1980 record year in U.S. for homicide

By SCOTT KRAFT Associated Press Writer

METRO EDITION

The New Year was barely a minute old in the nation's capital when a 17-year-old girl was shot to death --- a quick reminder of 1980's grim legacy of murder and a hint that the upswing may continue in 1981

New York, Los Angeles and Chicago led the country's cities in homirides in 1980, according to an Associated Press check of police records. Florida's Dade County posted a 50 percent increase and Memphis. Tenn., a 30 percent increase.

"Life just seems to be cheaper these days," said a detective in New York, where a record 1,787 people were killed in 1980, including former Beatle John Lennon. The total was up 50 from 1979's record.

A 25 percent increase in homicides in Los Angeles brought a record toll of 1,040 for the year, up from 806 in 1979 In Los Angeles County, more than 2,300 people were stain.

Chicago, No. 2 murder city in 1979 with 855, had 865 homicides in 1980 to rank third behind Los Angeles.

In Dade County, 580 people were killed for an increase of more than 50 percent over the 363 in 1979. Authorities said homicides have increased 90 percent in the past two years.

Violence has become epidemic It's very contagious. When people see that one person can do it, then they think they can, too," said Dr. David Abrahamsen, the New York psychoanalyst who examined David Berkowitz in the Son of Sam killings. "Before it gets better, it's going to get worse," Abrahamsen predicted Violent deaths during 1980 were more frequent in many other large cities, from Detroit to Kansas City, Mo., and Columbus, Ohio, to Dallas.

In the District of Columbia, 202 people were killed during the year, up

12 from 1979, and the Washington Post on Wednesday devoted two pages to slain in 1979, the FBI says. But figures for 1980 won't be available for some time

Authorities and crime psychologists blame the upswing in homicides on the country's sagging economy, lack of effective handgun control legislation and a loosening of family

"We are a violent people, unfortunately." Abrahamsen said. "Killing has come to be thought of as an easy way to get out of a situation. It is really frightening.

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley has endorsed part of a $17.6 million. crash program to stem the crime wave, and police plan to get rookie officers on the street sooner.

James Sullivan, chief of detectives in New York City, called for national gun control legislation to stem the increase in murders.

Although New York has one of the strictest gun control laws in the nation, weapons are imported from other states, he said. The gun used to kill Lennon in December was purchased in Honolulu, he noted

Drug wars, family fights, barroom brawls and traffic disputes are among the reasons for an increase in murders in Dade County.

County homicide Capt. Marshall Frank said he's seen an increase in the number of murders committed by crazy people for no other reason than they are crazy.

Dade County's population boomed in 1980 as "Freedom Flotilla" refugees arrived from Cuba, and county homicide Sgt. Mike Gonzalez said those refugees acccounted for about 15 percent of the year's homicides.

It's easy to see there is less respect for life," said William Willbanks, a criminology professor at Florida International University "But why? That's the key." Other cities and their preliminary 1980 homicide tolis: Detroit 547, up 96; Philadelphia 438, up 52; New Orleans 242, up 26; Dallas 327, up 20; Memphis, Tenn., 166, up 48; Kansas City, Mo., a record 139, up 20. "They just gave up," said deputy Michael Minzey. "They didn't have anything left to bargain with," Remm and television newsman Jerry J. Grayson were called in as go-betweens by three inmate spokesmen who opened telephone negotiations with Sheriff Carlo Listi and District Attorney Nathan Stansbury. Meanwhile, some 60 officers con verged on the court building. According to one member of the special weapons team, a sharpshooter posted with an M-16 rifle on the roof of the adjoining First National Bank building spotted McComb and Celestine and alerted the siege command post. A deputy who remained hidden on the seventh floor was then able to free the jailers, and they escaped down a key-operated elevator inaccessible to inmates. "We had the keys. They didn't," a deputy said. As part of their agreement, one inmate locked the others in their cells and waited for Remm and the deputies to walk up the stairs and reassume control of the jail. Listi and Stansbury agreed to the inmates' demand that no prisoner be prosecuted for participating in the takeover, and that no reprisals would be taken against individual prisoners, Remm said into the Atlantic Ocean off New Jersey in 1947, a former Navy pilot says George Earle IV, 64, said the canisters were dumped from a B-17 bomber flying low over the ocean 100 nautical miles south-southwest of Atlantic City on three flights in October 1947. He described the operation as "very hush-hush," and said the plane was checked for radiation contamination after each flight.

He said the Navy and the federal atomic energy officials did not respond to requests he made by letter about six months ago for an investigation of whether the canisters are leaking.

Earle said he does not know the source of the material in the canisters, or how radioactive it was. "Where the stuff came from, I don't know," Earle said by telephone Thursday night. "But I know it was atomic waste or something, or they wouldn't have been all over us with Geiger counters."

He said he doesn't know if the canisters pose a safety threat, but raised mediated a tense, seven-hour standoff between inmates and authorities.

"It is not too hard to make the claim that it would not have occurred had there been better security," said attorney Cliff Remm of Acadiana Legal Services, a law firm for indigent defendants

'It could have led to a lot of bloodshed," he said. "I'm happy it turned out the way it did. It had the potential to be a very bad affair.

No one was injured in the incident Thursday, which began about 2 30 a.m. when 28 maximum security prisoners overpowered two jailers who entered a cell block to investigate shouts that an inmate was being raped, according to Chief Deputy Major Bill Vincent

The jailers, Ivory Celestine and Wilbert McComb, barricaded themselves into a laundry room of the seventh-floor courthouse lockup as some 95 of the 109 inmates armed themselves with kitchen knives, screwdrivers and hastily improvised clubs and destroyed or damaged jail records and furnishings and inmate property

The cause of the New Year's Eve burning and rock-hurling melee remained a mystery Thursday to prison officials.

SHELTON, Wash. (AP) - The 806

inmates of the state Corrections Center will be confined to their living quarters through the weekend after a rampage, the worst in the center's history, that caused $750,000 in damages, officials say.

"It's something the administration obviously would like to know - if they were venting anger at a particular individual or procedure, overcrowding or whatever - but we still have no good reason," said Dick Paulson, spokesman for the Department of Social and Health Services.

In what Superintendent Bob Jones called a "semilockdown," prisoners watched television in their living units Thursday and were let out, one wing at a time, for meals.

About 100 inmates participated in Wednesday evening's riot, Paulson said, and authorities isolated 22 suspected "ringleaders."

The rioters set fire to the education building, which included the chapel and library, broke dining room windows, pulled apart a guard control booth and ransacked the prison store.

Educational programs will be shut down a minimum of two weeks, Paulson said. The education unit provided the inmates' main activity, offering everything from remedial education

The inmate store will not be reo pened, Paulson said. Inmates will order what they want in the future and items will be delivered to their cells

Recreation and hospital admittance procedures also were being revised following the riot, which erupted after dinner and lasted about two hours.

No major injuries were reported in the melee, but one guard suffered a cut hand from broken glass, Paulson

Jones said he thinks the cause of the riot "was fairly complex in terms of the psychology of people. We have fought the belief that the squeaky wheel gets the grease, but that feeling has been going around in the (prison) population.

"People always feel the strain of the holiday season. They feel their loss," he said.

He also said the nature of the center has changed. The prison is getting tougher, older inmates sentenced to longer terms. "We're not a full-fiedged prison. We always knew the potential was here (for a riot)." He conceded that the center is overcrowded.

Iran has latest U.S. word

By The Associated Press

The Algerian intermediaries in the hostage crisis arrived in Tehran today and handed over the U.S. reply to Iran's demand for $24 billion, Western reporters in the Iranian capital said. There was no immediate comment from Iranian officials.

A leading Tranian clergyman said, meanwhile, that Iran should stop bargaining over the 52 Americans and put them on trial like any other criminals because they are spies, not hostages.

The three Algerian intermediaries were met at Tehran Airport by representatives of Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and later turned over the U.S. reply to officials directly concerned with the hostages seized 14 months ago, the reporters said.

The Algerians declined to speak with the correspondents.

Informed Washington sources said the U.S. reply offers to deposit about $12 billion of Iranian assets in an escrow account in a neutral country. presumably Algeria, and that Iran could claim the funds once the hostages are released. ~

President Carter said the American response contained "reasonable proposals" and said, "I think it would be to the advantage of the Iranians -certainly to the advantage of the United States and the hostages - if they would accept what we have proposed."

However, Carter has little more man two weeks left in his administration to settle the issue, and most observers saw little chance of the crisis being resolved before President-elect Ronald Reagan takes office Jan. 20

The Washington Post reported today that the U.S. response gives Iran until Jan. 16 to accept the proposals. The Post said official sources decribed the date "not as an ultimaturn but 'simply a fact of life'." The sources said Iranian acceptance by Jan. 16 would give the Carter administration time to implement the proposals before going out of office.

The Post said Carter does not want to leave negotiations "in an ambigu-

U.S. pledge not to interfere in Iran's affairs was "like asking a scorpion not to bite."

His statements appeared in the Tehran Times as Tehran Radio said with the U.S. "final reply" being handed over to the Algerian intermediaries, "it looks as if the matter is somehow nearing its end.

The broadcast said, "One ought to wait and see what it contains and to what extent it meets Iran's legitimate demands."

But it said if these demands were not accepted, "There would be no option but to put the hostages on trial," as Rajal and Parliamentary Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani have said.

The broadcast made no mention of executions if the hostages were found guilty, a threat raised in a Tehran Radio commentary on Wednesday.

Nine-digit ZIP delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Postal Service, bowing to congressional pressure, today postponed until June 1 the start of a new, nine-digit ZIP code intended to save millions of dollars in costs of handling business mail.

Use of the nine-digit code was supposed to have begun in February. The Senate voted unanimously last month to order a delay until June 1, while allowing the Postal Service to buy computerized equipment and make efficiency studies of the new system, but the amendment was dropped in the final version of the legislation to which it was attached.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger said the delay was "consistent" with the Senate action and reflected a desire to make sure "that we exercise all due caution in instituting this important and far-reaching development

Diceys have first baby of new year

For the Tim Dicey family, the new year brought signs of a good begin-

A daughter was born to Tim and his wife, Donna Suchy, at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at their home, 3307 Thomas

This is the first reported birth for 1961 in Midland, although it does not qualify as a winner in Midland's first baby of the year contest since it was not born under a physician's supervi-sion in a Midland hospital.

The infant has been named Sienna Mariann.

Dicey and a midwife assisted in the natural delivery, said the father. "We wanted to have the baby in surroundings that we would be comfortable with," he explained."We thought we would be happier at home than in a hospital."

He reports that baby and mother are in fine condition.

This is the second natural childbirth delivery for the Dicey's. Sienna joins a sister, Astrid-Marie.

"The baby was expected around the 22nd of December, but I guess she wanted to hold off until the New Year," said Dicey

A geophysicist with Gulf Oil Co., Dicey is a native of England. His wife, who is from Iowa, is an employee with First National Bank, "but she plans to stay at home a while to be with the baby," said Dicey. They moved to Midland six months ago.

Sienna and Astrid will be using Suchy-Dicey as a hyphenated last name until they reach 18 years of age. explained Dicey. "Then, they can choose which last name they want or retain the hyphenated version," he said

"It looks like it's going to be a great year," he added. "It's been great so

Couple sought in bombing of Nairobi, Kenya hotel

tralian and 12 Kenyans

Jack Block estimated the cost of the explosion at up to $2.8 million. He said he hoped to partially reopen the hotel in a week

Speculation about Palestinian guerrilla involvement in the bombing was raised Thursday by Arab sources in Beirut, Lebanon, who claimed Palestinian radicals may have bombed the Jewish-owned hostelry in retaliation for past Kenyan help for Israel. They said the extremists hold two grudges against the Kenvan government.

One stems back to the govern ment's transfer of five suspected Palestinian terrorists to Israel. The five three Palestinians and two West receiversed tast week and deported to Germany as a New Year's holiday goodwill gesture. The three Palestinians are serving 18 year sentences.

The Arab radicals also were enraged by the unofficial assistance Kenya provided during Israel's daring hostage rescue raid at Uganda's Entebbe airport on July 4, 1976. After freeing the hostages from PFLP guerrillas at Entebbe, the raiders were allowed to refuel their aircraft in neighboring Nairobi before returning to Israel.

The Arab sources said either or both of the incidents could be grounds for a Palestianian reprisal, such as the bombing of a Jewish-owned target tesman for th in Kenva S Palestinian organizations in Beirut refused comment on the speculation. Kenyan authorities have given no possible motive for the bombing and observers said there was nothing in recent Kenyan events that gave grounds for a solid theory The last major bombing in Kenya was in 1975, during a period of political unrest, when a blast killed 25 people at a Nairobi bus station

Indefinite dentention of Cubans ruled unjust

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - Indefinite prison detention of Cuban refugees wight to be security risks is a violation of basic human rights and "an abuse of discretion on the part of the attorney general," a federal judge has ruled.

"You just cannot hold people with-out giving them a definite time for their release," U.S. District Judge Richard Rogers said Thursday after ruling the government exceeded its authority in holding a Cuban at the ederal prison at Leavenworth.

In the landmark decision, Rogers on Wednesday gave the government 30 days to release Pedro Rodriguez, free him on parole supervised by a federal lawyer or prove he is danger-ous and should be jailed until he can be returned to Cuba.

Rogers' decision could affect the nearly 1,000 Cubans who have been detained at various federal institu-tions since being denied formal ad-mission to the United States on grounds that they committed crimes of "moral turpitude" in Cuba. About 6,000 other Cubans are await-ing sponsorship at a processing cen-ter in Fort Chaffee, Ark.

Government detention of the 48-ear-old Rodriguez is "unlawful and amounts to an abuse of discretion

Rodriguez testified that he had been convicted by a military court in Cuba of stealing a suitcase at a bus stop.

U.S. Attorney James Buchele said Thursday in Topeka that a decision on whether to appeal Rogers' order to the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver would be made next week. and probably would be based on whether the 90-day time limit is adequate.

"I don't think there's anybody in the government who feels these people should be held in prison indefinite ly," Buchele said. "But can the immi-"Buchele said. Authorities contend Edmond penned the Clarence E. Edmond Emergency Act of 1979, which was represented as a U.S. Supreme Court decision. The civics problem is that the Supreme Court issues only opin ions; Congress passes acts.

The "emergency act" purported to protect Edmond from prosecution in every jurisdiction in the country and supposedly authorized him to practice law, authorities charge. He allegedly sent it to federal prosecutors throughout the country.

Edmond allegedly tried to use powers under the "emergency act" to serve as an attorney in Long Branch Municipal Court.

Edmond faces up to a $500 fine and six months in prison if convicted.

ODESSA - Robert Zavalla, 7, was listed in critical condition in intensive care at Medical Center Hospital this morning as a result of a two-car collision here Thursday at 2:43 a.m. His mother, Yvonne Zavalla, 28, of 930 E. 16th St., was listed in stable condition in intensive care

A car driven by Lonnie J. Zimmer man of Powell, Tenn., was southbound on Dixie Avenue when it was involved in a collision with a car driven by Luz Zavalla, 29. The Zavalla car was heading north on Dixie Avenue

The other occupant of the Zavalla car was Gregory Zavalla, 3-months old. According to a hospital spokesman, Luz Zavalla and Gregory Zavalla were treated and released.

"There are far more important Jews in the world," Jack Block said. 'I think it is far removed from us."

His brother Edward said the bomber "could be a crank. You can't tell what a lunatic will do.

Police refused to comment on the hotel owners' statements. Authorities have not yet conceded that the blast, which wrecked a large part of one of Africa's oldest and best known hotels, was caused by a bomb.

The Blocks said 14 bodies were found in the rubble, although police spokesmen contend 16 were killed.

The hotel owners said 50 persons were unaccounted for, including hotel staff and guests. They said most of the missing were believed to be guests who moved elsewhere but had not made their whereabouts known to police, or employees who had not returned to work after the explosion.

Gunman murders hostage, kills self

LOS ANGELES (AP) - An armed robber who described himself as a "three-time loser" apparently turned his gun on a hostage and then killed himself after a six-hour siege at a central Los Angeles supermarket, police investigators say.

Police said the gunman, Ronald Berryman, 37, whose address was not known, barricaded himself in the market office with the store's assistant manager for several hours before both were found dead Thursday.

The gunman forced Claudio Santi to relay responses to police attempting to communicate with him and said he wanted a helicopter. However, two gunshots were heard from inside Ralph's market on Vermont Avenue and 3rd Street shortly before a helicopter landed near the market, officials said.

The bodies of the two men were found by police officers who fired tear gas and then entered cautiously at 8:50 p.m., an hour and 45 minutes after the gunshots were heard.

Ramparts Division Officer Robert Arellano said a a psychologist was at the scene with a police negotiating team during the stalemate. One offirobber as "psychologically disturbed." Police said he described himself as a loser. Inside the market, police found a box with wires and toggle switches and a police bomb squad was summoned to investigate.

"It was a phony," said Officer Gene Akesson. "It was a bunch of highway flares wrapped together."

The incident began about 2: 30 p.m. when the man forced Santi into a mezzanine office, apparently intending to rob a safe.

Areilano said another employee summoned police by tripping a silent alarm. Officers arrived and evacuated some 200 shoppers from the busy market while the gunman and his hostage remained holed up in the mezzanine office.

Special weapons officers were stationed around the building and on the roof. Shortly after they heard the gunshots, a police helicopter was dispatched to the scene.

Hu Yaobang in charge of Chinese Party

PEKING (AP) - General Secretary Hu Yaobang today appeared to be clearly in charge of the 38 millionmember Chinese Communist Party. effectively replacing Chairman Hua Guoleng who is expected to resign.

Hua apparently has been stripped of his powers as chairman and even has given up control of the party's military commission to his old rival. Vice Chairman Deng Xiaoping, according to diplomatic sources.

For the time being, however, Hua retains his title. A Foreign Ministry spokesman said, "Hua Guoleng still is chairman of the Central Committeee of the Chinese Communist Party.

In answer to a journalist's question, the spokesman said Hua is in Peking but he gave no further information on Hua's status.

All Chinese newspapers gave prominent display to the ascendancy of Hu Yaobang, who presided over a major New Year's party by the Central Committee.

Hu, 67, is an old ally of strongman Deng Xiaoping and currently heads the powerful party secretariat which handles day-to-day party business.

His appearance as the spokesman of the party confirmed reports of the political demise of Hua, who has not been seen in public for 36 days. Although nominally the chairman, Hua was not even mentioned in the long list of those attending the New Year's celebration.

Hua inherited the chairmanship from the late Mao Tse-tung but he recently has been severely criticized for supporting many of Mao's discredited "leftist" ideas. He also is seen as an obstacle to Deng's pragmatic nization drive. mo

Officials declined comment on why Hua was conspicuously absent from the celebration. Diplomatic observers said the New Year's party was the ideal time for Chinese leaders to dispel rumors about Hua being in political hot water, but they chose to keep him under wraps.

Hua is expected to submit his resignation and be removed as chairman when the full Central Committee meets. That session had been scheduled for late December or early January and by some accounts it could be held in February.

Yaobang as the man in charge of party affairs but will not immediately confer the title of chairman. The formal reshuffling of the party leadership and possible naming of a chairman will be left for another Central Commiteee session in spring or summer, they suggested.

Chinese leaders reportedly have been considering various kinds of party and state reorganization, including abolition of the post of chairman and establishing a revolving presidency

The party newspaper, the People's Daily, said the party already has started to implement democratic reforms and abolish de facto life-time tenure in high office.

Hua was forced to give up the pre-miership last September in favor of another of Deng's allies, Zhao Ziyang.

Hua has been under heavy fire within the party for adhering to now discredited Maoist ideas. He has been criticized for leftist errors in handling the economy — meaning overempha-sis on heavy industry, capital con-truction and large-scale agriculture.

Hua also has been criticized for ordering the construction of Mao's mausoleum, now regarded as an ideological white elephant, and reportedly has made his own self-criticism within the party and has agreed to resign

Kremlin warns Polish labor movement

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Poland's the party. newly independent labor movement got a stiff warning from the Soviet

The circles opposed to the Polish United Workers Party are making through the channels of 'Solidarity Union not to press for more reforms the obviously provocative demands whose implementation would lead to the deepening of disproportions in the Polish economy and to the growth of tension in the home market," the commentary said.

"The disruption of the working rhythm ... leads to the aggravation of irregularities in the supply of consumer goods to the population," it said. "The anti-socialist forces are trying to carry the matters to the creation of chaos in the economy, hoping to use this in their subversive aims.

The commentary apparently attempted to fix the blame for Poland's continuing shortages of food, especially meat and other staples which prompted a government plan for fullscale rationing in February.

Solidarity was formed in the wake of a nationwide wave of labor unrest that began July 2 when the government announced an end to subsidies that sent meat prices soaring. Major strikes ended Aug. 31 when the government agreed to formation of the independent unions - a move unprecedented in the Soviet bloc where unions are under party control - and promised other reforms mother of William Bowen of Midland, will be at 11 a.m. Monday in Robert Massie Riverside chapel with the Rev. Luster Lockett, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will follow in Fairmount Cemetery.

Labor unrest has virtually subsided since reports of a massive buildup of Soviet troops on Poland's borders raised fears of military intervention in early December.

Mrs. Minton died Thursday morning in a San Angelo hospital.

Born March 26, 1896, in Denison, she was married to Robert M. Minton Sr. in 1955 in San Angelo. He preceded her in death Nov. 18, 1978. She had lived in San Angelo 40 years.

Other survivors include a son, two stepsons, two step-daughters and three brothers.

Wyoming is still searching

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) - For the fourth time in six years, the University of Wyoming is looking for a football coach, and this time it is hoping to find one who likes the place enough to stay for a while.

The latest departure is Pat Dye, a Georgian who arrived in Laramie a year ago, shivering in the snow, but pledging to restore Wyoming's winning tradition and not use the job as a stepping stone.

Dye called it quits after coaching the Cowboys to a respectable 6-5 record - Wyoming's first winning season in four years and only the second of the decade. The former East Carolina University coach and Alabama assistant resigned effective New Year's Day to pursue the coaching vacancy at Auburn University in Alabama.

IT WAS enough to give Laramie an inferiority complex.

A Denver newspaper concluded Laramie might need a new mouthwash, while Laramie residents blamed their latest loss on the 7,200foot altitude, the snow or the wind, which blows across Laramie's nearly treeless high plains with ferocity.

The university hurriedly started a search for a new coach, and as UW Athletic Director Bob Hitch said, perhaps only half-jokingly, its first priority was finding somebody who wanted to live and die in Laramie as well as take the Cowboys to bowl games.

Despite an enrollment of only 9,000, Wyoming gained national respectability - and bowl bids - under coaches Bob Devaney and Lloyd Eaton in the 1960s and Fred Akers in 1976, and the fans never forgot.

But Devaney went to Nebraska, Eaton to the pros and Akers to Texas. Victory-starved Cowboy fans started seeing the affable Dye as Wyoming's hope for the restoration.

The state's only four-year college is a source of pride to natives and newcomers alike, and dreams of regaining past bowl game glories are openly voiced in newspaper editorials and on the floor of the Wyoming legislature.

In fact, state Sen. Bill Rector, D-Cheyenne, reacted to the latest coaching turnover by introducing a bill that would force coaches to put 30 percent of their first-year salary, 20 percent of their second year and 10 percent of their third in trust. They'd get the money only if they stayed through three years.

Most legislative observers give Rector's bill little chance, but it shows the depth of feeling toward the UW football program.

Caponi stuns the men

'America's Team'? ho is

ATLANTA (AP) - Atlanta Falcons defensive end Jeff Merrow says the Falcons, rather than their National Football League playoff opponent on Sunday, the Dallas Cowboys, should be called "America's Team."

"There are very few teams who have defensive linemen making tackles downfield, and there are very few teams who have defensive backs pasting people in the chest all the time," Merrow said after practice Thursday.

"People enjoy watching us. It's fun to match us. ... We should be America's Team."

America's Team, of course, is what the Cowboys have called themselves in recent years, promoting an image of the prototype franchise typifying professional football in America. But Atlanta, which won the NFC

Kelly has own pressure valve

ATLANTA (AP) - Sophomore quarterback Jim Kelly of the Miami Hurricanes has developed his own way of relieving the pressure before a big college football game - he throws up

"Every game I do that," Kelly said as the 20th-ranked Hurricanes prepared for this afternoon's Peach Bowl battle with the Virginia Tech Hokies. Miami is a touchdown favorite over unranked Virginia Tech in the 2 p.m. CST nationally televised game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. Both teams are 8-3.

"I've been doing it since high school - at football games, basketball games," Kelly said. "It makes me feel better. Inside, I get all tensed up and nervous. This relieves it."

Kelly said his Miami teammates at first thought he was "just getting sick. Now, they're used to it. They say, 'It's about time for Jim' before games. It's like a whistle to start it all off. They all start yelling and carrying on.

Miami Coach Howard Schnellenberger said he used to be concerned about Kelly's habit, but now he says, We get worried if he doesn't do it." Kelly's pressure-easing habit seems to work for him. The 6-foot-3, 204-pound sophomore, who was redshirted his first year, led the Hurricane offense this year with 1,519 yards passing.

Virginia Tech Coach Bill Dooley described Kelly as a quarterback who 'has the ability to stand in there even if he has a rush. He keeps his poise and he has the ability to find the second receiver if the first is covered.

Kelly credits former Miami Dolphin quarterback Earl Morrall with helping him develop to his full potential.

West title with a 12-4 record, is favored by three points in the 3 p.m. CST nationally televised playoff bat-tle against the Cowboys at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium.

Although Dallas, which also finished the season at 12-4, has been in the playoffs 15 times in the past 16 years and has won two Super Bowls, Merrow says the Cowboys won't be adding a third NFL title to their trophy case this year.

"I feel we're going to win it," he said. "I feel we're the better team. We've had the advantage of a week's rest and we're playing in Atlanta.

"To me, losing this game, I haven't even considered it. And I don't intend to. This is just another step. I feel it's our year and that's the only way I can approach it," he said.

Merrow said the Falcons plan to 'come out of the blocks smokin'" on Sunday, but he said the Cowboys probably will be showing Atlanta many shifts on offense.

"They'll come out and run a lot of misdirection," he said. "They'll run a lot of those horsecrap plays. Tom Landry puts in all of that stuff, but I really don't understand most of it.

"They'll run a lot of those plays you won't see anywhere else, like fleaflickers and reverses - I hate when they do that. I'd rather they just come at us and play football.

"Trick plays, I don't think there's any room for that in the game ... Soon or later they'll have to settle down and play football, and that's when we're going to take command of the game.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Donna Caponi holds the lead going into today's second round of the Spalding Invitational Pro-Am golf tournament - the first time ever a woman has held the lead in a tournament dominated by men

Her seven-under-par 65 of Thursday started out with four straight birdies, giving her a lead she never relinquished on the Corral de Tierra course, one of three being used until Sunday's final round at Pebble Beach

In second place after the first round was Harvie Wood of Southern Pines, N.C., at 67. Three players tied for third at 68, led by another woman, Kathy Whitworth. The others, Scott Simpson and Pat McGowan, played Old Del Monte in Monterey.

Top scorer at Spyglass Hill, the third course that will be used until Sunday's final round at Pebble Beach, was a one-under-par 72 by Rex Caldwell. Said Caponi of her startling emergence into the lead. "The greens were absolutely magnificent. All the players, both men and women, really like fast, true greens. The three women pros in the field are a given a distance handicap off tees in the longer holes.

Winning is the bottom line at this stage of NFL season

By The Associated Press

Bum Phillips' Houston Oilers got whipped in last Sunday's National Pootball League wild-card playoffs and now poor ol' Bum's out looking for a new job.

That just shows you what can happen in this obviously serious business as the winding path to Super Bowl XV takes another turn with Conference semifinal matchups scheduled for this weekend.

Although it's highly unlikely that any of the coaches involved in the four games Saturday and Sunday will meet the kind of fate Phillips did, it's obvious that one-line homilies just won't do in pro football at this stage. The bottom line is winning.

THE SUPER Bowl-eligible field of 10 is down to eight and it will be cut in half this weekend following the Conference semifinals. On Saturday, Philadelphia hosts Minnesota in an NFC game and Buffalo is at San Diego in the AFC. On Sunday, it will be Dallas at Atlanta in the NFC and Oakland at Cleveland in the AFC.

There are interesting matchups in all four contests.

Oakland's sack-happy Raiders will be zeroing in on Cleveland's Brian Sipe, who joined a very exclusive club when he passed for 4,132 yards this season. The only other 4,000-yard passers in NFL history were Joe Na math and Dan Fouts.

The Raiders recorded seven sacks in eliminating the Oilers from the playoffs last week. Two of them were by cornerback Lester Hayes, who also had a pair of interceptions.

During the regular season, Hayes had 13 interceptions, one short of the NFL record set by Dick "Night Train" Lane in 1952. The ironic part is that three other pickoffs by Hayes were nullified by Oakland penalties.

So if Sipe insists on throwing, it probably will be away from Hayes And if you're wondering about targets, don't worry. Sipe has plenty of candidates. There are running back Mike Pruitt, who caught a club lead ing 61 passes and gained 471 yards or wide receivers Dave Logan (51-822) and Reggie Rucker (55-768) or tight end Ozzie Newsome (51-594)

THAT SOUNDS like an aerial bombardment, until you take a look at what Buffalo must cope with in San Diego. The Chargers set a record with three 1,000-yard receivers -- tight end Kellen Winslow (89-1,290) and flankers John Jefferson (82-1,340) and Charley Joiner (71-1,132)

Conducting that passing symphony is Fouts, who threw for 4,715 yards, breaking the NFL's single season air yardage mark for the second consecutive year.

The Bills, in the playoffs for the first time since 1974, are anxious to meet the challenge of the Chargers. Buffalo led the league in fewest yards allowed this season, permitting a total of 4,101, a drop of almost 1,000 from the 1979 yield when the Bills finished 14th in that important catego-

Buffalo beat San Diego 26-24 earlier in the season and their game is one of two rematches this weekend. In the other, Philadelphia hopes it carr han dle Minnesota as easily as it did in the season's second game when the Eagles drubbed the Vikings 42-7.

To prepare for Saturday's game, the Eagle's went to Tampa, Fla for a week of training. The idea was to put things back together for a club which might have peaked too soon. After winning 11 of its first 12 games. Phila delphia lost three of its last four to finish at 12.4

Minnesota, on the other hand, has been playing well, winning three of its last four and six of its last eight to claim the NFC Central crown for the 11th time in 14 years under coach Bud Grant. The Vikings don't beat memselves. Over the final eight games, quarterback Tommy Kramer threw only six interceptions and Minnesota lost only three fumbles all season

Quarterback Ron Jaworski, who won the NFC passing title with 3,529 yards and 27 touchdowns, thought the week in Florida was just what the Eagles needed

"We're totally prepared to play." he said. "We've had a week to freshen mentally we're as mentally prepared for Saturday's game as we can

THE LAST time Dallas played Atlanta was in the 1978 playoffs when the Cowboys, en route to the Super Bowl, knocked off the Falcons 27-20.

"We've come a long way since then," said Atlanta quarterback Steve Bartkowski, recalling his team's first taste of postseason action "We've improved offensively and defensively

Like Buffalo, Atlanta improved defensively, slicing more than 100 points off its yield from 388 to 272. Three rookies, linebackers Buddy Curry and Al Richardson and cornerback Kenny Johnson were key additions to the Falcon defense

Arizona State gets NCAA probation

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - The New Year was rung in on anything but a happy note Thursday for Arizona State University's athletic department

Wednesday night, the school got word that the National Collegiate Athletic Association had placed its football program on two year's probation due to 30 rule infractions

In a prepared statement, ASU President John W. Schwada expressed "disappointment and surprise" at the NCAA action "in view of the penalties already imposed upon the university, the forfeiture of games, the disruption of the program, the disciplinary action of the Pacific 10 Conference and, most importantly, the university's own extraordinary effort to uncover and correct abuses before and during the investigation.

Phoenix attorney Bill Jones, who represented the school, said he was "very disappointed with the decision. We've done everything we've been asked to do by the NCAA. We cooperated totally.

"This university has gone through a great deal of suffering," he added. "To see these kids and staff members hurt, it more than disappoints me. My feelings border on anger. We feel it's a very severe penalty in light of the infractions that were found."

The NCAA launched its investigation into the Arizona State football program in the fall of 1979 following allegations of ticket sales irregularities and the awarding of academic credit to eight players for an extension course for which they did not work

When the academic scandal surfaced, the eight were declared ineligible by the Pac-10 and the school forfeited the games it played. In addition, the Pac-10 barred Arizona State from the Rose Bowl and the conference championship this season.

The NCAA Committee on Infractions said Arizona State had violated NCAA regulations governing extra benefits to student-athlietes, complimentary tickets, financial aid, institutional control, academic standards, ethical conduct, and recruiting,

"Originally, there were 80 allegations," Jones said, "Of that number, 16 involved simple requests for information such as chronicaled details of recruiting procedures. There were 64 others that dealt with rule violations.

Arizona State will be eligible for postseason competition at the conclusion of the 1982 season. The two-year probationary period began Tuesday and will run through Dec. 30, 1982.

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Department of Education Tuesday told Fairfax County, Va., school officials they don't have to teach students in their native language — the first time the department has accepted an all-English program to fulfill federal civil-rights requirements.

The decision, which educators say has national implications, appears to move federal officials closer to the incoming Reagan administration's position on the controversial bilingual education issue. Reagan and his advisers have called for alternatives to federal rules that require school districts to provide special classes in foreign languages to students who do not speak English $stheir first language.

Tuesday's action also marks the end of a bitter five-year struggle between federal officials and the county that included federal threats to withhold up to $18 million in federal funds and promises of lawsuits by Fairfax County and the state of Virginia.

In a letter to F$irfax school authorities Tuesday, federal officials hailed recent strides in the county's $2 million program, which serves students who speak an estimated 50 different languages.

The letter said achievement-test scores of students in the program showed that they had made "consistent and significant progress" through intensive English classes, and concluded that the system's teaching methods were an acceptable alternative to federal requirements based on Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

"We're just delighted that this thing, after all these years, has finally come to an end," said William J. Burkholder, deputy superintendent for support services, who worked with federal education officials to engineer the agreement.

Several national Hispanic groups have long fought for bilingual education, maintaining that it is essential to providing equal educational opportunities to low-income, Spanishspeaking youngsters. But Antonio J. Califa, a deputy assistant secretary of 3ducation for civil rights enforcement, said Tuesday the department had decided that "Fairfax has shown Students with limited proficiency in English "have been making significant strid3s in academic achievement under Fairfax's English as a Second Language program, oft3n scoring above national norms after a relatively brief period," Cali a said. "That's whatcounts, and that's that it can be done in other ways."

why we've found them in compliance." But Vilma Martinez, president and general counsel of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund, had a different view.

"We continue to advocate for understanding of instruction, and we believe the best quality program for Mexican Americans is bilingual education — the use of the child's own language to teach the child English."

Tuesday's decision is expected to give fresh hope to other jurisdictions which, like Fairfax, have faced demands for multilingual education in dozens of languages, including Vietnamese, Spanish and Korean.

The Fairfax County Board of Sup3rvisors voted last fall to challenge proposed federal regulations that would stiffen requirements for bilingual education at the local level. Virginia Attorney General J. Marshall Coleman also threatened to file suit toblock imposition of the regulations, calling them an "unwarranted intrusion" on state ' rights.

Neither the co7nty board nor Coleman went forward with the threatened suits, however, before Fairfax and federal education officials resolved their differences.

In evaluating the Fairfax program, federal officials applauded the county's allocation of approximately $750 per student for intensive English classes for an estimated 2,700 county youngsters who speak little or no English. That amount is in addition to the county's regular expenditure of $2,696 per pupil. It is estimated that approximately 6,000 Fairfax County students have a primary language other than English.

Based on results from several nationally recognized achievement tests, the Department of Education found that youngsters in the Fairfax program were doing well, generally scoring close to or above the 50th percentile in science, social studies, mathematics and language arts.

Which pain killers are better, safer to use?

By B.D. COLEN Newsday

may had shough when you will

But does that mean you shouldn't take aspirin when you've got a pain in the head, or neck? Not at all. In fact,

It was bad enough when you only had to find the grain of truth in the advertisements for the various aspirin products. Does Bayer really provide faster relief? Faster than what? Is Bufferin really kinder to your stomach? Does Anacin have more pain reliever than its competitors?

How, however, the subject has become far more confusing. Not only do you have numerous aspirin products to consider, you also have to judge the competing claims of the aspirin substitute, acetaminophen, of which Tylenol is probably the best-known brand.

In recent television advertisements, Tylenol has been proclaimed the most widely used non-prescription pain reliever in hospitals. An impressive claim. Or is it? To decide, you have to know why a physician might give you acetaminophen in the hospital, and whether that reasoning is relavent to your pain-relief needs at home.

Hospital pharmacists and experts in pharmacology say the use of acetaminophen may just be outstripping aspirin in the hospital setting, but that has absolutely nothing to do with the pain-relieving properties of either product.

"In actual trials of pain killing," says Thomas Kator, professor of medicine at New York University Medical School and an expert on aspirin and acetaminophen, "acetaminophen has about the same effect as aspirin."

The reason products like Tylenol are prefered in hospitals is that, unlike aspirin, they do not have any affect on the blood's ability to clot, nor do they cause intestinal bleeding, which is one of aspirin's possible side effects.

"For a four to six-day period," Kantor says, "aspirin can keep platelets from what is called secondarily aggregating, which doesn't cause bleeding," but which slows the clotting process. Obviously, if a patient is about to be operated on, or has recently undergone an operation, a physician does not usually want to give that patient a pain killer that may prolong bleeding. Additionally, aspirin is inadvisable in cases that involve gastrointestnal bleeding, or any kind of stomach upset." if your pain is caused by arthritis, experts say an aspirin product is the only over-the-counter medication that will provide any relief.

"For general pain, like a headache, toothache, aspiring and acetaminophen are pretty much equivalent as pain-reducing agents. But the minute you start to get inflammation connected with the pain," Kantor says, "aspirins is the clear-cut winner."

This means that aspirin is not only the more effect pain reliever in cases of arthritis, it is also the product of choice for the pain of menstrual cramps and injuries to joints, such as knees.

As a fever reducer, the two drugs are considered basically equivalent. But, again, many hospitals prefer to use acetaminophen as a fever reducer because it will not upset the patient's stomach, as aspirin may.

Acetaminophen products have become extremely popular with parents because they come in sweet-tasting liquids and are far easier to administer to young children than the flavored children's aspirin tablets.

The very attractiveness of these products, however, is a danger: children may view the medicines as candy and, Kaplan warns, while acetaminophen does not cause stomach problems as aspirin does, "it can kill faster than aspirin can."

An overdose of aspirin does much of its damage in the stomach, which usually will heal itself, or can be surgically repaired. An overdose of acetaminophen, however, can damage the liver and kidneys, and while there are antidotes to acetaminophen poisoning, the very fact of the poisoning sometimes does not become known for several days, when the damage already has been done.

So while the products are safe and effective for children, they must be kept out of children's reach and children must be made to understand that these products are medicine, which can be very dangerous if taken improperly.

And, finally, does Anacin really have more pain reliever than its competitors?

Yes, it has more milligrams of aspirin.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) -Explosions rocked a refinery on the northwest edge of this midcoast city early today, knocking out the refinery's central control unit and starting a fire that raged for two hours, fire officials said.

There were no major injuries, said Assistant Fire Chief Victor Garcia. There was a report of one related injury, which came when a bystander was hit by a car, said firemen at the scene

The first explosion, about 5: 40 a.m. went off in a hydrogen cracking unit of the Quintana Howell Refinery, Garcia said. It set off "two or three"
