for dry land, I suppose, but nothing like we usually have.

To all the volunteer firemen in O'Brien, there will be a meeting next Monday, June 25, at 8:00 p.m. at the City Hall. There will be a person from the Forestry Service here to show you all about the truck and how to service it and take care of it. So be sure and mark this date and attend, or you will be fined.

There will be a City Council meeting Thursday night, June 21, at the City Hall. Anyone that wishes can attend these meetings, so if you have anything that needs to be discussed attend the meeting.

I cannot figure out why some people think you have lost your mind just because you are walking to work, that is the whole sum of maybe four or five city blocks from your house. I feel better when I walk or ride my bicycle, of course the way the wind has been blowing the past few days I have not done much of either, because it gives me a headache to be in the wind too much.

The chairman of the beautification program has been working here lately. She has several projects going that will really help if and when we get them all carried through. So if she calls on you to help do something with a weedy lot or something to that effect, help out it will help our town a bunch.

Spend a quiet evening at home without electricity... and see just how quiet it really is.

Forget about watching TV or listening to the stereo. How about reading a good book — that's a great idea if you do it before dark or if you plan on using Abe Lincoln's lighting, the fireplace. Nobody has to tell you how important electricity is in your life. It surrounds you daily, lighting the way, entertaining you and making life more comfortable. And that's the way it should be, but we at West Texas Utilities hope you'll use electricity wisely and efficiently. Make sure your home is properly insulated and weatherized, turn off unnecessary lights and appliances, and above all, watch that thermostat setting. These things not only conserve valuable energy, they can help to lower your monthly bills. And that's important now and in the future.

Correspondence may be addressed to Opal in care of the Shady Oaks Lodge #2, Room 26, 2722 Old Anson Road, Abilene, Texas 79603. Opal will be there for awhile to take therapy at the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

Caroleta and Linda Lou entertained patients at both care homes with their singing and piano playing.

On Disability Claims

Applicants Need To Be Prepared

Applicants for social security disability benefits can speed a decision on their claims if they're prepared when they apply, according to James Harper, Social Security Branch Manager in Vernon.

"Bring the names, addresses and telephone numbers of the doctors who have treated you for your disability, the names and addresses of any hospital, clinic or other agency where you've received treatment or tests and a description of the tests or treatment so that we may have a complete picture of your condition," Harper advised.

He also stated that the dates and types of work applicants have done for the 15 years before becoming disabled will be described in the disability application.

All social security applicants are expected to have their social security cards and proof of age as well as those of their family members eligible for dependents' benefits with them while applying for benefits.

Social security disability benefits are payable to those who have worked long enough and recently enough under the program and are suffering from a medically-provable disability so severe as to prevent them from engaging in any substantial gainful activity for a year or more or to result in untimely death. Although no such benefits are payable for the first five full months of disability (the waiting period), those who believe they might qualify are urged to apply as soon as possible to allow for processing of their application during the waiting period.

Applications may be made in person at the Vernon Social Security Office at 1701 Cumberland or by telephoning them at 817-522-9346.

Joint Efforts Assist Those Under Stress

"You're fired."

Those words are dreaded by every working person ... and, unfortunately, they may be heard for a reason which is, at least temporarily, beyond the employee's control.

Every day, corporations, - large and small - are faced with the problem of the once good worker who suddenly seems to be falling apart. What should they do? Fire the employee and lose all hope of having the previously satisfactory worker satisfactory again? Probe into the employee's persona life to try to determine what's behind the deteriorating job performance?

Obviously, neither alternative is acceptable ... but working together, General Telephone Company of the Southwest and the Communications Workers of America have found another, better way.

Last year, the company and the union announced to employees the establishment of an "Employee Assistance Program (EAP)" to deal with stress and issued a statement of cooperation affirming their "determination to deal cooperatively and constructively with the various problems encountered by employees and their families."

Some of the problems they're prepared to help with include such forms of individual and family stress as alcoholism, drug abuse, anxiety, etc. Under EAP, the company and the union have committed themselves to goals of "Restoration of health, both physical and emotional, without fear of loss of job security as a result of seeking assistance."

"Stress is the focal point," says James R. Thompson, vice president - personnel of the Southwest Company. "It is ubiquitous and knows no boundaries. Everyone, at some time, is subject to stress. It can be physical, financial, mental, emotional, etc. Some forms are normal, but untreated, it can be devastating to the individual, his or her family and the employer."

Old-style practices in many instances, Thompson points out, sometimes dealt with employees under stress on a "leave-your-problems-at-home, shape-up-or-ship-out" basis.

"Aside from the inhumanity of that approach," Thompson says, "it isn't even economically sound. Hiring and training new employees is far too expensive to justify the scuttling of a trained employee suffering difficulties which could be temporary if properly handled."

"The challenges, however, are to provide a personal service for employees, impersonally; to avoid 'interference' in an employee's personal life; and to treat the cause, not strike at the symptoms.

Those are the challenges EAP is prepared to meet.

Under EAP, supervisors and union stewards are trained to recognize, but not to treat, the symptoms of stress; to explain to the employee why the work, not the employee, is unsatisfactory; and to offer to the employee, at his or her option, referral, on the most confidential basis possible, to outside professional agencies trained and experienced in providing solutions for stressful situations.

The company and the union, in effect, offer to sidestep, while an employee is under referral, usual disciplinary and grievance procedures to allow the employee time to seek assistance to combat the cause or causes of his or her unsatisfactory job performance.

"This, I believe," says Thompson, "is an unrecognized practice in small companies, where employees, supervisors, their families and their ups and downs are well known to each other. However, for a company the size of ours, more than 10,000 employees spread over a four-state area -- a more formalized approach is necessary."

Cooperative efforts by companies and unions to assist employees under stress are not new, according to Thompson. However, they are growing in acceptance and importance and the Southwest's program is among the vanguard.

Both the company and the union feel the program, although in its infancy is working well and they feel the gains to be derived -- a more stable and contented work force -- will result in even further benefits for the employees, the company and ultimately, the customer.

Couple Wed In June 8 Ceremony

Debbie Bishop and Nefro Gonzales were united in marriage Friday evening, June 8, at six o'clock in the couple's home. Derrell Marion, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Pansy Russell of Rochester and Shelby Bishop of Rochester. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amador Gonzales of Knox City.

The bride wore a white formal gown of organza with long lace sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white daisies with gypsophylla atop a white Bible. Her something blue was the traditional blue garter, the wedding dress was her something new, and something old and borrowed was a 55 year old handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Newman Bishop. The bride carried this in her Bible.

Mrs. Sherry Speck of Knox City was matron of honor. Her dress was a yellow formal length knit fashioned with a V neckline. She carried long stemmed yellow daisies.

Best man was Gilbert Casillas of O'Brien.

The bride, a graduate of Knox City High School, and Texas Woman's University, is employed by the Knox County Hospital.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of Knox City High School, is employed by Mat Verhalen. The couple is making their home in O'Brien.

A reception supper was held Saturday, June 9, in the Catholic Hall hosted by the bridegroom's parents. A meal of spiced chicken, salad, dressing and rice was served to approximately 100 guests.

The three tiered wedding cake accented with yellow roses and the bridegroom's chocolate cake and punch were served at the supper.

Mr. Farmer

Have You Seen Your Soil Inventory?

It has been said that a farmer needs to "know his soil" as well as he knows his family if he is to get the maximum response from farm management practices such as irrigation, fertilizers, and crop varieties.

It is very difficult for a farmer or a rancher to stay in business if he ignores the basis for his profit - the soil.

The Standard Soil Survey of Knox County is an inventory of the county's soil as a natural resource material.

"The soil survey is a good tool for the farmer to use every acre of soil within its capabilities and treat it according to its needs," reports Arche Lieb, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Knox City. In the survey, soils are classified according to their characteristics and then given a soil type name. Miles fine sandy loam is one of the more extensive soils in the Wichita-Brazos Soil and Water Conservation District.

Land Capability Classification is used to show the relative suitability of soils for crops, grazing, wildlife, and recreation land. It is a practical grouping of soils based on their needs, limitations, risks of damage, and their responses to principles of soil management. Capability Classes are designated by Roman numerals I through VIII. The numerals indicate progressively greater limitations and narrower choices for practical uses. Classes I, II, III are soils suitable for cultivation of annual crops. Class IV soils should be cultivated only occasionally or under very careful management. Class V, VI, and VII soils are soils that should not be cultivated but can be used for pasture, range or wildlife. Class VIII soils should be used only for recreational areas or wildlife land.

For the rancher the soils are also grouped into range sites or "kinds of country." Different kinds of soil differ in their capacity to produce grass and other plants for grazing and range sites are groupings of these different kinds of soils. For example, Miles Fine Sandy Loam is included in the "sandy loam" range site. Under ideal conditions the vegetative bristleglass and Arizona cottonop, and total air dry herbage yield ranges from 1800-3400 pounds per acre depending on rainfall. All the range sites and desirable range management practices are discussed in the soil survey report of Knox County.

Any farmer or rancher interested in information on his soils is cordially invited to come to the Soil Conservation Service office in Knox City. SCS services are free and are available without regard to race, color, creed or religion.

Discovery Aids Cancer Research

DENTON - Chemical sharpshooters are aiming at a new target in the cancer cell with the discovery by a biologist at Texas State College of Osteopathic Medicine of a new enzyme that could be a key factor in controlling growth.

Dr. Ruthann A. Masaracchia, assistant professor of biology at the college in Denton, calls the new enzyme "H-4 kinase" which has been found in large amounts in rapidly dividing cells. Her research is supported by an American Cancer Society grant.

The enzyme activates a protein (histone H-4) that interacts with DNA, the master molecule that controls cell growth, she explained. Dr. Masaracchia and her colleagues hope to discover why the H-4 enzyme is found mostly in cancer cells or cells that grow rapidly.

They will also test the possibility that H-4 histones have been altered when a normal cell is changed into a cancer cell.

Preliminary steps have been taken in making synthetic peptides which are "building materials" used in the cell structure. Eventually synthetic peptides can be designed that closely resemble those in nature except for a vital atom which is replaced by a chemically inactive one. The "artificial" peptide would then fail to Discovery of the H-4 histone enzyme provides an opportune target for "chemical marksmen" to aim at in designing new chemotherapy.

Mrs. Duncan Buried In Rochester

Funeral services for Mrs. Tommie Duncan, 86, formerly of Littlefield, were held at 3:00 p.m. Tuesday, June 19, at the Church of Christ in Rochester with Owen Aiken, minister, officiating. Burial was in the Rochester Cemetery under the direction of Smith Funeral Home.

Mrs. Duncan died at 8:10 p.m. Sunday, June 17, in the Brazos Valley Care Home after a brief illness.

She was born on August 22, 1892, in Eastland and married Jesse Van Duncan September 12, 1909. He preceded her in death on September 3, 1948.

Survivors include one son, R.J. Duncan of Abilene; six daughters, Mrs. Ina Aldridge of Littlefield, Mrs. Leola Cox of O'Brien, Mrs. Johnny Carlisle of Anton, Mrs. Lula Cox of Weatherford, Mrs. Birdie Hathcoat of Scroggins, and Mrs. Naomi Creel of Goliad; one brother, Nathan Wright of Brownwood; two sisters, Kizzie Fox of Stamford and Nannie Garvin of Lubbock; 24 grandchildren and 43 great-grandchildren.

and seeding plus management practices of crop rotation, crop residue management, contour farming, and proper grazing use.

Horton's attitude and concern for the land can be appreciated by generations to come. His comments following the awards presentation were that he had always felt a moral obligation to leave the land in better condition than it was when he obtained it. As pointed out by Mr. Horton, this puts landowner and users in a caretaker's role. He stated, "We only have and manage the land only for a short time, but it will be used by others for generations to come." According to personnel of the local Soil Conservation Service office, Horton has done an outstanding job of conservation and has certainly exhibited with action his feelings of "taking care of the land."

These include the colleges of Agricultural Sciences, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Engineering and Home Economics and the Graduate School, School of Law and School of Medicine. (Editor's Note: According to Dan Tarpley, manager of the News Bureau at Texas Tech, lists for honor students may not be complete as many students, particularly upperclassmen, list Lubbock as their official mailing address. Consequently, the Bureau has no way of knowing where a student's hometown is. This may clarify the situation for other students who were honored but were not listed.)

"But Jesus the Son of God is our great High Priest who has gone to heaven itself to help us; therefore let us never stop trusting him." (Heb. 4: 14 also 16.) Which says, "Let us then approach the throne with confidence, so that we might receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need."

Praying is a two way conversation between you and God and speaking his Words, long prayers are not necessary. Just speaking the Word with faith will bring your desire. God's Word has creative power--and this power is given to you as you are speaking his Word in faith.

You can create a better life for yourself by speaking "The Word". For is has not lost its power. It is only powerless when it is unspoken. Jesus said, "Be ye not conformed, but be ye transformed into the body of faith, knowing that my Words are alive forever more. You can trust "The Word," it cannot fail.

EARLY MANAGEMENT OF BOLL WEEVIL REDUCES SEASON-LONG POPULATIONS

Most of the cotton in Knox County was planted after May 20. This gives producers an opportunity to greatly limit boll weevil populations. A high percentage of the boll weevils that emerge from overwintering habitat will die before the first week in July when the first 1/2 grown squares will be produced in most cotton fields. Overwintered boll weevils are likely to be found in those fields which were planted first and which will produce the first 1/2 grown squares. This is especially true if these fields are near boll weevil overwintering habitat.

The fields should be inspected as they begin to square or about 30 days after emergency of seedlings. Portions of the field that are nearest overwintering habitat, or where the cotton is growing best, should be concentrated on when inspecting for overwintered boll weevils.

In those fields where overwintering boll weevil activity is found, the need for applying early-season weevil control should be evaluated carefully. A general rule of thumb is that if there are 65 weevils per acre (one boll weevil per 200 feet of row in cotton planted on 40 inch rows) and if moisture is adequate, control measures should be applied. In those fields where moisture is limited, higher overwintered boll weevil populations can be tolerated. If there are 130 boll weevils per acre in fields where moisture is limited, control is recommended.

Boll weevils cannot deposit eggs that will produce adult weevils until the cotton squares are 1/2 grown, about the size of a standard pencil eraser. Therefore, the early-season control application should be applied just prior to the 1/2 grown square stage, about 40 days after cotton seedling emergence.

If overwintered boll weevils are controlled in those fields where weevils can be detected, populations will be reduced during the entire growing season.

CLEAN OUT EAR WAX WITH YOUR ELBOWS

That is the advice of ear specialists, for the skin lining the ear canal is so delicate that even the loop in a hair pin may injure it. If this occurs infection may result.

For most people wax is not a problem. Others should go to a physician. There are many specific ear medicines prescribed and we stock them for any regular or emergency need.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?
