Budget boosters begin sales campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan and his top economic strategists began today the tough job of selling a multi-billion-dollar mix of tax and spending cuts to Congress, where enthusiastic Republicans already were hearing from him prominent Democratic critics.

Reagan told news media executives in the White House East Room that "the people are ready" for his economic program, and he discounted widespread criticism from labor leaders. "Sometimes they're out of step with their rank and file," he said. "They were in the last election."

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan praised the president's proposals at the White House breakfast as "one of the most stimulating things to happen to the American economy." He and budget director David A. Stockman then carried the message to Capitol Hill.

urged Congress to approve Reagan's tax and budget cutting cans control the Senate, the Democrats retain a majority in the proposals "rapidly and as a package."

The two Cabinet officials testified barely 12 hours after the president recommended spending cuts of $41 billion for 1982 and tax cuts that would be worth $1,456 over four years ending in 1984 for a middle-income family of four.

Reagan, in office only 29 days, pronounced the government "somewhat out of control." He said his "program for economic recovery" would balance the budget, halve inflation and create 3 million new jobs by 1984.

'There is nothing wrong with America that we can't fix," he said Wednesday in a nationally televised speech to a joint proposed to do. session of Congress. "The people are watching and waiting. Saying the Re They don't demand miracles, but they do expect us to act."

He proposed turning the nation away from policies of spend-ing and regulatory control that have held sway since the New Baker conceded that debate on tax cuts, which Reagan said

"Have they an alternative which offers a greater chance?" he asked.

"And if they haven't, are they suggesting we can continue on the present course?'

But even Reagan's staunchest supporters conceded the president wouldn't get everything he wanted from Congress, where Democrats already were raising objections about the size of the board tax cut. This is an inflationary tax cut.'

Most favor cuts; One Texan decries 'war on the poor'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Many Texas congressmen are calling President Reagan's plan to slash federal spending workable and desirable, but there is at least one exception.

"I must reiterate that I'm really sorry that the president has declared war on the poor, particularly the working poor," Rep. Mickey Leland, a Houston Democrat, said Wednesday after Reagan addressed Congress.

Leland, the only black member of the state's congressional delegation, said such cuts as the ones Reagan proposed for food stamp and school

Jefferson is smiling down on us to-night," Rep. Bill Archer, a Houston Republican, said at a hometown news conference.

He called Reagan's program comprehensive and courageous.

"It is a well thought out plan calling for a return to greater state and local government control - a plan which challenges the private sector to bring this nation out of its economic dilemma," Archer, a member of the taxwriting House Ways and Means Committee, said.

Rep. Jim Collins, a Dallas Republican, said ne was prepared farther with tax and spending cuts than the president proposed.

lunch programs would have a devastating effect.

"I'm optimistic that we're going to get a significant coalition going to block some of the president's proposals," Leland said. "But I think we're going to lose in some significant areas.

Other Texas congressmen jumped in with praise for the president's program.

Rep. Phil Gramm, a College Station Democrat, said he was enthusiastic.

"I've been waiting for 10 years for a president to level with the American people about how severe our problem he said. "I think the president has done that and I'm going to support him.

Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, who has emerged as the spokesman for a group of almost 40 conservative Democrats, said the mood on Capitol Hill generally is one of support for the president.

"The quicker we get on with the program, the better off we'll be," he said

Stenholm said his main problem would be going along with a tax cut if it means a budget deficit will continue

"Obviously, I strongly agree with the general direction that the president's program has taken even though I've got some unanswered questions," he said, "On balance, there's not a great deal of it that I'm going to have problems with."

Texas Republicans greeted the president's program with extravagent praise.

"I'm very excited, tremendously excited. In fact, I think you can say I'm bordering on ecstasy," Rep. Jack Fields, a freshman Republican from Humble, said. "I feel we're truly at the proverbial fork in the road.'

"I feel like the spirit of Thomas

"I'd go way beyond it," he said. "But as a practical political matter, most people are not as conservative as they are in Dallas, Texas."

Collins said he thought Reagan suggested about as much in the way of cuts as the American people are prepared to swallow.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said he had "serious concern" about Reagan's call for a 10 percent tax cut in each of the next three years.

"I can well understand the political popularity of massive personal income tax cuts, but locking this country into a 30 percent tax cut over a three-year period will obviously stimulate consumption dramatically. That will spur inflation and that, in turn, leads to bigger deficits and even higher interest rates," Bentsen said. "He has a better chance to get a one-year, 10 percent cut than what he is proposing.

In a statement that followed a White House briefing, the senator said he agreed with the need to cut federal spending.

"I've supported that and I'm going to try to be helpful to the president,' Bentsen said.

Rep. J.J. Pickle, an Austin Democrat who is also on the ways and means committee, echoed Bentsen's doubts about the extent of the tax cuts

He said Congress might be "a little more careful" than the program Reagan proposed.

'I think the president gets an Oscar for his appeal, for his sincerity and for his personal commitment for tax cuts and for a cut in spending," Pickle said. "I would think the Congress probably would have a little bit less on both spending cuts and tax cuts."

A Vacaville, Calif., man is being held in the county jail this morning under $100,000 bond for the murder of 17-year-old Midland High School student Karen Wynell Rickey.

Her mutilated body was discovered shortly before 8 a.m. Wednesday, just inside a barbed wire fence on the west side of County Road 1110 South, a half-mile south of the Garden City Highway

Charged with her death is Stephen Wayne Morse, 19, who was employed by a Pasadena, Calif., geophysical survey firm doing work in Midland Count

He was arrested at Midland Park Mall about 12:15 p.m. Wednesday, following an intensive investigation by the sheriff's department, assisted by city police and Texas Rangers.

As of this morning, sheriff's investigators were awaiting an autopsy report to determine the exact cause of death and a motive has yet to be established, said Lt. Pat Fuller, who is supervising the on-going investigation.

The Rickey girl, a junior at Midland High and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rickey of 817 W. Golf Course Road, apparently was run over by a car and beaten with a large rock. A blood-soaked rock was found at the scene, which is about seven miles east of Midland.

The barbed wire fence was down, indicating a vehicle had driven across it into the barren field where her body was found.

The vehicle then apparently was driven back across the fence in leaving the area.

Evidence at the scene led investigators to the Desert Inn Motel on the Bankhead Highway.

Upon arrival, officers said several residents of the motel were questioned and the trail wound up at Midland Park Mall, where Morse was placed under arrest on a murder warrant signed by Justice of the Peace Charlie Sprayberry, who later set the $100,000 bond.

A 1970s model Dodge Coronet was found near a lounge on the Garden City Highway and is being held as evidence in the case.

Other officers involved in the investigation included Capt. R.A. Stratton, Deputy David Cobos, Sgt. C.W. Cupp, Investigator Benny Matlock, Chief Deputy George Thompson, Sgt. L.E. Hunter, Sgt. Bernie Fishback and Investigator Bret Grove, all of the Sheriff's Department, along with Texas Ranger David Byrnes. City police also aided in the probe.

The Rickey girl's body was taken to Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home, where services are pending.

Hospital again posts month of record revenue

By SUE FAHLGREN Staff Writer

Midland Memorial Hospital trustees learned Wednesday the hospital once again had a record revenue month during January when patient revenues amounted to more than $1.5 million.

The increased revenues, which do not reflect the recent room rate increases, topped the latest record set in October at $1.425 million.

Trustee Doug Scharbauer, who advised the board of the matter, cautioned, "The room rate increase took effect Feb. 1 and does not affect the fact that we had a record revenue month in January.

Before depreciation is figured in, the hospital shows $92,734 in excess revenue for the month. For the yearto-date before depreciation is figured, the hospital has some $177,777 in ex-

After depreciation, the hospital is reporting a deficit for the month of $1,016. The financial officers were expecting a deficit for January of $35,600, as outlined in the budget, leaving the hospital with a favorable variance of $34,583 for the month, Scharbauer said.

For the year to date, the hospital records show a deficit of more than $197,000. The budget predicted by the end of January a year-to-date deficit of more than $452,000. So, the hospital is some $255,000 in the black of budget expectations.

Patients per day at the hospital averaged 136.6 for January, while 132.5 were expected for the month's average. The hospital is currently treating more than 13 inpatients a day

If smokers had a group akin to Alcoholics Anonymous it would be the Seventh-Day Adventist's Five-Day Plan.

Some 35 Midlanders gathered Wednesday night at Midland College for their third day of "sobriety" as they underwent their fourth class on how to "kick the habit."

The free course, which began Sunday, is an international, non-denominational one made famous by the church. The Five-Day Plan offers films, physicians and ministers to teach smokers about the ill effects of the habit and to encourage them to quit.

Rex Frost, pastor of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church in Midland, said one of the reasons the program is so successful is "we come at it from all different angles."

He said the church members believe smoking is a social, physical, psychological and spiritual habit. 'Man is a whole person," Frost said, "and we need to attack the smoking habit from all of those different angles. We have to educate the people and motivate them to stop.'

The motivation for the individual comes from different influences: their health, their family, their selfesteem - even their wallet. But the initial encouragement is what all smokers need to quit.

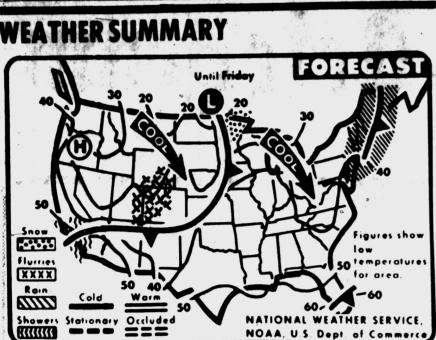

"The principals that we follow are really out of the Bible," Frost said, adding, however, that the church members do not stress religion in the

"They (the smokers) didn't come here to get religion," he explained. "They came here to quit smoking. Now if there's a spiritual feeling aroused, that's fine. God can do that.

Some 12 to 15 smokers attending the sessions have already given up smoking completely since Sunday, he said. Others are slowly weaning away from the pack or two they had puffed on daily

The five days of evening sessions include films on lungs, heart and other organs and bodily functions affected by smokers, in addition to lectures from local doctors on the subject. Pastoral services include group discussions on reactions and encouragement to continue, including ideas on what to do when "you get the urge. In addition, the program includes a booklet with a different section for each of the five nights including possible withdrawl effects the smoker may experience - and what to do about them - and things the smoker can eat to curb his desire for cigarettes. Dr. Larry Rusk, local dentist and member of the team teaching the course, said part of the problem smokers have in quitting is giving up things they do when they smoke like drinking. Rusk said smokers have to "get along without coffee, tea or alcoholic beverages, as well as tobacco. These beverages weaken the willpower and encourage a craving for tobacco," he continued.

We have placed them on a diet of fruit, fruit juices and water - without other foods — for the first day," Rusk explained. "This diet is designed to hasten the elimination of poisons (nicotine) in the body which have accumulated through the use of tobac-CO.

The plan was developed by the church in New England with one of the first courses in Claremont, N.H., the course, 30 quit smoking. Since that time, preliminary surveys have revealed that by the third day of group therapy, approximately 50 percent of the participants lose their craving for tobacco and some 70 percent either lose it or have controlled it by the fifth day.

Part of the willpower to quit comes from a self-help sentiment. As Frost told the group Wednesday, the smokers have to think: "I choose not to smoke today." And, gradually, the smoker can increase that to longer periods of time into a week, a month or a year.

Cardiologist Dr. Brian Mohr addressed the group Wednesday night on complications smoking causes on the heart.

A former smoker himself, Dr. Mohr began by saying "the first manifestations of heart disease in two-thirds of the population is death.'

He went on to say that death from any cause is nearly twice as fast for the smoker. Death from heart disease in the smoker is three times the normal risk, while chances of death for smokers who have had one heart attack and continue to smoke is nine times higher than those who don't smoke.

For smokers who quit, Mohr said, the likelihood in each of these incidences drops to "just about normal" within about two years.

Mohr also gave some encouraging advice to the smokers. "I know how hard it is to quit," he said. "It's a terrible addiction — it's even worse than alcoholism. I've known smokers who were also alcoholics and they could quit drinking, but they couldn't quit smoking.

'This is the hardest part," he continued. "After Day Three, it's downhill all the way.'

After the group ends, Frost said, "a lot of them will become discouraged." So, the church members will "continue to call them and encourage them" to continue

Frost said he hoped the program would be presented more regularly in "We are ende present it as a continuing thing," he said, adding he hoped to have such a course three to four times a year. The next such program is tentatively set for the latter part of May. "We'd like to have it on a continuing basis so the people in the community can know that they can have the help to quit," Frost said.

Butler announces for Place 4 on Midland school board

'My main concern in running is to give future direction to the school district in expansion programs, teacher salaries and student disclipine at all grade levels," said Michael Butler in announcing his candidacy for the Place 4 school board seat held by Marshall McCrea.

Butler, 34, graduated from Texas A&M University in 1968 and holds a degree in political science and public administration. He's done a year's graduate work in public administration at North Texas State University.

Prior to going to work for the city in 1974 as a traffic safety coordinator and administrative assistant to City Manager James Brown, Butler served three years in the army, with a 1½-year tour of duty in Vietnam as an operations officer.

He became assistant director of public works for the city in 1977. He's a past president of the Midland A&M Club, and a former member of the Downtown Lions Club, the Civil Air Patrol, Permian Toastmasters Club, and the Midland Civil Defense Unit.

Butler graduated from the Leadership Midland Class in August of 1980 and was a leader for the City of Midland in the 1980 United Way campaign. He also has worked on various state boards for the governor's office on traffic safety. "At present," he said, "some criti-cal bills are before the state Senate concerning statewide group insurance for teachers that I feel the school board should take a stand on.

Area men join opposition for Odessa cancer equipment

Two Midlanders have joined the fight with Midland Memorial Hospital to oppose Odessa Medical Center Hospital's application for a cancer treatment machine. Filing their opposition with the Permian Basin Health Systems Agency (PBHSA), Reagan Legg and Charles Aldridge say the application for the 6MEV in Odessa will financially hurt the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center, causing an increased tax burden for them Medical Center Hospital has applied for a certificate of need to replace its cobalt radiation unit with a 6MEV linear accelerator — the major piece of equipment to be installed in the Allison Center in March and expected to have the heaviest use.

MMH is opposing approval for Odessa's 6MEV as hospital officials feel the installation of an additional cancer machine of this sophistication within the 17-county HSA II area will be detrimental to the financial stability of the Allison Center.

Legg and Aldridge became "unattached" third parties to the suit that will come before the Texas Health Facilities review committee next week in Austin. That committee will hear testimony from both sides of the case beginning Wednesday and lasting through Thursday.

Legg and Aldridge are expected to appear at the hearing, along with officials from both hospitals, attorneys and members of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

more than the budgeted average for the year-to-date of 125.6, currently totaling 138.8 a day for the year-todate average.

The hospital reported 151 beds available for patients during January and will open seven additional beds this week, Scharbauer said.

Average days in accounts receivable increased during January to 93.3 from the recent low of 86.2 days recorded in December. Scharbauer said the increase was due in part to the increased revenues and to "several actions in the business office done to increase the days." He said he expected the average to decrease considerably during the next month because of new procedures in the business office. Scharbauer added Administrator Ray Branson hoped to drop the number of days to 70 by the end of the fiscal year in September. Bad debts for January totaled $75,- 490, which Scharbauer said represents 5.02 percent of the total billing for the month. Overall, the bad debt list is improving, since in October they were running at 9 percent of the total billing.

Indigent care at the facility amounted to $43.075.

In other board news, Branson reported that Assistant Administrator of Finance Robert B. Abernethy had filed his resignation as of March 20 to take a position with Hospital Affiliates International.

Branson said Abernethy "has received one of those good offers you just can't turn down." Branson added the new position affords Abernethy "upward mobility that is a bit limited in a community hospital." Branson also announced the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals will review the laboratory on March 18 and 19. The hospital-wide review is scheduled for April.

Trustee Richard Gibson reported the addition of two final items to the hospital's insurance package: boiler and machinery coverage for business interruptions and increased liability coverage

The board also heard updates on the implementation of the Tribrook study recommendations for the occupational therapy unit, the anesthesia department and the respiratory therapy department.

The trustees also gave their support to Hospice's application to the Texas Health Facilities Commission for a certificate of need for their operations here.

Stranded man burns cabins; Forest Service wants damages

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP) - After four days stranded in a mountain snowstorm, John R. Miles, a 56-year-old diabetic, figured he didn't have long to live. So he set fire to two cabins in an attempt to attract rescuers.

Miles contends he had a "moral right" to torch the government-owned buildings. But the U.S. Forest Service wanted its cabins included in the National Historic Register and is seeking $80,000 in restitu-

"The federal government spends millions every year to save people, and all I did was spend a couple of thousand dollars to try and save myself," Miles said in an interview earlier this week from his bed in West Shoshone General Hospital here. He has since been released.

"I had a moral right and a moral obligation to do what I did. If they sue me, I'll fight," said Miles, a resident of Sheridan, Wyo.

"We're all dumbfounded and shocked by what happened to those beautiful cabins up there," said Vic Lees, Shoshone County undersheriff.

Miles' saga began Feb. 7 with a trip to Seattle to ee a terminally ill nephew. Miles passed through Wallace, near the Montana border, but said he became confused by a detour sign on Interstate 90 and failed to notice he was on the wrong road.

He then found himself driving up remote Spyglass Mountain Road, with snow falling heavily and darkness descending.

When his car could go no farther, Miles hiked down the mountain to a vacant camp, the Magee Ranger Station in the Coeur d'Alene National Forest, found an open building and spent the night sandwiched between two bedrolls.

Miles said he ate only snow, two black potatoes, two carrots, a half-cup of margarine and some maple syrup while stranded.

Snelson bill would aid handicapped

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland feels he's come up with a bill that is bound to appeal to his colleagues: a proposal to help handicapped children that will save the state money in the long run. Snelson held a press conference Wendesday to announce introduction of SB 630, a measure designed to provide services to handicapped children from birth to three years of age.

Cost of the program would be $10 million for the biennium, but Snelson says the program would be far less expensive than institutionalizing the children at a later age - and yould assist them in overcon their handicaps. Snelson says the legislation would make use of Interim Study Committee on Early Childhood Intervention, which Snelson chaired.

The program would attempt to provide develop-mental services during the most critical period, Snelson said

"We are at the dawning of another era in services for the handicapped child," Snelson said. "This legislation seeks to establish a solid foundation for evolution of a statewide early childhood intervention system," he added.

He estimated that it would cost $3,000 per child under the legislation, compared to $17,000 to $24,000 per child for institutional care - so that the measure

The standard-bearer

There have been fears voiced since Ronald Reagan took office Jan. 20 that the emphasis formerly placed on human rights worldwide by President Jimmy Carter will be undermined and that, in effect, the crusade for human rights will take a back seat to other concerns.

To backtrack from our posture on basic human rights would be a mistake. To continually push for recognition of human rights worldwide in a realistic manner is the proper course for the Reagan administration and the one we believe the president is espousing.

President Reagan has indicated this nation would not become involved in the internal policies of other nations. That does not mean his administration would hesitate to speak out against obvious and blatant violations of human rights.

There definitely is a need for the United States to continue to stress recognition of basic human rights throughout the world. A recent evaluation of global human rights by Freedom House, a non-partisan, private U.S. organization, noted that in 1980 only about a third of the U.N. member nations could be labeled free societies. Furthermore, the evaluation indicated that more than 1.9 billion people living in 62 nations are "not free." And people in 76 other nations were in some way restricted in their practice of political and civil liberties and, thus, only "partly free."

It's a well-known fact throughout the world that Americans enjoy a greater degree of freedom than any other people. Other nations look up to us for the life we are allowed to enjoy.

It becomes imperative, then, that the United States champion freedom and human rights throughout the world.

For example, we may not get involved physically in Poland's struggles for greater liberty. But we can lend moral support; we can stress that the Polish people continue their struggles because freedom is worth the price.

That doesn't mean we have to become righteously indignant every time there is an incident in another country that does not please us. Other nations are developing more slowly, generally, than the United States developed. And the early days of this nation were no bed of roses. So, it can be dangerous, sometimes, to measure others by our own yardstick.

But this nation should never diminish its support for freedom and human rights. If we don't carry that standard, no one will.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND Amin toyed with plan to help free hostages

WASHINGTON - One of the most bizarre footnotes to the Iranian hostage crisis was the intercession of exiled Ugandan dictator Idi Amin on behalf of the imprisoned Americans. The brutal Amin is an unlikely peacemaker. Yet in an unsolicited statement from exile, he volunteered to intervene as a mediator to free the hostages from Ayatollah Khomeini's clutches. The offer came to nothing and was quickly forgotten.

But I can now report the even more bizarre origins of Amin's cameo appearance in the hostage drama. Amin was led on by an American con man and gunrunner named Frank Terpil, who had supplied Amin with military equipment and was conspiring with him to arrange a triumphant return to advice and promises; he even offered to help Amin return to Uganda. And Amin sounded confident that his comeback would be as easy and triumphant as Napoleon's return from

ART BUCHWALD

Even the lunar surface can't match NYC's streets

The Grumman Company, which built vehicles for the moon, and which is one of the leaders in space technology, has been having trouble building a bus that won't collapse when it tries to get from 23rd Street to 57th Street on Madison Avenue in New York City.

This has caused tremendous consternation in engineering circles. How can someone develop a lunar lander for the moon without any difficulty and not be able to build a bus for New York and other cities?

I discussed this with an urban transportation expert, and he said the Grumman people were not at fault. "Building a bus for New York City is not the same as developing a moon vehicle. There were so many unknown factors that Grumman had to deal with. New York streets have a far harsher atmosphere than the moon. For one thing, New York's craters are much larger than anything up there. For another, the environment in Manhattan is so unpredictable that no one can be sure what pressures a bus will encounter when it tries to crawl across town."

"But surely the Grumman people must have tested its Flxible bus before it delivered it."

"Of course they did, but all they had to go on were aerial maps of Manhattan taken from five miles up.

'They had no idea what they would face once the Flxible model was actually put on a street. Everything worked perfectly in the lab, and Grumman scientists were certain

tion with some banter about one of the dictator's favorite movies: "The their bus could hold up under the toughest jobs it would have to perform on Earth. But unfortunately. when you're dealing with an unknown crust, such as New York City, you have to expect setbacks.

'We now think we know what the problem is.

"What's that?"

"Grumman didn't realize that the buses would carry people. So they failed to make the trunnion strong enough to support the frame. After four blocks, the frame developed cracks, the trunnion collapsed against the wheel, and the bus couldn't move. Urban mass transportation is still not an exact science, and it could have happened to anybody.'

"Does this mean New Yorkers will never be able to have buses they can count on?"

"Not necessarily. But a lot more work has to be done in bus research. First of all, we must devise a way of mapping New York City's potholes. No bus can be expected to hit one and not collapse, no matter how strong you build the trunnion. For another, we have to test these buses under the worst-situation conditions. This means we have to load them with twice their capacity, and drive them for days through Queens, the Bronx and Brooklyn, where the streets are almost impassable.

"If the trunnions hold up to these rugged tests, they should be able to survive anything that could happen to them in Manhattan.'

"Does the failure of the Grumman Fixible bus mean that our entire space program on Earth will be delayed?

'No, it only means that New Yorkers will have to do their exploration on foot until the engineering mistakes have been ironed out. We can't afford to send another bus to New York City until we're sure it will work. Actually, the failure of the Grumman Flxible could be considered a plus for the space program. We know that many cities were going to order the Flxible buses, and if something terrible had to happen, better it be in New York, which is used to its iblic transportation breaking down,

Among the huge gobs of fat in the budget that former President Carter fashioned for the current year are those calling for $23.2 billion in "off-budget" federal spending.

The 'off-budget' budget

Thus Carter tried to conceal more federal spending in fiscal 1981 than the total of federal spending in 1941 when the ruse of "off-budget" spending had not yet been invented.

Here are the big "off-budget" items that were held out of the regular budget by Carter and not counted in the large deficit he projected for the year:

International affairs, $2 billion, general science, space and technology, $100 million, energy, $5.1 billion, agriculture, $6.1 billion, commerce and housing credit, $5.9 billion, community and regional development, $1.4 billion, education, $1.1 billion, income security, $1.5 billion, general government, $100 million and general purpose assistance, $100 million.

A CHANGING WORLD

It is typical of the deplorable budgetary policies that prevailed prior to the Reagan administration that despite repeated calls for an end to scandalous "off-budget" spending, it was increased rather than eliminated.

Obviously the Reagan administration won't be able to stop this scheduled back-door spending at once. But it should propose a plan for phasing it out as quickly as possible. It represents an era of fiscal irresponsibility unrivaled in the nation's history.

Uganda.

This was the deal: If Amin would appeal to Khomeini for release of the American hostages, Terpil would see that Amin's 24 children were allowed to come to the United States. This would also make more palatable Amin's efforts to overthrow the government that had driven him from Uganda

Terpil had no authority to make deals for the U.S. government. Far from it; he was under federal indictment for illegal munitions traffic with Libya. In any event, Amin's appeal to Khomeini was a flop - and Terpil fled the United States to avoid prosecu-

The weird attempt by the indicted gunrunner and the exiled dictator to cash in on the hostage situation was known to U.S. officials. The telephone Terpil used to call Amin in Saudi Arabia late last summer was tapped. My associates Indy Badhwar and Dale Van Atta have obtained a tape of the recorded conversation.

The expansive Terpil was free with

"We have got leaders ready waiting, less than 400 miles away," Amin boasted. "We are not worried about what type of army they have inside there

Amin instructed Terpil to tell his presumed congressional and United Nations contacts that Amin's primary goal in returning to Uganda was "trying to stop the communists." Terpil promised to "leak the information to the right people here."

"And what I want from your people there is ... a loan if you could put it down," Amin went on. He would need money, he explained, to get Uganda back on its feet.

"Is the football team ready, though?" asked Terpil.

Amin: "The football team are inside.'

Terpil: "They have all the equipment?

Amin: "They have complete equipment with them. They don't need any supplies.

FREEDOM TO DECEIVE?: Las December, Elliott Jones suffered the horror of having her husband, Dr. Michael Halberstam, shot and fatally wounded a few feet from her by a burglar in their Washington home. Now her grief and shock have been compounded by a reporter she took into her confidence a few days after the cold-blooded killing.

Jones feels the reporter, Hillary Johnson of Life magazine, deceived her by not mentioning that Life was planning a story on her husband's suspected killer, Bernard Welch. If she had realized this, Jones said, she would have thrown the reporter out. Instead, she welcomed Johnson into her home for three days, answered her questions and gave her letters and pictures for what she thought was to be a sympathetic article on Halberstam.

In the end, Life's story was all about Welch, including eight pictures for which the magazine paid the suspected killer $8,000. Elliott Johnson isn't even quoted in the story.

A Life spokesman claimed the Welch story was a response to the widow's own expressed wish. Jones told a newspaper reporter she would like to know more about the man who allegedly killed her husband, the Life spokesman said.

UNDER THE DOME: Each weekday when Congress is in session, the National Weather Service provides map displays just off the House and Senate floors. Four color maps of the United States show the current temperatures and weather conditions across the country, and the next day's forecasts. The service costs the taxpayers $8,000 a year, but is considered invaluable by members planning a visit to the home district. "How else would I know what to wear when I step off the plane?" asked one congressman.

There will be massive cuts in federal science projects - NASA, planetary exploration, equipment, etc. Were Queen Isabella that stingy, Columbus would have been lucky to discover Madrid.

"But I need three ships," says Chris. "You only get the Nina," says Isabella. "And have it back Tuesday or you lose your deposit."

Would we have put men on the moon with such cuts 20 years ago? Addressing the seven original astronauts, a NASA official says, "Shepard, your capsule is now only going as far as Talahassee."

"I know you expected a new telescope," says a professor to his class, 'but this Kodak one-step is all they'll go far - plus two rolls of film and a lousy picture of James Garner taking snapshots of Jupiter."

Retired television news analyst embassy. Eric Sevareid said it best of all: 'Kidnapping and terrorism are the special strengths of the shameless." President Reagan said it right John twice when he said: "Any future taking of American hostages will be met Pinkerman by swift and effective retribution.'

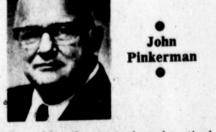

Also: "The Soviet Union reserves the right to commit any crime, to lie, to cheat" in a persistent campaign to promote global revolution and a worldwide Communist state.

Secretary of State Alexander Haig said it right when he said: "Let me state categorically today - there will be no military equipment provided to the government of Iran, either under earlier obligations and contractural arrangements, or as yet unstated requests.

These statements were made during the excitement, joy and euphoria attending the release of the hostages and they were the proper statements for that gratifying period of American history

We were a nation reunited, perhaps for the first time since World War II, and we were flexing the muscle that is a necessary part of any major free nation's right - a right long neglected by former President Carter in favor of nonsense he called "human rights.

Now, however, we must face certain realities and it is correct that Mr. Reagan, Haig and others in the administration are not following those valid statements of principle and intent with more rhetoric, bombast, threats and saber-rattling. Having said their collective piece, they now are making the strategic and tactical. military plans - and quietly - to make sure their promises of action will have genuine validity. They are following President Theodore Roosevelt's advice to "speak softly and carry a big stick."

This is not being made easy for the president by extreme right-wingers plus retired admirals and generals who are ready to risk a world war that they will have no responsibility for all in the name of headstrong and reckless plunges into actions that the president has called "not worthy of this great nation.

The very fact that there have been ,400 terrorist incidents similar to the dastardly acts of the Iranian militants since 1968 shows clearly that such conduct is completely irratio-

This means that the wild threats and demands of American archhawks will not discourage such actions but rather incite them, compared to the one-time statements of Mr. Reagan and Haig, plus their careful, quiet and mostly secret preparations for what will be, inevitably, another "Iran" type assault on a free nation's - perhaps an American -

Reagan speaking softly while big stick's being developed

The Rand Corp., which has com piled a history of the 1,400 terroristic incidents, also notes that 43 embassies have been seized in 10 years, with Egypt (5) and the United States (4) being the favorite targets. And, these seizures, plus five attempts that failed, have increased dramatically in the last two years.

Active duty American military leaders are saying little or nothing about plans for armed intervention or rescue, and they might caution their retired colleagues to behave similarly. The retired military men, who performed with credit in several wars - but in eras of vastly different circumstances - might heed the words of Edwin Meese III, the president's No. 1 aide. Meese said plans are being speeded, but then cautioned reporters, "This president is not going to tell any future adversaries precisely what they can expect from us.'

There is another reason for eliminating the bombast from what can at any moment, become another serious confrontation.

America's allies, particularly those on the European front facing massive Soviet military strength, are nervous about continual wild charges and threats that might incite Moscow to armed adventure.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, for instance, still talks in bitter terms about ex-President Carter's refusal to consult North Atlantic Treaty Organization partners on U.S. plans, but he also cautions President Reagan not to close the door completely on the process of negotiation.

Whatever Mr. Reagan's strategy may be, it cannot help but be an improvement. This is true when one considers that it took Mr. Carter from Nov. 4, 1979, until April 17, 1980, to break relations with Iran and formally suspend exports. And, that it took even longer, until April 24, a total of 172 days since seizure, to mount an ill-advised, hopelessly executed rescue attempt. This was a classic case of "too little, too late." Even the hostages themselves, while praising the bravery of the would-be rescuers, called the operation foolhardy - and feared a second attempt might cost them their lives. The lesson in all this is that a strategy is going forward to thwart and punish would-be terrorists in the future. And, the less said about the

Missouri farmer wants ruling on ownership of soybeans

BERNIE, Mo. (AP) - A farmer who commandeered his $250,000 soybean crop from a bankrupt grain elevator so he could sell it was demanding a ruling today from U.S. Justice Department on the ownership of the beans.

The soybeans, tied up in bankruptcy proceedings along with millions of dollars worth of grains, cannot be sold without verified warehouse receipts certifying the crop's ownership.

Wayne Cryts, a farmer from Puxico, worked out an agreement with federal officials Wednesday to store the 30,000 bushels at the MFA Elevator. He had taken his crop Monday after breaking into the bankrupt Ristine Grain Elevator in New Madrid. He set a deadline today for a legal opinion from the Justice Department on the receipts. "If no decision is made, the farmers of America will assume they (the receipts) are not valid," he said.

Cryts has not said what action he would take if no decision were made or if it were unfavorable. But Alvin Jenkins, a spokesman for the Ameri-can Agriculture Movement, said an unfavorable ruling would start "a treméndous run across the nation from farmers and banks demanding cash for their commodities.'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The brother of former Gov. Ray Blan-ton has pleaded innocent to bid-rigging charges in a federal grand jury indictment that also names

Warehouse receipts, issued when-ever a farmer stores his harvest, are at the heart of a legal wrangle over up to $8 million worth of grain stored in elevators owned by the James Brothers of Corning, Ark.

The James Brothers went bankrupt last August, and a bankruptcy judge ordered the grain sold to pay off debts.

"A federal judge is not supposed to sit off there in another state and tell us that's not our grain," Jenkins con-tended. "This whole thing began be-cause we want to know if we have valid receipts to ownership of property.'

Cryts violated a federal court order when he swept past federal marshals to remove his soybeans. He said he couldn't wait for the bankruptcy case to move through the courts because he needed to finance his spring planting by selling his 1979 harvest.

Cryts said he was told federal au-thorities would not take action against any elevator that accepted his 74 truckloads of soybeans.

Reagan's plan affects everyone

WASHINGTON (AP) - If there's a person in America who owns cows and rides the bus to town and takes an outboard boat onto the lake for recreation and sends his kid to college, he gets hit on all sides by Ronald Reagan's "national recovery plan."

If he's a middle-income taxpayer, he would lose a lot more in govern-ment benefits and subsidies than he would gain in tax cuts under the plan President Reagan laid before Congress and the nation Wednesday night. Millions of people are in that boat. Everybody who pays taxes will gain from Reagan's plan, but millions would lose more than they gain as a result of the retrenchment the president proposes for federal activities. Reagan's ideas would take benefits from all sorts of people - the near poor and the very rich, but especially from the middle class whose votes put him in office.

His budget document called the middle class "an obvious focal point" of budget cuts.

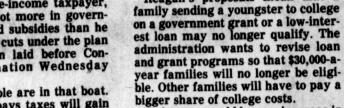

Almost all of Reagan's proposals require Congress' approval to take effect, and that promises to be a struggle that will preoccupy Washing-ton for the rest of the year.

The president's gamble is that the middle class will agree that his program will curtail inflation sharply and quickly and will be willing to give up some of the benefits government bestows with the people's taxes. Everybody stands to lose from some Reagan proposals. For example, postage would go up more rapidly if the government subsidy is phased out, as Reagan suggests. The subsidy pays 7 percent of the Postal Service's costs.

Other cuts are very specifically aimed. The Coast Guard, for example, would charge a fee on those it Travelers of all sorts would have to pay more if the Reagan plans are enacted. Bus and subway fares would rise with the loss of mass transit subsidies. and scholars to land. He said philan-thropy should fill the gap. Big businessmen whose customers abroad purchase tractors and jetliners through loans from the Export-Import Bank would find the going rougher. The president proposed curbing the bank's loan levels and charging higher interest rates.

Those at or near the bottom of the economy don't escape, either. Fami-lies which benefit from both food stamps and subsidized school lunch programs would get fewer food stamps. The Comprehensive Employ-ment and Training Act, which pro-vides jobs for thousands of idle workers and provides scores of cities with a low-cost work force, would come to a quick demise under Reagan's proposals. He would end the program under which the federal government pays unemployment compensation for workers idled more than 26 weeks.

But Reagan said the program, for all his cuts, would work for the benefit

Most people, he argued, even if affected by the budget cuts, would see share in the fruits of an economy with more jobs, faster growth, lower taxes, less inflation, more business investment and a rising standard of living.

Five people died after the tugboat "Galveston" sank in stormy seas while pushing a pair of oil company barges. Four of the victims were truck drivers for Halliburton Co. and the fifth was a tug crewman.

Tugboat captain Tom DeForest was found on a beach near the tug the morning after the sinking. The Coast Guard said he survived the cold water and air temperatures because of insulation provided by his body fat. DeForest weighs more than 300 pounds.

The bodies of the two other drivers and a crewman were found over the weekend.

AIMS testing March 13

The Aptitude Inventory Measurement Service (AIMS) will be testing at the college March 13-15, according to Dr. Elizabeth Robinett, MC counselor.

The AIMS program is a non-profit testing service formed to assist high school and college students in determining a choice of careers. The service also is available to-older individuals who are dissatisfied with present occupations.

"An individual's aptitudes come in varying degrees," Dr. Robinett pointed out. "If one has very strong aptitudes in a particular area, then it is important for him to know what they are." One of the functions of AIMS testing is to discover those aptitudes. From there, the one being tested has a good idea of the area in which he might excel

Testing involves three half-day sessions, usually 11 hours, at a cost of $325 per person. Reservations must be made in advance of testing dates.

Those interested in reserving space, or in receiving more information on the program may call Dr. Robinett at 684-7851, extension 123.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an alcoholic. He also has cirrhosis of the liver. Last year he had a mild heart attack after drinking at his favorite bar, which is located in a shopping center near where we live. He goes there every day.

DEAR ABBY

The manager of this bar gives my husband liquor on credit, so naturally that is where my husband always goes. I went there and told the manager not to give my husband any more credit because he was an alcoholic and it was killing him, but the manager said, "If I don't give him credit, somebody else will.'

Abby, I think this is disgusting. That manager is killing my husband! What should I do? - IRKED IN PUEBLO, COLO. DEAR IRKED: Don't blame the manager. The problem lies with your husband. If he hasn't tried Alcoholics Anonymous, he should. His very life depends upon it. And if he doesn't value his life enough to preserve it, go to Al-Anon and learn how to deal with a husband who's drinking himself to death. Al-Anon is in the phone book.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband is coming to town to visit our children. He is now married to the woman who broke up our marriage. When he left me for her, he told me he loved this woman more than anything else in the world, and if he couldn't be free to marry her he would kill himself.

Listen to this: When he called to tell me he was coming here to see the children, he asked me to get him a "date" while he's here. Should I? — GLORIA

DEAR GLORIA: Yes. With a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will correct the misstatement made in your reply to HASHIME SAITO, You said: "To our everlasting shame, approximately 100,000 decent, law-abiding American citizens were held in concentration camps for the duration of World War II. Their 'crime'? They were of Japanese descent."

I was shocked and disappointed that you would use the term "concentration camps," since the connotation of the term is "death camp." To quote California Sen. S. I. Hayakawa, the world's leading semanticist: "The use of the term 'concentration

Teachers may resume talks

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) - While a teachers' strike here tied the record for the nation's longest such walkout, officials said negotiations may resume following the release of 17 teachers and a union negotiator from jail.

But the threat of another teachers walkout was looming in nearby Youngstown, and in Mariemont, teachers were walking picket lines for a 28th day today

The Ravenna strike entered its 54th school day today, matching the length of a strike last spring in Antonito, Colo., which the National Education Asso-ciation said had been the longest teachers strike in U.S. history.

On Wednesday, 17 teachers and a negotiator were released from jail after Portage County Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kainrad allowed them to sign personal recognizance bonds in an effort to "defuse the situation and allow negotiators to resume in a healthier climate."

The 18 had been jailed Sunday after refusing to sign signature bonds stemming from contempt-ofcourt charges.

Both union and school board officials indicated their willingness to meet, possibly today, with Mayor Paul Jones about a proposal for getting the 160 strikers here back to work.

"The bottom line is negotiation, and if we feel that will bring about a contract, we're willing to go that route," Alan Balog, president of the Ravenna Teach-ers Association, said.

The mayor has suggested a commission work out new sources of funding for the nine-school, 3,700pupil system.

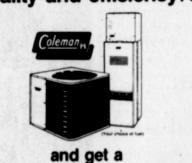

If striking teachers return to work and the school board drops its discussions about firing them, the commission, after examining an independent audit, might help find a way to fund salary increases, possibly through a property tax levy, Jones suggest-

$10,900 base. Some 700 teachers of the Youngstown Education Association have voted to strike on Friday. Connie Hall, an OEA negotiator, said she is "not optimistic" a strike could be averted.

Chrysler has loan guarantee date

DETROIT (AP) — The financially strapped Chrysler Corp. finally has a date for drawing the federal loan guarantees it has sought for 21/2 months.

The Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board scheduled a meeting Feb. "so that the closing of the proposed $400 millon government-27 guaranteed Chrysler note issue can occur on that date," according to a statement released Wednesday in Washington.

But at the same time, an executive in Detroit who asked not to be identified said the company still had not rounded up all the lenders who must agree to $1.1 billion in concessions before the guarantees can be issued.

Nearly 150 banks and other institutions must agree to take 30 cents on the dollar for $500 million in loans and swap preferred stock for another $568 million.

On Tuesday, the number of holdouts was characterized as "a

On Wednesday, it was "some," the executive said. The initial installment of guaranteed loans came last June, and several small banks almost torpedoed the rescue effort by refusing to accept repayment concessions and demanding their money

Chrysler's workers, both union and non-union, already have agreed to a total of $783 million in wage and other cuts.

The board's announcement came one day after the Canadian government approved loan guarantees of about $128 million to start in 1983.

Both Chrysler and the Canadian government agreed the company could seek another $42 million in 1985 if it expanded planned investments.

The board still must approve the Canadian terms.

Voters in this Ohio city were deciding today whether to raise their city income tax rate in an effort to stave off the sort of economic problems suffered by Cleveland. The increase before voters here was similar to one approved Tuesday in Cleveland, where 62 percent of those casting ballots agreed to a 33.3 percent tax increase from 1.5 cents to 2 cents - with the promise of better municipal services for their money.

Political observers here say the Akron measure had about a 50-50 chance of passing.

boosting the city's payroll tax from 1.5 percent to 1.8 percent on March 1. and from 1.8 to 2 percent in 1982.

Mayor Roy Ray expressed hope that Cleveland's election results would help sway undecided voters toward passing the tax.

"The people of Cleveland have recognized the need for a tax increase,' the mayor said. "We're taking a different ap-proach. We're trying to prevent the agony that Cleveland has had that serves no useful purpose."

Although opposition to Akron's tax has been low-key, large numbers of laid off workers were expected to vote against the increase, city officials said.

"I don't think anyone can deny the city has been run efficiently and needs this money, but the concern is, can the people really afford it with their other costs and in-flation?" asked Councilman Floyd E. Sypherd Jr.

The detailed summary of expenditures in the investigation was presented to Gov. George Bus-bee's staff Wednesday as city officials stepped up their effort to obtain financial aid.

The city asked the federal government several weeks ago for help, but Vice President George Bush's press secretary, Peter Teeley, said Wednesday no federal funds were available to help Atlanta authorities.

Mayor Maynard Jackson called Teeley's remark "speculation" and said he would communicate with Bush and President Reagan to reiterate the city's need for assistance.

Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown estimated earlier that the investigation into the 17 deaths and one disappearance had cost the city more than $500,000. However, the sum-mary released Wednes-day marked the first attempt by the city to justify its spending.

Jackson, meanwhile, said the city will accept the federal government's offer of $264,000 worth of technical assistance in the inquiry, but added the city needs money a lot more than it needs advice.

"The horses are on the track, so to speak, and the race is being run very well," Jackson said. "We need to feed our horses, and the city is running out of feed." Busbee has been studying the city's financial needs in the investigation and is expected to ask the Legislature soon to provide some amount of state funding for it.

The technical assistance offered by the federal government includes an evaluation by Law Enforcement Assistance Adminstration consultants of the management of the special police task force han-dling the investigation. The 18 cases dating from July 1979 all involve black children between the ages of 7 and 15.

The summary released by the city Wednesday indicates that the investigation will have cost bers. They amount to $974,061 by the end of this $81,743 a month in roumonth and that at its tine or budgeted costs current level, it will cost and $116,581 a month in an additional $231,122 a extraordinary expenses such as overtime.

NAACP returns $10 fee paid by Klan leader month.

FALLBROOK, Calif. (AP) - The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is returning the $10 membership fee paid by a state Ku Klux Klan leader.

Ben Solomon, the NAACP's Southern California vice president, said Wednesday the civil rights organization has rejected the membership application Klan leader Tom Metzger. He said the fee would be returned, but added the avowed racist "can do what he wants with the card."

Metzger applied for membership a month ago under the sponsorship of Henry Corey, a retired Marine who described himself as a life member of the NAACP. Solomon said Corey is no longer a member.

After noticing an item about Metzger's application in a newspaper, Solomon said he checked with the

NAACP's New York hedaquarters. "This man just sent it directly to New York, knowing that we would have rejected it automatically at the regional office," Solomon said. "When I learned about it, I though the just made a mistake with one letter and wanted to get into the NAAWP -that new organization for whites. "We would never let a member of the Ku Klux Klan join," said Solomon, adding almost a third of the NAACP members in his area are white.

The news seemed to disappoint Metzger, who said a common and crucial issue - the influx of illegal aliens - bound blacks and Klansmen

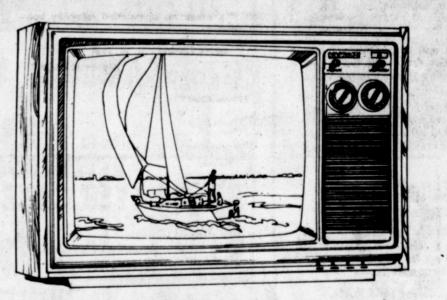

"If I get my money back, I'll be in contact with the NAACP as a member of the Klan and we'll try to discuss issues that way," Metzger said.

Dutch girl's diary to be lab-tested

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — The manu-script of The Diary of Anne Frank, the tale of a girl's coming of age while hiding with her family from the Nazis in war-time Holland, will undergo laboratory testing to prove its authenticity, the Dutch War Documentation Institute said today. "There have been efforts over the years by neo-Nazis and anti-Jewish groups to discredit the diary," said Institute director Harry Paape. "Personally, I believe it is authentic, but we hope the investigation will convince those who have lin-gering doubts." The institute was left the manuscript by Anne's gering doubts." The institute was left the manuscript by Anne's father Otto Frank, who died in Basel, Switzerland, last August at the age of 91. He was the sole survivor of the eight Jews living in the Amsterdam canal house discovered by the Nazis on Aug. 4, 1944. Anne died in the Belsen concentration camp on an unrecorded 'day in March 1945, only two months before Holland was liberated and just before her 16th birthday. Her diary covered a period of two years while the family and friends hid from the Nazis in a secret annex of the house. secret annex of the house.

Hilton Sutton descended from a line of clergy. The family tree reveals that a Sutton was the Archbishop of Cant erbury in the 11th century. His grandfather, George Sut-ton, was a circuit-riding Methodist preacher in central Texas in the late 1800's, and along with his grandmother, Julia, an English teacher, established a number of chur-ches around the state capital, Austin, Texas. He is a descendant of the Sutton family of England, which came to the United States about 1821 for political reasons, leaving behind historic Sutton Place, now the in-ternational headquarters for the late J. Paul Getty's em-

Revered Sutton was ordained to the ministry in 1952 and has been a pastor, lecturer, author and pouplar speaker across America specializing in interpretation of prophetic scripture. His up-to-the-minute "news analyses" have quickened hearts and sparked a new in-terest in the Bible wherever he has spoken, because one realizes when listening to him that the Bible is the most accurate, up-to-date book ever written. During the last 20 years, Sutton has kept a special eye on the land of Israel. The reason for this is that Israel is the barometer of the world, and by watching Israel and the Old Testament scripture, o ne knows exactly what the out-come of the Middle East conflict and eventual peace will

His interest in, and studies of, history and the prophetic scripture over a period of many years equip him to serve in his present capacity of Chairman of the Board of Mission to America, a Houston, Texas-based Christain organization. He has authored four books: "WORLD WAR 111" "THE BEAST SYSTEM", "HE RESERVES WRATH FOR HIS ENEMIES", and "PHARAOH IN THE PROMISED LAND". By many he is considered to be the nation's foremost lecturer on the "Book of Revelation" as well as on prophetic scripture in general.

The bridge neophyte sees only the 13 cards he holds. In time, he progresses to a point where he learns to play the 26 cards in his side's combined holding. He really arrives as a player when he considers all 52 cards in the play of a hand.

South had a difficult rebid. He did not want to jump in clubs because that would bypass three no trump, and a rebid of three clubs would show a far weaker hand. Two no trump, despite the diaond weakness, represented a fair compromise.

West led the five of diamonds, and declarer saw a chance to win three tricks in the suit. He played low from dummy. Unfortunately, East produced the king and shifted to a heart. Declarer ducked, West won the queen and returned the suit, forcing out the ace as East played Declarer crossed to the queen of diamonds and ran the jack of clubs, which was allowed to win. He repeated the finesse, but now West won the king. Declarer had four good clubs in his hand and no way to reach them. Even though he eventually scrounged up two spade tricks, declarer was held to seven tricks-two spades, two hearts, two diamonds and a club.

Before playing to the first trick, South should have realized that, in the overall concept of the hand, one diamond trick more or less wasn't going to make any difference. The key suit was clubs, and it was essential for declarer to protect the entries to his hand. Correct play at trick one was for declarer to insert dummy's diamond queen. If this held the trick, declarer could start on clubs and set up the suit while he still had the ace of hearts as an entry. If this lost to the king, the jack of diamonds would become a second entry to the South hand, and the defenders could eliminate one entry but not two. Declarer would, therefore, be able to collect all the club tricks due him and thus come to at least nine tricks.

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) - Skies were clear and the roads were dry when a commuter bus bound for the Washington suburbs went sailing over the side of a bridge, killing 10 people, and investigators say they're baffled about what might have caused the accident.

The one person who might have been able to help them, the bus driver, Carl F. Earl of Stafford County, Va., was killed.

"It's very mysterious," said Trooper S.G. Gregg, who was investigating the accident along Interstate 95 that sent 14 people to area hospitals.

Police said early today they be-lieved the 10 killed and the 14 hurt accounted for all who were aboard the D and J Transportation Co. bus when it plunged down an 80-foot embankment and into a creek during the evening rush hour Wednesday.

Many of the dead were government workers from Fredericksburg and the surrounding counties, according to medical examiner Dr. F.A. Phillips. The bus had come from Washington. He said some of the victims suffered fatal head injuries, while some may have drowned in the creek. According to State Police Sgt. Paul Reardon, who was driving behind the

Derailment danger ends

ECORSE, Mich. (AP) — Nearly 5,000 Ecorse and River Rouge resi-dents were back in their homes today following the derailment of two railroad cars carrying explosive liquid propane gas. A 19-hour evacuation of residential areas surrounding the train wreck near the two southwest Detroit sub-urbs ended Wednesday night when the tankers were returned to the tracks, said Ecorse Police Sgt. Lewis Jones.

Seven cars of the 37-car train derailed about 2 a.m. Wednesday after leaving a Marathon Oil Co. freight yard in River Rouge for a freight yard in nearby Trenton.

Two of the derailed cars contained liquid propane and one of those top-pled onto its side during the derail-ment, said Bob Libkind, a spokesman for Conrail, which owns the track where the wreck occurred.

The toppled tanker's outer skin was ripped, but a three-quarter-inch-thick steel liner remained intact, Libkind said.

Nearby residents were evacuated as a precaution and the tanker containing the propane did not erupt, although a small leak was reported, River Rouge Police Chief Ed O'Hara said.

"I didn't feel I could take the chance, that's all," O'Hara said.

About 50 sympathizers of 10 suspected members of the Puerto Rican terrorist group FALN convicted of conspiracy charges paraded outside the Dirksen Federal Building Wednesdy in Chicago, while sentencing took place inside.

Judge throws out final Hughes 'will'

HOUSTON (AP) - The last purported will of reclusive multimillionare Howard Hughes has been thrown out by a Houston probate judge, leaving ahead the attempts by hundreds of people to prove themselves Hughes' relatives and claim shares of his vast estate.

Judge Pat Gregory, in the latest action of a five-year legal squabble, ruled Wednesday that Hughes died without leaving a will and ruled against a claim by Miami-based Howard Hughes Medical Institute that it was entitled to the estate, estimated at between $200 and $500 million.

The medical institute, formed by Hughes in 1953, contended Hughes wrote a will leaving his forturne to medical research at the facility. The claim was khown as the "lost will" because no written document was produced.

Several other wills have turned up since the recluse died of kidney failure April 5, 1976, while aboard a private jet enroute from Acapulco, Mexico,

One of the most famous of the wills was found in the offices of the Mormon Church in Salt Lake City shortly after Hughes' death. It later was declared a forgery

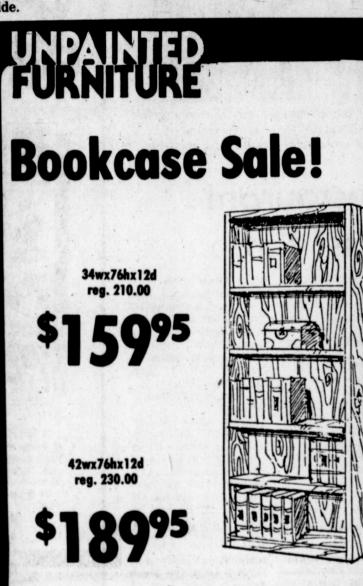

Gregory's ruling, to be signed formally Feb. 27, can be appealed but no decision has been made by attorneys for the institute.

The decision means that the estate can only be divided by relatives.

Bill Miller, a lawyer representing the relatives, said there are 22 relatives who have signed an agreement to divide the estate if the courts decided there was no will.

It was the first time a seditious conspiracy charge had been used since the 1950s, when a group of Puerto Rican separatists were convicted of trying to assassinate President Harry S. Truman and of a shooting spree in the U.S. House of Representa-

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Lawyers for a nonthly newspaper were going to state district court today to argue against an order that would bar it from publishing a list of 3,000 al-leged patrons of a brothel that purportedly includes the names of some prominent city residents.

State District Judge James Onion, who issued a temporary restraining order forbidding colum-nist Armandina Saldivar and the non-profit news-paper, El Pueblo, from publishing the names, scheduled the hearing to determine if a permanent injunction should be granted.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Saldivar expanded the legal spat, filing a $7.5 million slander suit against attorneys repre-senting alleged brothel madam Theresa Brown and asking a federal court to rule that Onion had violated her constitutional guarantees of freedom of the press.

Mrs. Saldivar contended in her suit that she was branded "a thief" by the attorneys, who charge she came into possession of the list illegally.

The suit, also naming Onion and the state of Texas as defendants, asked the federal court to intervene to uphold Mrs. Saldivar's right to publish the reputed "trick list" allegedly given to Mrs. Saldivar by Ms. Brown.

Mrs. Saldivar contends the names of some of the city's top politicians, judges, school board members, journalists and businessmen appear on the list along with the price they paid, their tastes in sex and who re-commended them.

"Some of them paid $35 just to kiss toes," Mrs. Saldivar said in describing the type of in-formation on the list. "We have some abnormal sexual tendencies." Although the brothel operator claims to have verified the names on the list, police said they were uncertain how valid the list was.

LEE HIGH CHATTER

If you weren't at Mabee Memorial Swim Center Saturday afternoon, you missed seeing the Rebel swimmers tie one on their opponents. Though the firls finished a strong third, the Rebel men made a real splash, coming out on top with a first-place finish

Congratulations to Cleve Carrens for his two wins, and also to Bruce Quenger and Ronnie Black for their wins. Leading the Rebel girls was Emily Murrah in the 100-meter breaststroke.

Speaking of winner, the girls basketball team is leading the second half of district play with a 6-0 mark, with only Big Spring left to play. If the girls defeat Big Spring Wednesday, the race is between San Angelo and Lee. That game will be played at 7 p.m. Thursday in Big Spring's Dorthy Garrett Coliseum. Everyone is invited to come and show support.

Last Thursday, students celebrated Valentines Day. Congratulations and appreciation go to the National Honor Society, Mrs. Buttery, Mr. Cason and Mrs. Lewis for coordinating special events.

The London that Dickens really knew is still to be discovered, with a little effort.

The Old Curiosity Shop which tourist buses visit quaint but not authentic. The one near Leicester Square, which Dickens wrote about, has-as he wrote--"been pulled down.'

Near the new Covent Garden, however, not far from the Strand, are two streets with strong Dickensian connections. One is Goodwin's Court. If ou walk up from Trafalgar Square north into St. Martin's Lane, it's the fourth street on the right. A narrow little street with bow-windowed shops and hissing gaslamps, it's one of the most beautiful in London. 'Iron lady' image hurt by surrender to strike

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's surrender to the threat of a nationwide coal strike did severe damage to her "iron lady" image today and raised the prospect of more vigorous union assaults on her economic policies. With some 50,000 of Britain's 230,000

coal miners on strike and the rest expected to vote today to walk out, the head of Britain's Conservative gov-ernment Wednesday night and can-celed plans to closed 23 money-losing mines

The independent Financial Times said it was "probably the biggest public reverse for the government since it took office" by a landslide in May, 1979.

Surrender and humiliation," said the pro-Conservative Daily Mail. Under the headline "The Big Climb-down," it said the "fiasco will seriously compromise Mrs. Thatcher's credibility as the Iron Lady of British politics. The implications could be devastating for the government's battle to hold the line on the rest of the industrial front."

Miners in Durham, in northeast England, sang and danced in the streets. In Nottinghamshire, where the gov-ernment planned to close several pits, miners toasted their victory in beer. Government officials said Mrs. Thatcher caved in because of fear of a repetition of the long miners' strike of 1974 that helped bring down the Con-servative government of Prime Min-ister Edward Heath, put the Labor Party in power for five years and made it possible for her to supplant Heath as party leader and prime minister.

A coal strike would seriously dam-age British industry, already on the ropes because of recession and Mrs. Thatcher's tight-fisted economic poli-cies, and probably would end any chance of economic recovery.

Officials predicted that the miners' victory would spur workers in other nationalized industries to demand financial concessions while she is fighting to streamline government com-panies or liquidate them because they are uneconomical.

Joe Gormley, the moderate leader of the National Union of Mineworkers, said he would recommend that his executive board cancel the strike ballot. But leaders of many of the miners who went out Tuesday or Wednesday said they would not re-turn to work until they receive "certain safeguards.'

'We're dealing with cunning people and, for the moment, we have a guarded mistrust of the new situation," said Jack Collins, a leader of striking miners in southeast England's Kent county.

Polish farmers settle, some students hold out

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - One of the last two trouble spots on Poland's labor horizon cleared today when private farmers agreed to end their seven-week sit-in in the southern city of Rzeszow. But striking students in Warsaw and other cities said they were waiting to see what Lodz University students got in their strike settlement.

The farmers, who lost their bid for an independent union, settled early today for a compromise pledge of agricultural reforms aimed at putting the private farmers - who own 68 percent of Poland's farm land and produce 78 percent of its food - on a par with state farms.

Warsaw Radio said the government promised the farmers equal availability of credit and farm machinery as well as a government review of policies on farm prices, land manage-ment, and rural education, welfare and religious programs. The accord also calls for a commission to study improvements in rural schools and development of nursery schools, the state radio said.

The farmers had sought authorization for an independent union like the giant Solidarity federation that represents an estimated 10 million industritension had been the university in Lodz, Poland's second largest city, where 5,000 students had been sittingin for 27 days demanding the right to form an independent union plus academic reforms.

Leaders of the Lodz students and the government signed an agreement Wednesday legalizing the students' union, but sympathy sit-ins continued at Warsaw University and in several other cities. Students leaders in those cities said they wanted to check the Lodz agreement thoroughly before they decided whether to hold out for more Details of the agreement were not published.

The Rzeszow and Lodz agreements were seen as major gains for the military premier named last week, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, who had warned that continuation of the labor unrest could lead to fratricidal war and appealed for a 90-day moratorium on strikes.

Poland, already staggering under a debt-ridden, under-productive economy, has been troubled recurrent strike crises since July, when workers protesting an end to government meat price subsidies sparked a national labor rebellion that led to legalizationof the first labor movement in the Soviet bloc independent of Communist Party control. With meat shortages continuing, Warsaw Radio announced Wednesday that national meat rationing will begin in April.

al workers. The Supreme Court ruled they could not form a union because they were self-employed, and the government agreed to put through a law that would make a farmers' union possible.

Congratulations Dawgs. We all knew we could do it. We never had any doubt that we would walk off and leave those Bobcats at San Angelo. We knew all along that we would win the district basketball title long before we smothered those 'Cats Tuesday.

Oh, we may have said a few things along the way - in the heat of battle - that could have been mistaken. But we knew we could do

We always knew that Herbert Johnson was our magic potion — the straw that stirs the drink. We detest those who were saying that he shoots too much and that he is not physical enough to mix it up in the rebounding department. We never expected the 6-foot-9 kid to be a superman. But Herbert showed them Tuesday — didn't he? We knew he would score 37 points when we needed him. We said all along he could if he really wanted And hey, we knew all along that Horace Brown is one of the best play-ers around. We all wish he could get a little more attention from the media types. Johnson isn't the only player that makes things tick at Midland High. We always had confidence in "Downtown" Brown.

NOW WE admit that this thing called "The Wave" had us a little worried. But we knew that sending players in every 15 to 30 seconds would pay big dividends. We never really questioned that ploy, but you must remember that the fans have a hard time keeping up with all those changes during the course of a game. "Lack of continuity," they said. Bull! We always knew "The Wave" would run other teams into the ground. We've learned to love the Velascos, Feldts, Millers, Sharnowskis, Mackeys, Morretts, Robertsons, Parkers and all the others who make "The Wave" a thing of beauty. And we were always behind coach Jack Stephenson — even from the beginning. We were never angry that Stephenson had once been draped in all that maroon over at Midland Lee. And even when the Dawgs lost to Odessa Permian last year in that district playoff game, we never blamed Jack. We knew he would come back and win it all.

We were appalled at all those other people who were downgrading the Dawgs when they lost two games in a row to places like Hobbs and Altus. And they even screamed louder when our Dawgs played some close games in the first half. They all expected the Dawgs to win every game by 30 points. But we showed them - didn't we? It was just a matter of hitting our peak at the right time. Our closest game in the second half has been 16 points. We knew it would be that way all the time.

WE DID worry a little about that triple overtime against San Angelo in the first half, and that two-point decision over Abilene Cooper, and that first half showing against Big Spring and that not too convincing victory over Odessa Permian when we all wanted a rout after what they did to us last year. But we never complained. And we have stayed behind the program all the way. We just knew the Dawgs were going to do it. Some are saying the Dawgs should be 31-0 instead of 28-3 with all the talent we have. But we are satisfied with that mark and we will support. the program even if the Dawgs don't win the state championship.

Jack, it must be a real pleasure to coach in a city with fans like us. Because we are behind you all the way. We have kept the faith and we're rolling now

By the way, Jack, we would like to see Herbert play an entire game for once. You know the scoring record is 44 points at MHS? We deserve that much.

Sincerely yours,

From us all

P.S.: How 'bout them Dawgs!

Rebs, Bobcats face shootout

Winner will meet Lewisville in bi-district playoffs

BIG SPRING — Coach Shirley Stephenson's Midland Lee girls will be gunning for their fourth consecutive trip to the state basketball playoffs here today at 7 p.m. at Dorothy Gar-rett Coliseum when they square off against the San Angelo Bobcats in a District 5-5A playoff battle.

Since the girls of 5-5A began loop play in 1978, only Lee has been the district's state playoff representative. They hope to keep that record intact tonight.

LEE FORCED a district playoff with San Angelo by winning the second half District 5-5A cage race with a 7-0 mark. San Angelo had a 7-0 mark in the first half. District rules require that the first half winner must meet the second half winner to determine the state playoff representative.

However, both Lee and San Angelo will share the district crown regardless of tonight's outcome. Lee has now won are shared four district titles. Lee and Midland High shared the loop crown in 1979 and Lee won the district playoff to gain the state playoffs that year.

Stephenson's Rebels seem to have hit their peak at just the right time this year. The Rebels, who are now 20-10 on the season, lost nine non-condistrict game, but that came against San Angelo in the first half and the Bobcats went on to win the first half title with a perfect 7-0 mark while Lee was 6-1. But Lee now has won nine games in a row since losing to the Bobcats, including a victory over San Angelo in the second half.

THERE ARE indications that San Angelo peaked in the first half. The Bobcats, who own a gaudy 25-3 season record, lost twice in the second half with losses to Lee and Midland High. The loss to MHS came Monday in the final regular season contest. San Angelo also had some close calls in the second half and didn't dominate loop play as they did in the first half.

Stephenson put her girls through a special workout at Chaparral Center Wednesday.

The winner of tonight's game will face Lewisville in the bi-district playoffs at a site, date and time still to be determined. However, Monday seems to be the logical day because that would not conflict with outings by the boys, who are still in the thick of district action.

LEWISVILLE IS a repeat winner of District 6-5A and they defeated Midland Lee in the bi-district playoffs last year. Lee and Lewisville met in Abilene a year ago and that seems to be the logical site if Lee beats San Angelo tonight.

to the Region I tournament, which is parral Center. That tournament will feature the four Region I bi-district winners. Two games will be featured on Friday, Feb. 27 and the winners will advance to the finals Saturday, Feb. 28.

Because of the Region I girls tour-nament, the MHS-Midland Lee boys battle, which ends regular season play in District 5-5A, has been moved to 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 26 at Chaparral Center.

The winner of the Region I girls tournament will earn a state tourna-ment berth in Austin where the state championship will be determined.

Chaps can clinch WJCC tie tonight

Midland College takes an eight-game winning streak to Borger tonight in another first place showdown against Frank Phillips College, one of the two teams that has conquered the Chaparrals this season.

Tip off is 8 p.m. and, although Midland owns a two-game lead over third place Howard College, another loss at the hands of the Plainsmen would snarl the Western Junior College Conference race. Midland takes a 13-2 record into the game while FPC, a 74-72 winner over Midland at Midland in January, is 12-3.1

By the same token, a Midland victory will clinch a tie for the title with only two games left on the schedule.

An FPC win would put the Plainsmen, who play all of their remaining games at home, in the driver's seat. Midland hosts Odessa College Monday and travels to Western Texas College Thursday to conclude the season.

In any case, the top four teams in the WJCC will qualify for the Region V tournament against the top four teams from the Northern Conference. The meet will be held at Brownwood this season, the first weekend in March. The fourth and fifth place teams in each conference will play off to determine the fourth position.

Since its two losses, MC, now 25-2 and No. 9 in the nation, has won eight in a row, and the closest anyone has come to the Chaps was Howard College, a 13-point 79-66 loser at Big Spring Monday.

'We did what we had set out to do against Howard Monday," Coach Jerry Stone explained, "We needed to get out in front and hold the lead for the entire game, since Howard beat us with a slowdown offense after they got a 17-12 lead against us. Our players executed a smart game, cutting down on turnovers and playing great defense against the big shooters from Howard.

"We'll have to do the same thing against Frank Phillips, since they also play a deliberate offensive style. I've got to pat all our players on the

HARTSFIELD, who succeeds Randy Hundley as Midland pilot, met with Midland Cub Booster Club members and representatives of the media at the Holiday Inn Wednesday night as he stopped off in the Tall City before heading on to Mesa, Ariz., and spring training. "I'll leave Satur-day and work with the big club until our players assemble, which will be March 15."

The way the one-time Boston Braves second baseman looks at it, "I've got both an edge and an out. The edge is that my younger brother (Ro-bert) has managed Chicago's Class A farm team at Geneva, N.Y., for three years and he gave me a run-down on some of the kids I'll be getting. My out is that if they don't come through, I can blame him."

Hartsfield says of today's game, "The players don't count their money any more. They weigh it."

THE CUBS' new field boss, relates he managed the Toronto Blue Jays for three years, "You may never have heard of the Blue Jays. And there's many a sleepless night when I was managing them that I wished I hadn't heard of them either.'

After three years in the American League, Hartsfield is looking forward to working with the young players who come to the Texas League. "After 37 years in the game, one of the great experiences still is working with kids waiting to go up. They still have incentive. They are kids willing to pay the price and I'm going to make them pay it."

"I can't promise a winner," Harts-field told the gathering, "but I prom-ise some entertaining baseball. We may surprise you. I want to do and try some things that will make us an exciting club. Stay with us a month and, although the players may be the same, it may be a completely different team."

Brown denies pro job offer

NEW YORK (AP) - Saying he fits in best in the collegiate coaching ranks, Larry Brown, head coach at UCLA, has denied night that he has been offered a job with the New Jersey Nets. "I feel my style is best suited to the college game," said Brown, former coach of the Denver Nuggets of the National Basketball Association, adding that he hoped to stay in college basketball at least for a couple of more years because he is not "mentally ready" to return to the pros.

The report that Brown, who is in the second year of a two-year contract at UCLA, had been offered the job with the Nets appeared in the New York Post Wednesday. Reporting from Los Angeles, Post writer Peter Vecsey attributed the report to a source close to Brown

However, Brown told ABC Radio by telephone from Berkeley, Calif., where the Bruins play California Thursday night, that the story was not true

The Post had reported that Brown had met with Nets President Joe Taub and Alan Cohen, Nets board chairman, after the UCLA-Notre Dame game Feb. 8 in South Bend, Ind.

Brown, who led UCLA to the NCAA final last season, reportedly was offered the job on his terms — he would have full power and would be able to name his own general manager.

The Nets have been interviewing prospective coaching candidates and will continue to do so through the season, but have said they would make no decision until the season ended.

Hartford is third team to retire Howe's No. 9

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - Gordie Howe, who owns just about every National Hockey League scoring record, has added another chapter to his long and illustrious career: his jersey number has been retired by three different teams.

Former hockey great Johnny McKenzie, who had his NHL jersey number retired last year, was among the guests Wednesday night when Hartford retired Howe's famous Number 9 prior to the Whalers' game against the Winnipeg Jets. "It's a great honor to have my number (19) up there with his," McKenzie said. "He's the greatest thing to ever happen to hockey.

"I remember a couple of times when I was named a second-team NHL All-Star," McKenzie said. "But you didn't mind being on the second team when Gordie was on the first."

Detroit was the first to team to retire Howe's number, after he played 25 seasons for the Red Wings. In 1977, Houston of the now-defunct World Hockey Association became the second team to retire Howe's jersey. Hartford is the third team to do

"I feel like a winner, thanks a lot," Howe told a crowd of 14,096 at the Hartford Civic Center. "You really know how to get to a fellow." Only 23 NHL players have had their numbers retired.

Phil Esposito was the last, when the Rangers sent number 77 to the rafters at Madison Square Garden. Last year, Howe concluded his 32-year career when he retired as a Whalers' player after playing on a team with his two sons, Mark and Marty. He called that his biggest hockey thrill.

Today, Mark is an all-star defenseman while Marty has been sent to Hartford's farm affiliate in the American Hockey League at Binghamton, N.Y.

Expos sign former M-Cub SWC Signings

MONTREAL (AP) - The Montreal Expos signed free agent pitcher Ray Burris to a one-year contract Wednesday. "I hope now he can have the kind of success against other clubs as he's had against us," said General Manager John McHale, who came to terms with the 30-year-old veteran of nine major league seasons after three months of negotiations.

Burris, the former Midland Cub, has 13 career victories against Montreal - several at crucial times for the Expos - including three shutouts.

Burris, who was also selected by the New York Mets, for whom he pitched in 1979 and 1980, the Seattle Mariners and the Texas Rangers in the re-entry draft last November.

"My whole career has been spent with teams who weren't contenders,' said Burris in a telephone interview from his home in Hackensack, N.J. "I want to show all of baseball what type of pitcher I can be if I'm pitching for a contender.

"I don't think you can see a pitch-er's true value until he's with a contending ball club."

Burris's only brush with contending status came in 1979 when he was traded to New York Yankees, but he barely had time to unpack before being shipped to the Mets three months later.

Burris spent seven seasons with the Chicago Cubs, winning 15 games in both 1975 and 1976, and 14 in 1977.

He has a lifetime won-lost mark of 63-76 with a 4.26 earned-run average. In an injury-plagued 1980 season he was 7-13 and posted a 4.02 ERA in 29 starts.

SWC keeps football talent By The Associated Press The Southwest Conference kept most of the Texas schoolboy football talent within the confines of the state on national signing day Wednesday, but there was a notable defection in Arkansas.

and a subject of the state of the second sec

Quarterback Danny Bradley of Pine Bluff, Arkansas ignored his homestate Razorbacks to jump to Oklahoma.

However, Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz pulled off a coupe by signing linebacker Marty Kobza of Schuyler, Neb, who was being sought by UCLA and Nebraska.

Texas Christian coach F.A. Dry scored twice against the Big Eight Conference.

Dry signed bluechip quarterback Anthony Gulley of Dallas South Oak Cliff, who had signed a Big Eight Conference letter of intent with Oklahoma State after signing a Southwest Conference letter with TCU.

Classy Temple running back Kenneth Davis made Dry's day complete by ignoring Nebraska and joining the Horned Frogs. Nebraska also took it on the chin from Texas Tech when Greenville running back Robert Lewis said yes to the Red Raiders. He had been considering the Cornhuskers.

Southern Methodist Coach Ron Meyer landed highly regarded run-ning back Larry Sadberry of Houston Milby, who had been heavily courted by Colorado. SMU was still battling for Andrews' running back Van Pearcy, who has caught the eye of Notre Dame. Southern Methodist, which divulged last week that it was under investigation by the NCAA, signed the rest of its players. All Midland High athletes signed with the expected teams. Midland

High's Wade Johnson was secured by

SMU while Michael Feldt was grabbed by Texas. Jerry Zachery stayed with Texas Tech.

Midland Lee linemen Keith Brown and Irl Conally will remain teammates at Oklahoma State: Conally had also signed with Angelo State last week. Barry Corley remains with An-gelo State, however.

Two other Lee players came to terms with colleges. Clyde Smith opted for Celorado and Wade Colburn was picked up by West Texas State. That leaves only Lee's Rob Watson and Rodney Hemphill in the undecided list.

Two heavily recruited SOC players, bluechip linebacker Gary Spann and lineman Marvin Ayers, never gave the Big Eight a second thought in signing with SMU.

As usual, Oklahoma did well, signing blue chip defensive back Lawrence Hardin of West Orange-Stark, the only one of Texas' 15 blue chippers in a poll of SWC head coaches who didn't sign last Wednesday.

TCU finally released its closely guarded list of 10 junior college transfers . The list included two top linebackers from Pasadena City Junior College, Anthony De Stefano and Joseph Hines.

Top running back Ronnie Robinson of Dallas Bryan Adams decided to go to Texas after considering the Oklahoma Sooners.

emson downs No. 5 Wake Forest

By The Associated Press

The Clemson Tigers kept trying to beat a Top Twenty team ... and they finally got it right.

After losing to top-rated Virginia and No. 20 Maryland last week, the Tigers powered their way to a 19-point lead and upset fifth-ranked Wake Forest 81-71 Wednesday night.

"Our effort was good, but it was no better than in the losses last week," said Clemson Coach Bill Foster.

Clemson's record is a not-too-shab by 18-8 and six of the losses have come at the hands of Top Twenty teams, including a two-point squeaker to Wake Forest in Winston-Salem, N.C., last month. This time, the shoe was on the other foot ... and the game was on the other court, namely, Clemson's Littlejohn Coliseum.

Wake Forest was the only ranked team to lose, while four others, including a trio of Southeasterrn Conference powers, won. Fourth-ranked Louisiana State defeated Auburn 58-47 for its 23rd consecutive victory, No. 8 Tennessee edged Mississippi State 73-70, 10th-ranked Kentucky turned back Florida 69-56 and No. 13 North Carolina trounced William & Mary 81-55

Nebraska maintained its one-game lead in the Big Eight as Andre Smith scored 24 points to lead the Cornhuskers to a 81-61 rout of Iowa State. Nebraska shot 73 percent from the field in the first half and finished with 66 percent. The Cornhuskers also made 13 of 14 free throws.

David Magley scored 14 points to lead Kansas over Kansas State, 58-50, and leave the cross-state rivals in a second-place tie.

LSU had to struggle before running its SEC log to 15-0 - 23-1 overaff thanks to six late points by Ethan Martin and a stingy defense. The Tigers assured themselves of no worse than a tie for their second SEC Martin and Rudy Macklin had 17 points apiece, with Martin scoring all six of his second-half points in the final five minutes.

"When things don't click for you, your defense has to hold you up. That's the mark of a good team," said LSU Coach Dale Brown, whose tenacious Tigers forced 18 turnovers to help overcome an atrocious 30.9 shooting percentage. "A team that isn't flexible could have been blown out shooting the way we did.

"I didn't think we had fun tonight. We labored at winning the game. Maybe the tension of winning (the SEC crown) was with us."

Dale Ellis scored 26 points to lead Tennessee (19-4) over Mississippi State, but the Vols had to sink 11 of 13 free throws in the final 1:41 to turn back the stubborn Bulldogs. Ellis scored 10 points from the line while Howard Carter was 8-for-8 from the free throw stripe and finished with 20 points.

"For us to win, we have to be able to go to the line and make our free throws," said Coach Don DeVoe.

Kentucky's Chuck Verderber scored 12 of his 16 points in the second half as the Wildcats (19-4) defeated Florida before the largest crowd -10,210 - ever to watch a basketball game in the Sunshine State.

The Gators, who were swamped by Kentucky 102-48 last month, were in the game until the final three minutes when the Wildcats turned a five-point edge into a 15-point cushion.

"Florida played very good, maintaining their poise," said Kentucky's Joe B. Hall. "On a given night, anybody in the country has to worry about us now," said Florida's Norm Sloan. "We can be in the game with any team in the country.

North Carolina had little trouble with William & Mary, jumping to a 20-point halftime lead en route to its 11th consecutive 20-victory campaign. The Tar Heels, who have lost six times, were led by Al Wood with 16 points, Jimmy Black with 13 and James Worthy with 12.

Defending national champion Louisville continued its rebound from a horrendous start. The Cardinals (16-8) won their 10th in a row and avenged a stunning loss to Iona last season by walloping the Gaels 91-57. Substitute Roger Burkman came off the bench to make four steals and contribute an assist in a 1:16 span early in the second half after the Cardinals led 48-25 at the intermission.

Jerry Eaves topped Louisville with 19 points and Derek Smith chipped in with 17.

"It shows maturity when you're 25-30 points ahead and still play hard," said Coach Denny Crum. "It was the first time we have really played hard and extended ourselves when we were that far ahead."

One of the nation's most respected bass anglers presents his focus on successful bass fishing by telling about structure fishing. Structure fishing, as our super bass angler tells it, is the most important way to consistently bring in nice stringers of bass.

Tom Mann, president of Mann's Bait Co. and professional bass angler, says, "The most important accessory today's bass fisherman has at his disposal is a good depth sounder."

The following numbered guides, as listed by Mann, provide a key to some of these prime bassin' areas, information that will come in handy as the seasons change.

1. IN EARLY spring, bass move into creeks, looking for spawning areas such as stumps, logs and sheltered cuts. Use spinnerbaits with trailer hooks, worms with light sinkers and a variety of topwater baits in early morning and late evening.

2. Sheltered coves also provide prime bass spawning hideouts, particularly those with small creeks emptying out. Look for log jams and use spinnerbaits and plastic worms.

3. Late spring, early summer and fall offer good fishing around point and sandbar extensions. Fish leave deeper water to feed on these areas. Use medium-running crank baits on outermost points.

4. Always productive are underwater islands and mounds in summer, especially when dams cause current and brush is located on mound top. Baitfish feed at upper end of mound and big bass feed on baitfish. Try spinnerbaits and plastic worms.

5. Spring and fall find many bass laying in ambush among brush, timber or stumps on extended points. Use crank baits or spinnerbaits in 10-feet or less of slightly off-color water.

6. Early March and winter bass fishing is excellent in the vicinity of standing timber positioned in a major feeder stream. Jigging-type lures, spoons, grubs and deep-running spinnerbaits are good bets.

7. SUBMERGED brush or tree tops on outside bend of river beds provide fine "worm holes". A good depth sounder will find productive results at 20 to 25 foot depths. Use seven to eight inch plastic worms with $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ -ounce slip sinker and 17 to 20 pound test line.

8. Summertime fishing on outside bends of a river or creek can find bass stationed around brush tops. Fish plastic worms from deep to shallower water.

9. Where two creeks intersect or where a feeder stream merges with a main river channel, a good depth sounder will pinpoint these winter and summer areas for fish congregating in 20 to 30 feet of water. Mark intersections with plastic buoy markers and use plastic worms in summer months and jigging material in winter.

10. Locate submerged roadbeds with a topographic map and pinpoint with sounder. Bass use roadbeds for migrating to spring spawning areas and for feeding in summer. Find 12 to 18 feet depth with sharp dropoff on roadbed sides. Fish worms, spinnerbaits and deep diving crank baits.

11. DEEP WATER structures, such as submerged bridges, are prime holding areas for big bass.

12. Shallow water flats for late summer and early fall schooling bass is a good feeding area where stumps or bushes collect baitfish. Use shallowrunning crank baits and topwater lures.

13. Where a highway bridge or railroad bridge spans a reservoir or feeder stream, rip-rap (rocks) are often found spilling down to the water. Bass move to the rocks to feed on crawfish and baitfish. Fish parallel to bank with medium-running crank baits close to bank in off-color water and deep diving crank baits further out from the bank in clear water.

new catcher

Bosox need

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, THURS., FEBRUARY 19, 1981

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Red Sox were set to go back into the trade market today in search of an experienced catcher to replace Carlton Fisk, a nine-year veteran lost to free agency one week ago.

The Red Sox bid to re-sign Fisk reached an apparent impasse Wednesday with General Manager Haywood Sullivan's announcement the club would open trade talks with other clubs to try to obtain "catchers and other players.

Sullivan waited in vain throughout the day for a call from Fisk or his agent, Jerry Kapstein. The Red Sox general manager and co-owner finally gave up, saying the club would try to trade for another catcher.

Sullivan said that Fisk and Kapstein had rejected the club's latest offer Tuesday night in a telephone call. However, Sullivan had held out hope that Fisk and Kapstein were looking for more time before making a decision.

Sullivan said the latest proposal was a four-year guaranteed contract with performance bonus clauses under which Fisk could "earn as much as any other catcher in major league baseball" during the four-year period.

Darrell Porter, who went the free agency route after playing out his contract with Kansas City last sea-son, became baseball's highest-paid catcher Dec. 12 when he signed a five-year contract for $3.5 million with the St. Louis Cardinals.

HOUSTON (AP) - Swiss-born Bettina Bunge is a German citizen with an American visa, a Coral Gables, Fla., address and a Peruvian tennis title, but the much-traveled teen-ager moves on a tennis court as if she had lived there all her life.

In other Wednesday night matches, top-seeded Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia downed Mary Lou Piatek 3-6, 7-5, 6-2 and Kate Latham defeated Renee Blount 6-4, 6-0.

Bunge and Stove's match was the fourth meeting between the two righthanders since the 17-year-old Bunge joined the professional circuit in 1978.

"I went in thinking, 'I should have no problem.' But she played so consistently it was close right to the end," said Bunge, who now has won three of the meetings with Stove.

"I had planned to run her, but she ran me. I didn't play badly, she was just tough," said Bunge, who won the Peruvian Nationals at age 13 while her family lived in that South American country.

Bunge and Stove matched each other game-for-game in the first set before Bunge held Stove scoreless in the tiebreaker to win.

"I thought, "This is it.' I needed every point. I knew I couldn't afford to miss any balls. I started concentrating on every point," said Bunge. The two took up where they had left off, playing to a 3-3 deadlock in the second set. However, Bunge, relying on her power serve and a solid backhand, took control to win the next three games and the match.

Bunge probably would have faced Tracy Austin in the quarterfinal competition, but will now play the either Heidi Eisterlehner of East Germany or Pam Teeguarden since Austin withdrew because of a nagging back injury.

It would have been the first contest between Bunge and Austin.

Mandlikova overcame sloppy play early in her match with Piatek, who had used her powerful two-handed backhand to break Mandlikova's serve and win the first set 6-3.

But Mandlikova, troubled by costly double faults early, rallied to tie the second set 5-5 and then gained momentum after a disputed line call and bounced back to win the next two games and the set.

She then kept her 19-year-old opponent off guard with a drop shot and a driving serve to easily win the final set.

Blount jumped ahead of Latham 4-2 in the first set of their first-round match, but Latham bounced back using a strong backhand and a varied attack to win the next four games and the set. Latham pressed her advantage in the second set, easily handling Blount, who was plagued throughout the match by net errors and long or wide shots.

A relatively small area of Western Montana has emerged as the very best producer of large Rocky Mountain Bighorn Sheep in North America. Armand Johnson's big Sanders County ram had a preliminary Boone & Crockett score of 200% in 1979.

CHUCK DAVIS OUTDOORS

This big sheep is a trophy of note for both Montana and for North America. If the score is not changed by a panel of judges who examine all high-scoring big game trophies entered in North American Big Game Awards competitions, it will rank No. 8 in the Boone & Crockett Record Book

The two heads listed as No. 3 and 6 were not killed by a hunter, but were "pickups". Consequently, this Bighorn Sheep is the largest taken by a hunter in North America since 1924. That is significant.

The Bighorn Sheep (Ovis C. Canadensis) is one of four separate varieties of sheep found in North America. The sheep are generally divided into "thinhorns" and "Bighorns". The thinhorns are the Dall Sheep (Ovis dalli dall) and the Stone Sheep (Ovis dalli stone). Technically the Stone Sheep is a sub-species of the Dall sheep, but hunters accept them as distinct from the Dall or White sheep.

Most widely distributed of any American Mountain Sheep, with the possible exception of the Dall, are the Rocky Mountain Bighorns. Bighorns are found from soni) ranges from New Mexico, Arizona, West Texas and lower California into the northern reaches of Sonora and Chihuahua in old Mexico.

The Sanders County area of Montana, which produced what will likely be the No. 8 sheep, has also produced many other large rams in recent years. The hunting seasons of 1978 and 1979 saw eight rams taken with B and C scores of better than 175-6/8. Five of those rams taken with B and C entry minimum score of 180.

The one negative aspect of what is happening in Sanders County is the quality of the hunt is often lacking. Many of these high quality rams are killed after being driven from their summer range by heavy snowstorms. They then concentrate on the open hillsides where the snow is scarce on what is referred to as winter range where they are more easily seen and stalked than when they are found in the high country. On occasion, they are killed by hunters who don't even bother to leave their vehicles since their winter range is adjacent to the highway outside Thompson Falls.

This situation is a good opportunity for hunters who suffer from a physical disability to bag a ram. I believe it to be a crime for a physically able hunter to road hunt a fine big game trophy animal

Connors advances to ATP third round

LA QUINTA, Calif. (AP) - Top-seeded Jimmy Connors has reached the third round of the $175,000 Grand Marnier-ATP Tennis Games without any major problems, but three other top contenders had to struggle past their second-round opponents.

Connors whipped unseeded Chris Dunk 6-3, 6-1 Wednesday at the La Quinta Resort Hotel and was scheduled to meet Terry Moor today in the third round of the week-long event slated to finish Sunday. Moor advanced with an upset 6-3, 6-1 victory over 15th-seeded Jose Higueras of Spain.

Second-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, third-seeded Harold Solomon and fifth-seeded Roscoe Tanner all won Wednesday in three-set matches.

Lendl downed Martin Davis in a two-hour, 10-minute match, 7-6, 6-7, 6-3; Solomon topped Russell Simpson 6-7, 6-3, 6-0, and Tanner eliminated Bernard Mitton of South Africa 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Seventh-seeded Eliot Teltscher and eighth-seeded Brian Gottfried won easily - Teltscher whipped George Hardie 6-1, 6-0 and Gottfried downed John Austin 6-3, 6-4.

Ninth-seeded Eddie Dibbs also advanced, whipping Rod Frawley of Australia 6-1, 6-4, but 10th-seeded Johan Kriek of South Africa was upset by Trey Waltke 7-5, 6-1.

In other matches involving seeded players, 13th-seeded Bob Lutz downed Nick Saviano 6-2, 6-4; 14th-seeded Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia topped Fritz Buehning 7-6, 7-6, and 16th-seeded Mel Purcell outlasted Sandy Mayer 6-4, 4-6, 6-0. In matches involving unseeded players, Pat DuPre defeated Christophe Roger-Vasselin of France 6-7, 7-5, 6-4; Phil Dent of Australia downed Robert Van't Hof 6-3, 6-4; Paul Kronk of Australia topped Butch Walts 6-4, 6-4, and Hank Pfister whipped Rolf Gehring of West Germany 6-2, 6-2. Lendl was asked if he was annoyed about being extended by Davis, who is ranked 230th in the world while Lendl is rated sixth.

"I wasn't frustrated, you just have to try and fight," said Lendl. "If he plays good enough, he'll beat you. Of course, I didn't play my best, but I would say I played my normal game.

Tanner, who had 10 aces in the decisive third set and ended his match with four straight aces, said he told himself at the beginning of the set that "this would be the last game with old balls so let's just get through it. Then, it would be a contest of serves and I like that."

"It's never easy," said Connors when asked if he had any difficulties. "You just try to hit the ball the best you can. He played the first couple of games pretty good, but I don't think he played as well as he would have liked to."

The quarter-finals are slated Friday; the semifinals are scheduled Saturday, and the finals are slated Sunday. The singles champion will earn $28,-000 with the runnerup collecting $14,000.

I don't have a Bighorn ram on my wall, but I've made some mighty fine extended hunts for sheep that were nothing short of physically arduous. The hunt is where the satisfaction is.

The Sanders County area of Western Montana does offer the opportunity for hunters to have a quality hunt and still have the opportunity to bag a record book ram. There are more of those record rams in that country, and some are very big rams, according to my Montana contacts.

Two of my Montana friends, Paul Reynolds of Conner and Ken Allaman of the West Fork of the Bitterroot, Darby, are two of the most knowledgeable and competent guides in the country. They believe in quality hunts and they know where the sheep are. They are the men to contact if the prospect of a good sheep hunt turns you on.

Pope begins touring southern Philippines

By EDITH M. LEDERER Associated Press Writer

CEBU, Philippines (AP) - Pope John Paul II began a tour of the southern Philippines today after an overture to China's communist rulers and a "Mass for peace" celebrated before a crowd of more than a million people, including 800 demonstrators against President Ferdinand E. Marcos

The pontiff received a tumultuous welcome on his arrival in Cebu, the archipelago's second largest city, where Christianity came to Asia in 1521. Marcos' wife, Imelda, flew down ahead of him unexepctedly and greet-ed him with Cardinal Julio Rosales, the archbishop of Cebu.

The pope will visit three other islands and return to Manila on Saturday. Before leaving Manila, the pope celebrated Mass at the Quezon Memorial in neighboring Quezon City and told the vast crowd there: "In order to communicate peace in accordance with Christ's words, we must live that peace Only then can our proclamation and communication of peace be effective.

About 800 demonstrators, who had kept an all-night vigil at the University of the Philippines and then marched to the traffic circle in which the memorial is located, stood quietly holding signs reading: "Free political prisoners," "Stop political repress-ion," "Restore the right to strike," and "Stop military atrocities." A few wore priests' cassocks, explaining that they hoped this would protect them from arrest.

There were no disturbances during the Mass. But after the pope left, the demonstrators and more than 2,000 others began to march down a busy highway. Some 200 truncheon-swinging police clashed with them and broke up the march after a brief scuffle.

Quezon City is named for Luis Manuel Quezon, the first president of the Philippine Commonwealth in 1935-44.

Since his arrival here on a 12-day Asian tour that will also take him to Guam, Japan and Alaska, the pope has spoken out strongly against human rights violations. He told Marcos on Tuesday such violations cannot be justified. Marcos lifted martial law a month ago but is still criticized at home and abroad for the detention of political prisoners and his generally authoritarian regime.

John Paul's bid to the Chinese in Peking came during a speech Wednesday to Manila's Chinese community in which he offered to re-establish relations with China and expressed a longing to visit that coun-try. He assured Peking that the Vatican "desires no privileges" and has no political or economic goals in China or any other country.

His remarks were translated into Chinese by a Chinese priest and re-layed to the mainland on a special 45-minute broadcast by the church's Radio Veritas. But there was no immediate comment in Peking.

Peking and the Vatican broke relations after the communist takeover in 1949, and restrictions on Christian worship in China were lifted only two years ago. Catholic churches have reopened in major cities but they are under control of an association sanc-tioned by Peking with no ties to the Vatican.

The Vatican is thought to have carried out informal discussions with the Chinese government, but there have been no firm signs that Peking is ready for reconciliation. The Vatican believes there are 500,000 to 2 million baptized Catholics in China.

The pope has made overtures do Peking in two previous speeches but Wednesday's statement was the first to offer to resume friendly relations.

Also on Wednesday, the pontiff honored the country's 42 million Roman Catholics by giving them their first candidate for sainthood, told the country's professional elite to serve the poor and not to worry about money and power, advised students at the University of Santo Tomas that the "pent-up energy" of youth does not frighten the church and told them to observe self-discipline and "aim high."

As the pope was leaving the stage at the university, 19-year-old engineer-ing student Lou Calugcug broke through a security cordon and dashed toward him. Security agents grabbed him but Calugcug said he got a papal embrace.

"I kissed his hand and told him I loved him very much," the youth said. The incident, televised nationally, appeared to some as an attack on the pope and many thought the young man had a knife. He said he was carrying only a rosary and police released him after seven hours of questioning.

The pope stuck to his schedule after the incident, but switched from a limousine to a bus en route to the notorious Tondo slum area. He didn't stop to talk to any of the slum dwellers as he customarily does, and his chief bodyguard, Bishop Paul C. Marcinkus, pushed photographers from the stand.

The area where the pope spoke had been spruced-up and the only hovel that he could have seen was obscured by three newly erected soft-drink stands. In his speech, the pope said the church has a duty to defend "the human dignity of the poor."

Pope visits death row inmates, political prisoners

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The Vatican sec-retary of state visited 43 death-row inmates and 33 political prisoners after they were excluded from a prison Mass he said on behalf of Pope John Paul II.

"Take courage," Cardinal Agostino Casaroli ad-vised the political detainees, transferred from a military stockade to the civilian prison with the lifting of martial law one month ago.

He asked them to seek Christ in their suffering. The inmates gave Casaroli a handmade-boat in a bottle and a miniature ship's steering wheel. Casaroli on Wednesday also visited a leprosarium which had been removed from the Pope's chedule

Manila Cardinal Jaime Sin said earlier some government officials had complained that the pope's schedule included too much of the negative side of Philippine life.

Fire hits new hotel

NEW YORK (AP) - A two-alarm fire sent black smoke billowing up the side of the brand-new Harley Hotel, but the blaze barely disrupted opening-day

The fire, which broke out at 4:35 p.m. Wednesday, was confined to an electrical storage area on the third floor of the 41-story hotel on East 42nd St.

Some 150 guests were evacuated from the 800-room tower, and 36 people suffered from smoke inhalation before the blaze was controlled 45 minutes later.

Even while guests were leaving the building and firefighters were tackling the flames, a planist was performing in the hotel lobby and hotel employees were passig out opening-day champagne.

Hours earlier city and state officials, among them Mayor Edward Koch and Gov. Hugh Carey, attended an opening-day celebration.

Fire officials said the blaze did not appear to be of suspicious origin but would be investigated by fire U 3

Reagan junks rules on automobiles

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Reagan administration has decided to junk a government plan that would have forced Americans to stop driving their cars one or more days a week during severe energy shortages.

Other parts of the plan would have allowed the government to shorten work weeks to four days, lower speed limits below 55 mph, impose odd-even gasoline purchase rules, and require businesses to provide vanpools during periods of energy emergencies declared by the president.

The new administration also announced it was delayng - perhaps permanently - final regulations that would have required mandatory energy efficiency standards for home appliances such as refrigerators and clothes dryers.

The actions were announced Wednesday, one day after President Reagan ended mandatory thermostat settings for 2.8 million nonresidential buildings. The Reagan administration has made no secret of its dislike for mandatory government conservation rules.

The Energy Department said the moves were "consistent with the administration's current view that most of these measures, if implemented, would not be very effective and would cause considerable inconvenience

The Carter administration had spent months drafting the conservation proposals to meet requirements of the Emergency Energy Conservation Act, passed by Congress in October 1979.

One of the principal authors of the law, Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., said Wednesday he would oppose abandoning the gasoline conservation proposals. "This exposes the administration as being extremely foolish about our national security. The belief that somehow the oil companies and the marketplace will take care of us during a severe shortfall is astounding," Moffett said.

The most controversial element of the Carter program would have allowed the government to ban use of cars for one, two or three days a week, depending on the severity of the gasoline shortage. The plan would require that stickers be displayed on cars to indicate which days they could not be driven.

The Energy Department said of the hundreds of comments received on the plans various rules, "many individuals and business representatives expressed concern that several emergency conservation mea-sures would interfere excessively in their lives and would impose costs far in excess of their benefits."

The department said it would seek comments from the public on whether any measures to cut demand could be implemented during emergencies without being "counterproductive."

The appliance rules were also required under the 1979 law. The department drafted energy-use standards for eight household appliances which were supposed to go into effect last month. The standards required such things as more insulation in refrigerators and intermit-tent rather than continuous pilot lights in water heaters and furnaces.

However, the Reagan administration said it would not issue the appliance standards pending a review of whether they were really needed.

Energy Department officials said the action was being taken under a section of the law that provides that no standard be set that "would not result in significant conservation of energy or would not be technologically or economically justified."

Appliance manufacturers have complained about the proposals, saying they would raise the price of a refrigerator-freezer by $37.50. The Energy Department under former President Carter disputed those fig-ures, saying the increased costs for refrigerators would be only $10, which a consumer would recoup in savings on his electric bills the first year.

Fishermen given week to prepare

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Commercial fishermen have a week to plan their opposition to a bill taking redfish and speckled trout off the seafood market — and 2½ hours to present that opposition. Sports fishermen and Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris spent 1½ hours Wednesday blaming commercial fisher-men for depleting the redfish and trout populations in Texas' coastal waters.

Chairman Tati Santiesteban of the Senate Natural Resources Committee cut off testimony just after 6 p.m. and told commerical fishermen they could make their case next Wednesday. The turnout before the committee was the largest crowd of the legislative session as hundreds sat in the Senate chamber and gallery.

"You can hardly raise a mess of reds now around the bay," said W.E. Morrison, a sportsman who said he has been fishing since the turn of the century. "These guys say they're 'farmers of the sea,' but they're really miners. They don't replenish any-thing," said Dick Ingrahm of the Gulf Coast Conser-union Accordition supporter of Harris' vation Association, another supporter of Harris' bill.

Pipeline fire cools

City firemen, called to the scene of a spectacular blaze near the Rankin Highway seven miles south of Interstate-20 about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, left after learning from officials of the Phillips Petroleum Co. that a propane line had ruptured and caught fire, sending flames 100 feet into the air.

Company officials said a bulldozer being used in the area had punctured the pipe, but that everything was under control. However, firemen returned to the scene about 1 a.m. today and used 1,500 gallons of water to cool down the area while company crews repaired the line.

Firemen also responded to a car fire at Carver and Missouri streets shortly before 4 a.m. today and used

Police, Fire Roundup

250 gallons of water to put out a blaze in a car owned by Luther Lara of Robert Lee. The car, however, was a total loss.

An electrical fire at Goddard Junior High, 2500 Haynes, about 7:15 a.m. Wednesday caused minor damage to wiring in the school's cafeteria.

In addition, grass and trash fires were extin-guished at 1508 S. Marshall, FM 868 and Midkiff Road, 5200 W. Industrial Ave., 1114 N. Weatherford St. and 908 S. Camp. In police activity during the past 24 hours, Mrs. Jim Phipps of 707 Shell told officers Wednesday a stereo and receiver components worth a total of $2,600 were taken in a burglary of her residence.

A gold chain and other jewelry valued at $1050 were reported missing from a room at Motel-6 on West Wall Street. A key was used to gain entry, police were told.

And Roy Leon Cillim of 1320 E. Cuthbert said a pistol was removed from his vehicle while it was parked at his residence. Its value was placed at $49.95.

BUSINESS MIRROR Cut Consumer Price Index first

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There is almost no way in which President Reagan can cut federal spending without producing outrage, because almost every family is involved in one way or another with government assistance.

Well, there's probably one way, but more about that after a bit of backgrounding.

If the government is on almost everyone's back, as the old campaign slogan put it, then it's true too that almost everyone is on the government's payroll. Each, you might say, is into the other deeply. If you exclude military expenditures and interest on the public debt, benefit programs account for no less than 70 percent of budget outlays. Try excleding less than 70 percent of budget outlays. Try excising anything undersirable from that without anguished cries.

You cannot tamper with Social Security, civil service, jobless assistance, student assistance, housing assistance, food stamps, child nutrition, Medi-care or Medicaid without some pain. To cut the budget means almost inevitably to cut benefits to specific human beings. Even to slow the rate at which benefits are growing can cause much howl-

In 1965, Federal payments for individuals amount-ed to $34 billion. In 1980, they were estimated at more than $280 billion. The growth was at a rate faster than that for military or most other spending categories.

The result: individuals, families, institutions and the government are in each other's clutches. It will take a mighty and emotional wrench to separate them. The grip is as strong as that of parent and child.

What can be done?

One of the simplest restraints would be to remove benefit payments from measurement by the Consumer Price Index. Most payments increase as the CPI increases, and the CPI is acknowledged to overstate inflation.

The CPI, in fact, is so flawed, it seems, that nobody but the federal government takes it seriously anymore. It doesn't measure increases in the cost of living. What it does measure, it measures inaccurately.

What the CPI actually measures are increases in the products that make up what is called a market basket of goods and services. The government rarely changes that market basket, but individuals shoppers clearly do.

That is, shoppers switch to other goods and services when traditional ones become more expensive. They switch to chicken when beef prices rise sharply; they buy vegetables in season to avoid high prices.

Even more criticism is directed at the CPI for the unusual weight it gives to mortgage interest rates and home prices. Not everyone buys a house in a given year or month, but the CPI errs in assuming they do.

This error is then compounded by using conventional lending sources for its estimates of increases in mortgage interest costs, when last year it became clear that sellers were providing buyers with financ-ing at rates far below those offered by banks and other institutions.

Finally, the inaccurate figures are applied impro-perly, most glaringly in regard to Social Security benefits. Older people who are dependent upon So-cial Security are rarely buyers of homes. More likely they own their home or rent, and thus are immune to
