Football Players Training in Camp in Wichita Mountains

Coaches Thayne Amonett and Gordon Erwin have twenty-nine Crowell High School football players in training camp in the Wichita mountains this week. Grady Graves and Marvin Myers carried the equipment over last Friday and helped the managers and Ab Jones, cook, set the camp up. The coaches carried the squad over on Saturday morning and plan on returning next Sunday afternoon. The boys received a good workout on Saturday afternoon and took exercises on Sunday. The entire squad attended church at Medicine Park Sunday morning. They have been working out twice daily in the Wichita National Park all this week.

Wednesday afternoon the squad scrimmaged the Bowie High School team which is also working out in the Park. The scrimmage was not run off in game form but the Crowell Coaches were well pleased with the showing of the Crowell boys in their various positions. Each club ran ten offensive plays against the other club and then went on the defense for ten plays. They spent about two hours in this scrimmage. The coaches are not definite about several of the positions yet, but the boys most likely to draw starting assignment are as follows: Route Todd, F. L. Ballard, Billy Earl Lynch, James Weathers, Jon Sanders and Buster Laquey in the backfield; Jimmy Rasberry and Hack Norman, tackles; James Bice and Bobby Jack Stinbaugh, guards; Harold Ribble and Bobby Lax, center; and Charles Pittillo, Jim Paul Norman, Gordon Wood Bell and Joe Howard Williams, ends. Several other Crowell boys were used in the Wednesday scrimmage.

The squad will break camp Sunday afternoon and practice on the home field again next week. The first regular game will be played here with the Munday Mopuls on the night of September 9.

Lions - Rotarians to Play Soft Ball Game Here Tonight

The softball game between the Lions Club and the Rotary Club will be played today, Thursday, instead of Friday, as previously announced. The game will start at 7:30 p. m. at the football stadium. The Lions have definitely decided that they will have no trouble in taming the Rotarians. Their youth and spirit, Chairman J. M. Crowell stated, will carry the day for the youthful club.

On the other hand, the older and experienced Rotarians, under the capable leadership of Grady Graves and Marion Crowell, have announced that the Lions won't have a chance.

Sheriff Pete Gobin will be on hand with two pistols to umpire the game with Jim Cates. The concessions will be in charge of Henry Black and he will have Baxter Gentry and Floyd Borchardt as his assistants. The entrance gate will be handled by L. A. Andrews and Marvin Myers.

There will be no definite admission charge. Each one is asked to give whatever he can, as the proceeds will be used for community improvements. The welcoming signs leading into town will have to be made more attractive. Any money left over will be turned over to the Band Parents Club that is being organized in the interest of the boys and girls in the Crowell High School Band.

Cameron, Mo., Publisher Visits in Crowell

In the July 28 issue of the Cameron Progress, weekly newspaper published by Tom W. Klepper in Cameron, Mo., the editor made reference in his column, "Hooks and Slices," that "it's interesting to note the Foard County News, Crowell, Texas, published by Tully Klepper, has completed its 58th year. Two marks of distinction, other than it is a real newspaper—the paper is located on the same site where it was started; and, that it is the only newspaper in these United States published by a Klepper, except this excuse for a newspaper. We are gradually building up hopes of shaking the hand of Tully Klepper of the News, some day."

The Missouri publisher made his wish come true last Friday morning when he drove into Crowell from Wichita, Kansas, 400 miles away, where he has been visiting and taking a rest. He was accompanied by J. T. Sawyer, a junior in Wichita (Kansas) High School, who furnished him company for the trip and also helped drive.

They visited with the Crowell Kleppers all day and started the return trip to Wichita late in the afternoon after no persuasion could induce Mr. Klepper to spend the night here. This was his first visit to Texas and he was favorably impressed with what he saw between here and Red River.

In August of 1938, the manager of the Western Newspaper Union in Dallas, told the Foard County News editor that he knew a T. B. Klepper who published a weekly newspaper in Cameron, Mo. Investigation disclosed that the Missouri publisher was T. W. (Tom) Klepper and published the Cameron Progress, which is known in that community as "Tom Klepper's paper." It is a good paper and was founded 19 years ago by Mr. Klepper in a town of 4,000 which already had a daily and weekly newspaper.

Mr. Klepper has for many years been an active member of the Missouri State Press Association and a correspondent for the Kansas City Star. He also operates a big office supply business in connection with the publication of his paper.

The history of the two men, not related so far as they know, their occupation and their families parallel each other in a marked degree, and since 1938 they have been exchanging letters and newspapers and thereby felt well acquainted before they met Friday morning.

Both men are about the same age and size, have been in the newspaper business about the same length of time, Tully beginning in 1907 and Tom in 1909; they each have one child and their wives, about the same age, have the given name of Virginia. Each helps in the operation of the newspapers their husbands publish. In 1938 Tom's father was living and was about the same age as Tully's father, who is still living. Also, both families are Methodists.

They differ in two things, politics and smoking. Tom is a Republican, Tully a Democrat; Tom smokes cigars and Tully smokes cigars and a pipe.

Although much too short, the Crowell Kleppers enjoyed Tom's and J. T.'s visit and wish that it could have been much longer. They deeply appreciate the fact that Tom made the long drive just to see them.

Registering of High School Pupils Begins Monday

Superintendent of Schools Grady Graves is requesting that the prospective Crowell High School students meet the following schedule in registration for the opening of school that begins Monday, September 5:

Pupils of the Truscott District will meet at the Truscott School house on Monday morning, August 29, at nine o'clock; the Riverside and Thalia children, who plan on attending Crowell High School, will meet at the Thalia School house on Tuesday morning, August 30; and the Crowell High School pupils will meet at the Crowell High School on either Wednesday, Thursday or Friday morning of next week.

Jesse Owens of Vernon was appointed as judge of the 46th Judicial District by Governor Allan Shivers Wednesday of this week. Owens succeeds the late Judge C. Y. Welch of Quanah. The 46th district is composed of Wilbarger, Hardeman and Foard Counties.

Mr. Owens was here Wednesday afternoon and issued the following statement: "It is with a sad heart that I assume the responsibility to succeed the late Judge Welch as District Judge. He was a good man, an eminent judge and lawyer and a distinguished citizen. I recognize the secret of his success was his fine character. He was studious and a friend to all mankind, particularly to youth. He was always kind, unselfish, fair and impartial in his rulings, yet firm. I appreciate the recommendations and efforts that my friends over the district and state have made to secure my appointment as District Judge and assure them that it shall be my purpose to be fair and impartial. I will study hard and put forth every effort to make a good judge. I hope that none of you will be disappointed."

Golf Tournament Being Played at Country Club

This might be termed "Sports Week" for Crowell citizens and those of Foard County. Besides sponsoring the softball game between the Rotary and Lions Club, the Chamber of Commerce has also arranged a golf tournament that is now taking place in Crowell at the Spring Lake Country Club. There are 54 players entered in the tournament, which means that 27 matches will be played at the Country Club this week.

The matches are taking place daily and everyone in the county is invited to witness any of the playing. Some of these games should prove rather interesting as a number of players have never played golf previously.

One team is headed by T. S. Hane and is known as the "Blues." The other is under the leadership of Jesse Whitfield and is called the "Reds."

The team that loses will be hosts to the winners at a barbecue, to which the family of each participating player will be invited.

A list of the opposing players may be found posted on the Chamber of Commerce window. As the tournament progresses, the results will be posted in the Chamber window.

Jimmie Swan, 18, works in the AAA office in Crowell where she handles the paper work on a lot of farm practices. Since she was practically reared on a farm at Thalia, she is curious about details. So she talked ACA Administrator Clyde Neel into letting her visit the construction project on a new stock water tank. She just had to try her hand at the controls of the big tractor after Contractor Frank Cates gave her some instructions on how to handle the big cat. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Swan of Thalia.

DIABETES

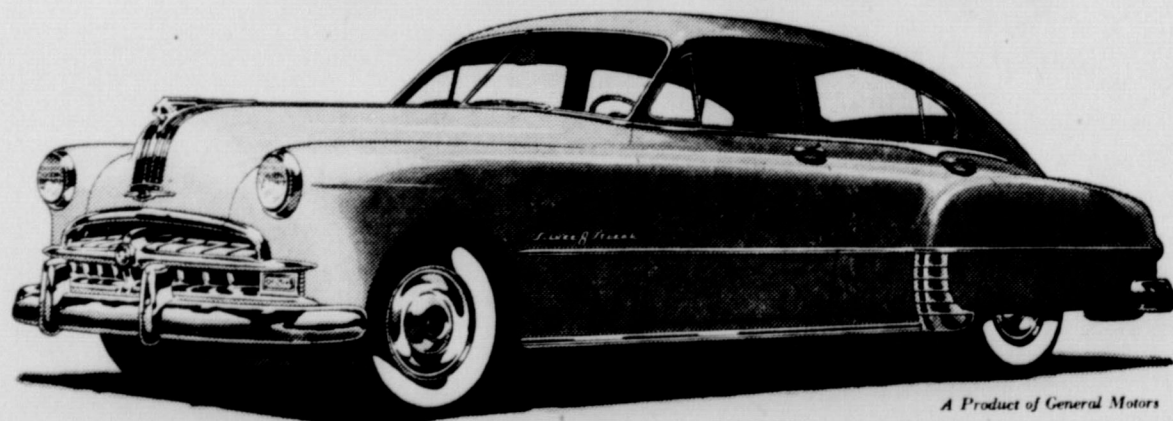

Diabetes is a common disease. It is estimated that in the United States today, there are over one million people who are not aware that they have diabetes. Diabetes is seven times more frequent in individuals whose father or mother have diabetes than in those who do not. Over-eating and over-weight is a strong factor in the production of diabetes. Diabetes is the result of a deficiency of insulin. The on-set is characterized by increased appetite and thirst with loss of weight and strength. The desire for sweets is marked. The untreated diabetic has poor resistance to infection, is plagued by itching, wounds and infected sores which will not heal.

However, diabetes responds quickly to treatment. The adequately treated diabetic patient has actual proof from laboratory reports to show that his condition responded to treatment. If a patient is in diabetic coma, then proper treatment will save his life. If he is a chronic invalid because his diabetes has been neglected, then correct management will not only prevent death from coma, but will restore the patient to good health. According to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the diabetic who has adequate treatment and observes the necessary precautions, has a greater life expectancy than the average normal individual without diabetes. Few therapeutic procedures can be used by the physician with such precision and with such assurance of benefit as the modern treatment of diabetes.

LOCALISM VOTED DOWN

Community of Redding, has a city-owned electric distribution system. For 30 years the power has been supplied by a large private company, at reasonable rates. The city has used the earnings from the sale of electricity for various municipal purposes.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Health moved into the picture and tried to induce Redding to sell the power at a tax-subsidized rate. Every effort was made to sell the people on this deal. Finally, on August 28, an election was held and a majority voted to turn the power over to the city. The Bureau's proposition, to keep on doing business with the city by paying private utility rates, has served it well for a number of years.

There are two especially interesting factors involved in this. The issue of "home rule" is prominent. The Bureau's proposition would have given the city the power to set the rates, and the accounting methods. In other words, when the Federal government enters anything, it runs the show all the way through, to the destruction of home rule.

Second, we have here another example of the determination of the government to take over the electric business of the country if it can—regardless of need, cost or how ably private enterprise is doing the job. The goal is total socialization of a great industry, and this should be considered above all penny splitting by a subsidized Federal monopoly.

The people of Redding still have home rule, and they will keep on getting power at a fair price under state regulation. They are to be congratulated on turning the socialists down cold. — Industrial News Review.

Large Groups of Pre-School Children Have Decayed Teeth

Austin, Texas—Tooth decay or dental caries is a destructive, progressive disease of the teeth. A large part of a tooth may be destroyed by decay with little evidence of decay on the surface, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Surveys of large groups of pre-school children reveal that 50 per cent of them have decayed teeth at three years of age, 75 per cent at four years of age, and 90 per cent at five years of age. Six out of ten children age 4 and 5 have as many as seven or more cavities.

Decay begins most frequently in the small pits and fissures on the chewing surfaces and at the points of contact between the teeth. Pits and fissures with structural flaws should be filled at once to prevent decay.

Dr. Cox said, "Dental examination and care should begin with the three-year-old child, and periodic examinations and necessary care should follow, thereafter, as often as the dentist advises. The first or baby teeth should be kept in a healthy condition until it is time for them to be lost."

"X-rays aid the dentist in finding hidden cavities, especially those between the teeth. Many of these beginning cavities are located in areas where they cannot be found in any other way. X-ray pictures are also useful in finding other conditions that require immediate attention such as abscesses, impacted teeth, broken roots, bone destruction due to pyorrhea, extra teeth and other information that is important in treatment of the case."

"With periodic dental examination and adequate dental care for each child, beginning at three years of age, the great majority of the children will reach adulthood with good dental health."

Prospects Bright for World's Largest State Fair of 1949

A bigger, brighter, gayer, more fantastic and original spectacle is the promise which the world's largest state fair holds to the two million visitors expected for the gigantic 16-day exposition starting October 8 in Dallas. W. H. Hitzelberger, vice president and general manager of the State Fair of Texas, has announced.

"The 1949 Fair will be the best-balanced show in the history of the exposition," Hitzelberger said. "This year we will see to it that sprawled over the 187 acres of fair grounds will be more of everything which fairgoers like, and that quality-wise all phases of the giant show will be at least two cuts above anything ever before seen at the Fair."

Commercial exhibits such as foods, agriculture, automotive, home show, and farm implements, will feature more interesting displays than at any time since the war. This is attributable, Hitzelberger said, to new market conditions and increased competition for public interest.

Two new foreign exhibitors—the British and Belgian governments—will add a new international flavor to the Fair by presenting the best of their export articles in a serious bid for southwestern favor.

More money for livestock premiums has resulted in a heavier flow of entries than for any previous Fair. Headlining the 1949 livestock exhibits will be the National Aberdeen Angus show, Oct. 8-13. Herds from all representative Angus-producing states and from Canada are expected. Other breeds in the Beef Cattle show include Herefords, Shorthorns and Brahmins. Breeds in the Dairy Cattle show are Holstein-Friesians, Jerseys, Milking Shorthorns and Guernseys.

Other major shows of the livestock division will be swine, sheep, Angora goats, Quarter and Palomino horses, and an outstanding junior livestock show. Premiums total $65,235.

MOTORING AND HUMIDITY

Since an automobile engine runs better in humid weather, why can't this effect be utilized practically? In humid weather an automobile engine does run more smoothly than in dry weather and often the combustion is improved, giving better fuel economy. There are several devices on the market using this principle. However, one must balance the small gain in efficiency with the bother of providing water for the device. Water also reduces carbon formation when it is present. It must be remembered, however, that using an excess of water may have detrimental effects, such as rapid corrosion, with loss in efficiency.

The distribution of the G. I. insurance dividend on some 20 million policies will cost $11,000,000.

Tax on Natural Resources Urged by Gilbert Smith

Brownwood, Texas, Aug. 12. (Spl.)—Immediate enactment of a program providing a tax revenue from natural resources to assure future stabilization of the State's economy by investing in permanent improvements, such as rural roads, soil and water conservation, State hospitals and public buildings, is the pressing need in Texas today. This recommendation came from Gilbert Smith, former President of the Texas County Judges and Commissioners and now Executive Director of the Texas Rural Roads Association, speaking here today before the 19th annual convention of the West Texas Press Association.

In sounding a warning, Smith said: "The day is inexorably coming when the natural resources of this State will be exhausted, as oil and natural gas are being drained off to other sections of the country in such a rapid fashion that within 25 years Texas will be a great blighted area." He urged action to stabilize this condition before it is too late.

"As our natural resources are depleted," the Director of the Texas Rural Roads Association said, "the State will have to rely more and more upon its agricultural economy, and certainly no one can disagree that rural roads are the arteries feeding our agricultural economy."

"The State Highway Department has been doing a splendid job in building one of the finest highway systems in the country," Judge Smith declared. "But it is now time to bring the rural roads of this State up to par and that to take Texas out of the mud, we must balance the scales between the highway and the rural roads programs."

"The Texas Rural Roads Association, following a meeting of

LOOPHOLES in the Law

By WILL WILSON
Past President, Texas District and County Attorneys Association

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of short case histories, all taken from court records, showing how legal loopholes often enable criminals to escape punishment in Texas. Will Wilson, of Dallas, is chairman of a special steering committee of the State Bar, which is working for revision of the antiquated Criminal Code and Code of Criminal Procedure in order to eliminate these loopholes.)

Having drunk more beer than he could handle, Joe started a great disturbance in a tavern. The county sheriff was called. When he reached the tavern, he tried to quiet Joe by talking to him. But Joe was in no condition to listen to reason. He threatened to kill the sheriff.

The sheriff was unarmed, so he went back to his car and got a pistol. When he returned to the tavern Joe had been carried to the back door by two men. The sheriff followed the men and approached Joe. As he came close, Joe stabbed him in the chest with a knife.

The wound was wide and went to the rib. It would have produced death if it had not struck a rib. Since that happened, however, the wound was not serious and the sheriff had to make only one visit to a doctor.

Joe was arrested, of course, and charged with assault with intent to murder. He was convicted of that charge. But when the case was appealed the higher court reversed the decision, the court ruling that the trial testimony was faulty because the record contained no testimony regarding the size and length of the knife blade or the type of knife Joe had used.

Too many criminals go free in Texas because of such technicalities as this one. The State Bar wants to close the loopholes through revision of the criminal statutes.

IMPRESSIVE OPPOSITION

Who is opposed to the proposed bill to fasten compulsory Federal health insurance on the people of the United States?

A complete answer to that would make a book. However, here are a few of the organizations which have taken a stand in opposition: The General Federation of Women's Clubs, the American Legion, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the American Bar Association, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Small Business Men, the National Grange, the Governors of most of the states, and a number of state legislatures.

Are these groups opposed to higher health standards for the American people? They certainly are not—the contrary, they are wholeheartedly in favor of making the nation healthier, and in extending medical and hospital care wherever needed. They are, however, convinced that compulsory Federal insurance is the worst possible approach to the problem, that it would lead to a deterioration in medical service even as it increased the cost, and that the end result would be socialized medicine. And, socialized medicine, as Lenin once said, "is the keystone to the arch of the Socialist State."

Most Americans can buy voluntary prepaid medical insurance at a low monthly cost—about five dollars for a family. The small proportion of our people who cannot afford this can be helped by government without undermining our high medical standards with official red tape. That is why the compulsory insurance scheme has encountered so impressive an opposition. — Industrial News Review.

REAL MONOPOLY

Lewis Haney, Professor of Economics at New York University, recently described what resulted when John L. Lewis ordered the soft coal miners of the country to stay off the job for a week. The miners lost a week's pay. Many railroad men who haul coal were unemployed during the period. Purchasing power was reduced and this was felt in retail trade and other fields. Coal users were encouraged to shift to other fuels. Miners were given the idea that all they need think about is wages regardless of production or the welfare of the industry which employs them. In Dr. Haney's words, "This performance is disgusting."

If Mr. Lewis, or anyone else, can stop production of an essential commodity for a week, he can do it for a month or a year or indefinitely. The significant thing about the last week stoppage in the coal mines is that it is a perfect example of a labor monopoly. Without Mr. Lewis' approval, there can be practically no commercial production of soft coal. Yet this mine union, with its vast powers, cannot be reached by the antitrust laws, or by any other legislation which is supposed to prevent monopoly and combinations in restraint of trade.

Labor's freedom from statutes which govern industry and finance may have been justifiable once when the unions were small and industry-wide bargaining did not exist. But today the unions dominate the whole economy of the country. They represent billions with a capital "B". This last year provides more evidence of the need for outlawing labor monopolies precisely as we have outlawed industrial monopolies, and bringing laws the same as all business, instead of exempting them.

Modern equipment, correct materials, fine workmanship and exacting supervision assure the hopeless looking wreck being made to look and be like new.

Yes, it's embarrassing—and it doesn't make a good impression—to be "caught short" and not have enough funds in your checking account to write the check you want to write.

Maintaining an ample balance at all times is good business practice. Then you are always prepared for any emergency which may arise or any opportunity to make a profit by having ready cash in your checking account.

It pays in many ways to keep your checking balance above what you consider the "safety level."

Still another thing to which this fixer of chickens might devote his talents is the matter of larger livers.

What We Think

(By Frank Dixon)

We note by our daily that a Des Moines, Iowa, man has developed a chicken without any wings. The announcement leaves us stone cold in the matter of enthusiasm. Had the Des Moines man produced a chicken with four wings or four feet the achievement might be something to write about on the front pages of the daily press, but the fact that he eliminated the wings represents to us the low point of achievement in the matter of changes in the anatomy of the chicken.

At the present time a group is at work in an effort to produce a fuller breasted chicken. Now that is a laudable ambition, especially if the producer can extend his efforts to the drumsticks and the thighs.

There are so many things that might be done with the chicken that would improve it as a picnic delicacy that it seems a waste of effort for someone to spend time reducing the number of pieces into which a chicken may be cut.

For example, since it seems essential that a chicken have a neck, this revamping of the chicken's anatomy might devote his energy and talents to producing a more meaty neck. The neck of the average fried chicken appears inviting as it lays on the plate nestled among other golden brown pieces, but it is usually the last piece to leave the plate because everyone knows that due to the peculiar bony structure of the neck no one is equipped in the matter of teeth to eat it. Nothing but a set of teeth designed along the line of those of the squirrel could be equal to the task of denuding the neck of its edible bit of meat.

Still another thing to which this fixer of chickens might devote his talents is the matter of larger livers.

I know of many people who would hail this achievement with unstinted acclaim. In fact they would be willing to sacrifice the wings and the neck and the gizzard for more and larger livers. This would eliminate much cause for friction in large families where as a rule there are several who have a preference for chicken livers. Every one who has pre-

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

(By Congressman Ed Gossett)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20, 1949.—The House this week cut five hundred and eighty million dollars off the Administration's one billion four hundred and fifty million dollar program for military aid to Europe. Notwithstanding some of the speeches made in the Congress, none of our military experts in their testimony before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs would say that this military aid program was necessary. They did advocate the program but refused to go on record to the effect that it was vital in any way to our national defense. As a matter of fact, the House action did not drastically curtail the program. The Administration's bill called for two year authorization, whereas the House bill provides for only a one year program. Those of us supporting this cut—the reduction from two years to one year—want to see how the program works out. We want to know how these European countries use the supplies to be furnished. These European countries have not yet worked out a plan for the use of this equipment. If they use it efficiently, if they work out a sound program of self-help, then Congress will probably go along with further aid. Otherwise, the program will be reduced rather than increased by subsequent Congresses. From my brief travels in Europe, and from my study of European affairs, it seems to me that the biggest need of those folks is to go to work. Someone has said that the only thing wrong with Europe is Europeans. In many places in Europe, it seemed to me the people were putting in half their time making wine, and the other half drinking it. While in Paris and Madrid last October, I was impressed with the vast numbers of peoples on the streets in both cities who were trying to sell lottery tickets. Both France and Spain conduct national lotteries as means of raising public funds. This, to my mind, indicates a form of national depravity. Incidentally, I am glad to see our F. C. cracking down on these radio-quick-away programs. They should be stopped. Furnishing guns to Europeans is not going to make good soldiers out of them. Furnishing them billions in equipment is not necessarily going to make them work. On Monday of this week, Representative Francis Walter, of Pennsylvania, introduced two new Tidelands bills. He did this at the request of the Speaker of the House, the Honorable Sam Rayburn, of Texas. One bill is known as the Administration bill, the other as the States' bill. Both bills were drawn as a result of several months of negotiations between State officials and Federal officials in an effort to reach a compromise on the tidelands issue. The chief difference between the two bills is in the matter of control and ownership. Both bills provide that the States shall receive 62 1/2 per cent of the income from submerged lands, i. e., the so-called Tidelands, while the Federal government will receive 37 1/2 per cent. Both bills provide that the States and the Federal government will share 50-50 in the income from the Continental Shelf, i. e., the area beyond the so-called marginal sea. Tidelands is somewhat a misnomer. What is meant by tidelands, as currently used, is the area from the low watermark three miles seaward. In the case of Texas, however, this means the area from low watermark ten and one-half miles seaward, or three marine leagues. The Texas boundary was described by the Republic of Texas in 1836 by metes and bounds. Our boundary was reaffirmed in the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, and was recognized by all the nations at that time, including the United States of America. It described our boundary as beginning at the mouth of the Sabine River, thence extending into the Gulf three marine leagues from the shore, and extending in a line parallel to the shore to a point opposite to the mouth of the Rio Grande, and thence up the Rio Grande including what we know as the Republic which then included portions of New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Oklahoma and Kansas.

In the so-called States' compromise bill, the Texas boundary is recognized to conform with the line set up by the Republic of Texas. In the Administration's bill, our line is recognized as being only three miles seaward.

Hearings on these two alleged compromise bills are set for Wednesday of this week. It is extremely doubtful that Congress can or will act on either of these bills during this session of Congress.

It is a severe test on good neighborliness, a local man tells us, to have a neighbor who waits until the wind is in our direction and sets fire to a pile of half dry grass and leaves. Another similar offender is a neighbor who keeps a dog that howls and barks most of the night. It takes an iron bound Christian spirit to feel on friendly terms with such a neighbor.

As we get it times are prosperous when a worker makes a dollar and a half an hour even though the dollar and a half won't buy as much as fifty cents would in less "prosperous times."

Two Minute Sermon

(By Thomas Hastwell)

Hard Work and Thrift: I am a great believer in thrift and hard work. They are both important to an individual for two reasons. First they are important because they provide for the individual his means of subsistence and his own old age security. They make it possible for him to carry out his part in the community's scheme of living. They enable him to own a home and pay his share of the community taxes, to better his home and the community in which he lives. Both are necessary for man's well being, hard work and thrift. A man accomplishes little who works hard, but who spends as he goes, and at the end of the week or month for his work but a few clothes for his work but a few things, and a house filled with things, and an empty bank account. That is not living a successful life. To his work and earnings he must couple the desire and ability to save. The ability to earn may be due to an accident, a bent or a skill, but the ability to save indicates the deeper qualities of self-denial, frugality, thrift and self-control.

DUST OFF ELECTRIC FAN; EMPLOY IT IN NEW ROLE

Electric fans have varied uses, states Mrs. Ethel W. Self, extension home management specialist, Kansas State College, Manhattan. Such a fan can step up heating efficiency, speed clothes drying, and carry off cooking odors. "Few householders," Mrs. Self explains, "realize that an electric fan often can be as useful in keeping a room comfortably warm in winter as giving added comfort in summer. Houses that are not properly insulated often are uncomfortable because the heat is uneven. A fan, set at slow speed so that it causes no noticeable draft, can help distribute heat more evenly.

Placed at the side of a radiator, grill, or other source of heat and aimed at an adjacent wall up toward the ceiling will keep the warm air moving slowly through the room, making for comfort and saving fuel.

Put the fan to work wash day in drying clothes indoors. Set the fan at one end of a line of clothes to speed the drying. It will help, too, with overcoats, snowsuits, and galoshes soaked by rain or snow. To carry off cooking odors, a portable fan can be placed facing a window, opened just a crack, and allowed to run while the cabbage boils and the onions fry.

Man, after all his ingenuity, seems to be a rather helpless individual. When the Lord blesses him with bountiful crops he complains because he doesn't have any place to put them. Ever think now foolish, childish, and ungrateful that must sound to the Lord?

An exchange puts it this way: If we get what we want we are successful, if we want what we get we are happy.

The wasp stings with its tail.

VETERINARIAN EXPLAINS FACTS ABOUT MILK FEVER
Call a veterinarian immediately if you think your cow has milk fever after she calves. There's a good chance that you can save her.
Dr. M. E. Mansfield, University of Illinois veterinarian, says prompt veterinary attention is important, because untreated cows generally die. Most cows do respond quickly to treatment however. And they're generally on their feet a few minutes later.
While waiting for a veterinarian, prop the cow off her side with bales of hay or something else to guard against bloating. But don't give her any liquid medicine. It may cause pneumonia.
Exercise, balanced rations and at least a six-week dry period will help to prevent milk fever. Incomplete milking for two or three days after freshening also may help.
Dr. Mansfield says a typical sign of milk fever in cows is drawing the head around to one side. Also, if a cow has milk fever, she'll have a hard time standing. She may even become paralyzed in the hind quarters and go down.
If you find these tell-tale signs of milk fever, give your veterinarian a hurry-up call. It may mean the difference between a live and dead cow.
Milk fever usually causes trouble in high-producing cows, and most cases occur between the twelfth hour and the third day after calving.

WHEN TO WORM PIGS
Best time to worm pigs is two or three weeks after weaning. Pigs are weaned at around 56 days of age, so when pigs are two-and-a-half months old, that is a good time to worm them. For best results, move the pigs to a concrete floor, worm them and bring them back to the pen or pasture after three days. Another method is to worm them in the original pen and later move them to a different pen, or out to the pasture three days after worming. Moving the pigs helps break the worm's life cycle, and thus reduces the number of worms. Sodium fluoride is the best chemical to use for worming pigs because it is 90 percent or better effective, the cost is low, it is easy to get, and is not harmful to the pig if given as directed.
The business economy, the experts say, seems to be heading into the last stages of its current down drift and should turn sharply upward in the second half of this year. This is the consensus of opinion of most government economists concerned with the administration business policy, who follow day by day developments of the economic picture.

MILLIONS FOR RESEARCH
According to Wheeler McMillen, Editor-in-Chief of the Farm Journal, "One American industry alone, the petroleum industry, invests in research well above $100,000,000 annually." This is more than the agricultural interests of all nations have ever put up for the scientific advancement of agriculture.
This huge expenditure for research is in itself indicative of the difficult technical problems the oil industry has had to face, and faces still. There are many varieties of crudes, all with peculiarities of their own, and ways had to be found to make them yield needed products at a reasonable cost. The development of engines presented constant difficulties to the oil people. For example, automobile and airplane engines needed fuels with ring-shaped and branched molecules for best performance; diesel engines required straight molecules. To make it more confusing still, the diesels also worked most efficiently with molecules of a different size than those preferred for the car and plane power plants.
Engines began to operate at greater and greater speeds—and this imposed new lubrication problems. The strength and tenacity of lubricants had to be increased if engines were to have a long life with a minimum of trouble.
On top of it all, there came a rising demand for new oil products of a thousand diverse kinds. As the manager of research for one oil company has said, "It sometimes seemed as if the only oil products the world didn't absolutely have to have were oils for women's face creams, and there was not even complete agreement on that."

KEEP KITCHEN TOOLS HANDY TO SAVE TIME AND TROUBLE

Keep kitchen tools handy. Mrs. Homemaker. That's one good way to speed up your biggest job—fixing three meals a day.

Miss Catherine M. Sullivan, home management specialist, University of Illinois college of agriculture, says you'll be doing yourself a favor if you store supplies and utensils at the place where you use them.

For example, have mixing utensils such as spoons, beaters, and spatulas near the counter where you mix foods.

Also keep a measuring tool in each canister or container of staple foods. You'll want a half cup measure in the sugar can, a cup measure in the flour can. Of course you'll want the sifter near the flour can but do not leave it in the flour. Miss Sullivan advises, if the sifter is kept in the flour, it may need frequent washing and most sifters aren't easy to wash.

You'll find it handy also to keep a short-handled teaspoon in the baking powder can, a half teaspoon in the box of baking soda, a tablespoon or coffee measure in the coffee can. Use plastic spoons to avoid corrosion.

Some tools can be hung on the wall near where they are used. At the sink counter hang a bottle opener, kitchen scissors, a vegetable brush, and a measuring cup to measure water. Near the range, hang a tablespoon, a long-pronged fork, and whatever other tools you use there.

EYE TROUBLES RATE HIGH

Visual difficulties rank second only to neglected teeth among America's most prevalent health problems, according to the American Optometric association. "Two out of three adult Americans need glasses or some other form of correction to overcome problems which handicap them in their jobs, leisure time activities, or daily living, and millions of school children have their vision impaired as a result of an unfavorable seeing environment in schools," Dr. John B. O'Shea, president of the association, says. "Because inefficient vision is seldom accompanied by pain, millions of Americans suffer serious deterioration of eyesight without knowing it."

BIG DIFFERENCE

The main argument for Communism—which is dutifully swallowed by all party members and fellow travelers—is that it is the only way to save the "common man" from cruel exploitation and give him a healthier, happier, more abundant life; the same goes for Socialism and government ownership of business, which are just softer names for Communism. On that premise Russia has built her police state and her regimented economy in which private business does not exist, there is no real competition, and the government runs everything.

How has it worked out? In capitalist America, a wage earner gets an average of $10 for eight hours work. A Russian has to put in 81 hours of labor to earn the equivalent. To make still another comparison, about 37 hours of work by a typical American industrial worker will pay for a good new suit. If the Russian wants a new suit, by contrast, he must toil more than 500 hours, and the chances are that the suit will be of rock-bottom quality.

Many factors have contributed to this amazing difference in living standards between two large nations, each of which has been blessed with vast stores of raw materials. One of the most important is something Americans take for granted because they have known it and seen its workings all their lives—competition. Every manufacturer and producer must constantly try to produce a better line of goods, or to sell at a cheaper price, or to offer some other inducement to those who buy from him.

On the retail level, exactly the same thing goes on. Whether a store be small or large, whether it be independently owned or part of a chain system, the great emphasis must be on pleasing and attracting the customer. If a store falls in that, the trade goes down the street, and the receivers eventually take over. That is why a free economy is one of abundance—and a regimented economy is one of scarcity because government monopolies eliminate competition. — Industrial News Review.

RETAILING IS HEALTHY

"This Week" magazine has made a long report on changes and progress in the food distribution industry. Generally, it says, its researchers found "better housekeeping, more know-how in merchandising, more precision in measuring stock movement."

This is undoubtedly true of retailing as a whole, including all the other lines no less than food. On first glance, it may seem to be of interest only to the people who own and operate stores. But it has a very direct bearing on the consumer as well. What it means, from the public standpoint, is that we are offered wider and more appealing stocks of goods—and that a still higher degree of efficiency and economy in merchandising has been attained. The result is more and better goods for our money.

The "This Week" survey also says that well managed independent stores can successfully compete with the chains. This substantiates something that we can see for ourselves in every American community. What people once considered the "menace" of chain retailing simply never developed. It didn't develop because a good merchant, no matter what kind of a store he operates, can keep and increase his patronage.

Retailing is healthy in this country—and it's doing a better job for itself and the public all the time.

MEAT FOR BABIES

Baby's diet may include meat at the age of six weeks, or even younger, with resulting benefits in general health and vitality, reports Dr. H. W. Shultz. His findings are based upon two years of intensive research devoted to baby foods for Swift research laboratories. Scientific studies conducted had two primary objectives: to determine how well tiny babies tolerate meat and to measure the healthful advantages of feeding meat earlier in life. Strained meat was developed in which individual particles are so small that they readily pass through the nipple of a nursing bottle. "Because the protein requirement of a baby is actually three or four times, in proportion to his weight, as that of an adult," says Dr. Shultz, "our research was predicated upon the fact that meat is the best source of complete, high-quality protein the baby needs for maintenance and growth."

A man will not be the better because he had a well-born father, if he himself is nought. But true high-birth is in the mind, it was never in the flesh.—King Alfred.

Weekly Sermon

The Compassion of Christ

by Alfred Martin, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

Nothing characterizes the Lord Jesus Christ more beautifully than His great compassion. We read of Him, "When he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd" (Matthew 9:36).

Often in the Gospels this attribute is emphasized. "He was full of compassion." The epistle to the Hebrews tells us that this quality is necessary in a true priest and the Lord Jesus is our great High Priest—"Who can have compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the way" (Hebrews 5:2).

No scene in the Scriptures is more poignant than that of Christ's weeping over Jerusalem: "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets, and stonest them which are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not!" (Matthew 23:37).

The tragedy is that men spurn this unlimited compassion—"Ye would not!" The Lord Jesus spoke similarly sorrowful words in another connection: "And ye will not come to me, that ye might have life" (John 5:40).

Nevertheless the patient, long-suffering compassionate Son of God continues to invite men to come to Himself. At the very end of the Bible we hear His gracious invitation: "And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely" (Revelation 22:17).

Have you come?

HISTORY

Labor Day, September 5—Labor Day observed the first Monday in September is one of the most generally and widely observed holidays in this country. Credit for instituting Labor Day is usually given Peter J. McGuire in 1882. At that time he was president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and one of the active leaders in the Knights of Labor. He first submitted his proposal to the Central Labor Union in New York. He also suggested the first Monday in September as a suitable day. The proposal was adopted and the first Labor Day celebrated was held on September 5, 1882. The program consisted of a parade followed by a picnic. On October 9, 1884, the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions of the United States and Canada, meeting in convention in Chicago voted to make the celebration national. This organization later became the American Federation of Labor. On February 21, 1887, the legislature of Oregon designated the first Monday in September as Labor Day and made it a state holiday. This was followed by similar actions of other state legislatures. By 1894 the day had been made a legal holiday in thirty states. On June 28 of 1894, Congress passed a law making it a legal holiday in the District of Columbia and in the territories. The day is now observed in every state.

CARD OF THANKS

Since it seems impossible to thank each individual personally, we, the relatives of Judge C. Y. Welch are most grateful to our friends and neighbors for the many favors shown us during our bereavement.

And, for the various and many kinds of remembrances which Judge C. Y. Welch received during his last illness, for he seemed to enjoy so much to be remembered by the many cards, letters, telegrams, the many beautiful flowers and the personal visits of his acquaintances and his friends.

May this card of thanks express our heartfelt gratitude and may God bless each of you.

KNOW-HOW OF SHOE BUYING ESSENTIAL TO FOOT HEALTH

Up to about the age of seven a child outgrows shoes before he or she outwears them. Recent studies show that most upper grade school children have feet that require attention. The cause is usually in the fit or the kind of shoes they wear. What's the cause of that? Not enough know-how on the shoe buying front!

Mothers may get a picture of the condition of their children's feet by examining their shoes. Look at the bottoms first. If the wear covers the entire sole area, with greater wear evident along the margin of the sole, the shoes fit correctly. The heel, also, should be worn down along the outside. These are the areas that receive the greatest thrust of body weight under normal conditions.

If the forward portion of the sole shows excessive wear, the shoes are too short. Toes are being cramped. This might affect gait and posture, and could lead to back pains in later life or "crankiness" right now.

Is wear especially heavy on the inner border of the heel, and on the inner margin of the sole? If so, chances are the upper is mis-shapen, too, with the inner side bulging unnaturally. This adds up to "pronation," fore-runner of flat feet. The source of the

Miss Ruth Barker to Wed Howard K. Bell on Sept. 24

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barker announced the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Marjorie Ruth, to Howard Keith Bell, at a dinner party given for eight close friends of the bride-elect at the Barker home on Monday evening, August 22.

Colors of white, aqua and pink were used in all appointments of the party. A small arrangement of white carnations and fern made a dainty centerpiece from which extended narrow white satin ribbons imprinted with silver lettering with the words "Howard-Ruth." The ribbons tapered to the candles on which were tied tiny frosted white wedding bells. The announcement was made on miniature scrolls, done in aqua and white and placed with each guest's place card. The wedding will take place on September 24 at the First Baptist Church.

BIRTHDAY DINNER PARTY

Mrs. J. T. Brooks complimented her daughter, Nelda Kay, on her tenth birthday at the home on Thursday evening, August 18, with a dinner party for a group of friends.

Mrs. Brooks was assisted in serving and entertaining by Mrs. Durwood Sanders. The honoree was the recipient of many nice birthday remembrances. Those present for the party included Nelda Kay, Janis Crowell, Carole Baze, Marcia Carroll, Pat Davis, De Anna Ferguson, Betty Davis, Peggy Long, Jo Frances Long, Latrelle Duckworth, Edna Walker, Shirley Fox and LaVata Gray.

Following the delicious dinner, the group enjoyed games on the lawn.

Henry Circle of W. S. C. S. Meets Monday Afternoon

The Henry Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church met on Monday afternoon, August 22, in the home of Mrs. Cora Belle Whatley with Mrs. Bill Bell as hostess.

Mrs. Bell, Circle chairman, conducted a short business meeting after which Mrs. Ray Duckworth gave a devotional on "The Tithes." "Home News Flashies" were given by Mrs. Haskell Norman. Mrs. M. S. Henry gave a geographical survey of Puerto Rico as an introduction for Mrs. Munson Welch's article on "Puerto Rico, Paradise or Problem." Only Japan has less arable land than Puerto Rico. The Methodist Church is bringing a living Christ to these people through education, evangelism and medical and social work.

In an article on "Puerto Ricans in U. S. A." Mrs. Foster Davis brought to mind the fact that Puerto Ricans are United States citizens in their own right and ninety per cent of these people who live in the U. S. are in New York City. The time has come when we must work with and for these people as they go forward in Christian living.

Mrs. S. H. Holliday was welcomed as a new member. Present for the meeting were Mesdames William Ricks, Dick Davis, Moody Bursey, M. S. Henry, Mike Brown, Andrew Calvin, Munson Welch, Haskell Norman, Foster Davis, Ray Duckworth, S. H. Holliday and the hostess, Mrs. Bell.

BIRTHDAYS CELEBRATED

Mrs. John White and Mrs. Eugene Owens honored their sons, George Robert White and Ronnie Eugene Owens on their 8th and 7th birthday, respectively, in the home of Mrs. White on Saturday, August 20.

Out-of-door games were played on the lawn. A pink and green color scheme was followed throughout the party. Both birthday cakes were white with pink and green trimming. The cakes were served with lime soda pops and strawberry ice cream cones to twenty boys. Many nice birthday remembrances were received by the honorees.

Those present were Johnny Lee, Bill Graves, Jay Davis, Jon McLain, James Borchardt, R. H. McCoy, Norman Naron, Paul and Steve Hudson, Bobby Barker, Julian Harlan, Ronnie Coffey, Gary Owens, Jerry Canup and the honor guests, George and Ronnie. Plate favors were balloons and bubble gum.

MARRIES IN NEW MEXICO

Charles Ferguson and Mrs. Doreen Jones of Watrous, N. M., were married at the Ortez Plaza Hotel in Las Vegas, N. M., on August 8 with Judge Benito Encinas performing the ceremony. The bride was attired in a silk crepe suit with a corsage of gardenias and carnations.

A wedding supper was given for the contracting parties by Mr. and Mrs. B. Hershfeldt in the hotel. Shasta daisies and sweet peas and the tiered wedding cake adorned the table.

Mr. Ferguson, the son of Henry Ferguson of Crowell, will teach in the Santa Fe High School this year and the couple will reside in Santa Fe.

"In the Good Old Summertime" at Rialto Aug. 28-29

Judy Garland follows up her big success in "Easter Parade" with another delicious romantic comedy, "In the Good Old Summertime," this time co-starred with Van Johnson and with that amiable character actor, S. Z. "Cuddles" Sakal, having a prominent part in the proceedings. Of added interest is the fact that the new M-G-M Technicolor offering, on view at the Rialto Sunday and Monday, Aug. 28 and 29, marks the return of Buster Keaton, famed comedy star of silent films, who proves himself to be as funny as ever in the role of a blundering music store clerk.

The unraveling of the romantic complications against a framework of song and hilarious comedy makes for one of the most captivating musicals.

SEW-N-SEW CLUB

Mrs. Bob Myers and Mrs. Clarence Garrett were joint hostesses to the Foard City Sew-N-Sew Club which met Thursday, August 18, in the Recreation Room at Foard City.

Dainty sandwiches, cookies and Cokes were served to fourteen members and one visitor. Those present were Mesdames R. J. Owens, J. C. Rader, Junior Chowning, Kenneth Halbert, Fred Borchardt, W. L. Johnson, Hughston McLain, Glen Shook, Howard Ferguson, Eugene Owens, James Sandlin, Jack Welch and the hostesses, Mrs. Myers and Mrs. Garrett, and Mrs. John White, the guest.

The social for the month will be a watermelon feast to be held on Wednesday evening, August 24th.

The next meeting will be on September 1, with Mrs. James Sandlin and Mrs. Hughston McLain as hostesses. The names of unknown friends will be revealed at this meeting.

WHY OF ADVERTISING

Here are some interesting figures disclosed by Dr. Walter Dill Scott, Northwestern University, which answer the question, "Why advertise?" They show why repetition is the backbone of advertising. (1) 25 per cent of all people forget an impression in one day. (2) 50 per cent of all people forget an impression in two days. (3) 85 per cent of all people forget an impression in four days. (4) 97 per cent of all people forget an impression in seven days.

Correct Posture in School Children Helps Development

Austin, Texas — Correct posture in school children, and adults as well, is necessary to proper physical and mental development, says a warning from the Texas State Department of Health. "Good posture is a sign of self respect and plays an important part in winning the respect of others," said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Many of the ills of childhood and the deformities of adult life have their beginning in poor posture acquired during childhood," he said, "and it is particularly important that the child's posture conform to nature's dictates. Most children are born in good physical condition and yet examination of large groups of school children shows a high per cent to be suffering from poor posture. Malnutrition and fatigue are productive of poor posture. These lessen the size of the chest and decrease the lung capacity. Abdominal organs may also be pushed out of natural position, which may seriously interfere with their action. These conditions must be corrected before the body is able to attain normal weight and nutritional standards."

"School children who have poor posture are said often to average lower in attendance and in school mental and physical activities than those who have good posture. A child may be forced to hold his body in an unnatural position by a desk that is too high or too low. Desks and work tables should be just high enough to allow the feet to rest on the floor and the forearms and hands to rest upon the tops without the shoulders being hunched up."

"Begin early in life to teach your children to stand straight and sit straight for health and self-confidence, and they should grow into strong, well-built men and women."

CLEAR THE AIR

There is an almost unbelievable amount of misunderstanding of how much profit industry earns — and how stockholders and workers fare when it comes to dividing up income.

For instance, a group of employees of representative American corporations were recently asked what they figured the average manufacturer earns in peacetime. Their answers averaged 25 per cent. They were then asked what they considered a fair profit, and here the average came to 10 per cent. Yet the fact is that, over a 20-year period, corporate profits in this nation averaged a trifle more than four per cent annually — well under half of what the workers considered fair, and less than a fifth of what the workers thought was earned.

These workers were also asked this question: "Out of each dollar paid in dividends to stockholders, salaries to top management, and wages to workers — how much of this dollar do the workers get?" The average estimate was that workers get 25 per cent, and stockholders and management a whopping 75 per cent. Actually, over 18-year period, the workers received seven dollars in wages for every dollar of profit. In the best of these years from the stockholders' point of view, the ratio was four dollars to one dollar. In one year it was $22 to one dollar.

These misconceptions as to profits are at the root of many attacks on the free enterprise system.

NOTE SIGNED BY LINCOLN BEARS HIS FINGERPRINT

A fingerprint note of Abraham Lincoln is on public display at the Illinois state historical library, Springfield, Ill. This fingerprint itself, or the ink smudge that historians believe is a fingerprint, is on a slip of paper about two by four inches on which is written, "Let this man be discharged. A. Lincoln, Feb. 17, 1865." The gerprint is in the upper left corner, as if the pen had stuck spattered ink on the first word of the note and the President pressed his thumb into this when he picked it up.

Even though he had several secretaries, Lincoln handled a titude of details himself and in the habit of writing notes as the one with the fingerprint. Another note, dated within a of the "discharge paper," read "Surgeon J. Theodore Hearne allowed to visit Washington, D. provided he does not overstay leave of absence, Feb. 11, 1865. A. Lincoln."
