Odd Bits Salvaged

Somebody became civic-minded at White Deer!

Only recently, you remember, they decided to erect a statue of a mule at Muleshoe. Well, they've had a statue of a white buck deer at White Deer for many years.

We've come through that town a number of times in recent years wondering why its population would allow that little deer to remain in such deplorable condition.

Standing on a concrete pillar in the middle of the street, one cannot help but notice this little white deer. During the recent years, too, we noticed that through some misfortune the deer had been dehorned. Its condition didn't speak well for the town, and we didn't know whether the deer was allowed to remain in this way as a reminder of the misfortune or not.

Anyway, reaching White Deer on our return home Sunday, the first thing we noticed was that the deer had a full set of antlers—and there was no question anymore whether he was a buck or a doe!

The P. P. A. convention which we attended in Amarillo was an interesting and unique one. Among the speakers were Warden Jack Kyle of the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville, Curley Hays, Southwest Conference football official, Rev. Kenneth Wyatt, Methodist pastor at Paducah and former night club entertainer, who was our banquet speaker; Ben Barnes, speaker of the House of Representatives at Austin, and Rep. Bill Healy of Paducah.

Then an inmate band from the Texas Prison System, "The Hungry Three Plus One," entertained at the banquet and later furnished dance music. An interesting thing about their appearing at the convention was that the association did not have to foot the bill for their lodging. They were securely lodged in the county jail at Amarillo at night, and had a guard constantly near them!

For many years—our wife says it's been 14—we've always ended our annual Amarillo trip with a side trip to Borger on Saturday to visit some dear relatives, a pleasant reunion we and they have looked forward to each year.

Instead of being one of pleasure, this year's trip was one of sorrow. The head of the Borger family, Ray Pfy, succumbed to a heart condition early Friday morning in Northwest Hospital in Amarillo. Funeral services were at 2 p.m. Monday in Borger.

The family had visited us on several occasions, but few of our friends here knew Ray Pfy. He was a man who talked boisterously, laughed boisterously, lived vigorously and enthusiastically and was ever loyal to those institutions and principals he held most dear: his home, his family and friends, his church and school, and the work from which he gained a livelihood. He was solid. You knew where he stood. We greatly missed our association with him last week end—and shall continue to do so as time goes by.

Rep. Roy Arledge has learned "the hard way" that people are prone to disregard questionnaires, even on such important issues as the future of our public schools.

Rep. Arledge mailed out over 1,000 questionnaires in his district from his Austin office to get an opinion of the people on the Texas State Teachers Association plan and the Governor's plan for teachers salaries.

"We were a little disappointed," Rep. Arledge said, "that we only received about 36 per cent of these questionnaires back showing the opinions of the people on this important issue of our Public Schools."

We want our State Representatives to represent us fairly. We don't want to tell them how!

Attending the homecoming and open house at the Academy of Mary Immaculate in Wichita Falls from the Rhineland community were Mrs. Richard Vadney, Noralene Willoughby, Geor-geen Medors and Henry Claus.

College Bond Issue Explained At Meeting Here

An extremely light turnout of some 40 people heard bond issue requirements for a proposed four-county $1 million junior college explained by Sidney Woolridge, Dallas bonding company representative last Thursday night.

The meeting, one of a series being held in Knox, Haskell, Throckmorton and Stonewall counties to acquaint residents with the proposed junior college plan, was held in the Munday school cafeteria.

Woolridge explained that the junior college district would operate much like a hospital district in regard to financing and administrative procedures. He said bonds to finance the $1 million proposal would not cost taxpayers of the four counties over 11 cents per $100 valuation over a 25-year period.

While the state has an average bonded indebtedness of $863 per capita, Woolridge said the bonded indebtedness per capita in the proposed college district is at least $600 lower. The figures include Haskell, $171.92; Knox, $163.83; Stonewall, $261.21 and Throckmorton, $63.46.

Arledge Disappointed At Poor Results Of Questionnaire On Teachers' Salaries

Some time ago, we sent out of my office something over 1,000 questionnaires in an effort to get the views of the people of our 83rd Legislative District regarding their position on the bills before the Legislature that have to do with our Public Schools and Teachers' Pay Raise.

The 83rd District is composed of Jones, Haskell, Knox, Baylor, and Throckmorton Counties.

We used the telephone directories that we had of the district and sent a questionnaire to each tenth name listed in the directories, enclosing a self-addressed envelope.

We were somewhat disappointed as only approximately 36% of the questionnaires were returned.

The replies received from all of the counties came in about the same percentages from each county and each city, excepting from the city of Haskell, which gave a considerably higher per-

County Receives Over $700,000 In Social Security

More than 1,000 residents of Knox County are now receiving a monthly Social Security benefit according to figures furnished by Francis J. Stevens, Social Security representative for the county.

As of the end of 1964, the number of beneficiaries listed totaled 1057. This is an increase of 73 over the number at the beginning of the year. The dollar benefit amounts total more than $701,148.00 yearly.

Retired workers and their dependents and those who receive survivor benefits are the largest group of beneficiaries. There are 1007 in this group who receive a total monthly benefit of $55,588.00. Disabled workers and their dependents number 50 and receive $2841.00 monthly.

In releasing these figures Mr. Stevens pointed out that social security benefits are of great importance to the community as well as to the people who receive them. "It is an established fact," he said, "that this money stimulates local business within the county; most of it is spent for food, clothing and shelter. There is no doubt that Social Security benefits are helping to stabilize the income and spending power of many residents in Knox County."

As of the beginning of 1965 almost 10% of the population of the United States were receiving Social Security benefits. As of that same time, January, 1965, 13.4% of Knox County residents received benefits.

Mr. Stevens visits Munday on a regularly scheduled basis to assist all residents of the county in Social Security matters.

AMERICAN BIKE MONTH

Along about the turn of the century, bicycling reached the dimensions of a craze in this country and abroad. Cycle clubs on a coeducational basis were formed everywhere and were the source of lasting fun for young and old. Cycle racing found a vast audience. There are people still active to whom the old high-wheeler brings back nostalgic memories.

In time, the bike fad ran its course. Use of the cycle was pretty well confined to the very young. But in recent years, it has again found its popularity increasing. Bike clubs have been coming back in many places. Bike sports, formal and informal, are attracting a respectable following.

That gives significance to American Bike Month, which is scheduled for the May 1-31 period. Its purpose is both simple and important: "To help make cycling healthier, happier, safer, and more fun than it already is." The bike rider of today lives in a world that is vastly different from that of fifty or sixty years ago. Streets and highways are thronged with automobiles, and every one of them offers potential disaster to the carelessly ridden and handled bike. The rules of bike safety must be thoroughly learned—and undeviatingly followed.

Cycling is a healthy sport and a fun sport. It's good to see it on the upswing once more. And the heavier the emphasis on safety, the better it will be.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

There is a somber irony in the fact that this year marks the 20th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations and that commemorative medals are to be sold to observe what is called International Co-operation Year 1965.

That brave phrase brings back the high hopes that were held the world over when the UN came into being in San Francisco. Once again, there was the feeling that was born in 1918—that the war to end wars had been fought. From now on the nations, meeting together, would see that reason, justice, truth and understanding prevailed.

We all now what has happened. How much of this may have been the fault of the UN is a matter of opinion and interpretation, and there is no profit in raising over tortured ground. But the world was never more disordered and that, tragically, is true at a time when its resources and incredible scope of knowledge are more than sufficient to make possible a civilization brilliant almost beyond imagining. The UN medal is a tribute to what might have been—not what is.

A FARMER CAN SAVE $1,000

Did you know that a farmer with annual machinery expenses of $5,000 may be able to save up to $1,000 of that amount—which is the same thing as getting that much more profit—by careful machinery management? That's the way the experts figure it. And that, also, is one of the good reasons why a major oil company has just issued a new colorful illustrated booklet called "Machinery Cost Guide".

This booklet recognizes the fact that a tighter cost-price squeeze is changing the farm picture, and that, as a result, today's farmers are doing some sharp pencil pushing to try to cut machinery costs without sacrificing any of the advantages machinery offers. The Guide makes a positive contribution to that good end. It tells the farmer where and how often to lubricate and which lubricants to use.

The fact that such a guide has been issued is in itself a commentary on the farmer's dependence on the oil industry for vast quantities of diverse fuels and lubricants—and on the oil industry's dependence on the farmer for a very substantial portion of its sales. And another fact the Guide stresses is of interest to us all. Today's farm worker produces enough food to feed 31 other persons—which means he is twice as efficient as his counter-part in 1945, a mere 20 years ago. And the superior farmer, with a highly-mechanized farm, can feed up to 200 persons. Advanced machinery, plus improved fuels and lubricants, plus farmer ingenuity, have combined to make that amazing advance possible.

Harry Schwartz writes in The New York Times: "The United States last year increased its lead over the Soviet Union in the economic race between the two countries, close observers of the two economies believe . . . One observer estimates that when calculated in 1964 American prices, the United States gross national product was about $622 billion against some $300 billion for the Soviet Union. In similar constant prices, the 1964 gain in American output exceeded $30 billion compared with a Soviet increase of about $15 billion."

RIVERTON, WYO., RANGER: "Better get it while the getting's good" is a philosophy growing in favor as the different federal assistance programs come forward. More and more people who used to stand flatly against the principle of paternal government now are saying that it's foolish not to apply for and get what's offered, because if they don't, someone else will."

Profits, not prophets, foretell the future.

Since there is an increased interest in growing guar this year, we would like to offer some production recommendations. Guar (Cyamopsis tetragonoloba) is a summer annual legume. The current Texas acreage is approximately 45,000 acres. Guar survives extended periods of drought, but adequate moisture is essential for stand establishment and satisfactory seed production.

Under favorable growing conditions, seed production may reach 1,200 pounds or more per acre. Guar usually produces higher yields of green manure per acre than many other summer legumes, even under adverse conditions. Properly inoculated guar will fix atmospheric nitrogen in amounts similar to cowpeas or other legume plants. Crops following guar in rotation generally benefit from the residual nitrogen.

Seed contain 26 per cent protein and can be processed to make guar flour which is the source of managalactan gum, valuable in paper manufacture for increasing wet strength and uniformity of paper sheets. In the food industry, guar flour is used as a stabilizing agent in cheese spreads, salad dressing and ice cream mixes. The 35 per cent protein meal is equal or superior to cottonseed meal in regard to essential amino acids. When guar meal is fed to livestock, it improves palatability. Cattle feeding trials at the Coastal Bend Experiment Station show that rolled guar beans perform as well as cottonseed meal when equal quantities of protein are fed. The carbohydrate fraction of the meal retains moisture and is a binder for processed livestock feeds.

Other possible uses of guar include cosmetics, pharmaceuticals and as a flocculating agent to remove suspended solids from liquids. Most of the guar grown in Texas is marketed at guar processing plants at Kenedy and Chillicothe.

The Feed Grain and Wheat Programs permit guar to be grown on diverted acres with reductions in the diversion rates of payment. The local ASCS office should be consulted concerning details of these programs.

Guar grows well under a wide range of soil conditions, but does best on fertile, deep loam and sand soils with good structure and having well-drained subsoils. Previous crop residue should be turned under far enough in advance to permit decomposition before planting. This practice helps reduce southern blight disease and increases water infiltration.

Prepare seed beds early to obtain a clean, firm, settled seedbed. Use row spacings of 36 to 42 inches.

Planting dates depend upon soil moisture and temperature. Guar has higher temperature requirements than cotton for stand establishment. Optimum dates in North Central Texas are May 15 to July 1. Planting and cultivating methods are similar to other row crops. Inoculate seed with a special guar inoculum of the cowpea group. Plant the seeds as soon as possible after they are inoculated. Five to 6 pounds of seed should be planted at a depth of 1 to 1½ inches when using a standard-width row. For rapid establishment, soil temperatures are planting time should be above 75 degrees F. Plant on firm soil to utilize moisture for quickest emergence and growth. Although late plantings usually give satisfactory stands, seed frequently mature during length periods of rainfall, which may cause staining and reduction of bean quality.

Response to fertilizers depends upon soil moisture. When soil moisture is adequate, fertilizer applications might be profitable. In years of low subsoil and surface moisture, preplanting fertilizers probably would not increase yields. If moisture conditions become favorable later in the season, sidedress applications may be profitable. A soil test will determine the amount of nutrients available and the amount of fertilizer required to meet the needs of the crop. If soil tests results are unavailable for the current season, a grower should apply 100 to 150 pounds of 16-20-0 per acre, if the land has been heavily cropped in the past. When guar is rotated with other crops, best results have been obtained by applying fertilizer to the alternate crop rather than guar.

Weed control is one of the most important cultural practices in guar production. Seed yields can be greatly reduced if weed competition is serious. Also weedy fields will create problems in combine operations. Early preparation of land and three or four cultivations during the growing season should adequately control most guar field weeds. Guar should not be seeded in fields heavily infested with Johnsongrass. The plants should be on the highest point of the bed to make combining easier. The use of herbicides on guar is not recommended at present.

We are out of space for this week but will continue in next week's column on guar varieties, cultural practices and cost of production.

Spray new Caparol after cotton is 6 inches high to control weeds.

Control most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses in cotton with new Caparol* herbicide. Simply apply as a directed spray to the base of your cotton when it is six inches or higher.

You'll get good knockdown of weeds and grasses that are less than two inches high . . . plus some killing action through the roots of later-germinating weeds.

The cost of this treatment, when Caparol is applied in a 10 inch band, can be as little as 85 cents per acre. Compare this with the $2-3 per acre it would cost you for hoe hands.

Later on in the season, you can go in and make a layby application of new Caparol to control weeds until the cotton is high enough to shade them out.

With new Caparol, you'll have no reason to worry about soil residue carryover to harm next year's spring-seeded crops.

Ask your supplier for new Caparol.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

Home gardeners by the hundreds and thousands emerge with the coming of warm spring weather to spade beds, plant seed, spread fertilizer, mow grass—and the other countless minor tasks attendant to keeping the lawn neat and attractive.

And gardening is excellent therapy for both mind and body. For those who enjoy digging in the dirt, gardening offers good exercise, fresh air and sunshine after a winter of being cooped up indoors.

Remember, though, to follow a few safety pointers and precautions and your gardening will be a healthier, happier experience.

First, don't let your enthusiasm carry you away your first time out. Take it easy, at least for the first few sessions. Don't try to work a 10-hour day at hard manual labor on the first warm week end. Take frequent rest breaks and work at a pace that isn't too tiring. As the season advances, your muscles will limber up and toughen, and you will be able to do more with less discomfort.

Cuts, scratches and bruises are the fate of most gardeners. Usually they aren't serious. Clean minor cuts with warm water and soap and cover with a light bandage. Tetanus lurks in the soil. If your immunizations are not up-to-date, see your doctor about a booster shot of tetanus toxoid at the beginning of the gardening season.

Stop and think about safety—before handling garden tools, especially power equipment such as lawn mowers. Always turn off the mower, saw or whatever when you add gasoline to the tank.

Never use electric equipment in wet or damp grass. And always read the safety instructions that usually accompany power tools.

Pesticides can be a gardener's best friend if he uses them wisely, but careless use and storage of pesticides can cause serious accidents. Always read the instructions on the package carefully and obey their safety warnings. Pesticides are safe, if properly used and kept away from children.

Don't let carelessness rob you of the enjoyment gardening can bring you this spring.

Water Toll Of Anglers Skyrockets

AUSTIN—Spiraling water fatalities, including several fishermen, prompted J. Weldon Watson, Executive Director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, to caution Texans about hazards of the general outdoor recreational season now getting underway.

Watson said he was particularly concerned over the number of deaths to children and about the number of those lost who could have been saved with proper use of life preservers.

Typical fatalities involved: A Bay City man who stepped into a deep hole while trying to retrieve his bait bucket;

A Grayson County man who fell into deep water while fishing from a lake shore;

A Sanger man who fell into deep water while stepping from a dock to a sailboat;

A four-year old San Angelo boy who fell into deep water while fishing;

Two Dallas Fishermen who tried to rescue three occupants of an overturned boat;

A Paris Water skier whose life jacket apparently slipped off;

A Corpus Christi man who fell into deep water while fishing;

A Houston man who stepped into a deep hole while surf fishing;

A nine-year old Floresville boy who drowned in a tank;

A Beaumont teenager taking instruction in skindiving;

A Dallas teenager on a Corsicana camping trip;

A Corpus Christi surf fisherman.

Pigs Get Select Treatment in 4-H Projects

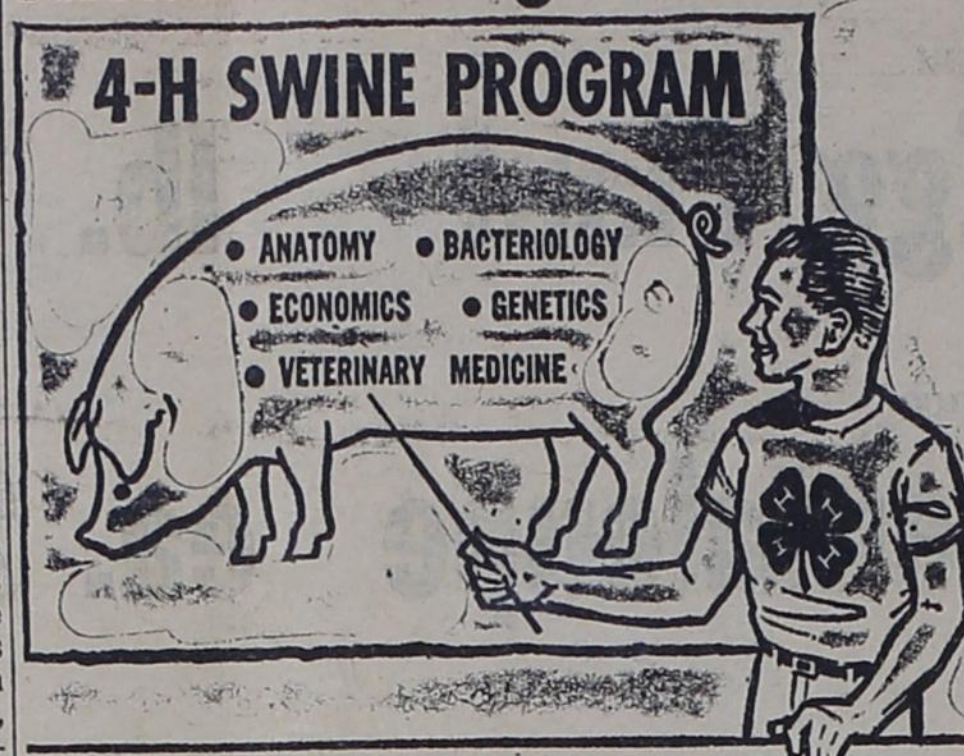

How many pigs in the parlor? It all depends, say animal scientists. Eight square feet per pig has been tried, but the answer was not conclusive. Size of the animal, season of the year and temperature are some of the variables that affect hog housing, they report.

This and other answers based on scientific experiments are sought by 4-H Club members engaged in a swine project. The day is long gone when pigs wallow in mud and get fat on scraps and leftover milk. Today, balanced ration feeding is understood and practiced.

The scientific approach is applied to modern 4-H animal projects. Besides nutrition, studies are made in genetics, biology, bacteriology and economics, to name a few. Benefiting from information supplied by the Extension Service and guided by club leaders, the young swine growers gain valuable knowledge, and frequently cash.

Experience in the project has led many youth to a career in

fields relating to animal science, marketing, veterinary medicine or in operating a profitable hog farm.

The Moorman Mfg. Co. of Quincy, Ill., has been helping career-minded 4-H'ers by providing annual scholarships of $500 to the six national winners named by the Cooperative Extension Service.

A company official recently said, "Moorman's is proud to be a donor of 4-H awards, and considers it a privilege to be of service to young Americans." Other awards provided are expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress and gold-filled medals.

To be eligible for a Congress trip or a national scholarship, the member must be over 14 years old, and have completed three years of 4-H Club work, with the current year in the swine program, according to the county extension office.

Gonzales Warm Springs To Honor Dedicated Doctor

GONZALES—It will be "Dr. K. Day" at Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation when directors of the rehabilitation center meet for their 28th annual meeting on May 2.

The day has been so designated in honor of Dr. Marjorie Kirkpatrick, a former patient who now serves as medical director for this famed hospital dedicated to helping handicapped Texans.

Known to patients and associates affectionately as "Dr. K.", Doctor Kirkpatrick first came to Warm Springs in 1956 as a patient, the victim of a crippling automobile accident. Several months later she began training in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. In 1961, she was appointed assistant to the medical director, and assumed her present post as medical director the following year.

A native of Williamson County, "Dr. K." received her BA and BS Degrees from Texas State College for Women in Denton, and her MD from the University of Texas Medical School in Galveston in 1949. She served her internship in Fort Worth's City-County Hospital, and practiced medicine privately in Taylor and Big Spring for a number of years prior to her accident.

"Dr. K.", who discharges her duties from a wheel chair, is a member of the American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. She was cited by Gov. John Connally in 1963 as the "Texas Handicapped Person of the Year." In the same year, she received a citation for meritorious service from the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Parnell of Weatherford and their granddaughter, Sharon Sartin, of Fort Worth were week end guests of Miss Tennie Montandon.

Mrs. Joe Weinberg and sons of Kilgore visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Littlefield, and Eddie several days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Watkins, Rene and Paul, of Wichita Falls visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reynolds, last Sunday.

Miss Carolyn Hobert of Dallas visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer Hobert, last Saturday and Sunday.

Most Fishermen Need Licenses

During the first 15 days of April, 19 citations were issued on one Texas lake for failure to produce a valid State fishing license. Possibly, each of us should check our own fishing license.

A Texas Parks and Wildlife spokesman disclosed this in reminding it is during the early spring season when many of the fines are paid for non-possession of the $2.15 fishing licenses.

He said the requirements are simple. If you have passed your 17th birthday and have not reached the age of 65 and fish outside of your home county or use a winding device, you need a fishing license. If you fish in your home county with a cane pole or a throwline you are not required to purchase a fishing license.

The $2.15 fee applies also to non-residents.

Leslie Phillips was in Wichita Falls last Saturday for a check-up on his hand that was injured recently. He received a good report.

Litter Bags Prevent Litter Bugs And Save Money For Highway Construction

AUSTIN — Texas motorists paid for many miles of new highways last year. But they never were built.

Governor Connally emphasized this point today in accepting the first of a quarter-million litter bags given to the Texas Highway Department by the Galveston Chamber of Commerce and the Galveston Convention and Tourist Bureau.

The bags will be distributed to motorists at each of the eight Tourist Information Centers located at points of entry on key highways of the State and in the Capitol rotunda.

"The Texas Highway Department is charged with the construction and maintenance of the State's superb 66,000-mile highway system," Governor Connally said. He added:

"But the truth is that more than $1.5 billion of taxes levied on highway users is wasted each year to pick up litter thrown along the right of way by careless motorists. This money could better be used to build more miles of new highways, and to

Clean Lies

For Watson, it was a painful duty.

"I'm the manager of the office where your sister works," he began. "For the benefit of all concerned, I wish you would convince her to resign."

"Why?" demanded the other man. "Has she done something wrong?"

"I'm afraid so," replied Watson. "She has been stealing from the cash box."

As it turned out, the girl had done no such thing. In short order, Watson found himself facing a lawsuit for defamation of character.

But the court held him not liable, ruling that his mistaken statement was "privileged" by the circumstances. The court pointed out that Watson had had good grounds for believing the girl guilty, and had spoken to her brother with decent purpose.

Defamation law, like the Ninth Commandment, forbids you to bear false witness against your neighbor. But it also forgives what might be called the clean lie—told in all fairness, on reasonable grounds, without malice.

Thus, in another case, a man was excused for wrongly blaming a schoolboy for indecent conduct during recess. His statement, made privately to the principal, was based on seemingly reliable information from his own daughter.

But, to be privileged, the statement must be made in the line of duty. It must be one which the speaker has a legitimate interest in making, and the hearer a legitimate interest in hearing.

A court found no such interest, under the following circumstances:

A meddlesome woman heard a report, later proved false, that a certain prospective bridegroom was an ex-convict. Although she was not a relative of the bride, or even a close friend, the woman took it upon herself to pass along this tidbit.

Sued later for defamation, she was held liable for having been too quick to soil an innocent man's good name. The court saw no reason to wrap the mantle of privilege around something so close to plain and simple gossip.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Doubts If Radio Broadcasts From Space Are To Indicate A Much Higher Civilization

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his johnson grass farm on Miller Creek reacts to the latest claim out of Russia in his letter this week.

J. A.

Dear editor:
You never can tell about something that comes out of Russia, they have their own brands of truth over there and they switch brands twice a week, but according to an article I read in a newspaper day before yesterday, a couple of Russian scientists believe they have heard radio signals from a planet millions of miles away indicating there's a form of "higher civilization" out there, and while the scientists later said it was too early to be sure about these signals, still they're picking up something.

I don't know whether there's a higher form of civilized life somewhere out in space or not and if it's left up to me to go see, man will never find out, but what interests me is the Russians' guess that the radio signals indicated a higher form of civilization.

What I mean is, turn it around. If there are people out in space and they are picking up radio broadcasts from our planet, you reckon they'd interpret what they hear as a higher form of civilization?

You really think such people out there would spend billions of dollars building rocket ships to come down here to Earth to find out what's making all that noise on radio?

It's my theory that there are intelligent people millions of miles out in space, that they have heard our radio broadcasts, and they're exploring space in the opposite direction. What is there about electric guitar music every fifteen minutes and world wars every fifteen years that'd make a higher form of civilized life want to come down here and get acquainted? Or, what is there about this johnson grass farm that'd attract a man who had to travel a billion miles to see it? I know lots of people who wouldn't travel 10 miles to

Ponds On Farms Can Be Dangerous

The farm pond, long a useful farm resource, can become a death trap for swimmers when precautions are forgotten.

To make ponds safe for recreational purposes, the National Safety Council suggests:

Place a fence that can't be climbed around the pond so children can't play there without adult supervision.

Mark safe swimming areas. Place warning signs at danger points.

Provide lifesaving devices, such as ring buoys, ropes or long poles.

Post safety instructions for swimming and boating.

Don't permit swimmers to swim alone.

Historical Group Meets April 21st

"Now is the time to preserve the history of our counties." So spoke Mrs. Jessie Thomas, county school superintendent of Paducah, on Wednesday, April 21, when she met with a group of 35 to 40 women at Benjamin.

The group was greeted by Mrs. C. C. Hoge, county chairman, and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. A. L. Andrews of Crowell.

Both Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Andrews attended the state historical workshop in Austin on March 16-17, and brought information from that meeting.

Mrs. R. M. Almanrode, county chairman, reported on work done in the county and the moving of the 1936 county monument on Highway 82 east of Benjamin, to the courthouse grounds. She also told of plans for placing one for "The Narrows," in the park east of Benjamin.

Mrs. Bruce Campbell, county historical chairman, told of the work being done on the county's history.

Mrs. Hoge outlined plans for the 5-year R.A.M.P.S., county work.

Following the tea hour, Mrs. Thomas showed slides of historical places in the state.

The next meeting of the organization will be on Tuesday, May 4, at 2 p.m. in the assembly room at Benjamin. It is hoped that both men and women, other than those who have worked the past two years, will join the organization and work toward preserving the history of Knox County. Dues are $1.00.
