Odd Bits Salvaged
At Random

We hope we never get away from them.

We mean those little local items—news of local people going to the Ice Capades, visiting relatives down state or out of state.

In our opinion, those little which we call "locals" are the very heart-throb of a country newspaper.

They're news about people you know and love, news of son or daughter coming home to spend Mother's Day or some special occasion with Dad and Mother.

They distinguish the weekly newspaper from the larger dailies—make it the paper you look forward to getting. Even though you may know practically everything there is in it, you still like to read about those people you know and love.

So, we hope we never get away from running them. We believe those little "locals" scattered about in the paper—make one page just about as important as another.

And, we think, they don't make the back page any more important as an advertising medium than any other page.

But some people prefer back page, some prefer page three, others just designate a right hand page for their ads. But the fact remains that we still must print the left-hand pages, too, and we must have some business on them, or go "busted."

But that's getting away from the locals. We appreciate those people who send them by mail, either by letter or by post card. But if relatives are visiting you, from out-of-town, please state where they're from.

Then, too, if you send us clippings from other newspapers, please let us know where the papers are printed.

So many times, we receive clippings of the weddings or deaths of former residents of this area. So many times, too, the clipping reads something like this: "Mr. John Doe of this city..." Then if we don't know which paper the item was clipped from we don't know what city "this city" is.

Including those little details will help us to get your news items more correctly. And we do like to have things correct, although we're continually kidded about the errors we make.

Which reminds us, the school board is running an ad this week about the crowded conditions of our schools and pointing out the fact that something must be done. If we don't do something about that we'll all be making an error.

The board isn't giving all the advertisement would be impossible—but the board just wants you to get to thinking and talking about some of the conditions in our schools that "Krumbs" pointed out last week.

Talk with your school board members, your teachers, those who are qualified to point out the needs in our schools.

Then the gruesome details will be brought out at mass meeting of interested citizens, taxpayers, school patrons, etc., which will be held later.

The mass meeting will be called pretty soon. Due notice will be given. The matter will be put to the people. Something must be done about our schools before another year.

We heard of any number of people who strongly predicted a good rain for the 19th of April. Last week, as the 19th arrived and departed, nothing of any consequence happened, except that General MacArthur made a jam-up good speech before Congress. And to the memory of the barracks balad "Old Soldiers Fade Away," the General (Continued on last page)

The seniors, who boast Scotty Ponder and a number of last year's string boys, are picked to win, but the game will be an interesting one and will reveal some of the material the Moguls have for next fall's team.

The public is cordially invited to attend the game, which will begin at 8 p. m.

An inter-squad game, closing out three weeks of spring training, was scheduled for the Moguls at 3:30 today (Thursday).

Wheat Harvest Festival Set At Wichita Falls

The people of the Munday area are especially invited to attend the gigantic National Wheat Harvest Festival May 14-19 in Wichita Falls, J. Paul Montgomery, festival chairman, has announced.

The Chamber of Commerce here has already received an invitation to help select a princess to compete for a fantastic list of prizes.

The festival is held annually to celebrate the beginning of the national wheat harvest, a harvest which will be especially important this year.

Festival attractions will include the annual queen coronation, conducted by a leading Hollywood movie celebrity; Jack McElroy, star of "Welcome to Hollywood" on a national network; two nights of square dancing, the biggest parade ever seen in North Texas, six days and nights of carnival, and many others.

Secretary of Navy Francis Matthews will speak following the parade on Saturday—Armed Forces Day.

Thousands of persons from throughout North Texas and Southern Oklahoma will converge on Wichita Falls for the big six-day celebration, Montgomery said.

Oil Activities

Thomas D. Humphrey of Dallas was preparing early this week to put on pump his No. 1 Mrs. Mattie Davis, southwestern Knox County wildcat eight miles west of Knox City. The prospective discovery was shot with 40 quarts of nitro in the Strawn from 5,120 to 5,134 feet with no report on tests after shot.

Saves Wrappers For Scout Hut

Wrappers from Meadowlake Margarine are to be used in the construction of the new Boy Scout hut in Munday.

The wrappers won't actually go into the building, but the money they brought will.

Bobby Cude, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cude, began saving these wrappers some time ago. A few of his buddies and fellow Scouts aided him, but the work in the main was that of Bobby.

He collected a total of 382 margarine wrappers, and for these he received a check for $19.10. Bobby authorized this check to be made to the Munday troop of Boy Scouts with the money being used in the building fund.

Plans for the new structure, a 20x40 rock building, are now in the hands of J. Weldon Smith, chairman of the building committee. It is hoped to soon begin construction on the building.

The Community Development Association contributed $650 toward the building, and the Boy Scout troop committee authorized the use of $500 from Scout funds. Bobby's contribution of $19.10 brings the fund to $1,169.10.

Library Adds Children's Books

The Public Library has again received some new books for children. Just week before last three new books were received, while this week four new ones are being added.

The legend of Rip Van Winkle and Sleepy Hollow. Both written by Washington Irving and illustrated by Marid and Misha Petersham. They are still the same stories but are in one volume. In order to give these imaginative stories credence, the author tells that he found them among the papers of the legendary Diederich Knickerbocher, an old gentleman of old New York, who was uncommonly interested in Dutch history of the province and the descendants of its early settlers.

The Princess and the Goblin is written by George MacDonald and illustrated by Nort Unwin. This book is a story of Princess Irine, a lonesome girl who lived in her castle, on a mountainside, and how a ball, which her fairy godmother spun the thread for a magic lead to many adventures with the goblins, and her good friend, the brave Curdie.

Let Them Live, is written and illustrated by Dorothy P. Lathrop. This book combines a love and understanding of animals with a scientific knowledge of just how every creature contributes to the interdependence of all life on earth, and the author shares an unusually sympathetic understanding of their lives and habits and their place in the world's plan.

Dollar For Luck, is about Young Ben Philbrooks, who was particularly interested and excited about the coming of the "store boat" to the coast town where he lived. On one of these visits, he meets Emily, an orphan child, which the owner had on board to help them, and he wonders why she does not enjoy her good fortune. It is the theft of some merchandise and the lucky dollar off the mast, that starts a series that eventually brings about this happy result.

TO HOLD SILVER TEA

The Wesleyan Service Guild of Knox City will have a silver tea on Wednesday evening, at the Methodist Church in Knox City. A good book review will be given, and everyone is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nelson and Carolyn of Fort Worth visited in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Yeager. They also attended the 63rd wedding anniversary of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sitton, in Rule Sunday. A very large crowd of friends and relatives were present for this occasion.

The Munday chapter of Future Farmers of America held their annual project show here on Saturday, April 21, which was sponsored by the Munday C. D. A. Many people commented on the show, declaring it the best project show ever held in Munday.

More people showed interest in the show. Perhaps the weather had something to do with it. It was a nice sun-shiny day, following a nice rain that came Friday evening. The rain put people in a better mood, so they came out and watched the show.

Among the projects shown were 14 Hereford dry lot fed calves, 6 fat barrows, 8 breeding Duroc Jersey gilts; one registered Duroc junior boar; three senior cows, one sow with litter of eight pigs, two registered Jersey heifers, two registered Jersey cows, one beef heifer and one young Angus bull; 12 pens of five broilers, eight pens of five fryers and one pen of five laying hens.

Homer Lowrance and his League Ranch Hereford steer won grand champion award. He received a $50 premium from the CDA, at $25 savings bond from Western Cottonoll Co. of Munday and is to receive $25 from the Kimbell Milling Co. for using their feed as supplement.

Homer Edrington won reserve champion with his Hereford steer and received as premiums $40 from the CDA and $25 bond from the Western Cottonoll Co.

Third place was won by Homer Edrington, with his other Hereford steer. Fourth place went to Gerald Myers, who received $20. Other places and premiums follow:

Fifth, Melburn Johnston, $19; sixth, John King, $18; seventh, Bobby Lawrence, $17; eighth, John King, $16; ninth, Bobby Lawrence, $15; tenth, Dick Ponder, $11; 14th, Walter Owens, $10; 15th, Gene Haney, $9.

Edwin Quintero won first black with both his beef heifer and bull.

Bobby Lawrence won grand champion premiums on both his Jersey dairy cow and dairy heifer, being $20 each.

Gerald Myers received reserve champion award of $10 for his Jersey cow, one Norman Gaines won reserve champion of $10 on his Jersey dairy heifer.

Many people remarked that Bobby's Lawrence's Jersey cow was one of the best they had ever seen. She is out of the C. A. Thomas herd of Weinert. The grand champion heifer was the first calf of this show, and she now had her second calf, which is also a heifer. Bobby shows signs of getting into the dairy business.

Joe Lynn Phillips won grand champion, reserve champion, third, fourth and fifth places on his fat barrows, with premiums of $15, $10, $9, $8 and $7.

Gary Offutt won grand champion breeding gilt prize of $15. Reserve premium of $10 went to Walter Owens; third to Stanley Wardlaw, $9; fourth, Larry Don'Lain, $8; fifth, Hlrnn D. Henson, $7; sixth, Joe Lynn Phillips, $6; seventh, Homer Edrington, $6, and eighth, Roy Voyles, $4.

Billy Henson won grand champion with his senior Hampshire sow and reserve champion with his Duroc Jersey sow, receiving $15 and $10. Third prize of $9 went to Joe Lynn Phillips. Billy Henson also won first prize of $5 with his sow and litter, and Glenn D. Henson's boar took first prize of $5.

Winners of the broiler premiums are: grand champion, $8; Stanley Wardlaw; reserve champion, $7, Wilburn Johnston; third, $6, Bobby Killian; fourth, $5; J. W. Inman; fifth, $4, Dicky Ponder, 6th, $3, Junior Howeth; 7th, $2, Glenn D. Henson; 8th, $2, Kenneth Hendrix; 9th, $2, Omer Yarbrough; 10th, $2, Leon Johnston; 11th, $2, Fred Lang; 12th, $2, Gary Offutt.

lums are: grand champion, $8; J. W. Inman; reserve champion, $7, Stanley Wardlaw; third, $6, Melburn Johnston, fourth, $5, Dicky Ponder; fifth, $4, Kenneth Hendrix; sixth, $3, Junior Howeth; seventh, $2, Glenn D. Henson; eighth, $2, Gary Offutt. Homer Edrington won the showmanship award of $5.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own!

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

QUINCY, MASS., PATRIOT LEDGER: "For centuries the world has sought the amelioration of its evils, maladjustments and misfortunes, physical and spiritual, through transitory and worldly remedies. But the real, the spiritual solution for these human ills was revealed nearly 20 centuries ago by Jesus, and the failure of mankind to understand and apply His teachings is responsible for most of humanity's troubles today."

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., TIMES JOURNAL: "We are reaping an unsavory harvest. For years we have been demanding more government. For years we have been ignoring our responsibilities to government. The two do not go together. If we want government to provide greater and broader services, we must expect to pay the piper."

BROWNSVILLE, PA., TELEGRAPH: "If history is any criterion, reform will not come from within big government. It will come from the American people. Higher standards of morality will be imposed from outside Washington."

RADFORD, VA., NEWS-JOURNAL: "Price control defeats the free growth of a free economy. We may accept it as a temporary measure during a crisis, but we must beware lest the temporary measures become permanent fixtures in our society."

STRETCHING OUR INCOMES

Retailing's contribution to the country can be pretty adequately expressed in one phrase—it has made more and better goods available to the average family and it has made the family income go farther.

This may seem a terrific exaggeration in these days of widespread worry over high prices, but the fact is that the income of today's average worker will buy substantially more than it did 10 or 15 years ago. Wages, generally, have risen to a greater extent than have prices. Retailing has made great strides in reducing the cost of operation, and these savings have been passed on to the consumer. And the profit earned by the average retail store amounts to but a few cents out of each dollar of sales.

Stretching the consumer's spendable income is one road to higher living standards. At the present time, American per capita income is at an all-time high, and is unrivalled in any other nation. Even so, according to the Census Bureau figures, 80 per cent of all our families earn less than $5,000 a year. More than 10,000,000 families have incomes below $2,000. To the great majority of us, low-cost merchandising is a daily boon.

Anyone whose memory goes back 20 to 30 years will readily appreciate the great changes for the better that have taken place in retailing. The credit goes to mass production and mass distribution. They have changed the face of this continent.

ELECTRICITY IS A BARGAIN

"With the household budget becoming the most odious chore, some pleasant reading on the subject brings welcome relief," wrote John P. Callahan in a recent issue of the New York Times.

"Last week the power and light industry rustled through price index components and underscored the one item that tends downward in the spiral-like consumers price index. That item, of course, is electricity . . .

"While the dollar today has less than one-third the purchasing power it had at the beginning of the 20th century, that depreciated dollar buys more than twice as much electricity as the far more valuable dollar did in 1913.

"Fifteen years ago the average revenue per kilowatt hour for all the residential electricity used was 5.01 cents a kilowatt hour. Since then it has dropped to 2.89 cents."

That, as Mr. Callahan observed, is good news for the household consumer, too. On the farm and in the factory, as in the home, electric power is usually one of the smallest items in the total operating cost.

Moreover, here is the answer to those who empty argue that socialized government power development is the only road to "cheap electricity." We have cheap electricity now, all we want of it—and the industry which provides us with it pays out some 20 per cent of all its revenues in taxes. Government plants, by contrast, are tax-subsidized, and wholly or largely tax free.

When you push that light button, you're getting a bargain.

MIRACLE

Press and radio recently featured the amazing case of a negro woman who was found frozen in a Chicago alley in a condition which bordered on rigor mortis. Her body temperature, pulse and respiration were all so low that it seemed impossible that she could have survived—one in a similar condition ever had. However, skillful and unremitting work by doctors, nurses and hospital attendants resulted in a miracle—the woman lives.

"In socialized medicine countries, doctors and nurses are plagued with insignificant cut and bruise cases and innumerable neurotics who must be cared for under penalty of the law. Each patient is allotted a certain amount of time. Hospital staffs cease to take a personal interest in their patients and haven't the time to care for the patients as individuals.

"Although the medical profession in this country is accused of being mercenary, and some arguments can be given to support these accusations, socialized medicine is not the cure."

In other words, medicine is one place where the mass-production mode does not fit. We must never destroy that fine relationship between doctor and patient which has been built up so painstakingly under our system of free medicine.

CRISP AND COOL

Typical of the cool, crisp summer fashions that soon will be seen everywhere is this smart tissue checked cotton with white pique collar and cuffs. Tiny scallops add a feminine touch to this fresh style by Nell-Bee in wrinkle-shed cotton. National Cotton Council fashionists report that tissue check cottons are among the most popular summer fabrics.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Weldon Smith and children and Mrs. M. L. Wiggins spent the week end with Dr. and Mrs. John Wiggins and Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wiggins and families in Fort Worth. They also attended the Ice Capades while there.

Miss Paula Mathers, student in the University of Oklahoma at Norman, spent the week end here with her aunt, Miss Shelley Lee, and other relatives.

Among the most romantic aspects of the cattle industry are the brands and their stories—such brands as the XIT according to legend, "Ten in Texas" as the ranch lay in 10 counties—though this is not the real basis of the brand; the ranch manager just wanted a brand that would present difficulties to rustlers who tried to change it; the Running W or Little Snake as the Latin-Americans call the brand if the 970,000 acre King Ranch; the 4 Sixes—there is a story in connection with how the brand came into being, and back of the brand itself is the story of the ranch for which it stands.

How old is the practice of branding? Hortense Warner Ward, in the Cattleman Magazine, says it goes back to pre-historic days.

It is very probably (she writes) that every food-animal and work-animal that man has domesticated has worn, at some time or another, an identifying mark. Horses, camels, sheep, goats, cattle—all have been branded with the hot iron. In England, even swans were branded. On the Thames, the marking continued into the 20th century. These marks were notches or nicks on the bills of the birds but, in medieval times the markings were done with a hot iron.

There was hardly any activity in which man engaged that he did not seek to leave upon it a record of his personal contact. During the Renaissance, when great craftsmen's guilds came into being, every papermaker had his watermark; each silver smith, his hallmark, and all printers their devices to identify their work. Merchants had guild marks, commonly seen or goods of manufacture and exchange.

In the 13th century, builders placed their identifying marks on buildings they erected. Markings were applied to moveables such as timbers, implements and stock. In Norway, the branding of timber continues to the present. Logs are tumbled into fiords and floated down to concentration points to be made into timber. To distinguish one man's logs from another's, they are branded by their owners, as the old-time Texas cowman branded his steers before putting them in with the trail herd.

Cattle "Burp" Much Better On Dry Roughage

Don't Try To Sling Bull Over Shoulder, But Feed To Prevent Bloating

You can't "burp" a bull by slinging him over your shoulder the way mothers, and some times even fathers, get gas off the stomachs of children.

Lush legume pastures frequently cause bloating of cattle and sheep. Losses can be severe. Scours and poor feed often occur when pasture forage is young and "washy". You can prevent both losses by using good management and feeding practices.

Dry roughage, such as cotton seed hulls or hay, helps to prevent bloat and furnishes dry matter needed to control scours. North Carolina State College Veterinarian C. D. Grinnels recommends hulls treated with molasses. Molasses increase consumption of hulls. Adding cottonseed meal to the hulls does the same thing.

Dry roughage causes the cow or sheep to belch or "burp" as the gas is formed in the paunch. Most authorities believe this belching is caused by the rough edges of the roughage tickling the stomach lining. Dry rough-

THIRST QUENCHER

After a tough hike, three thirsty soldiers make their first stop at the lister bag for a cool dipper of water. At a time like this fighting men appreciate the cotton canvas lister bags more than ever. The lightweight, easy-to-carry bags make it possible for them to have cool, fresh water wherever they go.

age also absorbs some of the moisture and helps to hold "washy" green forage in the digestive tract until it can be digested and absorbed.

Avoid starting legume grazing when the forage is wet with dew or rain. Moisture tends to increase the occurrence of bloat. Usually, it is best to start grazing legumes about mid-day.

Don't turn hungry cattle or sheep on young legume pasture. Fill them first with dry roughage. If they are well filled, you probably won't have trouble with bloat. But, it is desirable to watch them carefully and take them off the legume pasture after an hour or two the first day.

Put the animals back on the legumes the second day after again filling with dry roughage. Most feeders find it best to let them stay on the pasture at all times after this breaking in period. If they are removed from the legume pasture for several days it is necessary to use the same caution in starting them on the pasture again.

Many cattle and sheep producers like to self-feed dry roughage to animals on excellent improved pastures. They will not eat much of the dry roughage but will consume enough to provide the needed dry bulk. Mixing cottonseed meal or molasses with the hulls or ground hay increases consumption. Ten to twenty pounds of meal may be mixed with each hundred pounds of hulls.

L. T. Lewis of Roswell, New Mexico produced fast gains with ewes and lambs grazing irrigated alfalfa. He kept a mixture of 80% cottonseed hulls and 20% cottonseed meal available to the sheep at all times. No serious bloat occurred.

W. B. Price of Lubbock, Texas used irrigated pasture and self fed meal and hulls to produce an average daily gain of 2 pounds on steers during a nine month grazing period. Bloating, or scouring steers don't make two pound daily gains.

Self-feeding the roughage on pasture saves labor and insures consumption of the roughage when it is needed most. However, some prefer to hand-feed in order to maintain a daily check on the animals and regulate consumption at the desired amount. When hand-fed, cattle need 5 to 10 pounds of hulls, daily. Sheep need 1/2 to 1 pound of dry roughage when forage is young and "washy". As forage becomes older, dry roughage feeding may be reduced. Some animals are chronic bloaters on almost any feed. Bloat may be reduced in most cases by tying a stick loosely in the animal's mouth. As the animal works to get the stick out of the mouth, belching is started. Veterinarians will prescribe medicines to be used in cases of severe bloat. Also, it is desirable to keep a trocar or knife convenient to stick animals which cannot be saved by other methods.

A "must" in the daily diet is one serving whole grain cereal. Cereals help build strong bodies and they are economical from the standpoint of costs.

Elephant Moved From Highway

What would you have done with the four ton carcass of an elephant lying right in the middle of the highway?

Authorities near Abilene recently were faced with such a problem. And they did the simplest and most efficient thing to cope with such a situation. A telephone call to Central Hide & Rendering Company was all that was necessary.

Workers came with a winch cable and moved the 8,000 pound body of Taffy, the circus elephant, to the Abilene rendering plant. It was over 85 years old, was owned by the Heart of Texas Carnival. She died when she jumped from her truck into U. S. Highway 80 three miles west of Abilene. The beloved animal, who has thrilled millions of youngsters and older people as well, was mortally wounded when she fell from the tractor-trailer truck.

Taffy's trainer, R. J. Kilken, and state highway patrolmen tried for three and one-half hours to move the huge carcass from the pavement. But it was not until a Central Hide & Rendering truck arrived that the animal was finally moved.

The elephant's body was given to the rendering company and carted to its plant at Caps, Texas. The body was too large to put inside the company's building, so workers had to chop it up with axes. "That's the only way we could do it," Maurice Mercer, the local manager commented. "We didn't have knives that sharp."

The removal of Taffy's body is an exaggerated example of the Central Hide & Rendering Company's slogan, "we remove any carcass when you're through with it."

The company who manufactures animal fats and proteins, keeps ranch and farm pastures cleared of all types of livestock bodies, free of charge.

FARM NEWS

From the County PMA Committee

ADDITIONAL FEED GRAINS NEEDED

Knox County farmers are urged to plant grain sorghums in areas where the wheat crop has been lost due to drought and insect damage. J. C. McGee, chairman of the County PMA Committee, today pointed out that American consumers are displaying a strong demand for meat. And in order to assure this demand for meat, ample supplies of feed must be on hand.

Feed is the essential factor in maintaining livestock numbers and meat production at their present high levels. Meat production is now at a high level and output in 1951 is expected to exceed last year's by about 5 percent. Prospects are that demand for meat will call for further increases in production.

"While feed supplies are available at the present time, it must be remembered that livestock numbers are high and represent a heavy drain on these supplies," Mr. McGee said. In fact, this year will probably see declines in reserves of many of our feed concentrates. For instance, with a near-record corn crop of more than 3 billion bushels in 1950, our reserves of this most important feed grain may be reduced by 250 to 300 million bushels by October of this year.

In Texas, the wheat crop has been seriously damaged by drought and insect damage. This BEFORE—Here is an attic such as can be found in millions of American homes. This space is much too valuable to waste when it can be made into extra living space, as shown in the photograph below.

AFTER—And here is the same attic, transformed by clever decorating ideas and modern building materials into a smart bedroom-study for a teen-age girl. Because it is an insulating material, too, it helps keep the room comfortable both summer and winter.

loss, as far as feed is concerned, can be replaced somewhat by planting grain sorghums in areas where cotton is not adapted.

"We can readily see the importance of this grain sorghum program when we realize that if feed grain production in 1951 will be six percent less than last year," Mr. McGee said. "We hope that farmers in Knox County will review their planting intentions and decide to plant grain sorghums so vitally needed in the defense effort."

Outlook For 1951 Production Is Studied By Natl. Cotton Council

A study recently completed by the National Cotton Council gives farmers some indication as to the 1951 cotton production outlook for labor, farm machinery, fertilizer, and insecticides.

In the labor picture, the manpower shortage is one of the most serious problems facing producers. Skilled labor is needed to operate farm equipment. Many farm workers are likely to enter military service or defense work. Demand for labor during chopping and harvesting is expected to be critical.

With respect to farm equipment the cotton states are in a much better position than at the beginning of World War II. Demand for machinery is expected to exceed supply. Production for the first quarter of 1951 is only 75 percent of 1950. Capacity of manufacturers is adequate to meet demand, but steel and other metals are being channeled to defense needs.

Fertilizer
Production of fertilizer is expected to be greater than it was in 1950. It is anticipated, however, that this rise is to be more than offset by a 20 percent increase in demand. This means that the farmer may not be able to buy the kind of fertilizer he wants when he wants it. Production of nitrogen is expected to be up 15 percent and potash up 18 percent. Superphosphate production is expected to decline 10 percent because of a sulphur shortage.

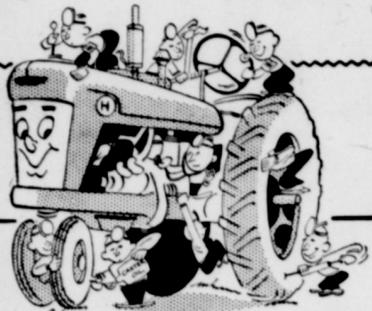

Insecticides
A heavy demand for insecticides—such as occurred in 1950—could cause a shortage in the supply of cotton insects. Should infestation of cotton insects be above average, farmers likely would use more poisons than last year. Benzene, chlorine, sulphur and other basic materials are being taken for defense uses, thus reducing available supplies. Metal containers for packaging insecticides likely will be in limited supply. Foreseeing a shortage of the more widely used poisons entomologists in several states have issued cotton insect control recommendations listing other materials as alternatives.

KITCHEN MEMO

COMES the day when you're particularly busy, toss this recipe together to make a Skillet Dinner. Saves dishwashing time and energy. Melt 2 tbsps. fat in skillet, add 1 cup chopped onion, 1/2 lb. ground beef. Cook until brown, about 10 mins. Add 1 cup sliced carrot, 4 oz. med. noodles, 1 qt. water. Cover, simmer over low flame 45 mins. Add 2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper. Mix lightly. Serves 4.

Timely check: The filter on your gas furnace is bound to clog with dust from the air. About twice a year remove the filter and replace it because a clogged filter cuts heating efficiency.

A clove of garlic in olive oil, mix in 1/2 tsp. paprika, let set for five minutes, then brush over thick steak. Slide into broiler 3" from flame. Out of this world for flavor and crusty finish!

If it's washday in your house and you need plenty of hot water, don't worry about the 15 gals. of hot water your man uses up for his morning shower because your automatic gas water heater immediately starts to replace hot water as it is used.

Gentle reminder: Tepid soapy water and a cloth wipe up spilled food in your gas refrigerator more easily than if you wait for the food to harden.

Butterscotch toast: Spread toast with butter or margarine, sprinkle with brown sugar. Keep under broiler about 2" from the flame until it bubbles.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Says Truman And MacArthur Both May Be Wrong, And They Aren't All Alone

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek puts in his two-bits worth on the current argument, which may be an over-estimate on its value.

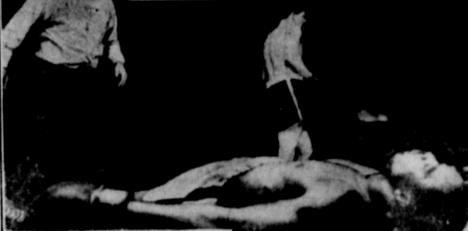

Dear editor:
I found a copy of the Times-Herald which some town bird had dumped out along with his trash in a roadside ditch out here last night. I've been trying to get some of my neighbors to get together and we all haul a few loads of trash and maybe a few dead hens for good measure into town some night and dump it there, just to let the folks know how it feels, but don't suppose we'll ever get around to it.

At any rate, I took the paper home and got out of earshot of my wife and read some more about the Truman-MacArthur controversy.
I'm frank to say that I can't make heads or tails of it, that is

Green Tags To Market Cotton Aid To Farmers

Texas cotton farmers are urged to market their 1951 cotton crop by the green tag method. According to John L. McCollum, manager, PMA's southwest area cotton branch, U. S. D. A., Dallas, the green tag signifies that the bale has been classed by U. S. D. A. cotton classers and the tag carries the grade and staple length for the bale.

Deman promises to be strong for this year's crop, says McCollum and the grade and staple information will enable the farmer to get the best price for his cotton.

Last year 107,819 farmers took advantage of the U. S. D. A. Smith Doxey cotton classing program and marketed 1,389,150 bales under the green tag system. Farmers can get the same service again this year without cost by making application for it, says McCollum.

Requirements include membership in a group which has been organized to promote the improvement of cotton, adopting a variety, filing an application arranging for sampling and meeting other requirements.

In addition to the official classification, farmers will also know what's gonna happen next and what to do about it, he hasn't been pointed out to me. Has he to you? And as I see it, there ain't nobody much who knows what to do about Korea, what to do about China, what to do about Russia, what to do about Europe, what to do about Argentina, what to do about Washington and I know blame well there ain't nobody who knows what to do about my Johnson grass out here on the creek, except maybe me, and don't mind sayin' I don't intend to do it.

Moore Celebrate Golden Wedding Date On April 8th

On Sunday, April 8, from 3 to 6 p. m., the children of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Moore honored their parents at a reception in the home of Mrs. Opal Brewer of Munday. The occasion was their golden wedding anniversary.

They resided at Forestburg, where their eight children were born, for around 20 years, moving to Knox County in December, 1925. Mr. Moore retired from farming and cattle raising some 12 years ago.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Brewer, who in turn introduced the honored couple. Children present for the occasion included Mrs. Clorene Moore, Pampa; Mrs. Ramia Lee Frazier, Haskell; Mrs. Brewer; Mrs. Hazel Orrell, Texas City; A. M. The table was covered with a white imported Irish linen cut work cloth, centered with daffodils and a large 50. Mrs. Elma Lee May of Rule, a granddaughter, cut and served the large three-tiered cake. Mrs. Earleen Kuhler of Rhineland, another granddaughter, labeled gold punch from a crystal service. Wayne Bradford, J. A. and Annette Brewer and Aleda Moore, grandchildren, were among the house party in assisting the guests to view the many lovely gifts.

CHRYSLER TO SET PACE IN INDIANAPOLIS '500'

This is the car that will set the pace on Memorial Day for the fastest fleet of racing cars ever assembled. The Chrysler New Yorker Convertible, equipped with the new 180-hp V-8 "FirePower Engine" — most powerful power plant of any passenger car — has drawn the coveted honor, and here is shown on the famous Speedway at Indianapolis where the 500-mile race will be run. At the wheel is D. A. Wallace, president of the Chrysler Division of the Chrysler Corporation, who will guide the 33 racing cars around the 2 1/2-mile brick and asphalt track. At his side is Wilbur Shaw, president and general manager of the Speedway and three-time winner of the "500," and seated in the rear seat is Tommy Milton, chief steward of the track, who was a famed racing driver of the Twenties, when he brought home two winners at Indianapolis. This is the fourth time in twenty-five years that a Chrysler has been selected as the Pace Car, motor thoroughbred of the year.

Cotton Crop Is Menaced By Poor Germination

LUBBOCK—Cotton farmers in Texas face a critical condition this year in getting a good stand of cotton producing a large crop. Normally the West Texas cotton farmer likes to start the season with an average of one bush every 3 inches in a row. He may want to thin this stand or leave it, depending on several factors.

A plant every three inches in the row provides some 60,000 plants per acre. To get this stand requires the planting of about 16 pounds of the fuzzy seed with high germination. If the farmer plants one-half bushel of cotton seed with a germination of 60%, he will be putting into each acre some 38,400 seed which can be expected to produce plants. But he begins with about 40% less plants than he should have. Insects, weather and cultivation may further eliminate plants during the growing season so the farmer cannot expect the maximum yield.

Area seed testing laboratories are finding that the majority of cotton seed samples submitted for germination tests are below the usual average viability considered satisfactory. Good cotton seed should germinate above 80%, while much of the 1950 seed germinates below 60%.

Two major factors contributing to this situation are first, the trend toward machine harvesting, and second, the early 1950 freeze which killed the plants and prevented many seeds from maturing.

Machine harvesting results in a high percentage of immature seed of no value for planting. Proper cleaning and grading out of these undesirable seed is necessary for good planting seed. Many of the seed of the 1950 crop which were frozen appear to be good but may not germinate. Under normal fall weather conditions many of these seed would have matured.

These factors have led to the present cotton seed problem. The large acreage of cotton expected in 1951 heightens the problem. Reports from the Texas Tech branch laboratory of the State Seed Testing Division and the Seed Testing Laboratory of the Lubbock Grain Exchange indicate that some 2,500 seed samples were tested since January 1, 1951.

The range in germination was from below 10% to over 90%, with the average just under 60%.

The grain sorghums—hahari, kafir, millet, cane and sudan grass seed—have generally shown a normal germination. Small grains, alfalfa, clover and grass seed tested by the laboratories have shown a normal germination percentage.

Farmers should heed the warning of these figures. The seed germination percentage should be known, and the amount of seed planted per acre, must be increased. Otherwise, farmers can expect only a partial stand of cotton to start the season.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Socialization has no place in either public health or the private practice of medicine. State Health Officer George Cox has said in a statement aligning himself with the medical profession against socialized medicine. Public health is a separate, distinct field from private medicine. Dr. Cox said. Both professions have their separate objectives, and distinctive methods of accomplishing them.

He declared public health's objective to be:

1. Public education as to how to avoid disease buy such means as vaccination against smallpox and typhoid fever and immunization against diphtheria.

2. Investigation of disease outbreaks.

3. Quarantine and isolation of communicable cases, that's preventing its spread.

4. Inspection of water supplies, and control over the safe production and sale of milk, drugs and food products.

"But," the health officer added, "people get sick and accidents happen, and the job of curing and patching up is the business of the private practitioner of medicine—the family doctor and the specialist."

Doctors in private practice advocate public health principles when they urge mothers to have children protected against diphtheria and smallpox, and public health officials "need their help in the vital work of maintaining a high level of well being for all Texans," Dr. Cox asserted.

"We aren't in competition with doctors in private practice. Public health officials deplore the idea of socialized medicine as unworkable, cumbersome, and totally inefficient."

"There is no place on earth that has a better system of medical administration than the United States. Private doctors deserve the credit."

"And there is no place on earth with a higher standard of public health. Public health people deserve credit for that," the doctor concluded emphatically.

Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Yarbrough attended the Ice Canades in Fort Worth over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stodghill spent the week end with relatives in San Antonio.

Every precaution should be taken by the farmer so that he can start the season with as nearly a perfect stand as possible.

Farmers can secure germination tests on their cotton seed by taking representative samples to the seed testing laboratory in room 116 of the Agriculture building at Texas Technological College where the branch laboratory is located, or the Lubbock Grain Exchange Laboratory in Lubbock.

May Draft Call Is For 1,332 Men

AUSTIN—State Selective Service headquarters today received an adjusted May induction call for 1,332 men, a reduction of 57 percent of the original May order for 3,112.

This adjustment was received after public announcement Wednesday that the national call for May had been reduced from 60,000 to 40,000, a reduction for the nation of 33-1-3 percent.

"The reason Texas got a bigger reduction than the nation as a whole," said Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state Selective Service director, "is that the state was given credit for National Guard contribution to the armed forces in federal service, plus other credits for volunteer enlistment."

The original May call for 3,112 men was sent out to Texas local boards late in March and then cancelled on April 11 after authority was received from national headquarters in Washington.

At the time the original May call was cancelled, the May call on local boards for 6,807 men for physical examination was also cancelled. This cancellation will remain in effect.

"Because of the reduced demands upon Texas for the months of April and May, it will not be necessary to have any men examined during the month of May," General Wakefield commented. "If demands are not increased, we have a pool of examined and acceptable registrants which ought to last for several months."

The state director said he was unable to say whether a call for June inductions would be received. He said he had no idea of the size of the call, if one is received.

"Normally, we would have received such a call for June around the 10th of April," General Wakefield said, "but it is entirely possible that one will be received later, as state headquarters and the local boards still have plenty of time to handle one if it should come. The readjusted May calls on local boards will be mailed from state headquarters Friday."

Washington News Letter

By Congressman Ed Gossett

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 23—This has been MacArthur week in the Nation's capital. Since serving in the Congress, it has been my privilege to hear a number of distinguished persons address joint sessions of the House and Senate. There was Chief Justice Evans Hughes, speaking on the occasion of the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the establishment of the Supreme Court. Then came the Honorable Winston Churchill in the early days of the war. Later, Madame Chiang Kai-shek spoke brilliantly in behalf of the Chinese people. Following the war, General Eisenhower addressed the Congress and the top military and executive leaders of the country from the rostrum of the House of Representatives. Now we have had General MacArthur. The General lived up to his reputation as a brilliant and gifted speaker. He perhaps elicited more rapt attention than did any of the others to whom reference has been made. Certainly more emotion was aroused and more tears shed as a result of MacArthur's report than on any of the other notable occasions in our historic Chamber. Even those who might be classified as hostile to MacArthur were compelled to admit that he did a good job. Were he 15 years younger, he would doubtless seek, and would doubtless acquire, the presidency itself. However, even a majority of his friends hope that he meant what he said in San Francisco—that he had no political ambitions. He appeared to me to be very tired, and a very old man.

McArthur made one sensational statement which will be bitterly explored and bitterly debated in the days immediately ahead. His statement that the Joint Chiefs of Staff agreed with his views on military policy in the Far East shocked and startled official Washington. Most of us believe that MacArthur told the truth. Many believe, however, that the Joint Chiefs of Staff will squirm off the spot on which MacArthur's statement places them. In deed, many high ranking officers seem to be Charlie McCarthys for their political bosses. Perhaps they fear being fired, as was Admiral Denfeld, and now General MacArthur.

I recall when General Omar Bradley was Chief of the Veterans Administration immediately following the war. A Committee on which I served was conducting hearings on H. R. 2202, known as the "Guaranteed Full Employment Bill." Secretary Henry Wallace came before the Committee in behalf of the bill, predicting that 8 million men would be employed within a few months, and insisting that the government must guarantee every citizen a job. General Bradley followed to testify in favor of the bill. He testified for this socialistic legislation, although at heart he was bitterly opposed to it. Secretary of Defense, General George C. Marshall, is generally conceded to have been a great Chief of Staff of the Army during World War II. Still when he became Secretary of

Roxy Theatre, Sunday and Monday

Ruth Roman and Richard Todd in a tense scene from "Lightning Strikes Twice" which also stars Mercedes McCambridge and Zachary Scott.

State, and now Secretary of Defense, he appears to lend his name and prestige to causes in which he does not believe. I recall his coming before the Judiciary Committee in behalf of the DP bill while he was Secretary of State. He obviously knew little of the implications of this legislation, and yet he professed to support it wholeheartedly. The General has taken credit, or the blame, for selecting Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg to be Assistant Secretary of Defense in Charge of Manpower. In my humble opinion, this was not his idea at all.

Incidentally, members of the Armed Services Committee of the House tell me that Secretary of Defense Marshall has been of little help to them since he has assumed that post. He has refused to answer or discuss most of the questions propounded to him, but instead turned the job over to others.

One would be disappointed in the American people if they did not become alarmed, and if they did not ask questions, when they observe vacillation and duplicity in the conduct of high political figures. There never was a time in our history when our nation was more badly in need of strong, intelligent, courageous, no-bracket leadership than now. Perhaps an all-wise, all-merciful Providence will help us to muddle through, but muddling is nothing of which any of us should be proud.

This week my Subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee of the House has again been conducting hearings on the so-called Lodge-Gossett Amendment, an amendment to abolish the Electoral College, and to reform the method through which we elect president. Twenty-seven senators have joined Senator Lodge in introducing this same resolution in the Senate. In the last session the Senate passed this resolution by a vote of 64 to 27. That was the all-time mark in a hundred years of effort to do something about the cumbersome, undemocratic machinery through which we elect the most important official in the world. The sooner this reform is made, the better it will be for our country.

Miss Lou Comsey, who is attending Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Comsey, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Jungman, Mrs. D. E. Holder, Mrs. W. Y. Sharp and Mrs. Aaron Edgar were business visitors in Abilene last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Haymes spent the week end with relatives in Big Spring and Odessa.

You've Got To Hand It To Sandy

Sandy Johnson's wife "Tiny" suddenly asks him at breakfast the other morning "Why don't you build me some bluebird houses?" "What for?" asks Sandy. "Why for bluebirds, of course," says Tiny. "We always had 'em at home when I was a girl. May sound silly—but I sorta miss 'em."

Well, I know how busy Sandy's been lately and the thought of taking time out to build birdhouses could have made a lot of men blow their top. But not Sandy. He says, "No, Tiny. It doesn't sound silly. I think it's a wonderful idea—we're going to have bluebirds—and I'm starting on some birdhouses tonight."

From where I sit, we could do with more understanding people like Sandy—and Tiny, too. He respects her likings, and she respects his. He likes a temperate glass of beer now and then—and although Tiny sticks to coffee, whatever Sandy likes is O.K. with her. They live and let live—and that's why they live so happily.

added that plowing up is also good cultural practice because it helps to destroy boll weevil and other pests, and puts plant material back into the soil and helps to conserve moisture.

Whenever the rules of early planting and early plow-up have been observed, White said, there has been an increase in lint yield and an increase in total production of cotton. On the other hand, if plow-up dates are extended, there is always an increase in pink bollworm infestation and a decrease in yield.

It may be necessary to extend some planting dates because of unfavorable weather conditions.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley, special permits have already been issued to individual farmers who were unable to meet the April 15 planting deadline. Special permits to plant as late as April 25 were granted to farmers who were able to show hardship caused by drouth, blowing sand, or hail.

White emphasized, however, that there will be an extension of plow-up dates except in cases of extreme emergency.

Texas is fortunate, he pointed out, in that this state usually has little rain in the late summer and early fall when fields in pink bollworm infested areas should be plowed up.

Plow-up deadline in the Lower Rio Grande Valley is midnight, August 31. Later deadlines are set in more northern sections of the state.

Don't forget the supplemental pastures for summer grazing. The application of fertilizers, in most cases, will materially increase their production. A mixture of sudan and cowpeas makes a good summer pasture.

most important commands in the world. . . .

So we got no rain on the 19th, and we started criticizing everybody who predicted rain on that date. Only thing wrong with the "going over" we were giving them was that we couldn't remember the ones who made the predictions. . . .

But it rained on the 20th, and we started forgiving those who had set the 19th as the date. They were nearer right than we were. We were just about ready to do like that fellow back in 1918 we heard about—bet a dollar it would never rain again!

Ninety-two hundredths of an inch was the official count of H. P. Hill, U. S. Weather Observer. It was enough to bring big smiles to people's faces.

But the wind was blowing strong Tuesday, and our front yard was moving back to our back yard again. . . .

We're gonna get that lawn sowed with grass if we can get it to "stay put" long enough!

Fight Against Pink Bollworm Being Urged

AUSTIN—John C. White, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, today called for the most stringent measures against the Pink Bollworm, which has been called the cotton's industry's Enemy No. 1.

The worm today infests 171 Texas counties. Forty-four of these are new infestations, recorded last year when a wet summer and an extended plow-up deadline in the Central Bend hindered control work.

The pest costs farmers millions of dollars a year by destroying cotton and lowering grades. The farmers' expense in infested areas is increased because of treatment required at the gin to prevent spread of the "ink peril".

Commissioner White said that the answer to the pink bollworm menace is early planting and early plow-up of cotton stalks. This method works, he explained, because the insect cannot live unless there are cotton or okra stalks upon which it can feed. It can live on nothing else, and if these two plants are destroyed after the crop is made, it starves.

Early plowing of fields is always successful in fighting the pink bollworm, White said. He
