Odd Bits Salvaged at Random

"We still have a drouth on, but we've lots of things to thank for..."

Our community was not directly effected by loss of loved ones when those two giant airliners collided and crashed, claiming the lives of all aboard.

We read with awe—but not in deep sorrow of loved ones lost—of the collision of those two big ships a few days ago when the Italian liner, Andrea Doria, sank with many lives lost.

Still closer to home but still with no one immediately effected by sudden death of loved ones was the huge explosion at the oil tank farm near Dumas, with 19 killed and 32 injured.

No one close to our home town has been killed or maimed in traffic accidents during recent weeks.

The election may not have turned out like we wanted it to, but our county recorded a nice vote—so taken all in all, guess we have a lot to be thankful for.

The American Bankers Magazine carried the following item, which we found in a Mississippi newspaper that came to our office:

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half, or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name should be mentioned if you do not use more than a two-line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town... it's the best possible town advertiser. The man or woman who does not advertise does an injustice to himself or herself, and definitely the town."

Glenn Shelton of the Wichita Falls paper is about the neeviest man we know of. He dedicated his entire column last Tuesday to women, bringing his wife and mother-in-law into the discussion. He was able to write a column for Wednesday's paper, too!

A Hoyt Gray guarantee is not worth a flip. We struck Hoyt during the early afternoon Monday. "It's going to rain today, ditto," he said. "Will you guarantee that?" we inquired, and he rejoined with "You bet!" It was just a wee bit dryer Tuesday than on Monday.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own.

Truscott Man Is Appointed On FHA County Committee

Earl A. Burgess of Truscott, was appointed to the Farmers Home Administration committee for Knox County this week. Wilburn A. Satterwhite, local supervisor for the agency, announced today. The appointment was made by Walter T. McKay, State Director at Dallas.

The new committeeman operated a farm located one mile north of Gilliland, where he raises cotton, grain and livestock. Mr. Burgess succeeds Mr. Murval H. Jackson of Vera, whose term expired this year.

The other two members of the committee are Mr. B. E. Smith and Mr. John H. Atterbury.

The committee determines the eligibility of local farmers who apply for Farmers Home Administration loans. They also certify as to the value of farms being purchased or improved through Farmers Home Administration loans, and make recommendations on loan approvals and loan servicing actions. Advice of the committeemen is sought on good farm management and on the financing of Farmers Home Administration loans when borrowers build up enough equity in their property to get credit from banks or other lenders.

The county supervisor relies upon the advice of the committee in connection with all types of loans. These include farm operating loans, loans to buy, improve, or enlarge efficient family-type farms in this area, and loans to establish and carry on approved soil and water conservation practices, including improving permanent pastures, terracing, soil erosion measures, farmstead water systems, irrigation, drainage, and many other conservation practices.

Quota Ended On Polio Vaccine

Federal allotment of Salk polio vaccine to the states was ended on Wednesday with the word that the supply was more plentiful, according to an announcement from Washington.

This means that the vaccine goes on the open market, in the sense that manufacturers can sell it in normal channels of distribution without earmarking any specific quantity for individual states. The government will continue its financial assistance program to states and territories for purchase of vaccine and for public vaccination programs for children under 20 and expectant mothers. It was stated.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cude and children and Mrs. R. T. Morrow and Jack left Sunday for a vacation in San Antonio and Waco.

Week end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hobert were Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Crouch and daughter and Charlotte and Elaine Sells of Byrdstown, Tenn. Mrs. Crouch is a cousin of Mrs. Hobert.

WONDERFUL PLACE FOR THE HOUSEWIFE:

"The United States must be a wonderful place for the housewife!"
That, according to the president of an American food chain company, was the comment most frequently made by Italian housewives who visited a complete "American Way" supermarket which was an outstanding exhibit at a recent international food congress in Rome.

There's no doubt that those same Italian housewives, if they'd had a chance to visit an "American Way" variety store, department store, specialty shop, or any other modern U. S. retail outlet, would have made similar comment. And that would be true of housewives in most of the other countries of the world.

The point is that the American system of mass distribution—like the American system of mass production which it complements—has no counterpart elsewhere on the globe. Even in the most advanced European countries, generally speaking, retail stores which even fairly approximate American standards are found only in the large cities, and are few in number. Here in the United States the people in the small towns get the same kinds of goods, at about the same prices, along with the same standards of service and sanitation, as do the people in any metropolis. And the take-home pay of the average American family will buy far more of the necessities and luxuries than is the case with the average European family—due in considerable part to intense retail competition.

Yes—the United States is a "wonderful place for the housewife!"

WHAT MAKES AMERICA

There's no doubt that in the last generation or so more and more persons have developed the habit of looking to government to do things for them and to solve their problems.

So this statement by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is highly timely: "The success of our economy depends not upon government, but upon the efforts of all the people all trying to do a little more for themselves, trying to better themselves and their loved one. It is the cumulative effect of all this undivided effort . . . that makes our system superior to anything ever known in this world before. That's what makes makes America."

"The only way improve society is to improve oneself." . . . Norman Douglas, in South Wind.

FACTS ABOUT RIGHT-TO-WORK

Retail sales are among the best barometers of business conditions. They strongly reflect the status of employment, of wages and income, and the health of family pocketbooks.

A survey, based on U. S. Bureau of Census figures, shows that retail sales increased by an average of 38.4 per cent between 1948 and 1954 in the 12 states having right-to-work laws during that period. In the 36 non-right-to-work states and D. C. the gain was much less—29.9 per cent.

No one claims that right-to-work laws were the sole reason for the difference. But the comparison is important because it has been argued that the right-to-work principle would undermine the economic welfare of working people and cause all manner of financial difficulties in the states adopting it.

Actually, the right-to-work law is in the direct interest of working people. It says, in effect, that a man can join a union or not join, as he wishes, and that in neither case can that be a condition of employment. In other words, he is a free agent. The union must sell itself to him on its merits—not through coercion and the knowledge that he won't be able to get or hold a job if he doesn't join. That cannot help but make for better and more effective unions.

Finally, the right-to-work is as precious a right as any people can possess—and it should legally be considered so. Without it there can be no real freedom. It is the firm, unyielding shield that stands between the individual and dictatorship from the employer on the one hand and the labor organization on the other.

IN A SENTENCE

Governor Elmo Smith of Oregon, in discussing a proposed tax program, covered a problem of national scope in this single sentence: "Too many people think, in the back of their minds, that a tax is something someone else should pay, and a service is something they should receive."

Individuals and groups and organizations of every kind are trying to pay as little in taxes as possible—and, at the same time, trying to get as much special privilege from government as possible.

So long as that attitude prevails we will have wasteful, exorbitantly expensive government—along with a dangerous degree of political domination of our lives and pursuits.

If it is a mild case of poisoning, recovery usually begins in eight to 12 hours, but victims may feel the ill effects for several days. Usual symptoms of food poisoning are diarrhea, nausea, vomiting, may be mild, causing only weakness and discomfort, or they may be severe enough to result in death. Unfortunately, you can't always tell if food is safe by its appearance, smell or taste. A physician should be called when any of the symptoms of food poisoning are felt. Drouth Aid Again Needed In Texas

The desperate conditions of many Texas farmers and ranches in the drouth areas cannot be over-emphasized.

Many of South Texas' once-fruitful fields are barren of all vegetation. Other fields in Central and West Texas, teased by scattered spring showers, produced a small start in crops that were later bugned to the ground when the full impact of the drouth reasserted itself.

Drouth relief is primarily a responsibility of the state. It is a responsibility that Texas must eventually assume.

But the only hope the farmers have right now is for the federal government to step in with money that has been appropriated by Congress for just such emergencies.

State officials and representatives from farm and ranch organizations, as well as county judges and other interested groups, have pin-pointed the immediate needs for agriculture this year. Briefly, the plans involve:

For cropland farmers, immediate cash payment of 75% of parity on basic crops in the drouth areas, based on acreage allotments for 1956. Payment up to a maximum of $5,000 is asked whether or not the crops have any chance to mature. Secondly, consolidation and refinancing of farm loans by the federal government on a 30-year basis, up to $15,000. In addition, a moratorium should be declared on present federal loans for one year.

For stockmen: (1) Emergency loans on a 30-year basis, not to exceed $15,000 with a moratorium on present federal loans.

(2) Immediate distribution of surplus government feeds with farmers paying only transportation and administrative costs.

(3) Direct payment of $10 per ton on the amount of hay stockmen need to carry their cattle through the emergency period.

These proposals are not the complete answer. But they represent what the farmers and ranches need for survival through a drouth that is now in its seventh year in many sections of Texas.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Law Of Escheat Explained

Made your will? If not, the State of Texas may wind up as owner of your estate upon your death. Under our statutes, the estates of persons having no heirs who die intestate revert, or "escheat", to the State.

Such provisions have been carried over from the English common law. There, under such circumstances, the estate escheated to the British crown. The theory of the process is that the sovereign (or State), having been the original owner of all lands before they were parcelled out to individuals, is entitled to a return of such lands when the possibilities of legal inheritance have been exhausted.

This idea has been expanded to include personal property as well as real estate. It also applies in the case of a person absent for a term of seven years and not known to exist who leaves no heirs and no will.

Presumably, there is hardly a person who does not have some individual or charity that he would prefer to have his estate, rather than have it go to the State by default, so to speak. Yet, surprisingly, estates worth many thousands of dollars do escheat to the various states from time to time.

Now, before you shrug the matter off with the idea that these statutory provisions could not possibly apply to you, better think a minute. Suppose you and your spouse have no heirs besides each other and your children. Many people do fall into this category.

In event of a catastrophe resulting in death for you and your entire immediate family, no legal heirs would remain. Therefore

What happens to property which escheats to the State? Following certain required legal formalities and court proceedings, all escheated lands are set apart to the Permanent Free School Fund of the State, and may be leased and sold by the Land Commissioner under certain regulations. Escheated personal property is sold by the local sheriff under a court writ and the money received therefrom paid into the State Treasury.

Electric saws and drills and other power tools can save you hours of work on a single project. And dozens of other electric servants—like washers, dryers and dishwashers—save work and worry for other members of your family.

Go upstairs, go downstairs, go all around your house and look at the ways electricity is working for you. Then think of the low price: just a few cents a day.

Chief aim of the fifth annual conference is to explore ways to extend the scope and influence of the IFYE program. During the four day meeting, the delegates will share ideas on how they can continue to carry out the IFYE objective... developing better understanding among rural people throughout the free world.

Since the first delegates went abroad in 1948, 630 young men and women from the United States have lived and worked with farm families in 50 different countries. Ten of these delegates have come from Texas. In exchange, hundreds of foreign youths have come to this nation to observe U. S. agriculture and study American community and social life.

Lilley spent his time in Turkey and Ross in Austria. Lilley is president of the IFYE alumni group in Texas and Ross is chairman of the exhibit committee.

Director J. E. Morrison of the Colorado Agricultural Extension Service has extended a special invitation to all former IFYE delegates to attend the meeting and visit in the state. He describes the IFYE alumni group as "trail blazers in learning and teaching better understanding between the peoples of the free world in a truly democratic way."

The International Farm Youth Exchange program is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Land Grant Colleges of the nation and the National 4-H Club Foundation. It is a privately financed program.

Atterbury and Mr. Earl A. Burgess.

Applicants are approved as eligible only if other lenders cannot adequately supply their credit needs and only if prospects are favorable for their being able to improve their farming and repay loans. Families are expected to refinance their loans with other lenders as soon as they are in a position to do so.

The Munday Times

The Eastland County oil field was developed by cable tools during the great boom. But since then the rotary method has been steadily gaining in general until it has become the predominant procedure in most fields. Cocky Yeager, an old-time driller in Eastland, predicted that the scenes which were almost the birthplace of the American oil industry will be the scenes where the hard-rock crews will make their last stand. He remarked: "Back in 1924, I worked on a well in Logan County, W. Va. We had to build a road a mile long to the location. Even then, it was too steep for horses or mules, much less trucks, so we used oxen to bring in the materials and machinery. We had to blast out a place to set the boiler and, before we had reached a depth of 1,300 feet, we had had no less than five fishing jobs because of the hard formation, and before we got down 1,800 feet, we wore out two new 10-inch bits, each seven feet long. But we got a well!

"When I finally have to, that's where I'm going"—his jaw chewing a mouthful of tobacco, rhythmically—and I'll bet you a trainload of Mail Pouch that no d... rotary ever tackles THAT country!"

The late M. G. Jackson of Eastland was known as "the man who debated Cyclone Davis." The cyclonic one, (father of the latter-day Cyclone Davis) was a Populist Congressman from East Texas and a tremendous speaker. When he invaded West Texas, in the palmy days of Populism, none of the Eastland lawyers wanted to meet him on the stump. Still, it would not do for the Democrats to permit him to speak, unopposed. So Jackson, a farmer, was selected.

The debate in Eastland was to be held in the afternoon. That morning, Jackson and several friends went to a neighboring town and heard Davis. Thus, the farmer had an opportunity to plan his remarks. Davis was somewhat taken aback when he found his adversary was not lawyer or politician. Jackson had the sympathy of the crowd (most of them were farmers) and he did well. In fact, Cyclone praised him from the platform. Ever after, Jackson was known as "The man who debated Cyclone Davis."

HUMBLE RESEARCH

presents to the motorists of Texas the world's finest automotive gasoline...

This new gasoline is designed for the growing number of automobile engines with very high compression ratios, and for cars that tend to knock on "premium" gasolines. In many cars, it is the only gasoline that will give you knock-free performance.

It has the highest octane rating of any automotive gasoline in town—the highest by far.

But octane rating is only one performance quality. Other improvements match Golden Esso Extra's increase in octane rating: this new gasoline also sets new quality standards for quick starting and fast warm-up, for protection against vapor-lock, for minimizing engine deposits, for maximum acceleration, for protection against gum formation, for long mileage and maximum power.

It is the finest gasoline Humble has ever made—its performance rates it "premium over premium."

If yours is a car with a very high compression engine tends to knock on "premium" gasoline—fill up with Golden Esso Extra at the golden pump under the Humble sign. You'll save the extra cost through performance, operating economy, and added gasoline mileage.

Golden Esso Extra is One of Three Great Humble Gasolines

Golden Esso Extra is for cars with very high compression ratios. But there are hundreds of thousands of automobiles in Texas that give perfect performance on Humble's famous Esso Extra gasoline, and there are others that perform well on regular grade Humble Motor Fuel.

Humble provides all three grades: Golden Esso Extra—premium over premium; Famous Esso Extra—premium; Humble Motor Fuel—regular.

Thus: you pay only for the quality your car requires.

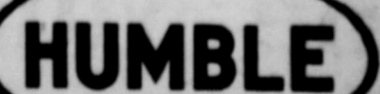

Those whose cars require Golden Esso Extra quality will find it profitable to pay more for this new gasoline.

But for many, Famous Esso Extra is the best gasoline they can use, No. 1 in Texas, first in sales among the "Premiums" because it's first in quality. This great gasoline will continue to be the leader in its field.

For others, Humble Motor Fuel sets the pace for performance and mileage among the "Regulars." It is the only regular gasoline in Texas that contains a patented solvent oil to keep your engine clean.

Use and pay only for the gasoline your car requires... You'll find it under the Humble sign.

Senator "Cotton" Moffett Returned To Office By Wide Vote Margin In Area

An anticipated close battle for senator in the 23rd District turned into a runaway in Saturday's election as incumbent George Moffett apparently swept all 11 counties to defeat Jack Banner of Wichita Falls almost three to one.

Unofficial returns reported late Sunday from all boxes except two gave Moffett a smashing victory, showing 30,189 for Moffett, as compared with 10,668 votes for Banner.

The returns from boxes at Gilliland and one in Throckmorton were not complete.

In Wichita County, Banner's home county, the vote was only little more than two to one for Moffett, as the senator polled 12,733 to Banner's 6,250.

Wilbarger County, home grounds for Moffett, overwhelmingly carried the senator 3,273 to 569.

Only other counties where the vote was close as two to one were Throckmorton and Haskell. Throckmorton, with one box of approximately 100 votes not complete, supported Moffett 740 to 321, while Haskell gave Moffett 2,517 and Banner 1,092.

Biggest boost in a "neutral" county for the incumbent was reported in Young, where Moffett received 2,533 votes to 645 for his opponent.

Other counties and votes were: Archer, 1,397 for Moffett and 499 for Banner; Baylor 1,516 for the incumbent and 376 for the Wichita; Hardeman gave Moffett 1,829 and Banner 231; Foard voted 700 to 141 in favor of Moffett; Cottle supported Moffett 1,297 to 160; and King favored the incumbent 148 to 17 in the lightest vote reported.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Baffled By The Rise In Cost Of Living And Fall In The Price Of Farm Products

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek seems to be puzzled this week, which really is his customary turn of mind, only he doesn't always recognize it.

J. A.

Dear editor: I don't get to read a newspaper every day and I've been wondering—during a few skips in my reading has Congress repealed the law of supply and demand?

The reason I ask this is that yesterday I picked up a paper from the road out here near my farm where somebody had spread it on the ground to get under his car to put the jack to fix a flat and I took it home and read where living costs have hit an all-time high.

Now that in itself wasn't news to me, as best I can tell, living costs have been going up ever since I can remember, every year it takes a little more than it did the year before to get by, if you don't believe this, ask anybody you know, but what did floor me was the statement that the reason living costs have gone so high is because food prices have jumped.

But the people I sell what I produce out here on this farm have been telling me the reason the price I get is so low is because of the huge surplus.

What this looks to me like is that the more the farmers produce, the higher the price of food goes, on the way back, that is, not as it leaves the farm.

Everybody blames this on the middle man, and what I've been wondering is why ain't the middle man subject to the law of supply and demand the same as us farmer?

As I say, I may have missed reading the papers on the days Congress repealed this law, or the Supreme Court ruled it unconstitutional, and if so I would appreciate you getting hold of our Congressman and straightening me out on this.

Understand, I'm not opposed to this new working of the law of supply and demand, I have been contending for years that what the farmer needed was high prices when he raises a lot, not when he raises a little, can't anybody get ahead on that plan, and it looks like the middle man has figured out the secret, which is worth a lot more than the secret of the atom bomb, and apparently is a lot more closely guarded. At least none of us farmers have been able to figure it out, just as very few Congressmen are equipped to make an atom bomb.

Your faithfully,
J. A.

Once a cultivated pasture is established, management largely determines its productivity, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist. Good management includes rotation grazing, cross fencing, making hay or silage from excess growth, mowing as needed, using temporary pastures, using plenty of fertilizer and supplementing succulent grazing with dry hay.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own!

BAPTISTS BELIEVE . . . IN CHRIST, THE LIVING SAVIOUR

Wounded lion dying with a spear in his side, always attracts attention in a little park in Lucerne, Switzerland. It is carved in a stone cliff in memory of Swiss guards who died defending a French king. The carving reminds us that suffering borne for someone else is a call to the higher levels of living.

Baptists believe that this is supremely so in the case of Jesus Christ, our Saviour. Centuries before Christ, it was prophesied that Christ should be a "man of sorrows" and be "wounded for our transgressions" (Isaiah 53:5).

When he finally came to earth men put him to death on a cruel wooden cross. Besides the cross there were searing nails that tore his flesh, a heavy lashing whip and a crown of thorns from those who mocked him. In agony on his cross when he felt separated from God he cried out, "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" (Mark 15:34).

He endured this agony that man might not be separated from God. God took his cross—man's worst deed against God—and turned it to God's best deed for man. All this suffering had a purpose. It was to save man from his heaviest weight he has to bear—his unforgiven sin. "The wages of sin is death." (Romans 6:23).

Once a cultivated pasture is established, management largely determines its productivity, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist. Good management includes rotation grazing, cross fencing, making hay or silage from excess growth, mowing as needed, using temporary pastures, using plenty of fertilizer and supplementing succulent grazing with dry hay.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own!

TROPHY TO TEXAS' TOP TRUCKER

C. J. Van Beekum, Inc. of Lubbock has received the state's highest award for traffic safety during 1955-56. Hauling explosives and blasting supplies, Van Beekum's fleet of 20 trucks has traveled over a million and a half miles in the past two years without a single accident. The annual contest is sponsored by Texas Motor Transportation Association and Trailmobile, Inc. Shown at the presentation of the grand trophy during the Texas trucking industry's convention at Houston are, left to right: Rufus Jones, assistant to the president of Trailmobile, Cincinnati, Ohio; C. J. Van Beekum and his wife, who shared the proud moment; and James E. Taylor, executive director of TMTA, with offices at Austin.

BROU TH MAKES EARLIER SUPPLEMENTARY FEEDING NECESSARY

The lack of moisture in many areas of the state has stopped the growth of pasture plants and brought about a need of supplementary feeding of dairy herds. Farm management specialists of the Texas A & M College System point out as plants mature, their nutritive value declines, especially the percentage of protein. As protein content of the roughage drops, the loss must be offset by increasing the protein in the concentrate ration if top milk production is to be maintained.

The specialists, C. H. Bates of the Texas Extension Service and A. C. Magee and B. H. Stone of the Experiment Station, offer to dairymen five suggestions for beating the usual summer slump in milk output. Hay or silage is suggested as a supplement for pastures; boost the protein content of the concentrate mixture in accordance with the quality of the roughage the cows are receiving; graze the herd early or late in the day and provide plenty of shade as a protection against extreme heat; provide an adequate supply of clean water at all times and plan for early seeding of fall grazing crops. Keep the land on which the crops will be planted clean and in condition to hold moisture and they suggest getting a soil test made now.

They also offer a tip on buying hay. The best buy, they say, is usually hay which was cut while the plants were young. Hay from such plants is higher in leafiness and protein content and is actually a better buy even at a higher price than is hay made from mature plants.

Local county agents, point out the specialists, can supply bulletins and advice on many of the summer time problems which confront agricultural producers. They suggest a visit with him.
