Polish leaders cultivating farmers' union

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Representatives of Poland's private farmers and the communist government signed an agreement today that calls for registration of an independent farmers' union by May 10, a spokesman for the independent union Solidarity said.

The signing in the northwestern city of Bydgoszcz was delayed for several hours by wrangling over final details. Sources said the breakthrough occurred after the farmers agreed to recognize the leading role of the Communist Party in Poland.

A spokesman for the Solidarity chapter in Bydgoszcz the farmers' union will be made up of about 800,000 of Poland's 3.5 million independent farmers.

The spokesman said a month-long sit-in at the pro-communist United Peasants Party building in Bydgoszcz and a sympathy protest begun Thursday in nearby Inowroclaw would be called off as a result of the signing. The demonstrations were to pressure the government into negotiating.

A Solidarity spokesman said before the agreement was signed that the farmers' leader, Jan Kulaj, wanted the pact to "say clearly that the union will be registered," while the government apparently believed a declaration of intent was sufficient.

Government recognition of such a union would be unprecedented in the communist world, as was the acceptance of Solidarity, a 10 million-member federation of trade unions that is independent of the Polish government.

Private farmers formed the organization Rural Solidarity last summer, shortly after the communist leadership recognized Solidarity. But while the labor federation was chartered by the government, Poland's Supreme Court said Rural Solidarity could not be given similar recognition without specific Parliament action.

On Thursday, Warsaw Television reported that a parliamentary committee had approved legislation needed for formal recognition of a farmers' union.

It said language recommended by the special committee for implementation of social contracts "would ensure the possibility of the establishment of trade unions of individual farmers." The language will be added to an omnibus unions bill currently being drawn up to codify the rights won by Polish workers, the television broadcast said.

Agriculture in Poland already is unique among the heavily collectivized Soviet-bloc countries since the nation's private farmers own 75 percent of the land and produce 80 percent of the food. Rural Solidarity claims to represent as many as 1 million of the farmers. By contrast, the official United Peasants Party, an arm of the Communist Party, has 500,000 members.

The Bydgoszcz farmers began their sit-in March 16. Three days later, when union activists refused to leave a meeting with government officials to discuss farmer grievances, police forcibly ejected and allegedly beat 23 of them. Anger over the reported beatings brought Solidarity to the brink of a nationwide general strike, which in turn raised the possibility of a Soviet military intervention.

Since the Bydgoszcz incident, there have been intermittent negotiations between farmers and government officials. A session had been set for Tuesday, but sources in Warsaw said Ciosek canceled it. The cancellation caused the Bydgoszcz demonstrators to expand their protest with a sit-in by about 100 farmers in Inowroclaw, 30 miles to the south.

That action was followed by announcement of the Parliament committee's action and a hurried trip by Ciosek and Deputy Agriculture Minister Andrzej Kacala to Bydgoszcz Thursday night.

The beatings in Bydgoszcz were the first acts of violence since labor unrest erupted in Poland last summer. Solidarity immediately demanded dismissal of government officials it said had ordered the attacks and backed its demand with a four-hour warning strike and a threat of a general strike. The general strike was averted by an 11th-hour agreement.

Colorado coal miners found dead

REDSTONE, Colo. (AP) — Rescue workers found the bodies of 15 coal miners early today, a day and a half after an explosion ripped through the Dutch Creek No. 1 mine in the Colorado Rockies, a spokeswoman for the mine operator said.

The discovery of the 15th body just after sunup today concluded the search for those killed in the explosion Wednesday afternoon, said Marvin Meyers, personnel director for Mid-Continent Resources Co., which operates the mine 30 miles west of Aspen.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately known, but there was speculation that the miners might have hit a methane gas pocket, which triggered the blast. Miners say being near a methane explosion in a mine shaft would be like being in an exploding gun barrel.

The Federal Mine Safety and Health Administration closed the mine today after the last body was removed, and it may be several months before the federal investigation ends and the mine is reopened, another Mid-Continent spokesman said.

Nine bodies were discovered in the main tunnel just before midnight Thursday, and five more were found about three hours later in a branch corridor about 1,000 feet from the first group, said spokeswoman Mary Boland.

Meyers said the last miner, identified as Kelly B. Greene, 25, of New Castle, was found 3½ hours after rescue workers found the second group of bodies.

Ms. Boland said Mid-Continent President John Reeves was with the rescuers who discovered the first nine bodies, and he reported that the victims appeared to have been killed instantly by the explosion.

The first nine victims were identified as Kyle Cook, 33, of Silt, Colo.; Richard Lincoln, 22, Glenwood Springs; Loren Mead, 35, Rifle; Ronald Patch, 34, Carbondale; Terry Lucero, 28, Glenwood Springs; Glen Sharp, 31, El Jebel; John Ayala, 40, Carbondale; John Rhodes, 29, Carbondale; and Robert Ragle, 29, New Castle.

Meyers released the names of the five other victims: Thomas Vetter, 24; William E. Guthrie, 32; Daniel Litwiller, 21; and Hugh W. Pierce Jr., 20, all of Glenwood Springs; and Brett Tucker, 30, Carbondale.

He said the bodies were being removed from the mine district office to Farnham Richardson Mortuary in Glenwood Springs.

"It's so heartbreaking," he said. "I hired some of those guys and sent them into the mine, and look what happened."

Some of the miners' families were huddled around campfires near the gate at the mine road entrance when someone ran up shouting, "They're all dead! They're all dead!"

Members of the family of one miner jumped up, their bodies racked with sobs.

Ramona Luna of Colorado Springs, sister of victim John Ayala, hugged another relative and said, "Johnny just didn't make it. He just didn't make it. He's down there."

Labor Secretary Ray Donovan, in expressing sympathy to the victims' families, today pledged continued efforts "to make the nation's mines as safe and healthful as any other type of

There are few things more pleasing in West Texas than trees — especially when there are 210 of them being planted in Midland. The 210 pecan trees are being planted along Scharbauer Draw as a joint project of the Chamber of Commerce Visual Improvements Program and the city of Midland. Wayne Kohout, left, director of the Parks and Recreation Department for the city, and Gordon Knox, VIP chairman, are in charge of the project.

Project looks 'shady'

The banks of Scharbauer Draw, accustomed only to the West Texas sun, will be shaded this summer by 210 pecan trees currently being planted under a joint venture between the Chamber of Commerce Visual Improvement Project and the city of Midland.

VIP initiated the project, aimed at beautifying the creek in areas where at least 12 feet of bank space exists. This primarily will entail 4,500 feet along Scharbauer Drive between C and I streets, with additional planting near the intersection with A Street.

VIP chairman Gordon Knox indicated that the current planting, which should be completed by the middle of next week, is only a part of a comprehensive plan involving the draw.

"In phase two we hope to have the entire draw planted," he said. "This is Midland's effort to duplicate Turtle Creek." The Dallas waterway has been recognized as a success in beautification efforts.

VIP projects, which have included the planting of 162 live oaks along Wall Ave. and 180 live oaks at Midland Regional Airport, are funded entirely through private donations. Many of the pecans along Scharbauer were purchased with donations presented by landowners along the street, said a spokesman.

Knox envisions the Scharbauer development as being more than just aesthetic, however. During a tour of the site he noted that it would be ideal for installation of a bike or jogging trail.

Shrubs will be planted between each pecan, while buffalo grass will be strewn along the creekbanks.

The trees and labor were contracted by VIP with Casa Verde Nursery.

Trimble (and CIA) gaining attention

A Midland man will be rewarded by the governor's office next month for his continuing volunteer work for the Christmas in April program here.

Bobby Trimble was nominated for the 1981 Governor's Award for Outstanding Volunteer Service by Kim Modisett, director of the Human Relations Council, last August and received a surprise notification of his award by telegram Thursday.

The Governor's Office of Volunteer Services selected Trimble along with five other winners in four categories from more than 370 nominees from throughout the state for his work as a volunteer. He will be rewarded for his efforts at a banquet in Austin's Marriott Hotel on May 6.

"I was flabbergasted!" Trimble said this morning of his reaction. "I

Widows of slain fishermen file lawsuit against accused

SAN ANGELO — The widows of two men slain while fishing near Mertzson March 22 have filed a wrongful death suit against the suspect in the murders, 76-year-old Mortimer "Bubba" Hall.

Hall is being held under guard in a San Angelo hospital, following murder indictments returned Wednesday by an Irion County grand jury. He entered the hospital Wednesday afternoon for treatment of high blood pressure and alcoholism.

The civil suit, filed here Thursday by Linda Barnardon and Alona Adams, alleges Hall "wantonly and with malice shot and killed" their husbands — John Barnardon, 34, of Midland, and 32-year-old David Adams of Rollin Acres.

The men had been fishing from a rowboat on Spring Creek. Their bodies were found on a portion of the creek that winds through Hall's property. Hall has been described as a wealthy Mertzson rancher with "odd ways." Court records show he has had several complaints lodged against him for shooting incidents over the years.

No one was injured in those alleged shootings and only one of the complaints was ever prosecuted. That complaint resulted in a $200 fine against Hall for disorderly conduct in 1976. The other complaints were either dropped by the complaining parties or were not pursued by local authorities, sources say.

Although no monetary damages are specified in the suit, it seeks compensation for wages the victims would have earned in their lifetimes, punitive damages because the shootings were "of a malicious nature" and all funeral and burial costs.

San Angelo attorney Aubrey Stokes is handling the suit for the widows, and Jerry Johnson, also of San Angelo, is representing Hall in the criminal case. It was not immediately known if he would also defend Hall in the civil case.

Lows Sunday and Monday 50s north to the 60s south cooling to the 40s north and 50s south Tuesday.

Rain probability only 20 percent

Reports from Permian Basin communities this morning indicated it wasn't raining. But it looked like it could at any minute. And the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport confirmed that a possibility for rain existed today and tonight. In fact, the Midland area forecast was calling for mostly cloudy skies and warm temperatures through Saturday with a slight chance of thunderstorms this afternoon or tonight.

Thursday's high reading was 67, far short of the record high 96-degree reading for that date set in 1937. Low this morning was 56. That compares to the record for this date of 27 degrees set in 1947. While no Permian Basin communities were reporting precipitation this morning, most were reporting cloudy skies and muggy temperatures. Scattered showers and thunderstorms threatened to spoil outdoor activities for Texans as the Easter holiday weekend began today.

Trimble (and CIA) gaining attention

(Continued from Page 1A) didn't even realize I was put up for it to start with. It was the first time in my life I've ever gotten a telegram. More important than receiving the award, Trimble said, was the fact that "a program like this has caught the attention of people." Publicity for the program could help more people throughout the state, he said. "It may not help our local Christmas in April," Trimble said. "It may get some other cities to do something about their own. I haven't been in a town that had anything like this. As far as I know it's the only one in the United States."

Working from the survey results, Trimble coordinates help, money and materials for the home repairs. "Basically," he said, "people can do what they want to do (timewise)." Trimble finds time to do a lot. "I speak just about every place I can get into: luncheons and church meetings (to solicit help from civic organizations and church groups). I spoke 20 times in March. I just make time." He went on to say he works "nearly every Saturday and evenings after work" on the building projects themselves and at the supply warehouse. "I buy all the materials that are needed and bring them to the warehouse."

He said the program not only helps elderly and handicapped people to live in decent housing, but it also helped the taxpayers. "It saves the taxpayers money, because they're the ones who pick up the tab when they (the elderly and handicapped) go into a nursing home," Trimble said. The 51-year-old Trimble has been coordinator of the Christmas in April program for the past six years, and is continuing in that role this year.

Purchasing needed materials has become an art, he said, and he can "pretty well do it without a list. It takes time to visually buy materials for 100 projects. But I can, because I've been doing it so long." Trimble has coordinated — and actually conducted — repairs on everything from roofing, plumbing, windows and doors to moving homes onto other lots and building a complete, new home.

He first became involved with the project in September 1973 when the group held its first meeting in The First National Bank building. That year, his church, Alamo Baptist, worked on two of the 17 houses to be refurbished and Trimble began surveying houses and purchasing supplies.

Trimble said he expected 110 or more of those homes to be refurbished this year, bringing the all-time count to more than 600 homes. Trimble even worked on the incorporation of the program, which came through in October 1980. Now president of the Christmas in April board, Trimble works with a 12-member board of directors for the only program of this type in Texas.

According to Mrs. Modisett, Trimble takes "two to three months a year to get ready" for the program. Going to local homes, Trimble conducts a survey of needed repairs and "makes a list of needed materials," Mrs. Modisett said.

"All the money comes from the citizens of Midland," Mrs. Modisett explained, adding the program does not receive funding from the United Way or the federal government. In the current funding campaign, some $20,000 has been raised of the $40,000 goal, she said.

Chico bank robbed

CHICO, Texas (AP) — Officials have declined to say how much money two masked men carrying shotguns got away with in their robbery of a bank in this small Northwest Texas town.

The men made eight employees and eight customers of the First State Bank of Chico lie on the floor while they forced the bank president to open a vault and fill a pillowcase with money. The robbery occurred shortly after noon Thursday.

Two Chico residents followed the robbers' car for several miles, but lost sight of the brown, late model Oldsmobile when it turned down a dirt road. The men made eight employees and eight customers of the First State Bank of Chico lie on the floor while they forced the bank president to open a vault and fill a pillowcase with money. The robbery occurred shortly after noon Thursday.

Trimble said he was "looking forward to seeing what it's all about" on May 6 in Austin. "It's time the program got some statewide publicity." The Governor's Office of Volunteer Services will release a complete list of winners and reasons for their selections on Wednesday, Beth O'Donnell, chairman of the conference, said this morning.

Theft, burglary complaints top list of criminal activity

Theft and burglary complaints topped the list of criminal activity reported to city police during the past 24 hours. An employee of the K-Mart Store, Midland Drive and Illinois Street, told officers $708.25 was missing from the establishment. The theft occurred Wednesday. Ross Reyes of 122 N. Eisenhower St. reported the theft of a 400 red and orange homedead go-cart. Four tires and chrome wheels valued at $1,250 were said to have been taken from the parking lot of Midway Motors, 2600 W. Wall St. In burglary complaints, Walt Schuyler of 2102 North H St. told police several tools were stolen from his residence. Entry was gained through a garage door. No value was placed on the tools. And Mrs. Robert Buckles, 2606 North A St., said a portable TV set worth $95 and about $15 in cash were taken from her home. Two burglary complaints were under investigation today by sheriff's deputies, but details were not available by press time.

Angry Viets sue Klan

HOUSTON (AP) — Ku Klux Klansmen, who allegedly have told Vietnamese fishermen to get out of Galveston Bay, say they welcome a lawsuit by former refugees seeking federal protection because it "shows we're effective." The Vietnamese Fishermen's Association, which represents 58 fishermen who own 51 boats, filed suit in federal court Thursday seeking injunctions against the Klan and the protection of federal deputies. It also seeks the possible assistance of the U.S. Coast Guard in the bay, where tensions have run high between local fishermen and refugees of the Vietnam War who have settled there. The Vietnamese say they have been victims of "intimidation, harassment, threats, violence and other illegal actions ... to obstruct them from fishing in Galveston Bay." Two Vietnamese boats have been burned in recent weeks, and Klansmen have held rallies, burned crosses and ridden "patrol boats" carrying guns and wearing robes.

Stockman guarantees recoup on budget plan

By DAVID ESPO Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget director David A. Stockman is guaranteeing that the setback the Reagan administration suffered at the hands of the Republican-dominated Senate Budget Committee will be reversed swiftly when Congress returns to work. Three Republicans sided with the panel's Democrats last week in providing the votes needed to reject a budget blueprint drawn to meet the specifications of President Reagan's tax and spending proposals.

But Stockman, appearing Thursday in the White House briefing room, said, "I would guarantee to you here today" that the problem that led the three Republicans to vote against the president will be solved quickly. He offered no details, but his comments echoed those of Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., who voted against the budget plan. "In all likelihood, we're going to be able to put it together with very little difficulty," a vacationing Armstrong said by telephone from Florida. Both houses of Congress are on a two-week recess that ends April 27. Reagan himself planned to begin include cutting the federal budget and urging the Federal Reserve Board to maintain a steady, slow growth of the nation's supply of money. He also has called for tax cuts that he contends would stimulate real economic growth.

ARMSTRONG was joined by Sens. Charles Grassley of Iowa and Steven Symms of Idaho in rejecting the budget proposal. They complained that the Reagan package would not guarantee the balanced budget that the president says his economic program will produce in 1984. The administration has to come up with more than $70 billion in additional budget savings for 1983 and 1984 to balance the budget, but so far has resisted outlining specific cuts.

On Thursday, Treasury Undersecretary Norman B. Ture, a principal architect of Reagan's proposal to reduce personal income taxes by 30 percent over three years, said he never suggested a compromise on the tax-cut plan during a meeting last week with House Budget Committee Chairman James Jones, D-Okla.

Stockman provided no details of how the problem can be solved, but he repeated his earlier statement that the disagreement was over accounting, and an "accounting solution" is likely. At the same time, a top Treasury Department official predicted that the administration's economic policies would moderate inflation and that interest rates should moderate later this year. "We anticipate as the year continues we'll see further evidence ... that prices are no longer surging upward because we have changed policy," said Beryl W. Sprinkel, undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs.

THE DISCUSSION set off a flurry of congressional claims — and White House denials — that the administration might accept a one-year tax cut plan instead of the three-year proposal pushed by Reagan. Reagan has said he is not willing to compromise on the multiyear tax-cut proposal.

"If we continue to get stable, moderate growth of money, I expect that on average, interest rates are going to continue on downward," he told a news conference Thursday. The administration predicts that if its policies are followed, inflation will drop from a 12.4 percent rate in 1980 to about 7 percent in 1982. Reagan's anti-inflation proposals

Stockman, meanwhile, insisted that a new study by the Congressional Budget Office demonstrates that the president's program will maintain a "safety net" of protection beneath the nation's neediest citizens. "We welcome the CBO study because we think it demonstrates that the president's safety net is still intact," he said. Critics of the president's program said the study demonstrates how the cuts in social programs will hurt the needy. But Stockman said the study, which evaluated the cuts proposed in welfare, school lunches, food stamps and public jobs, said 96 percent of the people living at or near the poverty line would "not experience any serious reduction in spendable income."

George Sosa, 29, left, finally relented to his jogging friend, Gilbert Gonzalez, 31, in a 14-mile run-jog-walk race inspired by a friendly bet. The race, along U.S. Highway 80 between Odessa and Midland on Thursday morning, took three hours and 20 minutes to complete. Sosa, who lost, treated the winner to a gourmet dinner. "George gave up," Sosa's wife, Yolanda, said.

Parents of Van Horn students file suit against school district

FORT STOCKTON — The parents of three Van Horn girls killed in a school bus accident near here March 14 have filed a wrongful death suit against the Culberson County Independent School District. The suit, filed Thursday, alleges negligence on the part of two track coaches who apparently were changing driving duties while the bus was in motion. The bus ran off Interstate 10 about 17 miles west of Fort Stockton and slammed into a piece of heavy road equipment parked along the highway. The coaches were identified as Shirley Chandler and Victor Munoz. They were no-billed by a grand jury that looked into the case. The coaches were in charge of the Van Horn High School girls' track team, which was on its way to a meet in Iraan at the time of the accident. Also named in the suit is the Allen Construction Co. of Midland, owner of the highway equipment struck by the bus, and the International Harvester Co., manufacturer of the bus. Dead as a result of the mishap are Sonja Carrillo, 14; Julie Gomez, 15; and 18-year-old Gloria Rivera. Eleven other students were injured. One of the allegations in the suit is that the bus was being driven at an "excessive" rate of speed. A point of contention is when the bus left Van Horn. The Department of Public Safety accident report quotes Munoz as saying the bus departed at 5 a.m. The accident happened about 7 a.m., some 100 miles from Van Horn — producing an average speed of 50 mph. The plaintiffs, however, allege the bus didn't leave until approximately 5:45 a.m., resulting in a speed of 80 mph. School officials have declined comment on the matter because it's in litigation. San Angelo attorney Sam Sparks is handling the suit, which is expected to be heard in 83rd State District Court at Fort Stockton.

Midlander found guilty in burglary

A 22-year-old Midlander who was caught by police with a flashlight and screwdriver in hand as he was leaving the burglarized Big Three Tire Inc. in southeast Midland last January has been convicted of burglary in 238th State District Court. He was meted out a 25-year prison term. Convicted was Michael Thomas Goodwin, who also was fined $5,000. His punishment, like his guilt, was determined by the jury, which apparently considered his prior convictions of aggravated robbery and burglary in determining punishment. Defense attorney was Jim Eubank. Judge Vann Culp presided over the case.

Franklin Fox, 26, Goodwin's alleged companion in the nighttime break-in, pleaded guilty to the offense in a plea-bargaining arrangement between his defense attorney and the district attorney and was sentenced to seven years in prison. Police were drawn to the tire store, formerly Dayton Tire Sales, by the activation of a silent electronic alarm in police headquarters. "They tried to break into vending machines in there (the tire store)," said prosecutor Jim Rex. Co-prosecutor in the Goodwin case was Mary Ann Oakley.

Big Spring woman dies of gunshot

BIG SPRING — A 24-year old Big Spring woman was shot and killed at her home at 3622 Calvin St. in Big Spring Thursday night. Charges are pending against a 58-year-old man who turned himself in following the shooting, according to a spokesman for the Big Spring Police Department. The victim, identified as Margo Domino, was shot once in the left side of the chest with a .25-caliber automatic pistol, the spokesman said. The shooting occurred around 8 p.m., he said, adding it was apparently the result of an argument.

Judge says Roloff does not need license to operate home

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state district judge ruled today that radio preacher Lester Roloff can operate his homes for wayward youth without the license the state of Texas has tried to make him get for eight years. Judge Charles Mathews' ruling marked the first time a judge has said Roloff can run unlicensed homes. The evangelist has long argued that a church-run home should not be subject to state licensing. He recited Roloff's numerous claims that state regulation of his Rebekah Home for Girls and two boys' homes would violate the U.S. Constitution, including the requirement that church and state be kept separate. The judge did not rule on any of Roloff's specific defenses but he indicated the church-state argument was decisive. "Based upon ... the law as this court understands the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Texas ... the court concludes that it must deny all the relief sought by the State of Texas in this cause," Mathews said in a letter to the parties in the case. The relief sought by the state was an order commanding Roloff to get licenses for his children's homes and to pay $46,500 in penalties for operating them without licenses since 1979. In a previous case, Mathews ordered the homes closed. Roloff shut the Corpus Christi facilities long enough to reorganize his ministry, placing the homes under his Peoples Baptist Church.

The Newspaper BIBLE

WHO IS GREATEST OF THEM ALL?

The disciples began to argue among themselves as to who would have the highest rank in the coming Kingdom.

Jesus told them, "In this world the kings and great men order their slaves around, and the slaves have no choice but to like it! But among you, the one who serves you best will be your leader."

"Out in the world the master sits at the table and is served by his servants. But not here! For I am your servant. Nevertheless, because you have stood true to Me in these terrible days, and because My Father has granted Me a Kingdom: I, here and now, grant you the right to eat and drink at My table in the Kingdom; and you will sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel."

"Simon, Simon, Satan has asked to have you, to sift you like wheat, but I have pleaded in prayer for you that your faith should not completely fail. So when you have repented and turned to Me again, strengthen and build up the faith of your brothers."

Simon said, "Lord, I am ready to go to jail with You, and even to die with You."

But Jesus said, "Peter, let Me tell you something. Between now and tomorrow morning when the rooster crows, you will deny Me three times, declaring that you don't even know Me."

Poll contends Americans should avoid Middle East

NEW YORK (AP) — The Middle East is the region Americans tourists should avoid most, while England is the "most friendly" and France the "least friendly" country in the world to American travelers, according to a poll conducted by North American travel writers.

Mexico leads the list of "best vacation spots" for the average American tourist, followed by Portugal, New Zealand, Alaska and Hawaii.

The poll, released Tuesday by the Society of American Travel Writers, excluded Egypt and Israel from countries Americans ought to avoid in the Mideast.

According to society President Myra Waldo, 114 member writers and editors from the United States and Canada submitted their choices of the top five countries in each category: most friendly to American travelers, least friendly, best foreign destination, best U.S. destination, and the region which Americans should be cautioned against visiting.

The poll results, concluded Feb. 25, with the percentage of times the destination appeared on the top-five lists, are as follows:

The countries where Americans "are most likely to get a friendly reception": England (57 percent), Canada (52), Australia (34), Japan

(28) and Mexico (26).

The countries "least friendly" to Americans: France (38), the Soviet Union (28), Iran (23), East Germany, (15) and Jamaica (12).

ON THE ROAD

Don't forget safety this weekend

By SUE ALFORD
Traffic Safety Planning
Midland College

One of our first long weekends since Spring began is upon us and that means many of us will be taking to the road to visit family, go fishing or just get away. Most of us are so ready for this break that we might not be thinking about safety while driving...we'll just be thinking about the fun at the end of the line.

In hopes that you'll read these travel tips and will all follow them, I'm going to go through a quick trip checklist.

- Have your car thoroughly serviced before any trip. At this time of the year, two really important areas are the cooling system and tires.

- Have every person in the car properly restrained. For children under four, that means a crash-tested infant carrier or child seat, properly used. For all others, that means a seat belt and a shoulder harness, if the harness fits properly across the chest and not across the face and neck. Restraints help keep drivers behind the wheel in an emergency and keep passengers from becoming missiles.

- Plan activities for youngsters who will be traveling...quite activities that will help them pass the time without getting out of their restraints or bothering the driver. Any toys provided should be soft, have no sharp edges, etc. Midland College Traffic Safety Planning does have a limited supply of Traffic Safety Bingo cards and Symbol Scout games available free to the public while the supplies last.

- When packing your car for travel, secure all luggage in the trunk or luggage carrier so that your vision is clear on all sides and you have no flying missiles if you have to brake suddenly. Objects that are placed in the interior of the car should be on the floor board.

- Using the two second rule can relieve the stress of long distance driving. Here's how to do it: locate a sign or post down the road; as the vehicle in front of you passes that sign, count "one-thousand-one, one-thousand-two;" if you pass that sign before you finish the two second count, you're following too close for safety.

- On long weekends, traffic can be unusually heavy. Make sure you have enough room when you want to pass. Signal your intentions and pass as quickly as is safe. Make a visual check over your right shoulder for clearance before returning to your lane.

JUST FOR FUN: Texas may seem rough on DWI's but its nothing like the USSR. A Moscow traffic court sentenced a drunk driver to the firing squad after he caused a wreck that killed eight persons.

WOMEN DRIVERS: Statistics indicate that in a strict, mile-for-mile comparison women drivers have ten percent fewer accidents than men. Women also have far fewer fatal accidents. Young male drivers have a fatality rate four times higher than females. Some psychologists speculate that this is because women, unlike men, have no compelling need to prove their "Machismo" by acting out feelings of aggression and strength behind the wheel of a car.

TRAFFIC TIPS: Garfield Ditch...the ditch work is complete and paving is under way. So, if the weather holds, should be open next week.

Midkiff, under construction from Storey to Golf Course, is causing particular motorist problems at the south side of the Andrews Highway intersection. Motorists are urged to be extremely cautious when turning into this intersection...a lot of us are turning into the construction area.

"A" Street, from Wadley to Airpark Road, is closed for construction.

Federal workers observe fraud, waste

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost half of federal workers participating in a survey say they personally observed fraud, waste or mismanagement at work within the past year — and 70 percent of them did nothing about it.

Of those who did report the wrongdoing to their superiors, 43 percent feel nothing happened as a result.

Many of those who looked the other way say they took no action because they feared reprisals or thought nothing would be done if they reported what they saw.

In 9 percent of the cases, the waste, mismanagement or fraud that was observed cost the government more than $100,000, according to an analysis of the survey.

The survey was conducted by the Merit Systems Protection Board, created in 1978 to protect whistleblowers from reprisals. Whistleblowers are government employees who report wrongdoing.

A questionnaire was sent to the homes of 13,000 randomly selected employees among the 757,000 in 15 civilian government agencies, and responses were received from 8,500 of them.

saved if waste, fraud and mismanagement were eliminated.

He called the situation "sad and inexcusable" and asked the government to make federal employees more aware of protections existing in law to guard them against reprisals for reporting wrongdoing.

Ruth T. Prokop, chairwoman of the Merit Systems Protection Board, said a number of employees could have witnessed the same instance of waste, fraud or mismanagement. That would have made it seem that there was more wrongdoing in government than actually exists.

Mrs. Prokop called the findings worrisome. She said workers' fear of reprisal appeared to be justified because a fifth of those who said they had reported wrongdoing said they had suffered as a result.

300 households exempt from fruit fly spraying

SAN JOSE (AP) — About 300 Santa Clara County households have been granted medical exemptions from having a pesticide to combat the Mediterranean fruit fly sprayed on their property, an official says.

Arnold Morrison, head of the spraying operation for the medfly eradication project, said Thursday that recent surgery, illness or allergies have been grounds for exemptions, granted since mid-January.

About 69,000 properties within the 50-square-mile core infestation area are sprayed every 10 days as part of the effort to rid the county of the destructive pest, which threatens the state's multibillion-dollar agricultural industry.

State crews spray fruit-bearing trees and plants that might serve as a host for medflies laying eggs. They also spray the ground around the vegetation with the pesticide, called Malathion.

Within the next few weeks, project officials expect to know whether their eradication efforts have been successful or whether aerial spraying, opposed by the urban communities, might have to be imposed.

Project officials want to discourage exemptions because they say that bypassing yards in the infested areas increases the risk that medflies will survive and mate.

Senate approves proposal granting land to families

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate has approved a proposal to allow three Leon County families to own the land they have lived on for more than 50 years without, presumably, knowing they lacked legal title.

"We've taken action as swiftly as possible to resolve this problem that has weighed heavily on the minds of the Jessie Johnsons, the Ray Benges, the McAdamses and others for quite some time. I am pleased that the Senate has acted with due speed in this matter, without prolonging the issue and the anguish felt by those families," said Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan.

The issue was first publicized when Rep. Senfronia Thompson, D-Houston, accused the General Land Office of trying to take away Jessie Johnson's land.

Johnson, 81, bought 120 acres in Leon County in 1928 and finished paying for it 40 years ago, but the state still owns it because of a 140-year-old defect in the original seller's title.

Caperton's proposed constitutional amendment would authorize the School Land Board to issue patents — or titles — if a person acquired school land without knowing the title was defective, had held the land in good faith for 50 years prior to November 1981 and had paid taxes on the land.

Caperton's amendment was sent to the House on a 28-0 vote Thursday.

It would go on a statewide ballot in November 1982. It differs from House proposals by Ms. Thompson and Rep. Jim Turner, D-Crockett, in that their amendments call for a 1981 vote.

State Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong told a Senate committee on Monday state lawyers had informed him the amendment would affect only 320 acres.

Solon encouraged by 'persistent' reports on end of grain embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., says he is hopeful there is truth in "persistent reports" President Reagan is about ready to lift the partial embargo on U.S. grain sales to the Soviet Union.

Foley, who is chairman of a House subcommittee on grains and soybeans, said Thursday that if the reports are correct "this is a good time" for the administration "to act."

"It's also a good time for the administration to begin negotiations with the Soviet Union on the continuation of the U.S.-Soviet grain agreement," Foley said in a statement.

If there is no renewal of the agreement, he said, it "could threaten" the current authorized sales of 8 million metric tons of wheat and corn annually to the Soviet Union.

Safe disposal of hogs urged

The disease is not considered a threat to humans.

Block puts Reagan farm bill grain reserve plan in effect

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John R. Block has put into effect a grain reserve plan that is part of the Reagan administration farm bill pending in Congress.

The action, announced Thursday, gives farmers with corn in the reserve an indefinite amount of time to repay price-support loans they received on their grain.

Block said in a meeting with reporters that the reason for eliminating the due date on the loans was "to launch our market-oriented administration farm program considerations administratively," instead of waiting for Congress to act on a new farm bill.

Farmers have about 790 million bushels of corn in the reserve. Loans made to farmers when they put the grain in the program — at the going rate of $2.40 a bushel — were scheduled to come due May 15 under a formula specifying a "call" of the loans as market prices increased.

The call price is $3.15 to $3.26 a bushel, depending on when the grain was put in the program. Market prices rose above those levels three months ago, triggering the loan repayment mechanism.

After the corn loans were called in, mandatory loan repayment was to be no later than April 15. However, Block authorized a 30-day extension until May 15 but ordered a jump in the loan interest rate to 15.25 percent from the previous rate of 11.5 percent beginning on April 15.

The Reagan administration's farm bill recently sent to Congress includes a similar plan for grain reserve — the elimination of the call price mechanism.

Block said the objective of his action on the current grain reserve "is to take the lid off the market and allow it to work...let it tell farmers to raise more corn this year."

As it was, the call price served as a lid on the market by requiring farmers to repay the loans and, if they chose, to sell the grain on the cash market. That would add to the available supply and automatically dampen price increases.

Block said this was one of the principles of the administration's farm bill sent to Congress.

"I felt it was an excellent opportunity to put into practice, administratively, what we would like to see as part of the legislative package," he said.

Responding to questions, Block said he believes "you'll be surprised at how many (farmers) will take advantage" of the indefinite extension of the corn reserve program, which he also said would be applied to wheat if market prices rise enough to trigger calling in the loans.

But Block said his plan does not mean farmers will keep grain in the reserve much longer.

Singapore gets model airport

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

SINGAPORE (AP) — The finishing touches are being put on a new Singapore airport designed to cope with civil air traffic well into the next century.

Construction of the $717 million Changi International Airport is on schedule, officials said. The formal opening is scheduled for July 1.

All scheduled flights will be transferred from Paya Lebar Airport on that date, said project coordinator Goh Keng Chew.

The older facility will handle diverted commercial flights until 1983, when a second runway will be completed at Changi, and will also serve military planes.

Conversion of the former British military airfield on the northeastern tip of Singapore island was ordered in May 1975. By then, expanding passenger traffic was jamming terminal facilities at Paya Lebar, which had an expected life of at least 30 years when it opened in 1955.

More than 5 million passengers passed through Paya Lebar last year. The new H-shaped terminal at Changi is designed to handle 10 million a year. Space has been set aside for three more passenger terminals.

Phase one of the project also includes aprons with parking bays for at least 45 aircraft, a cargo terminal and parking space for more than 2,000 cars and a number of buses.

There will be two fire stations, a police station and a flight kitchen large enough to prepare 50,000 meals a day. The 27-story control tower was recently handed over to the Department of Civil Aviation.

Rainwater from the runways will be collected in two reservoirs and recycled in the air-conditioning system and for fire-fighting purposes. New access roads connect the airport to equally new express highways. Changi is about 11 miles from downtown.

The roof for Singapore Airlines' column-free hangar was fabricated in Indonesia by McDermott Southeast Asia, a U.S. firm. Sections of the roof weighing more than 600 tons have been towed across Singapore Strait by barge to the construction site.

Swampy land was drained, streams diverted and 40 million cubic meters of earth reclaimed from the sea to accommodate the second of two parallel runways. Dredging got underway in 1976 only after dozens of unexploded bombs, relics of World War II, were recovered or detonated under water, officials said.

About 600 families have been resettled to make way for the 3,954-acre airport.

Billy the Kid's Tombstone returns, but is it his?

FORT SUMNER, N.M. (AP) — Billy the Kid's Tombstone is back in this southeastern New Mexico town, recovered after it had been stolen early in February. But some people say it's not Billy who's buried in the grave here.

They believe he died at a ripe old age in the 1940s and was not killed by Sheriff Pat Garrett's gun in 1881.

The Kid's granite tombstone was recovered in Huntington Beach, Calif. The story brought memories for some residents of the Southwest, including C.S. Holmes of Clovis, N.M., who had obtained a copy of an old grand jury indictment in Seymour, Texas, in the 1960s.

The indictment, filed in Hardiman County, Texas, on Dec. 28, 1881, charges a man with the killing of another. Witnesses who testified before the grand jury were listed as W.A. Tackett, Jack Grishman, Billy the Kid and Sam Watson.

The Kid's tombstone says he was killed by Garrett on July 14, 1881, five months earlier.

Either someone used his name on the court document or he was not killed. And if the Kid was not killed, someone else was buried in his grave at Fort Sumner in 1881.

Jimmy Ramage, an elementary-school principal in Hico, Texas, said during a telephone interview that he remembered an old man who lived in Hico in the 1940s and claimed to be Billy the Kid. Ramage said the man called himself "Brushy Billy" and was always talking about his experiences. He wore a big hat, usually a plaid shirt. He had a handlebar mustache and a gray beard.

Brushy Billy was about 5-foot-6 or 5-foot-7, of medium build, and chewed tobacco on occasion.

Folks took his word about being Billy the Kid with a grain of salt, Ramage said.

It has been suggested Garrett and the Kid were friends, and that his death was a ruse to allow the Kid to escape from the public eye. And they say a derelict was buried in the Kid's place 100 years ago.

'Macbeth, Magoo and Uba Too' poorly transitioned

"Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player that struts and frets his hour upon the stage and then is heard no more; it is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing."
— Shakespeare from "Macbeth"

Alas, if Shakespeare were here today to see the Pickwick Players' parody of "Macbeth" his line would perhaps read — "Macbeth, Magoo and Uba Too" is but a walking shadow, a poorly transitioned play that struts and frets its hour upon the stage and then hopefully is heard no more. It is a tale directed by its writer, full of sound and fury, apparently signifying nothing.

This is not to say that the actors and actresses did not do the best they could with what they had. In most cases, they did. But they had so little with which to work.
In fact, the acting was one of the two redeeming features of the production. The other — this week's productions are the debut performances of an original play.

WRITTEN BY THE NEW Pickwick director at Midland Community Theatre, Louis Moloney. "Macbeth, Magoo and Uba Too" is, in the words of its author, "a combination of Shakespeare and the Sunday funnies. It is also the way the world looks today from the viewpoint of one child, little McOogoo."

"I wrote this play with these questions in mind: What if Macbeth had a son? What if Hitler had children? What would their life be like? What would the world look like to them?
"I have billed the play as a 'comical-tragical extravaganza' because at times it is very funny to me, and then at closer inspection it is very sad. For despite our laughing at him, Captain McOogoo is not a funny character. What he says is not funny. And yet we still laugh, at times."

These comments come from the play's study guide prepared by Moloney and Maridell Fryar for the 4th and 5th graders in the Midland Independent School District. The play was seen by this audience Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. It has two public performances slated for Saturday at 1 and 3 p.m. in Theatre I, 2000 W. Wadley Ave.

THE THEORY generally goes something like this — The Pickwick Players, which is MCT's children's theater, will perform productions that appeal first to children and then to adults. The ideal play is one which is enjoyed and understood by both. That's the theory.

This Punch and Judy styled one-act play follows a boxing match format, divided into 12 rounds with an announcer, Valerie Hochman, who explains the action and introduces the characters. Miss Hochman is appropriately attired and carries her part well. She looks and acts like an announcer.

The cast of characters includes Joe White as King Herislas, Kathryn Wolf as Princess Zedeslas, J.J. Baskin as Prince Coleslas, Dee Ann Jones as Messenger Mess, Todd Weiler as Curly O. Dolure, Sharon Graham as the Cutthroats, Teri Colson and Kim Slough as the Cheering Multitude, Dare Rosebery as Joe Mob, Cassandra Bell as Buzz Hardy, Mike Jordan as Moe Robinski, Wayne Burrow as Good Citizen Dungleheape, Beth Stanley as the Starving Peasants, Ken Barragan as Captain McOogoo, Laura Wolf as Lady McOogoo, Todd Jenkins as Little McOogoo and Curtis Eakin as the Referee.

IT IS DIFFICULT to evaluate each actor's performance because the action on stage was often confusing. This is a matter of staging and it is up to the director to achieve the desired effect. If Moloney was trying to create confusion, he succeeded.

There is no character development in the play. The thespians were cartoon representations. When viewed as representing cartoon people, each did an admirable job of achieving that goal.

Perhaps the most memorable characterizations were done by Todd Weiler, J.J. Baskin and Laura Wolf. Weiler's stance, eye movements and mannerisms convincingly carried off a cartoon characterization of Adolph Hitler. Baskin's movements, voice intonation and facial expressions were the replica of the typical villain. Miss Wolf also performed a believable cartoon characterization of Shakespeare's power happy and insanely greedy Lady Macbeth.

It appeared that Ken Barragan was trying to portray Macbeth, Mr. MaGoo style. Several of his lines were garbled and the viewer was uncertain if his ambling around the stage was designed to create a MaGoo image or if it was just ambling. This again is the job of the director. And it is often difficult to direct what one is close to. And as the writer of the play, Moloney is certainly close to what he has created. Otherwise, Barragan did an effective job.

THE STAGE WAS entertaining and its construction helped create a Jack in the Box feeling. What was confusing was the lack of consistency in the clothing.

Since the play was in the Punch and Judy style, the dialogue had many Mr. Kotter (as in the television series) type put downs and the action centered around punching each other. It contained a lot of cartoon violence.

Moloney, who has written several other plays, seemed to be trying to say, violence creates violence, eventually destroying itself. However, the message, if there was one, was not clear.

Although the audience responded with laughter at some of the appropriate times, it shuffled and squirmed during several of the last rounds.

It appears to this reviewer that Moloney started with what he wanted to say and then tried to say it by using too much. Simple is almost always best.

And as John Gardner said, in his book "On Moral Fiction," "Art is as original and important as it is because it does not start out with a clear knowledge of what it means to say... Art in sworn opposition to chaos, discovers by its process what it can say. That is art's morality... Hence the old but important commonplace: the meaning of a work of art is the work of art."

Hopefully the theater will continue to experiment with new plays because they provide the audience with an opportunity to grow and learn.

As for Moloney, do try again.

Soviet poem in honor of 23 slain children

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet children's newspaper, Pioneer Pravda, today published a poem dedicated to the 23 black children killed in Atlanta, Ga.

Soviet news accounts of the slayings have repeatedly made the assumption that white racists are responsible.

Here, in unofficial translation, is part of the poem, titled "The Right to Live Without Rights," which was published alongside pictures of some of the Atlanta victims. It was written by Nikolai Entelis, whom the paper identified only as an outside contributor.

With open smiles, so trusting they appear,
I look at these children with fear.
They are gone now — understand, they are gone!
Never again will they see a spring dawn.
The sea will never sparkle for them.
And they will never say "mother" again.
And these curly-headed children have committed what sin?
Only the color of their coal-black skin.
Only that their teeth are sugar-white.
Only that they are small, and they have no rights.
For this they suffer, from knives and lead
Their fathers and mothers are in sorrow and dread.

So who is guilty in that distant land?
The hail of lead comes from whose hand?
America has its racist groups.
Conscience and honor mean nothing to their groups.

And the state? There are laws and rights, says the state.
Deception! Hypocrisy! Words with no weight!
The fate of Negroes is pain and terror,
And 20 million people have become their bearer.
The whole earth condemns the evil hands,
The killers of children, who had clean hands.
And ever more often now, when racists attack,
Negroes stand up, and fight insolence back.

FBI chief says agent's remarks caused problem

ATLANTA (AP) — An FBI agent who alleged earlier this week that parents killed some of the 23 young blacks slain in the Atlanta area in the past 21 months may be in trouble, his supervisor says.

"There's a potential problem there for Mike Twibell," Special Agent John Glover said Thursday. "But it's a sensitive issue and I'm not at liberty to discuss it."

Glover refused to comment on whether Twibell, the head of the Macon FBI office, had been disciplined or relieved of duty because of his statements, made Tuesday night to a Macon civic club.

Twibell's statement brought an angry reaction Thursday from the head of a group that includes many of the parents of the 23 slain and two missing young blacks.

Camille Bell, mother of slain Yusef Bell and head of the Committee to Stop Children's Murders, sent FBI Director William Webster a letter that said:

"As parents and relatives of 25 young Americans either murdered or missing in Atlanta for more than 20 months, we stand united and dedicated to let almighty God alone be our judge.

"For this reason we urge you, based on alleged available evidence, to place under arrest immediately those parents suspected of mercilessly taking their babies' lives," she said.

If such arrests are not made within 24 hours, Mrs. Bell said, "we ask that you personally inform the nation of this error in judgment and miscommunication."

In Washington, FBI spokesman Dave Divan said Thursday night that the letter had not been received at FBI headquarters and Webster would have no comment. He said the agency does not plan to respond to the letter until Glover has "made an assessment of the situation."

Twibell's comment that "some of these kids were killed by their parents" came one day after Webster himself had touched off a storm of controversy by saying authorities had "substantially solved" three or four of the cases but couldn't prosecute for lack of evidence.

Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown denied that any of the slayings had been solved.

But Fulton County District Attorney Lewis Slaton said Thursday authorities have suspects in more than four "isolated" killings among the 23 slayings, but that they may never be tried because of court rulings on evidence-gathering procedures.

Slaton, whose office would handle the prosecution in at least 18 of the cases if arrests were made, said he doubts that several of the cases "will ever be tried no."

"It used to be that we could question people without advising them of their right to an attorney as long as we didn't abuse them in any way," he said. "Now we can't. Some of the cases might have been solved and brought to trial if those rules weren't on the books."

Slaton would not identify the more than four "isolated" slayings in which he said authorities "have someone in mind" as the culprit. He said that in some of those cases, police investigators have different opinions as to whether they have a "strong suspect."

At a news conference on the steps of Atlanta City Hall, Mrs. Bell said she and several other parents had been interrogated by police and had submitted to lie-detector tests.

In another development, members of the special police task force investigating the 23 slayings decided not to question a man arrested in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who resembles a composite drawing of a man seen with the latest victim, 21-year-old Larry Rogers.

Police spokeswoman Beverly Harvard said the decision was made after the task force received a report from FBI agents who had questioned the man in Fort Lauderdale.

Woman convicted in baby's death

CHICAGO (AP) — A 19-year-old woman whose infant daughter died from a steady diet of beer and water faces 20 to 40 years in prison after being convicted of the 4½-month-old child's murder.

Circuit Court Judge Frank B. Machala found Diane Kent of Chicago guilty Thursday after a three-day bench trial. He said Miss Kent knew her act "created a strong possibility of death or bodily harm" for her daughter, Mary Jean.

The child died while asleep on June 21, 1980. Miss Kent was indicted July 28 by a grand jury after tests found the presence of alcohol in the infant's body.

Witnesses testified that Miss Kent, too young to buy alcohol legally in Illinois, fed the infant a mixture of beer and water from the time she was three weeks old. Prosecutors charged the mother was an alcoholic and gave beer to the child to keep her quiet.

The family requests that memorials be directed to the Matthew and Tommie Lynn Scholarship Fund, First Presbyterian Church, Midland.

South Plains residents oppose plan

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The MX missile system is an undesirable neighbor that would take too much agricultural land out of production and use money that could be spent to feed the hungry, a group of South Plains residents has told an Air Force panel.

The panel was in Lubbock Thursday for one of 16 hearings scheduled in four states that may become the system's home.

Federal spokesmen say the preferred site for the 200 missiles and 4,600 launch sites is in Nevada and Utah. But an alternate plan would based the system between Dalhart, Texas, and Clovis, N.M.

About 125 South Plains residents attended the afternoon session, and about 90 showed up for the evening meeting. Most of those attending expressed their disapproval of the Texas-New Mexico proposal.

"We're not against the MX system per se," said Carl King, spokesman for the Texas Corn Growers Association. "We're not against it if it's necessary for deterrence, but we are against using agricultural land (as a site for the system)."

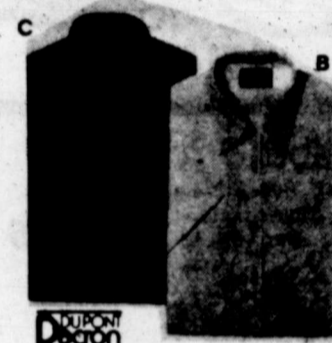

About 10 protesters picketed the meetings, wearing signs that read, "Help Unborn, Abort MX" and "No MX."

Careful action needed

While everything appears fairly well in order, at this point anyway, on the request Tuesday for a specific use permit for construction of a heliport near downtown Midland, the city council is showing wisdom by not rubber-stamping its approval.

Councilmen Tom Sloan and Gordon Marcum II voiced concerns about potential safety and noise problems which could result from the private-use heliport proposed for construction atop the three-story BTA Oil Producers building. Those are primary considerations and should be answered fully prior to any final council action. Likely the answers will be known prior to the April 28 public hearing.

Ed Harbold, regional manager of Lone Star Helicopters which flies the helicopter BTA uses, noted that safety always is the big consideration. "We want it to be a safe operation," he said.

Harbold detailed restrictions already placed on the proposed heliport by both the Federal Aeronautics Administration and local governmental entities. According to the restrictions, the BTA heliport could only be used by a twin-engine helicopter that would be operated in such a manner that if one engine malfunctioned, the craft could continue to operate on the other engine. The heliport would be for daytime use only and there could be no approaches or departures to or from the east (the direction of Midland's downtown skyscrapers).

Further, if multi-story buildings were later constructed either to the north or the south of BTA, use of the heliport would have to be discontinued, Harbold added.

According to Harbold, the BTA heliport would only be used by about five flights per month. But council members appear to be rightfully concerned about a proliferation of heliports throughout the downtown area.

Perhaps the heliport would be a progressive step for Midland. Certainly we do not want to be accused of holding back progress.

But there are numerous oil companies and other business concerns in the downtown area which likely would enjoy the convenience of heliports and, if all chose to pursue that route, the traffic situation above downtown Midland could start to resemble the traffic situation at ground-level in downtown Midland. Careful planning can circumvent many potential problems.

It's best to look carefully at this request, not for what it will bring to the city initially, but what the result may be five or 10 years from now. The city council seems to have those considerations in mind, and that is reassuring.

A voice to heed

World leadership has many dimensions — economic, military, intellectual. Basic scientific research is a key not only to the intellectual leadership of this country, but also to our leadership in economic development and military power.

So Richard C. Atkinson, chancellor of the University of California, San Diego, argued in his plea for research and development funds before the House Armed Services Committee recently. Atkinson, a former director of the National Science Foundation, stressed the link between declining U.S. productivity and the declining commitment to science.

Germany and Japan — even the Soviet Union — have increased the level of research and development investment — with corresponding economic gains. By contrast, the American determination has sagged since 1968. Basic research as a fraction of the federal budget has decreased by 27 percent, research and development by 36 percent. Investment by industry in relation to sales has dropped by 32 percent.

And, Atkinson warned the panel, the serious decline in the nation's defense industrial capability places our national security in jeopardy.

His concern should be heeded by the several government agencies with a stake in science and by industry.

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan overrules admirals on vital communications system

WASHINGTON — A hospitalized President Reagan did not wait for the tragic sinking April 10 of a Japanese trawler by a missile-firing Polaris submarine to bring the admirals to heel by ordering full speed ahead on a vital submarine communications system they wanted stopped.

From the White House last week, an undated memorandum ordered Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger to countermand the Navy's decision to cancel its extremely low frequency (ELF) communications system. The memo bore only Reagan's name, not his signature, but it had been orally approved from the hospital bed of the invalid commander in chief.

"... There shall be no funding reductions," Reagan said. "You should advise the Navy that I am not inclined to terminate this much-needed program without compelling evidence to do so."

That presumably scuttled the effort by the admirals to play the familiar old Navy game: Put aside currently needed projects at the expense of funding futuristic systems. Surprisingly, the Pentagon civilians did not bring the Navy brass up short; the decision on a piece of hardware had to go all the way to the president's hospital bed.

The Navy leaked the first news of this to the public via no champion of the Pentagon: Sen. Carl Levin of Michigan, a liberal Democrat and all-out environmentalist foe of ELF, a system destined for his home state. When Levin passed the word to the Detroit News, it exploded with the force of a Polaris missile among defense leaders on Capitol Hill. For 20 years, the Navy and a few brave politicians willing to take on the environmentalist lobby had preached the soundness and safety of ELF. Without it, the president cannot communicate with submerged U.S. submarines; they must come close to the surface and trail their antennas.

That is probably what happened, Navy submariners told us, in the East China Sea tragedy April 10. The U.S.S. George Washington, a Polaris missile sub, was almost certainly surfacing to pick up new orders. That maneuver would be unnecessary with ELF.

In an international emergency, the president could not order U.S. strategic submarines to prepare for possible missile firings, or to rush to a new location, without risking their destruction by an enemy as they expose their surface antennas. ELF is "the critical linchpin" to wartime deployment of the subs, wrote Sen. John Tower, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, in an

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Justice covers up chiefs' misbehavior

WASHINGTON — Attorney General William French Smith's top priority isn't violent crime, but reform of the systematic, high-level coverups within the Justice Department, which threaten to undermine the effectiveness of the nation's chief law enforcement agency.

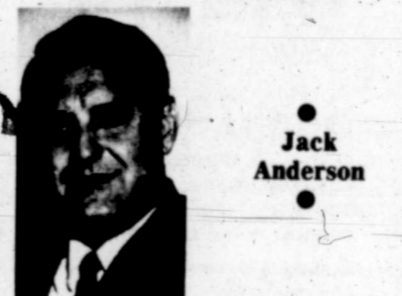

Smith is not responsible for the "see-no-evil" attitude of subordinates he inherited, of course. But the relaxed way that Justice Department probes go after allegations of misbehavior by the big fish remains at the scandalous level reached under the Carter administration.

One example involves Peter Bensinger, whose unquestioned competence and political savvy have enabled him to remain head of the Drug Enforcement Administration during three administrations. Bensinger's success as a narcotics bloodhound is attested to by numerous spectacular busts, which resulted in confiscation of hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of illicit drugs.

My associates Jack Mitchell and Indy Badwar have learned that the Reagan transition team was offered substantial charges of misconduct by Bensinger. The allegations include misuse of DEA agents for personal convenience and exotic shopping trips while Bensinger was traveling on official business.

In addition, I've received reports that the Justice Department is aware of allegations that DEA agents were assigned to chauffeur Bensinger's relatives around various vacation spots abroad. And his mother has been helped through customs by DEA agents on a VIP basis on several occasions.

Furthermore, when the allegations against Bensinger by DEA employees were made to Senate investigators and offered to the White House transition team, the informants said they could get virtually dozens of agents to testify under oath on their knowledge of the abuses charged.

I should emphasize that Bensinger hasn't been found guilty of any wrongdoing. But the widespread knowledge of the allegations within the DEA has affected employee morale. If for no other reason, the charges should be given a thorough airing.

One serious charge of improper behavior was referred to the Justice Department recently. It got the same halfhearted investigation that has become the hallmark of the department's handling of political big shots.

According to the allegation, Bensinger or a subordinate sent a DEA agent from New York to Washington just to hand-carry a Latin American vase the director had bought overseas. To give the trip some faint color of official business, the agent was given a dictation tape to deliver to Washington. According to a DEA source, another agent had feared an impropriety and had already refused the assignment.

The agent who did make the trip said in a taped conversation that he didn't think it was a proper use of his time. He turned Bensinger's vase over to a DEA official at Washington's National Airport — and mailed the dictation tape the next day.

CHARLEY REESE

'Disinformation' strategy still pursued by Soviets

The novel, "The Spike," which was written by two respected newsmen, deals with the Soviet KGB's "disinformation" efforts.

Though the book is fiction, the KGB disinformation program is not. Only recently, French intelligence agents arrested a well-known Paris journalist who for years had been handed information by the KGB.

This particular program of the Soviet intelligence agency is designed to discredit anti-communist or anti-Soviet leaders, to disarm the public, to confuse it, to mislead it, and to play a part in undermining Western responses to Soviet expansionism.

It should come as no surprise that the Soviets would seek to both infiltrate and to influence the press in countries it has targeted for subversion and eventual conquest, including the U.S.

Nor should it come as any surprise that such an effort would be relatively easy. A great many journalists tend to be left-of-center in their thinking anyway; thus, it is easier to see the defects in an anti-communist country, such as Chile, than it is in a leftist country such as Cuba or, now, Nicaragua. They are receptive to information which tends to confirm their own prejudices.

It is a fact, for example, that numerous American leaders, both military and Congressional, began to warn that the Soviet Union was racing ahead of the United States in 1971. Yet, most of the national press did not begin to pay attention to this military imbalance until 1980.

The horrible holocaust of Cambodia was virtually unreported for months after the Reader's Digest had published a book detailing the terrible massacres that were taking place.

When Orlando Letelier, the Marxist diplomat from Chile, was assassinated in Washington, papers in his briefcase proved that he was receiving money from the Cuban intelligence service, yet the Washington Post, which did not hesitate to publish the Pentagon papers, declined to report this even after Accuracy in Media called it to the Post's attention.

Subsequently, when the late Laurence Stern, the Post's national editor, died, he was eulogized by the head of the Cuban intelligence apparatus working in Washington. The Village Voice waxed eloquent about Stern's leftist ideology.

Stern had deflected the Post's use of a "free lance" writer in Havana who had been on Fidel Castro's payroll for a number of years and Post coverage of Nicaragua was blatantly sympathetic to the Sandanistas.

Some people decry even the suggestion that foreign intelligence agencies or ideological leanings influence the news in the American press. I believe that is a naive position. We have the historical record which proves of course that communist do end up on the staffs of American publications. Whitaker Chambers, for one, was senior editor at Time. We have evidence that the KGB does use journalists to plant stories.

I would think, however, that the degree of penetration by KGB agents or communist is relatively small. Just the natural limitations of our craft, however, makes it vulnerable to unwitting manipulation. Most papers, for example, rely on native stringers in foreign countries and objectivity is not a journalistic tradition in any country.

The wire services today frequently rotate their foreign correspondents with the result that it is rare to find a wire service journalist stationed overseas who speaks the language of the country in which he is serving. This is a tremendous disadvantage.

Still, it behooves every editor and publisher to at least be aware of the KGB disinformation program and to watch for signs of it. It's far better to clear our own houses than for the FBI to do it for us.

Administration won't address dress code issue

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, saying beards and bras are no business of the federal government, is moving to scrap a rule that allows high school students to file federal complaints about restrictive dress codes.

Education Secretary T.H. Bell said Thursday he will propose eliminating dress codes from the purview of his department's Office for Civil Rights, which enforces a law against sex discrimination in education.

The move immediately drew fire from leaders of women's and Indian groups, who charged it would give local school officials a free hand to install discriminatory dress codes.

But Bell called the dress code section of the Title IX regulations "another example where we've stretched and tortured the law out to the point of absurdity."

"I don't think Congress ever intended that the department would be enforcing matters that relate to length of beards, hair and skirts and whether or not you come to school braless or with bra," Bell said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press.

The Office for Civil Rights has 46 grooming and appearance complaints pending.

Kurt Blue Dog, a staff attorney with the Native American Rights Fund in Boulder, Colo., charged that the action would abridge "both the education and religious freedom of Indian people."

The issue may seem frivolous to many people, but not to Indians growing up in a culture "that traditionally has depicted Indians as being drunks, winos, bums (and) freeloaders," said Blue Dog, a Sioux Indian.

Wearing long hair promotes for Indians "a positive self-image (that helps them) relate to their own cultural and religious heritage."

Robin Gordon of the Project on Equal Education Rights, a women's group, said, "It's clearly allowing sex discrimination because it allows school districts to set unfair rules which apply to one sex and not the other arbitrarily. We have always maintained these sorts of rules ought to be made by parents."

This is the third about-face in as many years by top federal officials on the dress code rule. Former Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. proposed withdrawing it in December 1978, but his successor, Patricia Roberts Harris, rescinded Califano's move a year later.

It also marked Bell's second foray against education regulations. Two months ago he withdrew proposed bilingual education rules.

Bell said the dress code rule would have forced him to issue "silly citations...and send out legions of OCR people to enforce (it)."

Bell will have to publish a notice of his intent to amend the regulations in the Federal Register and give the public 60 days to comment on it.

Title IX is part of a 1972 law that banned sex discrimination in any educational institution that receives federal funds. HEW issued lengthy regulations for enforcing the statute in 1975.

It states schools must not "discriminate against any person in the application of any rules of appearance." Civil rights enforcers said that meant schools could not set hair lengths for boys alone or mandate brassieres.

But Bell said that reasoning ignores the "differences in the physical appearances of males and females."

"Can we pretend that there aren't any differences and that therefore we can have a uniform rule for everybody?" he asked. "And if a principal wants a rule that young high school women ought not to come to school without adequate covering about their chests, is it a violation of the civil rights of these women and had we ought to rush in and defend their rights to come to school braless unless we have a similar rule that applies to males?"

"I just don't think the federal government has any business in this sort of thing," Bell said.

Man's pending parole horrifies his victim

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — After suffering through forced sex acts, escaping two slaying attempts and losing an eye in a beating, Nancy Conn testified against the man accused of attacking her and killing two other women, and the man went to prison.

Now, eight years later, she has watched in horror as Richard Mark Ellard, who had escaped from prison twice, was released by the Alabama Pardon-Parole Board and sent to prison in Georgia, where he is eligible for parole next month.

"My concern is the unbelievably horrible example this is setting—to think that eight years is sufficient time for what a person like him has done is incredible," Mrs. Conn, of Birmingham, wrote in an open letter to Alabama newspapers Thursday.

Her anger was shared by the state attorney general, who is threatening to sue the board, and the Alabama House, which voted to censure the board.

Ellard, 35, was convicted of murder in Alabama in the killing of Mrs. Conn's cousin, Charlotte Parks. He was also convicted of assault in Mrs. Conn's case and convicted of murder in Georgia in the killing of Sandra Swisher. He was paroled March 2 and transferred to a Georgia prison because of the conviction in Miss Swisher's death.

The Alabama House adopted a resolution Thursday censuring the parole board for its "irresponsible parole." The Senate was considering a similar resolution.

Attorney General Charles Graddick threatened to sue the board members for "gross abuse of discretion."

The parole board asked Graddick's office on Thursday whether it can reverse its decision, but board members didn't say whether they would reverse their decision if they could.

The parole board voted 2-1 to release Ellard. Board member John Porter, a Birmingham minister who voted for the parole, said he made the decision believing that Georgia would not release Ellard immediately.

"I've been on the parole board for four years," Porter said, "and I have paroled hundreds of prisoners. When you take an office like this you know that there will be controversies. I know that some of the decisions I make will be unpopular."

The chairman of the Georgia parole board, James T. Morris, said the board could delay paroling Ellard for up to three years. But he didn't indicate what action the George board would take.

Porter said he hoped the educational opportunities in the Georgia prison system could help prepare Ellard "for his ultimate release back into society."

"We released him upon the recommendation of the warden and the institutional parole officers. We had done as much as we could for him," Porter said.

Monday was supposed to be an Easter holiday; however, it is now a make-up day for bad weather which forced postponement of school in November.

Trinity Towers rated superior

Trinity Towers is one of four nursing homes in the state to once again receive a superior rating from the Texas Department of Health this week, according to State Health Commissioner Dr. Robert Bernstein.

Consistency in exceptional care for residents prompted the rating for Trinity Towers. Also included among the four were San Antonio's Air Force Village, Waco's Hillcrest Manor, and Dallas' Buckner Baptist Trew-Ryburn.

Brezhnev gives space warning

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev called today for barring the "militarization" of outer space and said it should be free of "weapons of any kind."

Brezhnev spoke three days after the maiden flight of the American space shuttle Columbia, which the Soviet news media charges is a craft built mainly for military purposes. The United States says shuttle missions will be primarily civilian, although Pentagon payloads will also be carried.

Meanwhile, another Soviet official was quoted as saying the Soviet Union might be interested in another joint space flight with the United States, possibly involving the shuttle.

The 74-year-old Soviet leader, speaking as he presented awards to Soviet and Mongolian cosmonauts for a recent joint flight, said "We are for joint efforts to reach a great and humanitarian aim — to preclude the militarization of outer space," a Tass news agency report said.

"May the boundless cosmic ocean be pure and free of weapons of any kind," Brezhnev added.

The United States and the Soviet Union both use space already for military spy satellites. Each country is also reported to be developing equipment to destroy the other's satellites in orbit, and Western space experts say the American space shuttle will be able to capture Soviet satellites.

Diplomats speculated that Brezhnev's remarks could be aimed in part at preventing the testing of lasers or other advanced space weapons from the American shuttle.

An American congressman, on a private visit to the Soviet Union, said today that a Soviet Foreign Ministry official had raised the possibility of another joint U.S.-Soviet space venture to improve relations between the two countries.

Rep. F. James Sensenbrenner Jr., R-Wis., said Viktor G. Komplektov, chief of the American department of the Soviet Foreign Ministry, did not specify what he had in mind in the way of space cooperation.

But Sensenbrenner said in an interview with the Associated Press that he believed the Soviet official "was talking specifically about the space shuttle."

The only joint space flight between the United States and Soviet Union was in July, 1975 — America's last space mission prior to the successful shuttle flight — when Soviet and American spaceships linked up in orbit.

Bomb exploded prematurely

AJACCIO, Corsica (AP) — The time bomb that killed a young tourist at the Campo Dell'Oro Airport, just as President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's plane arrived, exploded seven minutes ahead of schedule, bomb experts said today.

They said a telephone warning three minutes before Thursday's powerful blast did not give authorities enough time to evacuate the airport, located three miles east of here.

Eight people were wounded in the explosion, including 19-year-old Peter Hitz of Switzerland who died this morning at a Marseille hospital. Giscard d'Estaing was unaware of the attack until informed by aides aboard the plane. He came to Corsica, a French department, to attend a political rally in his campaign for the April 26 French presidential elections.

Police experts said the bomb was made of about nine pounds of dynamite and a timer and placed in a locker in the main lobby of the airport, which was crowded with passengers waiting for regularly scheduled flights and a crowd of people hoping to catch a glimpse of the president.

Investigators said the timer was set for 5:30 p.m. but the bomb went off at 5:23 p.m., just as Giscard d'Estaing's plane was taxiing to a waiting car on the runway. Aides said the president never intended to enter the airport.

A caller identifying himself as a member of the outlawed Corsican National Liberation Front — FLNC — called the airport at 5:20 p.m. and said: "This is the FLNC. A bomb is going to explode," police said.

Giscard d'Estaing and the other presidential candidates condemned the bombing.

Socialist candidate Francois Mitterrand, who polls indicate is the president's strongest opponent, expressed his "absolute condemnation" of the attack, saying problems must be solved by the ballot.

The violence was also condemned by Georges Marchais, the Communist candidate.

"I understand their (Corsicans') anger, but it is by the struggle that they will obtain the changes that they want, not by violence."

"Democracy will not tolerate such methods, said Paris Mayor Jacques Chirac, the Gaullist candidate for president.

Pentagon wants site reactivated

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior Pentagon research official wants the Reagan administration and Congress to reactivate an anti-ballistic missile site in North Dakota to reinforce U.S. ability to detect a Soviet missile assault on the United States.

Dr. Seymour Zeiberg, a Carter administration holdover, said Thursday he has advanced the idea to the new administration and the Senate Armed Services Committee and hopes to win its acceptance before he leaves office.

The anti-missile site at Grand Forks, N.D., was never put into full operation because of a U.S.-Soviet agreement to limit ABM defenses on both sides and because defense officials felt it was not worth the expense.

But a key element, called a Perimeter Acquisition Radar, which served to detect incoming missiles in the event of attack, was kept in operation as part of the U.S. warning system.

Zeiberg, deputy under-secretary of defense for space and strategic systems, proposes installing two types of missile interceptor weapons at Grand Forks. They would protect the station from possible destruction in event of a Soviet attack and undergird the U.S. warning system, he said.

The two types of interceptors would be a long-range, non-nuclear explosive weapon using pellets to disable, or destroy, incoming missiles and a short-range, nuclear-armed Sprint weapon to knock down any attacking warheads that penetrated the long-range screen.

Zeiberg agreed the United States already has an extensive early-warning system in satellites watching from space and huge ground radar stations in the far north.

Guess what's coming to dinner?

An under-the-table view of Midland's restaurants

By LOREN BERGER
Lifestyle Writer

Drive through the parking lot at 2501 W. Wall Ave. on any weekend night and it's jammed with cars. Walk inside the establishment's pale blue lobby and expect to find long lines prevalent at every lunch hour.

Business "buzzes" at the Blue Star Inn. The restaurant, which serves predominantly Chinese food — and daily chicken-fried steak specials — boasts one of the most loyal clientele in Midland. However, despite its well-established popularity, the Blue Star Inn has maintained a tumultuous tug-of-war with the Midland City-County Health Department since its opening 30 years ago.

The restaurant first caught the attention of the health department in the '50s, when inspectors noted animals, such as possums, were being shot and hung in the back of the building — an area unscreened from the kitchen.

After more than seven visits by the health department over the past year, inspection reports show the Blue Star Inn has been steadily reprimanded for continual roach infestation, signs of flies and rodents, dirty employee restrooms, uncovered food in refrigerators and walk-in vaults and general unsanitary conditions.

Although the restaurant has received consistent poor ratings by the health department, it has survived several ordered shut downs and intermittent cancellations of health permits.

"Actually, I don't like a dirty place myself," said Joe Chung, owner-manager. "But we do have a little trouble and we do get behind some days." Although Chung said the restaurant is sprayed nightly for roaches — a problem all restaurants face since the banning of DDT — he emphasizes most of the problems stem from unreliable, transient help.

BEHIND THE KITCHEN DOORS

Other restaurants whose health standards have concerned the health department on a number of occasions in the past include the following:

Johnny's Barbeque, 316 N. Big Spring — issued health permit suspension warnings two years ago after an inspection discovered beef scraps were piled several feet high behind the service counter.

Golden Dragon, 1 Imperial Shopping Center — recently closed for "kitchen repairs" after dead roaches were found in ice cream containers and stored food was failing to meet temperature requirements.

Montana Mining Co., 1 Oak Ridge Square — health inspectors expressed concern during a routine inspection last year which revealed the restaurant was storing insecticide on top of refrigerator in the kitchen.

Dorothy's Steak House, 304 E. Florida — after an irate customer rose from his seat and killed a mouse in front of other lunching patrons last year, the restaurant was ordered to close to seal mouse holes in the walls.

Red's Drive Inn, 1807 E. Front — initially resisted orders to close last year after an inspector criticized the restaurant's source and quality of meat as well as unsanitary surroundings.

In addition to a number of restaurants, Midland's three country clubs have had minor confrontations with the health department concerning dirty kitchens, equipment and utensils.

Despite recent improvements, the Midland Country Club, where memberships cost $7,500 in addition to $100 monthly fees, has tended to border on the unsanitary side, according to health inspection reports. The club has been cited for presence of mice, employees smoking around kitchen areas, peeling paint, improper food coverage and dirty kitchen equipment and food surfaces.

BURRITOS A LA STAPHYLOCOCCUS

Three health inspectors stand between Midland residents and diseases like salmonella, botulism, bubonic plague and typhoid. Although few cases of food poisoning have been documented, sanitarians said they are surprised there has been no significant occurrences or major outbreaks.

"I've seen very few cases in the past 17 years," said health inspector Walter Teinert.

To the unaware, the enforcement of strict safety requirements may seem frivolous, or arbitrary — a complaint among restaurant owners and managers. But innocuous-sounding violations can translate into contaminated food and possible food poisoning incidents.

Improper temperatures are the major cause of contaminated food, according to health inspectors. Bacteria can flourish between the temperatures of 45 and 140 degrees. Thus, restaurants are required to refrigerate perishable items below this requirement and heat food to 140 degrees or higher before serving.

Several Midland restaurants have been cited for leaving meat, dairy products and desserts at room temperature — possible breeding grounds for salmonella or staphylococcus.

One example of such a situation was brought to the health department's attention last year. After customers complained the management at Albertsons, 1002 Andrews Highway, was selling barbecued ribs infested with maggots, sections of the delicatessen were ordered to close temporarily. Faulty steam table equipment was repaired which had been failing to cook the meat at proper temperatures.

"It could have happened to anybody," said Jewel Smith, chief sanitarian for the Midland City-County Health Department. "They were very cooperative in correcting the situation."

Another similar circumstance was again referred to the health department last year after a customer who lunched at Taco Bell, 800 N. Big Spring, reported he had become sick after eating two Burrito Supremes and drinking a sugar-free Pepsi. The health department investigated the complaint which led to the suspicion the restaurant had placed a bottle of sour cream next to a steam table.

Although it was not determined the customer had actually contracted any disease, similar circumstances could result in staphylococcus poisoning, an illness which stems from the improper refrigeration of foods.

"Health maintenance usually depends upon the owner. It all goes back to the management," said Smith.

Restaurants which have maintained clean slates and have remained generally unscathed under the health department's scrutiny include the Granada Club, 3312 W. Wall; El Chico, 45 Plaza Center; Furr's Cafeteria, Midkiff and Cuthbert; Mario's Spanish Inn, 3411 Thomason; Tampico Spanish Inn, 2411 W. Wall; Taco Villa and Taco Bell chains; Luigi's, 111 N. Big Spring; Mr. Gatti's, 3205 W. Cuthbert; Robert's Copper Pot, 3211 W. Wadley; The Spot, Midland Tower; the Roundabout, San Miguel Shopping Center and Cook's Pantry Buffet, 2001 N. Big Spring.

"They're clean and cooperative," Smith said. "If there's any discrepancy, it gets corrected. There's never any question about it. The problems we run into is that other restaurants are aware of discrepancies; they just don't do anything about it."

Those restaurant managers who have had repeated confrontations with the health department claim much of their problems stem from undependable help and shortages in the labor market.

"It's hard to find kitchen help, and employees don't show up on time," said Hal Scoggins, a new manager at Montana Mining Co., who has helped the restaurant overcome past difficulties with the health department. "The kitchen help is basically unreliable and there's usually a four to six month turnover. I'm amazed the employees here have stuck around as long as they have."

IN DEFENSE OF THE PUBLIC PALATE

Visits to restaurants by health inspectors are never announced.

A health inspector may visit a restaurant every day for a week and not mark anything down, only to reappear the following week and issue a health permit suspension warning if the establishment has allowed conditions to deteriorate during the lunch hour. All restaurants are required to post inspection rating cards in view of the customer's eye which indicate A, B or C gradings.

Health inspectors are rotated among Midland's 400-plus restaurants to allow for fresh outlooks. "If the same sanitarian continues to see the same place, they start to overlook things," Smith said.

After evaluations are submitted, they are reviewed and if a pattern of violations are developing, Smith makes a personal visit — "They don't know me from Adam" — or writes a letter giving the owner 10 days to correct the problem before suspension is ordered. A sanitarian can close a restaurant on the spot if there is no refrigeration.

"A guy who doesn't want to conform can get pretty nasty with you," Smith said. "Although he won't come out and say it, he'll try to negotiate with you."

"The health department is like the military. Nobody likes us until there's a war," he said. "If there is any inconvenience, even the general public doesn't want these regulations enforced."

Although Smith said the health department receives about 20 complaints a week, usually concerning the same restaurants, he said many charges are difficult to enforce — simply because they are so widespread.

Most calls come from agitated customers who have discovered hair in their food. "With more than 400 restaurants, it's difficult to enforce hair net rules," Smith said.

Regardless that all complaints are quickly acted on, the health department hesitates to take a restaurant to court for violations. Rather, sanitarians prefer to pursue a "problem" restaurant or business with patient persistence.

"It's a waste of time to take these restaurants to court," said Teinert. "Spending two to three hours for a $10 fine just doesn't accomplish much. We're better off shutting them down."

However, while a backlog in court-delayed attempts to prohibit a seafood dealer to continue unsanitary sales, the operator was able to conduct business from his open pick-up truck for three weeks.

Fresh seafood markets are restricted from operating in Midland unless the merchandise is frozen or packaged due to the possibility of fecal coliform — organisms present in intestinal tracts of warm-blooded animals. When ingested, these organisms can give rise to cholera or typhoid.

"My philosophy is the last thing we want to do is go to court," Smith said. "When a sanitarian goes to court, the health department has failed. We're not policemen, we're educators."

...Mary Katherine Warren of Midland is among Texas Christian University students who have been named "members in course" of the prestigious liberal arts honor society of Phi Beta Kappa.

Announcement of the selection of these honorees was made April 9 during events observing the 19th annual Honors Day on the TCU campus. Honors Day is a highlight of the week-long series of activities focusing attention on outstanding scholarly works.

Ms. Warren, a senior religion studies major, resides at 1810 W. Illinois in Midland.

...DIRK BEVERIDGE, a Midland Texas sophomore at the University of Oklahoma, has been named to the dean's honor roll of the College of Arts and Sciences for having achieved a 3.8 grade average.

Dirk, a former editor of the Midland High Bulldog, is majoring in journalism.

...KATHY KNOX, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Georg W. Knox of Midland, was recently presented the highest award offered by the College of Agriculture at Texas A&M University.

Knox was among 14 seniors of the college to be selected for the Senior Merit Award. They were presented during the school's annual Student Agricultural Convocation.

Knox is an animal science major.

...MIDLAND FRESHMAN HIGH VOCT Chapter 1012, Mechanics Course, manufactured and installed benches on the school patio. The benches provide the students of Midland Freshman a place to sit outside during their lunch periods.

This was a club project completed by the students in the mechanics course at Midland Freshman High School. PTA provided money for materials that weren't donated.

...SENIOR CITIZENS CENTER, 2500 Delano, will have a blood pressure check from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday. Senior citizens are invited to drop by for a free check.

...SCHOOL OF NURSING at The University of Texas at Austin named 42 students to its 1980 fall semester honor roll.

Professional nursing student major Mary Frances Witt, 4314 Nelson Road, was among those named.

Pro-life program explained

"If ever there were a prize for positive thinking, I think Birthright volunteers should win. Norman Vincent Peale would applaud our efforts, because if there's one thing we're positive about, it's life," said Birthright president and volunteer Dottie Slatter.

She was attempting to explain the workings of an organization in Midland—Birthright, a volunteer pro-life organization, located at 805A W. Missouri.

"Our job," she continued, "is to help those pregnant women who for one reason or another need help to continue their pregnancy."

Motto of the group is: The right of every mother to give birth; the right of every child to be born. "This is something that we try to follow," she said.

"Our attitude is that this baby is God's creation, and as part of the society that permitted her to become pregnant, we shouldn't turn around and demand that she bear the burden alone."

The president said that what the group tries to do is find out the needs of each client, then explore with her methods of attaining those needs.

"She may need housing, and in Midland, that's a giant problem because there's very little low-cost housing," said Ms. Slattery. "In that case, she may decide as several have that it would be better to return to that state or city where her relatives live, so we recommend her to whatever Birthright chapter that will be near to her in that state. We sent a young girl to Missouri this past week."

The local chapter also helps with problem pregnancies, even for those who are married. Inflated doctor bills and medical costs may pose a problem. In some cases, they may be eligible for the Midland County Prenatal Clinic, a service about which they may be unaware.

"And then, there's the young girl who comes to us for a pregnancy test and when she finds that she really is pregnant, she can only think of an abortion," said Ms. Slattery. "We're set up to show her that there are other ways to conquer her problem. We can recommend adoptive homes such as Edna Gldney, or the Methodist Southwest Maternity in San Antonio or a score of others."

"Most of these homes will provide housing and medical care and she is given the choice of whether to give the baby up for adoption or keep it. If she decides to keep her baby, she must then pay for the housing and medical costs, but these homes are ideal in that they provide comfortable, well-regulated care while she is pregnant."

The small garage apartment that serves as the Birthright office at 805A W. Missouri houses the Birthright hotline telephone, baby clothing and baby furniture that are offered to whomever is in need. Literature is also available, explaining the development of the baby. Free pregnancy tests are also available.

The Birthright president also noted that Birthright will show films on the development of the baby to any interested group. "What these films show," she said, "is what happens like a blob to the unaided eye, is really a person in miniature—tiny, but all there. One of the films, "The First Days of Life," show the development of the baby from the fertilization of the ovum, the first cell division, and even some time-lapse photography that show the neurons in the brain developing."

Birthright has about 12-15 volunteers who man the office, collect baby clothing and furniture, and make film presentations to various groups. The office is open from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Birthright director Connie Brooks, who has worked previously with

Birthright of El Paso, commented on her work in Midland. "Midland is a boom town, so different from El Paso which had a 12 per cent unemployment rate when I was there. In Midland, jobs are easy to find."

"However, in such an affluent town, those women who are pregnant really don't have to look to agencies for help. And as such, the counseling area of Birthright is not our main thrust. There is a real need for young girls to know what abortion really is—destroying a human being," she said. "They should be aware of the physical and psychological marks it may leave on the mother. That is why we work to promote our films."

Persons interested in helping Birthright with donations of baby clothing or furniture, wishing to volunteer, or needing Birthright assistance should call 683-6072.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old man who's in love with a beautiful, 28-year-old divorcee. I want to marry her, but she keeps wanting more time to think it over.

In the meantime, she's seeing another man, and I'm afraid he has the edge on me. You see, he's part Kickapoo Indian, and I hear Indians are superior to the white man when it comes to lovemaking. Closely guarded tribal secrets on how to satisfy a woman are passed down from father to son. If there is any truth to that, I'm willing to pay whatever is necessary to find out. Let me say that I was married for four years and I never had any complaints from my wife, but if Indians are better lovers than white men, I would like to find out why.

Maybe your readers can help. Thank you. — ED

DEAR ED: I wouldn't touch your request with a 10-foot totem pole. But you can try the Bureau of Indian Affairs or the American Indian Movement.

DEAR ABBY: My husband of 26 years is my problem. We have six daughters whom he teases until they are in tears and nearly hysterical. He pretends that his tickling, pinching and slapping (hard) on the rear are done in the harmless spirit of playfulness, but he actually hurts them. The girls, who are from 5 to 22 years old, frequently spend their evenings in their rooms so they won't have to put up with his teasing.

Abby, could his actions have sexual overtones? He and I have not had sexual relations in 3 1/2 years — he's either "too tired" or not in the mood.

Are Indians chiefs on sex

I think Dad is getting his jollies from teasing his daughters. What do you think? — DISGUSTED IN OHIO

DEAR DISGUSTED: I think you hit the nail on the head. Dad's masked cruelty is bound to influence his daughters' feelings toward men and their future relationships with them.

Dad needs a psychiatric consultation for his sake as well as his daughters'. DEAR ABBY: Some years ago I had a partial laryngectomy, which left me with only 10 percent of one vocal chord. As a result of this, my voice, especially on the phone, sounds like something between a croak and a whisper.

I'm fed up, angry and often enraged when I make a telephone call and the person who answers the phone impatiently asks me to speak up, or worse yet, accuses me of trying to be "funny" or making an obscene phone call.

Please publish this letter, Abby. There are many others with speech impediments who need the understanding of thoughtless strangers who jump to the wrong conclusion when they hear us on the phone. — MR. CROAKER

DEAR MR. CROAKER: You could save yourself much hurt and anger if you were to begin every phone conversation with, "Hello. I hope you can understand me. I've had throat surgery and it's sometimes difficult to understand

Mother's Day greetings varied

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — You don't necessarily have to have borne children — or even be a woman — to receive a Mother's Day card this year, says a greeting-card company official.

More than 125 million cards, a record, will be given or sent for the May 10 observation but only about 50 percent of them will actually be titled "To Mother," according to Hallmark's Tim Scheele.

"There seems to be a desire afoot to spread the holiday's affection to friends, relatives and other people in our lives, hence the demand for titles addressed to sister, daughter, niece, aunt, grandmother, great-grandmother and granddaughter," says Scheele.

It doesn't stop there. Another group of titles includes Mother-in-law, Daughter-in-law, Sister-in-law, Stepmother, Other Mother, Like A Mother, Friend's Mother, Godmother, Mother of Someone Dear, Friend and Secret Pal, to name a few.

Skillful lighting makes a home inviting

By ALAN BUTLER
Copley News Service

How do you make your home suitable for guests when you entertain in the same rooms your family uses daily?

You can't drastically change the look of the room just for these special occasions, but you can change the mood through the skillful use of light.

Light is a powerful mood maker. Imagine a disco void of flashing lights and you'll realize their impact. In the home, lighting has a much more subtle effect, but no less important.

Environmental lighting specialist E. Woody Bickford of the Duro-Lite Home Lighting Institute recommends using the psychological as well as the aesthetic capabilities of light to its best advantage when entertaining at home. Here are some of his suggestions:

Soft, general illumination is recommended for small gatherings to encourage guests to feel comfortable and converse easily. Nobody wants to be put on the spot — or in the spotlight — in these situations so avoid using bright, direct light in areas where guests will be talking.

Try reflecting light off the walls or ceilings to produce a warm, overall glow.

Dim lighting suggests a feeling of intimacy and creates a cozy atmosphere, especially in rooms featuring warm colors like yellow or red. Lower the light level according to the size of the group and the mood you want to create. Lights connected to a dimmer switch can be set at various levels of illumination and as you lower your lights, you'll also lower your electric bill.

You can have lighting flexibility with a wardrobe of light bulbs in a variety of shapes, styles and colors that can be changed with the seasons. Blue and green lights suggest coolness and are good choices for summer evenings. Amber bulbs will warm winter guests with their glow.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Banish odor from your bread box

DEAR HELOISE:

I was given a beautiful wooden breadbox for a gift, but have been unable to use it.

Anything that is placed in the box absorbs a peculiar taste. There is also a strong odor from inside the box.

The inside appears to be unfinished. Is there any way to get rid of this odor? — Barbara Dickerson odors. Just be sure and let it thoroughly dry before using. — Heloise

HINTS FROM HIM

Dear Heloise: Last year I had 75 tulip bulbs to set out, so I took a two-inch piece of pipe and stuck it in the prepared ground.

When the pipe was pulled out, the dirt would be stuck inside, leaving a hole in the soil. I dropped in my tulip bulb and covered it with the dirt from the pipe.

Had all 75 planted in record time! — Dan Sachse

I'm with you! For a few cents more you could even cover the box with foil to make it a little more decorative, if you like. — Heloise

EASTER EGG GOOF

Dear Heloise: I'm 11 and last year, when I was dyeing eggs for Easter, I left one of the eggs in the dye too long.

I left a dark circle on the egg. Since I was putting stickers on the other eggs, I put a cute little

I've received several letters from readers complaining about the odor these decorative wooden breadboxes leave in food.

My first solution to the problem would be to return it to the store from which it was purchased, or write to the manufacturer and bend his ear. But, if you really want to keep it or are unable to return it for whatever reason, you might try putting a sealer on it. A coat or two of varnish or faster drying polyurethane, should seal out any undesirable

Dear Heloise: The next time your youngster needs to take cookies, cupcakes or candy to school for a bake sale or party, eliminate the worry of finding a container to carry them in by utilizing an empty cereal carton.

Simply cut off either the front or back panel, placing it inside to strengthen the bottom.

SAFETY TIP

Dear Heloise: Another way to insure the safety of the elderly when getting out of the bathtub, besides placing a damp washcloth on the side, is to hang a rubber bathmat on the side of the tub.

On the house: Roof care

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Wind, rain, hail and snow all play a part in shortening the life of a roof, but the biggest enemy is the sun, which causes it to become dried out, brittle and faded.

How can you tell when a roof needs replacing? Sometimes it isn't too easy to tell, especially when everything appears to be intact, but there are some general signs home owners should be alert for rather than waiting for leaks. These include excessive loss of protective mineral granules, which can be determined at the base of downspouts or in the gutters; cracked and blistered shingles; and curled or missing shingles.

If a roof is relatively new and has suffered limited damage from a storm or falling objects — or has developed a small leak — the chances are that it can be repaired easily. Shingles that are damaged or have blown away can be replaced. Loose shingles can be renailed and leaks around flashing points can be patched. But when a roof of standard shingles is 15 years old or older and then develops trouble symptoms, it is a prime candidate for reroofing. Most of today's asphalt shingles, for instance, are designed to last from 15 to 25 years, depending on the type.

A roof can be inspected from the ground with the use of field glasses, a recommended procedure for the home owner, although an on-the-roof inspection by a roofer is necessary before proceeding with actual reroofing.

He can determine whether the old shingles can be recovered or must be removed and whether the roof deck and supports will hold additional weight. Most of the time, new asphalt shingles can be applied over old ones as well as over wood shingles, but there are exceptions which make a professional opinion necessary.

Sometimes, a recovering is possible once the old roof has been repaired a bit.

Rockets exchanged in Beirut suburb

By FAROUK NASSAR, Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Police reported a 30-minute exchange of rocket-propelled grenades between Syrian and Christian forces in Beirut today, nine days after a cease-fire was to have taken hold in this embattled city.

However, no other violations of the cease-fire were reported here — or in Zahle, a Christian stronghold 30 miles to the east which is under siege from Syrian soldiers.

Residents in Zahle reported by telephone that church bells did not toll for Good Friday and most of the city's 200,000 predominantly Roman Catholic inhabitants remaining indoors to avoid sniper fire. They said the city was awaiting its first convoy of food since Syrian soldiers attacked the city's Christian militia 18 days ago.

That attack sparked eight days of fighting that claimed at least 265 lives by police estimate.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the provincial governor's office in Sidon said Israeli commandos crossed into a U.N.-controlled sector of southern Lebanon today and blew up three houses whose tenants were suspected of having aided Palestinian guerrillas.

One of the tenants in the village of Yater, six miles north of the border, was injured, the spokesman said, staged no such raid, but they suggested that Christian forces under the command of Maj. Saad Haddad, who is backed by Israel, might have.

Tension was high today throughout the 500-square-mile strip of Lebanon patrolled by U.N. forces following an abortive attempt by two guerrillas Thursday to slip into Israel aboard a hot-air balloon and a subsequent Israeli air raid against guerrilla strongholds in the south.

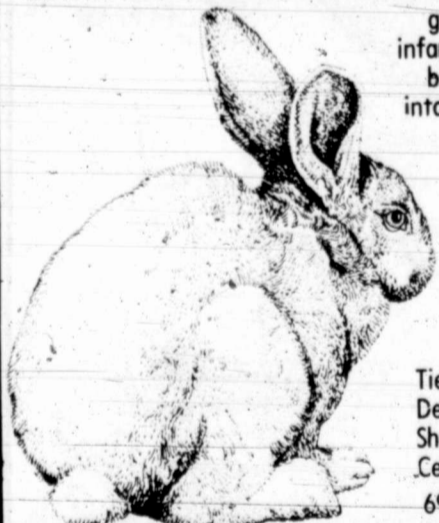

Also Thursday, pre-dawn explosions sank a Lebanese cargo ship in Sidon's Mediterranean harbor. Authorities in Lebanon said Israeli navy frogmen were responsible. The Israeli command declined to comment.

A command spokesman did say that Israel had beefed up its anti-aircraft units in response to the balloon incident, in which the guerrillas were spotted, shot down and killed.

Arthritis susceptibility genetic

Dear Dr. Solomon: Does rheumatoid arthritis run in families? A friend of mine and an uncle of his both have it. Is this more than just a coincidence? — Hal

Dear Hal: Susceptibility to rheumatoid arthritis has been traced to a genetic defect. Dr. Peter Stastny, who headed a group of researchers from the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas, and the University of Alabama Medical School in Birmingham, arrived at this conclusion after studying 12 families, each of which had at least two members with the disease. The research group demonstrated that susceptibility to the disease stemmed from a genetic defect in the parents.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have been informed that I will have to undergo surgery for removal of my prostate because of a malignancy. Does such an operation result in impotence in all cases? — Mr. J.J.L.

Dear Mr. L.: Total prostatectomy (surgical removal of the prostate gland) because of malignancy usually results in impotence; however, some patients do retain a significant amount of sexual feelings. Moreover, for those unable to perform sexually following the operation, prosthetic devices are available that can provide patients with varying degrees of sexual satisfaction. In large measure, a person's sexual adjustment will depend on the quality of the total relationship between husband and wife.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My husband wakes up every morning with a dry cough. If he were a smoker, I'd understand it, but he's never smoked in his life. He's had chest X-rays and other tests, all of which have been normal. Can his coughing be an allergy of some kind? — Mrs. B.G.

Dear Mrs. G.: The chronic dry cough you describe may actually be a form of asthma that can be successfully treated. Dr. M.D. Hammond, of the University of British Columbia, has reported on a study he conducted on 29 patients who presented with a dry cough. After a series of tests, 12 of these patients were diagnosed as having a variant form of asthma. All responded well to treatment.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My doctor recently gave me a prescription for some medication. When I asked him if I could have it filled under its generic name in order to save some money, he replied that the generic drug was not exactly the same as what he had prescribed. I find this confusing since I was led to believe that generic and brand name drugs were the same. Can you explain this? — Mrs. S.J.

Dear Mrs. J.: Although I would have to speculate on the reason, your doctor may have insisted on the brand name drug because it is not exactly the same as the generic version. In some instances, generic and brand name drugs are not "bioequivalent." This means that although they are composed of the same ingredients, they differ in the manner in which they act within the body. Therefore they cannot be considered therapeutically equivalent, and one is not an acceptable substitute for the other.

(If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Prince's visit is protested

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — About 1,000 pushing, shouting students screamed "Go home, Charlie" and chanted anti-monarchy slogans as Prince Charles arrived at Monash University to accept an honorary doctorate of law.

One person in the crowd was toppled to the pavement, but there were no injuries and the large contingent of police on hand made no arrests.

The prince, unharmed and apparently unruffled, attempted to talk with several of the demonstrators.

He later received his degree, but a planned talk with graduates and their parents was canceled.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, April 18, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Actress Hayley Mills shares this birthday with you, a birthday which marks the anniversary of the famous 1775 "Midnight Ride" of Paul Revere. Forceful and fearless, you are a great asset to any cause you choose to champion. In the year ahead, you have the opportunity to become more involved, both at work and in life. Choose your causes, projects with great care! Creative endeavors will pay off handsomely for years to come. Financial outlook is greatly improved. Try to be more selfless in your personal relationships. A happy domestic life is very important to your emotional well-being.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The spotlight is on costs, dividends and assets. Monetary experiments bring interesting results. A member of the opposite sex figures prominently in today's plan. You are a winner where love is concerned!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Follow through on plans made last month. While traveling for pleasure, you could make valuable business contacts. Be direct if asked personal questions by loved ones. If something is not their business, say so.

GEMINI (May 21-June

20): A friendship may take on certain romantic overtones. Do not play games where emotions are concerned. Message becomes increasingly clear. Someone confides a secret. Be discreet about differences of opinion with relative.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are able to find some excellent bargains when out shopping. A new Easter outfit could be part of the picture. Teamwork lessens financial worries. Seek the cooperation of family members.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Put your personal affairs in better order. Lost treasures may be revealed once clutter is cleared away. Get expert's appraisal of antique items. Romance is especially rewarding for singles.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take care of shopping, household chores early in the day. Seek appointment with important person. Dress to impress if attending a social function. This is an excellent day for those contemplating marriage.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): This is a "red letter day" for Librans! The mail may bring an unexpected check or good news from afar. Exercise self-discipline if starting a new diet. Romance can be rather expensive now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov.

21): Leave work worries behind and take a romp outdoors with children. Rest, recreation are your top priorities this weekend. Investigate free community activities. Cultural events can hold special appeal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Meeting with influential person will go better than you anticipated. Seize an unexpected opportunity to make extra money, even if it means working most of today. Your efforts will be richly rewarded.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Look for new ways to reduce household expenses. Comparison shop and check the newspapers for special sales. There is a new emphasis on self-restraint. Do not be swayed by others' opinions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Great patience is required when dealing with family matters. Give serious thought to positive course of action before making final decision. Romance is rekindled. Be sure you know what you are getting yourself into!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Go ahead and pamper yourself! Do not worry about spending money on new spring outfit. Good friend will entrust you with some interesting information. Use it judiciously. Romance is happier than in recent past.

Opening lead: Queen of ♠

At rubber bridge, you should always make sure of your contract—other considerations are secondary. But man is greedy by nature, and West took advantage of this with a clever bit of deception to defeat a sound trump game.

The auction was routine. Since South's hand was one point short of a two no trump opening bid, he opened the bidding with one club and then jumped to the no trump game over North's one diamond response. Despite his weak hand, North had no reason for further action—there were not enough values for a five-diamond contract, but his suit might be a source of tricks at no trump.

West led the queen of hearts and declarer correctly decided that this was not the hand for a holdup—the last thing he wanted was for the defenders to shift to clubs. There were six top tricks available, and the diamond suit was the obvious source for the three additional tricks. Since there was no entry to the dummy outside of the diamond suit, declarer intended letting one of the defenders win the second diamond trick to insure that he could run the suit even if it divided 3-1.

With this plan in mind, declarer led the king of diamonds and followed with the jack. Without batting an eyelid, West followed smoothly with the ten of diamonds!

Declarer fell hook, line and sinker. He reckoned that any defender with both the queen and ten of diamonds would cover the jack to make sure of a diamond trick. Therefore, it was only logical that East held the queen and that the whole suit was coming in. Blinded by the possibility of collecting overtricks, declarer rose with the ace of diamonds, and the roof fell in.

When East showed out on the second diamond, the diamond suit was dead. Declarer made use of his entry to dummy to take the spade finesse but that was only his seventh trick. He ended up down two.

Had West covered the jack with the queen, declarer would certainly have allowed him to win the trick to assure his contract. Thus, West is to be congratulated for his great defensive effort. We feel, though, that South was rather short-sighted to risk his vulnerable game for an overtrick or two.

Reagan puts federal tax, spending debate on his terms

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever the final numbers in the struggle over federal taxes and spending, President Reagan already has won one point: he's put the debate on his terms. There have been setbacks and there surely will have to be compromise. Even the president's Republican allies acknowledge that, despite White House insistence that it won't deal.

"If I start compromising before we even start, I'm going to look like I didn't mean what I said," a House Republican quoted Reagan as saying.

But it is no longer the traditional liberal-conservative argument about spending more or spending less, about expanding or contracting the role of the federal government. Congressional Democrats are as firmly committed as Republicans to the premise that smaller is better.

They aren't buying Reagan's three-year tax cut, but their one-year alternative does include provisions that used to be pushed by Republicans and spurned by Democrats.

The area of debate has narrowed, Democratic rhetoric notwithstanding. The disagreement is over tax formulas and budget-cutting targets, and there will be ample argument, for those differences are real and significant. The Democrats argue economic orthodoxy; Reagan argues that his three-year tax reduction would enhance productivity and generate revenues without fueling inflation. Democrats call that a free-lunch theory.

Still, the dispute is not over objectives. It is over how to get there, both sides agreed that spending and deficits should be curbed. The arithmetic depends on whether Democrats or spend more on social programs. It became a debate over how much more.

Now the push is in the opposite direction. And the conservative message of the voters who elected Reagan and a Republican Senate is not lost on Democrats, even liberal Democrats.

"A national consensus has developed behind slowing the growth rate of federal spending, reducing the size of government — including its maze of regulations — and providing tax relief to those whose taxes have grown because inflation has forced them into higher tax brackets," House Democrats said in a declaration of their economic policies. The words could have been written for Reagan.

"Democrats will support each of these goals, and we will work with the new administration to achieve them," the House Democratic caucus said.

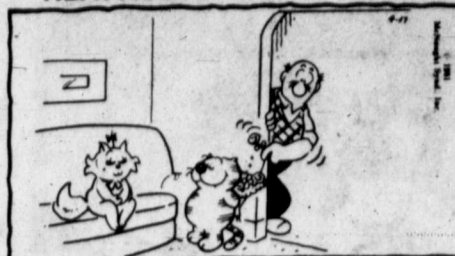

The Democrats took issue with details of the Reagan budget plan, saying they will reject a program "that puts the main burden of fighting inflation on the backs of the middle- and low-income workers while providing unprecedented benefits for the privileged few."

An Analysis

Republicans are doing the figuring. The Democrats say they want to cut more than Reagan, and balance the budget more rapidly.

Fifteen years ago, when Lyndon B. Johnson was assembling his Great Society program with the help of lopsided Democratic majorities in Congress, he set the agenda. The debate was not over whether the government should do more and

"AN EASTER BOUQUET... FOR ME?!"

Alligators reportedly flourishing

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Alligators are reportedly flourishing in a creek that is a favorite fishing and swimming spot southwest of the city.

"My kids go bathing down in that creek all the time," said Humberto Perez, 33. "But they aren't going to do it any more."

Perez said alligators have been reported inhabiting Leon Creek in an area where refuse is dumped by a food warehouse.

Three fishermen said they were chased by two of the creatures Tuesday as they fished in the creek about a mile west of Interstate 35.

One of the alligators, estimated to be 10 feet long, waited on the bank while its reptilian companion — carrying a dead chicken in its mouth — chased the panicked fishermen, police were told.

Joe Rodriguez, 19, who lives near the creek, said he hacked a 61-inch long alligator to death with a shovel during the excitement.

Alligators are an endangered species and wildlife agents were reported to be investigating the incident.

Rodriguez said he and two friends — Ray de la Cerda, 12, and Raymond Najera, 20 — were fishing Tuesday when the reptile they later killed suddenly emerged from the murky water.

Rodriguez said the alligator was chasing the three when he ran to his car, grabbed a shovel and beat the alligator to death.

"Two of them came at us. The one we killed was the little one," he said. "The other one looked 10 feet long."

A local wildlife official said alligators are native to Texas and many are found in Atascosa and Wilson Counties south of San Antonio.

Several years ago, some pranksters killed an alligator in South Bexar County and ran its carcass up a school flagpole to the consternation of wildlife officials.

Texas Aggies plan to expand

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Work has begun on an $8.8 million expansion of the Texas A&M University Cyclotron Institute that should put the school near the top of the nuclear research world, university officials said.

The project includes expansion of the center and construction of a superconducting cyclotron — atom-smasher — that will more than double the amount of energy produced during an experiment, said Dr. Dave Youngblood, institute director, quoted in a Texas A&M release Wednesday.

In a cyclotron, atomic particles are accelerated to almost the speed of light — 186,000 miles per second — so they can be used in a variety of experiments that help scientists determine the true nature of the atom.

A superconducting cyclotron takes advantage of the fact that extremely cold metals are far more efficient carriers of electric power than metals at normal temperatures. The wires carrying electrical currents in the new-style cyclotrons will be super-cooled to 450 degrees below zero, A&M scientists say.

Americans unhappy with Salvadoran involvement

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are not happy with U.S. involvement in El Salvador, with many judging that the conflict there is mainly a civil war rather than an instance of communist aggression, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

The Reagan administration's decision to send military advisers to the Central American country as part of a military aid package meets with disapproval from most of those Americans aware of the situation, even though they are not overly worried that the situation will turn into another Vietnam.

U.S. support for the government of El Salvador has split the public sharply.

To begin with, 32 percent said they had not heard of the conflict that is raging there.

Those who had heard split, with 31 percent opposing U.S. backing of the government and 26 percent agreeing with such support. Eleven percent of the 1,604 adults interviewed by telephone across the country Monday and Tuesday were not sure.

The basic Reagan administration argument about El Salvador is not well received by many Americans. The administration has argued that the government there must be supported to stop what it says are communist-led and supplied guerrillas from taking over the country. In the poll, only 38 percent chose the position that the "U.S. government must support the government of El Salvador to stop communist aggression."

People crowd around a body of an unidentified shooting victim at a roadside stand in El Salvador last week. The killings, like many others there was unexplained.

Reagan 'looking better'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, "looking better all the time" to his physician, now feels well enough to take strolls through the White House Rose Garden.

An X-ray Tuesday of Reagan's left lung where a bullet lodged in an assassination attempt March 30 showed such improvement that his doctors will wait a week before taking another one, a White House spokesman said Thursday.

The president took a 10-minute walk Thursday through the Rose Garden in his first trip outdoors since returning to the White House last weekend from George Washington University Hospital.

A White House spokesman said Reagan exclaimed, "It is absolutely beautiful" as he strolled around the garden, now in full springtime bloom.

Assistant White House press secretary Mark Weinberg quoted Reagan's personal physician, Dr. Daniel Ruge, as saying the president "looks great and feels fine. He is continuing his recovery as we had hoped and as we had anticipated."

Ruge saw the president earlier Thursday and reported, "He's looking better all the time."

The president also on Thursday received his first foreign visitor, Joseph M. A. H. Luns, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, since the shooting.

"We are trying to keep the schedule from becoming too burdensome too soon," Vice President George Bush, who took part in the meeting, said later.

Former hostages disperse

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — What may be last chapter of a saga that shocked much of the world and united America is coming to a quiet ending at a mountain resort 12,000 miles from where it began.

Thirty-one Americans held hostage in Iran, bound by 444 days of captivity and 90 of fervent acclaim, were saying goodbye to each other today and preparing to head for new jobs in posts around the world.

A small number planned to stay through Easter weekend at The Greenbrier, a plush Allegheny Mountains resort where they relaxed and underwent medical and psychological tests for three days.

Most of the former hostages who attended the reunion said they felt it was time to go their separate ways.

"It's over now," said Frederick Kupke. "I see no reason to have any more hostage celebrations or reunions. It's time to get on with things."

William Keough agreed, saying, "It's finally ending, like the sun setting on the horizon."

A team of 20 government psychiatrists and psychologists met with the former hostages several times during their stay, which was sponsored by the State Department and paid for by The Greenbrier. On Thursday, the doctors gave the returnees a clean bill of health.

"The ex-hostages are functioning well within their family and peer groups and are returning to work," the doctors said in a statement.

They added that "lessons learned from the group should be of use should a similar situation occur in the future."

State Department spokesman David Nail said the physicians, members of the same medical team that examined all 52 of the hostages upon their release Jan. 20, chose not to meet with reporters and answer questions about their findings.

"I don't know if they ever will release their complete findings but I wouldn't be surprised if they do produce a document sometime down the road," said Nail.

Four projects have been reported in RRC District 8

An amended wildcat, a multi-pay location and two projects have been reported in District 8 of the Railroad Commission.

WARD AMENDMENT:

Union Texas Petroleum Corp. of Midland plans to amend the total depth of a 17,500-foot wildcat to 21,000 feet.

The No. 1 China Lake is located 1,980 feet from the northeast and northwest lines of section 205, block 34 of H&TC RR Co. survey four miles north of Barstow.

The location is 4 1/2 miles southwest of Quito (Fusselman) field, a completed oil production at 17,461 feet and 1 1/2 miles northwest of Burkholder (Mississippian) pool with the total depth of 16,314 feet.

MITCHELL LOCATION:

Sun Oil Co. of Midland will drill a multi-pay field well four miles north of Silver.

The No. 11 McCabe, J.F. "A" is located 660 feet from the north and 1,980 feet from the east lines of section 4, block 1-A of H&TC survey.

The hole will be drilled to Jameson, North (Strawn) at 2,467 feet; Jameson, North (Odom) at 6,855 feet and Jameson, North (Ellenburger) at 7,125 feet.

The location is 1,000 feet south of No. 1 McCabe, a dry and abandoned wildcat drilled to the total depth of 7,240 feet and the ground-level elevation of 2,129 feet. The probe was drilled for the wildcat at 5,610 feet, Strawn at 6,920 feet, Ellenburger at 7,228 feet. The probe was abandoned on March 1, 1962.

It is also 7,000 feet west of No. 1 McCabe and one mile northwest of No. 3 McCabe, both depleted oil productions.

The hole is also approximately 7,000 feet northeast of four completed oil productions, 2A, 4A, 6A, and 7A J.F. McCabe, all located close to each other in Section 4 in the Jameson, North field.

REEVES LOCATION:

R.C. Slack Co. of Midland will develop a 2,600 foot field well in the Screwbean (Delaware) field seven miles west of Orla.

The No. 13 K.M. Regan "A" is located 1,657 feet from the north and 1,683 feet from the west lines of section 26, block 58 of T-2-S, T&P survey.

The location is 11,500 feet northeast of No. 1 Bordea Explorer, a dry and abandoned hole with the total depth of 13,084 feet and abandoned on June 1980.

PECOS FIELD WELL:

Termo Co. of Texas of Long Beach, CA. will drill a 2,100 foot field well 11 miles southwest of Iraan in the Priest & Beavers, Northeast (Queen) field.

The No. 2 Perry is located 2,100 feet from the north line and 467 feet from the west line of section 2, block Z of TC&RR survey.

The hole is 2,600 feet west from a dry and abandoned wildcat location No. 1 Perry with the ground-level elevation of 2,649 feet, total depth of 9,950 feet and was drilled in the Devonian pay at 8,187 feet, Fusselman at 8,325 feet, Ellenburger at 9,660 feet and was abandoned on March 12, 1969.

It is also 6,500 feet southwest of No. 1-24 Perry, a depleted Cisco discovery plugged on July 24, 1966 and 9,000 feet southeast of a concentration of depleted and completed oil productions drilled around 2,500 feet in the same field.

Negotiators for the UMW return to bargaining table

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid isolated reports of violence from the coalfields of Appalachia, negotiators for the United Mine Workers and the nation's soft coal industry returned to the bargaining table today in an effort to end the 22-day-old coal strike.

Talks between the UMW and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association had recessed Tuesday with the two sides far apart on a contract that would allow some 160,000 miners to return to work.

UMW President Sam Church said the union was returning to the table today with a package similar to one rejected by the industry on Tuesday. A union spokesman said later that the revised package merely put earlier general proposals into formal contract language.

Chief industry negotiator B.R. Brown declined to talk with reporters as he entered the negotiating session this morning. In the past, however, he has said he is not optimistic that an agreement can be reached quickly.

UMW spokesman Eldon Callen said in response to a question that an industry counter-proposal today "would show that real progress is possible. If they come in with a flat no, that definitely slows things down."

When the talks ended Tuesday, the industry accused the union of trying to reopen negotiations in seven areas that had been agreed to previously. The BCOA said it flatly rejected the proposals, claiming they represented "a serious lack of bargaining discipline" on the part of the UMW.

Meanwhile, officials reported that shots were fired Thursday in Kentucky and Pennsylvania and that pickets in West Virginia and Virginia engaged in rock-throwing incidents. No injuries were reported.

Pennsylvania state police said three shotgun blasts and shots from a

.25-caliber weapon were fired from a vehicle outside a non-union strip mining company in Blandburg. In Kentucky, police said several shots were fired at a coal truck near Pikeville.

A judge in West Virginia's Raleigh County ordered pickets at Consolidation Coal Co.'s Clear Creek mine to "cease all threatening and violent behavior" after a rock-throwing incident there.

The strike has now seen shootings in at least five states, with violence charged to both union picketers and company guards.

Police in some states are beefing up their forces in coal areas, although coalfields in Indiana, Utah and Ohio were reported quiet Thursday.

Dawson, Yoakum file plans to drill wildcats

Two wildcats have been announced in the counties of Dawson and Yoakum, located in district 8-A of the Railroad Commission.

Saxon Oil Co. in Midland will drill the No. 1 Gay Wade "7" in the Breedlove, E (Sprayberry) field of Dawson County.

Located 766 feet from the south line and 766 feet from the east line of Labor 7, League 261 Borden County School Lands Survey two miles south of Patricia, the site is one mile southwest of the No. 1 Teague a dry and abandoned wildcat drilled to a total depth of 7,201 feet.

YOAKUM COUNTY:

North American Royalties in Midland has announced plans to drill the No. 1-X W. P. Brown as a wildcat in Yoakum County.

Located 575 feet from the south line and 625 feet from the west line of Section 580, Block D, John H. Gibson Survey, the site is nine miles southwest of Plains.

Nearest production is the No. 1 K. Hancock, a San Andres discovery at 5,263 feet in the Janice Field 3 1/2 miles southwest.

Northwest of the project 1,500 feet is the No. 1 W. P. Brown which was dry and abandoned 6-1-55 at a total depth of 5,432 feet and ground level elevation of 3,732 feet.

Two Texas oilmen are sentenced to 14 months

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Two Texas oilmen have been sentenced to 14 months in federal prison after pleading guilty earlier this month to charges of illegally increasing crude oil prices.

John T. Troland and David W. Ratliff, both of Abilene, also were fined $10,000 each in the Thursday hearing before U.S. District Judge James Ellison.

Troland is board chairman and Ratliff is president of West Texas Marketing in Abilene. The men admitted falsifying the certification of 77,500 barrels of crude oil.

ASAP offering destination guide

ASAP Air, Inc., has published a destination guide for shippers of oil field supplies and equipment. Larry Waldrip, Regional Manager, explained that the guide was developed with the advice of oil field equipment suppliers in the Midland-Odessa Area. "Their input helped us implement flight schedules, connections, and ground service to remote drilling areas. We can make most oil points before noon the next day, or by 5 p.m. the next day in the tough cases."

Waldrip also said that the guide indicates oil field destinations and how much ASAP Air has learned about the needs of the energy industry. "A year ago we thought fishing tools were for bass lakes, and the overthrust belt was a girdle. I guess you would have to say that a lot of oil field people in this area had as much to do with developing ASAP Air as anyone. We like hauling this type of equipment, it makes us feel like part of America's energy team."

ASAP personnel noted that the guide will be reissued every quarter as new drilling areas require service. Destination guides are free, and can be obtained by calling ASAP Air at Midland Regional Airport.

Donald Martinez, left, and Ronnie McAlister paint a drilling rig contracted by GHK Inc. The rig is within the city limits of Elk City, one of the staes new era boom towns. The well is drilling at 4,699 feet.

Jobs abound but housing scarce in new boom town

ELK CITY, Okla. (AP) — In this second-time boom town perched on the rim of the high plains, there's a place for anyone who wants to work — but not everyone who comes to work can find a place to live.

The natural gas boom in Elk City is largely hidden from motorists passing through on Interstate 40, the old Route 66. The forest of derricks that marked earlier boomtimes is gone due to an Oklahoma law limiting drillers to one deep gas well per 640 acres.

But the figures still add up to "boom town." February's sales tax collections were 24 percent higher than February 1980, and the town's three banks and three savings and loans have estimated assets of more than $200 million — about $20,000 for each man, woman and child in this town of 10,000.

The 1980 census shows a 29.7 percent growth rate in the 1970s. Townspeople think it was more. Nearly a quarter of the 182 telephone directory Yellow Pages is listings for companies in the oil and gas business.

Elk City first struck it rich on oil in the 1940s and '50s. Five years ago another wave of prosperity rolled over the town, located 110 miles from Oklahoma City, when oilmen began drilling for gas locked deep in the Greater Anadarko Basin.

Experts estimate the entire basin holds about 88 trillion cubic feet of recoverable gas in deep zones below 15,000 feet. Shallow zones may contain an additional 30 trillion cubic feet or more.

The boom has brought money and people to Elk City, but it has also brought trouble, as growth threatens to outstrip the town's capacity to provide essential services like housing.

Drilling foreman Jerry Grace, 31, supervises two rigs 15 miles north of town. If a man gets off the bus in Elk City, dead broke and unskilled, Grace says he'll put him to work that afternoon, at $10 an hour. With an annual 50 percent turnover in roughnecks, Grace's operation is hungry for men.

But some who come to work must turn around and leave for want of shelter.

Kings, Rockets only step away

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Kings are survivors, the Houston Rockets are strugglers, and both face critical tests tonight in their improbable drives through the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Kings and Rockets, who posted 40-42 records during the regular season, are each just one game away from becoming the first sub-.500 teams in 14 years to reach the next-to-last round of the playoffs.

Kansas City, leading 3-2, hosts the Phoenix Suns in one Western Conference semifinal while Houston visits the San Antonio Spurs in the other, which is tied at three victories apiece. In tonight's other game, the Philadelphia 76ers, leading 3-2, try to wrap up their East semifinal at Milwaukee against the Bucks.

The Kings have the homecourt advantage for the final time tonight against the Suns, but one more victory is all they need to complete their stunning upset of the Pacific Division champions, who won 57 games in the regular season and were heavily favored in this series.

"IT'S HARD to survive and we shouldn't be surviving now," said Kings Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, whose team has played this series without star guards Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong, both of whom are injured.

The Kings will again use their makeshift backcourt of Scott Wedman and Ernie Grunfeld, and Fitzsimmons will try to get as much mileage as possible out of his top six remaining players. But in Wednesday's 101-89 victory at Phoenix, the Suns' reserves outscored the Kings' substitutes 44-10. Phoenix also outscored Kansas City 52-35, giving hope to Coach John MacLeod that his Suns might be on the rise.

SINCE TONIGHT'S game is being played at San Antonio, the Rockets are hopeful the homecourt disadvantage will continue — and the Spurs are wary.

"The homecourt keeps meaning nothing in this series," said San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck. "This is getting ridiculous."

Paul Griffin, who, with Mark Olberding and Dave Corzine, has had the task of trying to contain Rockets center Moses Malone, said: "If we lose three games at home in a playoff, we don't deserve to win the series. There's no way you should lose three games at home."

And George Gervin, who has averaged 29 points per game for the Spurs in this series, added, "It's about time we took advantage of our fans screaming for us to put it away. We have been a strong home team in the regular season and I think it's time to get it back."

MARQUES JOHNSON'S back is a prime concern of the Bucks. Johnson suffered back spasms in a workout on Tuesday and managed just nine points in Wednesday's 116-99 loss at Philadelphia, leaving the game for good with 1:35 to go in the third quarter. That was a far cry from his series average of 22.4.

The 6-foot-7 Johnson will once again be guarded by 7-footer Caldwell Jones, who did a good job against him Wednesday.

Martin vetoes 'Billy Ball' stuff

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

"I'm getting pretty tired of this 'Billy Ball' stuff," says Billy Martin, manager of the Oakland A's.

It's become the buzzword of the American League this season. What it means is heads-up, go-for-broke ball. And has it ever worked so far!

The unbeaten A's 5-1 victory Thursday night over California was their eighth. That's one short of the team's longest winning streak since it arrived in Oakland in 1968 and two short of the modern-day major-league record for victories at the start of the season.

So what could be bugging Mr. Martin?

"Billy Ball?" The Oakland manager — and director of player development — snorted. "I'd rather have it called A's ball. It's the same way we are playing in the minor leagues."

AND THAT'S the way he hopes the A's will be playing tonight, when they play their home opener against Seattle. They'll find a most remarkable sight — the first full-priced sellout in the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum since the 1975 World Series.

"We are bringing the baseball fan out of the closet," said Martin. "It's just great. I never thought we'd get a sweep in Anaheim. I didn't think we would sweep four in Minnesota, either."

"That's what makes baseball such a great game."

MATT KEOUGH, who pitched a five-hitter for his second complete game (and Oakland's seventh of the season), said the A's goal this year is "to prove that last year wasn't a fluke." That's when Martin, in his first year as Oakland's manager, guided the A's to a second-place finish in the West.

"The key to our success," Keough said, "is that everyone is forgetting about statistics and trying to fulfill the role that Billy and the coaches have drawn up for us. If we keep that as our top priority, we'll be all right."

Keough gave up a first-inning run on Fred Lynn's single, Oakland tied it in the fourth on Wayne Gross' single, then the A's broke it open with three runs in the sixth off rookie Mike Witt.

Rickey Henderson singled, Dwayne Murphy beat out a bunt, then Henderson scored when first baseman Rod Carew fielded Dave Revering's grounder and fired it wildly past second. Gross' grounder to Carew moved Revering to second — and both runners scored when Tony Armas doubled down the left field line.

Indians 1, Brewers 0
Just how far back Cleveland pitcher Wayne Garland has come since shoulder surgery three years ago is a matter of debate.

"He pitched nine innings and won 1-0," Milwaukee Manager Buck Rodgers said after Garland, in his first appearance of 1981, spun a six-hitter. "That's a pretty good indication he's back ... He kept us off-balance and had us popping up or beating the ball into the ground."

But Garland cautioned: "I'm not going to say I'm all the way back yet. I've had too many ups and downs the last few years to say everything's fine."

Five years ago, when he played out the option year of his contract with Baltimore, he was 20-7. Since joining the Indians in 1977 he's 25-41.

Bo Diaz got him started on the right foot this year with an RBI double to right-center in the second inning after Mike Caldwell had walked Toby Harrah.

Tigers 2, Blue Jays 0
While Garland was throwing 86 pitches, 64 of them for strikes, Milt Wilcox was throwing the ball all over the place for Detroit — but he and relievers Kevin Saucier and Aurelio Lopez threw enough strikes to silence Toronto.

"I threw about 136 pitches and I think about 130 of them were balls," Wilcox said. "But I made the pitches when I had to and the guys in the bullpen came in and did the kind of job they're supposed to do."

He allowed just three of Toronto's four hits and struck out six batters, but he walked seven, too. "Pretty bad," Wilcox said. "I can't remember walking that many batters in my career."

It was his second victory of the year. Each has come against Toronto and each time Dave Stieb has been the loser.

The run that burned Stieb this time came in the third inning when Rick Peters tripled and Alan Trammell doubled. The Tigers also scored in the fourth on Lou Whitaker's bases-loaded grounder.

Midland High's Jim Kemper ...searching for extra height

Rebels, Bulldogs in final tuneup

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

MONAHANS — The Midland Lee and Midland High track teams will have their final warmup before the all-important District 5-A meet here Saturday night when they join four other teams in the Division I competition of the Sandhill Relays.

Odessa High, Odessa-Permian and Big Spring will also be making their final tuneups in this meet, which is the last one before the April 24 5-5A showdown in San Angelo. Carlsbad, N.M., is the other entry.

Division II should also be a good show with Andrews, Alpine, Crane, Odessa Ector, Fort Stockton, Lake View, Lamesa, Monahans, Pecos and Sweetwater in the field and Division III will consist of Fort Davis, Iraan, Klondike, Lydia Patterson, Marfa, Plains, Rankin, Sanderson, Sierra Blanca and Van Horn. Division IV will be a girls regional qualifiers division and there will be no local girls in that division since they didn't qualify anyone for the Region I meet.

FIELD EVENT finals are slated for a 1 p.m. start with running preliminaries to start at 1:30 p.m. The 3200 meter run will be run at 5 p.m. and the Saturday night finals begin at 6:10 p.m.

Midland Lee's Arthur Williams and Keith Brown and Midland High's James Beverley will try to keep unbeaten streaks alive. Williams is unbeaten in the 200 meters this year with a best of 21.2, one of the state's best marks in the event. He has been very consistent this year. Brown is unbeaten in the shot put, but has not gone over 58-feet this year in what is considered a weak event in 5-5A this season. Beverley is unbeaten in the 800 meters with a best of 1:55.5, one of the state's top times. The sophomore seems to knock down all opponents.

Lee's David Piccolo, the defending 300 intermediate hurdle champion, could be considered as an unbeaten entry in that event. He has not lost in the 300 hurdle finals this year and has been consistently under 40 seconds. However, he failed to qualify for the finals in Amarillo last weekend after falling down. So, that left the question if his streak is intact or not.

LEE'S ROBERT Schooler, the defending 5-5A 1600 meter champion, has lost only two races in 12 outings of the 3200 and 1600 meter events. After losing twice in the Tall City Relays, he bounced back with victories at Amarillo, and beat David Williams, the runner that ended his streak of victories. This will be Schooler's final tuneup before meeting San Angelo's Dirk Davls again in the district meet. Davis upset Schooler in the 1600 meters in Midland.

Lee's Darrin Williams has won five of six outings in the 100 meters with a best of 10.6. He now appears to be in top form. Lee's 400 meter relay team has also won three meetings in a row and appear to be rolling.

Midland High has had trouble getting into the winning circle this year. Beverley is the only Bulldog to bring home a title in the last two outings. High jumper Troy Bush, who had a season best 6-5 three weeks ago, has come back with efforts of 5-10 and 6-0 the last two weeks. Pole vaulter Jim Kemper, who had a 12-6 three weeks ago, has not reached that height since and Billy Taylor, who was a premier sprinter a year ago, has not won an event this season.

Hurdler Robert Crawford may be the most improved Bulldog over the course of the season. He has switched to the hurdles and has been picking up points even though victory has eluded him. He has a 40.7 in the intermediates, but he is in an event considered strong this year in 5-5A.

LEE, STILL searching for depth for the 5-5A meet, is getting some help from previous JV members. Michael Goodley turned in a 1:59.93 in the 800 meters for a third last week and that was his best time ever. Carleton Johnson had a fifth in the 200 with a 22.73 and Sam Morney was fifth in the 400 meters with a 52.52.

However, Brown has been a puzzle in the discus. He had a 177-0 in his first meet of the year and has had trouble getting over 140-feet since then. Clyde Smith has taken up some of the slack in that event, but has not got back over the 160-foot mark since early in the season. Ken Brown is improving in the long jump as is Midland High's Mike Velasco. Lee's Scott Stovall had the best high jump of his career, a 6-2, last week but failed to place.

Nothing really counts in track, however, except the performance in the district meet. And this is the last oval to run before the stakes grow.

Gold Sox beat Cubs in opener

AMARILLO—Amarillo's Gold Sox pushed over five runs in the first two innings on the way to a 7-4 win over the Midland Cubs in the opener of the rain-delayed Texas League series here Thursday.

Midland made a belated rally in the ninth, scoring three runs in and had the tying run at the plate when Randy Miller got Carmello Martinez on a fly ball to left field to end the game.

The teams meet again at 7:30 p.m. today with Joe McClain pitching for Midland while Byron Ballard, 0-1, going for the Gold Sox, who are now 3-3.

After a two-run first, the Sox used three walks, two errors, a wild pitch and a balk to score three unearned runs in the second. Joe Lansford then led off the seventh with his first homer of the season to give an Amarillo 7-1 lead.

Midland didn't chase Andy Hawkins, 1-1, until the ninth when Mel Hall led off with a double, Randy LaVigne drove in the run with a double and Tom Grant beat out an infield hit. Jack Upton grounded into a force as another run scored and Mike Diaz singled. That brought in Miller, who gave up a run scoring base hit to J. W. Mitchell before getting Martinez.

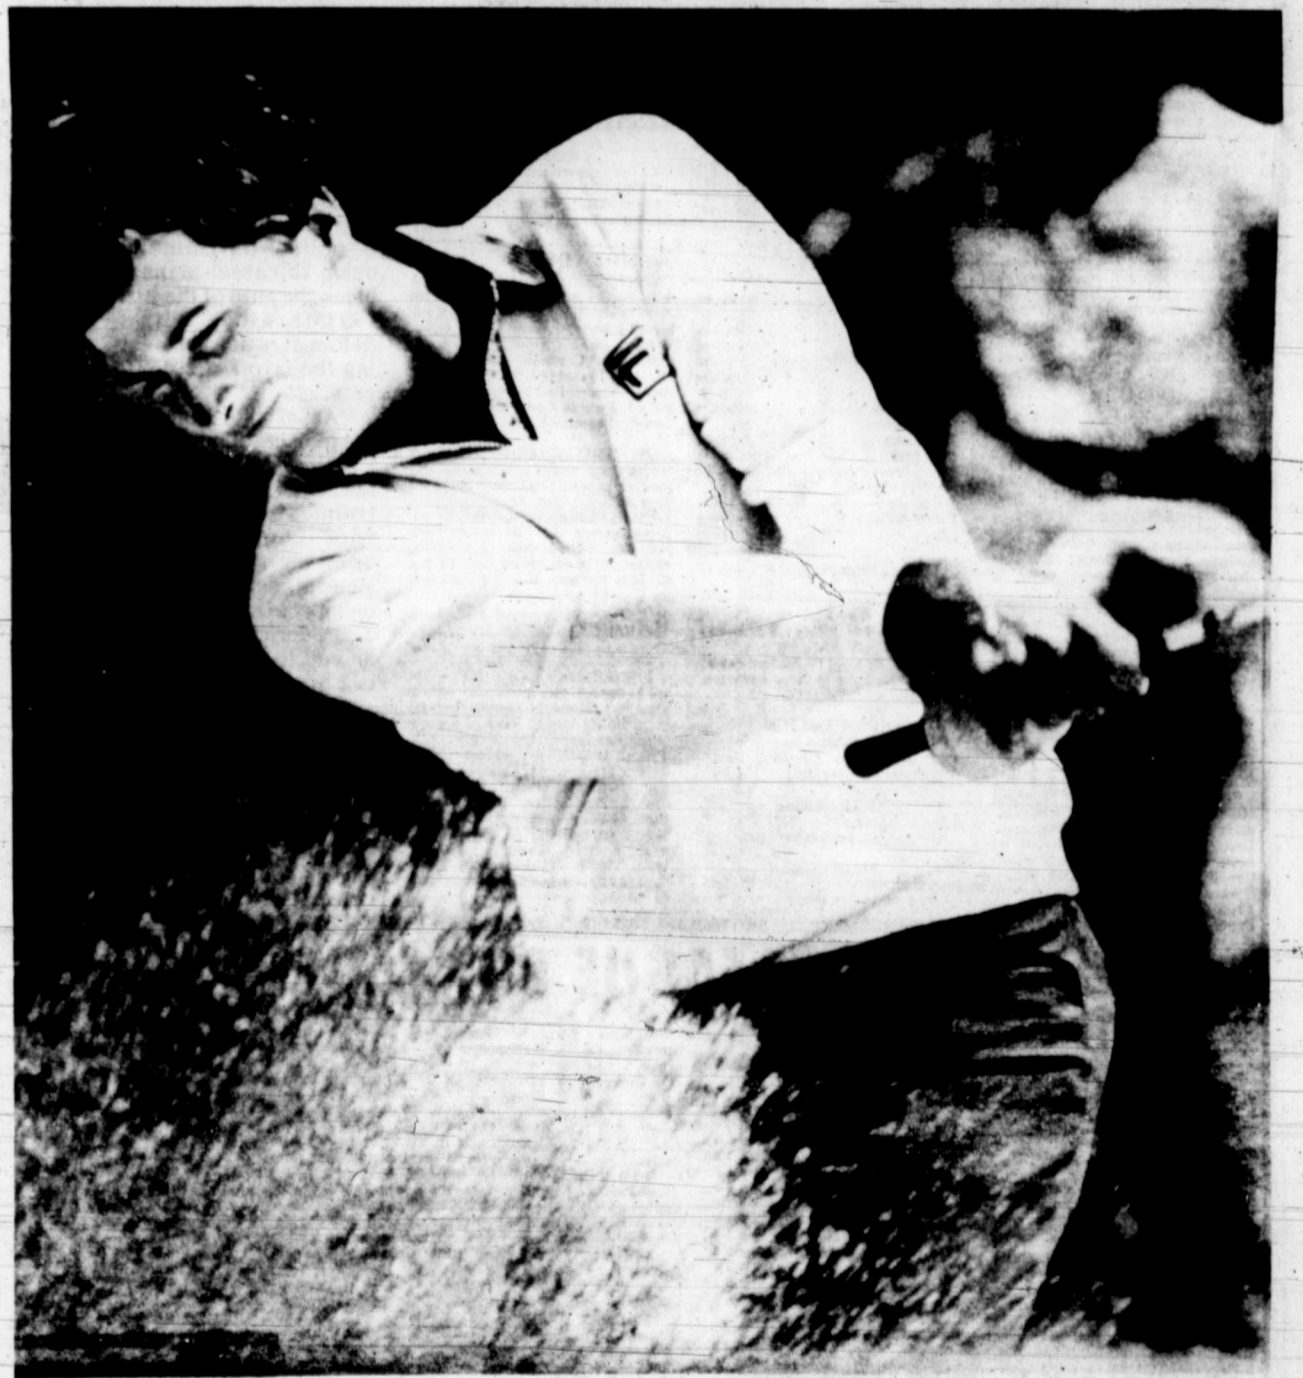

Grant had three hits for Midland and LaVigne two more as the Cubs outhit Amarillo 9-7.

Kansas State to play six cage exhibitions

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State officials say the Wildcat basketball team will play six exhibition games in Japan this summer. Sponsored by the Japan Amateur Basketball Association, the trip will include games in Tokyo, Yokohama and other cities between June 30 and July 13. The Wildcats will face national teams from Japan, Czechoslovakia and China.

Curtis Strange blasts out of trouble.

Strange claims T of C lead

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — The last four holes at the La Costa Country Club measure exactly one mile and comprise one of the toughest finishing sets in golf.

"Usually, you can figure if you play them about one over you haven't lost any ground," Tom Watson said before opening defense of the title he has won the last two seasons in the $300,000 MONY-Tournament of Champions. But Watson, who won the Masters last week, played those four holes 2 over par Thursday in the first round of the T of C and lost six shots to leader Curtis Strange.

"Just something that happened," shrugged the 26-year-old Strange, who became the first man in the history of the exclusive tournament to birdie all four of the finishing holes.

It completed a 6-under-par 66 that gave him a one-stroke lead over Lee Trevino and eight over Watson, who struggled to a 74 and then headed for the practice tee and a long workout. "Watson isn't out of it," Trevino insisted of the man who has dominated golf for the past four seasons. Then Lee grinned.

"But if he loses seven more shots to me, he'll be 14 back after two rounds, then he'll be out of it. But not until then." Trevino, a four-time runnerup in this elite tournament that brings together only the winners of PGA Tour titles from the last 12 months, birdied three of the last four holes which he called "as good as any finishing holes I've ever played."

Bruce Lietzke, who finished second in this tournament the two previous times he's played here, had a 68 as Strange's partner in the cool, breezy weather. He was tied with Bill Rogers, also 4-under-par and only two strokes back in the chase for a $54,000 first prize. "A fantastic finish," Lietzke said of Strange's closing burst. "Curtis wasn't playing all that well for the first 10 holes or so, then he put on an absolutely fantastic finish."

Tied at 69 were Canadian Dan Hall-dorson, Howard Twitty, Ray Floyd and Tom Kite.

Jack Nicklaus, who chased Watson to the Masters title last week, matched par 72.

"Nothing to write home about," he said. "I was playing pretty decently, had it 3-under-par after 12 holes, then couldn't finish the round. I drove it into the rough three times, couldn't get the ball on the green and made bogey."

Strange, 26, winner of two titles last year, also had some problems in the early going.

Lee Rebels still alive as Abilene beats Cooper

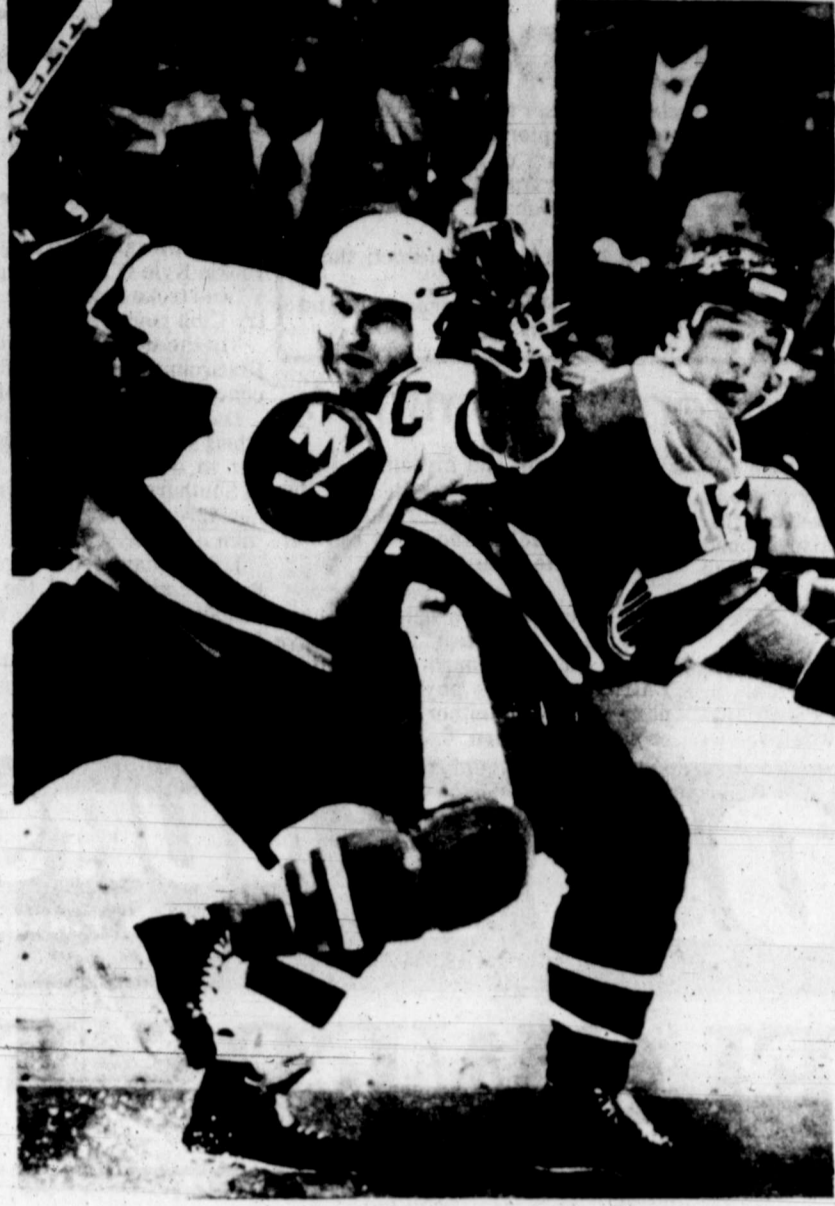

ABILENE—Midland Lee and Big Spring were still alive in the first half District 5-5A baseball race after Abilene High defeated Abilene Cooper, 3-2, Thursday. At the same time, the Eagles assured themselves a tie for the first half title with Cooper, both with 5-2 records.

Lee, which finishes against Midland High, tentatively next Thursday, and Big Spring, which finishes the first half today against San Angelo, could tie for first by winning, creating what possibly could be a four-way logjam at the top. Abilene's Mike Hargesheimer, 5-5, threw a four-hitter and also hit a sacrifice fly to launch a three-run second for the Eagles. Nolan Rives and Dee Eubank batted in the other runs as Abilene overcame a 2-0 Cooper lead and made the one run edge stand up. Tommy Clemmons, 4-4, pitched a seven-hitter in the loss.

Nation says 'Goodbye'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The time had come to say goodbye to The Champ. From around the country came the fighters and the hangers-on who are part of the boxing world, entertainment personalities and some non-celebrities whose lives somehow may have been touched by Joe Louis.

The public viewing began a memorial observance to be culminated Tuesday with Louis' burial at Arlington National Cemetery in the gentle green hills of northern Virginia. President Reagan waived armed forces regulations that normally would have barred Louis from being buried in the nation's most historic national cemetery. Other pallbearers Friday were to be World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes and fight promoter Don King, while the honorary pallbearers included many boxing stars of yesteryear.

Islanders in another rout Flyers, Blues post playoff victories

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer
Form held in the National Hockey League playoffs Thursday night. The New York Islanders registered another rout; the St. Louis Blues continued their recent domination of the New York Rangers; the Philadelphia Flyers won at home, and Steve Payne scored two goals for the Minnesota North Stars.

The game-winner in overtime — in the preliminary-round opener against Boston, then adding two goals in the second and third games with the Bruins, Payne continued his hot pace in Buffalo. "It was a slap shot (by Brad Maxwell) and I tipped it," Payne said of his critical tally. "It took quite a little bit off and it hit a defenseman's skate and tricked in."

Islanders 8, Oilers 2
The Islander express kept rolling, squashing the Oilers with a three-goal spurt in a 1:44 span of the second period. Denis Potvin and Clark Gillies each had two goals while rookie Hector Marini contributed a goal and two assists. It was the Stanley Cup champions' fourth straight lopsided playoff victory — the Islanders swept Toronto, outscoring the Maple Leafs 20-4 in the preliminary round. Blues 6, Rangers 3
For years, the Blues couldn't beat the Rangers but all that turned around this season when St. Louis won all four meetings in regular season. And the Blues kept it up thanks to Bernie Federko's two goals. "We wanted to take command at the outset," said Federko, who also set up a goal by Brian Sutter. St. Louis had a tight, exhausting flyer series with Pittsburgh that ended Tuesday and the Rangers were off since Sunday after beating Los Angeles in four games. But that didn't matter. Flyers 4, Flames 0

Philadelphia won all three of its preliminary-round games with Quebec in the Spectrum and the Flyers continued their topnotch play at home by blanking Calgary as goalie Rick St. Croix stopped 35 shots. Paul Holmgren had two goals for the Flyers. "We got exceptional goaltending by Rick, especially in the second period (when he stopped 15 shots). He gave a magnificent effort tonight," said Flyers Coach Pat Quinn. But Quinn wasn't entirely happy. "I don't mean to belittle our effort, but if we believe we can get away with what we did tonight, we won't be mentally ready for the second game," he said.

BOWLING BEAT
Richardson, Jordan win all-events titles
By RANDY ISENBERG
The men's and women's associations concluded their annual city bowling tournament last weekend with Bud Richardson emerging as Handicap All-Events champion with a 2,092 in nine games of team, doubles and singles. Joe Gieb was second followed by Dave Gregory, Lou Marczynski, and Ross Graham. The men's tournament was highlighted by Graham's 300 game in the singles at Air Park Lanes as he posted a 221 for nine games. Budweiser edged Dellwood Lanes for the team title while John Whitmore and Gieb won the doubles with 1,432. Jerry Aly and Tom Green. Graham won singles with a 743 scratch. Trophies will be presented at Air Park Lanes 7 p.m. May 1.

IN THE WOMEN'S tournament, Karen Jordan won the all-events with a scratch 1710 for nine games, a 190 average. Tom Green's Critters won the team title with a 3,160 over the Guessers. In doubles, Pat Dawson and Benita Gibson won doubles with a 1,364 while Edith Hood edged Cherie Powell 741 to 722 in singles. Teresa Tidwell edged Carole Wallace for all events, 2001 to 1964.

Cuervo homer keeps Jackson Mets unbeaten
By Associated Press
Ed Cuervo slammed a three-run homer and Greg Pastors added a solo homer Thursday night as the Jackson Mets remained unbeaten with a 13-4 Texas League victory over the Shreveport Captains. In other Texas League action, Arkansas edged Tulsa, 1-0, El Paso beat San Antonio, 11-7, and Amarillo slipped past Midland, 7-4. Cuervo started off the night with a triple in the first inning and clouted a three-run homer in the seventh inning as the Mets remained unbeaten after seven games. Mike Lowery, 2-0, was the winning pitcher. Tagged with the loss was Pat Alexander, 0-2. The stadium was new but the result was the same as the Arkansas Travelers beat Tulsa, 1-0, in the first game ever played in Tulsa's new $2 million Sutton Stadium. The Drillers are winless after six games. Gotay Mills, tripled in the third inning and scored when Jeff Doyle grounded out to shortstop for the game's only run. Arkansas pitchers Jerry Johnson, Louis Pratt and Rafael Pimental teamed up to allow Tulsa just two hits. The Driller managed to hit only three balls into the outfield. Dave Schmidt was the losing pitcher. Amarillo took advantage of the wildness of Midland pitcher Randy Clark to score five runs in the first two innings as the Gold Sox beat the Cubs, 7-4. Andy Hawkins, 1-1, was the winning pitcher. Clark, 0-2, was the loser.

Ex-Dolphin fans may get double dose of KU vs. K-State
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Fans could be getting a double dose of the fanatic football rivalry between the University of Kansas and Kansas State University. Kansas Athletic Director Bob Marcum and K-State Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds have discussed the possibility informally, although no dates have been set. The Kansas City Star reported Thursday. Marcum said he initiated the discussion because of potential open dates on the Kansas football schedule in 1982 and 1984. He said UCLA has asked to dissolve an agreement for games in those two seasons. "I think DeLoss was caught a little off guard when I brought it up," Marcum said. "But when I called him I was looking at the finances — Kansas State and Nebraska are our No. 1 money games at home. I'm sure we are Kansas State's No. 1 money game. If people refer to us as a business, then we have to have the same options of business." "UCLA as well as Stanford (another team Kansas has scheduled for a home-and-away series) are concerned on the West Coast about traveling east. I'm not trying to be a prophet of doom and gloom, but

JIM MURRAY Joe Louis is part of Americana

Los Angeles Times
We're all 25 years older today. Joe Louis is gone. He takes a piece of our times with him, he takes our youth. We won't see his kind again. Joe is Depression America. Joe is ice wagons on a tarred city street, train whistles on a summer night. Joe is part of America growing up. I guess we all remember where we were when Joe first swung into our consciousness, like remembering where you were when a war started, a president died. I remember I was a young kid listening to a re-creation of his fight against Primo Carnera outside a newspaper office in New England on a sultry night in June, 1935. I sat next to an Italian man, a cripple, his legs a ragdoll useless mass under him, his locomotion a skateboard, in the day when it was a prosthesis, not a sport. He listened in growing melancholy as the fight unfolded. It was a brutal fight. Joe Louis split the Italian giant's mouth open with the first punch, and systematically reduced him to a scuttled hulk thereafter, knocking him out in the sixth round. The Italian was philosophical, if somewhat heartbroken. "Well," he said, "that was the way they said it was going to be. This Louis, he is a terrible force."

possible, surely an innocence. He knocked out 10 guys in the first round, but the only guy he ever really hurt was Joe Louis. Even the mob, which ran the business in those days, before Joe Louis came in, left him strictly alone. Joe was an Untouchable. I don't ever remember even hearing him swear in public. HE REGARDED money as something, in the words of Gene Fowler, to be thrown off the back of trains. He earned $4,684,297 in the ring, and wound up in hock to the government over $1,250,000. If he had $20 in his pocket when he died you could have had it. You didn't even need a hard luck story with Joe. He knew life was 99 percent hard luck people. People cheated him, and Joe laughed. He always left his opponents with scraps of self-respect. "Another lucky night," he would apologize into the microphone after destroying another heavyweight. The only thing lucky about the night was that he didn't kill them. When Marciano knocked him out, and the dressing room was full of people weeping tears, Joe was scornful. "I knocked out a lotta guys," he told them in reproach. "Where's the Scotch?" He had an ever-present sense of humor. He expected humanity to be funny, and they never disappointed him. You couldn't hurt Joe Louis. He had an innate dignity and honesty, a resistance to pomposity, that made it impossible for him to say or do the wrong thing. "There's a lot of things wrong with this country, but nothing Hitler can fix," he told the nation on the eve of war. Could Churchill have said it better?

JOE LOUIS, a "terrible force"? Not hardly. Joe Louis was one of the most benevolent forces this society can ever have. His contribution to the Republic is incalculable.

Do you realize how Joe Louis' successes ministered to group esteem? If you think he administered a battering to Max Schmeling, can you imagine the one he administered to racial pretences? Comprehend what a powerful lecture against demagoguery and bigotry he delivered with his two fists. No outburst of learned philippic from a battery of college professors could ever match the lessons he taught the world with six-ounce gloves. He taught a whole generation the meaning of equality, the idiocy of supremacy. From the dogtrack hollows of West Alabama to the silk and fur avenues of North Harlem, he made a people hold its head high. As Honest Bill Daly once said hyperbolically, "Lincoln freed the slaves, Louis made them equal."

HE WOULD rather break par than a jaw. If he had a tragedy in his life, it was that he would far rather have been a first baseman for the Yankees or the leader in the clubhouse at the Masters than the greatest fighter who ever lived. People forget he integrated the professional golf tour, broke the color line for Charlie Sifford. Joe broke paths, but vengeance wasn't in him. He did it because it was right, not because it was punitive. He made people ashamed, not resentful.

In the ring, he was the most devastating force the game has ever seen. Only Dempsey on his good nights could approach him in ferocity. Outside the ring, he was one of the most beautiful human beings you will ever see. Oh, Joe had his weaknesses. But they were the weaknesses of the gods, not the contemptible, petty little weaknesses of the ordinary beings around him. There was a purity about Joe Louis, a childlike invulnerability, almost a holiness, if such a thing is Joe had his demons, of the mind, largely, his bouts of fear. Life had him on the floor a couple of times. But Joe always got up. It's hard to believe that he won't anymore. They named an arena after him in his native Detroit. They ought to name a city after him, a state. Heck, he is a state. A nation. A time. America's American. The Bomber. Ours. We'll miss him and the era he symbolized and the legacy he left. America lost more than a pugilist. America lost part of itself. To those of our generation, he was, is, and always will be, The Champ.

Warriors lead Adult soccer

The Golden Warriors lead the Midland Independent Adult Soccer League as the circuit breaks for the Easter weekend.

With three weekends to go, the unbeaten Warriors have 33 points and a five point lead over the Green Tree Blues. Play resumes April 26. Games are played on Sunday at Hogan Park at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. and at Taylor Park at 1:30 p.m.

Pete Mazuca, who founded the plays-soccer-for-run league with Jim Hawthorne, said a tournament may be held in Midland in August under the auspices of the North Texas Soccer League.

The MIASt plays both a spring and fall league schedule.

Women's play slated

MONAHANS—The Monahans Women's Slow Pitch Softball Association will hold a women's open tournament April 24-25-26. Entry fee is $75. Tournament director is Vergie Melius (943 5618). Entry deadline is April 21.

Midlanders set pace

After four weeks of competition, Midlanders Benjie Massey and Don Clark lead the Class E Doubles of the Texas Bowling Association championships at Abilene with 1,153. Jeff Minnick of Midland is third in Class B Singles with 667.

Ron Hamilton, Lamesa, is third in Class D singles at 608 while Doan-Burkholder of Pecos are second in Class D doubles with 1124. Big Spring's Ray McMahan leads the Class D all events with 1726 while Greg Black, Seminole, second in Class E all events at 1,645.

Softball scheduled

The South Plains Softball Association of Lubbock will hold a 30-team Open Slow Pitch tournament April 25-26. Entry fee is $75. Contact 806 795 7933 or 762 6653.

MJBA slates tryouts

The Midland Junior Baseball Association has set time for tryouts and registration for the 1981 Sophomore and High Junior baseball leagues. Registration for candidates 13 through 16 years of age will be April 23 and 24 at 5 p.m. A make up day is scheduled for April 25 at 9 a.m. A $17 fee will be charged for each registrant with a charge of $7 for each additional family member.

Tryouts will be conducted 5 p.m. April 29, 30 and May 1. If needed, there will be a make up day May 2 at 9 a.m.

Age 13-14 registrants should report to Redfern Field at Hogan Park and 15-16 year olds will report to Simon Field in Hogan Park.

Slapping players is common

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Two former assistants under ex-Arizona State football Coach Frank Kush testified Thursday that they also slapped helmets and grabbed players' face masks but considered the practice commonplace among major college programs.

Both added that the tactics were never designed to injure players.

"If a player were struck with anything — your hand or whatever — knowing Frank and myself, it would not be with the intent to hurt the youngster," said Colorado Coach Chuck Fairbanks, who aided Kush at Arizona State from 1958-61.

"I have slapped a helmet. I have grabbed a face mask. I might have even used a clipboard once," added Fairbanks. "You physically discipline a player to either motivate him or get his attention."

Hill shares Citrus lead

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — It's been more than two years since Cindy Hill last won a tournament on the LPGA tour, but she's still not overjoyed about being tied for the lead after one round of the $100,000 Florida Lady Citrus tournament.

"It's too early to get excited about being in the lead," Hill said Thursday after she, Beth Daniel and rookie Kyle O'Brien fired four-under-par 68s to take a two-stroke lead on the 6,138-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course.

"In the 1973 U.S. Open in Rochester, I led after the first round with a 68 and shot 79 the next day," Hill continued. "I learned something from that."

Daniel, the LPGA's Player of the Year in 1980 when she set an earnings record with $231,000, has yet to win this season. And O'Brien, a graduate of Southern Methodist University who will celebrate her 23rd birthday next month, has done no better than a tie for 30th in her first tour season.

Daniel managed a bogey-less round in carding her 68. She almost had the lead alone, but missed a 20-foot eagle putt on the 475-yard 10th hole by inches.

The 33-year-old Hill had more trouble with the swirling wind conditions. After a 3-under 33 on the front side she bogeyed the 11th and 12th holes — three putting No. 11 and hitting over the green on the 148-yard 12th. But she sank an eight-foot putt on the 13th for a birdie, made a 25-footer on No. 17 for another birdie and tied for the lead with a five-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

O'Meara leads Tallahassee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Rookie Mark O'Meara hadn't been putting well so he went out and bought a book on positive thinking. He says his reading inspired quick results.

O'Meara, a 24-year-old native of Goldsboro, N.C., birdied five of the last six holes Thursday to card a 7-under-par 65 and take a one-stroke lead over Dave Eichelberger in the opening round of the $100,000 Tallahassee Open.

The PGA rookie currently ranks 25th on the tour money winning list with $42,426. His best previous finish was fourth in the Bay Hill Classic.

O'Meara says positive thinking has been instrumental in his fast start as a pro.

O'Meara used his torrid finish to move ahead of Eichelberger, who recorded a 6-under 66 over the 7,124-yard Killbuck Golf and Country Club course.

Pilgrims retrace Christ's path

JERUSALEM (AP) — Pilgrims from around the world flocked to the Via Dolorosa this Good Friday to retrace the tortured path of Jesus Christ to the skull-shaped hill called Calvary where he was crucified.

Many brought heavy wooden crosses to carry along the narrow alleyway that leads from the place where Pontius Pilate condemned Christ, to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, traditional site of his crucifixion and entombment.

Jerusalem was bathed in warm spring sunshine as hundreds gathered for the annual pilgrimage that marks the saddest occasion in the Christian calendar.

Israeli troops kept an inconspicuous but watchful guard to prevent any possible Palestinian guerrilla attacks.

With Easter and the Jewish Passover holiday partly coinciding, some 100,000 tourists have flocked to the Holy Land, and police are issuing pleas to the public to look out for suspicious objects.

The military said it strengthened its alert along the Lebanese frontier following an attempt by guerrillas Thursday to fly into the Jewish state from Lebanon in a hot-air balloon. Israeli troops shot down the balloon and killed the guerrillas.

The Jerusalem municipality has been repaving the Via Dolorosa after digging it up to replace its drainpipes as part of a major urban renewal project in the old walled city.

Outside the Third Station of the Cross, where tradition says Jesus fell the first time under the weight of the cross, the street has been paved with the same stones believed to have lined the Via Dolorosa during Christ's lifetime.

Whether Christ actually trod on these stones is open to debate, since scholars do not agree on the actual route he took to Calvary.

The stones were dug up by chance during the pipe-laying.

At the Garden Tomb north of the city walls, where many Protestants believe Christ was crucified and entombed, prayers were conducted throughout Good Friday in German, Dutch, English and the Scandinavian languages.

Pope hears faithful confess at midday

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II slipped into a booth inside St. Peter's Basilica at midday on Good Friday and confessed several worshippers. Later he planned to commemorate the death of Jesus Christ by walking the Stations of the Cross.

The pope also heard confession last year on Good Friday. That was the first time a pontiff had ever performed the sacrament in St. Peter's, the largest church in Christendom.

John Paul, wearing a full black cloak over his white robes, heard confession first from a Franciscan monk who ordinarily confesses Hungarian visitors to St. Peter's. The pontiff remained in the confessional for an hour.

A steady rain threatened to dampen the pope's plans to symbolically retrace Jesus's steps up the hill where he was crucified. The pope was scheduled to march the Way of the Cross up the hill between the ancient Colosseum and Roman Forum in downtown Rome.

The rain, which broke a dry spell and was greatly appreciated by Italian farmers, caused road accidents and long lineups on expressways as millions of Italians traveled to mountain, lake and seaside resorts in a traditional Easter exodus.

Several dozen tourists and pilgrims recognized John Paul when he entered St. Peter's and applauded. The pope turned and waved.

He looked thin after a fast for Lent in which he reportedly lost 10 pounds.

Tens of millions of television viewers in 28 countries in Western Europe, North America, South America and Africa were expected to watch the live broadcast of the pope's trek through the 14 Stations of the Cross — representing individual events in Jesus's condemnation, execution and burial.

On Thursday, John Paul re-enacted Jesus's humility at the Last Supper, washing and kissing the feet of 12 elderly men — symbols of the 12 Apostles — before thousands of cheering faithful at the Basilica of St. John Lateran.

Son of U.S. soldier has himself crucified

MANDALUYONG, Philippines (AP) — A Filipino laborer had himself nailed to a cross today atop a rocky hill in this Manila suburb in hopes his crucifixion will lead to a meeting with the former American GI he says is his father.

Grimacing in pain, Donald Rexford Jr. cried, "Oh God, forgive us our sins!" and remained hanging on the cross for about a minute until his friends, dressed as Roman soldiers, helped him down. About 2,000 people, most of them women and children, watched in silence.

The tableau would have been an eerie one even if this wasn't Rexford's second crucifixion — and if four men and a woman had not had themselves crucified in similar fashion in two other Philippines towns today.

In San Fernando, 30 miles north of here, 20,000 witnesses were on hand as three men were nailed to crosses on a hill overlooking a rice paddy. Officials called the event a major tourist attraction.

A 23-year-old faith healer re-enacted the crucifixion in a village churchyard at Kapitanganan, 20 miles north of the capital. She was the only woman to do so.

"Jesus asked me to do it... to cleanse the world of sins," Luciana Reyes told reporters as five-inch nails were driven through her palms and feet.

It was the fifth time she underwent true-to-life crucifixion. About 5,000 people watched as the woman remained impaled on the cross for about three minutes.

Sacrifice and penance are a deeply rooted Easter week tradition in the Philippines, Asia's only predominantly Catholic nation.

For most of the country's 48 million people, this takes the form of quiet prayer in their homes and churches.

But others take the scriptures more literally. At Easter time, many of the devout can be seen along streets and highways flogging themselves, recalling the agony of Christ on the day of his crucifixion by the Romans 2,000 years ago.

Catholic priests in the Philippines frown on extreme forms of "physical sacrifice," but their admonitions appear to be falling on deaf ears.

Rexford, 34, re-enacted Christ's crucifixion down to the last detail. He dragged an 88-pound cross on his shoulders across four towns in a nine-hour, barefoot march. Along the way, the "soldiers" lashed his back with leather and bamboo whips.

About an hour past high noon, with the hillside here ablaze in the summer heat, two "soldiers" drove five-inch stainless steel nails through Rexford's palms with hammer blows.

Less than a hundred yards away, at the Sacred Heart Catholic church, the Rev. Jaime Mora shook his head.

"The value of a sacrifice depends on the intention," he said. "If the intention is not right, there is no value. What is the merit of doing something if what you want is publicity?"

Rexford, meanwhile, was telling reporters he hopes his sacrifice "will lead to a meeting with my father in the United States" — a father he has never been able to locate.

Atheists meeting opens; Prayer vigil under way

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Madalyn Murray O'Hair's American Atheists organization opens its 11th annual national convention here tonight, but her born-again son already has kicked off a three-day anti-atheist prayer vigil.

A quarter page ad in this morning's Salt Lake Tribune invites the atheists to call the Valley Assembly of God church, site of the 72-hour prayer vigil, to obtain counseling.

"I've walked in your shoes, and I can tell you that you are on a dead-end road, leading to sadness, emptiness and an unfulfilled life," William J. Murray said in the ad.

In 1963, his mother filed a suit in behalf of Murray, then 14, that led to the U.S. Supreme Court ruling prohibiting public schools from conducting prayers.

Murray became a born-again Christian two years ago, and now heads the Faith Foundation, of Houston and Denver, which "is attempting to follow the atheists around... to correct some of the damage they leave in their path," he said in an interview this week.

Red Cross to offer free introduction to swimming

The American Red Cross will offer free introduction to swimming and stroke improvement classes for youngsters between the ages of 4 and 15 in cooperation with the city of Midland Parks & Recreation Department.

Classes are scheduled for May 18-20 at the Midland High School pool. Two classes will be held each night: one from 5:30 to 6 p.m.; the other from 6 to 6:30 p.m.

Em Carnett, water safety instructor trainer, said this program is an excellent opportunity for children to start swimming lessons early with a chance to have individual attention. These classes will be especially helpful to those children who will be taking regular lessons this summer at the pools, as it will give them additional time to adjust to the water, she said.

Interested persons may register children for the classes by calling the Red Cross office at 684-6161.

Drug addicts younger, more violent

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Narcotics addicts are increasingly younger and are turning more and more to violent crime, such as armed robbery, to support their habit, according to research presented to a federal task force.

Witnesses at the task force's opening day of hearings Thursday said violence, drugs and money are inseparable and additional drug enforcement could help curb violent crime.

"The addict population is growing younger and seems to be much more involved in violent crime," said Dr. David N. Nurco, a professor in the University of Maryland's psychiatry department who studied narcotics addicts in Baltimore between 1952 and 1976 and another group of addicts in 1979.

He also cited a study by Dr. James Inciardi of the University of Delaware which found that about half the addict population checked in Miami engaged in violent crimes.

"Dealing with the opiate problem is an important way to make an impact on crime in the United States," Nurco said. He noted that a study found that fewer than 1 percent of the addict crime resulted in an arrest.

FBI Director William H. Webster said 39 percent of bank robbers identified in 1980 were found to be narcotics users. He said he was discussing the expansion of the FBI's role in narcotics enforcement, particularly through increased cooperation with the Drug Enforcement Administration in tracking the finances of major drug traffickers in south Florida.

"You cannot ignore the role of the federal government in narcotics and its impact on violence," Webster said.

Drug Enforcement Administrator Peter Bensinger told the task force, "Your work is going to have a greater impact on our agency than perhaps any other, because violence, drugs and money are inseparable."

"The havoc wrecked by violent crime in our society is clearly linked to, if not fostered by, the illicit trafficking in and abuse of controlled substances," Bensinger said. "It is not only the drug traffickers that are integrally involved in violent criminal behavior. Many of the nation's drug abusers resort to property crime and crimes of violence to support their addiction."

Bensinger vehemently proposed a stiffer federal bail law and got a good reception from the panel. He noted that one smuggler of a half-ton of heroin made $1 million bail in 15 minutes and is now back in Bolivia.

"Bail is like a parking ticket or a normal business expense to our offenders," Bensinger said.

He proposed that federal judges be allowed to consider the potential danger to the community in setting bail.

Norman Carlson, director of the federal Bureau of Prisons, told the task force that one-third of the 24,500 federal prisoners have had a drug problem at one time. He also noted that the percentage of federal prisoners who committed violent crimes has increased from 20 percent in 1970 to 33 percent today.

Assistant Attorney General D. Lowell Jensen, head of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, said its 25-attorney narcotics section can play an enhanced role in prosecutions of traffickers and in sharing their skills with local prosecutors interested in seizing drug profits.

Detroit Police Chief William L. Hart, a member of the task force, said local investigators often don't know what they can seize or not seize in complicated conspiracy cases and need advice. "Your 25 people available for such advice looked like an army to me," he told Jensen.

Jensen also said the Internal Revenue Service, which has been hesitant to cooperate with some criminal investigations in the past few years because of new privacy legislation, had assigned additional manpower recently to tracking drug profits in narcotics investigations.

The task force, created by Attorney General William French Smith, was holding a second day of hearings here today. Between now and August, it is expected to hold additional hearings in Atlanta, Miami, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles and again in Washington.

The eight-member panel, co-chaired by former Attorney General Griffin Bell and Illinois Gov. James Thompson, is to report to Smith by mid-June on how the federal government can increase its efforts against violent crime with existing resources. By mid-August, it will recommend any needed increases in resources and federal money.

Hanging may be drug-related

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Testimony that rigor mortis had set in before Michael Anthony Donald's body was hanged from a tree should lay to rest allegations that the 19-year-old black man was lynched, a district attorney contends.

Forensic pathologist LeRoy Riddick testified Thursday at a preliminary hearing for three white suspects in the case that Donald was dead before he was hanged from a camphor tree. His body was found March 21.

Donald, a brick masonry student at a technical college and a part time newspaper employee, was beaten, cut and strangled to death and hanged from a "classic hangman's noose," said Riddick.

District Attorney Chris Galanos said the testimony ruled out "lynching" as a cause of death and "ought to lay those absurd rumors to rest forever."

Some leading blacks contend the incident was a lynching.

Three whites — Ralph Eugene Hayes, 23, and brothers Jimmy L. Edgar, 22, and Johnny Edgar, 26, all of rural Mobile County — have been charged in the slaying.

District Judge Nicholas Kearney ordered the three bound over to a grand jury, which convenes in two weeks, on murder charges. He left their bonds at $250,000 each.

Hayes, a pulpwood worker, and Jimmy Edgar, a sheetrock hanger, have prison records. Police have described all three as "junkies."

During the hearing, Johnny Ray Kelly, 27, of Prichard, quoted one suspect in the case as saying he had "jumped on a black dude" who owed him money for some pills.

Minorities battle major TV networks

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A coalition of minority organizations has objected in an official protest to the Federal Communications Commission to attempts by the three big networks to enter the new low power television market.

Ruben Bonilla, national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens, said Thursday that his organization had joined with a dozen other groups — representing 52 million minority Americans — in filing the challenge to the NBC's "attempted entrance and domination of the newly created low power television market."

The coalition contends in its formal protest filed Wednesday that the major networks have ignored or stereotyped minorities in their programming and now are attempting to encroach on the low power markets which afford minorities an opportunity to obtain channels.

Bonilla said the coalition's opposition to NBC's application to enter 11 cities, including San Antonio, Houston, El Paso, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C., violates the FCC's announced goal to increase minority ownership of the low-cost, low power stations.

He said the FCC in January began permitting low power stations which can be started for as little as $100,000 and are designed to transmit no farther than 10 miles.

Similar protests also have been or will be filed against attempts by ABC and CBS to obtain low power channels, Bonilla said.

The formal protest also was listed as being in behalf of minority actors, artists, media and communications organizations.

In a study accompanying the protest, the minorities charged that only 1 percent of all characters portrayed in prime time by NBC in February were Hispanic, 11 out of a total 1,258.

Further, Bonilla alleged that 42 percent of all Hispanics portrayed by NBC were introduced as criminals, which he said constitutes a form of ethnic libel.

"The study we have conducted documents that, in effect, NBC is engaged in a subtle form of censorship in which the Hispanic community is either invisible or portrayed as a dangerous criminal element," he said. "Until such ethnic libel is corrected, LULAC and the coalition intend to block NBC and other network entry into the lucrative low power TV field."

NBC officials at the network's New York headquarters were not immediately available for comment on the coalition's allegations or FCC protest.

Bonilla said if NBC's request for low power channels were granted it "would effectively defeat" minority attempts to gain access to low power television, such as a proposal earlier this week by the local "Visatante" corporation to gain Roman Catholic low power channels directed at Hispanics throughout the country.

The Corpus Christi attorney said that blacks and Asian-Americans are stereotyped by the networks and that native Americans are not portrayed at all in their programming.

"That is why it is an outrage. We are incensed that NBC, with its continued practice of ethnic libel, has the audacity to want to enter the low power TV, which clearly is aimed at special interest groups, such as minorities," he said.

'Copperfield' opens to poor reviews

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — About "Copperfield," the lavish new Broadway musical based on "David Copperfield," Charles Dickens' classic: It has a muddled book, lame tunes and makes memorable characters mundane.

It's not too good, either. Bowing Thursday, it reduces Dickens' rich, complex novel to insipid simplicity. As for choreography, the bes of it involves Tony Straiges' vast supply of sets, not the show's huge, well-costumed cast.

Dickensian buildings, homes, offices, drawing rooms, even a carousel, all are in near-constant motion, rising, falling, rolling on and off on treadmills. It's quite remarkable.

But you don't come to see a set ballet. You come to see a musical about a nice 19th century British lad who sees the best of times and the worst of times and emerges the better for it.

And sadly, this show, its book, music and lyrics by Al Kasha and Joel Hirschorn, not only is uninspiring, it may occasionally confuse patrons who've not read Dickens' book of late.

Evan Richards and Brian Matthews share the title role, Richards as the boy, Matthews as the young man, with George S. Irving as the flowery-tongued, optimistic, creditor-hounded Mr. Micawber.

With Barry Ingham as the bony, obsequious and scheming arch-villain, Uriah Heep (he does far too many comic "takes" here), "Copperfield" at first is tolerably close to the original.

There's his birth, Aunt Betsey's lament about boys, his devoted maid Peggotty, his weak, loving, widowed mother who to his dismay weds the stern, cruel Mr. Murdstone (played by Michael Connolly, who seems of the Basil Rathbone school of emoting).

But when Murdstone packs the lad off to a life of despair in a huge, dingy warehouse — the show skips the kid's early school days — the show starts unraveling right and left.

The strong original becomes a feeble facsimile. Time is awkwardly compressed, character motivation gets short shrift and various relationships get blurred amidst bursts of song, comedy or both.

And when young Copperfield's mother dies and Aunt Betsey takes in this scared, ragged runaway, the depiction of his growth from boy to young man is downright silly. The lad simply disappears behind a stack of books. A short pause, and surprise, the young man pops up.

He promptly decides to be a writer. He meets the lovely Agnes Wickfield and lusts for her, as well as for control of her father's law firm where Heep works as a clerk (some patrons may think Heep is a butler when they first see him in this edition).

Yes, David still regards Agnes as a sister, to her dismay. Again, he falls in love with the silly, fair maiden named Dora, who here faints, rides, weds him, gets faint again later and dies in childbirth.

And once again, Micawber, hired by Heep as a confidential aide, exposes the cad's villainy, allowing the show to lurch to a happy ending. Most of it is as fousing as watching paint dry.

But scarcely a scene goes by without a major production number, featuring the energetically ordinary choreography of Rob Iscove, the director here. It's almost as if those in charge realized the book was in tatters and hoped the music, costumes, whirling sets and hearty hoofing would carry the night. Wrong.

As for the players, my best-of-the-cast vote goes to the sly, funny supporting work of Lenny Wolfe as Aunt Betsey's dense pal, Mr. Dick. Of the principals, young Richards is good as young Copperfield.

But the older version played by Matthews is bland. And the rubber-faced Irving, who's been so good elsewhere, simply misfires with his mincing, prancing, blustering Mr. Micawber.

He exudes sunny gusto when he sings the optimistic "Something Will Turn Up." But the song sums up "Copperfield." You keep thinking something magic will turn up. Too bad it never does.

Russell in farewell season?

NEW YORK (AP) — Anna Russell, the musical comedienne, who will be 80 this year, is in her farewell season.

Or is she? "I keep saying I'm retiring," she says. But a number of relatives or both sides of her family have lived into their 90s she reflects. "I've got a bit of time to put in, so I may put it in."

"I went to Australia 15 years ago because I'd retired." In eight years there, she had a radio show, was in a TV comedy series, wrote a weekly column for the Melbourne Sun and acted in three plays.

"Then I came back to Canada to retire. That lasted two seconds."

"What I didn't realize until I came back is that people's enjoying a bit of nonsense is not predicated on me being 18 and sexy. So long as I've got a loud enough voice, it doesn't matter how antique I've become. It's nice to know."

This season included an evening at Carnegie Hall. Miss Russell performed a do-it-yourself Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, in which she wrote the words and music and sang all the parts. She also did one of her audience's favorites, "The Ring of the Nibellungs," in which she combines singing the different parts with plot explanations of Wagner's four "Ring" operas.

Astaire tribute tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP) — Fred Astaire, on his way to the podium to receive the Life Achievement Award of the American Film Institute, ran off a few dance steps.

"It was exciting to see it," said Bob Fosse, one of the celebrities present to pay tribute to Astaire. The occasion, in Beverly Hills April 10, was filmed by CBS for two-hour special, 8-10 p.m. CST Saturday.

Fosse, winner of one Oscar, three Emmys and six Tony awards, seldom appears at such events, and was nervous at this one. He appeared, "talking a couple of minutes," he said, because of his admiration for Astaire.

"I don't think you can praise him too highly, for the way he moves, his elegance, sense of rhythm, musicality, originality," Fosse said. "There's been no one like him, ever. I doubt if there ever will be."

Fosse, 53, watched Astaire, now 81, dance in person only once, when Astaire was making a movie at MGM and Fosse was a contract player there.

"His desire to get something near perfection was a lesson I'll never forget," Fosse said. "He'd shoot a scene over and over again, even after I thought, 'Well, gosh, there's no reason to do it any more.' He would do it again."

The televised tribute includes film clips of Astaire dancing, among them Fosse's favorite, from "Holiday Inn."
