Reagan ready to request economic action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, striving to convince the nation there is an urgent need to overhaul the economy, will tell Congress and the American people tonight "the time for waiting and hoping has passed."

"If we do not act now, the economy will get worse," a senior aide to the president said Reagan will tell a joint session of Congress in a nationally televised address.

One source said Reagan will propose $6 billion in budget cuts this year and $41 billion next year. Another said the 1982 cuts would total $44 billion.

Either way, the 1982 budget cuts would be close to the expected $44.2 billion that the companion tax cut recommendations would cost the

Those proposals would reduce the federal income tax of a typical family of four with a $20,000 income by more than $1,000 over the next 3½ years.

The Reagan approach — so-called "supply side" economics — is to couple tax cuts with spending cuts in an attempt to reduce inflation and spur economic growth at the same time.

The need to come to grips with an array of economic problems has been the central theme of Reagan's first 29 days in office and the tone of tonight's speech is said to reflect the intensity of that effort.

"He strongly says we really don't have a choice between doing something and not doing something about the economy," said the senior White House official, speaking with the understanding that he would not be identified by name. "If there are alternatives, let's hear them. But we do not have the luxury of choosing not to

As Reagan posed for photographs with congressional leaders this morning, a reporter asked whether his proposals would be "equal for the rich and poor." The president replied: Yes, very much so, very much so."

Reagan held his inch-thick economic package and joked: "I'm doing the whole book tonight."

Then he said he expected his speech would last one-half hour, but House Democratic Leader Jim Wright said,

"We're going to applaud a lot."

A detailed, written message listing specific budget cut proposals, another giving details of tax recommendations, and a third document on proposed revision of government regulations will accompany the 9 p.m. EST

However, not all of the 80 specific spending cuts Reagan reportedly has settled on are expected to be outlined in tonight's speech.

Thirteen hours after the address, Reagan leaves for a four-day visit to his ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., handing to his Cabinet and economic advisers the initial task of selling the program to Congress, the public and to the hundreds of special interest groups who will feel the impact of the president's budget-cutting decisions.

However, Reagan was kicking off that campaign today with a private briefing for Republican and Democratic leaders from Congress.

Later, his top economic advisers scheduled a series of briefings for reporters to explain the program.

The campaign picks up steam Thursday and over the weekend with a variety of appearances by administration officials on television news programs.

Although Reagan has been careful to avoid calling for national sacrifice - an approach that his advisers think helped doom Carter's economic proposals — he told a group of visitors representing conservative political groups Tuesday that "if misery loves company, then everybody is going to love everybody else."

That reflects the administration's contention that the program will reach across the board to have an impact on everyone.

Angelo among those consulted on budget cuts

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

President Reagan jumped the gun on gathering broad-based support for his proposed budget cuts by calling in more than 50 persons from around the country Tuesday and outlining his

Ernest Angelo Jr. of Midland, former mayor and Reagan's deputy campaign manager for the state, was among those called to Washington to listen to the outline from cabinet members David Stockman, who heads the Office of Management and Budget, and Secretary of the Treasury Donald Regan.

As a strong backer of Reagan for more than five years, Angelo said today that getting the proposals through as quickly as possible "is critical." His job now is to spearhead support among Texans.

Reagan was to announce his proposed cuts on national television tonight.

Angelo, who returned to Midland late Tuesday night, explained that political activists from Reagan's previous campaign gathered at the White House where the emphasis was placed on "a grasssroots support for the cuts. We have to get that support organized.'

Reagan's total package is fourpronged - budget cuts, tax cuts, regulatory reforms and change in the monetary policy, said Angelo.

In total, the cuts should amount to $50 billion, which Angelo claimed isn't much out of a budget of $700 billion.
These chops out of the total budget would eliminate $42 billion in specific items and $7 billion in unbudgeted

Essentially, these cuts boil down to cutting out "money and unnecessary paperwork," said Angelo, also a member of the Republican National Committee. There are 45 to 50 categorical grants to states that are overlapping. These are being compiled into a block grant program and the strings loosened.

This should save $2 billion a year. It will permit funding for the programs at the local level and provide the cording to Angelo, Stockman predicts this will reduce work on the part of 5,000 employees in Washington, D.C., and cut 7 million man hours at the state and local levels on filling out the papers.

These grants will fall in between Revenue Sharing and Community Development, Angelo said.

Elimination of the CETA program should reduce the budget by more than $1 billion a year, he related. This item already is causing a backlash among various groups in the country

Hance will support Reagan's budget plan

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Democratic Congreessman Kent Hance said today he would support all of the budget cuts to be proposed by President Ronald Reagan tonight. Hance, who represents Midland in the 19th Congressional district, spoke at a press conference late this morning at Midland Regional Airport in a quick trip through the Permian Basin today.

No doubt the President will make tough choices," Hance said. "He will let the public know they're in for severe budget cuts and I will back

"I feel he will be fair and the cuts will be across the board." He went on to explain the package is Reagan's effort to attack the problems of the past 50 years. Hance, a member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee which will review the package, predicted the package will make it through Congress by the end of the summer. 'There will be some changes and the President understands this," he said. "Hopefully the proposals will be kept intact and Reagan's game plan is to move it through Congress as fast as possible.'

The two-term Congressman predicted there will be an increase in defense spending over the next two years.

Hance also expressed doubts over the passage of his bill to repeal the so-called Windfall Profits Tax. He talked with David Stockman, director of Office of Management and Budget, recently and Stockman said that re-

Strake 'energetically' optimistic

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

The United States can convert into not only an energy-independent country by 1990, but also a net energy exporter, Texas Secretary of State George Strake said here Tuesday night.

Strake was speaking before the Permian Basin chapter of the Society of Petroleum Engineers during public relations night at Ranchland Hills Country Club. He outlined a program for building that independency while laying the future success of this country at the feet of the oil industry.

'I've found a new spirit of optimism," said Strake. "People have this attitude that whatever we want to do, we can do it. There is the need for this same self-confidence in the energy business

"We must reawaken this industrial giant (oil industry)," for the United States can't survive without energy. "We would be a weaker nation than Bangladesh," he remarked. "Bangladesh is used to walking: we're not."

To get on that road of independency, Strake recommended a lengthy program which features the country reducing its oil imports and increasing coal

Decontrol will help, he said. "But I implore the major oil companies to support the recent action (decontrol) by President Reagan by not running out and cranking up the price on the pumps" before the president finishes announcing it.

Terminating the windfall profits tax would boost the country's self-sufficiency. The tax, he charged, "is only to take care of the government's welfare programs. If they (government) gave an incentive to plow it back into the ground, we would be on the way to energy independence.'

Another point of his program calls for increasing energy consumption — a suggestion that is contrary to what the federal government has mandated. It's the people with low incomes "who suffer the most during a retracted economy. We don't solve our problems by conservation," he reasoned Backing up his theories on the strident need for measures to put this country at the top of world energy production, Strake related that the Third World countries are "coming up. They will want their fair share of the world energy pool.

And that means taking part of that oil that comes out of the Middle East. The problem of world energy today is compounded by Iran and its war with Iraq, said the first Republican Secretary of State in more than 100 years in Texas. He follows in the shoes of Stephen F.

The answer to energy sources lies not only in oil and gas, but in shale, synthetics, hydroelectric power, solar, thermal, hydrogen and fusion — the latter of which is nuclear power, he said.

Strake cited statistics which claimed there are 2

Universities should 'graduate'

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

ODESSA — The concept of junior colleges feeding into upper level universities hasn't worked in Texas, and former Gov. Preston Smith recommended Tuesday that two-year upper level universities such as The University of Texas of the Permian Basin be turned into four-year institutions.

Smith, who served as governor from 1969 to 1973, held a news conference on the UTPB campus here during a tour of the facility. He was appointed in January to serve on the Coordinating Board and was subsequently elected chairman. The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, was created in 1965 to serve as the highest authority in the state on public higher education. It seeks to eliminate duplication of programs, faculties and physical plants while recommending such items to be paid for out of state

"There are not as many junior college transfers" as was projected for the upper level universities, Smith said. "It was thought the junior colleges would feed upper graduate schools, like Dallas and UTPB. But it just hasn't worked.

This matter should be taken before the Coordinating Board, he said, adding that he believes the schools should be turned into four-year insti-

"I favored this being a four-year school from the first," said Smith, who signed the bill creating UTPB in 1969 while governor. "But the only way to get the legislation to bring it bere was on the upper level basis."

Junior colleges are funded largely by the state, according to Smith, with additional monies coming from local ad valorem taxes. If state money is cut, he predicted a cut in programs and an increase in local taxes at the Upgrading UTPB into a four-year school wouldn't hurt Midland College or Odessa College, said Smith. He predicted MC might lose about 100 students while Odessa College would see a loss of about 200 in its enrollment.

Ironically, UTPB last week released a story citing figures from The Coordinating Board which showed that few junior college students transfer to universities in Texas.

"For UTPB, a university created to serve junior college transfers and upper-level students only, this sheds new light on the reason for small enrollments," the release stated.

Coordinating board figures show that in the fall 1979 semester, 141 students transferred from Midland College to any public college or university in Texas. This represents about 5.6 percent of the fall enrollment of that college of 2,527.

Homicide investigated

The Midland Sheriff's Department was investigating the homicide of an unidentified female in the county this

According to a statement released from the department at 10:45 this morning, deputies received a call "at approximately 7:50 a.m. today.'

The deputies, according to the statement, "were advised that a body which appeared to be that of a white male who had been severly beaten was lying beside the roadway on County Road 1110 South, a half-mile south of Highway 158." When deputies arrived at the scene, however, they "discovered the body of a white female a few feet inside the fence line.

Lt. Pat Fuller is supervising the investigation, which is being conducted by Midland County Sgt. C.W. Cur and L.E. Hunter. The investigation continuing arthis time.

Midland College board hires new law firm

Trustees also accepted the resignations of two faculty members, discussed a "personnel matter" in executive session and approved a tax office correction without discussion.

At the close of the meeting, college President Dr. Al Langford commended the student council's recent Dance-A-Thon , which raised $17,400 for the American Heart Association.

Housing repair persons needed

The Human Relations Council is taking appli-cations for Christmas in April, Midland's volunteer housing repair pro-gram for the elderly and handicapped.

The board of directors of Christmas in April, Inc., have set a goal of repairing 110 houses on a budget of $40,000.

During the past eight years, CIA has repaired more than 450 homes. Last year's project renovated 88 houses with $30.-000 and the help of over 2,000 volunteers.

Date for the one-day effort is April 25.

To qualify for the program, the applicant must be over 60 years of age, or handicapped, and living on a fixed income that doesn't allow room for housing repairs.

Missouri farmer seeking new buyer for reclaimed soybeans

BERNIE, Mo. (AP) - Seventy-four trucks loaded with Wayne Cryts' soybeans were parked outside the town fire house today as the sixth-generation farmer sought a buyer for the crop he seized from a bankrupt grain elevator in defiance of federal mar-

"These soybeans are finally mine again," Cryts said Tuesday, recalling his thoughts on leading the convoy bearing his 1979 crop away from the bankrupt Ristine Grain Elevator.

But his joy dissolved when he found he couldn't sell the 30,000 bushels of soybeans, valued at $250,000.

As the convoy pulled into the MFA Grain Elevator in nearby Bernie, Special FBI Agent Glen Young of St. Louis warned elevator officials that their facility — as well as the grain — could be impounded by the federal government if they accepted the shipment.

"This elevator is not buying any of Wayne Cryts' soybeans at this time," said Bob Brown, assistant district manager of the elevator where Cryts had hoped to sell the beans for $7.20 a bushel. Mayor R.B. Woods opened the fire hall to farmers who wanted to remain overnight in Bernie to guard the grain. Fire trucks were moved out to make room for the farmers.

Cryts and his supporters have three or four options remaining, including storing the soybeans at a privately-owned facility, said Homer Evans of the American Agriculture Movement.

The eight-month legal wrangle came to a head Monday when Cryts went to the Ristine elevator to take back the beans he had stored there. He had warehouse receipts for the beans.

But federal marshals told the 34-year-old farmer the beans were tied up in bankruptcy proceedings. They warned him he could be in contempt of court if he took the beans.

But backed by about 500 farmers, Cryts led a convoy of trucks into the elevator. Marshals stood aside as farmers pried open the elevator and siphoned the grain.

Although federal officials said no one would be arrested immediately, they warned of future prose-grain in their elevators went to bankruptcy court.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farm-state senators say that with no immediate end to the Soviet grain embargo in sight, the Reagan administration should quickly boost government price supports to ease farmers' financial problems.

"In view of the distressing price situation because of the embargo," said Sen. James Exon, D-Neb., "we should immediately raise the loan and target prices or set a deadline of 30 to 60 days to do so.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said, "If there is a decision to delay a decision, and it's obvious there is, there should be an increase in loan rates.'

Exon and Dole were part of a bi-partisan group of 29 Senate and House members who met Tuesday with President Reagan to discuss the embargo imposed by then-President Carter 131/2 months ago in response to the Soviet Union's military intervention in Afghanistan.

The lawmakers came away from the nearly hourlong meeting saying Reagan seemed to be waiting for concessions from the Soviets before fulfilling his campaign promise of ending the embargo.

"The president said there should be a quid pro quo from the Soviets in exchange for our lifting the embargo," said Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan.

Mrs. Kassebaum, who sought the meeting with Reagan two weeks ago, said what that concession might be is still unclear and that it could come "in a couple of days, a couple of weeks, a couple of

A number of senators indicated the mounting tension between Russia and Poland has forced Reagan to delay lifting the embargo. But Mrs. Kassebaum said the president, in discussing the foreign policy implications of such a move, also mentioned tension in Romania without elaborating and Secretary of State Alexander Haig later cited problems in Central America.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., was the only one in the White House delegation to urge retention of the embargo.

Helms predicted that if the embargo is not lifted there will be another move in Congress to end it, although he would not lead it. Congress was unsucessful last year in trying to end the embargo that denied the Russians about 17 million metric tons of U.S. corn and wheat.

The senators said their suggestions and comments were noted by Reagan and his Cabinet advisers but no commitments were given. Agriculture Secretary John Block has said previously that he supports some increase in government loan rates for grain.

Although Exon said it was "quite clear" the embargo will not be ended soon, he declined to say Reagan had gone back on his campaign promise to

'They were led to believe he would lift it," he said. "But difficulties in Poland caused them to reassess. ... There was a general belief that it should be lifted, but he (Reagan) has to make the decision."

California doesn't want Texas to ban its fruit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California officials say they'll try to prevent Texas from putting into effect a quarantine of all California fruits and vegetables called because of a Mediterranean fruit fly outbreak

"We think it is completely unwarranted," said Agriculture Director Rich Rominger.

Reagan Brown, Texas agriculture commissioner, said Tuesday that beginning March 1, all fruit and vegetables from California must be fumigated or treated in some other manner.

He said Texas officials are not satisfied with California's efforts to eradicate the fly. The outbreak has forced a quarantine of 500 square miles, centered in San Jose, but has not affected the state's main fruit-producing areas, the San Joaquin and Imperial

Brown noted that aerial pesticide spraying hasn't been used, but "that's what it takes to kill them." An intensive fruit-stripping and ground-spraying effort has been underway in Santa Clara County since January, with officials expressing optimism that aerial spraying, opposed by residents, won't be Although all produce from the area is already being fumigated, Texas' move would require produce from the entirestate to be treated.

The judge ruled the stored grain must be sold to pay off debts and said farmers must wait in line with other creditors for their money. The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals stayed the bankruptcy judge's order, telling the bank holding the James Brothers' notes to negotiate with the farmers, state and federal officials.

Cryts, who farms 2,000 acres of land in southeast Missouri, said he couldn't wait, because he couldn't plant this spring without profits from his soybeans. Legislators say Cryts' defiance probably ended the complex negotiations over ownership of up to $8 million worth of grain by shifting jurisdiction from the Department of Agriculture to the Justice Department.

The likely result is a lengthy court battle, they Arguments in the dispute are scheduled to be heard in April or May — just about the time Cryts hopes to have a new crop in the ground.

Texas area forecasts

Mohr seeks hospital board seat

By SUÉ FAHLGREN Staff Writer

Registered nurse Wanda Mohr an-nounced Tuesday plans to run for one of the three Midland County Hospital District board of director seats which will come open in April.

Mrs. Mohr made the announcement at a Tuesday afternoon press conference at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Mohr, wife of cardiologist Dr.

Brian Mohr, said being "the first nurse ever to run for the hospital district," her election will "give a whole new perspective for the hospi-

"In this age of uncertainty, we in West Texas have truly been blessed," Mrs. Mohr said in a prepared text. "Our economy is strong, our population is growing, our citizens are en-thusiastic and involved," she contin-

"Midland stands on the threshold of a bold and exciting future. We have the potential to offer our people not only one of the highest standards of living in the country, but also un-paralleled quality of life," Mrs. Mohr said. "Perhaps the single most essential element in the attainment of this goal is providing Midlanders with the highest possible standard of medical

A graduate psychology and litera-ture student at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin, Mrs. Mohr graduated from nursing school in 1966 and received her RN license in 1967 from New Jersey and New York. Mrs. Mohr said if she is elected to the directorship, she will address herself to the shortage of nurses and the quality of patient care at the hospi-

"The critical shortage of nurses," she said, "is probably at this time the most critical problem" at the hospital. Mrs. Mohr said she wanted to "establish improved lines of communication with the nurses.

"My objective is to see that perhaps we can open up more beds and recruit more nurses," she said. "Cash incen-tives are fine as far as they go."

She quoted Herzberg's two theories of management, saying the two factors were the hygiene factor and the motivational factor. "The hygiene factor has to do with using working conditions, pay and benefits" to improve employee morale, she said. "The motivational factor are theories I'd like to address myself to. Let's address ourselves to the motivational factors now."

According to the first candidate to announce for the April 4 directors election, "When all is said and done, the person who is in the hospital for the longest period of time - except for the patient — is the nurse."

Because of her background as a nurse, Mrs. Mohr said she would bring new insight to the five-member board "because my perspective is a nursing perspective. Just looking at it from that perspective" would change the board, she said. "In the day to day, the nurse probably knows more about the patient" than anyone else, she said.

Mrs. Mohr said, "I think it would be very difficult to run somebody with better qualifications than mine - unless it was another nurse." In her opening remarks, she said, "If I am elected, I pledge my years of education and experience in the health care field to the purpose of helping Midland Memorial Hospital evolve into a comprehensive, patientoriented health care facility - one that can be held up as an outstanding example against which other community hospitals will be measured," she money, Mrs. Mohr said she plans to "go over balance sheets" and "make rounds on the floor in four-hour shifts" to look for inefficiencies before she committed herself to any

"I can't give you any specifics," she cautioned the news media, saying she was not familiar with details of the hospital's management. When asked if she would support the hiring of a management firm for the hospital rather than relying on the appointed board of trustees for that position, Mrs. Mohr answered similarly. "Again," she said, "I think it would be presumptuous of me to voice an opinion on that subject without knowing the facts."

Incumbent board members in the three at large slots — President Ed Magruder, Thomas Ingram and Dr. Henrie Mast — have not announced whether they will run for re-election.

"Statewide, Coordinating Board statistics show 5.5 percent of junior college students transfer to universities," the release stated.

UTPB President V.R. Cardozier said in the release that about "45 to 50 percent of the students in community colleges are in vocational-technical in university transfer curricula, and about 30 percent are taking courses for a variety of reasons, but are not aiming for a bachelor's degree."

In 1968, the Coordinating Board projected that UTPB would have 4,800 students by 1980. Fall enrollment for the past couple of years has hovered geology," he said. The purpose of UTPB is "to serve the area. You also need a master's program in marketing, petroleum engineering and electrical engineering. I'm sure the Texas Instruments people here would like to see a master's program in electrical engineering.'

Converting UTPB into a four-year university also could help relieve student enrollment pressures at alreadycrowded institutions, such as UT-Austin, he said. But that wouldn't be a reason for upgrading UTPB.

Suspect held in shooting

Police this morning were holding a suspect in the Saturday night shooting death of 43-year-old Adalfo "Rudy" Patino of 218 N. Main.

The suspect, 28-yearold Guadalupe Martinez Rodriquez of 504 S. Weatherford St. was arrested at his home about 8 p.m. Tuesday.

He was charged with murder by Justice of the Peaces Charles Sprayberry. Bond was denied.

Patino was found lying outside Eddie's Bar at 403 N. Lamesa about 11:15 p.m. Saturday. He had been shot in the head, chest, hand and side with a small caliber weapon. He died at 4:45 a.m. Sunday in Midland Memorial Hospital. Graveside services are set for 3 p.m. today in Fairview Cemetery, under direction of the Thomas Funeral Home.

Stop the killings

Atlanta's horror is continuing.

During the past 19 months, investigators have found the remains of 17 black children, all between the ages of 7 and 15, most of them in isolated areas.

There is a growing fear in Atlanta. That fear is understandable, particularly in the black community. There's fear of more killings. There's fear that the white community doesn't care.

And there reportedly is some concern that law enforcement agencies — including the FBI perhaps are not doing as much as they might if the victims were of a different race.

Interjecting racial overtures into this otherwise horrifying story is really unnecessary. Every human being who cares at all about the world around him has to be appalled by this brutal and tragic episode. Children are being slaughtered in Atlanta. The question of whether the victims are black children or white children or brown children or red children should not even enter consideration.

The only concern should be to bring this long, sad story to an end as quickly as possible. Until that day arrives, there will be no peaceful sleep for most parents in Atlanta.

A killer who strikes 17 times can just as easily strike 17 more times. A killer who murders innocent black children can just as heartlessly murder innocent white children.

The killings in Atlanta are crimes against us all. They must be stopped and the perpetrator brought to justice. All law-abiding citizens, regardless of race, de-

Testing the limits

Algeria's mediation services during the latter months of the Iran hostage crisis won deserved praise from U.S. officials. Now Algeria is testing the limits of its new political credit with Washington by requesting permission to purchase C-130 military transport

It's a request the Reagan administration should politely de-

This rejection would not reflect any ingratitude for Algeria's good offices in facilitating negotiations that led to the release of the 52 American hostages. What it would reflect is a recognition that Algeria's services are not redeemable in military hardware.

Algeria is, after all, still a Marxist state espousing a revolutionary doctrine not all that different from the one proclaimed by the Soviet Union. Furthermore, Algeria is presently engaged in a proxy war against Morocco, long a loval ally of the United States.

Specifically, Algeria is arming, training, and supplying leftist Polisario guerrillas contesting Morocco's annexation of the former Spanish Sahara, a 100,000 square mile expanse of desert rich in phosphate deposits.

In these circumstances, the sale of any military equipment to Algeria would surely be viewed by Morocco, and not without reason, as an act of betrayal. Suffice it to say that too many American allies have been betrayed in recent years without now adding Morocco to the list.

Without putting too fine a point on it, nations normally act only in their own self interest. Algeria acted as mediator between the United States and Iran presumably because the Algerians saw it in their interests to do so. U.S. officials have thanked the Algerians publicly, and effusively. For now at least, that should be all that is required.

HEMISPHERE REPORT

Marxists say 'revolutionary violence' may be needed

Look at the hemisphere today and you may recall the talk in Communist Cuba about creating "many Vietnams" in Latin America.

That was years ago, before Ernesto "Che" Guevara, Fidel Castro's onetime righthand man, died trying to stir up a guerrilla war in Bolivia in

But more and more people seem to be learning that, once the Marxists set themselves a goal, they are painstaking and persistent in its pursuit. Their goal, of course, is "socialism," the world over. The means to achieve their end have varied over the years. A decade or more ago in Chile, for example, the Communists were preaching "the peaceful way to so-cialism." Only the more hotheaded socialists were urging armed action.

Now, the Communists have come around to declaring publicly that "revolutionary violence" may be necessary in Latin America.

"Revolutionary violence" is the Marxist euphemism for what anti-Marxists call "terrorism." But only in recent weeks and months, since the U.S. presidential election, to be more precise, have the two terms come to be equated in the United States.

In any case, there are press reports of terrorism, or revolutionary violence, in Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Colombia, Venmacabre references from Qaddafi, ezuela, Bolivia, Peru and Chile, along with border disputes between Chile and Argentina, between Colombia and Venezuela, and between Ecuador and Peru, to mention just the more notorious. Not all of the trouble ought to be blamed on the Marxists. Some of it has roots in history.

But that the Marxists are quick to take advantage of opportunities to make difficulties worse is no secret. In many cases, individual Marxists spell out their tactical thinking in newspaper and magazine articles and in public statements.

An example of one such is the recent statement made by the youthful Chilean Marxist, Andres Pascal Allende, nephew of the former president, Salvador Allende.

In it, Pascal briefly outlines the evolution of revolution, as he, secretary general of the Movement of the Revolutionary Left (MIR) sees it.

The MIR is a terrorist group, reportedly responsible for bombings, bank robberies and murders of carabineros in recent months, as well as terrorist activity even during the Allende period.

Pascal makes it clear that the Marxists seek to capitalize on the necessities of the poor, not to resolve their problems, but rather to entice the masses to offer themselves as cannon fodder for the Marxist cause.

"The democratic struggle has a revolutionary dynamic, as the inability of the bourgeoisie (i.e, the capitalists) to satisfy the social and demo-cratic demands of the popular masses leads inevitably to the clash with the bourgeois state," Pascal wrote.

But that is not all. What makes a Marxist revolution meaningful for the United States is the following:

"In its higher stages, the democratic struggle (is transformed) into an anti-imperialist and anti-capitalist struggle. 'So it is that the process of the anti-dictatorial struggle, under the leadership of the revolutionary vanguard, is transformed into an uninterrupted process of struggle for the proletarian revolution, for socialism," Pascal affirmed.

There is nothing new or startling in what Pascal says. It has been preached and practiced in many countries - in Bolivia since the early 1950s, in Cuba late that same decade, and as recently as the end of the 1970s in Nicaragua. It is the plan that is being employed in Central America as well as in Chile.

What has been the Communist reaction to the use of "revolutionary violence," in Chile?

The MIR ought to improve its marksmanship, Luis Corvalan, exiled Chilean Communist Party secretary general, told a Peruvian newspaper, when asked the question.

Corvalan, of course, insists that the Communists do not want to make Chile "a scene of terror."

"On the contrary, we want to terminate terror and create a new order based on social justice. For that reason, we encourage unity and the combat of the masses and the use of the most diverse forms of struggle, including revolutionary violence, exercised in a conscientious and responsible manner," Corvalan declared in a report he gave Chilean exiles in Swe-

But Corvalan, who was the last important political prisoner released by the government of President Augusto Pinochet, does hope that Chilean terrorists get to be better shots.

Carlucci's experience makes him valuable at Pentagon

WASHINGTON - The right-wing storm over his nomination behind him, Frank Carlucci, the durable bureaucrat, is now installed as deputy secretary of defense. The sweater he wears at work does not reflect any holdover dress code from the last administration he served. Rather, it is a necessary garment because he and his boss, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, felt room temperatures were too high at the Pentagon, and turned down the heat. Carlucci, it can be recalled, was the target of the Von Rundstedt Offensive of a gang of right-wing senators and ruffled hawks in this town several weeks back. Weinberger wanted him as deputy because the two men worked so well together in previous administrations. But Carlucci served on into the Carter administration, trying to make some sense at the debilitated CIA; this very fact made certain jackal rightists bristle.

But Reagan believes in Weinberger enough that he went ahead with the Carlucci nomination, and after a lot of silly clatter from the Right, and a pointless delay by Sen. Jesse Helms, Carlucci was confirmed by a 91-6

"If Helms and Sen. (James) McClure wanted to check me out," Carlucci told me in his office the other day, "all they had to do was go to the Senate Intelligence Committee, which has a complete rundown of what I did at the CIA. They weren't very subtle, or they wouldn't have challenged me publicly. Nobody, not even Helms, had any doubt I would be confirmed.' The Defense position is Carlucci's tenth in a long government career. If he was saluted for the way he sorted out problems as a foreign service officer in four countries, as ambassador to Portugal, in the messed-up Office of Economic Opportunity, at the Office of Management and Budget, and at HEW and the CIA well, the Pentagon should not mystify

Presently, Weinberger and Carlucci are studying the budgets President Carter submitted for Defense just before leaving office - $171.2 billion for 1981, and $196.4 billion for 1982. "We will probably ask for another $6 billion for 1981," Carlucci says, "and while it is too early to estimate the add-on for 1982, it will be considerably more than $6 billion.

A high priority item is a new manned bomber to replace the aging B-52s. President Carter cancelled the B-1 bomber in 1977 — a grievous mistake - so now several possibilities to fill the role of a penetrating bomber are being considered. A decision must also be made soon on the basing mode for the controversial MX missile sys-

The Pentagon's brass is squabbling these days over which commander should control the Rapid Deployment Force designed to protect U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf. One sticky problem is that the Army doesn't like the idea of a Marine Corps general drawing on forces from the Army, Navy and Air Force to assist marines hitting the beach. All Carlucci will say about that is, "We're looking at the structure. Congress has some serious questions about it.'

Congress has also expressed concern about the voluntary army and combat readiness. Several months back, when he was chairman of the Armed Forces Committee, Sen. Sam Nunn charged that the volunteer force could not fight "an intense NATO war" and that 40 percent of all new recruits failed to finish their first term of service.

Since then, Congress hiked military pay. One consequence is that the Navy's big problem in keeping career people was eased. Another is that the Army's struggle to get recruits has

Washington is in a hawkish mood, and Congress wants to throw money at the Defense Department, just as during the Great Society days it threw the stuff at HEW. "I don't hear from a congressman who doesn't want us to buy more planes and everything Carlucci says. "Money is not a cure-all for defense. A military which gets full respect is.'

Weinberger has already promised that while defense increases are in order, there will also be spending cuts at the Pentagon, and that defense industries will "not be rewarded for the mistakes of their own making."

Carlucci says he and Weinberger are aware of potential "waste and scandal" in periods of defense buildups, such as we are now in. "We'll watch it closely," he says. "A rational buy can save money, and that might mean buying an item in volume rather than cranking up one model and then another."

There's no question that the U.S. must improve its military considerably. The most skeptical souls dealing with defense matters admit that the Soviets have parity with the U.S. in nuclear weaponry, and, in some instances, lead us. But the U.S. has better diversity in weaponry than the Soviets do, and we have a far stronger economic base.

A spending binge won't guarantee U.S. military superiority over the Soviets. Intelligent acquisitions and program buildups will do the job. So it's good that the sharp minds of Weinberger and Carlucci are on the Pentagon's premises.

Carlucci, with a head full of experience, has seen enough of the Left and Right in this vail of tears that withstanding the right-wing assault on him wasn't that much trouble. "The only inconvenience," he said, "was that my father came for my swearing-in ceremony, but the holdup in the Senate postponed it one week, and he couldn't get back.'

THUNDERBOLT COMING - I'm pleased to welcome James M. Cary and his associates into the ranks of muckrackers. Their newsletter, The Thunderbolt, is scheduled for publication any day now. Its sole interest: the thousands of schoolchildren who are paddled, beaten or otherwise subjected to violence by teachers and administrators. Cary refers to beaten schoolchildren as "the last repressed minority." And because "the kids who need it (the newsletter) don't have any money," The Thunderbolt is free. 'The paper isn't for sale and we aren't either," Cary wrote me.

My new muckraking colleague is 13 years old, an eighth-grade student in a private school in Philadelphia. He already has correspondents in 15 states and five foreign countries.

It's surprising how many folks pretend they aren't going to die — in spite of overwhelming contrary evidence.

The President's thinking behind this cut isn't to hurt the needy people, said Angelo, but to minimize waste and fraud to those who can't justify their need. "No one who is needy will be hurt," he added.

Donald Regan, in painting the President's proposal as a package deal,

-A 10 percent across the board tax cut for all citizens with accelerated depreciation schedule and investment tax credit increase for businesses.

-A sharp reduction in federal regulations "that cost businesses billions of dollars." Also requested is a 60-day freeze on implementation of new regulations or revisions of existing ones. "Vice President George H.W. Bush is overseeing the attack on regulatory problems. We can be hopeful for a quick improvement in this area."

-A committment to a sound monetary policy which would require the cooperation of the Federal Reserve Board. Angelo explained this board is more responsible for the hopping interest rates. The discount rates set by the Fed directly affects that interest rate, as does their decision on how much money will be available. Also taking a hand in the inflation spiral is the federal deficit, said Angelo. Stockman and his troop haven't devised the cuts with only one year in mind. Angelo explained the slashes today have been drawn with future budgets in mind.

National defense, related Angelo will go from 24 percent of the total budget today to 35 percent by 1984. "This is still less than what it was back in the 1960s, but it's in the right direction."

The "social safety net," he said, will increase from 37 percent of the budget to 41 percent by 1984. This safety net he described as pensions and Social Security.

The rest of the budget which consist of numerous grants will drop from 29 percent to 17 percent of the total Reagan's primary objective is to bring the budget growth down to 6 percent a year. "This is allowing for some growth in the size of the country," Angelo explained. "This would be reducing the rate at which government is getting bigger."

If the requested cuts survive Congress over the next three years, the total could reach $145 billion, the Treasury Secretary told the group.

"Tnat's greater than the income tax collected from individuals in 1976," Angelo repeated. Getting the package through the Republican-dominated Senate won't be a problem. The hassle will come in the House of Representatives, said

He charged that the House leaders, Tip O'Neill and Jim Wright, have stacked the two most important committees that will review the package Appropriations and Ways and Means — against the Republcans.

Not only is grass roots support important in pushing people to voice their opinion to the congressmen, but conservative Democrats will play a vital role in the success of Reagan's package, he said.

Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock, who represents Midland and the rest of the 19th Congressional District, sits on the powerful Ways and Means Committee. Angelo believes Hance, a Democrat, will side with the conser-

The former mayor criticized organized labor for opposing the cuts in unemployment and food stamps. "They're short-sighted. These are the people who are hurting the worst from inflation — these salaried people. Labor leadership isn't looking at long-term good of its members," he charged. Arter the day-long session with Stockman - Reagan's economic whiz-kid - Angelo sees the youthful cabinet officer who devised the proposed cuts as "very bright and knowledgeable. He's capable of analyzing economic matters. He's done a super job of studying the budget; there's not much 'blue sky' in it."

Borrowing the attitude of New York congressman Jack Kemp, Angelo said the public shouldn't look at the cuts as being negative. "Kemp said we should approach it as a joyous occasion. We're putting America back to work again. And I think he's peal of the Windfall Profits Tax is not one of the priorities of the Reagan administration for 1981.

Hance said he supports Reagan's proposed cutback of the food stamp program and a cutback in loans to farmers.

When questioned as to whether farmers in his district would oppose that, Hance said no. Farmers already have told him they would support a 10-15 percent cutback in farmers loans if there is a similar cutback in the food stamp program.

"They want everyone to be treated fairly," Hance explained. Hance supports Reagan's expected elimination of the CETA program, which trains youths for jobs.

"I've long been an advocate of changing the way it (CETA) was done," he said. He explained that the employment commissions could do the same job as CETA for 10 percent of the money.

Concerning Reagan's efforts to get the Federal Reserve Board to cooperate with his program by being committed to a sound fiscal policy, Fed. Volcker said then the high interest rates would continue until Congress curtails its spending.

Hance said if Congress passes Reagan's budget package, he expected interest rates to drop to 11-12 percent by the end of the year.

Hance said he talked last summer with Paul Volcker, chairman of the

Kennedy, Mondale gearing up for 1984 elections

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - Take your pick: The Committee for America's Future or the Fund for a Democratic Majority. Mondale or Kennedy.
Should either man get where he wants to go, his political action com-mittee will wind up with a letterhead as lustrous as that of Citizens for the Republic. That's Ronald Reagan's old outfit, and it proudly lists the president of the United States as founder and chairman emeritus. With presidential campaign spending strictly limited by federal law, potential candidates these days take the first, tentative step toward running by hanging out a shingle with the name of a committee on it.

So former Vice President Walter F. Mondale has set up the Committee for America's Future, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is going to establish the Fund for a Democratic Majority. There will be more committees coming along, identified with other potential entries in the contest for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomina-

Political action committees are organizations created to raise money and spend it in behalf of the candidates of a party or, more often, a

All told, there are more than 2,000 political action committees identified with businesses, labor organizations and other interest groups. Federal campaign finance laws give the multiple candidate committees more leeway than campaign committees created for a single candidate.

They can take contributions of up to $5,000 and donate as much as $5,000 to a candidate for the House or the Senate. To qualify for the PAC rules, a committee has to support at least five candidates for federal office.

Individual committees are limited to $1,000 contributions. So the combined support of political action committees with similar goals can be a pivotal factor in a congressional cam-

The political action committees are a subject of controversy every election year, would-be reformers calling them the loophole through which special interest money pours into congressional campaigns.

So far, they have been a more effective vehicle for Republicans, notably conservative Republicans, than for Democrats.

The Democrats would like to change that, and organizations identified with prospective candidates for the White House are a step in that direction. But that's coincidental. The real purpose of the PACs created for potential canidates isto provide an organization and a bankroll that will enable them to travel, speak and build up political credits with the party's 1982 congressional and state candidates. Four years ago, Republican candidates did their early campaign road-work that way. Reagan's Citizens for the Republic, founded with leftover funds from his unsuccessful 1976 campaign, was the biggest of the PACs. Vice President George Bush had his own, the Fund for Limited Government. Sen. Bob Dole created Campaign America. The John Connally Citizens Forum needed no fur-ther explanation. Even Harold E. Stassen had a committee.

The state of the same

Working through multiple candidate campaign committees, potential candidates can put together campaign staffs, finance political travels in behalf of congressional candidates, build up lists of supporters and contributors.

"An individual who wants to test the waters to determine his or her presidential potential would normally set up a presidential committee or collect funds from a few close friends to at least pay for travel and polling," Federal Election Commission lawyers told that panel. "However, a potential candidate may now fund these early travel activities out of his or her political action committee."

They acknowledge that it is difficult to distinguish between activities directly linked to a budding presidential campaign and campaign tasks undertaken for the good of a party or its candidates.

However it is financed, off-year campaigning for congressional candidates is a proven route into presidential competition.

Midland Memorial administrator resigns

Robert B. Abernethy, assistant administrator of finance for Midland Memorial Hospital, resigned from that post Tuesday reportedly to accept a position with another hospital.

Hospital Administrator Ray Branson confirmed the resignation this morning and said he planned to officially announce it at an afternoon meeting of the hospital's board of trustees.

"He did resign," Branson said in a telephone interview. "He's going to Tuscon, Arizona, to work at Kino Community Hospital, which is managed by HAI (Hospital Affiliates Inc.). This company is going to offer him upward mobility that you just can't get from a single institution."

Branson said Abernethy was interviewed by the company last week and that the position was "too good for him to pass up." Branson said the firm was impressed with Abernethy and offered him the position. "They know that he is a good financial manager," Branson said. "And we will

Tax board OKs retirement plan

By ED TODD Staff Writer

The six-member Midland County Tax Appraisal District board of directors on Tuesday unanimously voted to adopt the city of Midland's retirement program for the 25 employees to be on the county-wide tax appraisal staff.

The staff, which will be doing the appraisal work for the six taxing entities in the county, is to go in operation on Sept. 1.

Prior to adopting the retirement plan on the motion of Bud Lea, the board had discussed the merits of the city and county retirement systems. The city's plan, which is tied into the Texas Municipal Retirement System, would pay a retiree an estimated 50 percent more than would the county's plan, which is affiliated with the Texas County and District Retirement System. "Which ever one is the best for our people is the one we should get," said Joe Nuessle, Midland's city attorney who represents the city on the tax

In their respective retirement systems, the city and county may deduct up to 7 percent from each employee's paycheck and invest that amount in the programs. The major difference, though, is the contributions which the city and the county make to the plan. The county matches the employee's investment on a 1-1 ratio, while the city's contribution is based on a 2-1 ratio and is twice that of the employee's contribution.

The county's retirement system began in 1969. The city's program was started about 25 years ago.

The tax appraisal board has hired Virgil Jones ir, the city's tax assessor-collector, the chief appraiser for the district. Jones is answerable to the board.

Core of Jones' staff apparently will be his current staffers in City Hall. And the operation is to remain there until Midland County either builds a courthouse annex to house the tax functions or otherwise provide space for the chief appraiser, his staff and for the Midland County Tax Assessor-

Collector Frances Shuffield Currently, Jones' staff does the appraisals, valuations, and revenue collecting for the city of Midland, the Midland Independent School District, Midland Memorial Hospital and Midland College. Ms. Shuffield's crew, however, cares for the county's and the Greenwood ISD's tax functions and tax collecting. However, after Sept. 1, Jones' staff will do the appraisal work for the six taxing entities, but Ms. Shuffield and staff plan to continue their own collecting.

On the district's tax board are Gil Tompson, board president who represents the Midland ISD; Walt Holton, the hospital; Charlie Welch, Midland County; Fred Wright Jr., Midland College; Bud Lea, the Greenwood ISD, and Nuessle.

Stepdaughter testifies Cornett put knife in aunt's hand

By ED TODD Staff Writer

The 5-year-old stepdaughter of an oil field welder who is accused of murdering his sister-in-law and then shooting his estranged wife last June 30 testified in 238th State District Court on Tuesday that she saw her stepfather put a butcher knife in the hand of her dying aunt.

The petite girl, Chautauqua Nekim "Kim" Young, who was the eighth state witness in the case against her stepfather, Richard Reni Cornett, 26, said that she was sleeping in the den at her mother's court-awarded house at 1715 E. Oak St. when she was awakened by some chatting.

"I heard them talking," said the red-dressed Kim, who was sitting on a stack of courtroom pew cushions so that the six-man, six-woman jury could view her from the witness

To her left, on the bar of the witness stand, was the snub-nosed .38-caliber pistol which Cornett allegedly fired in mortally wounding Kim's aunt, Norma Jean Loring, 31, of Odessa, and in wounding her mother, Mildred Jo "Blondie" Cornett, 27.

"He (Cornett) came in the den," Kim testified under examination of prosecutor David Joers, and then removed the pistol from his shirt, she

"Then he started to shoot," the girl

"Who did he shoot?" Joers asked. "My auntie....She fell down, and he shot her in the back," Kim said. "Then, he shot my mommie."

THE GIRL, who was with her sleeping baby brother, Kevin Devorick Cornett, 1, in the den at time of the alleged shooting, said Cornett then went into the kitchen, and picked up a knife from a drawer there and brought it to the den where her auntie

'And he put the knife in her hand," Kim said.

"Whose hand?" Joers asked.
"My auntie's."

Cornett all along has maintained that he was assaulted by his knifewielding, 200-pound sister-in-law and by his slender wife, who was handling the pistol. And in the ensuing scuffle, which Cornett held was an act of self-defense, the handgun discharged

He testified last November that after the scuffle he fired into Ms. Loring as she was charging him with the butcher knife.

AFTER JOERS HAD gingerly questioned the girl, Cornett's defense attorney, H. Thomas Hirsch of Odessa, cross-examined the girl, who will be 6 on March 13.

Hirsch confronted the girl with a

November; that testimomy lightly differed from the testimony she offered on Tuesday. Last year, the girl had said that Cornett twice fired into Ms. Loring as she lay sprawled on the floor on the den. On Tuesday, she said Cornett shot her once when she was standing and once after she had fall-

Then, Hirsch asked Kim how she knew that her "Daddy didn't want to live" at home with his wife and

"Your mom told you that?" asked Hirsch.

The girl nodded yes.

Her mother, who has recovered from the chest wound she suffered last June 30, was in the courthouse hallway just out the trial, which Judge Vann Culp is presiding over. But the wife is not scheduled to testify against her husband, even though she has filed a suit for divorce against her husband. State law reportedly probibits a spouse from testifying against spouse in a criminal proceeding unless the spouse is the victim. They were married on Aug. 31, 1977.

EARLIER TUESDAY, the state's first witness, former Midland Detective Sgt. Mike Roberts testified that moments after he arrived at the scene of the shooting shortly after 5 p.m. he saw a "black woman," later identified as Shirley Jones, 24, running from the Cornett house.

'She was very distraught, very excited," Roberts said.

Later, Roberts said that Cornett calmly walked up to him and said, "I'm the one you're looking for. I'm the one who did the shooting."

'What was Mr. Cornett's attitude when he said 'I'm the one you're looking for?' "Hirsch asked Roberts, who now is a landman.

"He was very passive," Roberts said.

"Was he polite to you?" Hirsch asked. "Yes, he was."

"Did he try to run away?" "No. He did not."

ANOTHER state witness, Midland Fire Department paramedic David Smith, testified that he tried to revived Ms. Loring.

"I noticed she had a knife in her (left)-hand," loosened it, pitched the bloodied butcher knife onto a couch, turned Ms. Loring onto her back and administered aid to her, Smith testi-

"I did talk to her, and she did not respond," said Smith, who at the time observed that the woman was going into shock, had a rapid pulse and deep breathing.

"We started to the hospital (in the ambulance), and she quit breathing," the paramedic testified.

had noticed running from the house, testified that her cousin, Ms. Loring, was right-handed.

She also said she had just entered the house on a casual visit when she heard a shot and that Cornett had pointed the pistol at her.

"I rang the door bell, and went in," Mrs. Jones said. "I heard the hollering, heard the baby hollering, and sounded like the telephone was off the

"I heard Blondie (shout) 'Don't do that, Richard! Stop, Richard!' I heard the shooting. I just heard a shot. I heard one shot." Mrs. Jones said she then spotted Cornett in the hallway and just outside the den. "He had a gun, and I said, 'Don't shoot! Don't shoot, me!'....He pointed the gun at me."

"I ran," Mrs. Jones said. "Where did you run to?" Joers

"Under the (kitchen) table," she

"And what did you do?" Joers

again asked. "I ran out the door."

In another line of questioning, Joers had asked the woman if Ms. Loring were right-handed or left-handed. "She appeared to be right-handed,"
Mrs. Jones replied. "She drove a car, so I guess she was right-handed."

Testimony by police fingerprint expert B.K. Lann indicated that Cornett's fingerprint was on the blade of the butcher knife which Ms. Loring allegedly was wielding when Cornett Cornett was expected to testify in her own defense today.

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) -An ice jam on Oil Creek sent floodwater chest deep surging through this western Pennsylvania town today, forcing a number of businesses to

"Things are critical," said Jim Nellis, superintendent of public works. 'The creek is jammed up tight. At this stage, water is up over the top of parking meters in some of the northern sections of the business

City Manager Terry Farren said the high water mainly affected about a half mile of Seneca Street, the main business thoroughfare in this Venango County community about 80 miles north of Pitts-

There are few homes in the area and only two or three families were evacuated, he said.

The National Weather Service said unseasonably warm temperatures caused the ice covering Oil Creek to break up and float downstream. The flooding occurred at the point where Oil Creek flows into the Allegheny River, which is also icecovered.

The ice chunks created a temporary dam at the mouth of Oil Creek, causing water to back up and spill into the lowlying area of the town.

"We normally get some flooding in the spring, but this is a real bad situation," Nellis said. "We just can't Farren said many businessmen put up sandbags and barricades to prepare for the water. "But the damage will still be high," he said. "With our past experience, we suspected it was on its way," Farren said. "But there's no way of telling when it could

Civil Defense Director Leon Kean said authorities can do little about the ice jam.

"We just have to play it by ear," he said. "If that ice moves, the water goes back into the creek quick as that."

Accidents leave firms void at top

By SCOTT KRAFT Associated Press Writer

and the second of the second o

NEW YORK (AP) — Tragic accidents in the past two months have claimed the lives of two chairmen and 16 other top executives of two successful suburban New York corporations, robbing the firms of the very managers who had turned them into multi-million dollar operations.

Last week, Charles F. Fogarty, 59-year-old chairman of Texasgulf Inc. in Stamford, Conn., and four other top officials died in a plane crash on a landing approach to Westchester (N.Y.) County Airport. On Dec. 4, B. Duke Glenn Jr., chairman and president of Arrow Electronics Inc. in Greenwich, Conn., was among 13 top Arrow executives to perish when an electrical fire raced through the Stouffer's Inn in nearby White Plains, N.Y.

Operations at the two firms, neighbors in an area of southwest Connecticut that has become a haven for growing firms, were stalled briefly, and there was uncertainty on the

New York Stock Exchange, where their issues are traded.

Amid the mourning for their employees, both companies quickly made plans to fill the gaps in their hierarchies.

"You don't have contingency plans for something like this," said William Askin, a Texasgulf spokesman.

But within 24 hours of the Wednesday night crock, the board

But within 24 hours of the Wednesday night crash, the board of directors of Texasgulf promoted seven executives and named vice chairman Richard D. Mollison, 64, to be chairman and chief executive officer.

Although Texasgulf's stock price fell $2.37, to $52, Thursday and Friday, analysts who study the company say they are confident Texasgulf will be able to get past the hurdle with

"If that (stock price drop) is a consequence of this air crash it shouldn't be," says George Cleaver, metals analyst for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., a New York investment company.

Fogarty, who grew up in a Denver orphanage, held a PhD in geology and had turned Texasgulf from a small sulfur producer into a huge, diversified natural resources firm with sales last year of $1.1 billion.

He "put a great deal of emphasis on personnel policy and development of people," Cleaver says. "The company has a lot of highly competent people out in the field, which is important. I think Dr. Fogarty certainly asserted clearcut leadership in the company and they have other people prepared to carry on quite effectively."

As part of the diversification Fogarty directed, Texasgulf discovered the giant Kidd Creek ore body at Timmins, Ontario, one of the world's largest silver and zinc mines — a stroke of luck, some analysts say.

"It was good fortune, yes, but I'm convinced it wasn't whollyluck," Ceaver says. "The more extensive your exploration activity, the greater the chances you will run across some good things. The impact of a chief executive's death on a firm like Arrow, with about $300 million in sales, was greater because of its relatively small management team, analysts say.

Glenn and his management team, which included executive vice president Roger Green, who also died in the hotel fire, had turned Arrow from an electronics firm with $23 million in sales in 1969 to estimated sales of $300 million in 1980 and a position as the second largest electronics distributor in the world.

Arrow appears to have rebounded from Glenn's absence, "but it may be a long while before we figure the ultimate effect," says Mike Christatos, securities anayst for Baird, Patrick & Co. Inc. in New York.

The top management of such concerns determine policy, the kinds of products the company will offer in the future, future projects and possible acquisitions. The personality of companies, from the lower echelon to the boardroom, is reflected in the chief executive officer, "like a father in a family," says Jay B. Rohrlich, a psychiatric consultant for several Wall Street firms.

'What's important is how quickly they act to restore a chain of command," Rohrlich said,

"It's the old Oliver Twist story. If you're out there and available, trouble will find you," said Fulton County epidemiologist Bob Fenton, who has been working with officials from the national Centers for Disease Control in studying the 17 slayings and one

He also said the victims were characterized by a sense of independence and safety.

Those characteristics taken together, Fenton said Tuesday, indicate the children were "loose, alone and isolated" and not closely supervised.

Fenton, the CDC officials and Fulton County Health Commissioner William Elsea have been treating the child deaths as an epidemic, searching the backgrounds and habits of each victim in an effort to find factors that link them all.

Once those common factors are determined, Fenton said a "risk population," or group likely to become slaying victims, can be defined. Although data still is being gathered and analyzed, Fenton said the early findings should serve as an

Quake aftershocks continue near volcano

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) - Small aftershocks continued for a fourth day after a moderate earth-quake near Mount St. Helens, but the volcano was quiet except for a steam plume, scientists said.

The University of Washington geophysics center reported that weak aftershocks continued Tuesday after a Friday night quake that was centered 12 miles from Mount St. Helens.

The quake, measuring 5.5 on the Richter scale, was indirectly related to the volcano, scientists said. It was widely felt in the Northwest but caused no

...TUESDAY was celebrated as Founder's Day for the National Parent-Teacher Association.

The year was 1897. William McKinley had just defeated William Jennings Bryan and would succeed Grover Cleveland as president. There was trouble in Cuba; the Spanish-American War would soon erupt; and new, higher American tariffs were angering industrial nations around the world. Meanwhile, an event took place in Washington, D.C., that probably went unnoticed on front pagesbut it would have a positive influence on American children and youth for years to come.

The date was Feb. 17. Some 2,000 parents and teachers met to struggle with issues confronting the well-being of young people. The National Congress of Mothers, which later became the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, was the result.

Admittedly, the problems of 1897 were many and varied. Average educational attainment was the fifth grade...children attended school less than 70 days a year...one of every six children was a laborer...and criminal laws treated everyone over the age of seven on an equal basis.

Thanks to the dedication of millions of PTA members, conditions for children did improve, but challenges still remain for today's PTA-a changing family structure...the growing number of teenage parents...alcohol and drug abuse...and declining confidence in and support of public education.

The list could go on and on, but the point is, the PTA is as necessary and vital today as it was in 1897...

Employee's happiness is important, says instructor

By SANDI BREEDEN Lifestyle Writer

"I stress that in order to have a good employee, you have to have a happy one," said Anita Reed after a one-day seminar on "Professional Development for Secretaries" at the Permian Basin Graduate

"I also stress that happiness is up to the individual. that it is a choice. Also, no one can intimidate you without your approval," she continued.

Mrs. Reed is the president of her own consulting firm in Dallas and conducts success seminars throughout the United States and Canada to secretaries and assistants at all levels. She started conducting her success seminars in 1971 after working as a secretary off and on for seven years. She will conduct a seminar for executive secretaries at the graduate center June 18.

"I tell the women to become goal oriented and I try to get them to accept responsiblity and put the responsibility upon themselves," she continued. "I also tell them time management is important as is happiness and their health.

MRS. REED SAID secretaries were not alone in the responsibility of the running of an office. "It takes a team effort to have a smooth running office." she said. "It's too bad bosses don't go to the program," she added. Current office techniques are also taught in the seminar. According to the insturctor, letter writing has the most current changes. Telephone techniques are also discussed, she added. "I ask them how long is too long to leave someone on hold. I get different responses but the answer is 45 seconds and then they should get the person back on the line and ask if they would like to continue to hold or call back."

Listening is a priceless asset in an office, said Mrs. Reed. "I tell people at the seminar to become skillful listeners. Everyone is born to hear, but you have to

The first part of Mrs. Reed's daylong seminar deals with personal effectiveness. This includes how to improve your memory, human relations in a business office, 10 personal qualities necessary in every employee and time management.

"It's only fair women should discuss career advancement," she added. Mrs. Reed also said collège tuition reimbursement should be given so women can further their education as far as the job is concerned.

'Fear holds women back more than management does," she said. "Management wants a productive employee, they don't care what color or sex — if a monkey could do it, management would let it."

MRS. REED SAID the company and employees benefit if the company is a people oriented one. "If the company is people oriented instead of task oriented, the employees are happier. If you make your people happy, they will get the job done.

NYLONS TO THE RESCUE

Dear Heloise: With so many do-it-yourselfers around today, I've found a painless way to remove glass fiber insulation particles from your arms. Use one of your wife's snagged nylon stockings (don't use a good one, or you'll be in more trouble!). Rub the dampened stocking down your arms, from elbow to hand. Any little slivers of glass fiber will catch in the nylon and be easily picked up. Just be sure and rub DOWN your arm, not UP! - Cliff

Colon cancer not as serious as some cancers

Despite the large number of deaths from cancer of the colon and rectum, the potential for saving lives from the disease is greater than for most cancers,' said J.E. Mendez, M.D., adult education chairman of the Midland Unit of the American Cancer So-"More than 100,000 new cases of the disease affected equally," he said. The colon, or large bowel, is a continuous tubular organ about five feet long which absorbs fluid and expels solid waste materials. Most of the deaths from colorectal cancer are avoidable, and about three of four patients could be saved by early diagnosis and treatment, he contin-

Mendez recommends that all adults over 40 have the "procto" examination with their periodic checkup. The "procto" is a procedure that permits the doctor to see the lower portion of the rectum and colon with a lighted tube. This is where most colon and rectum cancers develop. It is neither dangerous nor difficult when performed by an expe-

Another test utilizes the more recently developed fiberoptic colonoscope which permits the physician to view the entire colon. In addition, a screening procedure called the guaiac test to detect blood in the stool has been made more practical and has added to the possibility of detecting colorectal cancer when it is most curable.

'Remember the first line of defense against cancer is the regular checkup, including a 'procto' if you are over 40," Mendez said.

Information about cancer is available at the American Cancer Society office, 601 S. Main, Midland, TX 79701.

NO WILL' COSTS MORE

It generally costs more money to die without a will than it does if there is one. Delays in estate administration that result from "no will" require extra attorney services-along with an increased fee. Also, court costs and other adminiscration fees often are major items for the "no will" estate. On the other hand, a will makes it possible to cut out many of the legal steps that would otherwise be required.

'NO WILL' TAXES HIGHER

A "no will" situation also leaves the heirs vulnerable to the full impact of estate and inheritance taxes. Of course, the exact amount of death tax levied on a particular estate is dependent upon the amount of money involved and the manner in which the estate is distributed, but a will can lessen the heavy impact of this taxation.

ESTATE PLAN SAVES

Making and continually revising an estate plan can lessen the tax amount even more. The Tax Reform Acts of 1976 and 1978 made significant changes in federal tax laws applicable to estates and trusts. An attorney familiar with estate planning can help you take advantage of the provisions that these laws offer.

One-Man-Band' business grows into large company

By GALE TOLLIN Associated Press Writer

OWATONNA, Minn. (AP) — The lean days of yesteryear, when he made sousaphone chairs in a horse barn he rented for $2 a month, were the most fun for the music man of Owatonna, Harry Wenger.

Blending the perseverance of a Mennonite upbringing and his music-teacher experience with a business philosophy that useful products will sell, Wenger created a company that employs about 250 people and has annual sales exceeding $11 million.

The Wenger Corp. manufactures professional equipment for the performing arts, selling its products throughout the United States and abroad. Customers include bands and orchestras, choral groups and the armed services, churches and schools, and city parks and recreation departments.

Many of the items are huge. The Wenger Corp. has come a long way since it made batons out of aluminum rods.

FOR THEIR CENTRAL Park performances, the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and Metropolitan Opera use a 40-by-70-foot Wenger stage and acoustical shell weighing 52 tons and costing more than $600,000. Sound towers 40 feet high are hydraulically raised and lowered. When the performance ends, the entire "mobile performance support system" is folded into five 40-foot semi-trailers and hauled away until the next concert. For street dances and summer theaters, there's the Wenger "Showmobile," an acoustical stage and shell on wheels. The stage folds out from the bottom, the shell tips up from the top and the lighting system is built in.

The company line goes on and on. For recording booths and music practice facilities, there are sound modules — relocatable rooms with correct acoustics and their own lighting and ventilation systems.

There are practice chairs designed to encourage proper posture for school musicians. There are upholstered chairs designed for symphony orchestra performers. There are chairs with tablet arms, string bass chairs, conductors' podia and music cabinets.

Wenger's family immigrated from Switzerland and he, one of nine children, was born in Wayland, Iowa. He was graduated in 1933 from the University of Iowa with a degree in music education and then became music director of the LeMars, Iowa, schools.

In 1936 he moved to Owatonna, Wenger says, as "the whole music department" of the public schools. Schools were just beginning to have bands, and companies hadn't started manufacturing band equipment.

Wenger recalls that he, high-school industrial arts classes and school custodians "made a lot of our own stuff" - music stands, risers, stands for percussion instruments

FOR CONDUCTORS' BATONS, Wenger put plastic handles on tapered aluminum rods. It went so well, he made 700 and showed them to a friend, music store owner Robert Schmitt. Schmitt was impressed. "We'll take them all," he said. Harry Wenger had made his first sale. He didn't like wobbly music stands. Wenger made some sturdy stands with welded bases, designing them to hold music at uniform angles. Gerald Prescott, University of Minnesota bandmaster, wanted to know where Wenger had bought them. Wenger admitted he'd made them himself. He was persuaded to make 85 more for the university band.

When the university band members became music teachers themselves, they wanted similar stands. "We've been making strong, foolproof music stands ever since," says Wenger.

The Owatonna band had six sousaphone players, none husky, and Wenger thought there should be a stand to help support the cumbersome instruments and keep them from banging against each other. In 1946, he designed a weird-looking chair with arms and hooks. Wenger hauled one around Minnesota, displaying his invention to band directors.

"That first sousaphone stand was rather crude, but band directors agreed it filled a need," Wenger says. Orders came in, and Owatonna's music man was on his way to becoming a big-time manufacturer.

Wenger quit teaching for one year but had to go back to it because he had more desire than money. He taught high-school music three days a week. On alternate days, he did his manufacturing. His wife, Ruth, also taught music.

When the old barn became available, Wenger moved the company operations out of his home basement. He personally painted all of his first 1,000 sousaphone

IN 1953, HARRY Wenger quit teaching for good and went into business full time. He borrowed money from his mother, sister and uncle, borrowed against his life insurance and cashed in his school retirement benefits.

As the company expanded and larger products were added to the line, building after building was outgrown.

FBI, Reagan disagree on gun control

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two of the FBI's top-ranking criminal investigators, disagreeing with President Reagan on the need for gun control, say only law enforcement personnel and the military should be allowed to have handguns.

In an interview, Charles P. Monroe, assistant FBI director in charge of the bureau's criminal investigative division, and his deputy, Dana E. Caro, who oversees organized crime and white-collar investigations, emphasized they were speaking for themselves and not the FBI.

But both men, who began their FBI careers as street agents, spoke vehemently on the subject. The bureau and its director, William H. Webster, have not taken a position on gun

During the campaign, a Reagan position paper said handgun controls should be rejected because they "could only be a first step toward further firearms controls such as use restrictions or bans on long guns. Such guns are an essential part of the livelihood and recreation of sportsmen and hunt-

"While no one can deny that we are facing a serious crime problem, gun control is simply an unrealistic and dangerous panacea," the Reagan paper said. "The burden of reducing down to 7,755. crime must be placed on the criminal through swift enforcement, stiffer and certain punishment rather than on the

SINGAPORE (AP) - Singapore Airlines is planning to install slot machines on one of its jetliners flying between here and the United States for a two-month test beginning June 1.

Former politician gets $2.1 million

HO'USTON (AP) - A former Texas political leader and owner of a cable television company is entitled to $2.1 million in damages because he didn't have a fair chance to compete for a franchise here, a federal

Billy Goldberg, former chairman of the state Democratic Party and current owner of the Southwest Houston Cable TV Co., was seeking $7.8 million in damages in an antitrust suit filed in U.S. District

Federal antitrust laws provide that the amount of the judgment automatically be trebled to $6.3 million, a lawyer for Goldberg said after the verdict Tue sday night.

Goldberg was seeking a franchise to put cable television into a section of Houston but was turned down. The City Council instead awarded permits to five other companies that had agreed among themselves to divide the sprawling city into five geographic regions, with each company serving a single Goldberg then filed suit against Mayor Jim McConn, the city of Houston, Gulf Coast Cable Television Co., and two partners of that firm, Clive Runnells and Jack T. Trotter, charging they had conspired to prevent him from getting a franchise.

The jury said the mayor and Gulf Coast had conspired to limit competition, but that Runnells and Trotter were not actually involved in any conspiracy or antitrust action.

Jurors also found that the city participated in an alleged scheme to divide franchise territorities among City Hall favorities, but said the city is not liable for damages.

Goldberg, who said he was happy with the verdict, predicted that Gulf Coast, rather than McConn, would be held fully liable for the damages. U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue Jr. has not yet ruled on which party must pay the damages McConn was not immediately available for comment. Runnells could not be reached for comment, and Trotter refused to make a statement.

Charles J. Brink, a lawyer for Goldberg, said evidence presented during five weeks of testimony revealed "the failure by city officials to base franchises on competitive bids," that boosted cable TV

"We took this thing to court because we didn't get a fair hearing before the City Council. It is not easy to fight City Hall. You can expect personal abuse and misrepresentation of motives," he said.

Company argues case with FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Communications Satellite Corp. says there is no good reason the Federal Communica-tions Commission should not allow operation of a satellite-to-the-home broadcast system before it adopts permanent li-censing standards.

In fact, the company told the FCC Tuesday, "it is only through experience with operational systems that informed, ultimate judgments con-cerning the public interest benefits of Direct Broadcast Satellites can be formulated."

COMSAT, through a new subsidiary known as the Satellite Television Corp., became the first American company last December to request permission to establish an experimental satellite-to-the-home television system. The company said it was prepared to build a satellite network that would broadcast three channels of pay television programming directly to small dish antennas atop individual homes.

The FCC has yet to set up a permanent regulatory framework for such a satellite-to-the-home system. In fact, it is precluded from doing so be-

'Deadly force' bill urged

BOSTON (AP) - Saying "crime has become so common a force that we have begun to accept its conseences," Gov. Edward J. King today asked lawmakers impose stiffer criminal penalties, mandatory minimum sentences and a law allowing people to kill in defense of their

"It is my belief that today's appalling crime problem is, in part, the price our state is paying for years of permissiveness in convicting and imprisoning criminals," King said at briefings Tuesday on his crime legislation, filed today.

The bills would -Allow the use of "deadly force" in defending one's home.

-Single out the elderly for special legal protection, providing mandatory minimum sentences for assault, robbery and other crimes committed against people over 65.

—Allow judges to consider public protection in setting bail and increase penalties for persons who commit crimes while free on bail. Now, only a defendant's likelihood to appear at the next court proceeding is considered at bail hearings.

-Establish a new sentencing system for violent and serious property crimes and habitual offenders. The bill declares prison terms are to be proportionate to the seriousness of the offense and there should be uniform sentences for similar crimes.

The House chairman of the judiciary committee, where the bills will go, said he supports King's measures. But the Senáte chairman, Alan Sisitsky, called the bills "garbage." He said the state's crime problem has more to do with catching criminals than sentencing, and the tax cut law passed by voters in November will make apprehension more difficult.

Municipalities have said that pending layoffs resulting from the propery tax cutting Proposition 21/2 law will include police.

King said that "on the average" in 1979, "one person was murdered every 42 hours in Massachusetts and, every day, approximately four women were raped, 32 robberies were committed, 242 homes and businesses were burglarized and 174 motor vehicles were stolen.

"Clearly, we can see we have before us a problem of the first order deserving of the best countermeasures we can muster...

The "deadly force" bill, he said, was designed to counter a 1975 decision of the state Supreme Court, declaring it is one's "duty to retreat" in the face of a home intruder if killing him is the only alternative.

The administration also is seeking a 'dramatic reversal in sentencing practices," said King's assistant legal counsel, Dennis Curran. He said the "fundamental emphasis that all criminals are sick and can be cured is fundamentally wrong.' The legislation, he said, "holds the criminal personally responsible for his actions.

The administration disputed a recent National Law Journal survey which found that on average, con-victed felons spend more time in pris-on in Massachusetts than elsewhere.

Curran said Massachusetts is 46th in the nation in its incarceration rate, meaning that only four states are more lenient in sending people to prison. He also said that, excluding convicted murderers, felons generally spend less time in prison here than

The $100 million in bonds were expected to pay 8.5 percent in-terest after bidding on the bond market.

Heavy bidding could push the rate higher, or even up so far that the city would decide to withdraw the notes at this time because they would create excessive future debts.

The sale, set to proceed after a meeting of the state Financial Control Board, marks City Hall's first attempt since December 1974 to borrow money without assuring investors that they would be repaid by state or federal money if the city could not come through.

The city was locked out of the public borrowing markets in 1975 with the onset of its brush with bankruptcy.

On Tuesday, the sale's underwriters began taking reservations on intent for today's bidding. They reported the issue was oversubscribed.

Law of Sea Treaty rejection sought

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Law of the Sea Treaty, nearing completion after more than 10 years of international negotiations, is so completely biased against the industrialized West that the United States must reject it, a key congressman said

Rep. John Breaux, D-La., said "only an absolute capitulation by this nation to the unrestrained demands of the Third World and Soviet bloc" could compel the United States to accept the treaty as "I am personally convinced that the highest priority for President Reagan and the oceans community of this nation must be to make certain that the draft LOS treaty either be improved or, if it cannot be improved, abandoned," he said. Breaux said he and 14 other congressmen have written Reagan to ask for a comprehensive review of the draft treaty before a U.S. commitment is 'The fate of our oceans interests, with their many significant implications for our national security, domestic economy and foreign relations, may well be determined for the foreseeable future by policy decisions of the Reagan administration during the next 18 days," Breaux said.

Sea Conference and former chairman of the House Merchant Marine subcommittee on oceanography, made the remarks in a speech prepared for delivery today to the American Oceanic Organization. The proposed Law of the Sea Treaty would set down the international law that will govern ocean resources for decades to come. Final negotiations are scheduled to resume in New York March 9, with hopes a final document can be signed this summer at a ceremony in Caracas, Venezuela. But Breaux said the treaty as now drafted would start an economic revolution designed to effect "a fundamental redistribution of global wealth and power from the nations of the industrialized North to the countries of the less developed South. Among his objections to the treaty: - An International Seabed Authority, dominated by the Third World and the Soviet bloc, would be given authority over the rich mineral resources of the ocean floor. - A "supreme assembly" within the authority would be organized on a one-nation, one-vote basis, meaning the smaller but far more numerous developing countries could overwhelm the developed countries.

- A 36-member Executive Council, responsible for approving rules and regulations governing ocean conduct, would give a minimum of three seats to Soviet bloc countries while guaranteeing none to the United States - and forcing America to compete with its allies for the chance to claim a seat.

Rebels survive 3-for-31 half

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

The Midland Lee Rebels defeated the Big Spring Steers, 41-36, Tuesday night in a District 5-5A non-scoring affair at Chaparral Center, and when you look at the statistics, it's hard to believe that either team could win on this par-

The Rebs will be given the victory to even their second half record at 2-2 and move their season mark to 13-18 even though Lee hit only three of 31 shots in the entire second half for an amazing 10 percent from the field. In fact, they missed 17 shots in a row at one point and had only two of 23 in another stretch for a for a meager 71/2 percent mark.

ADD TO that showing the fact that the Rebs hit only three of 14 in the first period and eight of 20 in the second quarter, it's even harder to understand how they could come out on top.

Well, Big Spring was just about as inept, hitting at a meager 30 percent clip for the game and six of 15 from the charity stripe. Their biggest quarter production was 10

Fortunately, the game was witnessed by 4,800 empty seats. Watching a game of total frustration is not a fun thing to do on a Tuesday night.

Lee held onto the victory by hitting eight of 10 shots from the free throw line in the second half. But that didn't make it easy and it never is when you connect on only three field goals in 16 minutes of

WHILE LEE was throwing up 17 shots without connecting, the Steers were climbing slowly into the game. The Steers finally tied the score at 33, wiping out a Rebel 12-point lead, on a Jerald Wrightsil bucket with 4:08 left in the game and took the lead when Wrightsil connected on a free throw. It looked at that point like Big Spring had turned the tide because the Rebels were hitting nothing.

However, Lee held on as Kenneth Brown answered Wrightsil with two free throws for 35-34 Lee lead and then he connected on a short jumper and Barry Blackwell sank a pair of free throws for a 39-34 margin and the victory was sealed with loose wax.

It was the second period where the Rebels won the contest. They hit only eight of 20 from the field, but they outscored the Steers by a 19-8 margin. The Rebs scored 10 unanswered points at one point and came out of the period with a 27-17 lead as Alvin Dunson, who led all scorers with 14 points, scored six to pace the spurt. Dunson connected again to open the third period for a 12-point lead, but Lee then went on to miss its next 17 shots as the Steers chipped away at the lead.

LEE SCORED only four points in the third period, but the Steers couldn't even catch the Rebels then. It might have been a different story for the Steers if they hadn't lost scoring leader Bobby Earl Williams to fouls with 5:54 still left in the third period. Williams left with 10 points. Big Spring's James Doss tried to take up the slack with six points in the fourth quarter and ended the night with 12, but it wasn't enough. Nothing was enough on this night.

Dunson's 14 was the only double figure performance by the Rebels. Brown had nine, with four coming in the final period.

Lee will travel to Odessa Permian Friday and they better find the rim oil in a hurry if they want to continue winning.

The Lee junior varsity won a 53-51 decision over Big Spring as Billy Sewell hit for 16 points and Derek Lane 10. Jinx Valenzeula hit 14 for the Steers. The Brigade had lost earlier to Big Spring by 18 points in the first half.

Bulldogs wreck Bobcat hopes Herb had a pair of slam-dunks in the game which seemed to pretty-well

SAN ANGELO - Herb Johnson was awesome Tuesday night.

All the 6-foot-9 All-America candidate did was to single-handedly destroy the San Angelo Central Bobcats in leading the Midland Bulldogs to a 63-45 rout before more than 2,200 fans in a big District 5-5A showdown bat-

JOHNSON RIPPED the cords for 37 points, mostly from inside in giving Coach Jack Stephenson's Purple Pack a giant step towards the district championship with the big victory.

"We are playing awfully good basketball now. Herb was just great, but the whole team is playing well, " said a relaxed Stephenson afterwards. In fact, Jack was pretty-well relaxed the entire game as his Pack took a first period lead of 20-8 and never looked. back at the fired-up Bobcats.

"They (Central) had an awfully hard time with our press and lost their poise, " added Stephenson.

Herb's 37-point performance equals his output against Sweetwater in a non-district game back in December, but his career high was 38 points against Fort Stockton on Dec. 7.

His 37 points Tuesday gives the senior athlete 70 points in the last two games and 247 points in 11 5-5A out-

MIDLAND HAS now won 14 straight and takes a 28-3 record into its next game Friday night against hapless Odessa High in the Chaparral

"We are in good shape now as far as the rest of the district race since we face OHS, Abilene Cooper and Lee at home, " said Stephenson.

Johnson gunned in 11 points in the first period and 12 more in the second to score 23 points in the first half against the up-tight and cold-shooting Bobcats.

Bobcat fans had come to the game with brown paper bags that were to be put on their heads during the big showdown, much like New Orleans Saints fans were wearing during their dismal season in 1980 in the NFL. But instead, the Central fans wound up sitting on them or discarding them to the floor in watching their team selfdestruct.

Midland fans were plentiful as two busloads of fans came to the game anticipating another close game like the two 5-5A rivals played in Midland durign the first half of the race in which MHS won, 80-78 in triple over-time. It wasn't to be this time as the Pack completely outclassed the Bob-

Central hit 14 of 20 charity tosses and never was in the game. The Bobcats did manage to cut the lead to nine points in the third period, but Midland outscored the losers, 18-15 in the final eight minutes to win going away.

CENTRAL COACH Rick Harvey had flatly stated that his team matched up against Midland better than any other team in the league and that his Bobcats were going to beat Midland. Well-sir, it just didn't hap-pen and the way The Wave and entire team is playing, a victory by anybody in the final three games is very remote indeed

TED BATTLES Steve Macko still has sights set on majors

You've heard of Army brats. Well, Steve Macko is a baseball brat. He signed his first major league "contract" back in 1956. Steve was only a year and a half old at the time, so poppa Joe, who was on his way to a 36 home run season for Dallas in the Texas League, had it dated for 1975.

In 1975, Steve was still playing infield for Panola Junior College and ahead lay a couple of seasons and the College World Series with the Baylor Bears. But last year he was called up by the Chicago Cubs. When Pittsburgh's Bill Madlock took him out of a double play with a high-rolling block at second base. The muscles were crushed against the bone, the thigh ballooned to twice its normal size and Steve was out for the year.

Still, it looked like in 1981 Steve would make that 1956 publicity fairy

"NEXT YEAR was the year Steve was going to get his chance," says Joe, now equipment manager for the Texas Rangers. "I always figured that since I didn't make it, at least, I had brought up someone who would play in the big leagues.'

Although he was a second baseman in college, Steve was assigned to Midland in 1977 where he played shortstop, led the Texas League in fielding chances and set a Cubs' record for hits (166) in a single season while batting .302.

An example of Macko's dedication was that he got married in Fort Worth and was back in Midland that evening in time to play.

WHEN that thigh injury took an abnormally long time to heal, Steve was sent in for an examination.

"We thought it was just a little hernia or something," relates Joe. It turned out to be a malignant growth in a testicle and it was found the cancer had spread to the lymph glands in his chest. Doctors told him the cure rate is 15 to 25 percent, but chemotherapy treatment would be necessary. Doctors said the chances of responding to therapy are 80 to 90

Despite, the treatments, Steve has been looking forward to spring training with Chicago in Mesa, Ariz., later this month and the Cubs sent word they were counting on him.

The thing that seemed to bother Steve the most was the fact that he'd be bald from the chemotherapy treatments, so he demanded and got in his contract from the Cubs an agreement that they would furnish his wig.

WITH NEITHER Lenny Randle nor Mick Kelleher, both free agents, around this spring, the door is ajar for Steve if he can lick this thing. He takes encouragment from the fact that Todd Jackson, another former Texas Leaguer who once pitched for the Mets, had chest to groin surgery for lymph cancer similar to Steve's.

Toby Harrah, who played for the Rangers when Steve was the team's first bat boy, visited Steve in the hospital and told him his brother had beaten cancer.

When Chicago General Manager Bob Kennedy was in Midland last week, he said, "They thought they had cleared up all the spots on his chest, but they tell me the latest check up showed another one on the side of his head...Yes, he's still going to try to make it to Mesa, but says he may be a week late."

AP Special Correspondent Despite all the dour language from the chiefs on both sides in baseball, here's a bet - based as much on gut instincts as cold reasoning - that "Play ball!" will be the harbinger of spring as usual this season.

No strike. No lockout. There will be considerable haggling. Each side will give a little. They may even go down to the final hour, as before. Each side will claim a victory. Then they'll stoke the bat racks and get the show on the road.

Nobody wants a stoppage, particularly the players. They've never had Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, is an astute, sensible man. He has grubbed out gains for the players that transcend the imagination. He is not vindictive. Our prediction is that he will let the owners stew in their own juice a while and then take the course that is to the players' advantage.

ACROSS the table, Ray Grebey, negotiator for the owners, represents an internally fractured clientele - a hard core of young owners who don't want to make waves, conservative hardliners who keep losing battles. A tough guy, he is pressed to squeeze out all he can get.

But the key lies with the players. The Basic Agreement, signed last May, makes them the most properous and secure practitioners in pro team

A baseball survey (questioned, incidentally by Miller) projects that the average salary of a ballplayer will be more than $170,000 in 1981. This compares with an average salary of $149,-

Grebey contends that overall salaries have gone up 230 per cent since 1976 (the advent of free agency) and 457 per cent since 1971. The new four-year agreement, signed with the compensation issue not entirely resolved, provides that the minimum player salary this year will be $32,500 ($7,500 more than that n the National Football League and National Hockey League).

Dad's behavior benches son

MOUNDS VIEW, Minn. (AP) -Twelve-year-old David Boryczka was suspended from his Mounds View hockey team, but not for anything he

It was because of the way his father conducted himself in the stands. His father, Gary J. Boryczka, countered by filing a lawsuit, saying that his son should not be penalized for someone else's wrongdoing.

The Lake Region Hockey Association has noted a "continuing problem" with parents' conduct. League officials contend that one way to control parents who misbehave is to take disciplinary action against their chil-

It all began Jan. 24 when the Mounds View team was playing Brooklyn Park during a tournament in St. Cloud.

The game was close throughout, and finally went into overtime. Brooklyn Park had been "loading" its lines, putting all of its best players on the ice at once. Donald Philbrook, coach of the Mounds View PeeWee traveling hockey team, believed in giving all of his players as much playing time as possible so he stuck with his normal player rotation. With just a minute left in overtime, Philbrook said, he heard Boryczka swear at him from the stands and tell him to, "Load the lines."

Shortly after, Brooklyn Park scored to win the game, although Mounds View's best line reportedly was on the ice at the time.

Philbrook's wife, Karen, said Boryczka's comments "caused confusion in the stands and on the bench." She also said another parent was so angered by Boryczka's behavior that he wanted "to physically remove" Boryczka from the stands.

fronted Mrs. Philbrook and shouted at

The next day, Philbrook suspended Boryczka's son, David, from the team, along with the son of the woman who allegedly hollered at Philbrook's wife.

At first, David's suspension was for two games. But Philbrook said he made the suspension indefinite after learning that Boryczka, without noti-fying anyone, had pulled his son out of further tournament games in St. Cloud and had taken him to play for his grade school team in New Bright-

Philbrook said this move violated regulations of the Lake Region Hockey Association, which governs some 62 youth hockey teams in the Mounds View School District.

A district commissioner with the hockey association said he told Boryczka the suspension would be lifted he apologized to Philbrook.

Boryczka said he was never given any reason for David's suspension and never notified of the coaches' committee meeting. On Jan. 29, he filed his lawsuit.

Meanwhile, the boy suspended with David was reinstated.

Association officials, in supporting Philbrook's actions, said they backed the suspension "so that he (David) may not be mentally torn between the two standards."

On Feb. 9, Ramsey County District Court Judge James Lynch issued a brief order denying Boryczka's request to have his son reinstated.

Can you imagine Rockne, Bryant waiting at phone?

By JIM MURRAY (c) 1981, Los Angeles Times

Picture, if you will, a situation in which Steve Garvey were to become a free agent overnight, available at no further cost to any offer made to him. Can you even imagine his sitting next to a phone which never rings?

Suppose Earl Campbell were to come on the open market, free to accept any offer made to him - do you think he wouldn't have a living room full of eager owners waving checks immediately?

NOW, SUPPOSING you accept the argument that football, as a sport, is a coach's medium, that a team that is never any better than its mentor, and suppose I tell you that the fourth-winningest coach in pro football history spends his days potting petunias in the Palos Verdes hills, then will you tell me what is so smart about pro football?

Can you imagine Knute Rockne sitting beside a silent phone? Pop Warner? Bear Bryant? Tom Landry? George Herbert Allen won 116 games in 12 years in the National Football League. He went to a Super Bowl. Do you know how many coaches went to a Super Bowl? Not many, 15 in all. Paul Brown never got to a Super Bowl. The same coaches seem to turn up there all the time. The Vince Lombardis, the Tom Landrys, the Bud Grants, the Al Davises, and whatever ventriloguist act he's performing current-

GEORGE ALLEN should no more be unemployed than the president of Toyota. When George Allen became head coach of the Rams in 1966, the team was coming off a 4-10 season.. In two seasons, the opposition had rolled up 667 points on them. Allen went 8-6, then 11-1-2 with the same personnel. When he took over Washington in 1971, the team had gone 6-8 the year before. Under Allen, they went 9-4-1 and then 11-3 and on to Super Bowl VII.

Allen rebuilt two franchises. His Rams were never more than one victory away from a Super Bowl.

His treatment at the hands of the Rams is one of the more shameful episodes in football history. No employee in any other business would ever have to undergo more abusive, unconscionable treatment than Allen did. He was lured from Washington with a fine full-figure contract, multiple-year. He could conceivably either have remained at Washington for the rest of his coaching career but he accepted the challenge. He lost a lousy couple of exhibition games and he was called in and summarily fired. The National Labor Relations Board would not have let you do that to a carwash attendant, but a football coach has less rights than a shoeshine

IN ORDER to destroy a man, a philosopher once said, it is only necessary to give his work the character of uselessness. George Allen was not only fired, he was subjected to a campaign of back-biting that Joseph Goebbels couldn't have im-

the trial to start on time.

Mason trial to begin April 8 proved on. You would have thought George attacked a Vatican statue with a hammer.

You can't fight rumor and innuendo. That's one zone defense with a seam in it. Allen came off in the innuendo as a kind of football Captain$Queeg. He was professionally damaged, if not ruined altogether, by the impulsive acts of his owner.

"First of all, they put out the word that I was the kind of guy who would take over any situation I was in. Well, it's hard to make people understand but all I ever felt was that, to take a coaching job, you have to have some control over your own destiny. If you have responsibility, you have to have authority. The teams that won in this league, usually, have been teams with one man in charge — a Tom Landry, an Al Davis, a Bud Grant. You have ownership that doesn't interfere in the day-to-day running of the club. I don't care to become a puppet coach. But neither do I care if I'm vice pesident or general manager or a managing general partner. I just want to be the coach."

ALLEN feels his reputation for oddball devotion to his work began long before he hit the pros, at Morningside College, in fact. "I always loved my job and would do anything to improve the morale of my team. At Morningside we had a practice field that was all mud, and we had no money to improve it. So I went to the hardware store and got a tiller and grass seed and I seeded that field myself. Then I went to the highway department and borrowed a snow fence to keep the students off it while the grass was coming up. We didn't have any budget for weight-lifting machines there; so I filled coffee cans with cement for weight training. So everybody said, 'Gee, that guy's an oddball.' But, you'll note, we

If you want to fight a war, you get Napoleon. If you want to close a business deal, you get a Rockefeller. If you want to win a Super Bowl, there are probably five coaches who can do it for you. That's about all who have won. And George H. Allen just might be one of the five.

HE WOULD, however, do one thing differently. "I didn't pay enough attention to my public relations, he admits. "I would always be closeted with my films, my coaches, my players. I paid no attention to the stories circulated about me. I used to turn down invites to White House State dinners. I never went out in Washington. I think I'd like to do away with the notion that George Allen is a guy who goes around in a Napoleon hat.

"But I didn't think that was important then. I thought that, so long as I took a franchise that had been down for 15 years and made it respectable, people wouldn't believe any nonsense about me. I never felt I had the time to sit around nightclubs with owners. But I guess I should have done more

If an owner wants someone to have dinner with, he should hire Julia Childs. But if he wants to beat Oakland, well, George H. Allen became a free agent last Friday the 13th, and the only calls he gets are wrong

White defends recruiting policies

Coach Mike White defended his policy of rebuilding Illinois' football program with junior college players against charges by Chicagoarea high school coaches who claim when JC players are brought in there are less scholarships available to high school graduates and that the Illinois football program will suffer in the long run by not rebuilding with high school recruits which could lead to a lack of loyalty within the state.

White, an assistant eight years at Stanford and head coach six years at California. "We had to do the same thing to compete against USC and UCLA. We don't want to offend people but they must understand this wasn't a very good year for high school talent in Illinois. The style of football played in the state doesn't allow us a broad spectrum of skilled players to choose from."...

Beetles killing millions of dollars worth of timber

HELENA, Mont. (AP) - A beetle blight is spreading in the great forests of the Rocky Mountains — and offi-cials say the problem is due, in part, to high interest rates.

Mountain pine beetles destroyed 935,000 acres of valuable commercial timber last year in 10 national forests and two national parks in Wyoming, Idaho and Montana.

Rangers in Glacier and Yellowstone national parks report that tourists are shocked to see thousands of acres of dead trees with red-brown needles.

The U.S. Forest Service calls the bettle the "most destructive forest pest" in the northern Rockies.

In 1980, the beetle infestation grew from 1.4 million acres to more than 2.3 million acres, according to Ken Gibson, a Missoula-based entomologist for the Forest Service.

The acreage of beetle-killed trees is calculated from aerial surveys. The 1980 surveys include trees that were killed in 1979, and last year's mortality will show up this year, Gibson

The beetles bore into large trees where they can't be attacked by insecticides — and lay eggs. The larvae dine on the inner bark, often killing a tree within two months

"There are a lot of things going for the beetle," Gibson said. They include two mild winters and a depressed housing market because of high interest rates.

The beetles are especially fond of infesting lodgepole pine stands that are about 70 to 90 years old and 7-9 inches in diameter.

The Forest Service's only defense against the beetles has been to sell mature stands of lodgepole before the beetles take up housekeeping. But most lodgepole is used for construction lumber.

'Because of the decline in the housing market, a lot more timber has been sold than is being cut," Gibson

In Yellowstone, the nation's oldest and largest national park, the beetle infestation almost doubled last year to 821,000 acres. In Glacier National Park, beetles ate themselves out of house and tree on the park's west side and have marched over the Continental Divide to infest green stands on the east side. So far, the beetles have browned 291,263 acres of trees in Gla-

The National Park Service doesn't try to cut down beetle-killed trees unless they endanger campers or motorists. It's live and let live for beetles like the other creatures protected in national parks. The mild winter in the West means that more beetles will survive to destroy trees next year, Gibson said.

The mild winter also means that the beetle's natural predators - which include several types of other beetles, fly larvae and three species of woodpeckers - also will benefit.

"But a bird can eat only so many beetles and there are billions of them." Gibson said.

TESCO directors to see developments

The board of directors and several officers of Texas Electric Service Company will tour many of Midland's newest economic development projects Feb. 19 during the board's regular quarterly meet-

The meeting will be the first the directors of the Fort Worth-based company haved held in Midland. They will be the guests of TESCO Director Jno. P. Butler, senior chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Midland and a member of TESCO's board since 1960.

"Texas Electric has been providing electric service to the Midland area for 53 years," said TESCO President Bill Marquardt, a former Midlander and manager of TESCO's Western Division, which includes Midland, from 1955 to 1962.

Midland is the center of a vital region which continues to provide about 20 percent of all American oil and natural gas energy resources, Marquardt

"We normally hold our board meetings at the corporate offices in Fort Worth," Marquardt said, but we were very pleased to accept Mr. Butler's invitation to meet in Midland and see firsthand some of the current economic development in this

The also will tour the new First National Bank building before convening in the bank's board room for their business session.

The tour will be conducted by Winston Barclay, TESCO's Western Division manager, and Harry Clark, senior vice president of First National Bank. Board members who will attend the meeting include Butler, Ed B. Collett, J.A. Gooch, Paul Leonard, and W.K. Stripling Jr., all of Fort Worth; Charles C. Thompson of Colorado City; Charles R. Perry of Odessa; and E. Bruce Street of Graham. Also attending will be B.B. Hulsey Jr., president of Texas Utilities Company, Dallas.

Ford Motor unveils first two-seater in generation

ST. THOMAS, Ontario (AP) - While Ford Motor Co. unveiled its first two-seater in a generation, the head of the auto company warned the domestic industry could become obsolete if production costs in other countries stay lower than costs in the United States and Canada.

The new subcompact, called EXP in the Ford version and the LN7 in the near-twin Mercury model, is Ford's first two-seater since the Thunderbird.

Diet doesn't always supply enough vitamins

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have been employed as a social worker at an institution for the mentally retarded for the past three months. At a recent staff meeting, we were told that some of the patients would be getting vitamin supplements. Apparently this is not a new procedure but it is put into effect from time to time. I don't want to rock the boat, but I recall reading in your column that vitamin supplements generally are not needed if a person has a well-balanced diet. It seems to me that if the institution provided such a diet, it wouldn't have to resort to vitamin supplements.

Don't you agree? — Cheryl.

Dear Cheryl: As you suggest, people who have nutritious, well-balanced meals generally obtain all the vita:nins, minerals, and other nutrients they require from the foods they eat. However, where a medical condition dictates, the use of vitamin supplements can be an appropriate form of treatment.

Although I obviously am unaware of you are employed, there are certain characteristics of mentally retarded individuals that might account from the decision to use vitamin supplements. Some patients, for example, are unable to consume hard, bulky foods; yet foods cooked to the point where they become soft may have lost much of their vitamin content. Some retarded patients are unable to eat by themselves or are unable to consume very much at any one meal. Still others may be on medication, such as anticonvulsants, that affects the ability of the body to use vitamins.

In one study of 150 retarded patients at Flower Hospital in New York City, Dr. Jack M. Cooperman found that 20 percent were deficient in folic acid, and 17 percent were riboflavin deficient. These deficiencies disappeared when the patients received the vitamins they needed.

Your concern for the patients is commendable and should be encouraged, but in this case the institution seems to be following acceptable medical practices.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've heard a great deal about the proposed use of vitamin C to treat cancer, probably because it is associated with a person of Dr. Linus Pauling's stature. What I'm wondering about is whether any other vitamins have been recommended as a cancer cure. — Sue. Dear Sue: Both vitamin A and E, which are essential to human health and life, but which have no proven value in the treatment of cancer, have been suggested. In addition, pangamic acid, which frequently is referred to as vitamin B15, has been touted. However, vitamin B15 is really not a vitamin and is not an accepted anticancer agent.

The problem with many of these suggested "cures" is not only that they cause the patient to delay the start of valid treatment, but the cures, themselves, may be dangerous. For example, vitamin A is a fat-soluble vitamin that can be stored in the body. But if too much vitamin A is accumulated, it actually can result

A Memory problems, confusion are sometimes associated with age

By KENNETH H. WOLF, MSSW, SP

Question: My father is 86 years old and has been in a nursing home for the last three years. He always used to be a very truthful person, but now he makes up the most outlandish lies and stories you could every imagine. He also is forever accusing people of stealing from him, but we usually find his "stolen" things right in his room where he left them. Does this usually happen with old age? Is there anything that can be done?

Answer: It is possible that your father is experiencing memory problems and confusion. Such difficulties are sometimes associated with the aging process. His outlandish stories are possible efforts on his part to fill in certain gaps in his memory. The term which is applied to this particular phenomenon is "confabulation." His "stories" should not be regarded as deliberate lying, since he probably recognizes at some level that he is losing parts of his memory and is probably attempting to compensate for this loss with stories that seem plausible to him.

In individuals with memory difficulties, it is not unusual for them to accuse others of stealing from them. This can be explained by recognizing that their memory deficit causes them to forget what they have done with their personal possessions. When they cannot find what they are looking for, they often assume that someone is stealing from them.

When changes occur in the brain due to the aging process, symptoms such as confusion, memory loss, disorientation and behavior problems may occur. These symptoms are explainable by realizing that as the brain loses part of its ability to function normally, such symptoms are likely to follow.

If such symptoms are due to brain deterioration, there is not much that can be done to restore prior functioning. However, such symptoms also may be due to depression which can be successfully treated. If the elderly person is taking a variety of medications for different problems, toxicity may develop which also can create such symptoms. A discussion with your father's doctor seems indicated to see what his ideas and recommen-

Question: Can a person with a mental health problem be forced into treatment against his will? What about people with just a regular medical problem? Answer: All of the states have laws governing the forced treatment of people with mental health problems. In Texas, the Mental Health Code stipulates that a person must be mentally ill and that he require observa-tion/treatment for his own welfare and protection or the protection of others. Since most mental health problems are not mental illnesses, a person cannot usually be forced into treatment against his will.

There is a trend in recent court decisions to require that a person be found specifically dangerous to himself or others as well as mentally ill in order to be forced into treatment. The required treatment may be delivered on an outpatient basis or in a hospital setting.

Treatment of mental health problems of a less severe nature than a "mental illness" is best achieved when the client is voluntarily participating. Therefore, the Mental Health Code does not allow for forcing such persons into treatment.

Rackets testimony continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government informer today identified a Miami longshoremen's union official, Douglas Rago, as a Mafia member who protects organized crime interests in waterfront extortion, bribery and kickback schemes.

"I was told explicitly that Doug Rago was a 'made' member of the Gerfovese family," George H. Wagner said in testimony prepared for the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

Wagner was called to testify as part of the subcommittee's effort to prove Mafia control of the ILA, the union representing dockworkers at East Coast ports and the target of a five-year federal rackets investigation which has yielded 110 convictions.

Rago, vice president of the Miami local, was not indicted during that investigation and has not been previously identified as a Mafia member in any public proceedings.

A copy of Wagner's written testimony was obtained by The Associated Press in advance of the hearing. Attempts to reach Rago for comment were delayed until Wagner, considered by federal authorities to be in danger, completed his statement.

A "made" member is underworld slang for a criminal who has been formally inducted into one of the crime families known collectively as the Mafia or La Cosa Nostra. The Genovese family is one of five in New York City and is still known by the name of its one-time boss, the late Vito Genovese.

Wagner, a lifelong criminal and one-time "bag man" who collected payoff money for Miami ILA leaders George Barone and Bill Boyle, said he became a government informer after falling into disfavor with Barone and Boyle in 1975.

Wagner testified for the government in the 1980 Miami trial which resulted in the conviction of Barone, Boyle, and other ILA leaders on racketeering charges. He subsequently entered the federal witness protection program and was furnished with a new identity and relocated to an undisclosed city.

Six freed in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP) — University of Mexico officials negotiated early today with three armed men who stormed the school rectory and held the rector's personal secretary hostage, witnesses said.

There were seven hostages when the takeover began Tuesday afternoon, but the officials persuaded the captors to free six of them before midnight. The officials, who asked not to be identified, said the men were students from a preparatory school here who complained that the university discriminated against applicants from their school.

The officials said they told the occupiers they would not be jailed and their complaints would be investigated if they released the secretary, Leopoldo Silva.

University officials said the three men first demanded an airplane and wanted to fly to the United States, but quickly changed and said they wanted asylum in an unspecified embassy.

The men were said to be about 18 years old and armed with a submachinegun, a pistol and a rifle.

Witnesses said the three burst into the rector's office on the sixth floor of the 12-story rectory building and began smashing furniture. Rector Octavio Rivera, hearing the racket, escaped through a back door, campus police said. The seven people in the outer office were taken hostage. There was no shooting, witnesses

The University, one of the largest in the world with about 200,000 students, has its own police force.

Winners in the VFW Post 7208 Voice of Democracy scriptwriting scholarship contest are, from left, Ralph Kenney of Midland High School, first place and a $300 bond; Jennifer King of Lee High School, second and a $250 bond; and Jimmy Moseley of Lee High School, third and a $150 bond. Kenney also went on to place first in the District 25 program and fourth in the state program, winning additional scholarships of $300 and $250. Arthur D. Hunsinger, district and local VOD chairman, presented the bonds at Post 7208's sixth annual banquet held Monday night. (Staff Photo)

Human rights group blasts Guatemalan leader RHUBARB

By ROBERT PARRY Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The top level of the Guatemalan government has overseen a widespread campaign of torture and political murder that claimed about 3,000 lives last year,

Amnesty International claims. The London-based human rights organization charged that the terror campaign is directly controlled by the nation's president, Romero Lucas Garcia, and is run from an annex of the National Palace.

"The bodies of the victims have been found piled up in ravines, dumped at roadsides or buried in mass graves," the Amnesty International report stated. "Thousands bore the scars of torture and death had come to most by strangling with a garrotte, by being suffocated in rubber hoods or by being shot in the head."

The government of Guatemala, a strategically located country in north Central America, has denied responsibility for the killings, blaming the violence on right- and left-wing extremists.

The mounting civil strife in Guatemala and in neighboring El Salvador is presenting the Reagan administration with its first major foreign policy

Administration officials have vowed to help allied governments threatened by left-wing insurgency while not publicly criticizing alleged human rights abuses by pro-American leaders.

Guatemala's government, which claims to be in a "life or death" struggle with left-wing guerrillas, had been under pressure from the Carter administration to reduce human rights violations.

Last week, the State Department in its annual review of human rights worldwide listed Guatemala's "official security forces" along with "armed extremists of the left and right" as responsible for hundreds of political killings last year. -

But in a 32-page report released Tuesday, Amnesty International quoted former Guatemalan officials, a survivor of alleged torture, and unnamed "reliable sources in Guatemala" as stating that the killings were part of a systematic government terror campaign.

The human rights organization said the death toll from the alleged government campaign totalled about 3,-000 people during the first 10 months of 1980, with hundreds of others still

Jordan breaks relations with Iran

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) - Jordan broke diplomatic relations with Iran today and called home the Jordanian diplomatic mission from Tehran, the government announced.

A statement said the move was in response to Iran's recent decision to sever ties with Jordan because of King Hussein's support of Iraq in the Persian Gulf war.

Garwod's trial not over despite end of court-martial

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — After 13 weeks and one day, the court-martial of Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood is over. But Garwood's trials have not ended.

Col. R.E. Switzer, the presiding judge, lowered the final gavel on the court-martial Tuesday after turning down two defense motions - one asking him to declare a mistrial and another asking him to overturn the guilty verdict returned two weeks ago by a five-man jury of Marine offi-

Garwood, 34, an Indiana native, was convicted on five counts of collaborating with the enemy during two of the 14 years he was a prisoner in Vietnam. He also was convicted of assaulting another American POW.

Though Garwood could have been sentenced to life in prison, the jurors - all Vietnam veterans - voted instead to dishonorably discharge him and ordered him to forfeit all pay from the date of his conviction.

and acts on it.

None of this is official until the base commander, Maj. Gen. David Barker, reviews the court-martial record Barker can affirm the verdict and sentence, overturn them or reduce the sentence. Officials said the review could take weeks. If Barker affirms the verdict, Garwood's attorneys say they plan to appeal all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

There is also the matter of pay.

During Garwood's captivity, some $147,000 in back pay piled up. The court-martial jury did not have au-thority to order him to forfeit that money, but the government has not paid Garwood. Garwood's attorneys have filed suit in the U.S. Court of Claims seeking the money. Meanwhile, Bill Andrews, the civilian district attorney in nearby Jack-sonville, said this week he would decide later this week whether to go to trial in another case. Garwood was charged last fall with sexual molestation of a 7-year-old girl.

If convicted, Garwood could face up to 10 years in prison.

During the court-martial, Garwood's attorneys did not dispute testimony from former POWs who said Garwood served his captors as an interpreter and that he guarded other Americans and informed on them.

The defense team argued Garwood was driven insane by deprivation and torture and could not understand the criminality of his acts.

A parade of psychiatrists — called by both the defense and the government — testified Garwood remains mentally disabled and suffers from at least two mental diseases.

In turning down a motion for acquittal, Switzer said his review of testimony led him to conclude that the prosecution proved Garwood's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

First court-martial of middie in 58 years resumes Friday court-martial of a U.S. Naval Academy midshipman in 58 years will get back under way Friday following a recess so prosecutors can study a defense motion seeking to suppress some evidence. Midshipman Michael R. Olmstead

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) - The first is charged with culpable negligence. or involuntary manslaughter, in the May 11 death of classmate Scott D. Thomas of Statesboro, Ga.

The two were returning from liberty when a car driven by Olmstead, a 21 year-old senior from Haddon Heights, N.J., went out of control on the academy grounds, struck a tree and rolled over, officials say.

Olmstead is the first midshipman to face a court martial since a student was convicted - but never sentenced in November 1922 of illegally hazing another midshipman, according to the academy.

Defense lawyer Lt. Cmdr. John Holt argued in a motion filed Friday that the car was illegally searched and seized by Noel D. Nelms of the Naval Investigation Service.

The presiding judge, Capt. Keith D.

Lawrence, Tuesday granted the pros-ecution a three-day delay to prepare a response to the motion.

The motion says academy officials authorized towing of the wrecked vehicle to a service station off the academy grounds. Holt said Nelms later recovered the car and searched it without a warrant.

He asked Lawrence to order the suppression of photographs and any other evidence obtained by the government through Nelms' actions.

"If the search is illegal, then the government's whole case may fall by the wayside," Holt told the judge. The prosecutor, Lt. David Acton, characterized the suppression motion as "a major matter, coming out so late. It's disruptive.' Olmstead, who received minor injuries in the wreck, is scheduled to be tried before a jury of five to seven naval officers. A two-thirds vote is needed for conviction. The defendant, who has been attending classes, faces a maximum sentence of dismissal from the academy and three years' confinement.

Shuttle test delay will give watchers spectacular sight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) -A delay in the preparations for testing the main engines of the space shuttle Columbia raises the possibility the rocket might be test-fired after dark, providing a spectacular sight for observers.

Project officials were meeting today to decide whether to attempt the firing late Thursday or delay it until Friday morning. The decision may hinge on how much film documentation would be lost if the three engines are ignited in darkness.

Launch crews fell more than six hours behind schedule late Tuesday in the 21/2-day countdown, which is a rehearsal for Columbia's scheduled maiden launch.

The test is intended to determine whether the shuttle is ready to carry two astronauts into space for 54 hours on April 7 after being delayed more than two years by technical diffi-

The countdown wasn't halted Tuesday. Instead, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration planned for an eight-hour hold in the countdown later to allow for catch-up work and to give the control team some rest before the final hours of the

The hold pushed the planned firing of the engines at least eight hours beyond Thursday's originally planned 7:40 a.m EST and raised the possibility of a nighttime ignition, which would light the sky for miles around.

The three shuttle engines form the most sophisticated rocket power plant ever made and will generate 1.4 million pounds of thrust during the scheduled 20-second burst.

Film documentation of the firing is vital, especially if something should NASA said the main reason for the delay was that it was taking launch crews longer than planned to get the feel of the first shuttle countdown.

The rehearsal duplicates all phases the insertion of the two astronauts, John Young and Bob Crippen, into the Columbia's cockpit.

NASA and the Defense Department plan by 1984 to operate a fleet of four or five shuttles for both military and space missions. Each will land back on earth like an airliner and will be capable of 100 or more round trips into space.

Support loss would destroy plant

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industry backers of a $1.4 billion synthetic fuels plant in West Virginia say they can live with some cutbacks in federal funding for the project, but that a total loss of federal support would destroy the effort.

"I don't believe the project in its present form could be continued, because of the cost and risk," said R.A. Flinn, vice president of Solvent Refined Coal International Inc., the firm set up to build the plant. "It's just not the sort of thing that private enterprise can do alone.

Flinn told a House subcommittee Tuesday that SRC International is seeking new financial partners because of reports federal funding for the project may be

Cutbacks in synfuel support are among the options being considered by the White House Office of Management and Budget in its effort to reduce federal spend-

However, Energy Secretary Edwards told reporters Tuesday he does not expect huge cuts in the synfuels program. "If they are necessary, we will try some way to fund them," Edwards said after a meeting with congressmen from coal-producing states.

Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., emerged from the meeting with Edwards saying he thinks "we can work something out" to rescue the proposed $475 billion Southern Illinois coal gasification plant from the budget ax.

Simon said it appeared certain President Reagan's proposed budget cuts would seek elimination of both the Illinois project and a similar one in Noble County, Ohio "in the initial recommendation."

"But I left the meeting feeling that we can work something out," Simon said.

Reagan is addressing a joint session of Congress tonight to detail some of his proposed spending cuts. Flinn, testifying before the House Government Operations subcommittee on environment, energy and natural resources, said the industry "recognizes the budget problems the country has now. But he said the Morgantown, W.Va., project is simply too risky for Gulf Oil Corp., the industrial backer of the plant, to increase its financial commitment. "We feel that Gulf's contribution is appropriate for a company of its size," he said.

Flinn said he has discussed the financing during the last three days with both Edwards and with top executive officers of Gulf Oil.

The talks with Edwards dealt with "the possibility that other partners might be brought in," Flinn said, and SRC International is looking for those partners.

Gulf's share of the project totals $100 million, but critics charge that its total cash commitment will reach only $14 million, because of adjustments such as credit for money spent earlier on research. Other backers of the plant are the Energy Department, which is putting $785 million into the plant, and the governments of West Germany and Japan, which are paying about $350 million each, less licensing fees paid to Gulf. When completed in 1984, the plant will turn some 6,000 tons of coal a day into a "synthetic crude" that can be burned in boilers or refined into transportation fuels such as gasoline or jet fuel.

Gulf now operates a pilot plant at Fort Lewis, Wash., that produces small amounts of synthetic crude

Exxon to increase U.S. spending

By WILLIAM GLASGALL

NEW YORK (AP) - Exxon Corp. said Tuesday it plans to sharply increase its spending in the United States on enhanced recovery, the forcing of oil and natural gas out of deposits where they cannot be reached by conventional means.

The Exxon USA division of the world's largest oil company will spend $150 million on enhanced recovery projects this year, an outlay "more than four times as large" as its 1980 expenditures for similar ventures, a spokesman said.

The money represents about 9 percent of Exxon's planned domestic oil and gas production spending this year and 1.4 percent of its announced $11 billion 1981 capital budget.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said much of the $150 million would be spent on a "secondary recovery" project at the Prudhoe Bay oil field in Alaska, where water will be pumped into the field to force petroleum into wells.

ing, already is used in 40 percent of all domestic oil production, according to a Standard Oil Co. of California report

Beyond secondary recovery, the spokesman said Exxon plans to spend $50 million on unidentified "tertiary recovery" ventures "on the frontier of technology development."

Exxon's 1981 U.S. oil production totaled 690,000 barrels a day. Its do-mestic gas output came to 3.5 billion cubic feet daily.

Enhanced recovery involves the use of heat or injection of water, chemicals or gases to push out oil left behind or never reached in earlier recovery attempts. Use of these techniques has been increasing as oilprice increases boost the attractiveness of deposits previously thought to be marginal.

According to Batelle Memorial Institute, a Columbus, Ohio-based research organization, about 45 billion 42-gallon barrels of oil — or 1.5 times today's proved U.S. oil reserves could be produced from previously unrecoverable deposits using en-

Decontrol said one cause of hikes

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan's decision to decontrol domestic oil prices has been partly responsible for price increases of 7 to 9 cents per gallon for gasoline, oil industry executives said today.

But the executives of Gulf Oil and Chevron U.S.A. said some of the price increase would have occurred even without decontrol, and at any rate would have come about anyway if the controls had been lifted Sept. 30, as originally scheduled.

R.R. Bowles, general manager of Chevron U.S.A., and Charles H. Bowman, senior vice president of Gulf Oil Refining and Marketing, also noted in testimony to a House subcommittee that an estimated 75 percent of the price increases are going to the government as federal taxes.

"The basic factors that make decontrol now a very timely decision are being lost in the controversy over the effect of decontrol on product prices," complained Bowman.

The testimony came before the House Energy subcommittee on fossil and synthetic fuels.

Reagan announced his decision to lift controls on domestic oil last month, with predictions by Energy Secretary James Edwards that the decision might raise gasoline prices by 3 to 5 cents per gallon. Instead, prices have soared by twice that amount.

But Bowman said factors besides decontrol are important. He said lower demand during the last quarter of 1980 eroded industry profits, keeping prices artifically low while crude oil prices were going up.

A principal cause of increasing crude prices was a $3 to $4 per barrel increase by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Bowman said. The original gradual decontrol schedule was adding about $1 per barrel per month to the cost, he said, and most oil already was decontrolled and thus matching the world market

"All of these factors added up to unrecovered raw materials costs of about 15 to 20 cents per gallon," Bowman said. "Of these total increased costs, we estimate that for Gulf, 7 to 9 cents per gallon is directly attributable to the effects of decontrol. "The balance is due to factors already in progress at the time of decontrol and are increases that would have occurred anyway and had to be passed through to the consumer.

"Gulf has increased its prices by 8 cents per gallon since decontrol and by 12 cents per gallon since year's end, considerably short of the cost increases we have incurred," he

Neither official would speculate on future gasoline prices, saying they had no way of knowing what impact OPEC would have on world crude oil However, Rep. Edward J. Markey.

D-Mass., pressed the issue by citing reports that some OPEC members want a $50 per-barrel price by late spring, compared with about $35 If that happened, Bowles said, gaso-
