District School Maps Released

Supt. Ted Averitt announced this week that his office had received maps of the school districts of the states and counties, which were enclosed in a book explaining how the Governor's Committee of Public School Education (COPSE) would eliminate nearly 1,000 school districts and revise school financing.

The book shows how the number of school districts in the state would be reduced from 1,218 to 353, eliminating all but 19 of the present 662 districts with less than 500 pupils.

COPSE recommends that 219 counties should have but a single school district. Castro County falls into this category. Whereas there are now six school districts in the county, the committee is recommending that they be consolidated into one.

The general guideline for arriving at this conclusion was that every district have at least 2,600 children in 12-grade system. Exceptions would be countywide (or larger) districts with at least 1,600 pupils, sparse area districts, covering at least a county with less than 1,600 pupils and special purpose districts, such as those run by military bases and those for mentally retarded children.

The committee proposed that the legislature adopt its map of school district realignment, provided that the state board of education name a school district reorganization study committee in each county.

The study committee would be chosen from a group of 8 men nominated by a meeting of officials in the present school district.

Five of the men would then further study the plan or re-districting and offer alternate plans if the plans of the governor's committee was unacceptable to the county school districts.

Surveys of legislators indicate the proposed reduction of school districts and new formulas for computing state and local shares of school costs will meet considerable resistance in the 1969 legislature.

COPSE computed school costs for each district, based on equalizing taxes, for 1969-70 and 1970-71. Estimated increases for 1969-70 are based mainly on proposed salary increases for teachers, including a $666 raise for bachelor degree teachers with no experience.

The estimates for 1970-71 include a proposed teacher sick leave plan, a 10-month salary schedule for teachers, teacher aides and a $1 per pupil allowance for instructional materials.

If local burdens for schools were equalized this school year, the Hart Independent School District would be paying approximately $30,000 more than at the present time.

For the 1967-68 school year, the local share of the education program was $52,000 with the state supplying $171,400 of the needed $223,000.

Under the proposed plan of assessing taxes on market value of property, the local burden will be $81,900 for the school year of 1969-70.

Fort Worth Stock Show Gets Two Hart Entries

Cindy and Dennis Hill of Hart will have Aberdeen Angus and Hereford Cattle competing in the 1969 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, Jan. 24 through Feb. 2.

The entry deadline for cattle, horses, sheep and swine has just passed, and Stock Show President-Manager W.

R. Watt and other officials are in the midst of tabulating the mound of entries.

Poultry, rabbit and pigeon exhibitors have until Jan. 15 to submit their entries.

"We've still got a lot of work to do," Watt said, "But so far it looks like we have some outstanding entries and are headed for another excellent show."

The 1969 Fort Worth Rodeo is proud to have Fess Parker, star of the "Daniel Boone" television series, as its guest performer, Watt said. Parker, also noted for his hit recordings of "Davy Crockett" and "Wrangle Wrangle," will be accompanied by the New Establishment musical group.

The Six-Horse Roman Ride and Olson's Trained Buffalo also will be presented at all 20 performances, making the Stock Show an even greater entertainment package.

The Fort Worth Rodeo is well-prepared on the competitive side, too with more than 450 cowboys scheduled to go all-out for a share of the purse exceeding $75,000.00. Tough stock to match their efforts will be provided by Tommy Steiner and Associates.

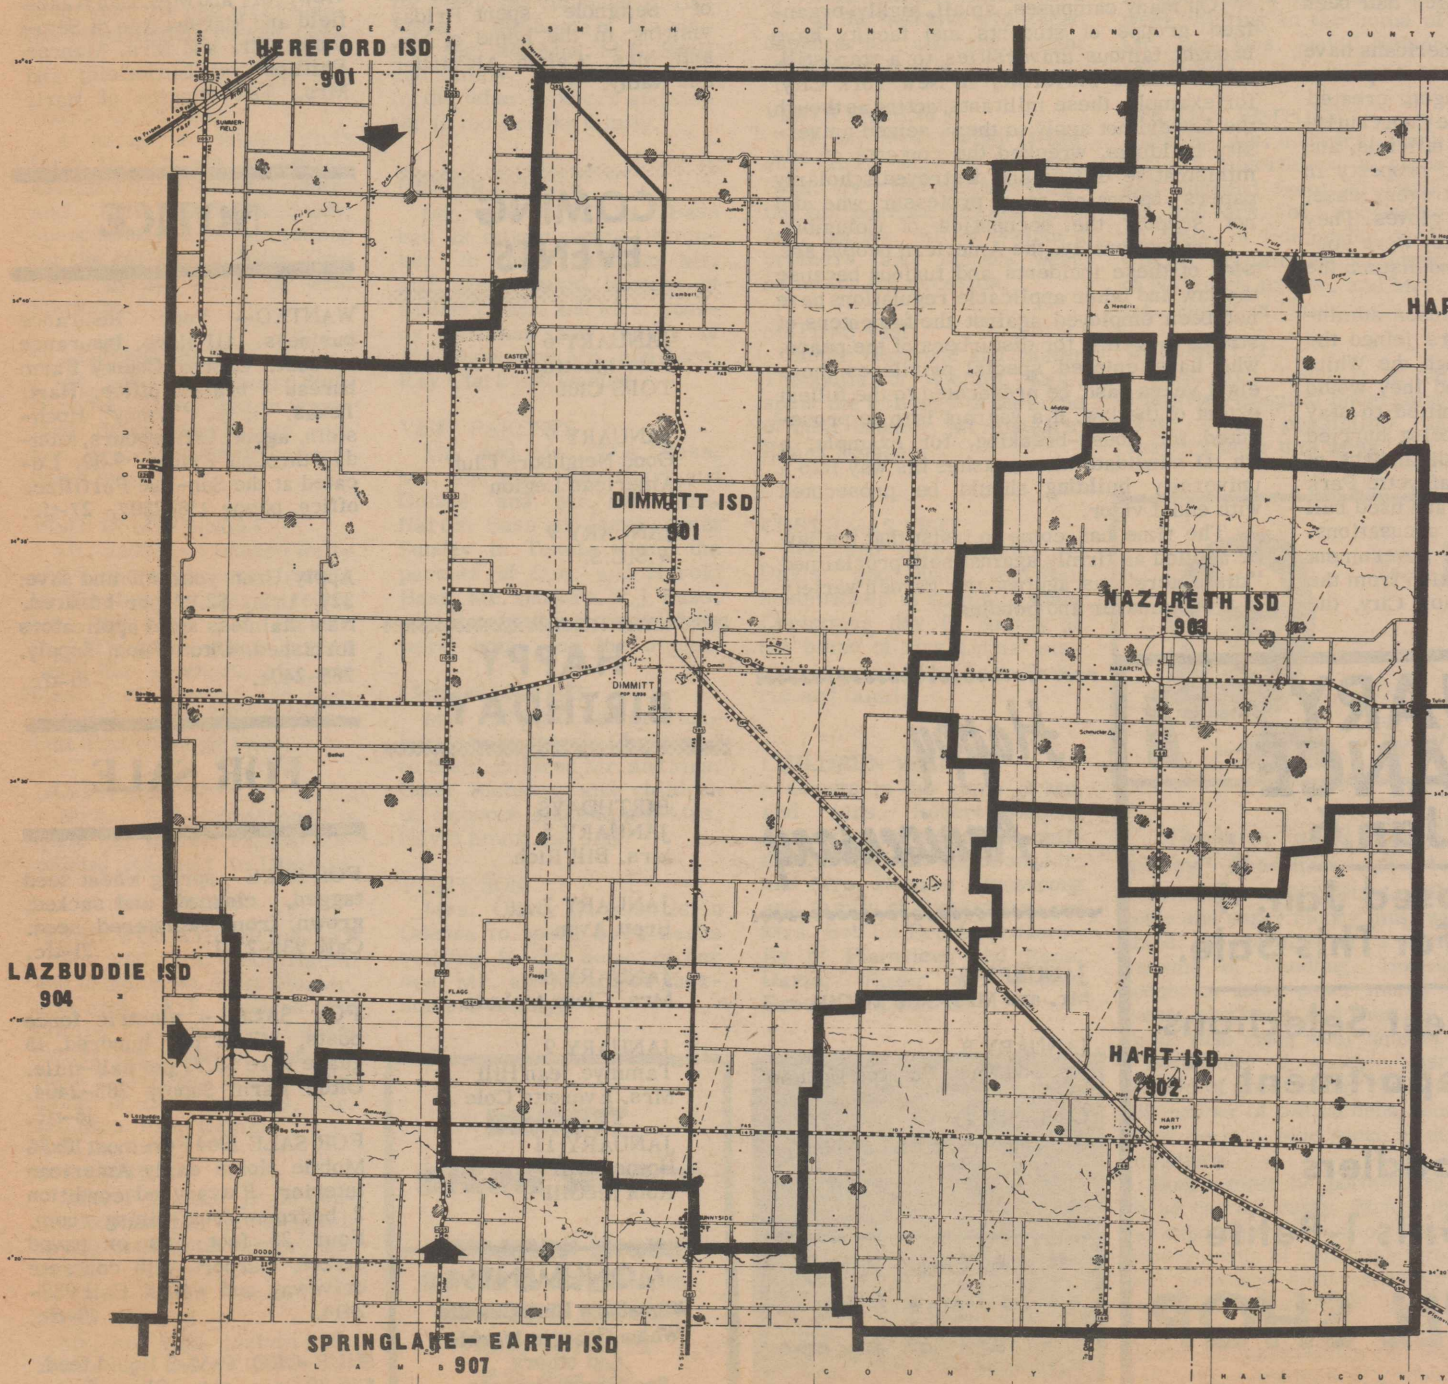

Mail order tickets for the 1969 Rodeo are available from the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, P.O. Box 150, Fort Worth, Texas 76101.

GUEST EDITORIAL

One of the basic principles of American government is equality under the law. Unfortunately, this principle has been gravely eroded in the last eight years. One of the most important tasks awaiting Richard Nixon, when he takes office, is restoring this principle to a place of primacy in the government's operations.

In times past, it was understood that everyone had to obey the laws, irrespective of his place in society. But over the years certain groups have been given special privileges. They have come to enjoy exemption from many of the duties and responsibilities the majority of citizens have to accept.

The ordinary tourist, visiting the nation's capital, has to obey all the U. S. laws and district regulations. He can't litter lawns and parks in the District of Columbia. He can't shout and raise a commotion in the Capitol or the Supreme Court building. Most assuredly, he can't bed down in the doorways of the Pentagon or build camp fires outside the Mall entrance to the headquarters of the Defense Department. If the ordinary citizen attempted any of these illegal acts, he would be promptly arrested and whisked off to jail. No battery of "civil rights" lawyers would suddenly appear to bail him out and to claim that his constitutional privileges had been denied to him.

Yet a small minority of Americans have engaged in these similar acts with impunity. They have stormed the Pentagon, created mob scenes outside the Supreme Court building, screamed abuse at elected officials, and set up encampments on public property in the nation's capital. In almost every case, they have been handled with kid gloves. They have been treated as though they were specially privileged to run riot and disturb the peace.

At one point during the Johnson administration, a group of protestors joined the line of tourists moving through the White House, and suddenly announced they would hold a sit-in. They were permitted to stay there many hours instead of being hurried out to a paddy wagon. Other disturbers of the peace illegally occupied Lafayette Park across from the White House and used bull horns to amplify their ugly accusations.

Only a few weeks ago, the government announced that it sought reparation from the people who set up Resurrection City, the grubby shack encampment on the banks of the Potomac. The planners of this protest arrogantly announced that instead of paying the bill to the government, they expected to send a bill to Uncle Sam.

In New York City, demonstrators have sprawled in the reception rooms of City Hall. In Chicago, other demonstrators have marched around the home of the mayor in the middle of the night, disturbing the neighborhood. In San Francisco, a small group of so-called Black Panthers have disrupted education at San Francisco State College.

These are among the most conspicuous examples of exemption from the law, but there are many, many others. In innumerable maritime strikes, small contingents of unionists have shut down port operations in many seacoast cities, crippling ocean commerce and hurting U. S. businesses and working people nationwide. In New Jersey and other states, militant dairy farmers, protesting milk prices, have turned over milk trucks and engaged in other acts of hoodlumism. In California, a small number of unionists in grape-growing areas have organized a nationwide boycott, damaging the interests of the growers and stores that sell California grapes in many states. In Memphis, Tenn., a strike by garbage men created terrible turmoil.

On many campuses, small, highly-organized groups of students and faculty have brought famous universities to a standstill. At Columbia University in New York City, for example, these militants, acting as though the law did not apply to them, seized university buildings, wrecked the contents of administrative offices and destroyed scholarly papers belonging to a professor who did not support the occupation of Columbia.

Unquestionably, the American people are sick of these incidents and furious because the law and other applicable regulations have not been employed against the fomenters of strife. It is time for disturbers of the peace, who have enjoyed special privileges these eight years past, be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. If a vagrant is to be prosecuted for house-breaking, for example, a Ph. D candidate who smashes his way into a university building should be prosecuted with equal vigor.

The time has come to insist that the law be applied as firmly against self-proclaimed "dissenters" as against the garden variety of troublemaker and hoodlum.

KITCHEN KORNER

By Lela Gallion

From the sounds of the ones I have talked to everyone had a very nice Holiday with some of their loved ones coming to help celebrate the festive occasion with them. I also hope that all of you have a very Happy New Year all year long.

The cold weather has really hit us the first part of this week and with so much flu and sickness around, it certainly pays to take good care of yourself and that means a well balanced diet with lots of fruit and citrus juices included. If it is hard to get the youngsters to drink juices try using juice and plain gelatin and make a salad. Sometimes they will eat it when they will not drink it, especially if you tell them it is good for them. I guess they are like so many of us grownups if someone tells us something is good for us we rebel and only hurt ourselves.

This little poem is almost like a new year's resolution:
Time is a gift
Twenty-four shining hours,
A new start each day
Please use it wisely:
Don't fritter it away

Moments Of Meditation

C. T. Cunningham, pastor of First Baptist Church

1969 is here. What the New Year will bring forth is yet to be seen. But it will probably be like most of the years in the past, just about what we make it. Life is like that. We cause most of our own problems ourselves. The person who gives us the most trouble is ourselves. The big I. Of course, it is not what happens to us in life that makes or breaks. How we react to a problem or a conflict tells what we are really made of. Our reactions to a crisis will give us away every time. 1969 will have crises, problems, conflicts and uncertainties. But this is an opportunity to face, solve and conquer.

James A. Francis in his, "One Solitary Life", has given us a goal and a challenge for all the future years.

"Here is a man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter's shop until he was thirty, and then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never owned a home. He never had a family. He never went to college. He never put his foot inside a big city. He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where he was born. He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness. He had no credentials but himself. He had nothing to do with this world except the power of His divine manhood."

"While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them denied Him. He was turned over to His enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. His executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth while He was dying -- and that was His coat. When He was dead He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend."

"Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone and today He is the centerpiece of the human race and the leader of the column of progress."

"I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that ever were built, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully as has that One Solitary Life".

Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

The term "good money" may sound confusing, but "good money" does have definite characteristics.

Durability is important. Both coins and paper money must withstand the ravages of a certain amount of handling. However, sooner or later paper money becomes shopworn and must be retired. Also coins wear smooth.

Divisibility is another characteristic of good money. To permit all manner of transactions, money must be in a wide range of denominations.

Money must be portable so as to be carried easily. Money must be expandable so as to meet the requirements of population growth and increased business activities.

Stability is a highly important characteristic of good money, to assure its maintenance and acceptance as a medium of exchange. Uniformity of value is another important consideration of good money.
