

Record cotton harvest passes 30,000—34,000 bales seen

April finish near certainty

Garza's "1972-73" cotton harvest already has set a new record of an estimated 30,526 bales, and before it's all over in April—as The Dispatch has been predicting—gin managers expect to see it wind up at something like 34,204 bales.

The best previous production was slightly over 28,000 bales. What's more, grades and mikes still are reported "holding up" as the ginning season moved through its sixth consecutive month.

Planters Gin Manager Bill Lentz reported a cotton sale at 28½ cents per pound this week.

It looks like this crop is going to be a real money-maker for the farmers, if not for the gins. Bad weather has extended the overhead operation of the gins over a record six months period now. "There's just no way," said one, "that any gin could make much of a profit out of a season like that."

Who would have thought that on the first day of spring in 1973 the area gin yards would be so crammed that the farmers were back playing the old game of "waiting on trailers?" Two of the gins were going 24 hours around the clock and still can't catch up.

"This ginning season has been just like the army," sighed one ginner, "you hurry to wait, hurry to wait—with our waiting coming on the weather."

The Dispatch's weekly "gin check" yesterday showed 28,444 bales of Garza cotton ginned to date in eight area gins with another 2,082 bales jammed onto their gin yards.

Total that up and you get 30,526 bales out of the fields. Each ginner was asked to estimate how many more bales they expected out of their areas before the season's end. Those "guessimates" totaled up another 3,678 bales.

Add that to what already has reached the gin yards and you come up with 34,204 bales—about 6,000 bales better than the previous record.

Of course, The Dispatch's gin checks have to figure two gin estimates. Half of the Hackberry Co-op ginnings are figured as Garza cotton and one-third of the Grassland Co-op ginnings as Garza cotton. Here is the gin-by-gin report: Storie Gin: 2,500 bales ginned, 175 more on yard, labor situation so bad the gin manager has been driving the burr truck the last several days. Another 700 estimated bales still to come in.

Close City Gin: 4,349 bales ginned, 340 on yard, maybe 400 more still in fields.

Graham Gin: 6,530 bales ginned, 375 on yard, running 24 hours a day, 595 more bales expected. Planters Gin: 3,435 bales ginned, 60 on yard, working eight hours daily, maybe 400 bales left in area, grade cards back Tuesday showed cotton mikes and grade still holding good.

Pleasant Valley Gin: 2,274 bales ginned, 400 on yard, close to 700 still out, ginning 14 hours daily, and hoping to go round the clock. Hackberry Coop Gin: (Only half of this counted in Garza crop)

7,000 bales ginned, 665 on yard, around 1,000 bales left in area, ginning 24 hours a day.

Basinger Gin: 3,800 bales ginned, about 200 on yard, only 150 to 200 bales still to go, operating 12 hours daily.

Grassland Co-op: (Only one-third of this counted as Garza cotton) 6,170 bales ginned, 596 bales on the yard, between 700 and 800 bales still expected, ginning 15 hours daily.

AT SUNRISE CEREMONY IN PARK

Wind from northwest, means average crop

A crowd of over 100 gathered just before sunrise this morning in City-County Park for the Post Chamber of Commerce's first annual "Ta'bana Yua'ne" and saw Frank "Chief" Runkles, in full Indian dress, point dramatically to the northwest, signaling an "average" crop year for 1973, according to Indian legend.

Noah Stone, who has been measuring the wind with a plumb bob for many years on the morning of each March 22, in a tradition begun here in 1906, stepped forward to pronounce the wind from the northwest, meaning an "average" crop year.

After the 15-minute ceremony, which ended at sunrise at 7:02 a. m., the crowd was served a catered breakfast in the park of scrambled eggs, biscuits, bacon, sausage, jelly and coffee.

Chief Runkles' one-man ceremony was almost a photographers' carnival, as cameramen from television stations KSEL and KCBT in Lubbock, Lyntegar Electric Co-op, representing The Dispatch by invitation, and a host of local amateurs snapped away.

Stakes, which correctly represented north, east, south and west, had been set on the perimeter of the small ceremony area the day before to provide accurate judgment of the wind direction. Chief Runkles quickly produced sparks by rubbing two sticks together, and within a minute or two had his wood fire going to begin the ceremony.

He offered a Comanche sunrise chant, and then the pipe to the east—land of the rising sun, the south—land of the great heat, the west—land of the setting sun, and the north—land of snow and ice. Then the pipe was offered to Mother Earth and to the "Great Spirit Above."

He danced briefly around the fire and then, at the moment of sunrise, whirled and pointed dramatically to the northwest to end the ceremony.

TV Station KCBT told Bryan J. Williams, originator of the Chamber-pr o moted "Ta'bana Yua'ne" ceremony, that if their films were good, they were going to try to (See Average Crop, page 8)

Jack Alexander named CofC vice-president

Post Chamber of Commerce directors elected Jack Alexander vice president of the organization for 1973 and hired Mrs. Kay Lamb as the new Chamber secretary at the board's March meeting last Thursday noon at Darby Don's Restaurant.

A monthly news letter to be prepared by the Chamber secretary will be mailed all members, directors decided in another major action.

Directors also approved the reduction of individual annual dues for the Chamber from $24 to $12 payable annually or by draft only. Present individual members who have already paid $24 for their 1973 dues will be credited for 1974 as well.

Directors spent considerable time discussing the Chamber's upcoming annual membership drive. A concentrated individual membership drive is planned among oil workers, Postex employees, and teachers as well as for members of new firms.

Also discussed were new ideas for the annual Post Fourth of July promotion and for downtown Christmas decorations. Directors want to concentrate upon one large Christmas tree.

In other actions, directors voted to place $250 in the Chamber's savings account to bolster the organization's cash reserve, and voted

Several courses open to adults

Lane Tannehill of the Post High School faculty said today applications are still being taken for adult education courses to be taught here in cooperation with a manpower project of the Texas State Technical Institute in Amarillo.

There is no charge for the courses, which are open to those who are at least 19 years old or to 18-year-olds if they have graduated from high school or have dropped out of high school.

The classes will include construction work, furniture renovation, sewing machine operation, typing and welding. A minimum of 12 students is required for the mechanical courses and a minimum of 20 for the technical courses.

Anyone interested is asked to contact Tannehill by telephoning 485-3414.

Supt. Bill Shiver didn't waste a minute filling out "knowledge-ability gap" on the schools' new individualized instruction program after reading last week's "confession column."

He called up Friday morning and asked us to take Dr. John E. Roueche, author and professor of administration at the University of Texas, out to lunch. Miss Flora Dehart, who is doing her internship for her doctorate at the University of Texas at El Paso in the educational field, also came with us to provide a bit of added charm.

To sum it all up, after an hour's discussion we came away much more informed about individualized instruction.

Dr. Roueche, a precise young educator, promised to send us a copy of his latest book soon to come off the press on the subject. He told us among many other things that the Post school system has accomplished more in the last year in its conversion to the individualized instruction method than any school system he had ever seen. He explained only about three or four per cent of Texas school systems are converting to this new instructional method. He (See Postings, page 8)

Michael Haas is spelling winner

Michael Haas, 12, a sixth grade student at Post Junior High School, won the annual Garza County spelling bee over 14 other Post and Southland junior high students here last Friday afternoon.

Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Haas, correctly spelled "abominate" after it had been missed by runner-up Nathan Wheeler of Southland, then spelled the next word, "aborigine," correctly to win the bee and the right to represent the county in the regional spelling bee at Lubbock on April 14. A trip to the National Spelling Bee in Washington, D. C., awaits the Lubbock winner.

As runner-up, Nathan Wheeler was named alternate and would represent the county at Lubbock should something happen to prevent the champion from competing in the regional event. Nathan, a seventh grade student at Southland, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Wheeler. His sisters won the county spelling bee the last two years.

Larisa Shiver, a Post sixth grader, placed third, missing on the word "varicose." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Shiver.

Curt Wheeler, also of Southland, helped uphold the Wheelers' reputation of good spellers by placing fourth in the contest.

Mrs. Carolyn Sawyers, pronouncer, started the bee by giving out intermediate words, which shortened the event considerably over those of past years when the pronouncers started the contest with simpler words. Only 39 words were required in this year's bee to eliminate all but the champion.

Mrs. V. C. Wheeler of Southland was director of the bee. The judges were Mrs. Martha Windlow, Mrs. Mary Alexander and Mrs. Tanya Buchanan.

COUPLE RECEIVES PLAQUE

Air base appreciates help rendered airman

County Judge Giles W. Dalby and his wife, Nelda, were presented an appreciation plaque by Mayor Giles C. McCrary here last Thursday on behalf of Cannon Air Force Base, Clovis, N. M., for the assistance they rendered a Cannon AFB airman Feb. 29, 1973 after he wrecked his automobile near their ranch home east of Post.

Lt. Col. Thomas J. Dodd, USAF commander at the air base, wrote in a letter to Mayor McCrary:

"Judge G. W. Dalby and his wife went out of their way to give assistance to a young airman from my command. . . people similar to Judge Dalby and his wife are a testimonial to everyone of us, but especially to young people. In our world of non-involvement it is a pleasure to find people who are not afraid to get involved in the problems of others. Please extend my sincere thanks to Judge and Mrs. Dalby."

The airman was not seriously injured in the accident, but his automobile was wrecked. Mrs. Dalby brought him to the hospital here for first aid and a check-up and then returned him to the ranch where he had lunch with Judge and Mrs. Dalby. Later in the day, Judge Dalby brought the airman to town where he boarded a bus to Clovis.

THIS DREAM HAD PAINFUL ENDING

Sometimes bad dreams turn out very bad. One did for Bryan J. Williams Tuesday night.

Still asleep, he leaped out of bed, cracked his forehead on the bedroom door and slid across the carpet, skinning his face and blackening an eye.

Momentarily stunned, he came to on the carpet in a pool of blood. Twelve stitches were required to close the gash over his eye. X-rays taken yesterday revealed no broken bones, although he had a badly swollen finger and bruised ribs.

What was the dream about? In all that excitement, he couldn't remember.

FLARE GAS WOULD BE TREATED, SOLD

Automated plant will help in energy crisis

Highland Resources, Inc., plans to construct an automated plant just outside Post to treat natural gas so that the gas now being burnt by flares around Post can be sold commercially in the growing energy crisis.

Putnam Haddox of Houston, vice president of the firm, announced the plans in a talk before Post Rotarians at their weekly luncheon in City Hall Tuesday noon.

He said that some 40 billion feet of natural gas have been wasted here by burning—enough for this city's use for the next 70 years—because up until this year the price of the fuel was so low as to make its gathering and processing for sale prohibitive.

Only in the last year, he told Rotarians, have natural gas prices risen enough to make such an automated plant investment and sale of the gas feasible.

The plant will be very similar to the one Ven Tech Engineering Co. of Houston is building near the Sun Oil Company tank battery 15 miles north of Post.

Haddox explained that the wastage of the gas has been due to the fact that gas prices "have been controlled" with only the consumer in mind.

Now that a severe shortage of oil and natural gas has developed, he said, the only way to conserve such fuels and not waste them is to let fuel prices seek their own levels in a competitive market, he said.

Haddox devoted a major portion of his talk to reporting on his firm's successful waterflood (or secondary oil recovery) development in and around Post. He pointed out that "the same problems we have right here we are also experiencing with fuels on the international level."

Due to the growing oil shortage, he explained, oil import quotas are now being loosened.

"But environmentalists won't let us build ports into which we can import oil and for the same environmental reasons no one wants to build refineries to process this oil," he commented. "If we are to solve our problems, we are going to have to get together and use more common sense."

Haddox said the waterflood projects now under way around Post with great benefit to the local economy could have come "years earlier" if the unitization bill now (See Gas Plant, page 8)

Chamber to launch member drive

The Post Chamber of Commerce will launch its 1973 membership drive Monday with Chamber directors serving as membership solicitors under the chairmanship of Jim Cornish.

The committee will meet Friday noon at the Drover House Restaurant to complete plans for the drive and to set a new membership goal for the two weeks campaign.

Besides some 75 local businesses not now members of the Chamber, the committee workers hope to attract many farmers, ranchers, Postex employees, teachers and oil field personnel into the civic organization at the new individual membership price of $12 a year.

ROTARIAN RECEIVES PLAQUE HONORING 38 YEARS SERVICE

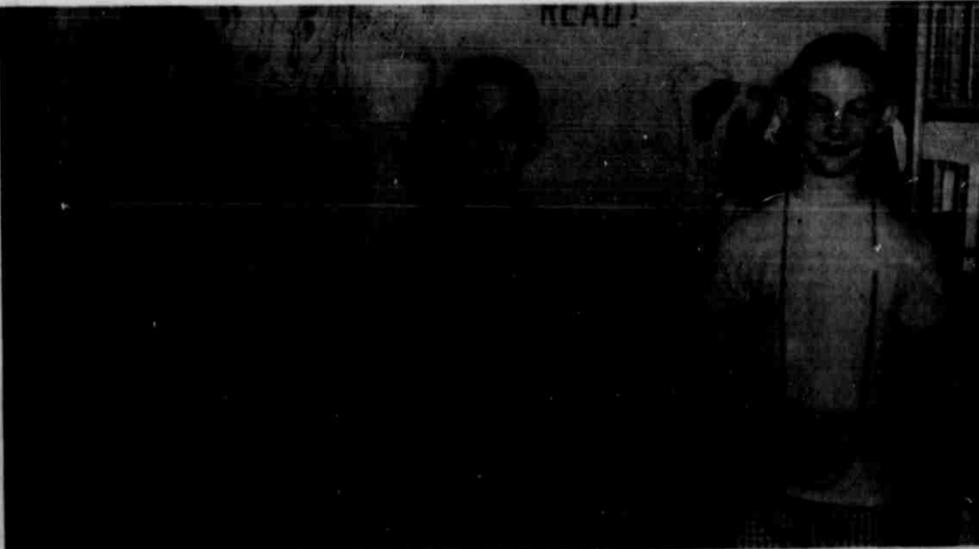

Dean Robinson was a special guest of the Post Rotary Club Tuesday noon at its weekly luncheon in City Hall to receive a plaque honoring his 38 years of Rotary service.

Tom Bouchier, the only active charter member of the local Rotary Club who has sat across the luncheon table from Robinson for most of those 38 years, made the presentation.

Bouchier said he was presenting the plaque with "sorrow and regret" because Robinson's long service to Rotary had ended. The county school superintendent recently went inactive and the club decided to honor him for his long service.

In making the presentation, Bouchier recalled that Robinson had presented "the best program" the local Rotary club ever enjoyed.

It was on D-Day in 1943, and as the radio reported the landings of American troops on the beaches of Normandy, Bouchier said that Robinson, who was a World War I veteran stationed in Normandy, recalled the obstacles on those beaches that the GI's would have to overcome.

Let's get ready to go metric

Here at The Dispatch where we often get calls from people wanting to know how many feet are in a rod, how many fluid ounces in a pound, etc., most of which questions we can't answer without looking them up, we sometimes wonder about the adoption of the international metric system.

But, after all, it might be easier than the system now used. Let us hope so, for it appears that it is coming to that.

In August of last year, the Senate passed legislation moving for adoption of the international metric system as our primary system and comparable action is anticipated in the House. From a number of viewpoints this is a most responsible decision.

In the first place, we are now the only industrial nation on earth not on or moving to the metric system. It is estimated that with metric-sized products we'll open up as much as $10 billion additional foreign trade and heaven knows with our trade imbalance we can use it. Continuing to use our customary system places us in a technological trap of our own making and this is inane in a world where we are all moving to a single technology. Although the move will be expensive, evidence is such that failure to change will be much more costly in the long run.

Domestically a shift to metrics will create some confusion for both the public and business, but in the long run we'll probably learn it better than our present system. After all, how much sense is there to a system that asks you to relate 12 inches to a foot, three feet to a yard, 36 inches to a yard, 1,760 yards to the mile or 5,280 feet to the mile?

With metrics we measure simply—for length the meter is divided into decimeters (1/10th), centimeters (1/100th), millimeters (1/1000th)—all you do is move a decimal point! The system is so much more logical than our own.

The changeover will also encourage us to update our standards and specifications for products, offering us an unprecedented opportunity to improve them and cut out the unnecessary variety which increases cost.

Quick action on this vital legislation would be a service to America's economic future. And for us here in Garza County and elsewhere in the Southwest, it probably wouldn't be any harder getting used to than Daylight Saving Time, which we've had to learn to live with whether we liked it or not. —CD

We're in favor of a city manager

This newspaper fails to see a single disadvantage to adopting the city manager form of government, as will be proposed on the April 7 city election ballot.

After all, we are—to all intents and purposes—operating under that form of city government at the present time. As City Atty. Pat N. Walker explained to the city council the night it decided to call the election, "You'll be doing nothing more than legitimizing your present form of government."

The way things stand now, however, the official serving in what would be the city manager's office is operating under the title of director of public works, because his place of residence is located outside the city limits. Not having officially adopted the city manager type of government, the council cannot hire anyone as city manager unless he has lived within the city limits for six months prior to his election.

If voters approve the new form of government in the April 7 city election, the council can go outside the city limits to hire a city manager and set his salary at its discretion.

The city manager's principal job would be to see that city ordinances already passed and to be passed in the future by the mayor and city council are enforced. He would be the chief administrative officer in this capacity. Otherwise, there would be no changes. The mayor and city council would continue functioning as they are at the present.

Hiring a city manager and delegating his specific duties might well put an end to such questions as, "Why isn't the trash ordinance enforced? Why isn't the stray dog ordinance enforced? Why isn't the food establishment ordinance enforced?" etc.—CD

Energy crisis making its impact

The nation's "new" energy crisis is just now making its impact felt upon citizens and politicians alike.

The only sure thing about it is that prices for energy are all going up. That is going to put a bigger "bite", of course, on the average American.

Also it is going to stir up some marginal energy business that wasn't profitable before because the market price will go high enough that despite high production costs it can still realize a profit.

Some of that kind of marginal oil and gas business is now going around Post and should continue for some years to come.

The gas flames which have ringed Post for years and years may soon be a thing of the past. That gas probably can now be sold, and can be processed through highly automated extraction plants like the one already begun north of Post.

Marginal old oil wells now may be reopened, and reworked at a modest profit where in former years they had to be abandoned.

Now state unitization laws are going to make it easier to work out the legal intricacies for waterflooding so that more and more oil may be recovered through secondary methods.

In the meantime, the scientists of industry will pursue development of atomic energy for peaceful use. As this develops in the years ahead there will be an increasing market for uranium. Garza County, like many other areas, has marginal uranium deposits.

It is not inconceivable that in the years immediately ahead, methods may be found to profitably extract marginal uranium for energy use.

So this too, not too far ahead, could provide some aid to our local economy.

There are good and bad sides to virtually every problem. Thus the energy crisis through helping to develop marginal use materials may in the end provide some surprising benefits.—JC

TAHOKA, TEXAS

I SAT through most of another Garza County spelling bee (about my umpteenth) last Friday afternoon and heard Michael Haas, Post sixth grade student, outspell 15 other students to win the county championship.

Included among the 14 spellers spelled down by Michael were two of the Southland Wheelers, which is probably the "spellinest" family in Garza County, since two of its members won the last two spelling bees before this one, and Wheelers finished second and fourth in last Friday's event.

SPELLING APPEARS to come natural to young Michael Haas, and even though he is only a sixth grader, I think he has a good chance to win the regional bee at Lubbock April 14 and a trip to the national bee in Washington, D. C.

Last year, a youngster from Lamesa, Tex., won the National Spelling Bee, and if the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce hasn't erected a sign on the outskirts of their city reading, "Home of the World's Champion Speller," they've missed a good bet.

SPELLING IS important to newspaper people because most of our work is with words, and while we don't claim to be the best spellers in the world, most of us can spell well enough to correct most of the misspelled words in some of the copy we get here at The Dispatch office from the school, clubs, etc.

And if you think we don't get a lot of copy with misspelled words, you should see some of it. Not long ago, a reporter for a local club "jumped on" our women's editor because the write-up turned in by the club had been "changed." The club reporter told the women's editor that getting their write-ups in the paper "just like we turn them in" counted points for the club in its scrapbook.

AFTER THE CLUB reporter left, I asked the women's editor to let me have her copy. After I got through with it, nothing was left out, and very little was changed, except eight misspelled words. Most of the misspelled words were common ones, and I'm sure if the write-up had appeared in the club's scrapbook exactly the way it had been turned in, those misspelled words wouldn't have won them any points.

The Dispatch, for instance, uses a special wedding form that is filled out by the couple to be married, which usually gives the many details of a wedding. If we didn't check those wedding forms very closely when they come in, we might come up with something like the following:

"Emmanuel Lutheran Church was chosen by Mary Jones for her recent marriage to John Brown. The bride came down the aisle decorated with white satin bows and green ivy. She walked on the arm of her father, William Jones, to meet the bridegroom at the altar. The altar was flanked with bokays of stephanitis, gladyolas and carnations. "The bride, carrying a cortege of pail pink and wite roses, centered with a wite orchard, was a fusion as she approached the altar where the minister stood, Bible in hand, to deprecate at the exchange of neptune vows.

"Miss Jones parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, live in the city. Mr. Brown's parents are dis-eased.

"The bride wore a gown of white potissaw with side drapping. The enscalloped neckline was enhanced with erredescent sequence, pearlys and beads. The embroidered bouffid skirt had a chaple length trail embedded with dequence. The gown had long tapered sleeves, fingertip lenth, a princess atlie bodish, and the skirt drapping fell into a carriage.

"The bride's hedpiece was a princess crown stile with pearlys. A tearer of pearlys and rheinstones held a vase of silk illusion.

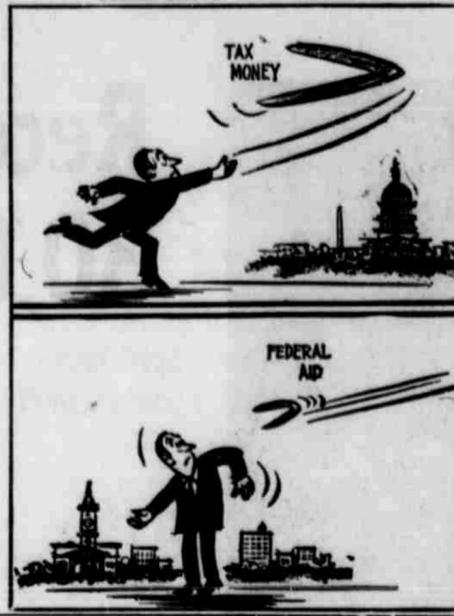

"The bride attendence, friends of the bride for many years, wore gowns of water-shrimp colored organize with taffeta underskirts. The gowns had vee neck scoups, and were fashioned with flared skirts.

"The attendence wore small hats trimmed with pearls and nose vales. The bridesmaids carried cononical bokays of white sambidium orchids as they proceeded the bride down the wite-carpeted stile to the altar.

"The mother of the bride was cheek in a dress of satire blue. It was made sheeth stile and she wore a matching floured iet. She pined white orchard courages to her dress, and her costume was competed with white assories.

"A reception was held at the brides home immediately following the seremony. The mothers attendence wore white. Flowers were used throuth the house. A spry arrangement of blue iris was centered on the piano and baksets of pink gladyolas waxed orunage blom-s and confetty were used about

• Card of Thanks

Our sincere thanks and gratitude to our many friends for every kind deed while I was in the hospital and after returning home. For your prayers, cards, food and various gifts.

Faye and J. E. Ramsey

Our thanks go out to our many friends for the many kind deeds shown us during Delmer's illness and especially Saturday when so many farmers showed up with tractors, strippers, trailers and men to work in gathering our crop. Ten strippers and 30 hands did the work in five hours which would have been impossible for us due to the weather. To the Storie and Graham Gings we also want to say a special thanks. We are happy to have been a part of the Graham community for 46 years. We appreciate you all and may God's blessings be with you all.

Delmer and Mary Cowdry

We will not be responsible for debts incurred by anyone but ourselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Long

Ray and Maxine Farrar, and the brother and sister of Thomas Franklin Farrar, wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our many dear friends in Post for their expressions of sympathy, for the calls and cards sent us in our great loss. We will never forget you. God bless you all.

Ray and Maxine Farrar

 Mrs. Rae Lynne Barr

POST Girl Scouts wish to thank you for buying our cookies and your support throughout the year.

We thank Rev. Bob Ford and Rev. Robert Griffin for the message they gave Patti, for the lovely music, the ladies who prepared the food, and the ones who sewed, and especially James Minor for the great job he did for us. God bless each of you.

The family of Garnie Smith

The "Parade of Homes" is being planned and sponsored by the Gamma Mu chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, in connection with the sorority's educational programs for the year on interior decorating. Invitations have been made to all local clubs and organizations.

Last year, the sorority members purchased an otometer, a machine to test the hearing of the school children.

Refreshments will be served upon completion of the tour and return to the bank building. The afternoon will be concluded with a model meeting by the sorority for prospective members as a part of

Potluck By ROSEMARY CHAPMAN

More on farmers, rain and the oil patch. Billie Lou Robison called last week and asked, "What if your dad is a farmer and an oilman too?" Her dad, Billy Hill, is both and it creates some unusual situations. One day he says, "Wish it would stop raining so we could get in the oilfield" and the next day he says, "Wish it would rain. These cattle need grass". In spite of the conversation books say, weather is always an interesting topic for West Texans.

Speaking of West Texans, the first American may well have been one. Noted archaeologist C. W. Ceram in his new book, "The First American: A Story of North American Archaeology," considers the honor a toss-up between Midland, Texas Man and Laguna, California Girl. You might know it would be the Texans and the Californians who are fighting it out.

Midland "man" was really a woman, which, I think, if I may digress for a moment here, should say something to us all about "equal rights". Aged about thirty, her bones were found in 1933 by an amateur, Keith Glasscock, near my old hometown, Midland. Glasscock immediately brought in the experts.

Ceram says, "The excavation of Midland Man is to this day viewed as a model of beautiful, accurate teamwork." The heads of the expedition were Fred Wendorf of the Laboratory of Anthropology at Santa Fe, Alex D. Krieger of the University of Texas at Austin, Claude C. Albritton of Southern Methodist University at Dallas, and T. D. Steward of the United States National Museum, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution.

In spite of all the care of the investigators, the skeleton can be dated only vaguely: older than 10,000 years, PERHAPS as much as 20,000 years. This would mean, if the maximum age could be accepted, Midland Man, or, as she will henceforth be known to me, "Midland Woman", is indeed the oldest American.

Laguna Girl, as if any true Texan could really care about HER, has had her skull radiocarbon dated as being between 18,620 and 15,680 years old. However, many doubts have sprung up among archaeologists over this find and her

Mrs. Iris McMahon is Thursday Club hostess

The group enjoyed visiting and refreshments were served to Mmes. Loucille Morris, Ada Oden, Pearl Wallace and Viva Davis. The next meeting will be April 19.

authenticity is in doubt. I should certainly think so.

Scientists have often wondered why we have found such vast numbers of weapons made in America by early man, who lived long before the Mound Builders of Wisconsin and Ohio and the Pueblo people of Colorado and New Mexico, but for so long have never come across many remains of man or women themselves.

Actually, the answer to "Who was the first American?" right now is, "No one really knows". The evidence isn't all in. There are probably many more discoveries on the subject to be made and when they are, Midland Woman and Laguna Girl may both be regarded as no more than youngsters in the time game.

Still, it's fun to think about. I vote for West Texas!

Scout-o-Ramas to be April 7

LUBBOCK — More than 40 adult Scouters from the South Plains Council, Boy Scouts of America recently met to plan the 1973 Scout-O-Ramas.

The Lubbock show and four area shows will be presented simultaneously on April 7.

According to Scouter David Hughes, chairman of Scout-o-Rama, more than 6,000 Cubs, Scouts, and Explorers from the 28 county council will participate. Hughes said that Scout-O-Rama is a dramatic way in which boys can show the public what Scouting is all about and what activities are available for today's youth.

The theme for this year's program is "Scouting Today's a Lot More Than You Think".

Lubbock's Scout-O-Rama will be held at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. with boys from Mackenzie Trail, Arrowhead, and Longhorn districts participating.

Plainview's program will be held at the Hale County Agriculture Center noon to 7 p.m. with boys from the Haynes district.

Texas gray wolf near extinction, but three sighted in Trans-Pecos

AUSTIN — The Texas gray wolf has followed the buffalo into near-extinction.

Once common in West Texas in the late 19th century, gray wolves, Canis lupus, fell to traps and poison much more easily than did their smaller relatives the coyotes.

Until recently, the last gray wolf collected in Texas was reported in 1944.

Now, three wolves have been found in the Trans-Pecos in as many years.

In December, 1970, a two-year-old male was killed south of Alpine. The carcass weighed 68 pounds after considerable dehydration.

The same month, another male of the same age was trapped 60 miles away in Longfellow.

Dr. Paul Wyerts of the Sul Ross Range Animal Science Department in Alpine speculates that the two males were litter-mates because of their ages and circumstances of time and place of capture.

A deer hunter killed a 70-pound female wolf south of Valentine, Tex. A smaller animal was reported run with her but it is believed that it was a dog and that the female was part-dog.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department non-game biologist John Smith of Austin speculates that the wolves are coming into Texas from Mexico.

"To my knowledge," said Smith, "there is no breeding population of wolves in Texas. "Since the cruising range of wolf packs in northern Minnesota is 45 miles a day, it is not unlikely that the animals crossed the border as part of their daily rounds in search of food."

The largest remaining population of wolves outside Alaska is in northern Minnesota.

The Texas wolves were probably roaming in small groups or alone. "Like the young of many species," said Smith, "the males killed in late 1970 probably had dispersed to find new range."

The gray wolf is not to be confused with the smaller red wolf, Canis niger, which is found along the Texas Gulf Coast.

Red wolves have been forced from an original large range to small enclaves in Jefferson, Chambers and Liberty counties.

Estimated population of the red wolf in Texas is at least 100 animals.

29 entries judged in schools' Science Fair

The Post Public Schools' first Science Fair in several years drew a total of 29 entries last Saturday, according to Post High School student Sylvia Smith, director of the fair.

The exhibits, placed in the southeast wing of the high school building, were judged by Curtis Hudman, Lewis C. Herron and Sam Buchanan, with judging starting at 9 a. m. The exhibits were open to the public from 11:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m.

Sponsors of the fair were George Pierce, Dwain Harris and Miss Alice Harris. The senior division of the fair had only two entries, both in the physical science category. Joe Craig placed first and Roxie Owen, second.

In the two junior high categories, mathematics and biology, Matt Lemon was first place winner in the math division, with Timmy Dudley and Jack Burkett tying for second. ### Postings—

Dr. Roueche and ourselves formed a mutual admiration society for Bill Shiver, but we won't embarrass Bill by going into that.

We did find out one thing which has had us wondering—why if the Post instructional conversion has been so unique has not more acclaim been given to it in educational circles. The answer to that is that showing visitors around takes a lot of time and until the conversion is complete "mum" is more or less the word.

Dr. Roueche, by the way, was here developing packet quality controls in the new program.

Usually we don't have enough editorials to fill The Dispatch's editorial columns, but this week we went on a "writing binge" and wrote one too many. It got left out until this week. That is why you'll find an editorial "guestimate" in the editorial column that "flaring gas" around Post will soon be a thing of the past and then read on the front page that Highland Resources is going to build an automated plant to make the gas saleable. We didn't find out about that until the editorial was already on the press for the "Tuesday press run."

SHERIFF HAS SURGERY

Pictures taken by the two Lubbock TV stations will appear on both their evening and night news telecasts. Channel 28's evening news is at 5:30 and Channel 11's at 8 p. m. Both night newscasts are at 10 o'clock.

The guest coming the longest distance for the ceremony was Jeffrey Heyns of Capetown, South Africa. He is a Lions Club youth exchange representative visiting the Tahoka Lions Club for four days.

The Dispatch invited John Ed Redwine, public relations man of Lyntegar Electric Co-op at Tahoka, to bring his camera and be this newspaper's guest at the ceremony, as he has excellent polaroid equipment, and The Dispatch's news camera pictures could not be processed in time for today's paper. Redwine brought Heyns with him. The red-haired South African youth said he was quite impressed with the ceremony.

Gas plant—

He urged his hearers to support the unitization bill "in whatever way you can." The bill, he explained, would permit oil fields to be unitized for secondary oil recovery with only 75 or 80 per cent consent of the interests involved.

He demonstrated from a map hung on the wall portions of the big Garza oil field "we're interested in."

Haddox said his company (the George R. Brown oil interests) have already invested $2,225,000 in its waterflood projects in Garza County with good results to date.

"We've got a long way to go to get our money back from the projects but we are hopeful that we will," he said.

He pointed out that through the waterflood project, his firm had paid $103,000 in city, school district, and county taxes in 1972 alone and in that one year had purchased $117,000 worth of White River water which was a major factor in enabling the White River water district to "discontinue water district taxes to the four member cities."

Haddox told The Dispatch following his talk that the automated natural gas plant would remove carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulphide from the natural gas and to hide from the natural gas and make it saleable.

Highland Resources is now in the process of selecting the best possible site location for the plant. Only a small acreage will be required, Haddox said.

Other guests of E. R. (Buster) Moreland, manager of operations for Highland Resources in this area, were O. J. King of the Permian Corp., Monta Moore of Leveland, Post-Montgomery manager, and S. E. Windham, Billy Dornier, and Neal Clary, all of Post.

LISTENING POST

By GEORGE L. MILLER

Did you ever fall in love with a book, make the exciting discovery that it has been turned into a movie, get eaten up with impatience to see your favorite story flashed on the silver screen, and when you finally see it—you hate it?

I have. More than once. A recent example is the remark of "Wuthering Heights", so forgettably done I can't even tell you who the stars were.

An Alistair MacLennan goody called "Ice Station Zebra" was one of his best works. And when MacLennan is writing well you're in for a good time. I guarantee you. But the "movie" if you go see it, wear a clothes pin on your nose.

So often this is true, the book was better. Only occasionally will the movie match the story. And once in a great while the movie is that miracle of a work of art—it improves the book. Personally, I thought "Peyton Place" was such a movie.

Of course I hate to admit I even read the book! But I got tricked. I saw the movie, was so impressed with it I thought the book couldn't be that bad. Only to find out it was indeed that bad.

All this is a roundabout way of saying how delighted I was to see the Post High School choir beat the odds and recreate on stage some of my favorite characters.

I went to see "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" with fear and trembling, for the familiar figures of the Peanuts cartoon are so well loved, they are almost dear friends of the family. Would they be as I imagined them, or want them to be?

Hallelujah, they were—and more. The show ended with a song about "happiness, and I can tell you one line should have been included, "Happiness is seeing the Post High School choir perform 'You're a Good Man Charlie Brown!'"

I'd love to comment on every character—they were all so well done. Rodney Compton's "Charlie Brown" was just right. Dana Pool was "Lucy" to the core. Linus with his blanket and Patty with her jump rope, Snoopy and Schroeder—they were great.

I have only one negative comment—the auditorium was far too empty. Such talent as these people displayed should have had the room bulging. The people of Post missed a fabulous evening, and make no mistake about it, it was fabulous. This was not just a cast trying to do a show, these were talented young people doing a professional job that was delightful from beginning to end.

Linus trying to prove he didn't really need that blanket, Lucy doing a survey of her friends to learn her good points, Charlie Brown flying his kite and managing his baseball team—sketch after sketch was fully developed, completely satisfying.

The most delightful moment for me was when the whole cast does a book report on Peter Rabbit. From Lucy's careful counting of words to Linus' scholarly dissertation it was perfect. You'd have to see it to believe it.

I've been a Peanuts fan for years. I've followed the ups and downs of Charlie Brown for so long I get to feeling like Charles Schulz is writing just for me. We have a number of his books in the library and each time they're checked out I watch them go with a catch in my throat lest they won't come back.

Sometimes they don't, worse luck! I frankly didn't believe the special magic of Charlie Brown could come alive on a stage. But I've been proved wrong.

All you folks who missed it, eat your hearts out!

27 foreign airmen make Post visit

Twenty-seven foreign airmen stationed at Reese Air Force Base toured the Postex Plant and other places of interest in the city last Thursday morning and were guests of the plant at a luncheon at the Drover House Restaurant.

The visitors came to Post by bus and were joined here by the RAFB commander, who arrived by helicopter. They were shown through the mill by Ed Bruton, manager; Walter Didway, personnel director; Dick Tanner, a supervisor, and other Postex officials.

Mayor Giles C. McCrary assisted the plant officials in hosting the group during their visit.

Postex Jr. Relays to have 33 teams in 4 divisions

Second annual event to unwind March 30

The second annual Postex Junior Relays, increased this year from three to four divisions, are to be held Friday, March 30, at the school track here.

A junior varsity division has been added this year in addition to the 7th, 8th and freshman divisions that competed in last year's relays. Coach Lane Tannehill, director of the event, said today.

Eight schools will compete in the 7th and 8th grade divisions, nine in the freshman division and eight in the junior varsity division, Tannehill said.

Former sprinter named admissions counselor

ABILENE — Three-time All-American sprinter Robert H. (Bob) Woodroof has been named an admissions counselor for the Abilene Christian College system, according to Robert D. Hunter, ACC vice president for public relations and development.

"We are very pleased that Bob Woodroof will be a member of our college relations team," said Hunter in making the announcement, "because he has shown outstanding capacity for telling students, their parents, and alumni of the Abilene Christian College story."

Although Woodroof will recruit for the entire ACC system, he will be located at a home base in the Metrocenter in Mesquite, Texas.

Little League start remains indefinite

Since no parents showed up, other than league officials and managers, nothing definite was decided at last Friday night's Little League meeting on the start of this season's schedule. Dwayne Capps, the league president, said today.

United Fund directors requested at a meeting early this year with league officials that the start of the Schools entering teams in each of the 7th and 8th grade divisions are Post, Tahoka, Slaton, Frenship, Cooper, Roosevelt, Floydada and Lockney. Teams from the same eight schools will take part in the freshman division, with Abernathy making the ninth team there. Vying for honors in the junior varsity division will be Post, Tahoka, Slaton, Frenship, Roosevelt, Floydada, Lockney and Abernathy.

The name Postex Junior Relays was given the meet because of the co-sponsorship of Burlington Industries' Postex Plant in staging the relays. Coach Tannehill said.

Bleachers were built especially for the relays last year and are available again this year. Last year's successful meet was held under ideal weather conditions. "We are keeping our fingers crossed for the same weather conditions for this year's event," Tannehill said.

Preliminaries in the running events will begin at 10 a.m. with the 440-yard relay and are scheduled to be completed at 1:05 p.m. Following a break from 1:05 until 2:15, the finals in the running events will get under way.

The field events are to start at 10 a.m. with 7th grade pole vault and shot put, 8th grade high jump, freshman discus throw and junior varsity long jump.

The presentation of awards and trophies is scheduled for 5:30 p.m.

ABERNATHY AND ROOSEVELT

Antelopes entered in 2 meets this weekend

The Post Antelopes, who scored 50 points Saturday against strong competition in Division II of the West Texas Relays at Odessa, are to compete in two invitational track and field meets this weekend — at Abernathy on Friday and at Roosevelt on Saturday. The Abernathy meet is being held Friday after being postponed two weeks ago because of cold weather.

Denver City and Stanton scored 96 points each to tie for the team championship at Odessa, with Idalou scoring 86 points, Phillips, 62; Sudan, 55; Post, 50, and Coahoma, 36.

Mark Bevers ran the mile in 4:44.9 for the Antelopes' only first place at Odessa, coming in well ahead of second place winner Luther Robinson of Sudan, whose time was 4:53.6, and Johnny Gonzales of Stanton.

Despite a bad handoff on one exchange, Post's 440-yard relay team placed third, behind Sudan and Stanton. The "Lopes were timed in 4:52, which is just four-tenths of a second slower than the school record of 4:48. "We're going to be out to break that record this weekend," Coach Lane Tannehill said.

Members of the relay team, in the order in which they ran, were Ricky Shepherd, Dennis McDonald, Donnell Harper and Roger Pace.

The mile relay team placed sixth with a time of 2:50.8 after a dropped baton ruined their chances of a faster finish. Members of the relay team were Shepherd, Jerry Tyler, Harper and Randy Kennedy.

Pace placed second in the shot put with a throw of 47.4. Rick Wilson of Stanton won the event with a toss of 47.7½, and Billy Renuau of Phillips placed third with a heave of 45-11.

McDonald placed third in the 220-yard dash with a time of 23.2 after turning in a 22.9 in the preliminaries. Johnny Vineyard of Idalou won the 220 in 22.5 to set a new meet record, and Dwayne McMeans of Stanton placed second. McDonald finished fourth in the 100-yard dash with a time of 10.2. Idalou's Vineyard also won the 100. In the record-tying time of 9.9 seconds.

Post's other points were picked up on a fourth place by Chris Wyatt in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:06.3, and Shepherd's fourth place in the long jump with a leap of 18-9½.

Kelvin Thomas qualified for the 220-yard dash, but finished just out of the points by placing seventh with a time of 36.5.

Coach Tannehill commented today on the basis of last weekend's track meets, District 3AAA appears to be stronger than ever this year. Tahoka, the defending champion, won its division at Plainview with a total of 146 points. Denver City's first place team tie at Odessa establishes the Mustangs as stronger than last year, and Cooper finished first. Roosevelt, second, and Frenship, third in the Hale Center Relays.

TELLS SERMON SUBJECT

"Devils Galore!" will be Minister Bernard S. Ramsey's sermon subject at the 11 a.m. worship this Sunday at the First Christian Church, with the Lord's Supper also to be observed. There is a supervised nursery at the morning service. Host and location of the 7 p.m. Sunday fellowship hour are to be announced. At the Wednesday, March 28, prayer meeting, at 7 p.m., the minister will continue his series on the "Life and Teachings of Jesus Christ."

DPS intensifies litter patrol

AUSTIN — An intensified effort to prevent littering on the highways in Texas has been announced by Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Speir said DPS patrolmen in all uniformed services have been ordered to watch closely for motorists or other persons throwing litter on the highways or rights of way, and to take appropriate enforcement action.

State law prohibits the dumping or depositing of refuse, garbage, rubbish or junk on public streets, roads or highways. It is also unlawful to dump any sort of waste on rights of way, beaches, parking areas, or in inland streams or coastal waters.

The law makes drivers responsible for any refuse or garbage falling from their vehicles.

Fines for littering offenses may be as high as $200, and minimum fines of $25 are provided in some instances.

TO COMPETE AT GAIL FRIDAY

Does score 56 points in Spur's track meet

Coach Jay Wilson's Post Doe track team scored 56 points at Spur last Friday for a fourth place team finish among the 11 teams in the Spur Girls Track Meet.

"Considering that this was our first meet of the season, I was well pleased with the girls' performance," Coach Wilson said.

The Post team will compete Friday in the Borden County Relays at Gail.

Floydada and Slaton tied for the team championship at Spur with 52 points each. Anson was second with 75 points and Idalou third with 60. Post's 56 points enabled it to finish ahead of sixth place Roosevelt, which scored 51 points.

The Does' only first place in the Spur meet was won by Becki Dalby in the triple jump with a distance of 31-4½. Becki was district champion in the event last year.

The 440-yard relay team of Cathy Howell, Patricia Bilberry, Pam Feagin and Dalby finished second with a time of 54.3 seconds, only two-tenths of a second behind winner Roosevelt's time of 54.1.

Phyllis Kennedy placed second in the high jump at a height of 4-4, with a Cooper girl winning the event at 4-6.

Ann Mitchell's heave of 30-11 feet was good enough for second place in the shot put, and Pam Feagin finished third in the 100-yard dash with a time of 12.4. Terri Green was sixth in 12.6 seconds.

Sherri Compton finished fourth in the 60-yard dash with a time of 7.7 seconds, and Becki Dalby was fifth in 7.7. Jana McKamie also qualified for the finals in the event, but did not place.

Patricia Bilberry came in sixth in the 220-yard dash with a time of 29.8. Terri Green and Cathy Howell also participated in the 220.

The 880-yard relay team failed to place with its time of 2:00. Anson winning the event in 1:55.4.

Other girls participating for Post, but failing to win points included Sandra Dudley in the 880-yard run, Jodi Norman and Tina McAllister in the long jump, Jodi Norman in the triple jump, Genetta Kennedy and Stella Torres in the 440-yard dash, and Ann Mitchell, Susan Gary and Joni Hays in the discus throw.

Texas crime rate lower last year

AUSTIN — Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today that the total number of major crimes committed in Texas last year was 2.2 per cent under the number recorded for 1971.

He said the decrease in estimated offenses from 482,389 to 472,011 marks only the fourth time total offenses declined from one year to the next since the DPS began publishing the Texas Crime Report in the mid-forties.

Previous declines in numbers of major crimes occurred in 1954, 1948 and 1947.

Post represented by 14 girls at area FHA meet

The Texas Association of Future Homemakers held their area meeting in Odessa this weekend. Girls throughout the district of Area II, composed of approximately 75 area towns, were represented at the meeting.

Girls attending from Post left here Friday at 1 p. m. and arrived at Odessa around 4 o'clock. They stayed at the Ramada Inn in Odessa. Friday night they dined at Manuel's and then attended the show "Cross and the Switchblade" starring Pat Boone.

Saturday morning the meeting was held in Odessa Ector High School with the theme of "Reach Out." The keynote speaker was Mrs. Ronald DeBush, formerly Debbie Wright, 1972 Maid of Cotton. She talked of how important it is for each of us to reach out and help each other. She told of her experiences of being the Maid of Cotton and how love is, if it is used right. Girls were then dismissed for lunch.

In the afternoon session we learned about "Hero-PHA." Encounter is a new type of degree program where a person takes a close look at themselves and evaluates changes made during three phases of work. Programs which were carried out last year by different chapters in Area II were presented by Mary Allen, program chairman.

New area officers were presented then initiation ceremonies were held.

The girls got back to Post about 7:30. Attending from the Senior chapter were: Jeanie Bilberry, Connie Flores, Gail Browning, Maude Cade, Jan Burkett, and Kathie Morris. ## Vochais Day set at area college

LEVELLAND — Vochais Day—1973 has been set for April 6, 1973, according to Charles Ware, president of the Vochais Club of South Plains College. Vochais Day is a special "day" for area black high school seniors to come to the campus and observe campus life.

Purpose of the day is to encourage black students to continue their education, not especially just at SPC but at any institute of higher learning. This is also one of the major objectives of the black and non-black membership of the club: to further their education beyond the high school level.

What the Word Lent Means

Rev. George P. Ascher

The word lent has come to have an almost universal acceptance in the world. At this time of year anyone can tell you that it is that time between Mardi Gras and Easter. But perhaps we can take the four letters of the word and explain that LENT is not only a period of forty days but also a time for renewing and remembering God's plan of salvation.

L — That letter must always stand for the Love of God for Lost sinners. "FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD THAT HE GAVE HIS ONLY BEGOTTEN SON."

E — Reminds us of the greatness of that gift, "EVERY GOOD AND PERFECT GIFT COMES FROM ABOVE."

N — Renews us so that we boldly declare, "THE LORD IS OUR HELPER, WE WILL HAVE NO FEAR," for we have heard God say, "NEVER WILL I LEAVE YOU NOR FORSAKE YOU."

T — Tells us of Triumph over Trouble because of Christ, "FOR THOU LORD HAS MADE ME GLAD THRU THY WORK; I WILL TRIUMPH IN THE WORKS OF THY HANDS."

A new way to spell an old season perhaps. A new way to look at an old message. Whatever this use of the word Lent means to you will you look at it from a new viewpoint? LENT—GOD LENT US His Son that we might have everlasting life.

NUTRITIONAL PROBLEMS OF THE ELDERLY

Older adults require balanced diets throughout life. Although a person's body, activities and calorie needs may change with aging, nutrition continues to affect every cell in the body. Unfortunately however, nutritional problems often accompany aging. Because of dulled taste buds, older persons tend to neglect foods which provide certain nutrients essential for energy and good health. Certain foods often are avoided because of outmoded or unfounded ideas about their effects on the body. For example, some people falsely believe citrus fruits are too acid and cheese is hard to digest. Additional factors influence dietary intake—and thus problems—of older persons. For instance, lack of teeth, poorly-made dentures, and illness affect how and what they eat. Also, a person's cultural heritage, religious convictions and emotional stability can govern habits. Food patterns and ideas carried since childhood likewise are factors. Loneliness, anxiety and other emotions can influence food choices. Lack of nutrition information and understanding adds to the problem.

Older persons often don't make wise selections among low-cost foods. As a result, some nutrients in the diet may be consistently low. In many cases, elderly persons buy and consume specialty foods and assorted supplements to compensate for lack of appetite or to whether deficiencies actually exist or not. In response to this overall need, professional and federal agencies are working through projects to help elderly persons solve nutritional problems. One such on-going program in Garza County is our "Hot Meals on Wheels."

VITAMIN E CONTROVERSY
For a brief moment, I'm back on my soap box about that "miraculous" vitamin E. Contrary to advertisements, there's little foundation for claiming vitamin E a miracle cure-all. Although this nutrient is essential for good health, it isn't everything it's promoted as being. Studies and clinical trials fail to link vitamin E with "curing" heart disease, cystic fibrosis, blood disorders, ulcers, diabetes and miscarriages. Nor did it prove to be beneficial for increasing sexual performance. Actually, very little is known about the vitamin. It functions in the body as an antioxidant and helps red blood cells live as long as they should. Small amounts of the vitamin are stored in various body organs, muscle and fat tissues. A fat-soluble vitamin, it requires presence of fat and bile salts for absorption. There's little chance that a person eating a well-balanced diet will lack vitamin E since most common foods contain modest amounts. Estimated adult daily requirement is 25-30 International Units—the average U. S. diet furnishes 2-6 I. U. daily. Best food sources are leafy vegetables, whole-grain food products and fats—especially vegetable oils. My main complaint is that these vitamin supplements cost so much money. Money which would be better spent buying lettuce, spinach, romaine, whole wheat bread and plain ole vegetable cooking oil. However, I'm sure some of you will swear by it. I tried it for a month—I wasn't any sexier. But as the old saying goes, "It's mind over matter!"

We are thankful that we have not had very many colds this winter. Syd B. Wyatt, Post Church of Christ minister, held services last Sunday evening. Everyone enjoyed the message and also the singing. No one signed my book, so I don't know who all came. Wednesday, Patsy Sanderson, Jewell White, Mary Goodwin and Mickey Salinas came and brought Larry Hambrick from the East Side Church of Christ. Larry brought a wonderful message that we all enjoyed so much. He will be coming once a month to bring us a message. Thank you, Larry. # Plains Trail through Post to be promoted AUSTIN — Post, a major point in reaping the benefits of a new Texas Plains Trail, will major new national promotion of the special Panhandle-Plains route.

The Texas Tourist Development Agency disclosed that $13,900 of its spring advertising budget will be invested in a full color page ad on the Plains Trail in four key magazines. The ad will appear in March issues of Camping Journal and Southern Living, and in April issues of Texas Parade and Trailer Life. The TTDA is buying a combined circulation of 1.3 million in the publications. The ad's single dominant photo is that of the Ranch Headquarters outdoor museum on the Texas Tech University campus at Lubbock. It was shot specifically for the ad by the TTDA.

The copy mentions such other principal area attractions as Palo Duro Canyon, unique restaurants, "boot hill" cemeteries, and a wildlife refuge for waterfowl. Featured in a corner of the ad is a coupon inviting the reader to request copies of the Texas Highway Department's special pamphlet on the Plains Trail, and its 208-page travel guide, "Texas—Land of Contrast." "The ad, and subsequent highway department literature, will give the reader compelling reason to discover this exciting part of Texas," said Frank Hildebrand, TTDA executive director. "We expect communities and attractions all along the Plains Trail to benefit appreciably from this added promotion of their area."

Texas Industry Week scheduled April 1-7
AUSTIN — Communities throughout the state will have an opportunity to pay special tribute to local industry April 1-7 during Texas Industry Week. The special week gives local communities an opportunity to recognize "trail riders" come their way," Hildebrand said. Contributions industrial firms have made to the local community. "Special events like Texas Industry Week go a long way toward making new manufacturers feel welcome and have a significant effect on attracting new industry to the state," Chester Wine of Corpus Christi, chairman of the Texas Industrial Commission, said.
