Seniors Receive Class Rings

Last Thursday afternoon news was received that the Senior's rings had arrived and all who knew of it in time went by the jewelry store that afternoon to get theirs. By Friday at noon there were only a few who hadn't received them. Those who didn't have rings in the first order will be able to get theirs in the near future. There are three types of rings: some are of yellow and white gold with no stone, some have a ruby set, and others have the onyx set; all have an Indian head forming the crest, with the word "Haskell" written underneath. This is the first class for several years to receive their rings by Thanksgiving, and it was a very pleasant surprise to everyone to receive them so soon.

Pick-Ups

Lometa Kennedy has been unable to attend school the past two weeks and will likely be out longer, on account of infection caused from bad tonsils. Joyce Fowler is back in school following a week's seige of throat infection. Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey went to Fort Worth Friday afternoon and attended the closing meeting of the Texas State Teachers Association. Bob Cousins is attending classes again after having stayed out to work for some weeks.

So provision has been made for the group to play basketball in the basement of the Christian Church, where there is a small court already provided. The game has proved popular and other students coming early stop by to watch, or join in the game when there is an opportunity. Mr. Moore, who comes in on bus with the students, conducts the games and serves as referee.

G. R.'s Have First Social

Magazine Club Members Discuss Plans for Xmas Festival

On Friday afternoon, the Magazine Club met, and enjoyed a very pleasing program, although the weather was most unpleasant, the hostess, Mrs. R. C. Couch, had the club room warm and cozy and very beautifully decorated with vases and bowls of chrysanthemums. The president, Mrs. C. L. Lewis, presiding over a short business session, told of plans for the grand "Christmas party," to which the entire trade territory of Haskell is being invited. This celebration sponsored by the Haskell merchants assisted by the Chamber of Commerce and the Magazine club promises to be the most spectacular celebration in the history of Haskell.

One of the most pleasing features of the celebration will be the singing of the Christmas Carols. Rural schools are being urged to participate in this. With Mrs. Lewis as chairman, the following members of the Magazine Club will cooperate with a committee from the Chamber of Commerce in issuing personal invitations to these schools. Mesdames: F. M. Robertson, T. G. Cahill, B. C. Chapman, Clay Smith, E. M. Frierson, Wallace Cox, K. H. Thornton and Ben Bagwell. Mrs. J. U. Mrs. Fields is not a gifted speaker, but she has that happy faculty of knowing exactly what is interesting and her report was interspersed with little happy intimate happenings that makes for that "home folksy" feeling, that not all speakers are able to inspire.

Mrs. F. T. Sanders will direct the program for next Friday, and from her announcement it will be a program you can't afford to miss. The following ladies answered to the roll call: Mesdames: Bagwell, T. M. Robertson, T. G. Cahill, B. C. Chapman, J. A. Couch, R. C. Couch, W. Cox, R. H. Darnell, J. U. Fields, Clay Smith, J. The THEME of the program for the evening was "Customs of Latin America" Lena Belle English was director with Mary Couch acting as hostess. Francis Lane discussed "Paraguay—Gifted by the Creator," describing it as a land of great beauty. Here each little town has its river, each home its own lake. Many strange and unique customs still prevail here such as—the lover's serenade, the attendance of an ever-watchful chaperone and the observance of the twilight hour in the Padio, when the Senoritas stroll up and down before the admiring eyes of the Seniors. A most interesting letter from a father to a bride-to-be was read.

Building For Defense

Building Aircraft

In the good old days (a whole thirty years ago) the best of airplanes could be built at home. A picture, on the back of an old envelope, gave the general outline. Then the young idea man, reasonably handy with bamboo, piano wire, cloth, a few pieces of old tin, some hairpins, and a power plant, cribbed from a motorcycle, went to work. Pretty soon he had an airplane. At least it chugged through the air at forty miles an hour.

Our young idea man is thirty years older today. He's president of an aircraft corporation with a plant that runs for acres, turning out sleek, all metal beauties made up ten thousand separate parts, each stamped, spun, or fabricated, according to exact specifications. Each part is made of a special heat-treated metal.

These ten thousand parts are assembled into a smooth-skinned airplane, which looks as though it had been stamped out like a cigarette tray. By virtue of a few thousand horsepower strapped on its nose, it can streak through the air at four hundred miles an hour with a ton of bombs in its belly, deposit these a thousand miles away, and be back for lunch.

The whole process still starts as a paternal gleam in a man's eye. But these days that eye belongs to some Army or Navy officer. He seizes a piece of paper, writes down how far and how fast the ship should fly, and with what, then he turns it over to the designing engineers and the fun starts.

They draw pictures of it. They figure the stresses and strains. They beef it up to stand the gaff and pare it down to save weight. They make little models and fly them in wind tunnels. They throw away a million pieces of paper and end up with drawings of a complete airplane. These are turned over to a manufacturer to produce an experimental model.

By dint of a few thousand man-hours hard work the experimental model of the airplane is ready. Much to the engineer's surprise it flies and does about what it's supposed to. Then it's turned over the Army test pilots to find out what makes it tick.

By the time the testers get through, the plane will do everything any airplane before could do, and lots of tricks that would give last week's plane air sickness. A few planes are built and tried out in actual service.

Then the order goes out for quantity production. That's the stage where our national defense aircraft program is at present. And that's where the National Defense Advisory Commission's Production Division, under William S. Knudsen, went to work, finding the factories to turn out copies of the new ship in a hurry.

The factory found, the price agreed on, work started.

Another set of drawings—these are practically final. They go to the lofting room, similar to the lofting department in a shipyard. Here the drawings of the final ship are turned into a wooden "mock up"—a dummy of each piece. These are assembled into full-sized wooden model of the plane. This is complete with pilot seat, machine guns, instruments, gas tanks and all. This is done so that a machine gun won't turn out to be firing through the middle of a gas tank, or the wheels won't fold up into the space where the pilot is supposed to ply his trade.

Out so that each piece will fit with its neighbor like a dress pattern, and we're off to production.

First, as always, come materials. A plane has more trick metal alloys tucked away inside it than you could ever learn to identify. Each part is specially heat-treated to give it special qualities of strength, or toughness, or resistance to fatigue, or this or that.

Take those few hundred thousand rivets, for example, each about as big as a piece of lead out of a pencil. They all look just like the stuff that your aluminum saucupan is made of. But that's where the resemblance ends. If you examine them closely you will find that some have little dents or grooves on their ends. They're rivets, without those distinctive marks are soft ordinary aluminum perfectly capable of holding an instrument panel together or fastening on a tail light. But when it comes to holding the wings on, or landing gear in landing position, it's quite a different story. Then is when the special hardened metal rivets are needed. If the soft units are used, when the ten ton plane kisses the ground at a hundred miles an hour, it will be the kiss of death.

The templates, meanwhile, are used to design tools that will turn out the component parts in quantity on modern machine tools. Many a manufacturer of novelty ash trays is now pounding out airplane pieces, and more will be doing so as the Defense Commission keeps things rolling.

The individual pieces are riveted into sub assemblies and are ready to start through the factory.

A modern aircraft factory has grown so big that it takes two to see from one end to the other. One man would go blind if he tried to look all the way himself. At the beginning of the factory the first workmen start riveting the framework of the plane together. As it progresses it gets an aluminum coating riveted on. Further along the center wing section assembly, already built up from its little pieces, is riveted in its place. It begins to look like an airplane. The tail assembly suddenly catches up by overhead trolley, and the plane overtakes the nose which in turn is riveted on. The wheels get attached. The engines arrive and are buttoned to the plane and given a nice aluminum coating so they won't spoil the airflow. And as our ship emerges into the sun at the far end of the factory, it gives a deep-throated, 1,000 horse power bellow and takes wing on the test flight.

The speeding up of airplane production depends mainly on three things—standardization of design, a certain amount of retooling, and plant expansion. The first step has been taken in standardization of design. Before this step, manufacturers were able to produce perhaps 105 to 200 airplanes a year. Now with the prospect of producing 2,000 airplanes a year, instead of 200, the manufacturer will be able to get additional tools and additional space.

The space problem is not very difficult, however, as with a standardized design and with proper tooling doubling the present factory space would put us well on our way to the task of building 50,000 planes, and typical production buildings can be erected in less than three months. Machine tools will take slightly longer to build, but when they are built they will be able to turn out parts by the hundreds an hour.

Most of the workers in the aircraft industry are semi-skilled. The only skilled workers needed are welders and machine tool operators. This does not apply so broadly to making engines, but semi-skilled workers are being employed in some processes and with real quantity production the proportion will increase. Unskilled workmen can be trained in less than three months' time. Production will not suffer for lack of manpower, since the training of men takes about the same time as the construction of new buildings.

That is about the story on aircraft construction. We are turning out roughly 1,000 airplanes a month now. Early next year we will be turning out 2,000. By the end of next year we will be turning out 3,000.

Cotton Prices Being Studied

The price of cotton in the past has been based on the grade and the staple of the cotton. Some experiments have been carried on by the Department of Agriculture, through which it has been learned that another factor has an important place in establishing the price of cotton. This factor being taken into consideration is the spinning quality or the character of the cotton fibre. It must be able to take and retain dye, have strength and stretch, size of fibre of staple diameter, twist, and cellulose structure.

The Surplus Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture is buying cotton at points where quality is being produced—Dallas, Paris, Floydada, Greenville and Munday. Around 6,000 bales will be bought at each point, if enough suitable cotton is available.

The cotton is sent to mills where it will be subjected to spinning tests, and this information will be made available to the cotton growers to be used in selecting a variety of cotton that has the most desirable spinning qualities and yet has a high yield per acre, or returns the farmer the most money per acre.

Mrs. Ramie Lee Bradford is spending her vacation in Munday with relatives.

Seek not to be rich, but happy. The one lies in bags; the other in content; which wealth can never give.—William Penn.

NEVER FORGET

(From Industrial News Review)

Today, as many an historian has been pointing out, we are witnessing an attempted world revolution. The purpose of Nazism, Fascism and Communism are, basically, to destroy the established economic and social orders of the world, and to put in their place an entirely different order.

In attaining that revolutionary goal, the first step invariably taken by the total governments, when seizing power in their countries, has been to take over all sources of credit—to take control of money out of private hands and place it in the hands of the ruling clique. The dictators realize that whoever controls the nation's money and credit, controls that nation in every phrase of its life.

There is lesson in this for the United States. Under our system, the people control their money. Those who take care of it for them, such as the banks, are simply the people's fiscal servants, and are subjected to the most stringent public regulation. That system has worked. It is the system of a free and sovereign people.

There are those who would change this system and give government an infinitely greater control over the nation's money and credit. Often their arguments are plausible. But if they have their way, the only possible end will be economic dictatorship—to be followed in due course by social dictatorship. Those are harsh words, but Europe has shown us how true they are. Let them not be forgotten here.

WORKING ALL THE TIME

They work quietly in the industrial laboratories. The public doesn't often hear what is going on, or have occasion to realize the vast amount of hard, painstaking effort that goes into the development of a new product. All we see is the final successful result with its prospect of more jobs, more payrolls, and added comfort for all Americans.

It is worthwhile occasionally, simply to keep things in their proper perspective, to remember that industry is hard at work all the time, spending large sums of money in an effort to find new products that will benefit the entire economy.

Farmers, for instance, will be interested in experiments that have been going on for many years aimed at turning the whole cotton plant—stalk, leaves, boll, and fiber—into rayon. If and when this becomes commercially feasible, it will help to save our trees—for wood is a main base source for rayon—and will also be one more example where industry has helped agriculture.

Hundreds of earnest experiments like these, many of them brought to completion each year, serve to stress the importance of research to the American concept of an expanding economy that constantly distributes more goods and more pleasant living to all its people.

PRIVATE INDUSTRY BEST DEFENSE

In defending stoutly the American railroad system against possible government operation in defense or war, J. J. Pelley, president of the American Association of Railroads, has hit on the crucial point of the whole question of the relationship between private industry and defense.

"The railroads are ready now to do whatever they may be called upon to do," Pelley told the Association's annual meeting. "The railroads will keep themselves ready, ahead of any demand which may come."

If that proves to be true, the railroads need not worry over-much about government operation.

What the country wants in the present defense drive is service an what it must have in event of war, is services. It must have it wants when it wants it.

Pelley believes the railroads have learned from their experiences of 1917-1918. He believes they have set up regional boards and other means of co-ordinating their facilities such that the government will get what it needs from them, and get it promptly and without red tape.

Three recent tests show the preparedness of the railroads according to Pelley. First, the peak freight movement of this year found a nice surplus of cars on hand. Second, during last summer's maneuvers, the railroads moved 40,000 men a day, and did it in better style than they moved an average of 20,000 a day in the peak month of July, 1918. Third, export freight at times this year at one port even exceeded the 1918 peak and was handled so smoothly that no one noticed it at all.

These are good signs. If other industries can point to a similar ability, readiness and willingness to meet national demands, there will be less talk of nationalization. It is only when industries seem to hold back from the full effort that is being urged on everyone else that talk of nationalization arises.

40 Years Ago—Dec. 1, 1900

A recent item lists a very liberal thing done by the Woodward & Tiernan Printing Company of St. Louis. When they learned that the school children of Galveston had lost nearly all of their school books in the storm and flood of Sept. 8, the company donated a sufficient number of books published by them and used in Texas schools to take the place of the books destroyed.

Messrs. J. W. Hartzell and Ed B. Robinson of Navarro county arrived here yesterday and are figuring with our people on a proposition of putting in a first-class flouring mill at this place.

We were told the other day that twenty new residences could be seen from Wildhorse Knob, and Mr. A. C. Foster told us yesterday that he had sold twenty-one tracts of land ranging from 100 to 160 acres, out of the Wise county four league survey school land, which will be put into that number of farms the coming year.

On Wednesday evening Nov. 28th, at the home of the bride's parents in this city, Mr. Combs M. Kaigler of Greenville, Texas, and Miss Earl Park, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Park were united in marriage. Rev. J. T. Bloodworth officiated for the quiet ceremony.

The young couple will make their home in Greenville.

Texas Boys Will Attend National 4H Club Congress

COLLEGE STATION. — Texas 4-H clubs will be represented by 42 members at the National Congress of the clubs at Chicago this year, an increase of six over the delegation of last year. The group will leave Dallas by train November 29; in charge of L. L. Johnson, State Boys' Club agent.

The congress is held in connection with the International Live-stock show, where the boys will have opportunity to inspect some of the best livestock in the country. In addition the youthful agriculturalists, along with those from nearly every state in the union, will visit places of interest at Chicago, including the Board of Trade and International Harvester company.

The Texas delegation will include Woodrow Mills, George Mills and Claude Broome of Sterling County, who will participate in the livestock judging contest. Texas boys have won first place in this contest in each of the past two years, Reagan County youths winning last year and a group from Menard County in 1938. All but one of those on the two teams now are students at Texas A. & M. College.

Other judging contests in which Texas boys will participate are: crops, Charles Ball, Jack Ford and Jesse Swinde, all of Lamar county; meat identification contest, Bill Jones and James Mitchell from Dallas county; poultry, Clin-is capable of producing large crops of fur if the animals are given sufficient protection to assure maintenance of an adequate breeding stock. It is upon these lands that the Game Department is concentrating so that the purse of Old Man Texas will be heavier in years to come.

Sportsmen Now Want Gars

Shades of something! A year ago every fisherman in Texas was clamoring for the Game Department to eradicate all gars. Now some anglers are protesting when the Department starts seining them. The reason is that thousands of Texans have learned that fishing for gar with a wire nose is as much sport as tossing a plug or fly for Ol John Bass. The campaign by the Game Department to popularize gar fishing as a sport must be a success for some members of the San Antonio Anglers Club now want gar left in Medina Lake, from which the Game Department recently seined more than 2,000. Anglers in that section had previously insisted that gar be removed from the lake, a task which is extremely difficult to perform unless the water in the lake is very low, such as has been the case at Medina, Lake.

Must Maintain Nature's Balance

Biologists constantly preach the maintaining of balance in nature, which is upset daily by man either by his taking too many birds and animals or by the use of unwise laws.

Farm and Ranch reports a graphic example of this, says the Graham (Texas) Reporter. A farmer planted 10 acres of apple trees. They flourished until the second year, when rabbits killed all of these trees but 20. These trees produced apples which sold for $1.50 a bushel. Had it not been for the rabbits, the farmer would have had 500 trees bearing fruit. Figure out his loss. He is replanting for the rabbits are thinned out now due to the fact that foxes have moved into the territory. Too many fox could do so harmful but there are ways of maintaining nature's balance.

Young County men had experience similar to the fruit grower and at the last session of the state legislature a bill was passed protecting fox in Young County for a two-year period.

Texas had an increase of 138,800 pelts in 1939. Sixteen species of fur-bearing animals, are trapped in the state. They include badger, beaver, fox, red, gray and kite or swift; mink, mountain lion, muskrat, opossum, raccoon, ringtail cat, skunk, both common and spotted, weasel and wolf.

The State Game Department is co-operating with marshland owners in a program to restore more habitat for muskrats. It is believed that within two or three years muskrats will put $2,000,000 in the coffers of the Lone Star State. Work to restore a few other species of fur-bearers such as beaver, is progressing.

Fur animals require natural habits in which to live. As the country develops more and more of these habitats are being destroyed. In many sections, however, much land still remains that

20 Years Ago—Nov. 27, 1920

The Wichita Valley depot in Anson was destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon, together with all the freight stored in the adjoining railroad warehouse.

According to the State Highway Department, an increase of 87 per cent in the number of automobiles in Haskell county is shown for 1920 as compared with the previous year. This year there were 1091 cars registered in the county while last year the total was 582.

A total of $4,320 has been subscribed for the building of a storage warehouse in Haskell, and promoters of the proposition stated this week that the venture seemed assured of success.

OUR READY-MADE ARMY

The United States has so many latent sources of strength which are not actually appreciated by our own citizens that we are a much stronger nation in certain respects than we ourselves realize, says Harvey C. Fruehauf, president, Fruehauf Trailer Company.

"Take, for example, our standing army" of truck drivers. No other country in the world has the number of men who are experienced in handling automotive equipment as we have. In this country there are more than three and a half-million truck drivers. Most of these men are not only drivers but also expert 'trouble shooters' on automotive equipment. A goodly share of them are expert at handling heavy duty units under all sorts of tough and trying conditions.

The State of Texas

To The Sheriff or any Constable of Haskell County, Texas—
Greeting:—

You are hereby commanded to summon Mrs. James E. Pace by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Haskell County, Texas, to be held at the court house thereof, in Haskell, Texas, on the first Monday in January, A. D., 1941, the same being the 6th day of January, A. D., 1941, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 1st day of October, A. D., 1940, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 5507, wherein James E. Pace is plaintiff and Mrs. James E. Pace is defendant, said petition alleging that James E. Pace is and has been for a period of twelve months prior to the filing of this suit an actual bona fide inhabitant of the State of Texas and has resided in said County of Haskell for at least six months preceding the filing of this suit. That on or about the 27th day of April, A. D., 1940, plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married in the town of Duncan, Oklahoma. That they continued to live together until on or about the 6th day of May, A. D., 1940 when by reason of the cruel, harsh and improper conduct of defendant towards plaintiff, he was forced to permanently abandon her, since which time they have not lived together as man and wife. That during the time plaintiff and defendant lived together as aforesaid he was kind and affectionate towards her and always provided for her maintenance. That defendant immediately after her said marriage to plaintiff began a course of unkind, harsh, cruel and tyrannical treatment towards plaintiff. That defendant cursed and abused plaintiff and addressed to him the most opprobrious epithets without cause. That defendant utterly failed and refused to manage the household affairs of plaintiff and informed him that she had no intention of ever doing so. That she, the said defendant, informed defendant that she did not love him the very next day after their said marriage. That she bitterly cursed and abused plaintiff when he refused to allow his daughter to accompany daughter of defendant on blind dates with boys unknown to plaintiff and on said occasion defendant flew into such a violent rage that she slapped plaintiff and hit him with a book. That finally on the 10th day of their said marriage defendant again cursed and abused and slapped plaintiff, informed him that she was through with him and was going to return to her home in Oklahoma. That defendant did then and there without cause leave plaintiff. That plaintiff has not seen or heard from defendant since said date save for one letter. That since said time all his efforts to get in touch with her or to learn her whereabouts have been in vain. That defendant's actions and conduct towards plaintiff are of such a nature as to render their future living together insupportable premises considered. That no children were born of said marriage. Wherefore plaintiff prays the court that the defendant be cited to appear herein and for judgment dissolving said marriage relation.

Herein Fail Not but have you before said court on the first day of the next term thereof showing with your return thereon showing how you executed the same.

Witness, Mrs. Hettie Williams, Clerk of the District Court, Haskell County, Texas.

Given under my hand and seal of said court this 25th day of November, A. D. 1940 in the town of Haskell, Texas.

Mrs. Hettie Williams, Clerk of the District Court, Haskell County, Texas. Issued this, the 25th day of Nov. A. D. 1940.

Yes Sir,

Children live in a different world

Children spend a great deal of time on the floor at temperature levels far below those at the "breathing line" of adults.

Because heat rises, room temperatures at floor levels are 5 to 10 degrees COOLER than at heights of five or six feet, depending upon the manner in which your home is heated.

Don't give a cold an even break! See to it that temperatures at floor level are healthfully comfortable for your children during the winter season.

THIS is not an ordinary advertisement. It offers neither goods nor merchandise for sale. Its purpose is to remind you of the added obligation of parents during the winter season. At the same time we are ever mindful of our own responsibility in keeping your gas service dependable so that you may have the protection of adequate heat to safeguard your family's health. You see, we too, have children.

We know of the anxious hours in every mother's life when illness threatens those she loves. We have watched with alarm a child's mounting fever of serious illness that started as a simple, common cold. With sleepless, fear-filled eyes we watched through the night into the sunrise of a new day—as across our worried mind flashed that grim published warning—one death every four minutes from pneumonia! It was then that "prevention is the best remedy" impressed us with its full significance. It was then we recognized the vital importance of guarding against the simple, common cold.

Tickets! Tickets! That word has vibrated and vibrated up and down the hall for the past two weeks until it is past the "familiar sound" and has forced itself into the column next to "the intolerant." FFA boys have one redeeming quality, persistence, especially when it comes to selling tickets for a pig roast. Usually when there is so much noise and perseverance there is something behind it—and this was no exception to the rule. The tireless effort was rewarded by a large, happy appreciative crowd, which in turn was rewarded with a bountiful informal feed.

These gloomy, vacant seats in the study hall don't look so lonesome now that our FFA boys have taken possession of them. Mr. Sullivan has taken a trip and his "boys" have moved in, bringing with them, not books, but chewing gum, funny papers, and gossip.

A skating rink—yes a SKATING RINK is being installed in our OWN gymnasium! Many of the students were speechless when they learned of this, but it is really true. We will be allowed to skate every Monday and Saturday nights.

I speak for the entire student body when I say that we have not words to express our gratitude to those who have made it possible for us to have this long desired diversion.

Weibert Schools will turn out for two days when they observe Thanksgiving, Thursday, November 28. In order to be in splendid condition the following Monday we quote Socrates and ask you to—"Be moderate in all things."

Does The School Want An Annual?

The seniors met to discuss plans for the annual. This venture, like everything else to be a success must be carefully planned. Consideration of such phases as contributions from the various departments of the school, tireless labor by the editing committee, and last but not least enough advance purchases to insure the financial side. Do the students want an annual? Express your views to the seniors.

Bulldogs Are Defeated

Playing their ninth game of the season (the second in that week) the Weibert Bulldogs lost their fourth game of the season to the Rochester Steers. The Steers scored almost at ease over the hopeless Bulldogs, the final score being Rochester 40 and Weibert 0.

The Bulldogs have won four, lost four, and tied one (with Rochester) this season. They are now betting five hundred percent.

The senior class will be entertained in the home of Mrs. Preston Weibert one evening of this week. All seniors are expected to be there for our first social of this year.

The sophomores are growing restless for an entertainment and plans are under way for something of that nature soon.
