With the tornado season in full swing - and Tuesday's clouds left little doubt that it is - Hart residents are reminded of the signals and their meanings.

One long continuous ringing of the siren indicates a tornado is approaching the city and residents should TAKE COVER.

Three blasts of the siren warn residents that a tornado is in the area and precautions should be taken for the POSSIBILITY of a tornado.

The regular alarms, used for the fire department, are two blasts to remind volunteer firemen of a fire meeting. Four blasts, or more, indicate a fire.

"My Father, which gave them to me, it is greater than all and no man is able to pluck them out of my Fathers hand."

We, all the Jacks family, would like to use this verse from God's word to say thanks to all our friends and loved ones who took so much off our burdens and sorrow and their help to us through it all. We know that when God gives us friends, like we have, no one can take them away from us.

And only God can put in words what we feel in our hearts for you all. We will always be thinking of each of you. Speaking for all the Jacks family and myself, I ask God to let you know how we all feel.

The Jacks family and Homer Inscore

We are grateful to each of you, for your prayers, calls, visits, cards, flowers, and food, in our times of sorrow during the death of our grandson and brother. To know you care, makes our sorrow easier to bear. May God bless each of you.

Senior Class Will

We, the Senior class of 1969 after four years in Hart High School, still being of unsound mind, do hereby make, publish and declare this to be our last will and testament in Hart High School hereby revoking all former wills made by us when being of sound mind. To the fish we will our vacant desks and our left-over books, to the sophomores, our dignified ways, and to the Juniors, our profound sympathy.

To Frances Cunningham, Meitzie Kennedy wills her ability to meet new boys at the skating rink. May your senior year be one big roller derby.

Jackie Fincher wills his shorthand speed to Debbie Roberts. He hopes you can write it a little shorter a little faster.

To Ann Hood, Ina Featherston wills her little girl innocence willed to her last year (that is, what's left over).

Yolanda Gonzalez wills her artistic ability to Doris Bennight. Yolanda is tired of it.

To Carol Sharp, Linda Bailey wills her "Quiet laugh" and happy disposition because Carol NEVER smiles.

San Juana Garcia wills her muscled arm and softball skill to Vicki Six. Sock it to us, Vicki!

Phil Davis wills to all the Junior class boys his general knowledge of girls. But before you start putting it into practice, better do a littler further research. Phil's resources are limited.

Charles Bass wills his ability to cope with peanut butter sandwiches and steel-mouths to Rex Henderson, but we figure he'll learn how despite this will.

To Paula Harris, Brenda Armstrong wills her American History grades - but don't bring them up too much -you'll ruin them! Dixie Irons wills Rodger Kennedy a can of OUT to put out the fires he starts with his shorthand speed.

To Delores Rodriguez, Elodia Castillo wills her fainting ability in PE and to Paula Harris, her height.

Richard Murray wills his Tarzan suit to David Moses and to Andy Rogers his fortune to catch what he's hunting on Sunday afternoons.

Ronnie "Caruso" Barham wills his deep bass voice and singing ability to Doug Heck.

Also to Doug, Lewis Heck, his brother, gives his great ability to luck out and pass the senior year because Doug seems to need it.

Sandra Lacy wills her love for track and her running agility to Carol Sharp. We'll let you run it like you want to even if Coach Burns won't.

Joe Quiroz wills his knowledge of fairy-talk so he can talk to fairies and to the people that make their home at the bottom of the telephone poles to "Honest John" Kropp.

To Jesse Hernandez, Oscar Morales wills his bottom locker so he can hurt his head. If you don't believe it - remember the point Oscar used to have on his head?

Jan Averitt wills to Pam Shive her title of "B-team leader" (or is it clown, Coach Burns?)

Nanci Reed wills to Harold Bob Bennett a comb and brush for his victims during breaks. It seems their hair is mussed constantly.

Rebecca Futrell wills her ability to be in class every time on time to Mike Armstrong.

To Rex Henderson, Bob Waide wills his harmonizing ability of singing with Harold Bob.

Tony Martinez wills his yellow raincoat and tricycle to Terry Newman.

Tony Miller wills his physique to Danny Smith. By the way, have you tried playing football, Danny?

Tommy McLain wills to Rex Henderson his ability to play post. But we don't know if he means fence post or what!

To Donnie Burress, Jim Steiert wills his state essay on "Conservation". Wouldn't it be nice to have statewinning essays two years in a row?

Gary Cole wills his love of long hair and cat-daddy music to Bill Bledsoe. By the way, the cat-daddy music he means is "I've got a Tiger by the Tail."

Gary Rambo wills his knowledge of Algebra II to Jerry Heller. OR should it be the other way around?

Cathy Sharp wills her long legs and not so small footsies to Quincy Hawkins; now, Quincy, maybe the other boys will let you play.

Shirley Robinson wills her gum to Luis Longoria. Luis, you'll find MOST of it under her desh in the English room.

Margaret Swindle wills her job of collecting locals to Graciell Cantano but it doesn't pay in money like collecting trash, Graciell.

To Ricky Mitchell, Bobbie Ethridge wills her sense of humor in chemistry. SO, next year in Chemistry you can keep the other students happy.

Steven Hanes wills his "ability to have fun" to Jerry Davis.

Ricky Bennett wills his "quick" way of writing themes to Don Sanders. I'll bet you have a hard time finding a typewriter just exactly like Ricky's won't he, Rick?

To Jackie Roberts, Reba English wills her quiet disposition. Disposition of what we can't tell, but you can do with it what you want.

Iona Clevenger wills her ability to write Longhorn Trails and get it in on time to Donnie Black. NOW let's hear you gripe about it.

Jimmy Allensworth wills to the entire Junior boy delegation the gumption and common sense to stay awake during the Senior, Junior or any other play as far as that's concerned. Or are your mothers still making you boys take naps?

The entire Senior Class wills to the entire Junior Class their mature attitudes because you Juniors can't seem to get the hang of it.

"Section 49-d-1. (a) In addition to Texas Water Development Bonds heretofore authorized to be issued by Sections 49-c and 49-d of Article III of the Constitution, the Texas Water Development Board is hereby authorized to issue $3,500,000,000 in aggregate principal amount of bonds. ## Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

The Director of the Mint is responsible for the selection of coin designs. These designs are subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

When a new coin is to be designed, many employees of the Mint submit entries. Anyone who wishes may compete.

The designs are first submitted on paper. The competition is stiff but the money awards are high for the winner.

But the real reward is in having won. Imagine the thrill of constantly seeing your own coin creation in circulation. It would have your signature on it. It would be a design that remains before the public for decades. Your coin would become a visual and immortal segment of history!

Moments OF Meditation

C. T. Cunningham, Pastor of The First Baptist Church

Betrothal and marriage occurred early in life in the Orient, and it is probable that Mary, the mother of our Lord, was a teen-ager at the time she gave birth to Jesus. Jewish families usually allowed a period of a year to intervene between betrothal and marriage, and although betrothed couples did not live together, they were nevertheless legally bound.

For a baby to be born during this interval between betrothal and marriage would naturally subject the mother to disgrace in the eyes of others, and we can well imagine Mary's embarrassment when she was informed that she was to give birth to a child. No matter that the birth was supernatural; her neighbors would not likely understand, and Mary fled to the hill country where her cousin Elizabeth lived.

I am sure that Mary had her periods of uncertainty and doubt - she would not have been human otherwise. But the song which she sang, once she realized the tremendous privilege that was hers, shows the simple faith with which she ultimately accepted the responsibility.

As a devout Jewess, Mary would be familiar with the words of Isaiah: "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given... Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son."

Maybe she also recalled the words of the same prophet: "He shall grow up as a tender plant, as a root out of the dry ground... despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief." As she listened to the words of the shepherds, and saw the gifts offered to her Child by the Magi, "she pondered them in her heart."

Then came the necessity to flee to the South for refuge from Herod - no easy journey for a young mother with a newborn babe. And then the return, and presentation of the child at the temple. Apparently the couple was poor, for, while the usual offering at such an occasion was a lamb, Mary and Joseph could afford only a pair of doves.

Parents, nowadays, throw up their hands in frustration when they try to understand their children, and Mary was no exception. Take the time Jesus' parents took him to Jerusalem, when he was twelve years old, or the years in the carpenter's shop. Then He leaves to commence his ministry. And then - the Cross! As she stands looking up at the poor, bleeding, suffering body, she wonders: Is this the end of all of my hopes? Yes, He had been rejected and despised of men, but surely this is an ultimate rejection - surely the Messiah could not end His life thus?

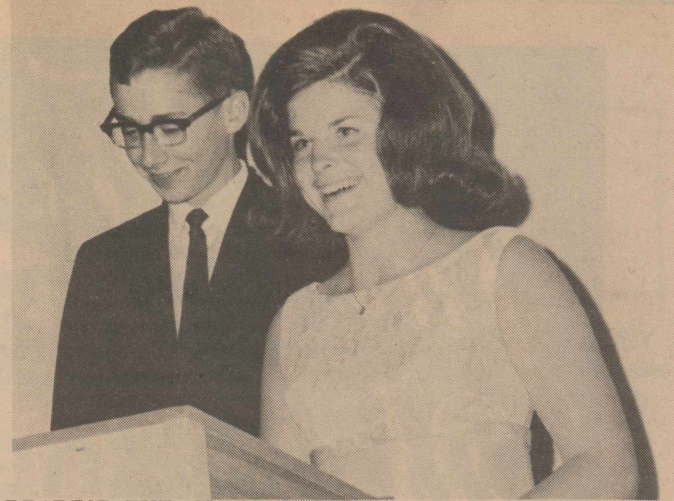

The last Biblical reference to Mary tells us that she was present with the 120 believers who gathered together after her Son's resurrection. At long last she understood.

When God selected Mary to be the mother of Jesus, He chose a woman of humble birth, a woman of no extraordinary talents and that is why Mary offers a challenge to every mother today. One might almost say that Mary was a "nobody!"

From Mary, mothers today may learn the value of taking time to "ponder," to try to understand the will of God, to continue the daily round of work within the home without complaint, to make an honest attempt to understand and help their children - and, when tragedy strikes, to put themselves in God's palm, and, finally, when final realization comes as to our reason for being, to unite with others in seeking to promote our mission - and His - on earth.

Just as God chose Mary for a particular task, He selects every mother with a very particular responsibility. Mother's Day is not a day for sloppy sentiments! It is a day when we honor the mother who fits the description of Proverbs 31: 25-29.

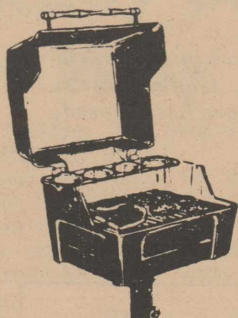

READING THE CLASS PROPHECY---Pam Shive and Jerry Heller read the future for the graduating senior class. There are some strange things in the future for some of the unsuspecting ones.

Who doesn't like to be remembered? It's natural to feel a certain glow when you receive a greeting card. It means that someone has thought of you, that someone cares.

Yet how foolish it would be for any of us to ever believe that we are alone or friendless. There is always Someone who cares, who cares very deeply . . . who cared enough to sacrifice His only Son for us.

At times we are all lonesome. Yet we are never really alone. There are few places in the world where we cannot, if we but look, find a church that will welcome us wholeheartedly. God's house is not like other houses. There is always room in it for one more. And when that one more has entered, there is room for yet another.
