Flames swept through a two-story East St. Louis, Ill., home early Sunday, killing 11 children left unattended by their mother. One body was found in the bedroom above, nine others were in a nearby bedroom sleeping on a foam rubber mat, and another was found in the stairwell. At left, firemen remove several of the bodies. Fire kills 11 children

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — The mother of 11 children who died in a house fire as they slept unattended had often left her children alone and said they were "too bad for anyone else to watch," a neighbor says.

Virginia Williams, 28, was held in the city jail while police investigated the blaze, which broke out early Sunday morning and roared through the brick house. No charges were filed.

Lt. Norman Stevens of the fire department said a space heater in a downstairs living room was to blame for the fire.

One officer with responsibility for juvenile affairs, Gregory Cox, said authorities had spoken with Ms. Williams several times in the past about leaving her 12 children unattended.

"She told me that her 11-year-old girl kept an eye on the other kids all the time," neighbor Ethel Bobo said of Ms. Williams, who was pregnant at the time of the fire.

"I told her I'd keep an eye on the kids, but she told me they were too bad for anyone else to watch. But they were nice kids, real nice kids," she said.

Ms. Bobo said she had taken groceries to the house several times and frequently fed the children.

"Those kids were always hungry," she said. "They were over here all the time getting something to eat. And they didn't have any clothes."

Eleven of Ms. Williams' children, aged 10 months to 11 years, were home when the fire broke out shortly after 2 a.m., authorities said. A 12th child was believed to have been staying with friends or relatives.

"I kicked that back door open and called to them," said Lonzo Blain, who lives across the street. "I could hear their little feet hitting the stairs. But the smoke got them — they never made it."

"They stood there a long time," he said, "and they never made it."

An East St. Louis police officer said Ms. Williams told authorities she had been riding around at the time of the fire. When she arrived at the scene, "She just turned away screaming, 'Lordy, Lordy, Lordy. Why my children, Lord?'" said neighbor Joyce Brown.

The fire brought charges from firefighters that city officials "played Russian roulette with citizens" by laying off 15 firemen recently.

Mayor Carl Officer, whose 1981 budget forced the layoff of 90 city employees, said more firemen would have made no difference.

"It was the professional judgment of my fire department that nothing could be done to save those children," Officer said. "That house was a matchbox."

Dallas police plan crackdown on gambling

DALLAS (AP) — If you want to wager a little money on the Jan. 25 Super Bowl, a special police task force is betting you won't do it in Dallas.

"Dallas is a great sports city and because of that, there's a great deal of interest in major league sports clubs and consequently, there's a lot of gambling activity going on," says task force Sgt. John T. Williams.

The task force is designed to put a dent in pre-Super Bowl gambling activity, which officials say topped $50 million dollars in Dallas when the Cowboys played Denver in Super Bowl XII.

In raids last weekend, police confiscated more than $17,000, gambling paraphernalia and almost 400 capsules of amphetamines, as well as arresting five men.

The arrests brought to 15 the number of major gambling arrests made during the task force's four-month investigation.

"These are not your guys sitting in a bar taking a few bets," says Williams. "Most have professional setups, have been in business a long time, and several have been busted before."

The men were taking bets on Sunday's playoff games, the East-West Shrine game and several basketball matches, Williams said.

"We've got several arrest warrants on more people and anticipate more arrests," he says.

Calls from citizens were instrumental in making some of the arrests, he adds.

"I'm all the time getting calls from housewives who give me the name and telephone number of a bookie because her husband keeps betting with this person and they can't make the car payment or pay the rent," Williams says. "They usually won't identify themselves."

And sometimes, he says, the bettors "will get behind in payments and will get threatened by collectors hired by bookmakers" and call the police themselves.

When police make an arrest, Williams says, officers start answering telephones and recording the bets, which bettors make through a code number previously assigned by the bookmaker.

"In several of the arrests, we got their master code list, which tells names, addresses, telephone numbers and code numbers of the clients," he says.

"We've identified these people as being professional people, attorneys, business owners, people from all walks of life."

Progress noted in hostage talks

By The Associated Press

The Speaker of Iran's Parliament said today that "all roads" are open to settling the hostage problem and that he expects approval of two emergency bills aimed at solving the crisis by Friday, four days before the inauguration of Ronald Reagan, who has warned he will conduct talks with a "clean slate."

"There is nothing important in these bills that would necessitate a no vote. However, it depends on the discussion and the elaborations in the Majlis tomorrow," the speaker, Hojatoleslam Hashemi Rafsanjani, told a news conference in Tehran.

Asked whether approval of the bills would lead to the release of the hostages by Friday, he said, "I can't predict when the hostages will be released but we have opened all roads for settling the hostage problem. They will be released if our rights are met."

Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai also hinted of a hostage release, saying in a state radio broadcast, "According to available information, the issue is making progress. We are trying to approach it logically and doing our best to maintain the main line in our relations with American imperialism."

"At any rate, as long as we consider America as an aggressor in the world, we shall not retreat from our position. Even presuming that the hostages are released in the near future, we shall not abandon our main position, which is fighting imperialism and which emanates from the heart of our ideology."

The two emergency bills were introduced today by Iran's top hostage negotiator, Behzad Nabavi, who said in presenting the legislation, "If we do not reach a result by Jan. 16 it is not clear how the negotiations will continue with the new incoming administration."

President Carter has set Jan. 16 as the deadline by which a hostage agreement must be reached if the terms are to be put into effect before Reagan is inaugurated Jan. 20.

Nabavi said the first emergency bill asks the Parliament, or Majlis, to approve a third-party arbitrator to settle financial and legal claims between Iran and the United States.

The second bill asks the Majlis to nationalize the wealth of the late shah and his relatives, Nabavi said, a move that would make it easier for the United States to return the shah's assets to Iran.

After Nabavi announced the legislation, the Majlis went into closed session. A vote is scheduled on the two bills Tuesday.

Reagan may start anew on hostage negotiations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With the calendar running out on the Carter administration's negotiations with Iran, President-elect Ronald Reagan says he would feel free to break with his predecessor's course and start over on efforts to bring the 52 American hostages home.

Reagan said Sunday he would not feel compelled to follow up on the groundwork laid by the outgoing administration in negotiations through Algerian intermediaries.

"I think we'll take it on with what the situation is and what we think needs to be done," he said.

In a U.S. News & World Report interview made public Sunday, Reagan said he felt he could start dealing with Iran with a clean slate.

Asked to explain that later Sunday, Reagan said, "I can't remember now ... what question that was or what I answered."

But he added: "I still hope and pray the president will succeed in what he's been trying to do. If not, then we have to start."

U.S. officials have said Friday is the last practical day for reaching an agreement with Iran to give the current administration time to carry out its end of the deal before leaving office. Reagan will be inaugurated Jan. 20, and the Carter administration has said its latest proposal for a settlement will automatically expire on that day.

Reagan, asked if he thought Iranian leaders might be intensifying efforts to end the stalemate because they are afraid of him, replied: "I don't know why they should be. I'm not afraid of them."

The president-elect spoke with reporters at the Santa Monica, Calif., airport as he returned from an afternoon visit to his ranch in the Santa Ynez Mountains near Santa Barbara. Reagan had no public events on his schedule today and planned to attend a civic celebration in his honor Tuesday in downtown Los Angeles before returning to Washington on Wednesday to begin final preparations for his presidency.

Reagan said over the weekend he has completed work on a first draft of his inaugural address and is done with it "unless someone comes up with some better ideas." He said the speech would be about 15 minutes long.

Early elections expected for new Israeli Knesset

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin said today he favors early elections, making it virtually certain that Israelis will go to the polls in June instead of November.

"The tendency by most of the ministers was for early elections. This is also my position," Begin told reporters after a special Cabinet meeting, called after the resignation of his finance minister Sunday stripped the Begin coalition of its majority in the Knesset, or Parliament.

Begin's ministers were to consult with their parties before convening another Cabinet meeting Tuesday or Wednesday to reach a final decision on elections, officials said.

If new elections are ordered, Begin would remain the chief of a caretaker administration until the new Knesset met and approved a new government.

The newspaper Maariv said Begin's advisers urged the adoption of legislation dissolving the Parliament and advancing the November election of a new legislature to June.

The opposition Labor Party, which is favored to win the election, said it would introduce the legislation if the government didn't.

"The last curtain will almost certainly come down today," said Maariv.

The crisis for Begin's 3½-year-old coalition government came to a head Sunday when Finance Minister Yigael Hurvitz quit after the Cabinet rejected his demand that it postpone indefinitely pay raises for the nation's 58,000 teachers.

Instead, the Cabinet voted 11-2 for a compromise accepting the teachers' demands in principle but postponing the payment of higher salaries. The increases, recommended by a government commission, would raise the monthly salary of a teacher with nine years' experience from $480 to $546. The average Israeli's wage is about $630.

Hurvitz argued the raises would spur other groups to demand pay increases that would fuel a new inflationary spiral at a time when he was trying to curb the inflation rate, which hit a world record of 131 percent last year.

Hurvitz, whose resignation takes effect Tuesday, said the other two Knesset members from the Rafi Party would bolt Begin's coalition, leaving the prime minister with 58 seats at most in the 120-member Knesset and dependent for survival on a handful of independent parties.

Hurvitz' resignation was the sixth defection from Begin's Cabinet since it took power in June 1977. It was the first Israeli government not headed by the Labor Party since Israel became a state in 1948.

Shlomo Lorincz, the chairman of the parliamentary finance committee who tried to work out a compromise between Hurvitz and Education Minister Ze'evulun Hammer, said Begin, who heads the Likud Party, told him he would call for early elections before the Labor Party could carry out its threat to bring down the government.

"It is impossible to continue with a limping government," Lorincz told Israeli Television. "My understanding is that there will be a motion to dissolve the Knesset."

Hammer, who had threatened to resign himself if the teacher's raises were blocked, said his personal preference was "that the cabinet endure. But it depends on whether the government can get honorable support in the Knesset."

Haim Corfu, the government whip in the Knesset, predicted the government could survive Hurvitz's walkout and said there was no need for Begin to resign or call for an early election. But he said he thought early elections were likely, adding, "There were governments that resigned over much less honorable issues than this."

Tapes subpoenaed in Haig hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alexander M. Haig Jr. is virtually assured quick confirmation as secretary of state under a Senate compromise that also threatens to keep Watergate smoldering after he is sworn in.

The committee also called national archivist Robert M. Warner to testify on prospects for obtaining the tapes.

Paratroopers hurt when chutes tangle

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Two National Guard paratroopers whose parachutes became tangled during a jump suffered broken bones and were hospitalized after they came down together, supported only by one partially working chute, their commanders said.

the weight of both men, was pulled askew by the equipment line, Bria and Haslam said.

"That spilled air out of it and it partially collapsed," and they fell, Bria said. "Then Vaughn's chute caught some more air," slowing them, he said.

Vaughn hit the ground "and bounced up four feet," Bria said. His chute collapsed and Fakatou fell 20 feet, Haslam said.

Vaughn suffered a separated pelvis and fractured right heel bone, and Fakatou suffered a dislocated knee which will require surgery an injury to the lower back, Bria said.

Bria said he was told the two were in the same room at the hospital, "in good shape, talking and joking, but in some pain."

Bria, a social worker at the state prison, was on crutches Sunday night after suffering heel and knee injuries in the same jumps that day. The landing site, an icy field near Park City, east of here, was like "a block of cement," he said.

Spec. 5 Jerry Graham and Sgt. Mike Parr, both of Salt Lake, also suffered minor ankle and knee injuries, he said.

The jumps were made over Richardson Flats, privately owned property.

The Service Company was in a C-130, which dropped 12 troopers on each pass. The jumps were from 1,250 feet above ground, the normal altitude for the jumps, Haslam said.

Suspected 'Freeway Killer' found hanged in jail cell

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Private letters and legal papers, but "nothing like a suicide note," were strewn in the jail cell where a man accused in six "Freeway Killer" slayings was found hanged, officials said.

According to the hearing transcripts, Butts had referred to the slayings as a "good little nightmare" and implicated the chief defendant in the case, 33-year-old William Bonin, who is accused of 14 of the 44 killings which have occurred since 1972.

The body of 23-year-old Vernon Butts, who also was a potential witness against another defendant in the series of Southern California slayings, was found Sunday in his high-security cell in the Men's Central Jail near downtown Los Angeles.

Butts, an aspiring magician, had not agreed to be a prosecution witness, and prosecutors have said his testimony was not crucial.

He was hanging from a towel wrapped around his neck and attached to a towel rack.

"We're certain" it was a suicide, said Lt. Jerry Minnis.

Butts, an aspiring magician, had not agreed to be a prosecution witness, and prosecutors have said his testimony was not crucial.

"There were no inmates in the area at that time of night," he said. "All of the inmates are locked down. Only three people have keys to that room."

In his interview, Butts described how he held down screaming victims while they were tortured, knifed or strangled.

The prisoner was not known to be suicidal, sheriff's Deputy Ralph Martin said.

Butts also talked about an alleged partnership with Bonin, a twice-paroled sex offender. Butts contended his role in the violence was limited to restraining victims and that it was Bonin who killed the youths, according to the transcripts.

Minnis said one letter found in Butts' cell indicated he was upset about the release last week of preliminary hearing transcripts detailing his confession to police of his part in the slayings.

Butts told detectives that Bonin claimed to have committed 21 of the killings.

Butts was checked by a deputy 40 minutes before he was discovered. Minnis said it appeared Butts had placed the towel over the towel bar, tied the ends together, "then lowered himself into the noose by getting into a kneeling position."

Eastern part of nation shivers under Arctic air

By the Associated Press

It was cold enough to jam the Cape Cod Canal with ice floes, cold enough to freeze parts of Chesapeake Bay, cold enough to threaten citrus crops in Florida and cold enough to drive hundreds of New Yorkers out of their heatless apartments into temporary shelters.

from New York to Boston by 150 miles. Ships larger than barges were allowed in the canal.

The local historical society in New London, N.H., had a day-long ice-cutting revival on Little Lake Sunapee in 5-degree weather, and among the 250 people attending was 72-year-old Clet Bowers, who knew how to cut ice because he'd done it since he was a kid.

Meanwhile, schools and factories in Lowell, Mass., and on Cape Cod were closing today in an effort to prevent natural gas from running out before emergency supplies arrive. Commercial and residential users of natural gas throughout the state were being asked to lower thermostats five to 10 degrees.

"Hell," he said, "there was nothing else to do in the winter."

State and gas company officials say the shortage came about because extreme cold increased demand for gas and proved too much for the pipeline systems that deliver the fuel.

The cold enveloped much of the eastern part of the United States as arctic air extended south to the Gulf Coast and northern Florida. In parts of the nation where the cold is an unexpected visitor, dipping temperatures brought tragedy and alarm.

Central Florida growers kept watch over their groves early today as forecasters warned that temperatures could linger below freezing long enough to damage fruit in parts of the "Citrus Belt."

Baker, interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," said he was confident the committee would find nothing damaging to Haig because the retired four-star general "says there's nothing on those tapes."

Oysterman Robert Meredith of Grasonville, Md., was trapped for more than 10 hours on the icy Chesapeake Bay aboard his 41-foot boat Saturday night before being picked up by a state police helicopter.

"If there is something on them, Al Haig's in trouble anyway," Baker said.

He said he had followed a trail of broken ice left by another boat Saturday morning. "Once the tide changed, it closed the trail and I got on top of the ice and I couldn't move," Meredith said.

The compromise does not guarantee that the committee will ever get the tapes.

In New Orleans, authorities said a man believed to be homeless and trying to escape temperatures in the low 30s was killed Sunday when fire broke out in a vacant building in the city's warehouse district.

In the Chicago suburb of Robbins, officials blamed 14-degree cold for the death of an unidentified man who was found frozen in the middle of a road.

In Bourne, Mass., the Cape Cod Canal, clogged with ice floes, was closed for the fourth day today to barges carrying heating oil and gasoline to Boston and northern New England, officials said.

Other fire calls included trash fires, a smoke scare Sunday at the Dairy Queen at Louisiana Avenue and Big Spring Street, overheated soot in a chimney, three dumpster fires and a caliche pit fire.

"Nothing you can do about it until the weather warms up," said Gary Maloney of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers traffic office in Bourne.

The canal permits vessels to cut through the cape, shortening the trip

He said Sunday.

In New York, where temperatures reached a high of 19 on Sunday, a tenant group angered by widespread reports of apartments without heat or hot water called for a citywide rent strike next month. Bruce Bailey, chairman of the Columbia Tenants Union, one of seven tenants' groups calling for the rent strike, urged all tenants to withhold February rents, whether or not they have heat.

Bangkok flu epidemic strikes Massachusetts

BOSTON (AP) — A new strain of influenza is sweeping Massachusetts, causing a serious health hazard for the elderly, and health officials say it's likely to get worse before it gets any better.

Type A Bangkok Flu and its major complication, pneumonia, were responsible for 18 percent, or 36, of the deaths in Boston last week, according to Nicholas Flumara, director of the state Division of Communicable Diseases.

He stressed the figure may climb higher when the flu season peaks in February.

The average percentage of deaths attributed to flu and pneumonia at this time of year runs between 4 percent and 5 percent.

Flumara said this year's flu and flu-related mortality rate is higher than normal because Bangkok Flu is a new strain.

"People have no immunity and they succumb quickly," he said.

Health officials say the Bangkok Flu reached epidemic proportions in the Bay State by Thanksgiving. An epidemic is determined by 10 percent absenteeism in schools and industry. Flumara said absenteeism has been around 15 percent since the end of November.

The elderly are particularly susceptible to the flu and are most likely to develop complications such as pneumonia or other respiratory infections.

Surgeon general urges smokers to switch to low-tar cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smokers who can't or won't quit should switch to lower tar and nicotine cigarettes because they may pose less danger of causing heart and lung disease, the surgeon general said today.

"There is no 'safe' cigarette," Surgeon General Julius B. Richmond said in his 237-page annual report on smoking and health, "but some cigarettes may be less hazardous than others, reducing the risk of smoking in a limited and selective fashion."

Richmond added, however, that researchers still don't know how much less dangerous low-tar and nicotine brands are, and he cautioned that smoking more or inhaling more deeply may easily negate any benefits from a lower tar or nicotine cigarette.

"The single most effective way to reduce hazards of smoking continues to be that of quitting entirely," Richmond declared.

But the 34 million Americans "who are unwilling or as yet unable to quit are well advised to switch to cigarettes yielding less tar and nicotine, provided they do not increase their smoking or change their smoking in other ways," he added.

Although the report offered little new information about the effects of smoking, the Washington-based Tobacco Institute, which represents the cigarette industry, described it as "more moderate in tone than its predecessors."

Noting the gaps in scientific research on various diseases and their relationship to smoking, the institute said the industry has spent "tens of millions of dollars" for independent research in some of those areas.

The surgeon general's report said there is insufficient scientific and medical data to measure exactly the impact of low-tar and nicotine cigarettes on heart disease and chronic obstructive lung disease.

But it noted that smoking by pregnant women has been shown to increase the risk of vaginal bleeding, spontaneous abortion, premature delivery, fetal death and infant death shortly after birth.

1,000 said killed in Nigeria

NEW YORK (AP) — At least 1,000 people were killed in the past two weeks as the government of Nigeria crushed an insurrection by an Islamic cult that may have been backed by Libya, The New York Times reports.

Although the Times reported today there was no solid evidence of Libyan involvement, it quoted an unidentified high-ranking assistant to Nigerian President Shehu Shagari as saying that "we have every reason to believe Libya was involved."

School exams set

Semester exams at Midland and Lee High schools are set for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The exams are scheduled in two-hour blocks, and all students are required to take examinations in every course for which they receive grade points. The exam counts as 25 percent of the student's grade.

The same schedule applies to both schools and is as follows:

led by Alhaji Muhammadu Marwa of Cameroon, who Islamic scholars say was expelled from Nigeria twice in the last 17 years for "disruptive activities."

He and nearly all his followers were killed on Dec. 30 and Dec. 31, according to some reports, the Times said.

The head of Islamic studies at a university near the northern Nigeria community of Kano told the Times that Marwa first seemed to espouse relatively harmless Islamic fundamentalist beliefs. The scholar did not wish to be identified.

Marwa eventually began to deviate from Islamic tradition, the scholar was quoted as saying. He reportedly told his followers they did not have to face Mecca while praying, and he reduced the daily number of prayers from five to three.

He also told his followers they were invincible. Armed with bows and arrows and light automatic weapons, they charged Nigerian forces, which wiped them out using mortars, machine guns and bazookas, the Times reported.

The slaughter in late December was preceded by skirmishes between the cult and authorities. The Times said 50 police were killed in two skirmishes.

Beulah Bondi

Actress Beulah Bondi dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Beulah Bondi, who started playing mother roles when in her 30s and quickly graduated to a host of grandmother parts, has died at the age of 92.

Miss Bondi died of pulmonary complications Sunday at the Motion Picture and Television Country House and Hospital. She had been admitted Jan. 2 after breaking ribs in a fall, a hospital spokesman said.

Among Miss Bondi's roles in her 50-year career were two appearances as Jimmy Stewart's mother, in "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" and in "It's A Wonderful Life."

Though still in early middle age, the Emmy Award-winning actress began appearing in the roles of elderly women in 1931, in "Street Scene," followed that same year by similar roles in "Arrowsmith" and "Rain."

"Oh, I had a few ingenue leads when I was very young," Miss Bondi recalled in an interview. "And in my

Gruff and unpredictable, Boone still 'Honeybear'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gruff, craggy-faced Richard Boone, who inspired a spate of Western dandy TV heroes when he starred as the sophisticated, card-carrying hired gunslinger of "Have Gun, Will Travel," will be cremated and memorialized at private services, officials say.

Boone, who died Saturday of throat cancer at the age of 63, once said he couldn't understand why he was frequently cast in movies as a menacing outlaw, such as John Wayne's adversary in "Big Jake" and "The Shootist."

"I don't know how they could do that to me," he said. "Everyone knows I'm a honeybear."

Boone, a veteran of four television series, 500 TV shows, 65 movies and 11 plays, died in St. Augustine, Fla., where he had taken up residence after returning from Hawaii in the early 1970s. He was cultural ambassador for the state of Florida and had returned to painting, an activity he had once given up.

Boone is best remembered as Paladin in the series "Have Gun, Will Travel," broadcast by CBS from 1957-1963. Pal-

Pair hospitalized after husband kills teen-age driver

LEVELLAND, Texas (AP) — No charges have been filed against a 71-year-old man who shot and killed a teen-ager after the youth drove a stolen pick-up truck into the living room of the elderly man's home and assaulted him, authorities say.

The couple, who were not identified, were hospitalized after the incident early Sunday, said police chief Ted Holder.

Sixteen-year-old Arthur Adame of Levelland was pronounced dead at Cook Memorial Hospital following the shooting, Holder said.

The incident occurred shortly after 7 a.m. Sunday, Holder said, when a stolen pickup driven by the victim ran a stop sign, jumped a curb and crashed through a living room wall into the couple's home.

Housewife sells 'glass plate' for $40; worth $1,800

NILES, Ill. — The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.

In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of the Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wis., woman wrote: "I had a Laliqque 1965 plate... which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time."

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,800. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying potentially valuable plates, the exchange offers free information on opportunities in promising plates still available at low prices.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, just send your name (please, no company names), address and zip code, before Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. B65803, 9301 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, Ill. 60648. A postcard will do.

ADVERTISMENT Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 72702, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Illinois 60646. A-500 93 lines

TAX TIPS

There's a tax advantage in attaining age of 65

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of tax tip articles provided by the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Growing older may have its problems. But when it comes to your federal income tax return, you'll find a few nice breaks awaiting you as the years go by.

For tax purposes you're considered to be 65 years old on the day before your 65th birthday. You can claim the benefits set aside for those 65 and older for the entire year in which you turned 65. For instance, if your 65th birthday falls on Jan. 1, 1981, you can claim the tax benefits set aside for older Americans for the entire year of 1980.

One of the first things an older taxpayer needs to look at is whether he or she has to file a tax return at all. Older taxpayers can earn more than the general population before they have to file.

This and other information about 1980 tax returns will be explored at the "Taxes and You" program. This public service course is sponsored by the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service. The informal two-night course will be offered Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m.

MORE THAN 25 CPAs will volunteer their time to provide taxpayers with instructions and question-and-answer sessions. The program is open to the public at a charge of $1 per person to cover administrative costs.

If you're 65 or older and single and had gross income of less than $4,300, you don't need to file a federal tax return. For married couples, if one spouse is 65, the couple can have up to $6,400 gross income and not file. If both married persons are 65 or older, the limit is up to $7,400. Remember, this is gross income. It includes such things as rent, royalties and taxable pensions in addition to wages. It does not include social security or railroad retirement benefits.

Everyone who files a tax return is entitled to a $1,000 exemption, but if you're 65 or over you get an additional $1,000 exemption. A married couple both 65 or older will get a total of four exemptions, which results in a $4,000 reduction in taxable income.

THERE'S ALSO a tax credit for the elderly to cover those who have some taxable income and a tax liability. If you're eligible, the credit can amount to as much as $375 for single taxpayers and $562.50 for married couples filing joint returns. The tax credit for the elderly is even available to some taxpayers under 65. This particularly benefits those receiving income from some sort of public retirement system — teachers or firefighters, for example.

Not all older taxpayers are eligible for the credit — those collecting maximum social security or railroad retirement benefits, for instance. To find out if you are eligible, check your tax instructions. Or call the IRS forms/tax information number listed in the telephone directory.

There's one important benefit involving the sale of a residence that you may claim as early as age 55. Taxpayers who sell their personal residences after they have turned 55 may be able to exclude from taxes up to $100,000 of the gain from the sale ($50,000 if they are married filing separate returns).

For this purpose, the residence can be a house, condominium or a cooperative apartment. You must have lived in the residence for at least three years out of the five-year period ending on the date of the sale in order to claim the exclusion. This is a once-in-a-lifetime tax exclusion. It will benefit those who have decided to sell their homes in order to move to a smaller home or an apartment. Check your tax instructions or ask the IRS for details.

TAXPAYERS WHO recently retired or are about to retire are in a good position to do some tax planning. For example, if you're on a pension plan to which you've contributed from your wages, you'll generally recover your own contributions within your first three years of retirement. Because your pension contributions were taxed while you were working, your pension will be tax free until you recover all the money you put into the plan. During this time your taxable income will probably come only from interest or dividends.

That may be the time to think about selling savings bonds, securities or real estate that you accumulated while you were at work. You won't pay as much tax on the gain from such sales during this period, because you'll be in a much lower tax bracket than you were as a wage earner. Even if you recover your contributions over a longer period of time, a little each month, a portion of each pension payment will be tax free so your taxable income will still be lower.

A note of caution about your pension — when it does become taxable, you have two choices. You can ask the company that pays your pension to withhold taxes from your pension by giving them a Form W-4P, "Annuitant's Request for Federal Income Tax Withholding." Or you can start making quarterly estimated tax payments directly to the IRS.

YOU MAY HAVE to estimate taxes on your other income anyway — income from rent, royalties, interest or dividends, for example. Estimated taxes are required if you expected your tax due at filing time to be $100 or more. You'll need to estimate if your gross income exceeds certain limits or includes gross income in excess of $500 that is not subject to tax withholding. Although there are certain exceptions allowed by law, failure to make sufficient estimated tax payments may result in a penalty that cannot be waived for any reason.

The IRS has a number of free publications that may be helpful. You can order these by mail using the order blank in your tax package. You may also request them by calling the IRS forms/tax information number listed in the telephone directory. Here is a list of publications that may be particularly useful:

- Pub. 17, "Your Federal Income Tax"
- Pub. 505, "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax"
- Pub. 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home"
- Pub. 524, "Credit for the Elderly"
- Pub. 554, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans"
- Pub. 575, "Pension and Annuity Income"

SOME TAXPAYERS who are 60 or older may prefer to receive free personal tax assistance right in their own neighborhoods. A recently established program called Tax Counseling for the Elderly may be available near you. Tax counselors are specially trained to handle tax problems and tax forms of particular importance to the older taxpayer.

A large number of neighborhood sites will be available from January to mid-April. They may be located in libraries, nursing home lobbies, nutrition centers, church halls or other convenient locations. You can find out if there's a Tax Counseling for the Elderly site near you by calling the IRS forms/tax information number.

One other note of caution: not frequently, but every so often, a few people try to impersonate IRS employees with the intention of bilking unsuspecting citizens. All IRS employees carry distinctive identification which they must display when conducting business outside an IRS office. If you suspect that someone may be posing as an IRS employee, ask for identification and examine it closely.

IF YOU AREN'T satisfied that the person is a bona fide employee, do not give that person any information. By no means give him or her any money. Notify the IRS or your local authorities immediately. If possible, be ready to supply the name the person gave you and any other details you can remember about the contact.

To register for the "Taxes and You" program, simply fill out the registration form found on Page 5A in today's Reporter-Telegram. Classes will be held at the Allison Fine Arts Building on the campus of Midland College.

U.S. Magistrate rules against SBA in case involving sex discrimination

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — U.S. Magistrate John R. Countiss III has ruled in favor of a group of women who charged the federal Small Business Administration with discriminating against female workers in eight Southeastern states.

A Jackson woman and several other female employees of SBA's Southeastern region alleged the federal agency had discriminated in its hiring and promotional practices.

The ruling early this week by Countiss granted the women monetary damages, ordered the agency to end sexual discrimination and granted

The ruling in the class action suit applies to all past and present female employees of the Southeastern region, which includes Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky.

The court instructed attorneys for both sides to propose, within 30 days, monetary awards and a method for potential class members to seek monetary relief.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A2 ♣987542 ♦7 ♠953
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Possession of a seven-card major is not, in itself, a license to bid at any level. Had North shown a minor suit in response to your one no trump, you would have introduced your suit at the two-level. Now that North has shown, at minimum, a six-card suit, we suggest you pass while you are still at a safe level. You have respect-able support for partner's suit, but he might be void in your suit.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A ♠J4 ♠AJ10872 ♠KQ98
The bidding has proceeded:
South East North West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?
A.—Partner's rebid of four hearts is not a "drop dead" bid. With that sort of hand, he would have simply responded four hearts over your one diamond opening. Partner's actual sequence hints at slam, and you have a most suitable holding. You have first or second round control in all side suits, a ruffing value and decent trump support. Rather than tip off your holding by cue-bidding, we suggest a bold leap to six hearts. There are no guarantees, but it's difficult to imagine a hand partner might have that will not offer a play for slam. Checking for aces en route is also acceptable.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q84 ♠K103 ♠AQ65 ♠AQ8
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?
A.—We know that some scientists will come up with a convoluted method for describing this hand precisely. However, there is a much simpler bid available—three no trump. It says you have a hand with 4-3-3-3 pattern and 16-18 points. When a bid describes your hand so exactly, why not use it? Partner will know you have three-card spade support, and can judge whether to move or not.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10762 ♠AK964 ♠K7 ♦J3
Your right hand opponent opens the bidding with one spade. What action do you take?
A.—Without the bid to your right, you would have opened the bidding with one heart. However, that does not give you the right now to overcall with two hearts. At that level you have no margin of safety because your suit isn't strong enough. Pass and await developments; you may be able to back into the auction later.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AJ1065 ♠AJ83 ♠AK92
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
3 ♠ 4 ♠ 6 ♠ 6 ♠

What action do you take?
A.—The enemy's preemption has succeeded in turning this hand into a guessing game. Obviously, you have chances for a grand slam, but it's just as possible that you might have an unavoidable loser somewhere. Rather than choose yourself, pass and leave the decision to partner. The pass is forcing and tells your partner you are prepared to play a grand slam if he so desires. Therefore, it carries the implication that you do not have a club loser.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠93 ♦954 ♠K762 ♠A852
Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What action do you take?
A.—With only two face cards and no five-card suit, we doubt that your combined holding will stretch to nine tricks even if partner has a maximum 18 points. Therefore, there is no point in endangering the contract. Pass, and be content with a valuable partscore.
