City Council readies federal funds request

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

For the first time in four years, the Midland City Council prepared a package of projects to gain $1.09 million from the federal government in the form of a Community Development Block Grant fund.

The city staff tried to spread the money out over streets, drainage, park improvements and housing rehabilitation, but about 40 residents from the south and east sides weren't pleased with the allotments. Their preference, they told the council Tuesday, was more money for housing rehabilitation.

The council held a public hearing on the CDBG funds at 5:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers. This followed a 5 p.m. public hearing on proposed uses for $625,000 in Revenue Sharing funds from Uncle Sam.

Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development, explained the breakdown for each category

STREET PAVING and drainage improvements would take $774,000, he said. This would include $150,000 for resurfacing Lamesa Road from Mississippi Avenue to Wadley Avenue. Another $624,000 would be used to double the width of a Scharbauer Draw drainage channel and pave Indiana Avenue from Dallas to Marshall streets, plus installing curbs and

The $141,000 allotment for parks improvements would provide play ground equipment for Sparks and Washington Parks and sprinkler systems in three parks, Hennessy said.

The housing allotment of $250,000 would continue a rehabilitation program carried out in previous years under CD funds when the city applied for them until 1977. This money, said Hennessy, would rehabilitate about 80 houses in the targeted area. Or, it could be used in a combination grantloan program.

The remaining $59,000 would be directed toward administering the program and for planning the next year's application.

This money, he said, applies for October 1981 through September

Fred Baker, director of public works, explained his reasoning for the streets selected for paving and the drainage work

Lamesa Road, he said, is the major thoroughfare for that area. "Traffic has increased dramatically over the past two years. The street wasn't built for that." Indiana Avenue, he said, only lacks three blocks of paving before it can become an east-west paved connection street from Main Street to Fairgrounds Road.

THE HIGH RATE of development above Scharbauer Draw "will create a large amount of runoff" in the current channel. That channel was designed for a 10-year rain, he said.

The target area for use of the $1 million in funds is south and east Midland, Hennessy pointed out. Council Member Doris Howbert objected to the amount of money going to drainage instead of to housing. "I thought more money needed to be in housing rehabilitation.

Money to widen the drainage channel could come from bond money, she Fred Kester, executive secretary of the Midland Housing Authority, looked back at the time when federal funds were used for rehabilitation and were administered by his agency.

The problem was trying to find small contractors who wanted to do the job, he explained. Midland succeeded in making its money go farther than other cities on the same program by seeking bids on the small

Tamara Oakman, executive director of Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, asked the council to consider her $40,000 request for renovations at the Midland clinic.

That office serves 2,000 comprehensive patients a year and many more on an information-education basis, she said. A majority of the patients are low-income women. The renova tions would increase the laboratory and examination rooms

URGING THE COUNCIL to do some swapping around of funds was Don Hellinghausen with the Midland Housing Association. He wanted the figured "nudged up to $300,000 for housing rehabilitation. The drainage channel could be held off a year. He supported the loan-grant combination, saying, "There's a lot of pride in that target community and some people wouldn't want a grant. They

Four fires fuel Las Vegas hotel tragedy

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Blowtorches of flame shot through an elevator shaft and up one side of the 30-story Las Vegas Hilton Tuesday night, as four separate fires "of suspicious origin" left eight people dead and 242 injured. Searchers went room-to-room in the hotel's east wing today looking for possible additional victims in the gambling mecca's second major hotel blaze in Six people, including a firefighter, were hospitalized in critical condition following the fires, which included one major blaze that started on the eighth floor and three smaller fires on other floors. Most of the injured suffered smoke inhalation and were released after treatment. A pillar of flames shot up the side of the 2,783-room hotel, the nation's largest, as hundreds of guests fled into the streets, lowered themselves to the ground on ropes of bedsheets or scrambled to the roof where helicopters plucked them to

Guests on upper floors broke windows to scream for help and stairwells to the ground floor were jammed. One victim died in a fall onto an outside deck, Clark County Coroner Otto Ravenholt said. The others died of smoke inhalation, he said.

"When we got outside, there were flames shooting up the side of the hotel. It looked like the 'Towering Inferno,' " said Hank Arkin, a guest from Merrick,

Singer Andy Williams and dancer Juliet Prowse were among the performers booked for Tuesday performances in the hotel showroom

"The thing that really terrified me was looking out the back door and seeing the whole east wing elevator shaft on fire and people waving electric lamps out the window, a lot of torn sheets tied up," Williams said.

Fire Chief Roy Parrish said two men were being questioned about the blazes, which followed by less than three months a fire at the MGM Grand Hotel the killed 84 people and injured more than 700.

However, Clark County homicide Detective Michael Brady said "nobody is in custody for arson." He said six people were questioned about possible looting, but they were later released.

Security guards were posted at all entrances and in the casino area today, and guests returning for their belongings were told the hotel was under "lock-up" and off-limits to all but investigators and key hotel and casino employees.

Manager Art Donovan said he had "no idea" when the hotel would reopen. The New York Stock Exchange suspended trading in Hilton Hotels Corp. stock at its 10 a.m. opening today, pending an announcement expected this afternoon about the extent of the fire damage.

The first-floor casino was not damaged. Hotel officials said that unlike the MGM Grand, which had sprinklers on only a few floors and no smoke alarms, the stone facade Hilton had sprinklers and smoke detectors on every floor.

The main fire began about 8:05 p.m. in the southeast corner of the eighth floor. Flames shot up the side of the building, leaping quickly from window to window and spewing smoke over the nearby Las Vegas Strip. About 25 minutes after the first fire was found, a second blaze was discovered in a different wing. Two more were found within 20 more minutes, and a special weapons team was called to the scene when authorities suspected arsonists might be at work inside. The bodies of three men were found in the eighth-floor elevator lobby elderly couple were found in their bathroom on the 10th floor. A woman died in her 21st floor room, and a man found alive in his 24th floor room died moments after firefighters arrived, Ravenholt said. The fire on the eighth floor was under control shortly after 9 p.m., fire officials said The other blazes — in a second floor laundry room and on the third and ninth floors — were put out later. The eighth and ninth floor hallways were gutted, Sgt. Bob Hilliard said, and smoke damage extended to the 18th floor. The left elevator shaft in the east wing was blackened top to bottom, officials said, and rooms closest to the elevators received the most damage. Barron Hilton, chairman of the Hilton Hotel Corp., in Beverly Hills, Calif., expressed "profound shock and sorrow over the deaths and injuries.

If as...Parrish suggests the fire was deliberately set, the entire resources of the Hilton Hotel Corporation will be committed to bring the person or people responsible for this tragedy to justice," he said.

Alternate school site proposed in joint council, trustee meeting

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

Midland school trustees had their hearts set on a new elementary school north of Loop 250, but Midland City Council on Tuesday tried to talk them out of it and suggested another site.

By the end of the first joint City Council-Midland Independent School District board meeting on Tuesday, the school trustees were almost agreeing with the council — but never came out and voted that way.

The first joint meeting to work out mutual problems — such as tax office transition phase, streets, utility service and bond issues — was held in the school Administration Building.

Dr. James Mailey, superintendent, explained the northern site would relieve pressure on westside elementary schools.

LOOKING AT THE SITE on a map. Richard Hennessy with the city staff pointed out the school is in the middle of an open pasture with very little single family development going on nearby. The lack of developments translates into no road system worked out in that area and no nearby utilty hookups, according to the director of planning and community development.

Right now we can't project an appropriate street pattern. Much of the land out there is zoned A-E (agriculture estates)," he noted. Hennessy later predicted that land probably will remain in large lots for many years to come.

The Younger school site, which is located south of Loop 250 and in the northwest part of the city, would be preferable, according to Councilman Gordon Marcum II.

'We spent years on the Younger school site working on the street system," he said, "It seems to be a faster developing area than anything north of Loop 250. The water and sewer lines are almost all in. As it is now, if the school district went ahead with the northernmost site and wanted to start construction this fall, the city would have to buy rights of way for streets in that area, pave the streets and lay the utilities all at taxpayers' expense.

And Fred Baker, director of public works, warned the trustees the northern site will be in the middle of a problem drainage area.

The entire area presents a whale of a drainage problem. Some major drainage facility will have to be supplied," he said, explaining it would have to go north to connect into the

Three bank executives promoted First City Bancorporation of Texas,

The Board of Directors of the Midland National Bank has announced the promotion of three of the bank's executive officers.

Murray Fasken, a longtime civic leader of Midland, was promoted to senior chairman of the board. Fasken is a 1934 graduate of Midland High School and a 1938 graduate of Texas A&M University where he earned his B.A. degree in economics. He began his career at Midland National in 1950 as a teller and was named president of the bank in January, 1958, serving in that position until August, 1964, at which time he was named chairman of the board.

He has served as president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, Midland College Board of Trustees, Midland Country Club, trustee of First Presbyterian Church, member of the Board of Directors of Trinity Towers and West Texas Boys Ranch and chairman of the Texas A&M University Development Foundation

He also is currently a member of the Board of Trustees of Schreiner College, the Board of Governors of the Midland Memorial Hospital Foundation and the Board of Directors of the Tony A. Martin was promoted to chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Midland National Bank. He came to Midland in 1967 as president of Bank of the Southwest. In 1968, the bank's were merged and Martin was made president of Midland National Bank. He has served as president of the United Way of Midland, Inc., and the Petroleum Club of Midland, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce and a director of the Industrial Foundation of Midland and the Midland Country Club.

Martin is currently a member of the Society of Fellows of the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies and is a moderator for its "The Corporation in Contemporary Society" seminars. He is also a board member of the Texas Council for Economic Education and serves as a member of the Executive Committee of the Texas Research League and the Advisory Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce Objectives for Midland.

William P. Franklin was promoted to president of Midland National. He is a 1951 graduate of Midland High School and attended Texas A&M University, receiving his B.A. degree in 1955 before graduating from The University of Texas Law School in 1958. Franklin joined the bank in September, 1958, as assistant trust officer and was subsequently named manager of that Department until 1969. He then moved to the commercial loan department and was executive vice president of the bank in 1971.

Franklin, active in civic and community work, is past president of the Metropolitan YMCA, Midland Country Club and the Permian Basin Estate Council. He also has served on the board of directors of the High Sky Girls Ranch, Heart Association and the board of trustees of Midland Memorial Hospital. Currently, he serves on the executive committee of Midland Memorial Hospital Foundation, is president-elect of the United Way of Midland, Inc., a director of the Chamber of Commerce and is on the board of trustees of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum and president of the Petroleum Club of Midland.

Franklin was honored in 1964 as Midland's Outstanding Young Man and, in 1980, was named a senator of Jayces International.

Dwyer would return to Iran

By KATHY BISTAWI Associated Pres Writer

ZURICH, Sitzerland (AP) - Cynthia Dwyer said today that despite nine months in an Iranian prison and the anxiety caused to her family, she did not regret her stay in the Islamic Republic. "I like Iran and its people. I would return if possible,' she said.

The 49-year-old American writer talked with reporters aboard the Singapore Airline jumbo jet that brought her from the Persian Gulf sheikdom of Dubai to Zurich. She left at noon -6 a.m. EST — aboard a Swissair flight due in New York at 2:40 p.m. EST, where her husband and three children

"It is incredibly good to be out," she said before boarding. Mrs. Dwyer, animated and in obvious high spirits, wore a white floppy hat, long red skirt, white sweater with brown and gold trim at the neck, wrists and waist and brown horn-rimmed

She refused to give details of the ordeal on arrival in Zurich, telling reporters at the Swiss airport, "I'm a journalist too ... This may be the only exclusive I'll ever have." But she talked much more freely with the reporters on the flight to Europe.

"I went there because I was curious. I thought we needed to understand what was going on in Iran. I felt there had been too much emphasis on the hostages and the situation could have dragged us into another Vietnam. Besides, I was also looking for a good story — I ended up with a very different one.

Mrs. Dwyer, 49 of Amherst, N.Y., fielded questions alertly and without hesitation. However, she looked pale, tired and with five inches of gray showing through her blond hair. She said she was exhausted from her overnight stay in Tehran airport Monday night.

"I could not sleep — I was too excited," she said.

Mrs. Dwyer was arrested May 5. shortly after the abortive attempt to rescue the American hostages. She was tried last weekend, convicted of espionage and other crimes against the revolutionary regime, sentenced to the time she had already spent in prison and departed Tuesday aboard an Iranian airliner to Dubai.

I never even saw any charges," said Mrs. Dwyer. "Under the Iranian constitution, they were supposed to have presented charges within 48 hours of my arrest but this was not done. It was a very long indictment but in general terms, I was accused of

Deaf plead for council to purchase TTY machine

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

The deaf people of Midland are in a dilemma, Charles Archer warned the Midland City Council on Tuesday during its regular session in City Hall.

What if our house is on fire, or we have a heart attack," said Archer, a deaf person. "We have no way of calling the fire department or the hospital. If we have a fire, are we supposed to let our home burn to the

And if a deaf person has a heart attack, "I guess he has to die," because there is no way for him to call

Archer appealed to the council to purchase a TTY machine — an instrument that allows hearing impaired persons to type out conversations over the telephone wire by printing it on paper at the other end. Archer hit the council where it hurts the most — the pocketbook. But apparently his appeal also hit the heart because the council approved purchasing a machine for $1,040 to be connected with the emergency 911

Archer said there are about 30 to 35 TTY machines in Midland. He pointed out that Lubbock and El Paso have the units in fire and police depart-

His conversation was translated to other deaf persons in the audience by Helen Miller. Both he and Ms. Miller are with the Permian Basin Council for the Hearing Impaired.

Planning and zoning requests proved the biggest challenge for the council. It denied an appeal by Lena Cochrane for a day care center at 3210 Hill St. and requests for zone changes on Marienfeld Street between Holmsley Avenue and Louisiana Avenue. the southwest corner of Big Spring Street and Louisiana Avenue, and the 500 block of Holmsley.

After an hour-long discussion, the panel decided to change the zoning on the south side of County Road 110W from single family and retail to IP-3, industrial park. This allows ware-houses with attached offices.

Bill Hickey discovered that a sixfoot mistake can mean going back to the drawing board.

His plat for an apartment complex on the southwest corner of Ward Avenue and Loop 250 was drawn for 420 feet on the north-south measurement. But resurveying showed that it was only 414 feet. His apartment plan required 252,000 square feet, but he now has 250,000.

Because he is working under a lanned District, Hickey redraw the plat and reduce the number of units to meet the density requirement.

The council approved the organization of the Hogan Park Smoky Wood Memorial Fund. John Friberg explained a board has been set up to gather donations which would be used for further "beautification and planning of Hogan Park Golf Course.' Dow T. Hamm was given the goahead for city water and sewer ser-

Agreement on the budget came after a lengthy and sometimes heated discussion between board members Johnny Warren and Ronald Britton on the extent to which the upcoming budget should be curtailed.

Preliminary figures indicate the 1981-82 budget could see a 20 percent increase over the current budget, and Britton said those figures portend "a very healthy tax increase. We need to start making cuts before getting too far along in the budget talks.'

Britton recommended allowing no more than a 10 percent hike across the board. Warren, however, said: "That's unrealistic, with inflation at 1 percent a month.

'We've got good, solid programs, and we have to be careful about undermining them until the public tells us they don't want to support quality public education.

"People here are making more money than ever before. We're blessed like no other community in the world. Until we hear different from the public, we've got to maintain

As the discussion wore on, Britton said: "But people are gagged by high taxes. We need to set some guidelines to hold increases to a minimum.'

At one point, Warren said, "I resent the insinuation that previous boards haven't shown fiscal responsibility.'

Britton then altered a previous motion, agreed to a 12 percent figure and called for the figure to be applied to the overall operating budget, instead of each individual category. The vote was unanimous in favor o Britton's amended motion, with school Superintendent Dr. James Mailey saying: "If we're going to go to the voters for a bond election (for construction of two new schools), we have to show them we're trying" to keep expenses down. The rest of the meeting was taken up by largely routine items, which included accepting bids on several repair projects and approving a recommendation going back to the letter grade system of scoring students in physical education activities. The current practice is to grade students either excellent or satisfactory, and trustee Joyce Sherrod said she felt "students will work harder for a grade than simply an excellent or satisfactory mark.

Intersection is being repayed

The south half of the intersection at Midkiff Road and Illinois Avenue will be closed Thursday morning for repaying.

According to Fred Baker, director of public works, the work should be completed in four days, with the intersection opened again on Monday.

The contractor originally was going to require 14 days for the work. But by closing part of the street, he will work through Sunday to cause less inconvenience, said Baker. Northbound traffic on Midkiff that wants to go west will turn west on Thomas Street. Traffic wanting to go east will turn east on Kessler.

The north half of that intersection is open and the work has been completed on it, Baker said.

"I feel this gives me an understanding of the problems the school board has to face in the near future," he said. "One problem is antiquated gas" from suppliers, because consumption in West and North Central Texas runs higher. TESCO, then, switches to oil to run its generators. Bowlin said the cold weather had caused some problem in making the change as the switching mechanism was freezing up. In addition, Bowlin said there was some problem with lignite fuel being used to augment capacity in that it "doesn't burn as well" in extremely cold temperatures. However, the lignite is being used to its full potential.

Bowlin said the company didn't know how long it would ask customers to reduce consumption, although he was "guessing" the company might be able to resume normal capacity by 1 p.m. today. "We're going to make it," he said. "We feel like there's enough (fuel) with everybody cutting back. It's just a matter of time until it warms up."

until it warms up."

He said until temperatures did warm up — and stay up — TESCO would continue to recommend its customers "cut back on the non-essentials." However, he said residents should continue to run their TVs or radios to get the latest information on the cold weather.

Other weather-related incidents included frozen water pipes and broken windows at Chaparral Center.

Joe Cutshall of the Central Fire Department reported the department had received six calls about frozen pipes during the night and early this morning. Although the Fire Department cannot help residents whose pipes are frozen, Cutshall said some people called because they believed their water had been shut off.

Cutshall said none of the frozen pipes were city mains, but all were lines running to the customers' home.

"Some of the water lines are deeper than others," Cutshall explained. "A lot don't have any pipe exposed; others are exposed before they lead into the house." The exposed pipes are more susceptible to freezing, he said.

Cutshall said persons who were concerned about their pipes freezing should "just leave the water running to keep a flow." As long as there is movement in the water line, the water should not freeze under normal cold temperatures, he said.

Larry Campbell, manager of Chaparral Center, said Tuesday's high winds which accompanied the cold front blew out a whole row of windows at the center. "It happened at about noon yesterday," he said this morning. "When the first winds of the cold front hit, it blew the windows out."

Campbell estimated the damage to the row of 4-feet-high, 50-feet-long windows to be about $1,500. New glass had to be ordered for the Center, but Campbell said he believed the repairmen would have had a hard time replacing the glass Tuesday if it had been available because of the high winds. The exposed windows have since been boarded up.

The National Weather Service reported the peak gust Tuesday reached 37 knots, or 43 mph, at 12: 42 p.m. The high wind also brought a chill as it came from the northeast.

The rest of the weather forecast includes a high for Thursday in the upper 50s. Winds Thursday will be south-southwesterly at 10-15 mph.

Winter's fiercest storm delivered blinding, wind-whipped new snow in the nation's midsection today and pushed eastward with deadly winds, causing power outages and flooding on the Atlantic Coast. At least 24 people have died in the storm.

Some Midwest cities were virtually paralyzed, and authorities urged people to stay indoors and wait out the storm's icy wrath. But at least seven people died shoveling snow.

Three new deaths were attributed to windstorms in the Carolinas, and three men froze to death in Iowa, Colorado and Idaho. Fog snarled air traffic into New York City and snow hampered operations elsewhere.

Fourteen inches of new snow fell in Michigan today, where some cities declared snow emergencies. Five-foot snowdrifts were reported in the Upper Peninsula. At least another inch of snow was forecast.

Record low temperatures were set in a dozen cities, including Colorado Springs, Colo., where a minus 13 reading broke a mark from 1894. Winds gusting to more than 40 mph sent the wind-chill to minus 34 in parts of Oklahoma.

of Oklahoma.

As the battered region from the Rockies to the eastern Great Lakes dug out from under up to a foot of snow, officials in four Southern states today surveyed the damage left by tornadoes that killed at least one and left dozens injured.

Early today, high winds swept up a trailer house outside Aiken, S.C., and tossed it back to the ground, where it burst into flames, officials said. Two boys, brothers aged 8 and 9, where killed, said Coroner John Stohl.

The storm turned much of Illinois into a windy deep-freeze after slinging up to a foot of wet snow across northern and central counties.

Authorities there reported two traffic deaths that may have been snow-related. A 64-year-old woman died when her auto veered into oncoming traffic in Arlington Heights and a 23-year-old pedestrian was killed by a bit and run driver, police said.

TRUSTEE PARKER Humes compared the situation to fitting together pieces of a puzzle — if they build on the Younger school site now, by the time the northern site is needed, there possibly would be more development around that site.

The school board also is wanting to construct a new De Zavala Elementary School on land adjacent and to the north of the present site. This school servies primarily the Mexican-American community on the east side, and trustees said the people want to keep the school in that loca-

The problem, said Dr. Mailey, is that some of that land is owned by other people.

Hennessy mentioned another concern of the city planning department—the downtown area is encroaching upon that community. He pointed out a light industrial area along Highway 80 a few blocks south of the elementary school. And the city is wanting to join the two ends of Louisiana Avenue, which means running it through the center of the present school site.

An open tract north of De Zavala would be a logical option, he noted, and the school would be a good feeder into the junior high school in that section.

BUT HUMES OBJECTED. "Those people don't want to move their school that far out. Their school means more to them than, say Henderson to that neighborhood."

The school board said it definitely will have a bond issue on the April 4 election ballot. Estimated cost is $5 million, with $2 million for each elementary school and another $1 million for a new library and band hall at Midland High School. The City Council said it wasn't ready to go with a bond issue yet.

Trying to prevent mistakes before they happen, the school board questioned the council about the tax office and its transition into a tax appraisal district by Sept. 1.

In 1980, the city tax office overestimated the total tax roll. Using those figures, the tax rate, was set for this year. But the roll came up short when the figures were checked. That left the school district about $800,000 short on its current budget.

John Hunt with Main, Hurdeman and Cranstoun, the certified public accounting firm that ran an audit on the tax office, attributed the mistakes to "input control breakdown." Or, as Humes translated it, human error.

There was no procedure last year to double-check the work that was typed into the computers, said Hunt. "The type of errors that created the problem will be under control by next year" he added

The two boards decided to meet jointly May 26, with the city hosting the session.

Thefts, vandalism plague city police

Theft, burglary, and vandalism complaints kept police busy during the past 24 hours.

Department of Public Safety Trooper Ralph Ward, 707 McDonald St., told city police the light and siren bar was stolen from his patrol car Monday night while the vehicle was parked at his residence. Its value was placed at $250.

Five windows worth a total of $70 were reported broken at Burnett Elementary School, while a camera, two lenses, an automatic winder, a flash attachment, and a man's watch were said to be missing from the Aquila Aero Co. at Midland Regional Airport. No value was listed on the Human rights report says China loosening controls

By GEORGE GEDDA Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — China is loosening its internal controls while repression in the other major communist power, the Soviet Union, is as bad as it's been in a decade, according to the State Department's annual human rights report.

The reports on 153 countries suggest that government-sponsored repression is widespread in both communist and non-communst countries.

The 1,140-page report was sent to Congress by the Carter administration four days before President Reagan's inauguration. An analysis of the situation in Iran was ommitted because negotiations for release of the 52 American hostages were going on at the time.

The report credited China with efforts to protect citizens against a repetition of the abuses which occurred in the 1966-76 Cultural Revolution. It said hundreds of thousands of Chinese persecuted in the past have been rehabilitated but added that "many thousands" reportedly remain in labor camps.

But a bleak picture was painted of the Soviet Union, where the report said internal and external pressures for greater respect for human rights are viewed by authorities as "a serious threat to the regime."

In addition to "their continuing violation of basic human and national rights in Afghanistan, Soviet authorities also have stepped up repression at home in a crackdown on human rights activists as severe as any since the beginning of the human rights movement a decade ago," the report said.

Treatment of Soviet dissidents at labor camps and psychiatric hospitals was variously described as "inhuman" and "cruel and degrading."

the contract of the contract o

The study indicated the U.S.-backed country with the worst human rights problem is El Salvador. There, death squads and other right-wing terrorist groups generally have been able to operate without government interference, the report said.

On the other hand, the report points out that leftist El Salvador groups also used politically motivated violence and "join-us-or-die" tactics. The cumulative death toll in 1980 was estimated at 9,000.

Public release of the report was delayed a week as a courtesy to South Korean President Chun Doo-hwan. The State Department said it did not want the report released during Chun's official visit here Feb. 3-4.

The report said there was a "deterioration" in protection of civil liberties after Chun seized power last spring. After the report was finished, however, Chun eased restrictions on some political activities and also commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Kim Dae-jung, a leading political dissident.

North Korea, meanwhile, was described as "perhaps the most highly regimented and controlled society in the world today," a country whose internal system is reminiscent of the Stalinist era in the Soviet Union.

Peru and Zimbabwe, two countries where democratic governments were installed in 1980, registered human rights gains, the report said.

Israel was credited with high human rights standards, but authorities there were found to have used excessive force on occasion against Palestinians living in the Israeli-occupied West Bank. The overall trend in that area was worse in 1980 because of the "stringent measures" adopted by the occupying authorities and the murders of several Israelis.

Cuba, a close ally of the Soviet Union, also was said to have introduced new security measures last year to combat growing unrest, a policy which the report said contrasted sharply with Cuban human rights improvements of 1979.

It said economic problems were one of the major causes of popular discontent and the government-encouraged exodus of 125,000 Cubans aboard unsafe boats to Florida last spring and summer.

In Cambodia, the report said the Vietnamese-backed regime of Heng Samrin compares favorably with the "brually repressive" Khmer Rouge, ousted in 1978. Nonetheless, it said, Vietnamese occupation troops and administrators "stand above the law with respect to any and all human rights for the Khmer people."

In Vietnam itself, the report said, probably as many as 50,000 military personnel of the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese government remain con-ined to labor camps.

nightmare ends

Iran is continuing its purge of outsiders. Soon, in fact, all those previously held against their will in that rabidly revolutionary country should be safe in their own homelands.

Earlier this week, American writer Cynthia Dwyer was released and ordered expelled from Iran after her conviction by an Iranian court on charges of espionage. Mrs. Dwyer, who had become known as the 53rd hostage, had been held by Iranians for nine Announcement also was made that four Britons detained in Iran since last August on suspicion of being spies would be freed.

The saga of the hostages in Iran apparently is nearing an end. Fifty-two Americans, held illegally in Iran for 444 days, returned home last month.

The future of the relationship between the United States and Iran is uncertain at this point in time. Despite the strategic and geopolitical importance of Iran to the United States, any rebuilding of the relationship that formerly existed will be long and hard in coming. The apparent hatred of the Khomeini regime for the United States and the bitterness of Americans toward the Iranian people, coupled with the terms of the hostage release agreement, will complicate that.

There are countless unanswered questions now that the saga is nearing its end: Was the backlash toward America in Iran justified? Was the takeover of the American embassy in Tehran really sparked by Iranian fears that embassy personnel were engaged in espionage? Or did the revolutionary fever sweeping Iran simply get out of hand?

The big question, of course, is how can the United States avoid a repeat of the unpleasantness experienced in Iran? Obviously we cannot simply "write-off" friends like the late shah when the masses demand that we do so. But what changes can be made in our method of operation that will make our presence less irritating?

And, at the same time, we must realize that in the great scheme of international affairs we cannot afford to backtrack too far without losing our effectiveness throughout the world.

Looks like it'll be akin to "walking on eggs" for awhile.

But, at least for now, the Iranian nightmare is over.

Women's role at sea

The Navy is moving ahead with plans to expand opportunities for women sailors so that they might gain higher rank and more impor-

The problem has been that many promotions depend on sea duty to prove qualification, and there just haven't been enough ships with quarters for women.

At this time there are more than 30,000 women officers and enlisted personnel in the Navy. Only 120 of the officers and 694 of the enlisted rates currently are serving aboard 10 ships.

The Navy says it hopes to have 190 officers and 5,000 enlisted women serving on many more ships by 1985. However, women will not be assigned to vessels likely to engage in combat and it will take special approval to place them aboard ships in forward areas such as the Indian Ocean or the Philippines.

A plan called "temporary additional duty" will allow women to leave their assigned land stations and serve at sea for short periods of time - up to 180 days - and thus qualify for advancement. The ships on which women will be assigned must have private accommodations for them that are equal to those of male crew-

The Navy is taking the right step. Women have proven their capabilities in the Armed Services and must be given equal opportunity for advancement.

Television in the courts causes identity problems

WASHINGTON - The Supreme Court just voted to allow television cameras into the courtroom. It might be one of the most far-reaching decisions the Burger Court has ever made, and possibly the most frightening as far as protecting the innocent

Let me explain. Anyone who has had any exposure on television knows that everyone who has seen you recognizes you, but no one can remember what you said or did. For 15 years people who watched them every night didn't know Huntley from Brinkley. I had the good fortune to be on "60 Minutes" in a friendly piece done by Mike Wallace - but to this day people can't remember if I was the scheming real estate developer in Arizona, or the guy who was smuggling in illegal aliens from Mexico.

With the advent of cable television and its eventual choice of 50 channels, we have to assume that courtroom trials will provide some of the best entertainment on television. Therefore some smart cable TV operator will plug into the courts and get an entire channel of free time shows.

Let us assume that a defendant, Arnold Gullible, is being tried by a jury in New York for refusing to pay for an AMTRAK train ride, because there was no heat in the car and the train was two hours late.

After three days Arnold is found innocent of the charges and freed. All

The next day Arnold is walking to his office and a lady on the street says to her companion, "Look, there's the man we saw on television who held up the liquor store in the Bronx.

"No, that's not the man who held up the liquor store. He's the one who mugged the old man in the park." Arnold keeps walking.

He stops off at his bank to cash a check. The guard immediately recognizes him and draws his gun. "You're not going to pull another bank rob-bery here," the guard tells him. "I saw you on TV and I couldn't believe the judge would give you a suspended sentence.

"I'm not a bank robber," Arnold protests. "You saw me on television in regard to a case in which I refused to pay a train ticket.'

'Don't tell me what I saw on television. You were on Monday night." "That was another trial."

"Get out of the bank, I don't ever want to see you here again," the guard tells him.

Arnold leaves in a daze. He's stopped on the street by a man. "Hey, Arnold, I'm a big fan of yours. Anyone who could embezzle $7 million from his company and wind up with a hung jury is my kind of guy. How about your autograph?"
"I didn't embezzle $7 million from my company. "Okay, so it was more. I bet 5-to-1 you'd beat the rap. Just put your John Hancock here on my business card and sign it to my son Billy.' Arnold signs it. A crowd gathers and asks for autographs. "Who is it?" a lady wants to know. "It's 'Son of Sam," someone else says. "They just let him out."

Arnold manages to break through the crowd and make it to his office where all his friends are shaking his hand. One says, "Arnold, I don't want to be critical but you should look at the camera more when you're talking." Another says, "You looked awfully nervous. Were you nervous?" A third says, "I didn't see the show but my wife said your lawyer was a dummy and if she had been on the jury she would have given you the maximum."

The boss calls Arnold in. "We're going to have to let you go. I've had calls from three customers who said they don't want to do business with a company who hires wife-beaters."

"I'm not a wife-beater," Arnold protests. "I just refused to pay a train

"I know it and you know it, but the TV audiences don't know it. They got you mixed up with a fellow who was tried right after you. We can't afford to have a bad image. You're going to have to pack it in.

Arnold winds up driving a bus, but his superior warns him, "We know you're an ex-con, and we're going to give you a break. But one false move and I call your parole office, and you'll go back to the slammer where you belong."

NICK THIMMESCH

Exciting times ahead for Ronald Reagan's presidency

WASHINGTON - President Reagan's first televised address from the Oval Office shows that he is the old master of the tube. His delivery was flawless, as envious Democrats admit. What Reagan said was a preview of coming actions on the economy, and, now, his audience is prepared. For many years, presidents have gone to the tube to lecture and fret on the nation's economic problems, exhorting the citizenry to tighten belts and all the rest. Statistics were cited, charts were pointed to, and presidential foreheads furrowed. There were many yawns across nighttime Ameri-This president is different. Sure, he spent a fair amount of time reciting the ominous statistics of our economic plight: back-to-back years of doubledigit inflation; the federal debt heading for $1 trillion; the 1960 dollar now worth 36 cents and probably shrinking to two-bits by 1984; a current unemployment line which literally would stretch from Maine to California - 7 million souls.

But he is different in that he holds your attention. Every line is convincingly delivered, and blends into the next. The inflection, voicing and gestures weave together into one formidable exercise in persuasion. Not for nothing did this man spend 35 years in the art of projecting. What's more, he probably believes most everything he

During the campaign, much of the populace, at one time or other, saw him on the tube. Now Reagan has the stage for himself and commands larger audiences. For several moments Thursday night, his speech sounded as though it came right out of the campaign. But then it turned to what he is determined to do now as president.

Nick Thimmesch

Reagan is firm about cutting taxes 10 percent this year, and, very likely, 10 percent in the two upcoming fiscal years as well. He declares that all taxes are ultimately paid by the people. "The government first uses business in a kind of sneaky way to help collect the taxes," he argued, citing the way business passes its operating costs - including taxes - on to the consumer.

Reagan sees the present tax situation as insidious. High taxes cut American industry's ability to modernize equipment, and thus American productivity has stagnated (it actually declined in 1979). With productivity down, American firms have trouble competing in the world market. American workers get laid off, and everybody suffers - blacks, whites, Indians, Hispanics, Democrats, Republicans, even John Andersonites. Moreover, inflation pushes too many Americans into higher tax brackets. Thus, incentive is cut and overtime is made unprofitable. Who wants to try harder or work extra hours if the federal monster is the biggest beneficiary? The more taxes collected, the more lecturing children who spend extravagantly - cut their allowances. Where Jimmy Carter saw the tax money Congress is likely to spend.

Reagan talked of the alternative to structure as a "disgrace" and singled out the devils who reveled in deductions or exploited loopholes (remember the three-martini lunch?), Reagan plainly says that the tax system hurts everybody. Reagan does not sound as though he's talking as a Republican, but as a by-gosh American explaining what has gone wrong.

One way to cut taxes is to diminish the spending that requires those taxes to be raised. The 1982 Carter budget calls for $739 billion in expenditures. Reagan doesn't like that, but he hasn't said yet how much it can be

The budget-cutting hawks come up with some astounding figures. Years ago, during LBJ's "Great Society" era, those folks who wanted to solve all problems for the poor, sick, elderly and minority tossed figures about loosely. As the late Sen. Everett Dirksen once sighed: "A billion here, a billion there, and the first thing you know, you've got real money."

Today's cutters also throw numbers around. The National Tax Limitation Committee, citing "economic crisis," calls for a $100 billion cut in the federal budget. The Heritage Foundation - a large influence on the Reagan administration - recently recommended $58 billion in cuts. David Stockman, the precocious director of the Office of Management and Budget, is beginning with $22 billion in cuts and moving upward from there.

But aren't conservatives careful in approach? Perhaps that's why an authentic conservative, not a kneejerker, Sen. Bob Dole, chairman of the Finance Committee, is cautious about impulsive slashes in taxes, spending, and the food-stamp program. Treasury Secretary Donald Regan also doubts serenity is guaranteed if the axe is mindlessly wielded. Jim Leach, a bright Republican congressman from Iowa, says his advice to Reagan is "to view with skepticism the apocalyptical prescriptions of some of his task forces and new economic advisers."

Just as heady Democrats mistakenly voted too many programs for too many people, Leach says, so Republicans could err by "promising too many tax advantages to too many interest groups." Reagan, one of the most underestimated politicians I have ever watched, can be a sly fellow. He knows he must communicate the economic problem to the people - and he did that well the other night. He also knows that a huge, troublesome counteroffensive will be mounted against his economic program if the "hawks" on his side are too demanding. I suspect that we have a canny president here whose skills will get increasing respect from "Tip" O'Neill and some other political craftsmen on the Democratic side. The Reagan presidency is indeed on the ground and running, and we are in for some exciting times.

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

Somebody in Washington has come up with the idea of putting advertising on our postage stamps. Somehow, I can't imagine collectors clamoring to get hold of a first issue Mr. Whipple commemorative.

Stamps may soon have a new purpose, nobler than ever before - honoring not only Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, but also Bert Parks and the Chock Full o' Nuts lady.

The idea behind this is to help the postal service defray expenses. You'll know the government is really in hock when you receive a bill from the IRS and on the envelope is a stamp bearing an ad for AMTRAK.

I suppose eventually we'll have to put commercials on our money. Consider the $10 bill. Isn't it fair to say that most people hold a six-pack in higher esteem than they hold Alexander Hamilton?

The new inscription on the dollar bill will be: "In God We Trust. But when it comes to kitchen floors, you need an extra-strength polish that cleans and waxes.

Jury awards settlement to orphan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court jury has awarded $400,000 to a Vietnamese orphan who was aboard a jet that crashed while flying refugees out of Vietnam during the fall of the Saigon regime in April 1975.

The child, 6-year-old James Matthew Zimmerly, now lives with adopted parents in St. Louis. He was one of 330 people aboard the Lockheed jetliner that was part of the U.S. mercy mission known as "Operation Baby

It was the second time the Zimmerly suit has been tried. An earlier jury did not award anything to the child, while granting a total of $1.5 million to two other passengers on the same

Disrict Judge Louis Oberdorfer ordered a new trial on the Zimmerly case last spring, citing racially prejudiced arguments by lawyers for the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and possible jury confusion over finanial aspects of the case.

The child's lawyers contended that he suffered brain damage when the aircraft suddenly lost oxygen just prior to the crash.

The special police task fore handling the cases has been asked to investigate the disappearance of Patrick Baltazar, Public Safety Commissioner LeeP. Brown said late Tues-

Baltazar is the 18th black child between the ages of 7 and 15 who has disappeared in the Atlanta area since July 1979. Fifteen of those children have been found dead.

The police department's missing person unit had conducted "an exhaustive and thorough investigation" into Baltazar's disappearnce without locating the child, Brown said.

Meanwhile, Mayor Maynard Jackson said actor Burt Reynolds had contributed $10,000 to the investigation, and a bill was introduced in the Georgia Legislature that would make the murder of a child an aggravating circumstance justifying the death penalty.

The bill would add one more aggravating circumstance to the 10 a jury now must consider in deciding whether to impose a death penalty under Georgia's capital punishment law. And a letter from a 10-year-old boy to "Mr. Murderer" was published Tuesday in The Atlanta Journal.

'Being a kid isn't so bad but I want the chance to grow up,' the youngster wrote. "I hope you read this and stop killing little children please, and turn yourself in.'

His mother, who asked anonymity, said her son was afraid to go out at night and "seemed to really feel in his little heart that if this mean man heard it (the plea) from a child, it might really make a difference."

Also Tuesday, Brown gave the city council's public safety committee a written report on the investigation's progress since the task force was formed in July 1980

As of last September, after the death or disappearances of 12 children, the task force had:

-Begun intervieing "all previous runaway children in the same age grouping as those who were missing or slain. -Begun "surveillances of suspects ... on a 24-hour-a-day

-Obtained "confidential records on potential suspects for analysis" from the state Pardons and Parole Board and from the U.S. Secret Service.

-Begun weekly police briefings at the start of each shift to encourage "information sharing" and to keep task force members and street police up to

Reagan advises aids not to air arguments

By JAMES GERSTENZANG Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, concerned that administration debates are being aired in public, has told Cabinet members in firm language to keep their policy arguments private.

The Cabinet should not be a sieve and things that people say in there should remain in that room," White House press secretary James S. Brady said Monday. "People should be able to discuss and express their opinions without having them repeated on the street.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan expressed his opinions about news leaks in "firm but not angry" tones at last week's Cabinet meeting. Exactly what he said hasn't leaked, but Speakes said the president "did express some feelings that we should definitely do our debating among ourselves.'

News leaks of White House secrets have been a perennial problem for past presidents, and Reagan has been no exception in his first three weeks in office. The Washington Post reported that Brady and other Reagan aides tried unsuccessfully to trace the source of leaks.

In recent days, a compilation of budget-cutting proposals prepared by David A. Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, was circulated by the administration on Capitol Hill and quickly became public.

There also was a news report that Reagan had decided at last week's Cabinet meeting to continue the Soviet grain embargo, although official spokesmen maintained no decision had been made.

And there were stories of conflicts between Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger over deploying the neutron weapon and between Haig and Stockman over cutting foreign

The budget proposals on which Reagan is working have been the subject of the most leaks, although Brady said that wasn't surprising.

when you consult that widely with the Congress, it is inevitable," Brady said. "The people on the Hill are indulging in selective leaking."

Speakes said Reagan recognized that differences among Cabinet members occasionally would "break out in the open" and was not asking them to refrain from expressing their views publicly on various issues. But, he added, "the president would hear from them first."

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - When Laura Arkin packed for a vacation at the Las Vegas Hilton, she remmbered th MGM Hotel blaze here and tossed into her bags an article on what to do during a hotel fire. Tuesday, she and her husband Hank found themselves the survivors of the second fatal hotel blaze here in four months.

"It was like the MGM fire all over again. We couldn't believe it," Arkin said.

For others who waded through the smoke and past the screaming sirens outside the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel, the scene also brought thoughts of the Nov. 21 MGM blaze, which claimed 84 lives.

"All I can say is, the safety features in this town stink," said Arkin, of Merrick, N.Y.

The Arkins were among a number of guests who were in the lobby Tuesday night when the Hilton fire started on the eighth floor, and they were able to walk out of the hotel with no problem.

'When we got outside, there were flames shooting up the side of the hotel. It looked like the movie

'Towering Inferno,'' ' said Arkin.

Some guests told of hearing screams and seeing people breaking windows to try to escape. Some said they ran from upper-story rooms to the hotel roof, where helicopters picked them up.

"In our office building in Chicago they had told us in a fire if you can't go down, go up, so we went up," said Joseph Adolf, who was here to attend a savngs and loan convention.

"When we got to the roof we saw flames coming up the shaft through the builing. So we ran over to the other side of the roof. When we saw flames there we started to get nervous," Adolf said.

However, within minutes two helicopters landed and began airlifting the 25 or so people who were there off the roof, he said. Hundreds of the 2,000-plus hotel guests huddled

Hotel fires have major differences

By The Associated Press

More than 100 people have died in the past three months as devastating fires struck two towering Las Vegas, Nev., resort hotels and engulfed convention rooms at a Harrison, N.Y., inn.

The latest blaze, at the 2,783-room Las Vegas Hilton, erupted Tuesday. Flames shot 100 feet up one side of the hotel billed as the world's second largest - killing eight people and injuring at least 242.

The Hilton is two miles from the MGM Grand hotel, where te second worst hotel fire in U.S. history claimed 84 lives and injured more than 700 people on Nov. 21.

A fire on Dec. 4 at the touffer's Inn in Harrison, N.Y., killed 26 peo-ple and injured 40. The two Las Vegas blazes were "extremely different," said Clark County Fire Chief Roy Parrish

"In this case, we had a high-rise fire," he said of the latest inferno. Smoke, but not flames, had filled the upper floors of the MGM hotel and the "circumstances were different," he said.

The Hilton fire was the result of multiple blazes, Parrish sad, including one that started in an eighth-floor corner and quickly hopscotched window-by-window to the top of the hotel.

The blaze at the MGM Grand hotel-casino began as a ground-floor kitchen fire in the 26story tourist mecca, fire investigators later found, and flames never reached the upper floors. Hilton spokesmen said the hotel had smoke alarms and sprinklers on every floor. The MGM GIVE YOUR LOVE the GIFT of time WITH A WALL CLOCK Now 20% thru Valentines at:

Survivors wrapped themselves in blankets to avoid the nighttime chill. Red Cross workers handed out coffee and doughnuts.

Those who escaped the disaster did so with good

One couple, Gary and Mary Velasek, said they had just arrived at the Hilton from Grand Island, Neb., oping to escape a cold spell.

We were five hours late because of a blizzard and our luggage got lost. We had just walked in the door of the hotel room when we heard the sirens," said Velasek. "The rest of our trip has to be better."

said Mrs. Sawyer. "We thought of the MGM Hotel

Tom and Deborah Sawyer of Key West, Fla., were in their room on the 23rd floor. "We felt trapped," and what had been in the news."

"It scared us half to death," said Sawyr. "We called downstairs and they said to put towels under the door and stay in the room. We did that and we filled the bathtub with water. We looked out the window and it was awfully scary seeing the choppers and the lights."

Entertainer Andy Williams was waiting in his dressing room at the Hilton when he first heard of the fire. At first, he said, he thought it was a joke. But Williams said he looked out the windw and once I saw the fire in the east wing, I knew they weren't kidding."

Williams was performing at the hotel with dancer Juliet Prowse. Williams said she was in the midst of her performance when hotel officials "just went out on stage and told her there was a problem and everybody should calmly leave."

"I think it was handled beautifully," Williams

Prosecutors say mechanic worked in deaths camps

CLEVELAND (AP) — As opponents of the trial demonstrated outside, posecutors charged a 60-year-old mechanic "excelled in cruelty" in Nazi death camps and gained U.S. citizenship by lying to American officials about his alleged aid to Germans during World War II.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John Horrigan charged during the first day of John Demjanjuk's trial that the defendant was known in two Polish camps as "Ivan the Terrible."

The trial, before U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti, continued today.

Demjanjuk sat passively throughout the first day's proceedings as aout 150 Ukrainian friends and sympathizers marched outside in protest of the trial and burned two Soviet flags. The group charged the U.S. government planned to introduce evidence obtained in the Soviet Union.

Government prosecutors have indicated they would submit documents obtained through West Germany from the Soviet Union. Defense attorney John W. Martin denied allegtions that Demjanjuk, an auto mechanic from suburban Seven Hills, served at two camps in occupied Poland. Justice Department prosecutors charge Demjanjuk was a camp guard who helped the Nazis commit atrocities in 1942 and 1943. The government contends that while Demjanjuk served in the Soviet army, he was captured by Germans, recruited and trained by the SS Wachmannschaft and assigned to duties at Treblinka and Sobibor, Poland.

Prisoners of war were essential to the implementation of "Operation Reinhard," a German plan to exterminate Jews in Europe, Horrigan

Martin said his client was captured, but "never served in a German military unit." The attorney did not deny that Demjanjuk, naturalized in 1958, may have made incorrect statements

'(But) the evidence will show that if he did give false testimony, it was only not to be repatriated to the Soviet Union," Martin said.

If found guilty of false immigration statements, Demjanjuk's citizenship could be revoked and he could be de-

Dr. Louis Roh, the deputy Westchester County medical examiner who performed the autopsy on the Scarsdal Diet developer, has testified that tissue from Tarnower's palm as carried into his chest by a bullet fired into the hand as it was outstretched in a classic defensive gesture.

During the prosecution's rebuttal Tuesday, 18 slides illustrating the distinctive characteristics of the palm tissue were readied for viewing in a small windowless courtroom which was more suitable for the slide show than the large, bright courtroom in which the trial has been conducted for three months.

However, Mrs. Harris' defense lawyer, Joel Aurno, objected when it became apparent the room could hold only court officials and reporters, not members of the public.

The controversy erupted Tuesday when Joel Aurnou suggested the press had "usurped unto itself" the right of members of the public to attend te slide accommodate all he spectators. He said the press gen," both of which are common to the chest. "has usurped unto itself the entire right of the

An irate Assistant District Attorney George Bolen shouted that his clients, "The People of the State of New York," were being denied their right to have the jury view the slides.

Finally, the large second-floor central jury room was cleared of jurors waiting to sit on other trials to make room for the presentation.

Israeli gunboats blast Lebanon

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli gunboats blasted Palestinian strongholds along the southern Lebanese coast during the night, but there were no immediate reports of casualties.

The Tel Aviv command said "terrorist targets" were hit between the Israeli-Lebanese border and Sidon, 30 miles north of the frontier. Israel Radio said it was another "pre-emptive attack" to prevent guerrilla raids.

The Palestine Liberation Organization in Beirut said the Israelis were backed by helicopter gunships and long-range artillery and hit poi-tions in Qassmie, 17 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanon border, in a two-hour assault.

It was the fourth Israeli attack on Lebanonbased guerrillas this year.

Execution possible for man

NEW ORLEANS (AP) David Dene Martin was being moved to Louisiana's "death house" today as his lawyer searched for a way to block the convicted murderer's scheduled execution on Friday the 13th. On Tuesday, the Louisiana Supreme Court voted 4-2 against halting the execution, the second time the state's highest court has ruled Martin can be executed. Two dissenting justices argued Martin was due another day in court on issue raised by his defense, but the majority ruling meant the end of the legal line in state courts.

Richard Sapiro, a lawyer for the Southern Prisoners Defense Committee, said he would carry the fight for a stay of execution to federal court.

Martin, 28, was convicted of killing four people in Terrebonne Parish in 1977 aftr he found out his wife was seeing another man.

Meanwile, Wardn Frank Blackburn of the state prison at Angola, La., said Martin would be moved to the "death house," an empty tier of cells near the room that houses the state's electric chair.

What was this string for?

PROVO. Utah (AP) - Have you ever walked up to your car door and reached into your pocket only to discover that your car keys are not there?

Do you get to the grocery store and find out you left your list of food items at home? How often have you been introduced to someone and then failed to remember his name?

If this has happened to you, then mnemonics may be the answer, says a psychology professor at Brigham Young University. Mnemonics, or memory aids, is a subject that is more than 300 years old but has been adapted by BYU's Dr. Kenneth L. Higbee, to modern, everyday use.

According to Higbee, who is the author of the book, "Your Memory, How It Works and How to Improve It," and an instructor of memory-improvement classes for the past 10 years, absent-mindedness is a major problem. One reason people forget easily is because of their "failure to pay attention," he explains.

Forgetting is easier than remembering, says Higbee, because "to forget something you only have to fail at any one of three stages - recording, retaining, or retrieving. But to remember something you have to be successful at all three stages. In other words, you have one chance to remember and three chances to for-

One of the cornerstones of the mnemonic technique is the use of visual imagery, he points out. Using pictures to remember words works because "most people remember visual images better than they remember words. Young children think a lot in terms of visual images, so since we were very young, this has been a learning pattern for us.'

Higbee says no one memory aid works in all situations. For example, when one of his students repeatedly forgot where her car keys were in the morning, he told her to say out loud where she was placing them when she got home at night.

'It made her think consciously about what she was doing," he ex-

For those who forget to pick up bread and milk at the grocery store on the way home, Higbee recommends tying a string on a finger or turning a watch or ring 180 degrees. Looking at the object will supposedly trigger remembrance of the task.

This method has limitations, though, because there is an association gap," he cautions. "You might remember to tie the string but then later forget why you tied it.'

There are several steps to insure remembering names and faces, he points out. First, make sure you have heard the name clearly. Use it three times - when you meet the person, during a conversation, and when you say goodbye.

Second, focus on the person's face. Find something distinctive about him or her that will help you recognize the person better.

Third, make the name meaningful to you. When the name is not familiar, he suggests applying the principle of substitution. For example, to remember the name Higbee, simply substitute hug for hig, thus getting hug

"Even if there is an occasional name that you cannot make meaningful, merely trying to do so will force you to concentrate on the name and work it over and thus increase the likelihood that you will remember it," Higbee says.

Fourth, associate the face with the name. And, finally, review the association. Higbee suggests reviewing the name as soon as possible after meeting the person. Writing the name down so you can look at it and hear it may also implant the name deeper in your memory.

"The secret to successful memorization hinges on the ability to organize information as it is filed away in your mind," Higbee says.

"How useful would a dictionary be if the words were listed in random order rather than alphabetically?"

To develop a better mental filing system Higbee has identified four methods using visual images, phonetics, locations, and a set of prememorized words, to improve memory

He uses these techniques to memorize the names of every student in his college classes - about 150 a semester - and he has memorized the major content of every chapter in a 290-page book.

Lucy Mashburn award to be presented Thursday night

Winner of the Altrusa Club of Midland, Inc. "Lucy Mashburn-Woman of the Year" will be named Thursday night at Ranchland Hills Country

The award is presented annually to a Midland woman who has been outstanding in community service, but who has not been previously recognized for her service. It is named in honor of Lucy Mashburn, a former club president.

Mari Tidmore is one of the ten nominees for this year's award. She was nominated by the Midland Volunteers Auxiliary to Big Spring State Hospital.

Ms. Tidmore has been a member of the First United Methodist Church here since 1938 and has worked on many projects involving the church members. She has been a volunteer to Big Spring State Hospital since 1971 and has given over 3,000 hours of service to the hospital. She received the Jack Y. Smith Award for the most Outstandiang Volunteer for 1980.

Nominee Jane Ramsoure is a retired teacher-librarian who has donated many years to education and service in the community. She was nominated by the members of the Negro Business and Professional Women's Club and is a member of St. Luke's A.M.E. Church.

Ms. Ramsoure has served on the Board of Directors of United Way and Community Day Nursery. She was a member of Family Services, serving as statistics chairperson and was education information chairperson of Planned Parenthood. She also served as a member of the Permian Basin Girl Scout Council.

Aida Dunlap is a homemaker who was nominated by the Midland Society of University Women.

Ms. Dunlap is president of Literacy and English as a Second Language. As president, she trains other adults to speak English. She is also a patron member of the Symphony Guild, has been first vice president and president of Midland Society of University Women and helped organize Casa de Retired geologist-teacher Maria Spencer is sponsored in the contest by the American Association of University Women. She is a member of the First United Methodist Church. Organizations she is involved in include the American Association of University Women, Rose Society, Iris Society, Genealogical Society and the West Texas Geological Society.

Gladys Griffin is an educational diagnostician with 21 years experience as a teacher in Midland. She was nominated by the Midland Association for Children and Adults with Learning Disabilities.

Ms. Griffin is a member of the First Baptist Church and has served on the Board of Directors of Park Center YMCA. She was instrumental in forming the local chapter of Council for Exceptional Children two years ago. She has served others with special educational needs covering the span from mental retardation to exceptional students.

Elaine Pirkle was nominated by the faculty of South Elementary for her service to the teachers there. She is a member of Alamo Heights Baptist

Ms. Pirkle served as president of Westside Lioness 700 club last year, has been assistant camp director of Campfire Girls for the past two years and is active in the Parent Teacher's Association. She received an award for outstanding and dedicated service from the Westside Lion's Club for Janet Kirkpatrick is a homemaker who has worked for the betterment of the retarded and of their rights. She was nominated by the Midland Association for Retarded Citizens, of which she has been a member for 20 years. She is currently serving as president of the group. She is a member of St. Ann's Catholic Church and has received both local and state awards for her work with the retarded.

Bonita Pitts was nominated by the Midland Gem and Mineral Society. She is a member of the First Assembly of God, where she is assistant children's church director. She was the organizing force behind

Nylon net success story

I have another success story for your wonderful nylon net.

The defrost drain tube on my refrigerator used to stop up every few months, causing the water to back up when the refrigerator self-defrosted.

About a year ago, in desperation, I placed a square of nylon net, folded a few times, over the drain cup at the top of the hose. Would you believe, no more stopped up hose! Every few weeks I remove the nylon net, wash it good and replace it. No more watery mess to clean up in the bottom of the fridge, Just a quick rinse with hot water through the drain tube and the replacement of the clean nylon net has resulted in the solving of a frustrating problem of many years. - Barbara

An ounce of prevention... any way to make daily chores fewer and less of a hassle is worth passing on. Thanks. Heloise

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise: I read with interest the column about the lady who gave her automatic dishwasher away and started washing dishes by hand so that she and her daughters could spend time together.

Reminded me of a few years ago when my father was living with us and loved to dry the dishes for me.

Enter the new automatic dishwasher, and the first thing he said was, "Now what are we going to do in the evening?"

He is older and no longer living with us, but if he were, you can be certain I would have dishpan hands again! I'm sure there must be a valuable lesson here. - V.M.S.

There sure is, hon! Make memories while you can! - Heloise

VALENTINE CAKE Dear Heloise: I've baked a Valentine cake for my family each year for about 20 years, but when I reached for the red food coloring the last time, it had dried up. By adding a little water to the coloring, I was able to tint the cake batter, but there wasn't enough for A valentine cake that isn't pink just won't do, so I found a package of red granulated soft drink mix (the unsweetened kind) in among my kitchen

A few shakes turned the frosting into just the right shade of pink and saved the day. - Mary Frances

BANDAGE BOON

Dear Heloise: Clipping the adhesive ends of bandage strips lengthwise, leaving the sterilized pad intact, makes the bandage easier to apply to hard-to-fit places, like the end of the finger or a knuckle. — Dixie Haase

Cutting the bandage strip all the way in half lengthwise, making two bandages, can make a better fit for tiny fingers and hurts.

Stretches the supply of bandages, too. — Heloise

ENERGY SAVER Dear Heloise: Trying to conserve energy and my gas bill, I turn the furnace way down at night. Being very cold, I sleep under an electric blanket. So, when I get into bed, I tuck my robe and bedroom slippers under the electric blanket on the opposite side of the bed.

When I get up in the morning, I just slip into them, turn the furnace up, and I stay toastie warm until the blower comes on. - Betty Jean

All excited about a super work saver you've just discovered? Send that dandy hint to Heloise care of this newspaper. She can't answer your letter personally but, sure as corn pops, she'll share the best hints received with her readers.

Putting a price tag on housework

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer A new study confirms what many married women have claimed and complained about - nell University researchers, shows that the value of chores like cooking, cleaning and mending adds up to a lot of money — more than $10,000 for a family of four. And the researchers say that women do most of the work - even if they are employed outside the

"While one social conmothers working - has pair. broken down, another social convention - one that labels most household tasks 'women's work' - leaves her with a disproportionate share of the household tasks," said William H. Gauger and Kathryn Walker.

Gauger and Ms. Walker studied the amount of time spent by different members of the family on housework and calculated what it was worth. They also tried to find out whether people are spending more or less time on household chores than they used to. Their study was based on a random sample of almost 1,400 families. They used May 1979 wage rates from the U.S. Buand New York employment agencies for a variety of jobs.

"What is most clearly seen," the pair concluded, is that the wife "contributes the giant share of household work, both in time and dollars ... This is true whether or not she is employed." The study showed that "in no type of family did the average time contributed by husband, teen-over three hours a day. On the other hand, in no instance did the wife's Gauger and Ms. Walker also concluded that two hours less a day on the amount of time devoted to household chores has not changed substantially in recent years. One type of work has simply been replaced by another. "If industry provides tribution if their wives prepared foods, someone in the family must use time to choose from the ever-changing array," Gauger and Ms. Walker said. "Many labor-saving devices ... lighten the work load, but they require time for service, vention - that against maintenance and re-

Wells Fargo Bank victim of giant embezzlemer

By ROBERT MAGNUSON The Los Angeles Times

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. - How could $21 million disappear from the nation's 12th largest commercial

Bank security experts said that an intricate scheme involving false withdrawals and deposits and the transfer of funds between checking accounts may offer the most plausible explanation of how Wells Fargo Bank fell victim to one of the biggest bank embezzlement scams ever, allegedly involving a bank branch officer, L. Ben Lewis, boxing promoter Harold J. Smith and others connected with Muhammad Ali Professional Sports, Inc. Former champion Ali is not now associated with the organization.

And, despite sophisticated security procedures, federal bank regulators warned that there is virtually no way to prevent determined individuals from carrying out such schemes at just about any major bank in the

"Reasonably intelligent people with a modestly sophisticated scheme can subvert or manipulate even the best (bank security) system," said one highranking bank regulator. "There is no such thing as a fail-safe proce-

Officials at Wells Fargo Bank refuse to discuss details of the alleged embezzlement. They say it could take weeks or even months before their own auditors and federal investigators can sift thrugh reams of bank records and piece together the puzzle that will explain where the money went. However, Wells Fargo vice president George Caulfield disputed speculation that computers played an instrumental role in the fraud. "Obviously, everything you do in a bank these days involves a computer," he said Friday, "but you would not consider this a computer fraud.'

Wells Fargo has charged Lewis, a former operations officer in a Beverly Hills branch; Smith, and others connected with Muhammad Ali Professional Sports, Inc., with stealing $21,-305,000. Lewis and Smith disappeared around the time that the bank realized that the funds were missing, on

Donald Parker, a computer fraud expert at SRI International, a Menlo Park, Calif., think tank, said "There are thousands of ways" of siphoning funds out of a bank, adding that he had no direct knowledge of the Wells Fargo affair. But, he emphasized, "the key to the whole thing is debiting accounts - the money has to come from someplace."

The secret to a successful bank fraud, Parker added, depends on a mechanism for covering the shortage of funds in looted accounts before the bank issues its monthly statements.

This reasoning suggests that some of the funds in the Wells Fargo case might have been drained from accounts belonging to unwitting customers. At a branch located in affluent Beverly Hills, some account balances could fluctuate substantially without the knowledge of the depositors.

SRI's Parker cited the example of an officer at a New Jersey bank who transferred funds from accounts selected at random. After taking the money, he destroyed the withdrawal slips, covering up any trace of the fraud. The only problem was that he had to flee with the funds, before the diminished balances showed up at the end of the month.

This scam failed, Parker said, because the bank officer tried to continue the fraud into the next month. Wells Fargo officials have indicated that the $21 million theft took place over the course of several months at least. This suggests that whoever executed the scheme had a method for covering up the losses, perhaps by transferring funds from other accounts or by forging loan agreements to obtain cash.

Some observers have expressed skepticism over whether one person working a bank's branch office could pull off a theft of such magnitude. But Keith Marshall, director of security of the Bank Administration Institute in Park Ridge, Ill., said that "somebody in a key spot who can circumvent (bank security) controls" could carry

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — After receiving four complaints in less than a month from men who had been robbed by prostitutes, police are urging hookers to turn informant against their larcenous colleagues.

Vice officers say they will launch a citywide prostitution crackdown unless the prostitutes stop robbing customers to compensate for slow business during the cold months. Some prostitutes have already given police the names of suspects, and others are trying to persuade the robbers to stop, officers said.

"The operations officer is next to God in the office," he said. "He is the tions officer and thus fail to challenge his authority when problems arise.

Another banker said that many institutions require more than one branch officer to approve many transactions. But, he said, such safeguards often are ignored, particularly at a big bank with many branches. He also said that accounting problems often are not noticed until the bank auditors catch them during a spot check or when outside auditors do an annual review of the bank's books

Actor brings Abe Lincoln back to life

By ROBERT ESTILL Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — As the strains of "Hail to the Chief" filled the room, the tall, black-suited figure strode to the flag-draped podium to begin his presidential press conference.

His mood was light as he basked for the moment in his recent victory at the polls, setting aside temporarily the problems facing the nation.

'Ladies, you have come here to look at me, and I have come here to look at you," the president told the women in his audience. "I tell you that I have the better of the bargain."

The visage was not the wrinkled but still handsome countenance of former actor and now president, Ronald Reagan.

It was the mole-marked, bearded face of Abraham Lincoln, returning in the person of actor Richard Blake to the city where the 16th president was assassinated nearly 116 years ago.

Although neither gaunt nor homely like Lincoln, the 6-foot-4 Blake bears a physical resemblance to the president he has portrayed for most of the last 15 years.

In a voice accented with a backcountry twang, he speaks with humor about Illinois experiences and friends and with simple eloquence about his hopes for the Union.

Blake makes it almost possible to forget temporarily that he is but an actor in the Eisenhower Room of the Capitol Hill Club, gathering spot for 1981 vintage Republicans, and is here for a series of events commemorating the 172nd anniversary of Lincoln's birth on Feb. 12 near Hodgenville,

For the moment, it is November of 1864. President Lincoln has just been re-elected and the final chapters of the Civil War are being written on bloody fields in a scorched, nearly bankrupt South.

He draws some obviously planted questions from non-reporters, enabling him to respond with answers from lines in his one-man play, "An Evening With President Lincoln."

Soon, actual reporters get caught in the mood, asking questions their 19th century counterparts might have raised about the progress of the war and the eventual reunification. No one breaks the spell by asking if he is planning any outings to the theater.

Some of his answers have a contemporary familiarity, as when the "president" complains about infla-

"You cannot get a dinner for less than 60 cents anymore, and they cut it down to two desserts," he says.

He responds to questions with both a reverence for and a familiarity with his character and the period. He has honed the Lincoln role in about 4,000 performances, mostly in the Midwest and Illinois, and obviously has studied his character thoroughly.

Like Lincoln, Blake was born outside of Illinois (Davenport, Iowa) and moved to the "prairie state" at an early age. Blake, reared in Chicago, began doing one-man shows as Lincoln in 1966.

He was much in demand during the Bicentennial celebrations, spending two years in Springfield where he appeared in character at candlelight tours of the Old State Capitol where Lincoln gave his "house divided" speech, was present with President Gerald Ford for the dedication of Lincoln's Home as a national historic place, recreated the Lincoln-Douglas debates and the young Lincoln's days as a circuit-riding attorney and appeared at fund-raisers for Gov. James Thompson.

He also served as artist-in-residence at Eastern Illinois University at Charleston, one of the few universities offering a master's degree with a Lincoln studies program.

Late in 1976, he took a respite from the Lincoln role, moving to Scotsdale, Ariz., where he did television commercials, stage plays and some small

But it was back to Abe in 1978 when he answered an advertisement in "Variety" for an actor to portray Lincoln for a private corporation.

The company was Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind., which was founded in 1905 and given permission by Robert Todd Lincoln to use his father's name and photograph (the same one from which the engraving on the $5 bill was

For the last two years, Blake has toured the country for the insurance company, appearing before students and conventions either in the one-man play or "press conference."

Although he performs for an insurance company using Lincoln's name, Blake said he has always opposed "commercialism of the Lincoln character." He draws the line at the nature of the portrayal and the setting.

"I have refused to walk about streets dressed up as Lincoln as you see many Lincoln imitators doing," Blake said. "I like to be doing my work on the stage or set up like this (the mock press conference). I think too highly of the character to make a clown of him."

It was the company's sponsorship which brought him to the nation's capital and enabled him to become the first American actor to appear as Lincoln at Ford's Theatre where Lincoln was fatally wounded on April 14, 1865. Blake and British actor Roy Dotrice, who appeared on the same stage a year ago, are the only actors who have performed as Lincoln in the restored theater.

And that, Blake admits, was a bit of an intimidating experience.

"I was a little on edge because it meant so much to me to be doing it in such a historical place," Blake said.
"I hoped at the time I was doing it that it would not interfere with my performance. They tell me it did not.

"It was a thrill to be there. The only other time I had that thrill was when I was at the Old State Capitol (in Springfield) delivering the 'house divided' speech. I was halfway through it, and remembering that this was the exact spot where he did it sent a chill up and down my spine. I have that much reverence for the character."

After performing in Ford's Theatre, Blake now will have a hard time topping his own act -- unless another Republican president with Illinois roots should invite him to the White

YOUR BIRTHDAY TO-DAY: President Abraham Lincoln was born on this date, as were veteran actors Lorne Greene and Forrest Tucker. A terrific year lies ahead if you can just avoid making impulsive decisions. Business fortunes will have their ups and downs, but by year's end, your overall financial situation should be much improved. A certain amount of overseas travel could be part of the picture. Beware of investing either time or money in projects with which you are unfamiliar. Hasty commitments, endorsements will lead to lasting regrets. Where romance is concerned, you can pretty much pick and choose. Personal magnetism is at an all-

ARIES arch 21-April 19): Self-improvement projects, home study enjoy favorable influences. Your chances of making some "easy money" are slim, but a consistently good performance at work will pay big dividends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Positive forces are on your side if you have a new idea you want to advance. Just be sure your facts and figures are correct! GEMINI (May 21-June 20):

You may have to travel. If so, doublecheck all arrangements and keep to your schedule. There is a new emphasis on getting the most for your money. Family mem-bers are both congenial and supportive. CANCER (June 21-July 22): Romance is secondary to career now. New responsibilities at work mean a fatter paycheck! Learn to delegate more authority. Younger person is eager to show what he or she can do.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Extra income may come from an unusual source or a tip from a close associate. Use the "soft sell" approach when trying to win an argument. Friend shares an important secret and you

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The renewal of an old friendship could prove quite fruitful. Distant affairs are a source of satisfaction. Do everything possible to satisfy demands of higher-ups. Documents requiring your signature deserve careful scruti-

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Forge ahead with confidence and you can make considerable progress. Use telephone to reduce unnecessary travel. Good news concerning loved one will delight you. Check bank statement for possible errors! SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Look for new ways to earn extra income. Mate or partner may come up with practical idea. You might decide to postpone a meeting with an old friend. He or she will understand SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Now is the time to be more decisive at work. Steer clear of get-rich-quick schemes. Be reasonable in the demands you make on your mate. Treat loved ones to an evening out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You should be in a more cheerful mood this morning. Mail brings good news. New opportunities open up for those seeking to move ahead. Make sure bills are paid on time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Road conditions will be hazardous today. Use public transportation whenever possible. Romance could be full of wonderful surprises! Pool ideas and resources with mate, spouse. New partnerships should flourish.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Concentration is easier today. You feel much more positive about the future. Guard against unnecessary spending. A comfortable nest-egg can help you avoid problems if an emergency should arise

Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: Nine of .

We have been told that it is more blessed to give than to receive. South followed that advice on today's hand and his generosity was rewarded tenfold.

North's bid of five hearts was a two-way action. He was not sure he could defeat four spades, and five hearts, even if it failed, would not prove costly. East felt he had done his all by risking four spades at equal vulnerability. His assessment was correct -perfect defense would have defeated five spades by two tricks. And an inspired club lead by West would have beaten five hearts.

The opening spade lead was ruffed in the closed hand. Declarer led a low trump to the nine, and ruffed another spade. He cashed the king and ace of diamonds then led the king of spades. East covered with the ace, but instead of ruffing, declarer magnanimously discarded his losing diamond there and then, it would have been assigned to oblivion. A spade would allow declarer to discard a club while ruffing in dummy, then set up diamonds with a ruff. The jack of trumps would be an entry to dummy to the established diamonds, allowing declarer to get rid of his remaining club loser. And if East had the remaining diamond, he could exit with it but that would simply allow declarer to set up dummy's suit with a ruff.

This, loser-on-loser play

Note that, if declarer takes the straightforward line of simply leading toward the king of clubs, he is doomed.

The defenders will get two club tricks and a diamond. Also, if declarer tries to set up the diamonds, West can maneuver to win a diamond trick and his club shift will again defeat the contract.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deaf opening leaders!" Six Marines die in copter collision

JUSTIN, Calif. (AP) - Two helicopters collided in mid-air over the Marine Corps Air Station here Tuesday night, killing six Marines and injuring another, a military spokesman said.

"A CH-46 Sea Knight was approaching the flight line for a landing when it collided with a CH-53 Sea Stallion,' said Marine Master Sgt. Bill Grind-

The Sea Stallion was conducting an external load-carrying practice when the crash occurred about 6:45 p.m. PST, he said. Grindstaff said he did not know what caused the collision, but an in-

He said such rules currently add about $600 to the price of an American car, but he declined to say which regulations might be tossed out and how much consumers might save.

In addition, Lewis made it clear that the auto industry's recovery was tied to the well-being of the general

"We will not bring buyers back to the showrooms, we will not return workers to the plants, we will not get production lines moving again until we solve the economic dilemma that has put new cars out of the reach of customers," he said.

But Lewis offered little consolation to consumers who have seen retail gasoline prices jump by eight cents a gallon in the week since Reagan lifted oil price controls.

He acknowledged the administration was caught by surprise by the steepness and suddenness of the price increases, and said officials had estimated prices would climb slowly by about five cents - after decon-

No bug, just stray wire

WASHINGTON (AP)

— A stray wire found at the Republican National Committee headquarters last June was just that not an eavesdropping de-vice, District of Columbia police say. A seven-month investigation revealed that the wire was merely a leftover piece of an interoffice bell system, and that the GOP heaquarters had not been bugged, Assistant Police Chief William R. Dixon told The Washington Post on Tuesday.

"Everybody got carried away and started remembering suspicious people and then the media saw it like a second Watergate and then we had to spend all this time proving, in effect, that there wasn't a crime," Dixon said.

The election-year investigation produced mounds of paperwork. Police gave the U.S. attorney "all the evidence we had not uncovered,' Dixon quipped.

The material included 14 pieces of documentary evidence, 24 separate interview transcripts, photographs and FBI laboratory-test results, he

The mystery began in June, when Mary Crisp, then co-chairwoman of the Republican National Committee, thought her home telephone was she hired a private investigator who found a wire coming out of a wall in her office. Then, there were reports of a suspicious-looking man peering out from the House office building across the street. Private detectives conducted electronic sweeps of the Republican National Committee headquarters. The FBI examined the wire and found that it was not intended for voice transmission, and the National Security Agency advised police on sophisticated eavesdropping equipment.

Searches of the headquarters and the House office building turned up nothing.

"The police department ended up working hard to prove that a crime hadn't occurred," Dixon said. "Normally. we do (work hard) to prove one has."

Reagan depending on Fed to reduce inflation

By OWEN ULLMANN Associated Press Writer

WASHNGTON (AP) - The Reagan adminstration concedes its proposed tax and budget cuts would make only a small dent in the economy, leaving the main battle to bring down inflation to the independent Federal Reserve Board.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said Tuesday that President Reagan's planed 30 percent reduction in personal tax rates over three years and a cut in business taxes are needed to encourage economic growth and reverse a three-year decline in productivity.

But that does not mean "we can defeat inflation solely by cutting taxes and producing more goods," Regan said in a speech to the National Press Club. "Even a large increase in productivity growth would knock only 1 or 2 percent off the inflation rate," which stood at 12.4 percent last

"The rest of the iflation will have to be ended by bringing long-run money growth into line with the long-run growth of the economy," Regan said. "The maor contribution of the Federal Reserve must be to moderate the growth rates" of the money supply.

Under the 1913 law that created the Federal Reserve System, the nation's central bank is responsible for conducting the nation's monetary policy independently of the president.

While the Reagan aministration is counting on the bank to bring down inflation, the Fed says its efforts to restrain growth of the money supply will succeed in combatting inflationsonly if the administration reduces federal spending so budget deficits can be eliminated

Reagan sparing seven programs

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Reagan administration, trying to blunt a politial uproar over an expected $50 billion in proposed spending cuts, is promising not to touch seven programs for the needy that consume more than one-fourth of the federal bud-

At the same time, budget director David Stockman said big business and upper-income individuals will not escape Reagan's budget ax.

The cuts will hit synthetic fuels and export-import activity as well as such social programs as food expr stamps, unemployment and Medicaid, Stockman ably

But he said programs for the truly needy will be protected as Reagan tries to slash 'somewhere in the range of $50 billion' from the fiscal 1982 budget. The untouchables are: -Social Security programs for 32 million retired people, dependents and survivors. -Medicare payments for almost 29 million per-

-Government-paid school lunches and breakfasts for 9.5 million children.

-Supplemetal Security Income for 4.2 million blind, disabled or elderly poor people.

—Benefits for 4.1 million disabled veterans.

-Head Start funds covering 374,000 pupils. -Summer jobs for 665,000 teenagers.

Those programs represent about $210 billion in

Carter or the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

Since another 35 percent in defense spending and federal interest payments also are unlikely to be cut, almost all of Reagan's planned cuts would have to come from a little more than a third of the budget.

White House press secretary James Brady said sparing the seen social programs should "make a lot of pople rest a little easier" about Reagan's economic package to be unveiled Feb. 18.

Stockman acknowledged there will be "resistance across the board" to the proposed cuts, but he expressed optimism that Congress will react favor-

More aliens captured with lifting of ban

By JAMES R. KING Associated Press Writer

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Illegal aliens working on farms, ranches, construction sites and elsewhere in Texas have been captured and bused back across the Rio Grande by the thousands in the past three weeks, a roundup spurred by the lifting of census restric-

The restrictions, wich prohibited the Border Patrol from raiding private businesses, were imposed last spring in hopes of getting a better census count, but officers in the field complained they were kept in effect several months after the count was complet-

The ban was lifted Jan. 15 and "we had our second highest January in history" said Richard Staley of El Paso, chieg of a Boder Patrol district that includes most of southern New Mexico and West Texas as far east as Van Horn.

"January is usually one of our slower months there is usally very little 'harvst,' " he said. But last month he said his 385 officers apprehended 12,080 undocumented workers and returned most of them to Other Border Patrol officers from here to the lower

Rio Grande Valley and as far north as Dallas reported the same trend. Even though the ban extended through the first half of January, agents working in the Valley caught twice as many illegal aliens last month as they had in December, said Jim Kerr, a Bordet Patrol supervisor based in the McAllen headquarters.

'We could drive down farm roads and look out either side and see illegals woring in the fields," before the restrictions were lifted, he said. "Hell, they were waving at us as we went by.'

Not any more.

"One day, working just three hours in Odessa, our officers pulled 84 aliens out of (oilfield) pipe (supply) yards up there," said Johnny Williams, chief pilot with the Border Patrol sector headquarters in

In Dallas, regional chief William Chambers said "as of last week we have arrested 510 in the Dallas-Fort Worth area alone." Most of them have since been bused back to the border, where illegal aliens are released to walk across the bridges back into Mexico.

Immigration officials say those bused back to the border "volunteer" to return - as opposed to the few who elect to stay and wait - in jail - for a deportation hearing.

Charles Elmore, a Border Patol intelligence officer based in Marfa, said there is rarely any hostility between the illegal aliens and the officers who arrest

"They joke and laugh on their way back to be processed. There is no deep-seated hatred there. It's not that we don't like these people," he said. "I don't blame them for trying to come up here and better themselves. "But the United States just can't solve the whole world's evils.

Chambers said the restrictions were more painful for his region, which includes North Texas and Oklahoma, and other interior checkpoints where aiding private businesses is the main source of

'In El Paso for instance they could work along the river" during the ban, he said.

But Staley said it was just as frustrating for his men stationed acoss from Juarez, the largest Mexican city on the U.S. border. "We had a de facto temporary woker program" he complained.

Aliens and patrolmen alike agree that crossing the border illegally is not difficult. One of the favorite crosing points in the El Paso area is within a few yards of the largest customs checkpoint on the U.S.-Mexico border. In fact, many illegal aliens consider crossing the border so easy that they leave the United States and go home for Christmas.

'That's one reason December is such a slow month for us," said Elmore. "They are gong back to Mexico for the holidays. Then they come back sometime in Staley said if he had "enough men" he could reduce the flow by 80 percent. But Chambers said the first thing the United States should do to decrease the migration is to make it a crime to hire illegal a-

"It is obvious that this was deliberately overlooked," he said. "There are penalties for inducing aliens to enter, penalties for bringing them in, for harboring and concealing them - but no penalties for employment."

The latest raids have drawn criticism from Mexican-American activists who argue that they disrupt families, infringe on the rights of Hispanic citizens, and yet still do not stop the northward migration of Mexicans into the United States

Staley compared the work of his officers to that of state policemen trying to enforce the 55 mph speed limit. "Their presence does slow down the speeding driver. We are effective in that way. We might get one out of every three or four who attempt to enter" illegally, he said. Chambers said illegal aliens in his district earn an average of $3 to $5 an hour and "We feel we are accomplishing something when we remove an illgal alien from a $4.50-an-hour job that some American citizen in Dallas or Fort Worth can then take."

Family therapy gaining acceptance

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

The counseling or therapy of entire families is becoming dely accepted as the treatment of choice for a wide riety of mental health problems. A family treatment apoach makes use of the powerful forces which exist thin the family to produce and modify behavior and emoons. Such forces have been recognized and used for theraeutic change since the 1950s.

The child guidance movement in the 1950s recognized that ne successful treatment of children with mental health blems required the involvement and cooperation of the ild's mother in the treatment. This was the beginning of the ovement to family-oriented approaches to mental health

The mental health professional treating only the child rithout the mother's involvement rapidly became aware that herapeutic change for the child was practically impossie. The therapist could not hope to be as influential in the hild's life as the child's mother was. The therapist had learn to work through the mother in order to help the

Attorney general to restrict calls by White House

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- Attorney General William French Smith intends to continue a Justice Department policy of restricting calls from White House and congressional officials inquiring about pending investigations or cases.

In a memorandum to heads of department offices, boards, bureaus and divisions, the new attorney general directed that any calls or contacts from the White House or Congress be referred directly to him or his deputy. Smith's order substantially reaffirmed directives issued by his two Democratic predecessors, Benjamin Civiletti and Griffin Bell, with only minor differences.

Bell first issued the guidelines Sept. 6, 1978, partially in response to Watergate-era revelations that Assistant Attorney General Henry Peterson had discussed details of that investigation directly with then-President Richard Nixon.

Bell's order also followed a controversy over his contacts early in the Carter administration with Joshua Eilberg, a Pennsylvania congressman who sought the firing of David Marston. Marston, a Republican U.S. attorney in Philadelphia, was investigting Eilberg at the time.

Bell said he issued the guidelines because the power that goes with positions in the White House and Congress creates "a potential for uintentional influence upon a decision, or more often, may give rise to the broad appearance of improper influ-

In his directive, Smith said, "The effective and impartial administration of the laws depends on the exercise of good judgment.... Already I have observed that those in the Department of Justice are steadfastly professional in the administration of the

Smith directed that "all inquiries and information concerning pending investigations or cases from either the White House staff or the Congress should be directed to the offices of the attorney general or the deputy attorney general."

Additionally, he directed that each assistant attorney general report to the deputy atorney general all communications about specific cases by persons other than those involved in the litigation. Those were identical to the previous rules.

Smith did not restate Civiletti's language which said assistant attorneys general, U.S. attorneys and the heads of investigative agencies "have the primary responsibility to initiate and supervise investigations and cases." During the Carter administration, Philip Heymann, assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division, or U.S. attorneys made more of the final decisions on whether to prosecute case than did their predeces-

Smith told department officials he had conferred with President Reagan about the procedures, and said Reagan would order the White House staff to channel all communications to the Justice Department about investigations or cases through White House counsel Fred Fielding.

The Civiletti and Bell procedures had allowed communications from the White House domestic policy and national security chiefs as well.

Smith had announced during his confirmation hearings a modification in unstated Bell and Civiletti policies on contact with the president himself.

Bell and Civiletti had a policy of avoiding briefing former President Carter about sensitive cases inolving the White House staff or the president's family. Civiletti got into trouble last summer when he breached that policy to advise Carter that his brother, Billy, should register as a foreign agent of

But during his confirmation hearings, Smith agreed with Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., that the Bell and Civiletti policies were too strict. Smith agreed with Mathias that the attorney general should brief the president about such sensitive cases so the president could not claim he had nothing to do with them. But Smith said he would disqualify himself in any case involving the Reagan family, because he had been President Reagan's personal attorney for many years.

In taking such a position early, Smith was following advice he received from Civiletti.

Civiletti has said he told Smith the president has the constitutional power and right to be involved in any decision at the Department of Justice, but that whatever procedures the Reagan adminstration decided on should be announced publicly early in the administration.

Smith investigating enforcement of laws

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pursuing his pledge to provide new federal leadership against violent cime, Attorney Genral William French Smith is surveying how many federal investigators and prosecutors are enforcing existing laws that deal with violent

Kenneth W. Starr, Smith's counselor and perhaps his closest associate, said in an interview Tuesday that department officials have not yet begun to develop proposals for new legislation in the field.

At his confirmation hearing last month, Smith said increasing the federal government's role in the fight against violent crime would be the top priority of his department, though he acknowledged that most street crime is within local rather than federal jurisdictin.

The most recent FBI figures show crime rose more in 1979 than in any of the previous four years, led by an 11 percent jump in violent crimes. The attorney general's staff is aware that violent crime has become a major concern as measured by public

Starr said Smith is finding out how much manpower is devoted to bank robery cases and to enforcing federal laws against interstate commerce in stolen weapons, among others. He wants to know how aggressive the department is when a convicted federal felon is arrested again with a gun in his possesion, which is a federal violation, Starr said.

"We want to know whether the U.S. attorney in the southern district of New York (Manhattan) is prosecuting bank robberies or turning them over to local officials to prosecute," Starr said. "We'e trying to determine the level of commitment there is now, based on pevious, well-intentioned priorities that may have been set under different circumstances." Thus far, Starr said, "I know of no specific proposals from the Jusice Department that have come to the attorney general's attention. We are not that far He denied a published report that department officials were already developing a package of new legislation in the field, including tougher bail laws and extended federal jurisdiction into such areas as murder-for-hire.

It's a classic story of sibling rivalry, but they changed it into a period 'Rebel Without a Cause.' What horrified me even more was that this movie would stand forever as 'East of Eden.'

"It didn't occur to me at 15 that there was such a thing as a remake and a miniseries was unheard of then."

Rosenzweig, now in his early 40s, knows all about remakes and miniseries. His three-part, eight-hour production of Steinbeck's classic will conclude tonight. "East of Eden" origi nally was conceived by Steinbeck as a celebration of California's Sa linas Valley. He set out to write the story of his mother's family, and the character played by Lloyd Bridges in the ABC miniseries is based on his maternal grandfather. "But gradually the story of the Trasks took over. said Rosenzweig.

Unlike the movie which covered only a tiny portion of the book, the ABC production explores the entire breadth of the epic drama of the Trask family and the beautiful woman who haunted their lives for two generations.

The story opens in Connecticut just after the Civil War and follows the lives of the Trask family across several generations to California. It centers on Adam (played by Timothy Bottoms)  and Charles (Bruce Boxleitner) Trask, the sons of a hard-driven Civil War veteran (Warren Oates), and Cathy Ames (Jane Seymour), a conniving temptress who seduces both brothers and leaves her evil mark on them and her two sons, Cal (Sam Bottoms) and Aron (Hart Bochner).

The miniseries also stars Howard Duff, Anne Baxter, Richard Masur,

Over 700 fans turn out for night with the stars

By TED BATTLES Sports Editor

Bobby Winkles' baseball coaching career at Arizona State began on his way to the major leagues. The current Chicago White Sox coach had advanced to triple-A at Indianapolis when Walker Cooper informed him that only one thing was keeping him out of the majors.

"What's that?" Bobby pressed eagerly, "I'll start working on it right

"Ability," replied Cooper ...

Nolan Ryan, the Houston Express looked over at Don Sutton, and admitted he was sorry that the ex-Dodger had signed with the Houston Astros. "Don Sutton is the only guy to give up a homer to me and I was looking forward to batting against him again."...

SUTTON, who compiled more victories and more strikeouts with the Dodgers than either Sandy Koufax or Don Drysdale, said he was already sick of hearing how many strikeouts, no-hitters and shutouts Ryan had pitched during his career, noting it was no great feat. "I'd just like to see him do it with my stuff.".

That's a brief glimpse of the kind of treatment accorded some 700 $35-aplate fans who braved a blue norther for the third annual Midland Sports Banquet Tuesday night at Green Tree Country Club.

The annual blue ribbon event attracted sports celebrities from near and far, a couple didn't make it, but those unadvertised celebrities, like Earl Campbell, Junior Miller and Cliff Harris, who did, more than made

The list included Houston Astros' owner John McMullen, lefthanded pitcher Richard Wortham, the White Sox pitcher whose Christmas present came when he learned he had been traded from a tailender to pennant contending Montreal; David Parks, the one time Abilene High all-stater, Texas Tech All-America and San Francisco 49er wide receiver; Midland's Tom Brahaney, an Oklahoma All-America and starting St. Louis Cardinals' center; and Vivian Smith, one of the early owners of the Houston

WINKLES kept the evening moving with his spicey humor as moderator for a speakers' panel that included Sutton, Ryan, Atlanta Falcons GM Eddie LeBaron, former OU star Jack Mildren, Bill Rigney, Sr., of the California Angels; and Chicago Cubs GM Bob Kennedy, who wasn't kidding when he noted he was enjoying the pleasant weather in Midland.

"When I left Chicago this morning, there was eight inches of snow on the ground and I understand another 12 has fallen since.

If Sutton can pitch as well as he can quip, and he can, he should be more than his description of himself as the "icing on the cake" of the talent-deep

Sutton resents charges that he cuts, like in doctor, the baseball. "Tommy John cuts the baseball. I just bruise it a little bit and only days that I

Looking over at Mildren, he referred to the ex-OU quarterback as "the humility coach for Muhammad Ali."

HE ALSO noted he would be looking forward to playing for a quiet manager like Bill Virdon. "It will be a change playing for a manager who doesn't come to the mound every inning when the game is on TV," he said in reference to the Dodgers Tom Lasorda, adding that he always made sure he was facing that "little red light".

Sutton related that one particularly rough day, Lasorda came out and Lasorda asking, then begging for the ball and Sutton adamantly refusing. Finally, Lasorda in exasperation, pleaded, "Just let me rub it up a

Sutton indicated he has learned his Texas geography already, noting he was happy to be pitching in Houston. "For what John McMullen is paying me, I'd play in my underwear in Wink."

ON THE subject of Brinks job the California Angels pulled off in Boston when they landed shortstop Rick Burleson, third baseman Butch Hobson and outfielder Fred Lynn, Rigney observed, "I don't know what kind of pitching we'll have, but with our offense we may never take the field." LeBaron is enjoying the fruits of success with bigger and better things ahead at Atlanta, but he recalls those early expansion years with the Cowboys. "In 1960 in the Cotton Bowl one of the rewards of playing with the Cowboys was that we got to know all the fans personally. They sat behind the bench and offered Coach Tom Landry advice.' LeBaron, now in the front office where he deals with escalating player contracts, recalls his first year with the Washington Redskins back in 1950 when owner George Preston Marshall complained, when the subject of more money came up, Do you realize that I pay 33 players a total of $175,000...'

The 5-7 LeBaron admits he's a glaring example of what can happen to a player who spends 12 years in the NFL. "When I got out of college, I was CAMPBELL, who blamed Joe Henderson's persistence for his appearance at the banquet, was suitably impressed by Midland's energy posture. "I didn't realize all this went on out here. At this point, I'd say I'm unemployed, but I'm in a good place to be unemployed.'

About Bum Phillips' departure as Houston Oiler coach, "The only bad thing was that he didn't take me with him." And after being raised in Tyler, playing at Texas in Austin and with the Oilers in Houston, someone asked Earl if Midland was ripe for an NFL franchise. "They'll have to import some palm trees from California. I was telling someone this afternoon that if they get to shooting in Midland, if you're not near a house, they're going to kill you.

Basketball fans watched a mighty cool game Tuesday night in Chapar-

It seems as though high winds blew out several windows around noon, so with them boarded up, usually cozy Chap Center was cool indeed, but Herbert Johnson and Preston Robertson were hot as the 9th-ranked Midland High Bulldogs gunned down the Big Spring Steers, 75-51, in a District

5-5A basketball game.
It might have been because basketball coaches from Baylor and Washington State were in the stands, top coats and all, but Johnson, the talented 6-foot-9 senior, pumped in 24 points as Midland was chalking up its 26th victory of the season against three losses and more important, stays in first place with the San Angelo Bobcats with a 2-0 reading in the second half of the 5-5A race. Central took a narrow 53-51 victory over Midland Lee Tuesday night.

THE VICTORY for Coach Jack Stephenson's Purple Pack was their 12th in a row since a loss to Altus, Okla., back in December in the Holiday Classic Tournament in Hobbs, N.M.

Johnson started slowly, but wound up with 13 points at halftime. He hit four field goals in the third period with one being a slam-dunk and added three more points in the final period before going to the bench for a rest.

Robertson netted 12 points, scoring two buckets in each of the last three periods. Mike Velasco missed the double figures by two points with eight as 11 of the 16 Bulldogs who played got into the scoring column. WHILE JOHNSON and Robertson were showing their talents, Bobby

Earl Williams, Big Spring's all-around junior athlete, popped in 18 points for the Steers. Fletcher Johnson added nine more as the visitors stand 1-1 in the second half of the race and 11-16 on the year. Midland jumped off to a 22-14 first period lead with Johnson scoring seven points for the Pack, but a 20point outburst in the second period when Johnson hit three field goals gave Stephenson's outfit a halftime bulage of 42-28 and the rout was on.

The Pack kept it up in the third period, outscoring the Steers 16-10 to take a 58-38 lead into the final period of play. With subs playing most of the final period, the game was already decided. MHS outscored Big Spring, 17-13 in the final eight minutes.

Charmed Bobcats survive Lee Rebs

SAN ANGELO - The San Angelo Bobcats are leading a charmed life. They pulled out a narrow 53-51 District 5-5A basketball victory Tuesday night over Coach Paul Stueckler's Midland Lee Rebels to stay in a tie with Midland High in the second half of the race with a 2-0 mark.

Last Tuesday, the Bobcats closed out the first half of the race with a four-point overtime win over Big Spring and then beat Abilene Cooper, 60-59, last Friday to open the second half of the race and then the two-point win over the Rebels Tuesday in the Concho City

Gregg Diebitsch pulled down an offensive rebound with less then 30 seconds left and went back up to put the ball back in. Lee raced down court where Randy Pepper misfired on a 22-footer from the right side of the baseline. Cody Cox got the rebound for San Angelo and went the length of the court to score, but the buzzer had already sounded and Lee was the heart-breaking loser.

Lee stands 1-1 in the second half of the race and entertains the 1-1 Abilene Cooper Cougars in the Chaparral Center on the Midland College campus Friday night in its next outing.

Darius Berry led the way for the 11-17 Rebs with 18 big points for one if his better performances of the season. Kenneth Brown was next with nine points for the Tall City team.

Cox led the Bobcats with 16 points while teammates Hercules Miller and Jeff Latham followed with 10 each. The Bobcats are now 19-7 on the San Angelo also won the junior varsity contest, 49-40.

OSU won out over a long list of schools for the services of Brown. Rice, Texas Tech, Nebraska and TCU were in the running as late as Monday. OSU, however, may still have a problem with Conally. Irl signed a letter of intent Monday with Angelo State, according to Frank Rudnicki, ASU sports information director. Conally will not have to make up his mind until Feb. 18 on the national signing date. It is legal for Irl to sign with both schools as long as he doesn't sign with another Big Eight team. Neither could be reached for comment today.

Angelo State did put two other Midland players in their hip pocket as quarterback-safety Barry Corley of Lee and linebacker Gary Willis of Midland High signed letters of in-

At press time, the verdict was still out on Lee linebacker Clyde Smith. He had not signed by noon, but is thought to be leaning toward Colorado.

Lee's Rob Watson, Wade Colburn and Rodney Hemphill are being recruited by various schools, but none was expected to sign today.

Odessa Permian's Roy Dunn, an all-state choice, has opted for SMU while Odessa High quarterback Johnny Subia has selected Baylor.

Letters of intent signed by the players in the SWC or Big Eight are only binding to the conference the player signed with. The national signing date is Feb. 18, and players are allowed to switch conferences if they wish. This is the last year for two signing dates.

Next year the NCAA has ruled that the SWC signing day and the national signing day must be at the same time. An NCAA committee will decide at a later date when the 1981 natinal letter of intent will take place.

By The Associated Press

Maybe Cincinnati Reds outfielder Dave Collins went to the well once too often. After winning an arbitrator's judgement last year, Collins lost Tuesday's decsion and will have to settle for a $100,-000 salary increase. He had sought a raise of nearly $200,000. Scheduled to begin his arbitration hearing today was New York Yankees catcher Rick Cerone. Collins, who was paid

$167,500 last season, must accept a $267,500 salary for a one-year contract wih the National League team. He had sought $60,000. Collins batted .303 and stole 79 bases last sea-

"I wish we didn't have to do it but it's part of life," said Reds President Dick Wagner. "Dave exercised his option to go and we did what we had to do. The same system that agreed with him last year accepted the club's offer this year.'

Collins refused a fouryear contact offered by the Reds and becomes elgible to be a free agent after the 1981 season.

the Reds wanted to beat me," Collins said. "They said some things I will remember. It was very noticeable that they wanted badly to win. Nothing surprises me that they do.

Two other players have won their arbitration decisions.

Ron Jackson of the Minnesota Twins was awaded a $200,000 salary for the 1981 season by arbitrator Bob Stutz, according to Jackson's agent, Abdul Jalil, while a arbitrator also ruled in favor of first baseman Jason Thompson of the California Angels.

Jackson, a first baseman who batted .265 last season with five home runs and 42 runs batted in, received $115,000 last year. The Twins had tried to cut his salary by the maximum 20 percent to $92,000.

Thompson, obtained by the Angels in an early season trade with Detroit, was used mainly as a designated hitter by California. He played in 102 games for the Angels, hitting 17 homers and driving in 70 runs. He reportedly received $340,-000 - twice his 1980 sala-

Stanton rolls over Plains

The Stanton Buffaloes bombarded Plains, 61-46, Tuesday night to stay in the thick of the District 5-AA basketball race.

Stanton is now 20-6 on the season and 4-0 in the second half district go around. David McReynolds paced the Buff attack with 23 points while Craig Eiland and Curtis Williams each netted 16 points. Plains is now 2-2 in the second half. The Greenwood Rangers continued their march toward the District 14-A cage title with a 72-35 runaway over Wink's Wildcats. Tommy Pyle blistered the nets for 25 points and Rex Evans added 20. Tommy Somers flipped in 11 more. Greenwood is now 24-3 on the season. Four players scored in double figures as the Rankin Red Devils took a 67-51 victory over rival Iraan in a District 14-A game. Terry Turner led the way with 21 points, but had plenty of help with Denny Latham, 14; Naldo Esparza, 12; and Dennis Black, 12. Rankin is now 7-7 on the season and 1-2 in second half action.

McCamey's Badgers rolled to a 70-45 win over the Ozona Lions in a non-conference contest as B.J. Terry led the way with 22 points. Jerry Stovall crashed in for 17 and Pat Cowell added 11 more in a threepronged scoring barrage.

Snyder continues to wreck havoc in District 2-AAAA with a 58-52 win over Lamesa and Odessa Ector downed Monahans, 97-82.

In girls action, McCamey ripped Alpine, 82-53, with Alvarado, 15; Myrick, 19; Ybarra, 17 and Pauley, 10 leading the way. Stanton dropped a 53-44 decision to Plains despite 23 points from Brown. Iraan defeated Rankin, 26-24, in a low scoring affair as West hit for 10 points in the losing

Andrews clips Lamesa Tors

By MIKE CRUVER Sports Writer

LAMESA — When you try to run with the talented Andrews Mustangs in a basketball game, you had better be sure you have your running shoes

Lamesa, facing Andrews for the fourth time this year, tried but the proud Golden Tornadoes were unable to stay with the quicker Ponies as Andrews raced to a 78-64 District 2-AAAA win Tuesday night in the Middle School Gym here.

With the win, Andrews raises its second-half district mark to 3-0 and season ledger to 22-4. Lamesa slips to 1-3 in the district race and 17-9 for the

Actually the final score is a little misleading. With Andrews holding a 70-48 lead with 4:24 left in the ballgame, Pony coach Frank Brice started pulling his starters and Lamesa outscored the Andrews reserves 16-8 down the stretch to make the final score respectable.

Andrews used a balance attack to wear down the Tors. Jerry Alaniz led the Ponies with 24 points, Mike Murry poured in 17, Jamey Price added 16 (10 in the third quarter) and Keith Brooks netted 15. Jimmy Schneider paced Lamesa with 22 points, 6-foot sophomore Victor Spencer chipped in with 16 tallies including a thunderous slam dunk that brought the Lamesa faithful to their feet in the fourth quarter and Johnny Castro tossed in 14 in the losing effort. The classy Ponies broke from the gate quickly to grab a 17-12 lead after the first period. It didn't get any better in the second quarter. Lamesa went three minutes without scoring and managed only 12 in the period as Andrews was lighting up the scoreboard with 23. At intermission, Andrews was safely on top 40-24. Just to discourage any Tor comeback, Andrews got its pressure defense working to perfection in the third quarter and forced numerous Lamesa turnovers. The turnovers turned on the Ponies' running game as they rolled up 28 points to Lamesa's 18 in the third stanza to lead 68-42 heading into the final eight minutes of action.

Lamesa won the last stanza 22 to 8 but lost the war.

One unusual statistic to come out of the ballgame was the fact that Lamesa attempted only two free thorws despite playing on its own floor. Schneider was fouled in the act of shooting with 32 seconds remaining. But, in keeping with the trend of the game, Schneider missed both of the attempts

Andrews hosts district foe Pecos in its next outing Friday while Lamesa won't play again until Tuesday night when the Tors entertain Sweetwater.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Goaltender Mike Liut bedeviled the Prince of Wales shooters, stopping all 25 shots he faced, and Ket Nilsson scored game's first shot to pace the Clarence Campbell Conference to its first National Hockey League All-Star victory, 4-1, Tuesday night.

The Wales Conference had won the five previous All-Star encounters played under the inter-conference format. But Liut held the Wales attackers at bay with some spectacular netminding before a sellout crowd of 16,005 at The Forum. Sue Barer, England, def. Kim Sands, Miami, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. Leslie Allen, New Yok, def. Candy Reynolds, Knoxville, Tenn., 7-6, 7-4, 6-0. Virginia Wade, Great Bitain, def. Bar-bara Jordan, King of Prussia, Pa. 6-3, 5-6-2.

The St. Louis goalie, who was the winningest goalie in the NHL last season and has been the backbone of the Blues' resurgence this season, played the first 31 minutes, 43 seconds before yeilding to Philadelphia's Pete Peeters. During his outstanding stint, Liut was everywhere, blocking long slapshots and rebounds from in front, making stick, glove and pad saves to earn the game's Most Valuable Player award.

Nilsson, the Swedish star of the Calgary Flames, put a 15-foot wrist shot behind Minnesota rookie goaltender Don Beaupre for the Campbell's opening goal at 45 seconds. The score was set up by a nifty passing display that went from Paul Holmgren to Bill Barber

At 8:02 of the first period, with the Wales on a power play, Eddie Johstone broke up ice and drew Beaupre out of the net. Johnstone paused behind the net, then fed Barber in front. The puck deflected off the Flyers' left wing and into the net for the first short-handed tally in an all-star contest in seven years.

Wayne Babych of St. Louis made it 3-0 at 16: 12 of the middle period when he deflected a Johnstone pass behind Los Angeles goalie Mario Lessard, who had replaced Beaupre.

The Wales' onslaught finally paid off when Detriot rookie John Ogrodnick blasted a 30-foot slapshot past Peeters at 5:13 of the third period. But Peeters withstood a furious Wales attack in the next few minutes and Philadelphia defenseman Behn Wilson made it 4-1 with a wrist shot from in close at

Hawaiian fans await return of Tom Watson

HONOLULU (AP) - Tom Watson has some bittersweet memories of the Hawaiian Open. It was in this tournament, eight years ago, that acquired the first recruits to his legions. He captured the imagiation of the Hawaiian fans and proved them to be prophets. They called him "the Kid," this red-haired, freckle-faced young man, then only 23 and in his second year of Tour$activity. From the lead, Watson shot 75 in the last round and fell to third. But there was no doubt in the minds of the largely barefoot gallery that "the Kid" was on his way. Although John Schlee won that 1973 event, Watson was the talk of the crowd. It was as if they'd discovered "I remember it very well," Watson said before a practice round for he 1981 Hawaiian Open, a $325,000

Is your real estate broker actually worth 6 percent?

By CLYDE V. SMITH Copley News Service

Should a family, anticipating a move, list its home with a licensed real estate broker when putting the house on the market? Or should the owners try to sell the property themselves, thus saving the broker's commission, usually about 6 percent of the sales price?

This is an old pro-and-con question that has long been debated. Ater all, an owner of a $100,000 home saves about $6,000 if he or she sells the property without a broker's assistance. That's worth considering.

But many families, especially in the real estate market, can save themselves a lot of worry, myriad confusing detail work and possibly a lot of potential trouble that might in the end prove very costly if the sales negotiations are handled by an experienced broker who knows and can guide the transaction toa successful close of

In that respect, the broker earns his or her money.

The broker, with an exclusive listing, also absorbs advertising costs, takes the time to solicit prospective buyers, shows the property and handles the necessary paper work such as offers to purchase, the purchase agreement and the escrow instructions and often assists in arranging financing. Chances are, too, the bro-ker belongs to a multiple-listing service, which means the property is exposed to hundreds of other brokers who may have buyers waiting in the wings. Definitely more sales exposure. On the average, the real estate industry says, the residential property listed with a broker will sell much faster and often at a higher price than the for-sale-by-owner home. That's particularly true in recent years of rapidly escalating prices. Many sellers with homes they've owned for a long time just can't believe the high prices their property will bring until they see a broker negotiate the sale. On the other hand, many are inclined to exaggerate values which would make their homes difficult to sell. An experienced broker with appraisal knowledge is alert to what the market will bear. The ultimate decision of whether to sell your own property or let a broker handle the transaction is, of course, up to theindividual owner.

The chances of a quick, successful sale also vary with an individual's knowledge of the real market business. Many have successfully sold their own properties and saved their commission, paticularly in times of a so-called seller's market. Many others have tried and eventually given up in despair.

The American Bar Association, in its 36-page booklet, "Buying or Selling Your Home," notes that an experienced, reputable broker can be indispensable, both to the buyer (in finding the best home to suit the buyer's needs) and to the seller in handling the transaction. This guide also recognizes that sellers familiar with the sales process and the local market may best choose to handle the sale directly, and points out that various books are available that outline sales procedures. Most of these books, the guide says, recommend hiring both an attorney and an appraiser at the outset to avoid unexpected pit-

The bar association offers other tips on selling a home, even if a property is listed with an experienced broker. Types of listings, conditions for the broker's fees being earned, the fee itself and various other items are usually negotiable within certain

There are open listings and exclusive listings.

An open listing contract lists the property for sale with one broker, but reserves the right to list with as many additional brokers as desired, or allows the owner to sell directly. In the event of a sale, only the broker who finds a qualified buyer receives a commission, or in the event the owner sells it himself, no commission is

Most brokers, however, shy from open listings. They have no protection to reimburse them for their time and effort or advertising and other costs they may spend in seeking a buyer. Instead, they insist on an exclusive listing for a specified time, say 60 or 90 days. That way, the listing broker is assured of a commission, no matter who sells the property. In case another broker in a multiple-listing service sells the home, the listing broker usually splits the commission with the selling broker, unless some other arrangement is specified.

If the owner himself finds a friend who wants to buy the property, he still must pay the full commission. The only way to avoid that is to wait until the listing expires, but that's at the risk of another buyer willing to pay the full asking price in the mean-

WANT ADS reach thousands daily, WORK FAST. Dial 682-6222 Taxpayers will end up paying for budget reductions

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

2c. WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan's lengthening budget hit list doesn't mean all the programs he wants Congress to cut are going to go away. He has long argued they should go away from Washington — while acknowledging somebody is going to have to pay the bills.

And somebody means taxpayers. That assumption was built into Reagan's original program for curbing federal spending, the $90 billion plan he advanced nearly five years ago. The idea then was to turn responsibility - and revenues - for essential government programs over to levels of government closer to the voters and so, presumably, more attentive to their will.

Reagan said then, as now, that the federal government had failed to do sent the first step in what candidate the job efficiently and effectively. "Indeed, it has created more problems in welfare, education, housing, food stamps, Medicaid, community and regional development and revenue sharing, to name a few," Reagan said in Chicago on Sept. 25, 1975.

Defending that plan in the campaign that followed, Reagan said he wasn't suggesting such programs simply be scrapped to save money. "What I proposed was a systematic transfer of both responsibilities and resources for these programs to state and local government," he said.

Now many of the same programs are on the budget-cutting agenda Reagan will recommend to Congress next Wednesday. Presumably, the philosophy is intact along with the target list.

Read that way, the president's catalogue of budget cuts would repre-

Reagan said would be a gradual and phased transfer of authority over programs, and revenue sources to pay for them, to states, cities and towns.

He envisions some outright cuts, but in most cases, the administration is seeking reduction in federal spending programs that surely will have to be picked up elsewhere.

"Budget cuts can sound as if we are going to reduce government spending to a lower level than was spent the year before," Reagan said in his economic report to the nation. "This is not the case. The budgets will increase as our population increases and each year we'll see spending to match that growth."

He was talking about the federal budget, but the rule is as true for state and local governments as for Wash-

So far, the president has not discussed the shift of revenue sources he suggested in that early campaign plan. He is recommending 10 percent federal income tax cuts in each of the next three years, but not with the idea of having it taxed away at other levels of government.

But city hall or the statehouse is going to need money if Congress agrees to cut back federally financed programs.

A prime example: the reductions in federal education aid recommended by David A. Stockman, Reagan's budget director. He proposes an over-haul of federal school aid programs, to consolidate an assortment of 57 programs into a system of broad grants, to be spent the way state and local officials think it is needed.

All told, the program involves about $5.7 billion in currently budgeted federal spending. Stockman's proposal would consolidate them - and cut them about 20 percent.

Stockman's option paper forecasts opposition from education and civil rights groups, each dedicated to separate programs drafted to meet their goals. Former presidents Ford and Nixon both tried to get education aid wrapped into systems of consolidated grants, to cut federal control, red tape and regulations, and broaden the au-thority of local officials over the use of the funds. Congress balked, although neither proposed the kind of cuts the Reagan team is seeking. Reagan's budget cutters warn that congressional reaction to their proposal "will further be dampened by the reduction in aggregate funding" for education aid that already has been eroded by inflation. That's an understatement. It might be possible to prune education spending to offset part of the impact if the proposed cuts make it through Congress. But the pressure is in the other direction, for higher school budgets. And if there is to be less available from Washington, there would have to be more money available from prop-erty taxes or other state and local levies to make up the difference.

NEW YORK (AP) -Stock prices turned lower today, amid uncertainty over President Reagan's budget-cutting

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which gained 1.45 points Tuesday, rose at the opening but was down 2.64 to 945.99 at noon.

Declines held a nearly 7-5 edge over advances among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The stock market has been sluggish as investors wait for the delivery of the president's economic program to Congress next week and look for signs of how the program will fair.

Trading in Hilton Hotels' stock was delayed at the company's request following a Tuesday night fire at its Las Vegas Hilton hotel, which claimed eight lives and injured scores of people.

Among other gamingresort stocks, MGM Grand Hotels, which had a major fire last year at its Las Vegas hotel, was down % at 10; Resorts International gained 1% to 25½; Bally rose ¼ at 19; Caesars World was 1/4 at 131/4; and Holiday Inns was unchanged at 21%. Atlantic City casino hotels on Tuesday reported increased winnings from gaming tables in January.

The NYSE's composite index of all of its listed common stocks fell 0.25 to 73.73. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 1.72 at 345.71.

Big Board volume reached 15.47 million shares over the first two hours, against 15.98 million in the same period Tuesday. Greyhound topped the

California's enormous crop big on small, sour oranges

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) - Weather that wasn't experience shows that fruit smaller than 163 - the too hot produced an enormous crop of oranges in number of oranges that will fit into a shipping California this year, but about 40 percent of them are hardly bigger than golf balls, a state official says.

"They are too small and they are too sour. The public just won't buy them," said Ned Baker, a citrus grower from Woodlake and member of the state Board of Food and Agriculture.

In normal years, a hot spell causes nearly half the oranges to fall from the trees when they are still small, leaving the rest grow to marketable size.

But this season there was no such hot spell. The fruit can't be left on the trees because it will sap the trees' strength for the coming growing season. So the grower has to pay to have the oranges picked, even if he can't market them, Baker said.

At a board meeting here Monday, Baker said

About 45,000 carloads can be marketed, and the processors for juicing have a capacity of about 22,000 carloads, he said.

That leaves 13,000 carloads, some of which can be used as animal feed. Some can be used as an acid soil conditioner for alkali soils. And some can be distributed to food co-ops and charitable organizations. But all these uses don't make much of a dent

Committee chief agrees to order another inquiry concerning Donovan

By GEORGE LARDNER JR. The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The chairman of the Senate Labor Committee agreed Saturday to order another inquiry concerning Secretary of Labor Raymond J. Donovan in light of allegedly serious shortcomings in the FBI's investigation.

Democratic members of the committee, led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Mass., said in a letter delivered Friday evening to Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, that they had also come across another allegation involving Donovan's New Jersey construction company that "requires further investiga-

The Democrats suggested that Hatch call in the FBI immediately, but he said he wanted committee investigators to come up with their own report

"All allegations, including these most recent ones, will be fully gone into and evaluated, in a thoroughly bipartisan manner, by the staff of the main Senate Labor Committee," Hatch said through a spokes-

He said that any substantive findings would be immediately turned over "to the appropriate federal officials and law enforcement authorities."

The most serious of the new complaints raised by the Democrats involve two major shortcomings in the FBI investigation that were said to have been discovered by Bruce Locklin, a reporter with the Bergen (N.J.) Record. Both dealt with allegations ments to organized crime figures for "labor peace" and who was said to have been a subcontractor for Donovan's company, Schiavone Construction Co. In its report dated Jan. 23, the FBI said the businessman in question, Phillip B. Moscato, "also known as Brother Phillip Moscato, has been reported to associate with organized crime elements.

But the FBI added that its Newark office "has no information indicating ... any connection between him (Moscato) and SCC (Schiavone Construction Co.) or Mr. Donovan.'

By contrast, reporter Locklin says he managed to contact Moscato directly and, the Democratic letter continues, "Moscato acknowledged doing work for the Schiavone Construction Co." (Sources said Locklin recorded the conversation with Moscato's permission. Locklin's account was scheduled to be published in the Bergen Record's Sunday editions.)

The other deficiency involves Armand Faugno, a reputed organized crime figure in New Jersey who disappeared years ago and is presumed dead. Picardo, who described himself as a bag man for payoffs by Donovan, told the FBI that Faugno was the one who initiated "the original extortion of SCC (Schiavone Construction) to keep labor peace.'

Picardo also had told the FBI that he picked up the payoffs from Donovan and from Schiavone Construction in the late 1960s as an employee of O.K. Trucking Co., a firm secretly owned by organized crime elements but operated by a man named Al

FBI agents evidently did not carry that aspect of the inquiry any further. However, reporter Locklin dug up an address book of Faugno's that had been provided to Locklin years earlier. Locklin reportedly found in it the name, address and phone number of Al

"Mr. Locklin called the number, (and) reached Mr. Cecchi who admitted he did, in fact, know Mr. Faugno," the letter to Hatch stated. "Both of these (Locklin's) findings seemed to lend additional credence to the allegations of Ralph Picardo."

It was unclear why Cecchi might admit to a reporter what he denied to the FBI, but sources said Locklin drew the admission from Cecchi only after informing him that his name, address and phone number were in Faugno's address book. ("Oh, you mean Armand Faugno," Cecchi was then said to

Stockman beat Reagan in debate

Hearst Special News Service

Washington — It was one of those late afternoon White House sessions in which Ronald Reagan and a small band of trusted aides were ruminating about the plight of the economy and the men he had chosen to help restore it to good health.

As has become the pattern since Reagan entered the presidency, the discussion of an urgent subject followed a rather leisurely and informal pace.

"You fellows know I beat John Anderson in debate," said the President. "And most people agree that I beat Jimmy Carter in debate. What you don't know is that Dave Stockman beat me in debate."

Reagan's reference was to the fact that prior to his meeting with Anderson in Baltimore, he debated privately with Stockman, who, as a former Anderson aide, played the Anderson role convincingly. Then, before confronting Carter in Cleveland, Reagan also debated Stockman, who gave an excellent impersonation of Carter.

By Reagan's calculations, however, Stockman was a shrewder, smarter debater than either of the opponents he met on the campaign trail. The President all but indicated that he would have lost the election had his challenger been the brash and sometimes brilliant 34-year-old former Michigan congressman who now heads the Office of Management and Budget.

When the President's economic package reaches Capitol Hill later this month, the single-minded Budget Director is certain to cross swords with senators and congressmen who favor economy in government as long as it does not affect their favorite programs.

Stockman, a one-time Vietnam War protester turned conservative ideologue, is a young man obsessed with the urgency of slashing government spending no matter whose ox is gored. Shock probation bill delayed

A bill urged by Gov. Bill Clements to put limits on the granting of shock probation ran afoul of two state Senators and was delayed for two weeks, after heated debate.

The Jurisprudence Committee decided Tuesday to hold the bill, sponsored by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, pending an attorney general's ruling n the constitutionality of part of the measure.

The bill would limit instances in which a judge may grant shock probation, a procedure where a defendant convicted of a non-violent crime is sent to prison but released after two to three months. The idea is to give first-offenders a taste of prison life to shock them into reform-

Witnesses said revisions of the bill would encourage judges to use the technique more often but Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said the changes actually limit judges' discretion and 'don't make any sense to

The measure bars a defendant who appeals a conviction from the early release, and the constitutionality of this provision was sharply questioned. Several senators also

Woman delivers normally despite long court battle

GRIFFIN, Ga. (AP) - Nature took its normal course for a Jenkinsville woman who had been ordered by the Georgia Supreme Court to have a Caesarean section if needed to save her baby's life.

Jessie Mae Jefferson, 29, who doctors once said could not have a normal birth because of a complication, gave birth shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday to a 7-pound, 3-ounce girl, said Marshall Nero, administrator of the Griffin-Spalding County Hospital.

Nero said the mother and child were "doing fine" and there were no problems during delivery of Mrs. Jefferson' fourth child. Mrs. Jefferson, who was about two weeks overdue, went into labor Tuesday afternoon while in the hospital for tests to check the unborn baby's strength, Nero said.

The court last month ordered Mrs. Jefferson to undergo a Caesarean section if doctors determined the surgery was necessary to save the baby's life. She and her husband, John, pastor of an independent Baptist Church in Jenkinsville, had objected to the surgical procedure on religious grounds.

Both said they believe in divine healing.

rs. Jefferson suffered from a complication in which the placenta, the organ though which the fetus is con-nected to the mother, was blocking the birth canal.

Doctors said that conditon would prevent a normal delivery. But after the court order, doctors found the placenta had moved, a rare ocurrance, and sent Mrs. Jefferson home to await a normal delivery.

As she passed her due date for the baby, doctors suggested that they induce labor, but the Jefferons re-

DOCTOR, HEAL YOURSELF!

"But I solemnly declare to you that no prophet is accepted in his

"For example, remember how Elijah the prophet used a miracle to help the widow of Zarephath -- a foreigner from the land of Sidon. There were many Jewish widows needing help in those days of famine, for there had been no rain for three and one-half years, and hunger stalked the land; yet Elijah was not sent to them.

"Or think of the prophet Elisha, who healed Naaman, a Syrian, rather than the many Jewish lepers needing help."

These remarks stung them to fury; and jumping up, they mobbed Him and took Him to the edge of the hill on which the city was built, to push Him over the cliff.

But He walked away through the crowd and left them.

Then He returned to Capernaum, a city in Galilee, and preached there in the synagogue every Saturday.

Here, too, the people were amazed at the things He said. For He spoke as one who knew the truth, instead of merely quoting the opinions of others as His authority. Luke 4:23-32

Reagan plans to phase out public jobs funded by CETA

Hearst Special News Service

Washington - The Reagan administration, as part of its plan to slash federal spending, hopes to save $4.7 billion in the next 20 months by phasing out 350,000 public service jobs funded under the $7.5 billion Comprehensive Employment and Training

Reagan has decided, sources said, to seek congressional approval to freeze these CETA jobs for the remaining eight months of the 1981 fiscal year and eliminate them comple-

Congress authorized the funding of five separate CETA employment programs through June 5 and further congressional action is needed to continue them beyond that date.

Reagan intends to propose massive cutbacks in most of these programs and completely eliminate the $729 million program for the cyclically unemployed that was initially proposed by former President Carter for the 1981 fiscal year.

In 1980, some 117,000 people were trained under the program but it was partly cut in 1981 when only enough funds were provided to train 90,000 cyclically unemployed.

Congress, particularly in the Senate, and Reagan's proposal is expected to be enacted rather swiftly.

During the 1981 fiscal year Congress also approved $2.1 billion for CETA's program to train, retrain and upgrade those unemployed, $2.2 billion for public service jobs for the structurally unemployed, $1.6 billion for youth employment and training other federal job almost programs, and $150 million for pri- impossible. vate sector programs.

CETA provides financial assistance, primarily by formula, to 476 state and local prime sponsors to help meet the employment and training needs of their areas.

These services include institutional and on-the-job training, work experience, vocational education and counseling, remedial education and job placement services.

The 1980 Carter budget provided $4.1 billion for this program in 1981 and the proposed 1982 budget suggests a $500 million increase in the expenditures.

The special youth programs provide employment and training assistance for unemployed youths, particularly economically disadvantaged and out-of-school youths, through the summer youth employment program, the job corps, and the young adult conservation corps.

Refiner turns to small oil fields

By LYDIA CHAVEZ The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — While other oil companies trip over one another in the scramble to buy acreage in hot new exploration areas, Tosco Corp., the nation's second-largest independent refiner, has entered the production game by picking up interests in small oil fields where production rates are falling rapidly.

Tosco's strategy is similar to the idea of someone being paid for any extra toothpaste he can manage to squeeze out of an already mashed tube. The Los Angeles-based firm is offering technology and capital to small, independent producers in exchange for an interest in the crude its enhanced recovery methods can coax out of the latter's mature 'The small oil producer doesn't have the technology to increase his production, but the majors (oil companies) don't want to bother with these fields because they are so small," said G. Richard Gillespie, manager of Tosco's enhanced oil recovery group. "We feel like it's a perfect niche for us.

Earlier this month, Tosco acquired an interest in a Kern County, Calif., oil field from privately held Callon Petroleum Co. The field produces about 50 barrels of oil

To crank up the field's production to 700 barrels a day Tosco plans to spend $4 million to drill more wells and install steam injection equipment. Its take is 50 percent of all the additional production, or about 350 barrels a day for the next 10 years.

Tosco already is negotiating a similar joint venture on some property east of the Rockies. By 1985 the company hopes to have completed enough acquisitions to own 3,000 barrels of daily oil production.

To keep abreast of new enhanced oil recovery and refining technologies, Tosco also recently paid $3.5 million for a 10 percent interest in Applied Molecular Genetics Inc. The Newbury Park-based firm is involved in research to develop genetic engineering applications for the energy field.

Paul White, manager of Tosco's non-hydrocarbon division, said AMG is developing microorganisms to extract sulfur from crude oil, dissolve the nitrogen present in synthetic crude oil, and speed up the fermentation process of ethanol.

Until now, Tosco has been primarily a refiner of heavy crude oil. It owns 261,500 barrels a day of refining capacity in California and Arkansas. It also owns a 40 percent interest in the Colony Shale Project. Exxon owns 60 percent of the planned shale plant, which is scheduled to produce 50,000 barrels of shale oil a day by 1986 from the Piceance Creek Basin in Tosco started looking at its diversification options about two years ago. The refining business is a good one, said Charles Jurgens, a senior vice president. But, he added, it is cyclical, and Tosco wanted some protection from the wild swings its earnings have

While Tosco's earnings surged more than 300 percent in 1979 when refined products were in short supply, its earnings dropped 40 percent last year because of the surplus of such products. The company said its poor earnings in 1980 were also a result of a bias in the government's entitlements program that tended to favor East Coast refiners.

During the 1980 fourth quarter Tosco lost $9.8 million on sales of $680.6 million compared to profits of $24.5 million on sales of $549 million in the fourth quarter of Tosco's shale project is still years away from contributing to the company's balance sheet. Jurgens said Tosco is still optimistic about its shale venture despite the Reagan administration's decision to review the Department of Energy's recommendation to give Tosco a loan guarantee for its share in the project.

Tosco opted for investments in older oil fields because it can rely on the oil production to help feed its refineries in case of a crude oil shortage. "The fields also are relatively safe investments," he added.

"It's not a wildcatting venture," Jurgens said. "We know the oil is there and while it's not as exciting as discovering new oil, it has great potential.'

To help Tosco in its new business, the firm hired Todd Doscher, who spent 25 years at Shell Oil Co. developing enhanced oil recovery methods that, at the time, were too expensive to use.

Replacements more efficient

CHICAGO, Ill. - Many new petrochemical products, although derived from oil, are more energy eficient than the materials they replace, according to a recent publication by Amoco Chemicals Corp.

"Conservation Through Chemistry," a forum of product ideas that save energy through the use of petrochemicals, points out some of the improvements in automobiles, mass transit equipment, storm doors, bottles, swimming pools, cans, and clothing The publication notes that energy consumption in processing aluminum and steel "is very high and often cannot acheive the combined weight savings and quality advantage of competitive plastics. New high-strength plastics substituted for heavy metals can achieve a 50 to 75 percent weight reduction on certain parts, the publication says. And although plastics are products of energy source feedstocks, the total energy required to manufacture a plastic product is often significantly less than is necessary to produce a metal component.

Petrochemical components are being used in place of metals to trim excess weight from vehicles. As the petrochemical diet for overweight vehicles continues, the overall weight of the American automobile is expected to decline 800 pounds by 1990.

According to an Arthur Andersen & Co. study, this weight loss will result in a fuel savings of eight billion gallons of gasoline a year.

As a rule of thumb, each pound of weight trimmed will save one half gallon of fuel during the live of a car (100,000 miles). Secondary benefits are also realized from the lower weight - such as engines needing lower horsepower - which in turn should provide more fuel savings.

One weight-timming examble is the use of a thermoplastic sheet as replacement material for the conventional steel-framed bucket seat, resulting in weight savings of more than 20 pounds per car.

In other transportation areas, tire manufacturers have developed a rubber compound that rolls easier than many other tread compounds, resulting in tires that increase fuel efficiency. They also provide more tread live, which means less energy will have to be expended for manufactureing replacements.

Some buses now use reinforced polyester systems for the lower skirt portion instead of traditional metal panels. And the overall weight of recreational vehicles is being cut with the use of fiberglass-reinforced exterior side and roof panels.

Trucks are battling wind resistance with the use of plastic trailer foils mounted on the front of the truck trailer. The trailer foils reduce air drag, providing 10 to 40 percent better fuel mileage, the publication says. And at least one airplane manufacturer is using wheel fairings made from fiberglass-reinforced polyester resin to improve mileage and air speed.

Another company claims that polystyrene used in storm doors will insulate up to 35 percent better than alu-

Government seeks open market crude tacked the Carter administration's ernment, for the first time since before the Iranian revolution, is seeking to buy oil on the open market to fill the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. The Energy Department, acting under orders of Congress to boost the current fill rate from 100,000 barrels per day up to 300,000 barrels per day, asked last week for bids from oil companies for one-time spot sales.

That action represented a reversal from government policy since the revolution in Iran tightened world oil supplies. The United States stopped buying oil for the reserve in March

But last week the DOE directed its procurement officer, the Defense Fuel Supply Center, to advertise for bids which will be opened Wednes-

Officials estimated 8.6 million barrels of oil may be purchased this way, enough to provide an additional 20,000 barrels daily. The reserve currently is being filled at the rate of about 100,000 barrels a day. The current fill is obtained by swapping oil produced from government fields in Elk Hills; Calif., for private production nearer the salt dome storage reserves in xtexas and Louisiana.

The reserve currently contains 115 million barrels or enough oil to replace less than three weeks of foreign supplies if a cutoff occurred.

Congress has set a goal of having 750 million barrels of oil in the reserve by 1979, enough oil to weather three months of foreign cutoffs at the current import rate of 6.4 million barrels

During the 1980 presidential campaign, Ronald Reagan strongly at-petroleum reserve program. President Reagan's draft budget revisions set a target fill rate of between 200,000 and 230,000 barrels daily.

However, the decision to go into the spot market for oil goes against the views of Saudi Arabian officials, who have complained that an American oil stockpile undermines the pricing power of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Although world supplies currently are sufficient, if the Saudis decided to cut back their current production in retaliation, the move could trigger another tight market and further boosts in prices. However, DOE officials said the current amounts of oil they are seeking to purchase are very small and should not put upward pressure on oil

Noise made over synthetic cutbacks

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional supporters of synthetic fuel development are voicing loud opposition to proposals by the Reagan administration to slash government funds for the fledgling program.

In a letter released Monday, 30 Democratic and four Republican congressmen urged President Reagan not to sacrifice the synfuels program created last year for budget gains that they said are largely illusory. "These projects should not be held back by a false sense of economy," said the congressmen, led by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and Majority Leader Jim Wright. "Our country desperately needs to move ahead in deploying this technology."

Complaint filed

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. filed a formal complaint Tuesday with the Federal Communications Commission against the ABC television network. complain asked the FCC to order ABC to provide the company with 10 mintes of response time to allegations made on the network's '20-20" news program.

The congressmen also warned that the synfuels program "continues to enjoy substantial majorities in the Congress," which would make a Reagan budget cut in the area difficult.

The Reagan proposal to cut synfuel spending is included in the "black book" of spending cuts being considered by the White House budget office. A list of those cuts was circulated on Capitol Hill by the congressional Democratic Study Group.

In its description of the synfuels program, the OMB document says government support "has evolved from a research and demonstration program ... to a massive subsidy program intended to build production capacity."

"New policies must be adopted to increase the private sector's contribution to the existing technology demonstrations, to support a more limited program to demonstrate technical feasibility of synfuel production and, over the longer run, to reduce the need for federal involvement," the OMB proposal says.

The administration proposal said synfuel cutbacks could save $9.1 billion in federal expenditures through fiscal 1985, plus eliminating some $6 billion in federal loan guarantees.

'The basic rationale is to support a limited number (five to eight) of first-of-a-kind operating plants to demonstrate technical, economic and environmental problems and costs; to rely primarily on the private sector and to minimize the net expenditure of federal funds. In short, government would aid demonstration of synfuels capability but not subsidize building significant capacity," the OMB paper

Congressional supporters of the program told Reagan that cuts in the synfuels program "will contribute nothing to your efforts at balancing the budget." Instead, they said, it would "give exactly the wrong message to the nation and the world: the message that we are not really serious about making America energy independent once more."

The congressmen said the dollar figures used by the OMB are illusory because the program is based largely on loan guarantees - the federal promise to repay a loan if the borrower defaults - and other indirect

Without those loan guarantees, there is little hope of private industry beginning the task, the congressmen

"The history of the postwar era proves that there simply are no private companies willing to risk billions of dollars deploying new technology of this kind without government backing."

Dallas attorney nominated to be ABA president-elect

HOUSTON (AP) - The man expected to take the association, but drew sharp criticism from the reins of the powerful American Bar Association next year has voiced concern over proposals by the chief justice of the United States that he says could weaken the rights of criminal defendants. Morris Harrell, a Dallas trial attorney nominated Tuesday to become the next President-elect of the 276,000member lawyer's organization, says his concerns were prompted by Chief Justice Warren Burger's speech to the ABA's mid-winter meeting Sunday.

Harrell, 60, said he agrees that efforts should be made to direct the arrest, provide for speedy trials and bring some finality to criminal cases. But at the same time he said the defendant's rights must be guarded. "I think we need to achieve a balance between the public's safety and the rights of the accused. I would be slow to try to take away the constitutional rights of an accused man," said Har-

The chief justice said in his speech that too much concern for the rights of the accused may be nourishing a growing crime rate in America

Burger called for changes in the criminal justice systems that would crack down on the pre-tial release of accused criminals, speed up the trial process, limit appeals, provide more and better trained law enforcement officers and reform pris-

Burger's remarks were received favorably by the American Civil Liberties Union. Harrll said the problem "is (serious) enough to merit a real hard study.

Delegates to the mid-winter meeting nominated Harrell, a member of the ABA's Board of Governors and a partner in the Dallas firm of Rain, Harrell, Emery, Young & Duke, on the fifth ballot

The 380 members of the House of Delegates will vote on Harrell' nomination in August at the ABA's annual meeting in New Orleans.

Approval by the delegates would mean that Harrell would serve a year as president of the ABA beginning in August of 1982. The current president-elect, David Brink of Minneapolis, replaces outgoing ABA president William Reece Smith of Tampa, Fla., in August.

Harrell applauded the election of Los Angeles attorney Jane Barrett to the Board of Governors, the first woman ever to sit on the board that oversees the organization's general operation. He also said he would work to close the informational gap between the national office and state bar oganizations, work to provide legal services to all segments at reasonable costs and reduce delays in

Air fares being increased

NEW YORK (AP) - Air fares will jump by up to 10 pecent within days, the airlines say, and several of the nation's carriers, plagued by rising fuel costs, are planning further increases following President Reagan's decontrol of domestic crude oil prices.

As a whole, the airlines suffered their worst fnancial year in history last year, when the cost of air travel between U.S. cities rose an average of about 30 percent.

On Tuesday, several major carriers, citing higher jet fuel costs, notified the Civil Aeronautics Board of plans to raise fares by as much as 5 percent on domestic routes.

Most said they did not plan to raise all fares by the full 5 percent, and said some fares wil not rise at

CAB approval is not needed because the board previously had authorized a change in the domestic air fare structure to help carriers offset the rising cost of fuel. Delta Air Lines spokesman Bill Berry said the airline's average cost of a gallon of jet fuel has jumped from 86 cents to 94.5 cents since Dec. 31. Each additional penny per gallon adds an estimated $11 million to Delta's yearly fuel bill, he said.

Last Wednesday the CAB had raised the basic, or maximum, fare level 3.8 percent for domestic flights. Because most airlines' fares were already below that maximum level, they now are able to raise their prices by more than 3.8 percent. Delta, whose fares on all routes were below the maximum level, asked the board for approval to raise its fares 5 percent on all routes, effective Sunday.

On some routes, Delta is going to implement a fare increase that it previouly had been granted, but had not implemented. As a result, fares on those routes will jump as much as 101/4 percent.

For other airlines, the fare increases will be less uniform. Fares on some routes will rise as much as 5 percent, while others will climb by smaller amounts. And some fares will remain the same, depending on competitive conditions, officials said.

United Airines, the nation's largest carrier, said it plans a maximum increase of 5 percent, effective

"That will cause some fares to go up in most cities," comany spokesman Gene Novak said from United's headquarters in Chicago. Novak said the increases will bring United's fares on all routes to the maximum allowable level.

American Airlines, the second-largest domestic carrier, plans a maximum 5 percent increase, effective Feb. 2. Like United, its fares will rise by differing amounts, spokesman Paul Haney said. Trans World Airlines matched American's move, including the effective date of Feb. 20, spokesman David Venz said. Its changes also will vary from route to route, Venz added. Eastern Airlines announced a maximum 5 percent increase, but spokeswoman Paula Musto said the company had not yet decided which routes will be

Rita seeks separation from Jenrette

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rita Jenrette is seeking a legal separation from her husband, former Rep. John W. Jenrette, D-S.C., on grounds he committed "numerous acts of cruelty" that caused her "great mental and pysical injury and anguish."

Jenrette was served with papers in the case Tuesday as he stood outside a federal courtroom prior to a hearing on the appeal of his

Abscam bribery conspiracy conviction. Mrs. Jenrette was not present. The separation papers charged her husband with actions that subjected her to "ridicule nd

Asked about the charges, Jenrette said, "I scratched her when I was putting on the fur coat.' The couple have been married since 1976.

Mrs. Jenrette, who is seeking support payments and alimony wrote a much-pblicized magazine article describing her marital problems with Jenrette and accusing him of infidelities.
"I don't really want this," Jenrette said as he was handed the separation papers, which were dated Jan. 28. Jenrette's attorney, Kenneth M. Robinson, accused Mrs.

Jenrette of "a cheap pubicity trick" by having the papers presented outide the courtroom in the presence of reporters. But Jenrette declined to comment when asked if he agreed with

"I just got it (the papers)," he said. "I'm shocked."
Robinson told reporters: "You ought not to write the story. It's kind of like a kid who wants attention. You should ignore the

In the court proceedings Tuesday, Irvin Nathan, a Justice Deartment official who helped supervise the Abscam investigation, denied any government misconduct in Abscam.

He said there was never any discussion of political motives among Justice Department officials regarding Jenrette or any other public official who was charged in Abscam.

Telephone rate hearing set

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A two-day special public hearing will be held in March to let General Telephone Co. customers say if they are satisfied with the service they are getting. The Texas Public Utiliy Commission said the hearing would be held March 30 and 31, before the commissin considers the firm's request for a $44.6 million statewide rate increase on April 27. Last year General Telephone, which serves 1.3 million Texas telephones, asked for $58.3 million in rate increases but got only $31 million. The firm also was penalized $4 million by PUC for poor

Inflation, growth and new technology were cited by General Telephone when they asked for the new rate increases on Jan.

Long distance rates would not be affected. General asked for sizeable increases in service for suburban areas near big cities. PUC General Counsel Allen King said there would be an intense investigation of General Telephone's quality of service and that would be a major consideration when the commission reviewed the rate increase request.

PUC Examiner Bob Gillespie said persons wanting to comment on service problems affecting them could submit testimony in the form of statements from city-organized meetings, petition or

Gillespie also granted a 120-day suspension of the rate request to allow the commission staff sufficient time to review the compny's
