Rainfall Not Determined By Weather Cycles

Weather cycles don't mean a thing in making predictions of periods of "wet and dry" years.

And Munday area farmers and ranches can expect more years of below average rainfall than years above.

A study of rainfall records made at 31 locations on the High and Rolling Plains by Dr. R. J. Hildreth and Dr. Gerald W. Thomas of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station show that cycles have little or no part in annual rainfall.

"Average or normal rainfall seldom occurs," Dr. Hildreth said. "The records indicate that farmers and ranchers in the High and Rolling Plains should figure more years-52 to 60 percent-will be below average in rainfall than years above average.'

Records dating back to 1913 at Munday show more than half the years-56 percent-have had rain fall below the annual of 24.3 inches. Half the years had rainfall above 22.2 inches and half below.

"Using past records to predict the future, 10 to 20 inches of rainfall may be expected 34 percent of the time; 20 to 30 inches, 39 percent of the time; 30 to 40 inches, 24 percent of the time; and over 40 inches, 3 percent of Any wheat producer who has the time, Dr. Hildreth added.

A VAST NEW HOLIDAY LAND in the heart of Texas will be created under the Brazos River Authority's master plan for development of the river. The map shows how the Authority's Six-Dam Program will provide a chain of lakes 250 miles long stretching between Whitney Dam at Waco and Possum Kingdom above Mineral Wells. This continuous body of water, convenient to virtually all Texas sportsmen, will become a center of a great new recreation industry. This Land o' Lakes of Texas will provide boating, fishing and camping facilities on a scale never before known in the Southwest. They also will assure the Brazos Valley of an ample water supply for irrigation, industry and municipal use far into the future. A by-product will be hydro-electricity. AUSTIN-When the rains finally come and the old fishing holes are ready for restoration, Texas Game and Fish Commission hatchery should be adequate, reports the Commission's Director of hatcheries. He said only ten of the fourteen state hatcheries now are operating for lack of water, but that sufficient brood stock are available to get all in production in

The Director said the hatcheries are geared to produce upwards of 15,000,000 fish annually, mosty black bass. Catfish, bream and crapple are produced in considerable quantity.

"Many folks are pretty depressed about their favorite fishing holes drying up," said the Director. "In many cases the temporary drainage of the tanks and small lakes, or even rivers, will mean a rejuvenated fish population when a normal wet cycle returns, Countless fishing places had become over-populated with stunted perch which were detrimental to stocks of desirable species, and therefore detrimental to fishing as a general rule."

USDA Names 23 Wheat Varieties In 1957 Discount

Discounts to discourage plantings of undersirable wheat varieties were included in the pricesupport program for the first time on the 1956 wheat crop. Today the USDA released a list of 23 varieties which are classed as undersirable because of inferior milling or baking qualities. They will be discounted 20 cents per bushel in price-support rates on the 1957 wheat crop.

According to extension agronomists, the hard red winter varities are most commonly grown in Texas and those on the undesirable list include Stafford, Pawnee Sel. 33, Red Chief, Chiefkan, Early Blackhull, Red Jacket, Kanking, New Chief, Blue Jacket, Purkof, Cimarron and Red Hull. Others listed are soft red winter, hard red spring, durum and white wheat varieties.

These 23 varieties were designated as undesirable by the Agricultural Research Service after consultation with state agricultural experiment station personnel, agronomists, cereal chemists and others on state and Federal staffs.

The extension agronomists point out that the discount on these undesirable hard red winter varieties should not hamper Texas wheat producers because research has developed varieties which are better yielders as well as producers of better milling and baking quality wheat.
