Two-Year Junior College Status Is Threatened By Four-Year Expansion

By HARLEY PERSHING

One of the critical problems facing higher education in this decade is the status of the junior college.

The problem has many facets. These include quality of instruction, curricula to meet the community and a never-ending drive toward excellence.

Heading the list, however, is a problem that has confronted educators for years, and particularly those in Texas.

It is: How can junior colleges remain junior colleges and not seek four year status just as soon as their program of instruction becomes successful?

In nearly every report on the problems of education, the goals to strive for, the needs of education beyond the high school for the next 20 years, the elevation of junior colleges to four-year status poses the major problem.

The practice is criticized at all levels.

But still no one has found a way to solve the problem.

A special commission of the Southern Regional Education Board in its report on goals for higher education in the South said these five factors must be followed if the South is to take advantage of the opportunities of the 20th Century:

1. Provide every individual with opportunity for maximum development of his abilities.

2. Provide citizens responsive to the social, economic and political needs of their time.

3. Achieve excellence in teaching, scholarship and research.

4. Accelerate the economic progress of the Southern region through education and research.

5. Guide the region in solving social problems created by population changes, racial differences, urbanization and technological growth.

The report did not stop with a presentation of the problems. It listed proposed ways of solving them.

High on this list is the junior college program. The commission said "every state should develop a strong system of two-year community colleges" with the program directed toward these essentials:

1. The college must be an integral part of the state system of higher education, fully coordinated with the other parts of the system.

2. A junior college must resist pressure to expand into a four-year institution, concentrating instead on achieving excellence in its two-year program.

3. The distinctive function of the school must be recognized and respected because junior colleges are neither mere extensions of the high school nor de-capitalized versions of the four-year college.

In another section of the report, the commission warns that "to achieve excellence, the institutions of higher learning and their supporters must practice self-restraint and perform existing functions before assuming new ones."

The Commission said that "chambers of commerce must put educational wisdom ahead of civic pride, perhaps striving for the best, two-year college in the state instead of a mediocre four-year college."

A report closer to home — this one from the staff of the Commission on Higher Education — says that the two year colleges were established in Texas to meet the needs of the community.

"The junior colleges have made and should continue to make a unique and important contribution to the state and to the nation," the report stated.

However, the report adds, "careful consideration should be given to the effect of converting additional two-year colleges to four-year colleges."

Many members of the Legislature have been outspoken in their criticisms of the recent trend in Texas to elevate the junior colleges to four-year schools.

During the recent session, the elevation of two such schools was approved over protests that such action was bringing about a deterioration of higher education in Texas.

So far Texas has no effective means for halting this trend.

And as long as such action is in the hands of legislators, politicians who must depend on contributions and influence in their home districts for re-election, the trend will continue, say educators.

A third is that a law be adopted.

FISHING AT STAMFORD

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Buckley of Knox City and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Laxson of Lubbock spent Sunday at Lake Stamford fishing. The Laxsons spent Sunday night with the Buckleys and returned to Lubbock Monday.

ed prohibiting such action. One possible solution was offered in the last session by Senator Bill Moore of Bryant, an outspoken critic of the rapidly growing trend.

He suggested a proposed constitutional amendment would require a state-wide election on every request from a junior college striving to be a four-year school.

Senator Moore will try again next session.

"I think this will be the answer to this never-ending scramble to elevate junior colleges to four-year colleges," he said.

"College presidents would think twice before they saddled voters of Texas with the expense of a statewide election to give their colleges four-year status," he added.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Political and Legislative history has been written in the 59th lawmaking session just ended.

Highlights:
● A $3,600,000,000 budget providing for expanded services in every area of state government and affecting every citizen.

● Record improvements in higher education, including creation of the powerful coordinating board for Texas colleges and universities.

● A $101,000,000 salary raise for school teachers, $70 million of which will be paid by the state.

● A sweeping overhaul in the entire system of state mental hospital and tuberculosis control administration.

● Major public welfare expansions, including a proposed constitutional amendment to permit full state participation in the new federal medical care program for the aged, blind and disabled. A provision of the amendment would qualify non-citizens who have lived in the state for 25 years or more.

● Overhaul and extension of the state's program for water control and development.

● Congressional and legislative redistricting which will change the makeup and complexion of future legislatures, shifting the balance of power from rural to urban areas.

● If voters approve proposed constitutional amendments, the Senate will be enlarged from 31 to 39 members and terms of the governor and other statewide-elected officials now limited to two years, as well as those of state representatives, will be extended to four years.

Gov. John Connally emerged as the most powerful governor in modern Texas history.

WHAT IT WILL COST—Despite its record achievements, the 59th session handed a relatively-modest tax bill to Texas citizens.

Cigarette smokers will bear virtually the entire share of the cost. Tax was increased from eight to 11 cents a pack—the nation's highest state rate. This bill will raise $70 million to $73,400,000 in new money during the coming biennium.

A one-time gain of $6 million will be achieved by setting of a 15 months-from-date-of-death limitation on payment of the inheritance tax.

Teacher pay raise also will require financing at the local level. Present estimate is that the owner of a $15,000 home will pay $2.52 more in annual property taxes to school districts.

BILLS PASSED—Among the new laws passed during the final days of the regular session of the 59th Legislature were:

● Continuation of the Bay Study Committee, which is concentrating on the problems of water pollution;

● Regulation of the taking and processing of oysters and other shellfish for sale;

● Creation of Permian State College, if higher education coordinating board approves, at Odessa;

● Asking members of Congress from Texas to vote for keeping the section of the Taft-Hartley Law which permits Texas to outlaw closed union shops;

● Prohibition of the use of .22 caliber rimfire ammunition to hunt deer, elk, antelope and wild sheep in counties not regulated by the Parke and Wildlife Commission;

● Prevention of city councils from making residence within the city limits a condition of employment;

● Legalization of free games

on pinball machines;

● Requirement for testing of all babies in Texas for phenylketonuria (PKU), an inborn error in system which, if uncorrected, causes brain damage;

● Parents liability up to $5,000 for malicious and wanton damage by their children.

MIGRANT PROGRAM PROPOSED—Governor Connally's office of Economic Opportunity made application for $5,400,000 in federal funds under Economic Opportunity Act for massive program of assistance to state's 128,000 migrants.

Program seeks $3,200,000 to extend special six-months' intensive schools for migrant children from 10 districts to 40.

A $1,100,000 component would start adult basic education, homemaking training and occupational training in communities with large numbers of migrants.

Texas OEO also proposes to build and staff, for $735,050, five rest stops for migrants.

A tuberculosis screening and testing project would cost $302,665. It calls for six regional offices in South Texas.

Texas Employment Commission and Texas Education Agency plan to retrain and relocate migrants into permanent jobs in West Texas. An application for $205,626 will place Texas OEO in a coordinating position with respect to housing requirements and allow it to work with local community officials in a program of community relations while migrants are in school.

Day care in migrant labor camps is planned at cost of $100,858. A $60,110 allocation would enable Texas State Library to engage in a pilot project for services to migrants in labor camps.

Governor also announced—State Department of Parks and Wildlife expects to employ 427 youths during summer in a park maintenance program under a $193,891 federal grant from Neighborhood Youth Corps.

WOMEN'S JOB CORPS CENTER PROPOSED—McKinney

Veterans Hospital would be used as a women's job corps center, if application of Texas Education Agency is granted.

Request was made contingent on closing of the hospital facility. However, Congressman Ray Roberts of McKinney is appealing decision to close the hospital.

Application calls for center with initial 600 enrollees and a staff of 275.

A grant of $3,600,000 is sought for program beginning August 1, with average participation of 500 enrollees per month.

Hospital has 100 acres of land and 100 buildings.

PRESS RIGHT UPHELD—A conference committee report on the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which contained the nation's toughest restrictions on pre-trial news coverage, was rejected.

Revised information restriction states:

"It is the duty of the trial court, the attorney representing the state, the attorney representing the accused, and all peace officers to so conduct themselves as to assure to the defendant a fair trial upon presumption of innocence and at the same time afford the public the benefits of a free press."

A legislative resolution directs a study in the area of information on pre-trial activities.

NEW COLLEGES ASKED—Petitions have been submitted to the State Board of Education for creation of new junior colleges in Scurry, Bee, Maverick, Tarrant and McLennan counties. Board has set hearings on the petitions for June 5.

Increase in applications is believed due to more state and federal aid to junior colleges and requests by the Legislature that junior colleges undertake expanded programs in academic and technical-vocational fields.

Members of the San Antonio delegation, meanwhile, obtained adoption of a resolution which asks the new Coordinating board Texas State College and University system—to be organized in September—to study the need and feasibility for a four-year institution in Bexar County and report to the next Legislature in January of 1967.

SHORT SNORTS—President Johnson was a legislative visitor for the unveiling of his portrait on the east wall of the State Senate Chamber.

A filibuster by Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan during the critical final days of the session kept from passage a bill by Sen. Andy Rogers of Childress, which would have directed the Texas A&M University regents to turn down applications for admission by women, other than members of the families of faculty students and women who want to take courses not offered elsewhere.

How to make your next raise a little bigger

After you take your wife out to celebrate your new raise, start putting the rest of it toward the purchase of Bonds. That way you'll keep on celebrating for a long time.

If you put some of those extra dollars to work before you get used to having them around, you'll never miss 'em. And that's the painless way to save!

With Bonds, you get a guaranteed rate of interest—3¾% if you hold them to maturity—so you're holding a worry-free investment.

Savings Bonds are free from state and local income tax, too. And you can even defer the federal tax until you cash your Bonds.

While you're building for a better future for your family, you're also helping your country spread a little freedom around where it might not have been yesterday.

So before you spend your raise, make it a little bigger instead with U. S. Savings Bonds. Like millions of Americans, you'll be mighty glad you did.

Life Expectancy Now Over 70 Years

Ours is a changing world. People are living longer, moving closer together and facing the problems these conditions create, so claims a recent report by J. E. Peavy, M.D., Commissioner of Health.

The life expectancy for most Texans is just over 70 years. Retirement may come anywhere between 50 and 70 years of age.

What will a person do after retirement? Will he continue to live where he is or move closer to the children? What purpose will he—or she—have for life?

Reflecting his concern, Governor John Connally set aside a month as Senior Citizen's Month. This will be in May each year.

Living in a modern world calls for change and adaptation. One of the first major changes occurs when a youngster becomes a man or woman and enters into marriage.

As people live longer, retirement brings about major change, perhaps the one least prepared for or expected.

With one-third of the Texas population over 40 years old, an ever-growing percentage of the population faces the possibility of retirement in the years ahead.

Some time ago, Gov. Connally designated a committee on aging. As a result, a state-wide program is in progress with a number of local programs assisted by the Governor's committee.

Health-wise, the Texas State Department of Health has some advice, particularly for people in this segment of the population.

As a cardinal rule, have regular physical checkups, even if you are feeling fine.

Your doctor can help avoid many a pitfall by advising you about diet and proper exercise. He alone can tell you which aches and pains should be disregarded or simply lived with, and which ones should be treated.

As your years increase, there is no reason to assume you will become physically and mentally decrepit, but it is wise to take all reasonable steps to stay healthy.

Whatever your age, you'll adapt more readily to a changing world if you are physically fit.

SS Representative Will Be Here June 9

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be in Knox City at the city hall on Wednesday, June 9, from 10 a.m. until Noon.

You are invited to meet with the representative to file your claim or to obtain information or assistance concerning Social Security.

When you put on Christ you throw off the old evil nature that part of you that is full of lust and shame. The attitude and thoughts must change, you must become a different person holy and good; clothed with a new nature. You stop lying to each other. Lying not only hurts others but yourself. Tell the truth, it is Powerful.

Christ gives you special abilities, whatever He wants you to have out of his rich storehouse of gifts. Yes, everything else is worthless when compared with the priceless gain of the knowledge of Christ Jesus our Lord.

Star-spangled security

The millions of Americans who buy U. S. Savings Bonds know security is a two-way street.

You and your family are only as secure as the country you live in. When you start saving with U. S. Bonds you insure your own future and help keep your country strong at the same time.

Bonds give you a guaranteed rate of interest — 3 3/4% when held to maturity — so you don't have to worry about the ups and downs of market trends.

And Savings Bonds aren't subject to state or local income taxes, either. If you like, you can defer the federal income tax until you cash your Bonds.

When you buy your Bonds you can't help feeling a little proud.

You're doing your part in strengthening the cause of freedom. And that's the best security in the world.

FARM and RANCH Notes

JOE W. DOBY
COUNTY AGRICULTURAL AGENT

Showers are prolonging the wheat harvest in Knox County this year. While the moisture is always welcome, it has been the cause of much replanting of cotton, as well as a good crop of careless weeds. This looks like a good year to have used chemical weed control.

We have observed several fields that have been treated and the cotton planted on the bed. It appears to be making good growth thus far. It would have probably drowned out in many places had these fields been planted in the furrow.

Wheat yields are not as high as many farmers expected when harvest began. We think rust damaged wheat this year more than many people realized. It can lower yields by weakening the plant so that it does not send up as many heads as it would otherwise. It can cause a lower test weight by damaging the food manufacturing part of the plant, namely the leaf. Rust caused a plant to transpire more moisture through the leaf into the air.

Cantaloupes and watermelons have been making slow growth this year as have most vegetables. Potatoes have made an exceptionally large growth of vines this year. This may indicate there isn't much underneath the ground. Cherokees, in particular, have made the largest growth they have ever made since their introduction into the commercial crop. Potato harvest is expected to start about June 15.

Official rainfall for the year in Benjamin totals 8.66 inches through May 31. Rainfall for May totaled 3.42 inches. There were 10 showers this month with the largest being .52 inches. This means it has all gone into the ground with very little runoff.

It should be a good year for the ranchers. Prospects are excellent for a big hay crop. Many fields are planted to sudan and sorghum-sudan crosses to be cut for hay.

Deffered grazing is one of the best practices a rancher can use to improve the condition of his ranges. There are several systems that can be used. The switch-back using one herd on two pastures switching every four months is one example.

Another is the four pasture system using three herds, switching every four months, leaving one pasture empty. This four month rest comes at a different time each year so different grasses will seed during the rest period.

This four-pasture system is coming to the front in the Texas Experimental Ranch near Throckmorton. It was making more money last year and the grass is improving each year.

The continuous grazed pasture has been making more money in the Throckmorton work until last year.

Dr. Dub Waldrip, station manager, says that it takes several years to lower a ranges' productivity just as it takes several years to rebuild it. There isn't much doubt in looking at the continuous grazed pasture that the cattle are eating up the ranch's capital investment, while ones in the four-pasture system are living off the interest.

The fishing season is here and getting good worms for bait may be a problem. Any fisherman can solve the bait problem and at the same time cut fishing expenses with a backyard earthworm bed.

The earthworm bed should be located in a cool, shady place. The shade may be provided by trees, shrubs or vines or a permanent shed. The bed can vary in size from a tub two feet in diameter which should produce from 3,000 to 5,000 worms annually to an operation that will produce worms in commercial quantities.

We would offer these hints for a successful backyard operation. If a tub or half of an oil drum is used, a two-inch hole should be cut in the bottom to provide for proper drainage. A fine copper screen should be placed over the hole and secured with hot coal tar. Tub beds may be kept in the garage or buried in the ground. But leave about 4 inches of the tub above the ground to prevent surface water from flooding the worm bed.

Fill the tub to within four to six inches of the top with fine loam containing lots of humus or well decayed organic matter. Stock the bed with 50 to 100 worms of type desired. "Red wigglers" or "English redworms" are preferred by most fishermen. In 60 to 90 days after your seed stock begins to lay eggs, you should have mature worms and plenty of fish bait provided the worm bed has been kept moist and the worms fed.
