This is graduation week for Munday seniors, while exercises will continue through next week for some graduates of the area.

These events bring to mind our own high school graduation, many, many years ago. The old high school diploma, of untold value to us at the time, is now aged and musty and in storage in a spot we could not readily locate. Armed with that piece of scroll in fancy print on graduation night, we thought we were well equipped and about ready to conquer the world. And after all these years, we find the thing still needing to be conquered.

k-k
We well remember our commencement night. A prominent local attorney was selected as our speaker, and he waxed long and eloquent on our class achievements and our high school days which prepared us to enter the world. But the main gist of his message was: "Hitch your wagon to a star." Today, with the old horse-drawn farm wagon about as extinct as the do-do bird, that topic would be out of place. It was a good one in that day, though. Only trouble was that with so many stars in the skies, it was difficult to know if you'd selected the right hitching post.

k-k
Anyway, we congratulate all of the graduates of this area. We know, too, why the final exercise is called Commencement—you are now commencing a new phase of life, and your diploma means that you have gained some knowledge during high school days that should qualify you, if applied properly, for the days of living ahead of you.

Here's some bouquets in the bonnets of our seniors that to reflect credit upon our school and community as well:

k-k
From Theodore Christie of Christie's in Houston came the following letter after the recent senior trip:

k-k
"51 of your senior high school students were just served by us, and we were so favorably impressed by their manners we must compliment them and your school. This was without a doubt the best behaved group we have ever served in 38 years in the restaurant business. It was a real pleasure for us to have them."

k-k
R. H. (Bob) Brown, district passenger agent of the Burlington Railroad, who made the trip with our group, also wrote:

k-k
"I have been with many groups of children of all ages on our trains and this group was the nicest in all respects. They were well behaved and most considerate of other persons on our trains, as well as when they were in the restaurants. The managers of both restaurants in Houston complimented the group on their behavior and cooperation."

k-k
"Without lessening the bouquets to the students, I feel certain a large portion of the enjoyment and success of the trip was due to the expert supervision by the adults with them. My duties were made a pleasure by the excellent cooperation received from Mrs. Bowden and Mr. Williams."

k-k
"I sincerely hope I will be able to make the Senior class trip with our students in 1957, whether it again to the seashore or the mountains of Colorado, as I know I will share in good fellowship and fun with a fine group of children. The parents and teachers of these students can well be proud of the Senior Class of 1956."

Cotton Crop May Be Lowest In Years

The Department of Agriculture predicted early this week that this year's domestic cotton harvest may be the smallest in 75 years. The world-wide production, according to the department, is expected to reach 39,300,000 bales, just slightly above the 1954-55 record of 39,100,000.

The report said that in 1955 the U. S. cotton crop was 14,700,000 bales, while in 1956 acreage will be restricted to 17,400,000 acres, or 700,000 acres less than the 1955 total for all types. With normal underplantings and abandonment, the department estimated the acreage harvest in 1956 may be the smallest in 75 years. Acreage in the U. S. has been steadily reduced from 26,900,000 acres to the 17,400,000 for 1956.

It's Time To Plant Summer Legumes

Now is the time to start planning the soil improving crops you plan to plant this spring. Many different soil improving summer legumes are adapted to the various soils in the district.

Guar is an excellent summer legume, adapted to all cultivated soils in the district. It is a summer annual that is very drought resistant. The seeds are now being rolled and used as a protein supplement in livestock feeding.

Guar should be planted during the months of May, June or early part of July. Six to eight pounds of seed per acre should be planted when seeded in rows. Row seedings can be done with planters used for combine sorghums. The seed should be covered from one to two inches deep, on land prepared in the same manner as for cotton or grain sorghums.

Cowpeas is another annual legume adapted to most cultivated soils in the district. They develop a fair cover and are good in conditioning the soil. Cowpeas should be seeded during the months of April, May, June or early part of July at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds per acre when planted in rows. When planted in a mixture with grain sorghums 5 to 10 pounds should be planted. About 25 to 35 pounds per acre should be planted when the peas are close drilled.

In order to obtain the best results legumes planted should be inoculated with the proper inoculate.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH!

A child born in this country in 1900 had a life expectancy of less than 50 years. A child born today will live, on the average, for about 70 years.

This means that life expectancy has increased by some 40 per cent in a little more than half a century. That is a development of almost incredible magnitude. What has made such unprecedented progress possible?

Obviously it wasn't just magical good luck. It was the result of many factors. And one of those factors—possibly the over-riding one—is found in medical progress.

Disease after disease has been conquered. Infant mortality has been reduced and reduced. Frontiers of medical knowledge have been pushed back and back. Our medical schools produce more and more physicians—and better prepared physicians. The standards of hospital care have been constantly raised. In every phase and facet of the healing arts there has been outstanding achievement.

All this, let us not forget, has been accomplished under a system of free medicine. Here the doctor is not an employee of the state. Here the patient is not a pawn, to be shuttled about according to a rule book, as he is under socialized medicine. Here the stress is on the value and freedom and independence of the individual.

We live longer lives and healthier lives than our forefathers did. Each day some new contribution is made to the vast body of medical knowledge. Thus do free men achieve in an atmosphere of freedom.

COUPEVILLE, WN., COURIER: "One of our primary editorial policies will be to create an interest in local government. This purpose is founded on the fundamental belief that a true and working democratic federal government is based on strong small units of democratic self-government such as is found in small cities and towns. We believe that strong democracies at the very core of our life will protect us from dictatorial tendencies of government on higher levels."

PLAINFIELD, IND., MESSENGER: "Memory is often short-lived, especially if present conditions seem a little unfavorable. But a friend of the Messenger has checked the records and reminds voters, especially farmers, that . . . the top price for hogs under OPA was $15.45. . . . With hog prices at $16.00 they are still 55 cents per cwt. over the New Deal limit price of $15.45. Perhaps it is well for all us to refresh our memory."

FROM THE SAME TREE

A short time ago a 10-year-old California boy won the $100,000 jackpot on a TV quiz program. This was a remarkable feat. What makes it still more remarkable is that the questions involved had to do with the stock market. They were tough questions too—it's a safe bet that not one adult in many thousands could have answered them correctly. As a fitting climax to the victory, the president of the New York Stock Exchange presented the young wizard with $2,500 worth of stock of his own choosing, plus a monthly investment plan of $40 a month for five years.

There is a further significance in this. It is certainly not possible that many youngsters will become ranking authorities on all the procedures and complexities involved in corporation finance. But it is eminently desirable that great numbers of the adults-of-tomorrow learn the basic principles of finance in a free enterprise system—and learn too what stock exchange do and why they are necessary. There are now something like 7.5 million shareholders in American corporate enterprise. It is estimated that, if our businesses are to grow as they should and in the manner they should and in the manner they should, this number must be multiplied many times. And that means that tens of million more people must gain the necessary knowledge and interest.

Under political democracy, everyone has right to vote. Under economic democracy, everyone has the right to invest in a business and become a partner. The two are branches of the same sturdy tree.

ELDORADO, KAN., TIMES: "No longer will government employes be dismissed because of tales told behind their backs by anonymous informers who cannot be faced and cross-examined. The Federal Cour of Appeals for the Ninth or Pacific Coast circuit recently ruled that without such confrontation no one could have a fair chance to defend himself. The Justice department has decided not to appeal this decision to the Supreme Court. It therefore stands. The court struck a solid blow for freedom."

INDIO, CALIF., NEWS: "The House of Agriculture Committee has approved legislation that would authorize the Department of Agriculture to go into the business of building big dams. If this bill becomes law, the nation will have three big dam building agencies. . . . But we wonder if there is any taxpayer in the country outside the bureaucracy, who wouldn't agree that we have dam-building agencies aplenty right now?"

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

Life Is Uncertain

Our lives here are very uncertain. We are here today, but we do not know that we shall be here tomorrow. When David was being hounded by Saul, he gave expression to his soul thus: "But truly as the Lord liveth there is but a step between me and death." (1 Sam. 20:3). In the New Testament we read it this way, "Whereas ye know not what shall be in the morrow. For what is your life? It is even a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away." (James 4:14).

In Luke 12:16-20 we have a parable which Jesus spoke concerning a man who was too much wrapped up in the affairs of this life. This man was a farmer. His ground brought forth plentifully. He did not have room where to bestow his fruits. He did not know what to do. Finally he decided to pull down his old barn and build greater and there bestow his fruits and his goods. He contemplated a happy day when he would be able to say: "Soul thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry." How did his plan work out? Listen: "but God said unto him, thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?"

Judgement Awaits the Christ Rejection "And it is appointed unto man once to die, but after this the judgement" (Heb 9:27). What is in store for those who do not obey the gospel of Jesus Christ? Hear it: "And to you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know God, and that obey not the gospel of Jesus Christ: who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power" (2 Thess. 1:7-9). What a fearful thing to contemplate! The judgement and eternal damnation are before the individual who dies out of the Lord. But John says "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yes, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours, and their works do follow them" (Rev. 14:13).

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holle, M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—A unique study in home accident prevention got underway in Round Rock this month, under sponsorship of the Texas State Department of Health.

Every home in the Williamson County community 20 miles north of Austin is being visited by a junior class student from the local high school. Students are filling out questionnaires from information provided by householders on accidents occurring in the homes during the preceding week.

Then, approximately eight months from the time the first questionnaire is completed, student will again visit each household with an identical questionnaire.

In the interim between questionnaires, an intensive educational program on home accidents via radio, television, newspapers, and group meetings will be conducted by the Round Rock Safety Council, the intention being to see how much home accidents can be reduced in eight months.

The campaign, the first ever conducted in Texas, is being sponsored by the State Department of Health as a "pilot" study. If successful in reducing home accidents, similar studies will be started in other communities.

Tentative programs have already been formulated in San Marcos and in Guadalupe County.

In announcing the Round Rock program, State Health Commissioner Henry A. Holle pointed out that home accidents annually kill more Americans than were killed in all branches of the armed forces during the entire three years of the Korean War.

Each one of the 403 homes comprising the Round Rock community will be provided with a "hazard sheet" and a check list describing potentially dangerous conditions in homes. Each homeowner is requested to be on the lookout for similar conditions in his home. If hazards are found, he is asked to make corrections and to describe the corrections on the "hazard sheets," which will be tabulated and evaluated by a volunteer citizens' committee legally chartered as the Round Rock Safety Council.

Fred Coffey of the Round Rock Chamber of Commerce is chairman of the Council. Other members and the organizations they represent are:

Mrs. Marie Sowell and Mrs. Clarence Quick, American Legion Auxiliary; Cody Adolphson, Travis Mercer and Charles Brother-

BOYCE HOUSE

A young artist was struck by the beauty of a little boy's face—and so he painted a picture of a picture, showing the curly, golden hair, the rosy cheeks, the gentle smile and the clear eyes—and called it "Innocence."

Years went by and he painted many pictures but "Innocence" remained his supreme achievement. He was growing old and he determined to paint one more picture as a contrast to his early masterpiece, and call it "Evil."

He peered at the faces in the man, fire department; E. A. Cottrell and W. N. Todd, Kiwanis Club; Mrs. Claude Berkam, Mrs. Oscar Bengston, and Mrs. W. A. Walsh, Palm Valley Lutheran Church; Charles Sarter and O. M. Crain, Baptist Church; Mrs. James Pennington and Mrs. John Bradley, Methodist Church.

E. C. Nelson, A State Department of Health sanitarian, acting as technical advisor to the Council.

crowded streets and he visited the vilest dives. At least, he went into a prison and there he saw the face he sought—that of a man under sentence of death for a murder of the most revolting nature. His countenance was hideous with the marks left by vice and crime; the lips were parted in a snarl; the eyes were crafty and cruel. He seemed more like a fiend escaped from hell than a human being.

The artist painted his picture and it, too, was acclaimed a masterpiece; and "Evil" and "Innocence" hung side by side.

But, although they were two pictures, they were of a single face. The depraved and loathsome incarnation of wickedness had been the happy and sinless boy

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Doc Nurses a Daydream

It's a treat when I get together with Doc Sherman. The Clarion keeps me much too busy—and Doc, well I think he puts in sixteen hours a day at the hospital.

But Tuesday—a beautiful day—he and I slipped away for a ride around Turtle Lake. Doc's driving a 1956 humdinger—it's like riding on a cloud.

Anyway, at one point Doc slowed almost to a halt. "Used to fish there as a boy, Joe," he said. "Used to sit and imagine myself up on the highway driving a high-powered car. Nowadays, I just sit here and wish I were down there again."

From where I sit, few of us are ever content with the way things are at any given moment. It's human nature. On the other hand, I've been rooting for years that someday everybody will show enough good American tolerance to respect his neighbor's right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer. When that day comes I assure you that I'll never want to change back.

The greatest escape artist of all time was Houdini. One of his favorite feats was to have himself heavily shackled, tied up in a sack and tossed into a river, then freeing himself in the half minute or so he had before drowning.

He broke out of jails and death cells all over the land.

Only once did he have difficulty. He tried every trick he could think of but he could not turn the lock. At last, exasperated, he shoved against the door—and it opened! It had not been locked.

A CLEAN HEALTH BILL FOR TEXAS CITRUS

After an intense survey of Rio Grande Valley and Winter Garden area citrus, Texas has been given a clean bill of health from the dread burrowing nematode, microscopic parasite which gradually destroys its victim.

The burrowing nematode (radopholus similis) is now clearly associated with "spreading decline," a gradual but fatal illness which has plagued the Florida citrus industry for 25 years.

Severe damage caused by the 1951 valley freeze is still apparent throughout most of the citrus area, and would ask spreading decline symptoms as they are known in Florida. Thus as a practical matter, Texas and United States Departments of Agriculture plant experts conducted a spot survey all over the Texas citrus belt, with particular attention to stock originally imported from Florida. In final laboratory analyses, results were negative.

Sampling procedures were the same as those developed in Florida surveys. Samples were collected from near the drip line of the tree at a depth as far as roots would normally be found. Roots from one tree or one location constituted a sample.

Texas citrus is generally grown in a heavy-type soil in which roots do not penetrate to near the depth common to most Florida fruit. Consequently, samples were collected from an average depth of two feet or less by use of a special-built mechanical auger.

No means of combatting the other than complete destruction of infested plants. It is discernable only under careful examination under laboratory conditions and could become widespread before any decline is noted, particularly if plants are suffering from any other natural setback.

Similar tests will be conducted in other citrus growing states to determine if infestation has other possible sources. The burrowing nematode is believed present in Fiji, Jamaica, the Hawaiian Islands, Philippine Islands, Formosa, Southern India, Dutch East Indies, Java, Brazil, Puerto Rico and Central America.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

WATCH THAT CONTRACT!

When we talk about contracts, we usually think of a formal piece of paper written in rather fancy language, which we look over carefully, and to which we sign our names with a great flourish. It's true that a written contract is the best-known type and the safest, and in certain instances (like the transfer of real estate) the terms must be in writing. Yet, when it comes right down to the most common contracts, they are seldom in writing. We make new contracts day in and day out, hardly giving them a second thought.

Actually a contract is merely an agreement in which two or more persons (or companies, or organizations) bind themselves to do—or not to do—certain acts. In doing so, each acquires a right to have the other person keep his promises. You have made a contract when you accept a job, charge a new suit at the clothing store, agree to pay the boy next door a dollar to mow your lawn, or tell the milkman to leave three quarts each day and collect at the end of the month.

In the eyes of the law, there are certain elements which go into making any promises a legal contract. There must be "mutual assent", which usually means that one party accepts a definite offer made by the other, and both parties must be "competent" (same and, under most circumstances, of legal age).

The agreement must be for a lawful purpose. There must be a "consideration" which in many instances is the payment of a certain sum of money. In other cases, a promise to perform some act may constitute consideration. While contracts made by word of-mouth are legal and binding for the most part, they are, of course, more difficult to prove if any questions arise. So it is usually best, on any deal of importance, to demand that the terms be written out in detail. An exchange of letters, or a signed memorandum, may constitute a written contract.

Here is one rule that should be a "must" with everyone before placing their signature on any sort of agreement: Read every word before you sign, and be sure you understand what those words mean! Saying later, "I didn't know what it meant", is no excuse.

In everyday life, this rule is most important in signing anything which is called a "chattel mortgage" or "conditional sales contract" or "time payment plan" or "installment credit". Your signature on these means you accept certain terms in the purchase of an automobile, or washing machine, or refrigerator, or some other necessity. You will want to make sure you'll be able to fulfill your part and not lose the money you may already have invested in a down payment.

Once you've put your names on a legal contract, it's the law, and the duty of the courts to see that you keep your word! Chances are you can't back out. (This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Farm tractor accidents now take more than 1,000 lives annually. Operate the tractor with care and foresight, says W. L. Ulich, extension ag engineer, for it can become a killer. Excessive speed is the number one cause of tractor accidents. Don't carry extra passengers on the tractor and don't take it on the highway or public roads after dark without proper lighting on the front and rear.

The meaningful emblem of Body by Fisher

When you see "sterling" on silver you know what it means—solid silver, all the way through.

And when you see the medallion "Body by Fisher" on an automobile it means much the same thing—quality all the way through, in things unseen as well as on the visible, gleaming surface.

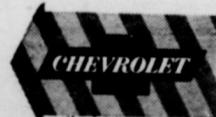

The significance of this emblem cannot be tested on the showroom floor. Its meaning was not built up in a day but only after long years in which owners learned that "Body by Fisher" was a veritable symbol of solid, enduring satisfaction.

Only one who has owned a Chevrolet for several years can fully know the deep sense of satisfaction this emblem pledges. It is the warranty of an inner soundness that your eye or your touch cannot test. And only Chevrolet in the low-price field is entitled to wear the small, proud plaque that proclaims "Body by Fisher."

How strong is the weaker sex?

Strong enough to carry a 3-ton elephant in daily installments. That's about how much laundry the average woman carries to and from her clothesline every year.

Wish you could get out of that heavy work? Well, you can—with an electric clothes dryer. And the cost for electric- ity is just a few cents a day.

There are dozens of other electric serv- ants that can make your life easier and more enjoyable for pennies worth of electricity—a dishwasher, for instance, or an automatic washing machine. You can afford to let electricity do all your work—for it's the biggest bargain in your family budget!

Knox Prairie Philosopher Explains A New Law Of Economics On Thrift, Which He Probably Invented Himself

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses economics this week, which he's as good at as he is anything else, if you follow us.

Dear editor: Everybody is worried about the farmer these days, but that's because they don't understand the long-range situation.

I got to thinking about this after I read in a magazine which I picked up for a few minutes in the drug store in town the other day, I know druggists object to people reading their magazines without buying em but I've seen druggists out driving around looking at my cows without offering to buy any. I figure it's even, at any rate, what I read was on article saying that farmers are whipping the situation they're in by taking jobs in town.

A neighbor of mine says farming has come to a sorry state when a farmer has to work in town to stay on the farm in the country, but I don't look at it that way. That is, while personally I'm not interested in working in town, I'm not even very interested in working in the country, it's all right with me if others want to.

Actually, they're only following one of the laws of economics, which apparently a lot of people don't understand.

The law is that during a depression city people go to the farm to work to stay alive, and during prosperity, farmers go to town to work to stay alive.

There's nothing wrong with this law, but you've got to understand it to get along.

You've got to remember that prosperity for everybody is fine, but prosperity for everybody all at the same time is a reckless sort of thing. It's sort of like having everybody save all his money at the same time. If you're going to get ahead, there's got to be somebody left you can get ahead of.

Thrift and economy are fine things, but you get everybody practicing it all the same time and business would dry up like a water hole in a long drought. This country needs thrifty people, but they ought to remember that a certain part of the advantage of their thriftiness is based on the free-spending of others. There's nothing better for the stability of the country than a saving account, but you've got to remember also if everybody saved everything, the lending business would be a tough go. As I see it, this country's economy is based on two things: thrift and the no-down-payment.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

News From The U. S. Congress

Congressman Frank Ikard

One of the real cornerstones of our Government as it is established and defined by the Constitution is that there are certain powers that are vested in the Federal Government and others that are retained by the several States. During recent years the power and authority of the Federal Government has been greatly expanded almost completely at the expense of those rights reserved to the States. If we are to continue to maintain the balance between the States and the Federal Government that has made possible the development of our country and the protection of our individual rights, the authority and rights of the various States must be reversed.

Three issues will shortly come before the Congress which bear directly upon this situation. One of these, discussed here several weeks, and that is the legislation that would prevent the Supreme Court through its decisions nullifying laws that have been enacted and the principle recognized that there are certain fields in which the States have sovereignty equal to or in some instances above that of the Federal Government. Another piece of legislation that will shortly be considered is that of broad Federal aid-to-education. Aid in the manner that is contemplated by the bills dealing with the subject can only mean that Federal control of education would shortly follow. Any educational system should be controlled and administered as nearly as possible at the local level, and the average school board is more sensitive to the needs of a particular community and can do a better job running the schools than can the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare here in Washington. The third issue that will be considered is the so-called "civil rights" legislation that has been presented by Attorney General Brownell. These proposals would give the Federal Government some excuse to control even Primary Elections which, historically, have been within the exclusive jurisdiction of the States. They would also greatly increase the authority of the Department of Justice to investigate matters that are purely of local interest and by no stretch of the imagination should ever be a Federal offense. Perhaps the most unusual and unpalatable part of this proposal is that it would allow the prosecution of an individual for merely intending to violate these proposed civil rights statutes. This would, of course, be a new approach in our law in being an attempt to punish somebody for what they think. It is absolutely foreign to every concept of our law and the protection of individual rights.

Visitors to Washington this week were Mr. Tom Craddock, of Seymour, and Mr. W. M. Creech, of Olney.

LAMB PRICES SAG AFTER HITTING TWO-YEAR PEAK

FORT WORTH—Texas' monopoly on the lamb business came to an abrupt end at mid-week last week as receipts increased around the major marketing circle and prices dropped sharply.

Choice Spring lambs topped at $25 to $27.50 last week and Monday the top here was $22, with one load at $23. Choice clipped lambs at $20 to $21 Monday compared with a $22 to $23 top at the high time last week.

Packers were shying away from the fleshy and half fat lambs Monday whereas a week earlier they had gobbled them up. Stocker and buyer were taking a good percentage of these fleshy and half fat lambs to fill their orders at prices $3 to $5 under the highest points of last week.

Comparative prices: Good and choice Spring lambs $18 to $22, one load $23 on shipper account. Cull to medium Springers $12 to $17. Stocker and feeder Spring lambs $14 to $16. Good and choice shorn old crop lambs $17 to $21 and cull to medium shorn lambs $10 to $16. Stocker and feeder shorn lambs $13 to $14, a few fancy to $15.

Old ewes $3.50 to $5 and old bucks around $4. Some aged wethers cashed at $7 to $13.

HOGS HIT NEW HIGH FOR SEASON WITH $16.50 TOP

Choice meat topped at $16.50 at Fort Worth Monday, the best price since early last Fall and a new high for the season. A decline of 20,000 in hogs around the 12 major markets was credited with strengthening the market. Less desirable butchers sold from $12 to $16 and some butcher pigs drew $11 to $12. Sows sold from $9 to $12.50. Stags drew $5 to $7.

Cattle Open Fully Steady Fat Cattle Scarce

Trade was fairly active and prices generally were steady at Fort Worth on all classes of cattle and calves Monday.

Comparative prices: Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings $16.50 to $21, with fed heifers at $19.50 down. Common to medium butcher cattle $12 to $16.50. Fat cows $11 to $13, and canners and cutters $7 to $11. Bulls $10 to $14.50.

Good and choice butcher calves $17 to $21.50; and common and medium butcher calves $13 to $16, with culls from $11 to $13. Stocker steer calves were quoted from $19.50 down; and steer yearlings from $18 down.

COWMEN HIT SOIL BANK GRAZING PLANS

Don Collins, President of the American National Cattlemen's Association this week reaffirmed that group's opposition to grazing acres set aside under any soil bank plan. The cattlemen's group says increased cattle production will further depress cattle prices because of the over-production that will result.
