Coach Ted Darland Explains New Math Teaching Techniques At Lions Club

Head Coach Ted Darland was featured speaker at Knox City Lions Club Wednesday, and was introduced to the club by Doyle Graham, program chairman.

Coach Darland was awarded a scholarship at TCU this year in math, and he told the group it was an honor for the study group who awarded scholarships to pick him for the refresher course at TCU.

The course is designed to acquaint teachers with the new techniques in teaching math to high school students.

Coach Darland said an erroneous impression was made of new teaching methods by some students and a large number of parents who did not understand why the change was needed.

As for the changes, the coach said the new methods "were not as far out" as some students and parents would surmise.

The coach said math was a universal language. That the changes have had to be made in order to keep abreast of business requirements and the times.

The teaching profession needs more and better teachers. . . as an example he said that in 1954 only 200 men graduated with Ph.D. degrees; in 1962 there were 300 and in 1970 only 500 are anticipated.

Computers have been responsible for better and more mathematicians. . . in 1954 there were only 10 computers; in 1955, 900 and in 1960 there were 3,750; in 1965 the figure had jumped or rather it is expected to hit 20,000. This will require over 200,000 mathematicians to operate the computers, he said.

The change in teaching and requirements was first pointed out by foreign students who attended our colleges. They were so far ahead of our students that a group was organized to study why this was true.

They came up with the following reasons:

1. Our requirements and ways of teaching were too rigid. We had too many set rules and no way for students to experiment on their own.
 2. Math was too compartmentalized in that although we had two years of geometry, one year of plain geometry, etc., in college it was still "too cut and dried."
 3. Manipulation of numbers—and no way of showing why we did this or that. . .
 4. That teachers were lazy in that they taught the same thing and way year after year with no variation.
- Studies that normally were taught in second and third year college classes like calculus were taught to foreign students in high school.

The first study group was founded in New York in 1940 and the School Math Study Group who supplied the coach with his scholarship was organized in 1950.

The new method of teaching was explained in detail by the coach to the group and the ultimate aim will be a simplified version of the present system of mathematics. The method has some drawbacks in that it will be hard for the student midway through school to pick up, yet first graders will start with the new system and it will give them a much broader understanding of math as they progress in their grades.

Darland gave a brief history of numbers and worked examples for the group to illustrate.

Mrs. Bill Lankford Escapes Serious Injury In Mishap

Mrs. Bill Lankford escaped serious injury when she swerved her car to avoid collision with a cow and struck a telephone pole when returning home from work Monday night.

The accident happened near the Gilpin farm north of town. Mrs. Lankford, who was dismissed from the Knox County Hospital Tuesday, received bruises and a chipped bone in her elbow. The car was badly damaged.

Personally, we want to grow—what about you?

his points. Symbols and expressions of "symbolisms" are major requirements in understanding the new method.

The new system is not a "way out method but a way to keep up with the times," he explained.

To understand math one needs to understand the numbers system, he said.

He illustrated that at first man needed numbers in order to ascertain when he sent his herd to the fields he needed a means of finding out if they all returned. Later as things got more complicated, he had to broaden his arithmetic, until today man has to work problems to solve answers to questions in the jet, atomic, and space age.

Math has progressed to the point that in even addition—A plus B plus C can make no difference in the answer even if added B plus A plus C it is never-the-less required today in commutative property or real numbers, that A plus B plus C be used in and explained to others how it was used and why. . . in that way we will have a universal understanding in problems and know exactly "what you did and why you did it in each step of the problem," he concluded.

Gov. John Connally remains the dominant figure on the state-house scene. He received over 1,800,000 votes in the general election, to lead the Democratic ticket.

An overwhelming majority of Texas voters liked the Demo ticket headed by native son Pres. Lyndon Baines Johnson. Republicans were left with little to be encouraged about. However, GOP leaders insisted their party has "the zeal and spirit to make a fast comeback" and will begin the 1966 campaign immediately.

Statisticians for the two political parties have gone to work to explain the tremendous Democratic sweep of Texas. One logical explanation of Johnson's landslide simply was that 400,000 more Texans than ever before appeared at the polls. And apparently they were about all Democrats. Turnout was some 88 per cent of the qualified voters, also a new record in this century in Texas.

President Johnson received 64 per cent of the 2,700,000 Texas votes cast (to 36 per cent for Sen. Barry Goldwater). This represented the largest total in a presidential race since the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's 71 per cent margin for a fourth term in 1944.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough defeated GOP candidate George Bush by carrying nearly 56 per cent of the total. But Bush got more votes than any previous Texas Republican candidate for senator. The Houston oilman was the first GOP senate candidate to rack up more than a million votes.

Republicans, although better organized and financed than ever, lost every statewide and congressional race and all legislative races except one. GOP Frank Cahoon of Midland won. In the scramble the Republicans lost two congressmen, Bruce Alger of Dallas and Ed Foreman of Odessa and nine members of the Texas Legislature.

Makeup of the Legislature in general remains conservative-moderate. Leadership will continue in the hands of Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and House Speaker Byron Tunnel. The latter is assured another term as speaker on strength of member pledges.

Texas voters also approved all three state constitutional amendments on the ballot.

In so doing they knocked out legislative authority to transfer one per cent of the permanent school fund to the available school fund; authorized the Legislature to enact a program of medical aid to the aged not on welfare rolls but having difficulty paying their doctor bills; and required bills creating or substantially altering conservation and reclamation districts to be published in newspapers and cleared by Texas Water Commission.

LBJ AT HOME — President Johnson closed out his campaign and celebrated his landslide victory in the Central Texas congressional district where he got his political start. Final speech of his nationwide vote hunt was made to 100,000 at an Austin rally in front of the State Capitol.

He voted at his old precinct in Johnson City on election day. Johnson returned to Austin to make his first statement to the nation after the election—a call for American unity and a pledge to work for a government offering equal opportunities to all.

CHANGES — Some Texans learned to their dismay that, if they had moved from one county to another within the last six months, they lost their right to vote.

Others found that if they moved from one precinct to another in the same county, but had failed to transfer their poll taxes by the Thursday before election, they had lost the right to vote.

These situations naturally led to talk of making changes in the law or of lawsuits to set aside the laws which cut off rights to vote on technicalities.

SALT WATER — District Judge Herman Jones heard three days of evidence as to whether the Texas Railroad Commission or the Texas Water Pollution Control Board should regulate the disposal of the salt water which comes to the surface in oil and gas wells.

Oilmen contend it should be wholly under the Railroad Commission. Users of surface and ground water contend that the new Pollution Control Board has the authority, and should exercise it, to prevent pollution.

After filing on briefs and oral arguments, Jones will reach a decision about November 20.

Contributions Are Sought For Vets

Those who would like to cheer the disabled veterans and provide them with small gifts for their families at Christmas are asked to make their contributions between two and four p.m. at the Legion Hall, Saturday, November 14.

These contributions go to the Veterans Hospital at McKinney, Texas.

A local bazaar of Home made products will be held at the hall during the same hours.

The Legion Auxiliary would like to thank everyone for their generous response to the Poppy Sale.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation to those who sent flowers and food, and for the kindness and prayers of everyone during the illness and loss of our baby, especially do we thank Dr. Howell, the nurses and Hob Smith for their efforts and consideration.

The day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night for some. The righteousness will have oil in their lamps and go in safety. The ungodly are not so, but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away.

The Lord will open the door unto the faithful, and no man can close it. He will reward them that diligently seek Him.

No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly. For a check up in your life, think on these things.

Cockmen are being cautioned to watch for grass tetany, a cattle ailment that sometimes pops up in fall and winter.

Small grain grasses as oats, wheat, barley and rye are capable of producing the sickness, particularly after rain. Common and Coastal Bermuda and mesquitegrass also can cause the trouble.

The disease is believed to be the result of an imbalance in body magnesium. Changing cattle from dry grass to lush winter pastures, or sudden temperature changes can encourage grass tetany.

It's most likely to occur in the older, more mature cow that has just calved or is near calving. It also is known to occur in yearling calves that have just been put on lush pastures.

The condition is characterized by lack of coordination, muscular tremors, excessive drooling and teeth grinding. Symptoms end with convulsions and coma six to twelve hours after first signs.

Treatment is largely ineffective once the animal reaches coma. But intravenous injections of various magnesium and calcium salts with dextrose is beneficial before coma.

Removal of cattle from lush pasture is the obvious prevention if grass tetany is suspected. However, they can usually be left on the grass if they are supplemented with coarse, dry roughage.

California has suffered large cattle losses from grass tetany. The problem has become an emergency ration which will prevent the ailment. The ration is a mixture of 800 pounds grain—grain sorghum, corn, barley; 800 pounds cotton seed meal; 250 pounds magnesium oxide and 150 pounds molasses. Fed at the rate of one pound per head daily.

Although freezing game meat is a simple process, foods and nutrition specialists for the Texas Extension Service offer a few pointers that should be followed to produce a good-quality product.

1. Start with a good-quality animal that has been properly cared for and dressed.

2. Age big game one week or longer at 40 degrees F. to improve tenderness and flavor.

3. Cut the carcass the same as for beef. Boneless cuts save freezer space, although it is not advisable to bone steaks, chops and short ribs.

4. Store the size package required for a meal. Thawing and then re-freezing lowers meat quality.

5. Divide steaks or chops with two pieces of freezer paper if more than one is to be frozen in a package. This permits meat to thaw uniformly and pieces are easier to separate.

6. Use only moisture-vapor-proof freezer paper for wrapping meat for freezing.

7. Label all packages as to the name of animal or cut of meat and the date.

8. Freeze wild game immediately after packaging, keeping the meat at 0 degrees F. or lower until it is used. Quality meat that is correctly wrapped will keep frozen at this temperature from six months to a year, except heart and liver which should be used within 6 months.

9. Thaw meat before cooking to retain the greatest amount of moisture content. At room temperature meat usually thaws in about two hours per pound. If thawing is done in the refrigerator, allow about five hours per pound.

10. Finally, and foremost, do not refreeze thawed game.

Anyone interested in plans for a hotbed and propagating frame that is inexpensive and easy to build can have one. Scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have designed a plastic covered structure made of wood and thin wall electrical conduit. A 360 watt electric soil heating cable with a 70 degree thermostat will provide supplementary heating. The plan is for a structure 6 ft. square but it could easily be made any length needed.

Anyone interested please let me know and I will get the working drawing.

Oil-Gas Make Huge Contribution To Counties Wealth

In its annual survey of the economic impact of oil and gas on Texas counties, Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association turned up these superlatives:

Eleven counties have crude oil production with an annual value in excess of $50 million. As usual, Andrews County is No. 1 with $196 million.

Five counties produce more than $25 million worth of natural gas a year with Brazoria the leader at $40.3 million.

Nacogdoches County is the first with recorded oil production from wells dug by man, 1866.

Navarro County boasts the oldest commercial oil field, Corsicana, producing since 1896.

The largest field in the state is East Texas, which covers parts of Smith, Upshur, Gregg, Rusk and Cherokee counties.

Three counties have produced more than a billion barrels of oil: Gregg (1.9 billion, Rusk (1.3 billion), Ector (1.1 billion). These with Andrews (855 million) and Harris (821 million) are the top five in all-time production records.

Wichita had the most wells drilled in 1963, according to The Oil and Gas Journal, but the most footage was recorded in Ector County (1.9 million) with second place going to Kleberg County (1.7 million). The estimated $25.2 million spent on drilling in Ector is also a record.

Most wildcat wells were drilled in Runtels County (82) and in Pecos (75).

Deepest well in Texas (or anywhere) is a 25,340-foot dry hole in Pecos County drilled in 1959.

Deepest well producing oil is a 16,347-foot well in Freestone Co. put down in 1949. Pecos holds the record for the deepest gas producer, a 1963 well at 20,750 feet.

Jefferson County's six refineries give it the greatest number and the greatest capacity, some 1,017,500 barrels a day, or slightly less than the total recorded for the United Kingdom.

Harris County leads the state in oil industry payroll, according to the Texas Employment Commission: 39,849 employees with a $325 million payroll. Harris has many oil company headquarters, refineries, and production. Jefferson's refinery operations boost their total to $135 million. Dallas with no production and no processing plants but with many headquarters and laboratories is in third place land ($59 million), Nueces ($49 million) and Ector ($36 million.)

IT'S NEW!

Equal Payment Plan

Budget minded? Aren't we all? Now you can know every month just what your electric service bill will be. West Texas Utilities Co. has a new plan for residential customers... a new Equal Payment Plan. They will estimate the amount of electric service you will use in the next year and divide it into 12 equal even-dollar payments. This estimate is based on your past electric service usage, or in the case of a new customer, on similar accounts.

To keep the payments balanced, your account is reviewed monthly and yearly. If your actual metered electric usage differs materially from the estimate... due to a new major appliance or unusual conditions... you are notified that a change, up or down, in your monthly payments is needed. You may join at any time. The Equal Payment Plan Year ends with your 12th monthly payment. If at the end of the EPP year you have used more, or less, than the estimated amount, your 12th monthly payment will be increased or decreased to balance the account. Call or visit your WTU office... ask for complete details of the Equal Payment Plan now.
