Junior College Area Meetings Are Scheduled

In last week's Herald there appeared a small reader ad in the classified section seeking a lady between the ages of 25 to 40 to do bookkeeping and typing. . . and those interested were asked to WRITE the Herald.

Seventy-five calls would be an understatement, but the phone has rung day and night, and we only wish those who say advertising don't pay, had answered the phone night and day from interested women and a number of MEN!

It is legitimate, take our word for it, and we hope it materializes in a new job and business for Knox City.

At last report Mayor Buddy Angle and Councilman Paul Clayton have re-signed for the city vacancies, and so far the other incumbent, Ottis Cash's seat on the council is still vacant.

Personally we think the city is being run better today than ever before, so see no reason for a change.

At last report the school board has a new man running, A. J. Keathley, and incumbent Joe Roy Smith is seeking re-election at this time.

Personally we think a board composed of at least half the members without children in school would be a better situation than all board members who have children in school.

Although we have as many kids in school as most board members, so far we've never had any problem with the kids teachers, and dare say nine times out of a ten teachers are the ones who have "problems" either with kids or their parents.

A board member who doesn't have a child in school obviously can't be swayed by a whim of his children.

A good friend who doesn't have any children has been extremely interested in our children and schools but won't run for this reason.

"I feel certain I could do what was best for our school every time I voted without any prejudices, but so far I don't think the public is ready for the change or this platform," he commented.

For those not in this category—and we personally believe it is a minority—keep sailing.

We have tried to instill in our children the act of being honest even to the point of it hurting them. Monday, the wife was exasperated when our son voted for the freshman class instead of his sister's junior class for the annual king and queen.

The Beauties were, naturally, all pretty, and the judges, whoever those anonymous battle-weary people happen to be, did a fine job.

We were asked to help judge the homecoming parade at Benjamin last year, and can understand why judges of such affairs want to remain anonymous.

Although we didn't tarry after picking our winners of the parade, guess we "voted right" because we got away with a whole skin.

PLEASE HELP — Next time you report a meeting or party, please list all the persons who attended, in order that we can "have something in the paper," for those who don't otherwise normally get in the news.

The more names in print the more interest, and we feel certain there are some names who should be in the news more than they are now, so please help us make your paper more interesting.

Vice-president Bob Harrison along with Paul Clayton and Charles Lankford gave a report on the By-Laws committee, of which Clayton is the chairman.

Clayton proposed to the board that number one would be a list of what the chamber stood for, or its purpose, etc.

2. Its name would be the Knox City Chamber of Commerce.

3. That it was a non-profit no partnership corporation, with no member being liable, etc.

4. That the membership be designated as active, retail merchants, business and professional and the non-merchant.

5. That the board of directors be not less than 7 nor more than 12.

6. That a quorum constitute a majority of the board of directors and that a majority must be present before reaching a decision.

7. That the board meet not less than twice a month — Regular meetings on the first and third Thursdays of each month at 7 a.m.

8. That a general meeting of the entire membership meet not less than once every two months —once a month being preferred and that could be on one of the regular meeting dates.

9. That the board will elect the president and after election the present president will automatically be the vice president with the same authority as any other board member.

10. If any board member misses three meetings without consent of board he will automatically be dropped from the board of directors and the board will decide whether to replace this person at its own discretion.

Also under consideration was to change the general membership meeting to read "meet not more than once a month nor not less than once in each 90 day period."

That it would take at least two thirds of the membership to change the By-Laws.

And that Robert Rules of Order will be the rules for parliamentary procedure.

The By Laws committee recommended that an election of officers be held the first week in March of each year.

These and other matters will be voted on by the board at the next meeting at which time a general meeting time will be designated for the members to voice their opinions.

Ceremonies marking the formal opening of Knox City's newest business venture — the Knox City Farm Improvement Company — are slated for Saturday, according to A. A. Cox, general manager of the company.

Located in the building formerly occupied by Kale's Drilling Company, the store plans to provide a complete line of farm supplies, featuring all types of irrigation pumps and parts as well as prompt, quality service.

Saturday's opening will afford local residents an opportunity to browse through the store with the large, widely-varied stock available.

What Progress Cancer Research

How soon can we expect a cure for cancer?

It is a disease of tremendous complexity, yet research gains already made have led some scientists to predict we will see the problem solved within our lifetime.

There is reason for this hopeful outlook. Within the short span of 25 years, we have made such progress as this:

A drug has been developed in treating a rare type of cancer found in women after pregnancy. It is the first solid tumor ever to respond favorably to chemotherapy.

The "Pap" smear was developed, making it possible to discover uterine cancer cells in an early and curable stage. The mortality rate of cancer of the uterus, once the most feared of all forms of cancer in women, has dropped 50 per cent in 25 years.

At present, there is no preventive or cure for leukemia, but the lives of patients are being prolonged with new combinations of drugs, and many scientists believe that cures will be found for this type of cancer sooner than for any other cancer.

Hundreds of scientists in many branches of cancer research are working long hours in laboratories across the country to find new clues to fathom the mysteries of a disease which takes the lives of more than 800 Americans a day.

The head of one of the largest research centers has said, "People think there is a lot of money available for cancer. There really isn't. There are many things we wish could be done . . ."

This is worth keeping in mind when you are asked to contribute to the American Cancer Society during its annual April Crusade against cancer. The pace of support for cancer research must be stepped up to bring closer the day of victory. Your dollars can help.

NANCY JO LIPPARD IS FINALIST IN SCHOLARSHIP COMPETITION

Nancy Jo Lippard, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lippard of O'Brien, has been selected as a finalist in the 1964 National Merit Scholarship competition, according to information received this week.

A senior in O'Brien's Carney Rural High School, Miss Lippard now becomes eligible for consideration for one of the four-year scholarships awarded each year by the National Merit Scholarship Corp., and by more than 200 business corporations, foundations, colleges, professional associations, unions, trust and individuals.

Miss Lippard will receive confidential notice on March 20, if she is selected for one of the awards. Actual announcement of scholarship winners, however, will not be made until April 28.

Advancement to the coveted finalist bracket in the National Merit Scholarship competition was made possible by successful completion of a series of tests which the O'Brien senior began during her junior year.

Of the several million secondary school seniors in the nation, fewer than 14,000 were able to reach the finals of the competition.

Born in Yuma, Arizona, Nancy Jo has traveled extensively in the United States. Her father is a retired Marine Corps captain, currently employed as Plant Superintendent of Wood Chemical Company, in Knox City.

An active participant in all school functions, Miss Lippard is also a teacher in the O'Brien Baptist Sunday School.

She plans to major in mathematics in college and to become an elementary math teacher.

C.W. STEPHENS
KNOX CITY

AUSTIN — Gov. John Connally's top legislative project—creation of a powerful coordinating board to control state colleges and universities—apparently is headed for early enactment.

Bills to establish the board breezed through Senate and House committees to floor calendars without direct attack after members of the Governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School testified for them.

Quick and easy committee approval contradicted early rumors that establishment of the strong central board would meet vigorous opposition in the Legislature.

It seems that opposition, if there is to be any, will be confined to specific details of the bill and not to the overall proposal.

If enacted, the 18-member coordinating board would have broad powers over all aspects of higher education in Texas—junior colleges, as well as senior institutions.

It would have the final word on launching or eliminating colleges degree programs, control the addition or deletion of courses, develop future plans for higher education and pass on proposals to create new senior colleges.

It would supplant the existing Commission on Higher Education, although members of the commission would be eligible for appointment to the board.

Said Governor Connally: "I am very pleased with the action of the two committees. This reflects what I have said all along—that there is a great will and desire on the part of the Legislature to make some real strides toward excellence in high education."

Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria is handling the bill in the House and Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan has it in the Senate.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS DEBATED—Legislative committees set aside another Ladies' Night to hear a familiar debate—should the state constitution be amended to insure that no legal rights be "denied or abridged because of sex?"

Without even hearing arguments for or against, a Senate panel quickly agreed that the amendment should be submitted to the voters.

On the other hand, the House committee listened to hours of testimony. Most of it was in opposition to such an amendment. The State Bar and spokesmen for university law schools led the opposition.

Opponents claim the amendment goes too far and would "open a Pandora's box" of future litigation. Specific statutory changes were recommended as preferable for correcting such discrimination as might exist.

Spokesmen for the women's groups, who have stubbornly pushed the amendment, retort with considerable conviction: after all these years of talking about giving women full powers to manage their property and other rights long denied them, little serious effort has been made to repeal the discriminatory statutes one at a time.

POOLING BILL NEAR PASSAGE—Although subject to bitter legislative controversy two years ago, the oil and gas lease pooling bill cleared the Senate with no more than a handful of dissenting votes.

There was practically no floor discussion on the bill which is backed by Governor Connally and Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, as well as most oil and gas interests.

Its House companion landed in a friendly sub-committee after an extended hearing.

Bill would authorize Texas Railroad Commission to prescribe requirements for owners of small tracts to protect their interests for oil and gas drilling purposes when they cannot get together voluntarily.

Among opponents of the bill were members of the Texas Farm Bureau and local farm bureaus in oil counties which have had small-tract problems.

C. H. Devaney of Coahoma, TFB president, asked the committee to consider the opposition to the bill "in light of the fact that an overwhelming majority of our member families are landowners and that the Texas Farm Bureau probably represents the largest single group of landowners in any organization."

Devaney read a policy statement saying in part, "We oppose any and all legislation that would deny the landowner or mineral owners the American tradition of freedom of choice."

Free choice remained the central issue as the measure went on House and Senate calendars. Opponents called the measure "compulsory unitization" and "land collectivism." House sponsor, Rep. Wayne Gibbons of Breckenridge, said it is intended "to encourage voluntary pooling."

PERMIAN RATE CASE ARGUED—Three top Texas officials entered personal protests before the Federal Power Commission in Washington of gas rate findings for the Permian Basin area of West Texas and New Mexico.

Gov. Connally, Atty. General Waggoner Carr and Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon argued against approval of an FPC examiner's recommending a rate range of 10 cents per million cubic feet to 16.75 cents per mcf. State contended single price of 20 cents per mcf would be more reasonable and forward-looking.

Adoption of the examiner's findings would be a serious economic blow to the state. It would result in a tax loss of $4,500,000 a year, officials contended. They pointed out that 4,700,000 acres of land belonging to the University of Texas or the Permanent School Fund are located in the vast Permian Basin. Income to the university and the public schools, in addition to substantial amounts of taxes, depend heavily on gas prices. Similar hearings, Carr reported, already have begun in the Gulf Coast and East Texas fields. Hearings begun in 1961, now cover 35,000 pages of testimony.

COMMITTEE ON AGING ENDORSED—Senate State Affairs Committee gave its blessing to establishment of the Governor's Committee on Aging as a permanent organization.

Sen. Walter Richter of Gonzales, chairman of the present committee, is author of the Senate bill to set up a nine-member panel aided by seven state officials and executives dealing with problems of aging. Committee now is trying to get programs going for senior citizens in every county.

COURTS SPEAK—Third Court of Civil Appeals agreed with the trial court that the cigarette distributor's permit of a Houston dealer accused of participating in a fraud scheme which cost the state an estimated $4,200,000 should be revoked. Comptroller Robert S. Calvert cancelled the permit of the House Tobacco (headed by Mair J. Schepps) last October. Trial of Schepps and six others is scheduled for May 3 in Austin.

Same court heard arguments on an eight-year-old case where the City of San Antonio seeks to overturn a ruling of the Texas Water Commission denying its application for supplemental water supply from Canyon Dam near New Braunfels. Commission (then the Board of Water Engineers) said the Guadalupe-Bianco River Authority is entitled to available water to benefit the cities in its watershed.

CRIMINAL CODE REVISION FAVORED—Senate Jurisprudence Committee recommended passage of an overall revision of the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure, which cleared the Legislature in 1963 but was vetoed because a faulty copy was sent to the governor.

Bill is the result of four years work by a State Bar committee.

Most protests at the committee hearing centered on a section which would allow a convicted person to decide whether he wished a jury or a judge to determine the penalty.

CARR ASKS MONEY—Attorney General Carr is seeking some $210,500 or more a year for his budget. Request is mainly for funds to represent Texas in hearings before federal agencies and to handle "scandal" cases.

Federal agencies must have a better understanding of Texas problems, contends the attorney general. He noted that consumer states of the north and east have explained their cases in a more convincing manner than has Texas.

Carr said a scandal could result from loose regulation of charitable trusts.

A spokesman for Carr appeared at a House judiciary committee hearing in support of a bill to tighten controls on such trusts.

WATER Development Bills—A friendly Senate sub-committee will consider a bill by Sen. Geo. Parkhouse of Dallas which would authorize the Water Development Board to use the $200,000,000 water development fund to build reservoirs, treatment plants, pipelines and other facilities for water delivery to wholesale users and to obtain permits for storage and use.

Two other Parkhouse water development bills also remain under Senate committee study. They would convert the Water Commission into the Water Rights Commission, an agency with expanded responsibilities and an executive director, and would revise the Water Development Board and expand its powers, keeping the granting of permits with the Water Commission.

PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS IN COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

This is a sign of active community development

Many towns in our service area are engaged in or planning community development programs. One outstanding example is the continuing development of Robert Lee. Here, aggressively energetic citizens have built a new Court House, a new school building, a new Post Office, and a modern bank building. They have developed a City Park with recreation building, swimming pool, sports fields and a nine-hole golf course; modernized the City Hall, paved city streets and voted a bond issue to enlarge the local hospital. And, they can now claim a population gain. Robert Lee's proud record is a Pattern for Progress of what can be done in Community Development which improves the chances of continued growth, making the community a better place in which to live, work and play. Growth-conscious towns are invited to contact their local WTU manager for assistance from our area development representatives.

No Room For Mediocrity—IV

Public Image Sfill Major Problem

By HARLEY PERSHING
 What's wrong with a junior college? You hear that question almost every day when you talk to educators working in the Texas junior college program or closely associated with it.
 The answer, they say, is absolutely nothing—there is nothing wrong with a junior college and any stigma attached to the program should be removed.
 The problem, say men like B. W. Musgraves, a top Texas administrative educator, lies in the failure of the junior college to create a "favorable image."
 "I know this is a trite expression," said Musgraves, "but it best depicts the status of the junior colleges."

The solution, says Musgraves' assistant commissioner of Texas Education Agency in charge of junior colleges, is for the junior college leaders to do a better job of selling their schools to the public.
 "I don't mean propaganda," he said, "but the college presidents—and they admit this—should do a good selling job."
 Musgraves, who has been in charge of the junior college program since 1929, has fixed ideas about the status of the junior college in the echelon of higher education.

 The No. 1 objective of the junior college, says Musgraves, is to be an excellent academic institution, offering courses in liberal arts comparable if not better than those available in the senior college level.
 "After all," said Musgraves, "that is the purpose of the junior college, the reason most of them were founded and the reason most of them exist today."
 He and other educators acknowledge that the junior college has many roles to fill in meeting the needs of the communities each serve.

At the same time, however, they do not want the basic role of the institution—a two-year academic program—overlooked in the mad scramble for a place in the technical and vocational instruction world.
 "The junior colleges have fought long and hard to obtain academic respectability and they do not want to give it up," he explained.

 Another top educator, Dr. C. C. Colvert, professor and consultant at the University of Texas in junior college programs, readily agrees with Musgraves on the academic role for junior college work.
 In fact, both work hand in glove on several programs aimed at creating new colleges or improving the curricula.
 They point out that a junior college's academic program would not conflict with that offered by a senior college even if the two were located in the same area or community.

The two schools would complement each other, with the junior college providing two-year programs for students wishing only that amount of education, freeing the senior college to work with students a full bachelor's degree leading to graduate level.
 Many companies now are requiring their new younger employees to have at least two years of college. This requirement enhances the work of the junior college to provide the education needed by students going from the school into the labor market.

 Of course, the junior college now is providing that program and those striving for excellence—and there are many in the state, according to educators—are turning out qualified students.
 Heavier demands for this type of training, however, will force bigger work loads on the existing junior college and require them to beef up their curricula to meet the requirements.
 Dr. Colvert says the academic program in the junior college serves two levels:
 First, it offers a regular two-year college course for those requiring only that much higher education.
 Secondly, it provides an introduction into the four-year schools by offering such programs as pre-law, pre-engineering, pre-chemistry and pre-educational training.

The junior college not only helps the senior college but it is a boon to the student, as well.
 Many students enrolling in junior college work do so for economy reasons. Because of cost and expenses they can not afford to go away to school.
 And if they live in the Fort Worth area, the cost of enrolling at TCU is such that they are prohibited from attending even though they live at home.
 A junior college—fees and tuition are the same as those charged at a senior college—would be the answer.
 By enrolling in junior college and turning out excellent work, a student can seek special aid through a scholarship for continuation of study in the senior college.

There is another factor, too, says Dr. Colvert.
 Many students are so-called late bloomers who fail to get started educationally until after they leave high school. Many of them never make it to senior college because of poor showings in their high school work.
 A junior college close to home would offer these youngsters a chance at higher education which they otherwise might not get.

All this adds up to but one thing, Musgraves emphasized, "the junior college has an important place in the scheme of higher education."
 "It is a matter of selling the public on the idea of our objective: To provide every individual with opportunity for maximum development of his abilities and to produce citizens responsive to the social, economic and political needs of our time and those of the future."

Irish potato planting has begun in Knox County. Approximately 700 acres will be planted again this year. Much of this year's production has been planted to a potato chip company. The principal varieties being planted are Kennebec, Cherokee, Red LaSoda and the new variety, Norgold. The latter is the russet potato that has been known as 4192-3 in the variety trials for the past few years. Seed potatoes have been very scarce and high priced this year due to an early freeze in the Red River Valley of the Dakotas and Minnesota. The freeze damaged the potatoes making them unfit for seed.

Anyone interested in learning more about how to prune and care for fruit trees? We will have a demonstration today, Feb. 19, at 5 p.m. at the home of Doris Dickerson, 1325 S. 13th Ave., in Munday. Another will be held Monday, Feb. 22, at George Nix, one and one-half miles southwest of Goree.

A few fruit trees in the backyard can provide a welcome addition to the family food supply. The life of the trees as well as the amount of fruit produced is influenced by the kind of care they receive. Correct care is not difficult to learn or to do. Attend these demonstrations which will last about an hour, and learn the fundamentals of pruning and insect control.

Large numbers of feeder cattle have been available at most Western markets this winter.

Many cattlemen were forced to reduce numbers in the Central and Southern Plains because of poor feed supplies — and in the Northern Plains because of severe winter and high hay prices. Weekly feeder steer marketings at ten markets in December were 10-30 per cent larger than a year earlier.

With the increased numbers of heifers that are apparently being held for herd replacement total feeder cattle now available to be placed on feed this winter or spring probably is about the same as last winter. However, if 1965 should be a year of liquidation, this would provide increased supplies of feeder cattle.

There continues to be a wide margin between feeder steer and slaughter steer prices. This difference started widening April and ranged $4-6 during the 4th quarter of last year. Feeder prices could show a small seasonal increase this spring, if there is good grass, but changes in feeder cattle prices this year will be closely keyed to slaughter prices.

Little change is noted in the length of time on feed in Texas. The U. S. figures, however, show that there has been a substantial increase in the proportion of cattle on feed less than three months and a decrease in those on feed more than six months. Of the total 234 large feedlots in Texas, only 182 had cattle on feed. Utilization of these larger Texas feedlots on January 1, 1965, was only 54 percent.

Cattle slaughter continues to exceed year earlier figures by wide margins. Slaughter for five weeks in December averaged about one-fifth larger than a year earlier. Total slaughter for 1964 was up about 12 per cent. Federally inspected slaughter in the first full week of January was 545,000 head. The second week was 570,000 head. This was 23 per cent more than a year ago — an all-time high.

Prospects are for about the same fed cattle marketings the rest of this winter as a year ago, but at lighter weights. Producers again may market more fed cattle than they indicated. If so, this will be due to lighter marketing weights and more heifers on feed.

The length of time on feed continues shorter than 1963 and early 1964. This is due both to placement on feed at heavier weights and marketing at lighter

weights. Demand for beef appears strong and this should keep prices near present levels. More beef is being consumed at higher prices than a year ago. But as long as fed cattle marketings continue at high levels, there is not likely to be much strength. Spring marketings of fed cattle may not hit quite as high a peak as in 1964 — and prices should not go as low.

Placing pesticides in containers other than the ones in which they came can be dangerous and can lead to serious misuse of the materials. The contents of an unlabeled insecticide are unknown, and there is no guide on what crops or animals the material should be used. Using the material for any other than its intended purpose, can lead to damage or perhaps to illegal and unwanted insecticide residues.

A soft drink bottle full of insecticide, for example, is an invitation to children and others, if there is no label on the bottle which gives information on its contents or directions for its use. Such information might be vital to a doctor undertaking treatment for insecticide poisoning.

Users and sellers of insecticides are urged to keep these materials in their original packages and also to store, handle and use them safely.

It is better to dispose of small amounts of left-over insecticides than to keep them around in unmarked containers or improperly stored.

Arnold Davis Speaks To Lions

Ulric Lea was program chairman for the Lions Club last week and had as his program Arnold Davis, superintendent of the Plant Materials Center in Knox City. Lea will assist Davis in the operation of the new plant.

Mr. Davis said there 18 plants of this nature in the United States, from Florida to Washington and the closest ones to Knox City was one located in New Mexico and one in Missouri.

The plant is government sponsored and works in connection with the Soil Conservation Service.

Davis said the plant here was to replace the one formerly located in Spur. This location was selected because of climate and good soil, he said.

The plant site occupies 60 acres of land leased from Tom Campbell, and a 40 by 80 seed cleaning and storage shed will be constructed shortly. Office space will also be contained in the same building, he said.

Experiments will be conducted on trees, shrubs, and plants and the center will work toward solving the problems of plant life in Texas.

Mr. Davis said grass in this state was big business and the plant center will set out test plots of any and every type of grass known to see which of the various species are better suited to this and other types of soils.

A complete record of time the seed was planted, to amount of rain, when it rained, and how the seed thrive at various times of the year is kept.

He explained that the center is not in competition with any seed company or any individual, but that their work was to find better seed for Texas grassland.

He pointed out there were four problems in Texas:

1. Pasture and grassland . . .
2. Critical areas . . . parts of the state with no rain; too much rain and other parts with soils ranging from sand to lime, etc.

3. Methods of grass plantings. Most of this work is done by the Soil Conservation Service, and various methods of planting have been devised, but problems still exist, he told the group—and that will be another endeavor of the center.

4. Wildlife and recreation—This phase he said was far-fetched 35 years ago when the plant centers were devised, but today it is getting to be very important. Demands for recreation are growing every day and this phase is also part of the soil conservation program.

Davis said native plants will still outproduce exotic or produced plants but they will try to make these do much better than they have in the past.

Davis concluded with "it would be ideal if we could grow 600 pounds of grain on no rainfall, but this can't be done." "This is a long range program and we will try to get as close to the ideal as possible."

Mrs. Edward Christian of San Antonio, soloist, sang "Because" and Mickey Benefiel brother of the groom was organist. He played the traditional wedding marches and pre-nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of white satin and brocade. Designed with empire waist line, the brocade bodice with scoop neckline was sprinkled with bridal pearl drops. The full skirt was of satin, and the veil of white bridal illusion fell from a crown of pearls.

She carried a white Bible with her white orchid bouquet with satin streamers. Miss Virginia Collins of Knox City, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. ## Streams In Desert Places

Ozelle Stephens

"Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted." (Matt. 5:4). To mourn is certainly not a very elevated state of mind. It is not God's will for us, because He intends for us to be joyful, happy, healthy, and prosperous in all that we do.

If we take Jesus at His word we need not be downcast for the kingdom of heaven is still ours. God loves us regardless of whether we do anything to deserve it or not. In your morning turn to Christ Jesus and the WORD of God, you will certainly be comforted. His holy presence will continually bless you.
