Odd Bits Salvaged
 By The Editor

Where were you when they passed out the Oscars? k-k
 It was "Oscar night" on TV last night when we got home from a lodge meeting. We thought perhaps we had missed the event as we left the meeting, and that the remainder of our household was fast asleep. But she was still up, watching Bob Hope emcee the event, and the stars getting their awards.

So we remained awake to see the finish. That time, around 11:30 p.m., may not be later than the usual bedtime for most folks, but it took a little extra effort upon our part to get out of bed, even 20 minutes after the regular time. Again we've concluded that we're out of prime for Oscar Nights and New Years Eve parties! k-k

"Most of them are going to Ben Hur," Mrs. A. said as we joined the show. And sure enough, "Ben Hur," the most expensive movie ever made, was named best picture of the year and won more awards than any other film in Academy history—11 Oscars. k-k

This might signify one thing—and we hope it does — that the movie industry is coming back into its own. At least "Oscar Night" showed that they're still making good pictures and at great expense. k-k

And we, like a lot of other people, haven't seen the new version of Ben Hur. We think we recall seeing the picture years ago, possibly before sound. It's a shame that many of us had rather kick off our shoes, prop our feet up, lean back in our easy chairs and watch such TV tripe as murder mysteries and one western "shoot 'em up" after another than get out to our local movie theatre. And a lot of us didn't know much about the performance of those who won the top acting and producing awards last Monday night. k-k

Back in our youth, when the lowly tumbleweed came rolling across the cotton patch on the wings of a blue natcher, scattering its numerous seeds over a wide area, we thought there was no excuse for such a nuisance in this world. But now, it seems the tumbleweed is coming into its own. k-k

Just a few years ago, farmers saw what they termed "crazy people" gathering tumbleweeds from the barrow ditches and fence rows along their farms. What resulted was some right clever yard decorations for the Christmas season. k-k

Now, we understand, there's an industry being established in Colorado City for commercializing the tumbleweed. And at the opening of this industry, which will be in the near future, will be the Governor and Attorney General of Texas. Our guess is that it will be a long time before they run out of the "raw material" for this industry. k-k

Did you help elect the two trustees for the Munday Schools last Saturday? They are the ones who will help guide the policies of the local schools next year. k-k

Did you help elect, or vote against, the three members of the Munday city council last Tuesday? They will be at the helm of city government for another two years. The point is if you didn't even turn out to vote, you didn't exercise your privilege or duty—and if our school or city government isn't carried on to your liking, you have no beef coming! k-k

There's another election—the first Democratic Primary—coming up in exactly one month, and you should be thinking about that. It is a privilege for American people to vote according to their desires. It's more than a privilege—it's also a duty. Perform your duty on May 7th.

MEDICAL CARE FOR THE NEEDY

No person, regardless of age, needs to forego a physician's service because of inability to pay. That statement has been made by Dr. Louis M. Orr, president of the American Medical Association, in opposing a bill which proposes federal purchase of certain health care services for social security beneficiaries.

The backers of this bill would have us believe that many Americans, and especially those in later life, are denied medical care because they cannot afford to pay for it. But, as Dr. Orr points out, the evidence is to the contrary. Since time immemorial, physicians have given their services to the indigent without compensation, and the value of these donated services runs to millions of dollars a year. Many county medical societies have even run paid advertisements in newspapers guaranteeing the services of a physician to all who need him. "I am certain," Dr. Orr added, "that every other county medical society also will answer the need for a physician."

How, then, can the interests, medically speaking, of the aged be best served? Dr. Orr listed a number of areas: By encouraging further development of voluntary health insurance; by replacing compulsory retirement and age discrimination in employment with more realistic and flexible systems; by curbing inflation; by encouraging construction of nursing homes and other facilities designed to care for the long-term patients efficiently and economically; and by increasing reimbursement of hospitals by social and state governments for care of the needy of any age.

We can, in sum, solve whatever health problems still exist without embarking on a program of gradual socialization of medical care.

ROSEBURG, ORE. NEWS-REVIEW: "We find that more and more taxes are being imposed upon the workingman to provide low-cost housing to great numbers of people, to keep hordes of people in idleness on welfare, to extend unemployment benefits in which widespread chiseling has been indicated, and to spread dollars in many other ways designed to capture votes, although every dollar must come out of the pockets of taxpayers and principally from the pockets of working men. Yet the liberals contend to be friends of the laboring man while, at the same time, turning his pockets wrong side out."

SUNDAY SCHOOL—A FORCE FOR FAITH

This year marks the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Laymen's National Committee, Inc., an interfaith organization dedicated to the proposition that "America was founded on man's consciousness of God, man's daily labor and the fruits therefrom." The Committee sponsors National Sunday School Week, April 11-17, 1960. The theme for the week this year is, "Sunday School—A Force for Faith."

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has said, "The sixteenth annual observance of National Sunday School Week should serve as a signal re-emphasizing to all responsible citizens the need for a return to religion in our standards of living."

"The Sunday Schools of our Nation can make a tremendous contribution to the necessary realignment of our guide for daily activity. The importance of religion as the major factor in the conduct of our lives must be instilled in our young men and women, and from there, it will assume its rightful place in the lives of every citizen, every community and every nation."

FACTS ABOUT SCHOOLS

In view of aggressive efforts to pass federal aid-to-education bills, a statement made last September by Senator Goldwater, ranking minority member of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, deserves national attention:

"During the past 5 years, the Senate and Public Welfare Committee has held many days of hearings on bills which would provide Federal aid to the States for the construction of schools. And yet, there has never been one State school officer, when closely questioned by members of the committee, who admitted that his State could not adequately take care of its own classroom shortage. This point is well illustrated by the fact that during the past 10 years, 500,000 classrooms have been built in the United States, 71,600 alone in the school year of 1957-58. . . . It is obvious that the States and local communities are doing an excellent job in maintaining the pace required to house adequately our growing school-age population and they are doing this job without the help of the Federal Government. It is also obvious that the States and local communities can continue to meet their school building requirements without any assistance whatsoever from the Federal Government."

Chips From The Carpenter's Workbench

By HAROLD C. PADEN

"As this broken bread was scattered upon the mountains, but was brought together and become one, so let thy Church so gather together from the ends of the earth into thy Kingdom," (Didache 9:4) was the way the first century Christians regarded their assemblies. The many members of the church, though scattered during the week, came together as a "body" for worship to "break bread," each Lord's Day, (Acts 20:7). This feast of the Agape and "breaking bread" were associated with a common meal in the beginning. Christ had instituted the "Supper" during a feast, (Matthew 26:26) Jesus did not identify himself to the two who walked to Emmaus, after the resurrection, until they were ready for the evening meal. (Luke 24:13) ff, Jesus appeared, after his resurrection, while the disciples were gathered in the Upper Room, for a meal, and he ate with them. Therefore, when the church gathered as a body it was during their "common meal" that the disciples would celebrate the Supper.

Because of abuse the Apostle Paul disassociated the Supper with a meal (1 Cor. 11:20 ff). Thus the Agape or "love feast" was discontinued, even though we do find traces of it as a separate feast among the Egyptian Christians as late as the fourth century.

The purpose of the Lord's Supper was a "communion with the body of Christ" (1 Cor. 10:16) (the body of Christ and the Church are one and the same (Eph. 1:22-23; Col. 1:18). It was therefore a communion with Christ and with other brothers and sisters in Christ. When taking the Supper, Paul says, we look in four directions: 1. Introspectively—"each one is to examine himself" (1 Cor. 11:28). It was "open communion." 2. It was "in remembrance" of Christ's death, God's love through the Cross. It looked backward to his sacrifice, (v. 24). 3. It was to "show forth the death of Christ," that is, a witness of their faith to the world. 4. They looked forward to the coming of Christ—"til he come" (v. 26). These Christians did not feel that remembering the love of God, the sacrifice of Christ, once a week would become a mere habit. If we in the 20th century take it weekly, then I know of no better habit to form, than that of remembering the love of God for man. Would we not live better if we remembered him daily? Is it a bad habit to form?

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

The under five and over 15 age groups are polio vaccination "soft spots" in Texas.

A recent State Health Department check of polio immunization levels in several typical Texas communities shows school age children are well protected but that vaccinations are lagging among youngsters under five and persons over 15.

"Immunizations must continue without letup if the disease is ever to be really conquered," State Health Commissioner J. E. Peavy says.

"The record shows that persons who have not taken the series of three protective shots are 90 percent more vulnerable to paralytic polio than their neighbors who have completed the series."

Dr. Peavy's note of caution comes just in advance of the polio season. According to the pattern of past years, the season is due to get underway about the middle of April.

Medical authorities agree that the most beneficial time to begin the shots is in advance of the annual rise in polio case rates. Persons who have not yet begun the shots should start them immediately, the health commissioner emphasized. Persons now due for their third shot should take it without fail.

A booster shot a year or so after the third shot has been recommended by leading specialists. It should be administered at the discretion of the family's physician.

"Community campaigns should be aimed at known 'soft spots'—the age groups under five and over 15," Dr. Peavy stresses.

Statistics are available to show that almost twice as many cases of polio occurred in the United States during 1959 as during 1958. Health and medical officials have made it clear that the increase did not indicate a failure of the vaccine, but rather indicated a failure on the part of people to get their shots.

Of the 525 cases diagnosed in Texas last year, nine out of 10 had not had the basic three shots recommended for maximum protection. More than half of last year's victims were under five. Three-fourths of them had not had a single dose of vaccine.

"The higher the level of polio protection through vaccination in a given community, the better chance that community has of escaping a polio outbreak," Dr. Peavy asserts.

New Range Cattle Test Is Aid To Brucellosis Program, Patterson Says

A new method for testing range cattle is resulting in major savings to beef producers in their efforts to eradicate brucellosis, an important livestock disease, according to Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian.

The method is based on use of a screening-type blood test of cull and dry cows on the way to or during slaughter. Animals tested each year must equal 5 percent of all cows in the area, he said. Another important requirement is that owners vaccinate at least 80 percent of all eligible calves each year.

Successful use of this test to recertify Benton County, Washington, as a modified-certified brucellosis area marks a major advance in the battle to eradicate this costly disease. The county was officially recertified effective March 15.

A modified-certified area, Dr. Patterson explained, is one in which no more than one percent of the cattle or 5 percent of the herds are affected with brucellosis. Certification is for 3 years. Continuous testing makes recertification possible, but for beef producers it has meant rounding up at least a fifth of all herds in the certified area every 3 years.

The advantages of the new method are shown in the Benton County test. During the 3 years prior to March 15, 1960, brucellosis was found — and further tests required — in only 11 of a total of 601 beef herds in the county. Under alternate recertification procedures, it would have been necessary to test a total of at least 120 herds. As a result of the new method, 92 percent of on-the-ranch testing was eliminated.

This reduction in ranch testing saves the majority of beef producers the expense and labor of handling cattle, as well as eliminating the possibility of injury to the animals themselves. Furthermore, Dr. Patterson added, since all herds in an area may be included in this continuous screen-testing program, any infection is likely to be detected before it has an opportunity to spread.

CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN...

Your electric service—the more you use it, the bigger the bargain—as you put more and more electricity to work in your home, you actually pay less per kilowatt hour.

your bill is likely to be higher than it used to be. But, remember while you are using so much more electric service, the cost per kilowatt hour is actually 18% less than it was in 1950.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank everyone for all the nice things you did for me while I was in the hospital. Your prayers, those who came to give blood, your visits, flowers and cards, and for the food you have brought since I have been home have meant much to me. God bless you all.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Doubts If Improving Television Programs Will Improve The Children Very Much

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses television this week. At least we suppose that's what he's doing.

Dear Editor:
It never has worried me much about what other people thought about me, consequently I don't get riled up over what the television industry thinks of the American public, but this doesn't go for some people.

I was reading in a newspaper only this morning where the head of the national P.T.A. was outraged at what the television people are offering the public, especially the children.

She said there is far too much violence, too much silliness, too much trash, offered the 35 million children watching TV, these days. Also she said if the television industry would take a survey they'd find the American public isn't as moronic as the industry apparently thinks.

Well, it's my opinion that the television people aren't in much shape, mentally speaking, to be surveying anybody's intelligence, judging by some of the programs I've had a chance to see.

But back to the violence angle, the brutality, the shooting, the crime, the delinquency, the stupidity, shown on television, with millions of kids watching. I know there are some people who say if you don't think your children ought to see such programs, turn the thing off, but they don't understand the control the kids have over the situation. The only way to keep most children of most parents from watching television is to wait till the picture tube blows out.

Consequently, the argument is that the only way to improve the situation is to improve the programs, and until they do, we're liable to have more juvenile delinquents, more youthful crime, more children with the wrong viewpoint toward life, etc.

Well, now, I'll tell you. I think a lot of kids could stand some improving, but I doubt if improving television will do it.

And if you want to protect children from hearing about violence, silliness and stupidity, you'd better not let them read the newspapers or listen to the radio or read history. In fact, you'd better not let them associate with adults at all.

Yours faithfully,
The Philosopher

Whether hare or rabbit, the bunny plays a very important role in nature's balance. One of the most important values of the mammals, according to the director, is their role as a buffer species. They serve as food for both man and animals.

Another definite difference in the two is that hares are born completely covered with hair, and with their eyes open. Rabbits enter the world naked and their eyes remain closed for at least a week. Since the cottontail is born hairless and with closed eyes, he's not a hare but a rabbit.

These animals are true rabbits,' reports the director. 'By this, I mean they are not hares like the jack rabbit. The difference between a rabbit and a hare is that the hare has much longer legs and the structure of their digestive tracts is different. Therefore, the jack rabbit isn't really a rabbit at all, but a hare.'

The cottontail rabbit is very important to the balance of the animal community, and he's probably the target of more hunters than any other single animal. Texas has four species of the genus Sylvilagus, or cottontail, according to the director of wildlife restoration, Texas Game and Fish Commission.

The biggest of the four is the swamp rabbit. The eastern and desert cottontails are smaller but very similar in color and appearance. The fourth bunny is called the marsh rabbit.

Agriculture

Released by
The Texas Department of Agriculture
By John C. White, Commissioner

FARM LEGISLATION FOR '60's
The vague outlines of Washington farm legislation for the 1960's is beginning to appear dimly in patterns of controversy, and a better idea of what to look for next might be gained by glancing at what has happened.

Each of these three decades has been marked by different and distinct attitudes in Washington toward the problems of agriculture.

Going back to the 1930's, the decade of the Great Depression, there was an economic disaster that stifled the entire economy and pushed one out of every four farmers into bankruptcy. The problem then was strictly a dearth of markets instead of excessive production, and the Washington remedy was to plow up crops, kill little pigs and put the government into the cattle-buying business.

The beginning of the 1940's saw the technological revolution in farm production coming to the front, producing what at that time appeared to be huge surpluses. But there was war and post-war recovery that took up these apparent surpluses, with high prices encouraging maximum production. Prices went up from 38 per cent of parity in the 1930's to 123 per cent of parity in the 1940's.

But in the 1950's the vast increases in production again developed serious surplus troubles. Eventually, in 1955, a Democratic Congress gave the Republican Secretary of Agriculture the authority to flex price supports between 75 per cent and 90 per cent of parity for basic crops. This was done on the theory that since high supports had encouraged excessive production, lower supports would cause farmers to reduce production.

The theory, however, has not been borne out by the facts, with total farm production continuing to set new record highs year after year.

This year, the best collective thinking of Democratic farm-minded congressmen perhaps is reflected in the "Family Farm Income Act of 1960" by Rep. Bob Foage (D.Tex.). The bill is not expected to pass this session of Congress, but it indicates what can be expected next time if the Democrats retain control in the House and Senate. It has two fundamental aims: First, to strengthen the income and security of family farms; second, to provide farmers with a variety of programs from which to choose. It is based on higher price supports with production under strict controls.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

JURIES, OLD AND NEW
Speaking before juries — the beginning of jury trials — goes way back to Greek colonies about 600 B. C., in lawsuits over lands seized by tyrants.

Soon afterwards Athens itself took over such oratory, but seems never to have worked out rules of evidence or control of the trial by a judge.

Jurors often boomed or cheered the parties, talked together, and shouted at speakers. What one man knew or thought he knew about the case he told his neighbor.

All evidence could go: Personal knowledge, hearsay, prejudice, and a juror's opinion.

The Athenian juror had power: Each "dicast" (a juror chosen by lot) was both jurymen and judge. Jurors sat in many courts; the smallest had 201 dicasts, the largest one such as tried Socrates had 601. (The odd man broke tie.) The jurors heard and decided their cases out in public, often amid swarms of citizens and foreigners.

One day to each case; and the accused — like Socrates — had to prove his innocence.

Each juror earned one obol a day — about three cents.

Each juror swore: "I shall vote according to the laws of the Athenian people and the Council of the Five Hundred; but as to things about which there are no laws, I shall judge as best I can without favor or enmity. I shall judge as to things at issue and shall listen fairly to both the accuser and the defendant. These things I swear by Zeus by Apollo, by Demeter. May there be blessing on me if I keep my oath; but if not, let there be ruin for me and my family."

Today as yesterday our juries are under fire. Some say juries waste time, people won't serve.

Jurors make stupid mistakes. Let experts do justice, critics say.

Such things hold true only if citizens forsake their right to serve.

Only a free people can enjoy the privilege of jury duty. A Greek thinker once said that the mark of a citizen, as opposed to an alien, was his right to share in administering justice.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

I'm a small-town guy. (Which is scarcely news to anyone who knows me.)

The pace of life is such in smaller communities that people have time to sit and visit — or at least stop long enough on the street for a little conversation.

For a year, I had an office in a building in Dallas. Every now and then, I'd ride in the elevator with another tenant. All I knew about him was his name and that he was an attorney. One day, his obituary appeared in the paper and there was the information that he had been the private secretary of Governor Colquitt and of Senator Culberson. What a wealth of political incidents was lost when he died! In a small town, I would have known his background and would have obtained some of those stories.

In one town where I used to live, there was an attorney who had served in the War with Spain. There was another lawyer who was so old that he had held county office as a Populist.

The manager of the gas company's office was struck by lightning and survived. An oil operator had been a career army man, having served in the Philippines, in China, on the Mexican border and, during World War I, in France. A doctor had owned a large sugar plantation in Mexico but one night bandits made an attack and burned his home down, so he and his family returned to the United States.

Interesting, weren't they? A really gifted writer could take almost any one of them and write a novel about him. Very likely, I rub elbows in the city with people just as interesting—if there were only the opportunity to find out.

West Texas Utilities Co. Announces Changes In Executive Staff, Effective As Of April 1

Ablene — Changes in the executive staff of the West Texas Utilities Company General Office at Abilene were announced recently. Cal Young, WTU President, announced the retirement of F. W. Schroeder, Executive Vice President, and the promotions of J. F. Longley to Vice President and General Superintendent, and John A. Hutchison, Jr., to Chief Engineer.

One of the pioneers in the electrical industry, Schroeder has been with West Texas Utilities for more than 41 years. Although he is retiring from his active duties as Executive Vice President, Schroeder will serve as a consultant to the executive staff.

Mr. Young, in announcing these staff changes, commented, "We're very glad Fred Schroeder will continue to work with us as a consultant. His many years of experience in the industry and his vast knowledge of our company will be of great help in our future operations."

A native of Davenport, Iowa, Schroeder joined WTU as a Line Superintendent in 1919. The company's first line from Abilene to Merkel had just been completed and placed in operation, and immediately, under the supervision of Schroeder, construction crews began building the lines that would connect the scores of

During the period from 1922 to 1928, when WTU was experiencing its greatest physical growth and extending transmission lines to most of the 166 towns and communities now served, Schroeder served as Construction Superintendent.

When the oil fields of the great Permian Basin began to appear

Superintendent, he was responsible for the work of the company's eight operating districts, which serve an area extending from the Red River to the Rio Grande.

Since 199, he has served as Executive Vice President and is recognized in his own company and throughout the Southwest as one of the industry's pioneers who helped bring modern central station electric service to West Texas.

Mrs. Schroeder is the former Hazel Lee Reneau of Atlanta. They are the parents of two sons, Fred, Jr., of Los Angeles, California, and Al, who is employed by the Westinghouse Corporation, Lima, Ohio.

A member of the Masonic Lodge Schroeder is a Master Mason and a member of the University Baptist Church. He is also a member of the American Institute of Electric Engineers.

J. F. Longley, who succeeds Schroeder, has since 1955 had the title and responsibility of Vice President and Superintendent of Engineering and Production. As Vice President and General Superintendent, Longley will assume the responsibilities of supervision of the company's operating districts.

Longley, a native of Baylor County, was valedictorian of his graduating class at Texas A & M in 1924. He served as an instructor at A & M until 1926 when he joined WTU in Abilene as an engineer. He was made Chief Dispatcher in 1927, promoted to Transmission Engineer in 1928 and elected to the Board of Directors in 1953.

He has served as Superintendent of Production and Engineering since 1954 and was named a Vice President of the company in August, 1955.

Mrs. Longley is the former Hazel Powell of Seymour and married Mr. Longley in 1924. They are the parents of a daughter and a son — Mrs. E. F. Mullikin of Abilene and J. F. Longley, Jr., of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

A member of St. Paul Methodist Church and of the Abilene Lions Club, Longley is listed in Who's Who in Engineering and is a member of the American Institute for Electrical Engineers.

As Chief Engineer, John Hutchison, Jr., will assume the responsibility for the company's engineering and power production.

He has been employed by WTU since 1936 when he joined the company's Engineering and Transmission Department. He served as a Distribution Engineer until he entered the service of the U. S. Army in World War II.

Returning to WTU after the World War II, he served as District Distribution Engineer in the Abilene District and in 1954 was transferred to the General Office at Abilene as Assistant Construction and Distribution Engineer in the Engineering Department. In 1955, he became Assistant Superintendent of Production and Engineering under Mr. Longley.

Born on a ranch east of Baird, Texas, in 1911, his family moved to Abilene in 1918. A graduate of Abilene High School, Hutchison attended Herdin Simmons University, Texas A & M and received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Electrical Engineering from California, Tech.

New Advertising Program Expected To Attract More Tourists To Texas In '60.

Austin — The 1959 Texas Tourist Industry Report released by the State Highway Department today shows a 100-million-dollar drop in tourist expenditures with in Texas in the past two years.

In 1959, Highway Department surveys indicate 9.6 million visitors spent $431 million in Texas as compared to 1957 estimates of 10.3 million visitors and $531 million spent.

Statistics in the annual Tourist Report. Survey cards, to be completed and mailed back after the visit in Texas, are given tourists stopping at the Highway Department's seven Travel Information Bureaus located on major highways entering the state.

Quail Hunting In Future Depends On Work Done Now

Landowners who expect to harvest a quail crop for the 1960 hunting season will do well to begin work immediately, according to the assistant executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

"To have a good quail crop plenty of cover and feed are required," he said. "This can be developed, along with other crops. Many landowners planted multi-flora roses last fall. Others will provide food crops along fence rows, or suitable cover on their pasture lands."

He said present indications point to a heavy carry-over of brood stock from last year. In many places the 1959 season was the best for quail in years. Although many were killed by hunters, there were no heavy freezes or bad weather to kill off a great number of the carry-over birds.

Quail also will be available from the State hatchery this year, he said. Application should be made to the Austin office for these birds. They will be sold to landowners at 50 cents each, which is about half the production cost.

Before a landowner gets the birds, however, a warden must first inspect his place to see if he has sufficient cover and a good probability of feed.

"If we get a favorable weather season this year, we'll have another bountiful crop," he said.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

Don't forget the community property law — come tax time. Husband and wife get $50 each for dividend exclusion in Texas. You may be able to take $240 tax benefit each for husband and wife for retirement income credit. You can take a $1000 capital loss for each.

Of course, you also have to split income if you'd file a joint return. Community property even applies in some cases where you file a joint return.
