$6,000 would be Post's share

A representative of a city planning firm told Post's city council Monday night that a city plan now would save Post both money and trouble in the future.

A complete city plan, which would require from six to 18 months of engineering studies to complete, would cost about $9,800 of which a federal agency would pay half, he explained.

The city planning representative, Guy L. McCraw of the Dallas firm of Homer A. Hunter Associates, consulting engineers, told Mayor Powell Shyyles and the aldermen in his presentation.

"In the next five years if you don't double your population something is wrong with you."

He declared that a city planning survey prepared for the city of Lubbock in 1947 is estimated to have saved Lubbock to date some $50,000,000 through planned growth.

McCraw appeared before the council to explain how city planning could be developed with the federal government paying half of the cost. The city wants extensive planning of utility extensions and streets and alleys into three square miles newly annexed around the original townsite.

Post Stampede directors vote new event

Bulldogging added to rodeo program, committees named

The Post Stampede Rodeo has returned bulldogging to its rodeo bill of fare and will replace its 1958 heading and heeling contest with a blue ribbon roping event.

These decisions were made Tuesday night at a session of the Post Stampede directors in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Besides bulldogging and blue ribbon roping the 1959 rodeo program will include calf roping, saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, bull riding, and the girls' barrel race.

In another rodeo change of interest to contestants, directors voted to number both the calves and yearlings for drawing by contestants this year.

The Post Stampede, formerly held in May each year, has been scheduled for July 8-9-10 and 11 this year in an effort to avoid bad spring weather.

Rodeo committees appointed by Rodeo Manager Phil Bouchier for the 1959 event Monday night are as follows:

Advertising—Shelley Camp and J. B. Potts.
Concession committee — Walter

Duckworth.
Parking—Lions Club.
Parade and Floats — Harold Lucas; Hub Haire and Floy Richardson, horses in parade.
Ticket sales—Ira Greenfield.
Publicity—George Samson.
Girls' Sponsors — Mrs. Pearl Nance, Shirley Camp and Ed Sims.
Rodeo grounds—Ed Kelly Sims, Manuel Davis, Jack Kirkpatrick.
Cutting Horses — Novis Rodgers.

Cotton Revue May 15 will highlight Cotton Week here

Garza County's second annual Cotton Week observance will be highlighted Friday night, May 15, with an all-cotton style show sponsored by Post merchants in the grade school auditorium.

Another feature of the evening's program will be an address by Wilmer Smith, president of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

Participating in the Chamber of Commerce sponsored Cotton Revue are the following eight Post firms:

Hundley's Men's and Boys' Wear, Herring's, Marshall-Brown, Parson's Dress Shop, Lavelle's, Dunlap's, Maxine's, and Franleigh Fashions.

Mrs. Willard Kirkpatrick will be narrator. Fashion music will be by Boyd Dodson.

The model list is not complete, but will be announced in next week's Dispatch.

Miss Jessie Pearce, county HDU agent, and the county HDU units are preparing the Cotton Week address.

Merchants are urged to put in are reported planning Cotton Week specials of cotton products.

Due to extensive remodeling at the Postex Cotton Mills, the firm at this time will be unable to hold their annual open house.

Mill officials said they regret it cannot be held during Cotton Week, but they hope to stage it at a later date when the remodeling and expansion work is completed.

Postings

By JIM CORNISH

If you don't double your population in the next five years something is wrong with you!"

It certainly is a challenging statement to be hurled at Post—that it was Monday night by Guy L. McCraw, a city planning expert. He didn't make the statement either because he had toured the community and studied its progress. He made it purely on his knowledge of the rapid growth of population in West Texas.

The city council took under advisement his suggestions for developing a real city plan for future growth. The mayor and aldermen appeared interested. "I hope the town is too—because city planning is so worth it. It is something we shouldn't neglect."

Have heard Post pleased very much and again recently by the folks as literally "standing on the threshold of a future that can be one of real growth" and make the most of our opportunities. When Lubbock hired city planners in 1947 the planners scoffed at the planners. They reported Lubbock had grown to 80,000 by 1960. Today it is close to twice that size and 1960 is still some months away.

Cotton Week plans for Garza County are rolling along with a Cotton Revue planned for Friday night, May 15. We hope the merchants along Main street emphasize the importance of cotton to us by putting in some attractive Cotton Week windows and by featuring cotton goods during cotton week.

Council approves 'workable plan'

Post asks for 100 housing units

The city council Monday night adopted by resolution a "workable city plan" for public housing which calls for 100 public housing units to be constructed here.

The action was the next step necessary in the application of the City of Post Public Housing Authority to the Federal Housing Administration.

The resolution and other information, called "a workable city plan" was forwarded in seven copies. It had been prepared by an architectural firm employed last year by the Post Public Housing Authority to "carry through" with the paper work on the application until the actual architectural stage is reached.

Originally only 60 housing units had been sought here.

A fact sheet on the local housing problem, forwarded with the resolution, declares that "sub-standard housing is mostly located around the cotton-textile mill, along the railroad tracks and on the flats, however, some substandard housing is scattered in other sections of the city."

"About 30 per cent of the houses built here since 1950 are presently classified as substandard. This is true because of their original poor construction."

"Approximately 1,500 dwelling units are now included in the city. Of these approximately 300 units are sub-standard. Minority groups occupy about 150 of these dwelling units."

Lee Ward, secretary of the Post Public Housing Authority, told The Dispatch that he had received word See PUBLIC HOUSING, Page 8

Charges against Blalack were filed Friday and those against Grider Monday.

Other cases filed in the last few days in Justice Roberts' court along with fines and costs paid are indicated:

Monday showers vary across county

Cotton planting starts as rain brightens outlook

Cotton planting got under way over the weekend on irrigated land in Garza County and Monday's showers gave dry land farmers hopes of getting into their fields soon.

In fact, the Verbena community, which received from 1.5 to 2 inches of moisture in the heavy Monday afternoon and night showers probably will get under way with dry land cotton planting immediately, County Agent Lewis Herron told The Dispatch today.

The Monday showers brought moisture to all of the county, ranging from .4 of an inch to two inches, Herron reported.

The rain gauge here in Post measured .91 inch moisture for the combined afternoon and night showers.

Herron described the rain as a "good one, but we need more."

The county agent said dry land farmers generally must await additional moisture before planting although in some scattered areas, like Verbena, there may be enough moisture to plant.

Herron said the Monday rain See COTTON PLANTING, Page 8

Leonard F. Short, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Short of Post, has been awarded a $400 Western Electric Company scholarship for his 1959-60 academic year of engineering study at Texas Tech.

Leonard was one of the eight Texas Tech engineering students awarded scholarships, Dr. John R. Bradford, dean of engineering, announced this week.

Short is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, all-school honorary; Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary; Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary; and Eta Kappa Nu, electrical engineering honorary at Texas Tech.

He is a Post high graduate.

Quarterhorse show will be on own date

The quarterhorse show will be held on its own date, it was decided by the members of that organization this year.

With so many entries expected, it was feared the show couldn't be completed in time to clear the arena for a night rodeo performance, so a separate scheduling this year was decided upon.

Eight cases set for jury trials

Eight damage suit and compensation cases have been set for trial by jury at the May term of the Garza County district court.

District Judge Truett Smith of Taboka has called the eight cases for trial at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday, May 19, here.

Probably the damage suit which will attract the most interest is P. E. Romo's $30,800 suit against E. E. Wallace, Snyder rancher, for an alleged pistol whipping on U. S. 380 east of Post the night of Nov. 26, 1958.

Other cases set for jury trial include Raymond R. G. Sampley vs. Valton C. Wheeler, damage suit; Floyd Alton Long, as next friend of Jimmy Drue Long, vs. Pat Martin and Kenneth Martin, damage suit; Curtis Garrett vs. American Motorists Insurance Co., compensation case; Bettie Kerbow vs. Kenneth Stewart and Weldon Whitaker, damage suit; Newell M. Taylor vs. Texas Employers' Liability; Zula Mae Bounds vs. Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., compensation; and John C. Harris vs. Travelers Insurance Co., compensation.

Utility bill did get hearing

The proposal for a Texas utilities commission to regulate the phone, gas and electric companies won't, of course, be enacted into law at this jumbled session of the legislature.

But it did achieve at least some measure of success. For the first time in many years, the bill for a utilities commission at least got a committee hearing.

What happened? Nothing but a lot of talk for and against it. But much of the talk was interesting.

Before examining that, let's look at the proposal itself. A state utilities commission first was proposed back in 1915. Some 42 states now regulate electric power, 44 telephones and 43 natural gas. Here in Texas each application for rate changes proposed by utility firms has to be fought by the community itself, large or small, with whatever legal talent and expense money it can muster for the fight. A state agency could afford legal talent and have the same background of rate experience as the biggest of the utilities. That's the case for a state regulatory agency.

Now let's see what the hearing turned up at Austin in the way of interesting information before the bill was carefully dropped into a subcommittee to die quietly.

The city of Houston, swamped by rate fights with Southwestern Bell, Houston Natural Gas, Houston Light and Power and the water company, wants the state commission. Dallas, on the other hand, was against the bill, saying it could handle its own rate controversies.

In a Texas League of Municipalities poll on the subject, over 100 smaller cities supported the state commission, a majority of those answering.

Fortune Magazine (August, 1958) was quoted to show that Houston Light & Power ranked first in the nation of return for a utility firm investment, with 13.4 per cent. And with other Texas companies ranked fourth, sixth and seventh in the U. S.

Southwestern Bell, Rep. Bill Kilgarlin of Houston pointed out, covers a five-state area, of which Texas is the only one without state regulation of rates. In these five states in 20 categories of phone rates, Texas has the highest rates in every category except one, he declared.

In a letter to Rep. Kilgarlin, the chairman of the Kansas state corporation commission wrote that... "the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. makes a tremendous profit out of its Texas properties for the simple reason that they are dealing with numerous municipalities and one with one centralized agency. When they come in to us for rate increases, we notice that of all the states in the Southwestern Bell system, their Texas properties show the biggest profits."

The state commission, under terms of the bill, would be financed through a tax on utilities which would raise $3,250,000 this year if enacted.

The proposal drew the fire of the chief of the Texas utility lobbyists, as expected. It didn't draw too much sympathy from the sub-committee of the legislature, which finally conducted the hearing after twice cancelling it.

A state utilities commission for Texas still appears a long ways off. And until people generally understand the proposal and stand up and ask for it, utility rates in Texas are going to continue to be something for everybody to grumble about.—JC

Let's encourage home building

Post today is building new homes at a faster rate than ever before in its history. And it needs plenty more new homes to meet the demand.

Everything which can be done should be done to encourage home building.

A zoning commission is needed today—not in six months to a year—to start on the job of zoning the present built-up areas of the city.

By the time such a commission had its teeth into the job and a better understanding of it, its members would be ready to tackle the new developments around the city's outskirts.

The lot situation—finding places to build new homes these days—has suddenly become mighty tight. Two or three steady builders here say they are going to have to sit back and wait for new developments simply because they have run out of home sites.

The moving in of abandoned, beat-up farm homes and remodeling them is causing real alarm among many home owners because of the depreciating effect it has on surrounding properties.

The most undesirable of these move-ins can be stopped through a building code which requires that properties meet good construction standards.

Several building additions are in prospect when the recently annexed city territories are platted and extended utilities. This of course will take months and a considerable amount of tax money.

Let's keep our eyes on the goal of encouraging home construction here in every possible way. It will pay off quickly with a bigger and better town for us all.—JC

What our contemporaries are saying

Twenty fans of Bill Haley, American rock 'n' roll singer, have been given prison terms ranging from four to 18 months in an East Berlin court. The defendants were 16 and 17 years of age, and were accused of spreading "terror and insecurity" in the town of Dessau. Don't tell me there's nothing good in Communist justice!—Ernest Joiner in The Dallas Banner.

There's an old story that pretty well sums up the way some folks feel about their elected officials.

The story goes that a newspaper once blared out with a headline that said: "Half of the city council are crooks."

The city council demanded a retraction. Next day the headline read: "Half the city council are not crooks."

The way of the transgressor may be hard, but it isn't lonely.—The Andrews County News

Nutritious lunch is easily packed, says food expert

COLLEGE STATION—Only one child in six starts the day with an adequate breakfast, recent studies show. That makes it doubly important that youngsters—and adults, too—get an adequate lunch.

One that's packed with real nutrition, Extension Service foods and nutrition specialists remind us.

Packing an adequate lunch takes no more time than the other kind. It simply takes some knowledge of what to include and a little planning and organization.

These basic foods need to be included in an adequate lunch: milk, at least one-half pint, vegetables and fruit, one serving of a main dish of meat, cheese, eggs, fish, fowl, dried beans, peas or peanut butter, and bread, preferably enriched or whole grain.

Variety adds interest and appeal. Crisp, raw carrot or celery sticks, green pepper rings, stuffed celery, potato salad, vegetable soup in a thermos, or tangy tomato juice are vegetable suggestions. Colorful fruit—raw, dried or canned—is easy to include.

Easiest way to pack the main dish is to make it up in sandwich form. For occasional variety, use fried chicken, hard cooked or deviled eggs or chile-con-carne. Use fruit and nut breads for a flavor change.

Teachers agree that children having a well balanced, nutritious breakfast and lunch are more alert and better prepared for the day's activities. The same is true for adults.

Bible Thoughts

"Judge the Bible By Its Fruits"

by RONNIE PARKER

In 2 Tim. 3:16 Paul asserts that "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

The proof of things can be seen by the fruit it bears. We believe the Bible and judge it by the fruit it bears. The power of the Bible as a perfected revelation has been exerted in man for nearly two thousand years. It has been perverted by man, corrupted in its teachings, has had grafted on it the inventions, devices, and teachings of man, all destroying in part its influence; yet the Bible has been the only uplifting power among the nations of the earth. No permanent good has ever come to a people, morally, socially, intellectually, physically, or practically, as individuals, families, or nations, save through the Word of God.

Without the word of God, man has sunk down in ignorance, in sin, in degradation. He has sunk physically, socially, morally, whenever cut loose from the uplifting and purifying power of the Bible.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from HENRY A. ROLLE, R. D. Commissioner of Health.

They used to call them "Food-handlers Schools." Today the title more nearly describes its purpose: "A Short Course in Food Preparation and Services."

The courses are presented by Public Health Education Division instructors in any city in Texas on request of local authorities.

Managers, supervisors and all other employees of eating establishments are the primary objectives of the course. However, the same principles apply to all public and private foodhandlers—whether housewife or canner.

The course is presented in four sessions of two hours each. Depending on local working conditions, the daily sessions may be scheduled for morning, afternoon or evening.

Discussions deal with the causative agents of communicable diseases: virus, bacteria, protozoa and worms; the source of these organisms (sick people, people who are carriers, and sick animals); the mode of transmission from the source to susceptible persons, and the ports of entry.

Discussions bring out that there are at least 75 different communicable diseases existing in the United States today, of which 30 or so can be transmitted through insidious food production, processing, distribution, preparation and service.

Emphasis is placed on the fact that if people are properly vaccinated, and thereafter practice sanitation, personal hygiene, and food refrigeration, the majority of these diseases could be greatly reduced or stamped out.

The Division of Public Health Education provides State Department of Health publications used in the course. If local authorities wish to provide additional publications they may do so.

Promotional activities include person to person contact, radio and television announcements, newspaper articles, talks before public health committees of the local restaurant association, if any, and other community groups.

There is no denying the value of these sanitation courses to the health of restaurant goers and everyone who buys any food prepared by a human being. Local areas may contact the Division of Public Health Education of the State Department of Health for further information.

Texas farm income up 79 per cent

COLLEGE STATION — Net income realized by Texas farmers in 1958 averaged $3,254 per farm, 79 per cent more than in 1957, according to preliminary estimates of the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Realized net income is the amount available for spending after farm production expenses were paid. Realized gross income per farm in Texas averaged $8,499 in 1958. This is $2,187 more than in 1957.

Cotton was responsible for more than half the increase in total cash receipts. Sorghum grain, wheat and cattle also showed substantial gains. But production expenses, especially depreciation charges, feed, livestock and hired labor, also rose.

Texas farmers increased inventories of crop and livestock in 1958. Total net income, which includes an allowance for these changes in inventories, averaged $3,262. A year earlier it was $2,431.

For the United States, realized net income averaged $2,750 per farm in 1958. This was 23 per cent more than in 1957 and the third highest amount on record. The average of $2,985 per farm was 25 per cent more than in 1957, and second only to the 1948 record of $3,656.

Corner on Cotton

BY BOB COLLINS

Some misleading statements about both cotton producers and merchants need to be cleared up . . . first, some very important facts have been ignored: For instance, the public has often been informed of the amount of money the farmer receives from the loan . . . but not informed of the amount he repays . . . with interest! . . . all this is known . . . why isn't it pointed out?? . . . could be it's just politics . . . especially when the accusation is made by a gentleman who comes from a state that headquarters one of the nation's largest manufacturers of synthetics . . . and has no cotton farmers . . . also, there should be an understanding about the right of a cotton merchant to have cotton reclassified . . . here's how it works . . . cotton is put into the loan at a certain class determined by government classifiers . . . the government eventually takes it over and puts it up for sale at the same class as it entered the loan . . . but oftentimes it has changed in color . . . through oxidation and other natural causes . . . the merchant buys it on description and then discovers it isn't the same grade it was advertised by the government . . . he asks the government classifiers to re-examine the cotton . . . he pays for this reclass . . . the government classifiers check the cotton again and if the grade has changed, the government pays the merchant's claim for the deficient quality . . . this is only fair . . . no one can expect to describe an article as being one thing, sell it without the buyer being allowed to look at it, and then not make an adjustment if the article isn't as described.

Not Facts

Charges that the reclassified cotton is sold by the merchant at the original class just aren't so . . . except in a few isolated cases where the reclass doesn't agree with trade ideas . . . this can happen because cotton classing isn't an exact science and some times it's a matter of opinion . . . if the merchant tries to sell cotton above its class, he suddenly finds himself in hot water with his customers who demand he make good . . . and he does . . . he doesn't have any choice about it.

Costs Cut

A new machine that can cut cotton carding waste in half has been announced . . . could save the textile folks millions of dollars a year and be quite a boost to cotton.

Huddleston buys 3 purebred shorthorns

Homer Huddleston of Post, has purchased Cobb's Mike 264630, Cobb's Red Boy 264633, and Cobb's Spot 264636, all three animals are bull calves, from J. D. Cobb & Sons, Plainview.

The new animals are purebred Milking Shorthorns and the record of the transfer of ownership has been made by the American Milking Shorthorn Society at Springfield, Mo.

Oral Evidence

"What makes you think the frisky-looking old gentleman in room 416 owns a plantation?" the house detective in the swank hotel asked the Swedish maid.

"Well," she replied, "ven I was dustin' by his door, I heard him say, 'Let's have another drink den go out and raise cane, sugar!'"

A Church Not Supported Weekly Is Weakly Supported

A Very Small World

This little girl is much too young to understand the vast distances that make up our adult world. From New York to Paris or from our earth to the moon is measured in miles far beyond her comprehension. Her world extends from the sidewalk in front of the house to the backyard fence; and yet, within that space she has found treasures we all might envy.

How often it is that children in their innocence can show us the way to a true understanding of God's world. How many of us are misled into believing that happiness lies only in some far off land or distant place. Look about you; consider the bountiful blessings of God's love that are right at your finger tips. These simple flowers bursting forth in a halo of vibrant beauty...the joyous songs of the birds returning after winter or the golden warmth of the morning sun are surely riches beyond compare. Each of us, in our own small world, needs to renew our pledge to God. Attend His church regularly.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Postal authorities cracking down on filthy mail menace

Note: This is the first of a series of articles published in the public interest on the growing threat of obscene mail, and what can be done about it. Today, we explain the serious dimensions of this problem. The next article, which will follow soon, will tell what can be done about it.

Postmaster Voss explained. The materials offered for sale include filthy films and books, and dirty pictures, slides and related filth, advertised in highly objectionable circulars that are being sent indiscriminately to homes here and all over the nation, he said.

POSTMASTER GENERAL Summerfield has advised the local postmaster that $500,000,000 is being taken in annually by large mail order dealers in pornography and obscenity. Postal authorities here, as well as those over the nation, receive complaints from many groups. Nationally, complaints are reported from leading clergymen, school groups, newspaper editors and alarmed parents.

During a recent 12-month period, the local postmaster was advised, postal inspectors conducted 4,000 investigations on obscene and pornographic mail and caused the arrest of 293 persons dealing in this filth. This is an increase of 45 per cent over the previous year, and an all-time high, according to the Postmaster General. However, Mr. Summerfield has emphasized to local postal officials that the threat is increasing.

INDICATIVE OF THE extensive operations of the filth factories that are invading the homes of the nation with their suggestive advertisements and dirty materials, Mr. Summerfield noted that within the past few weeks simultaneous raids by U. S. Marshals and Postal Inspectors in New York City resulted in seizure of 15 tons of dirty films, slides, photographs and other smut, and a mailing list, used nationally, containing 100,000 names.

Another raid in recent days yielded huge quantities of filth from the premises of a Santa Monica, Calif., dealer in especially objectionable films and photographs.

"No longer do dealers in smut surreptitiously serve only a few adults," the local postmaster explained. "They brazenly solicit our children, sending their material indiscriminately and without conscience into our home mail boxes.

"FOR EXAMPLE," VOSS noted, the Postmaster General has advised of cases where teen-agers wrote away for auto parts and received later "sex instructions" advertisements; of new graduating classes whose names were taken from newspapers by filth merchants who circularized every member of the class; of youngsters who wrote in for model airplane catalogs or a set of stamps, and later received materials on films portraying sex and perversion."

Complaints are also being received in increasing numbers over the nation involving solicitation from filth factories of innocent teenage girls, housewives, and even Cub Scouts, the postmaster noted.

"The Post Office Department is diligently trying to clean up the mails. Postmaster General Summerfield explained recently to Congress, which is considering new measures to deal with this growing national threat. "But," Mr. Summerfield added, "the Post Office Department has been subjected frequently to attack and ridicule by those who hope to profit personally from unrestricted mailings, or by those who—confusing liberty with license—unwittingly give them assistance."

"THERE APPEAR TO BE

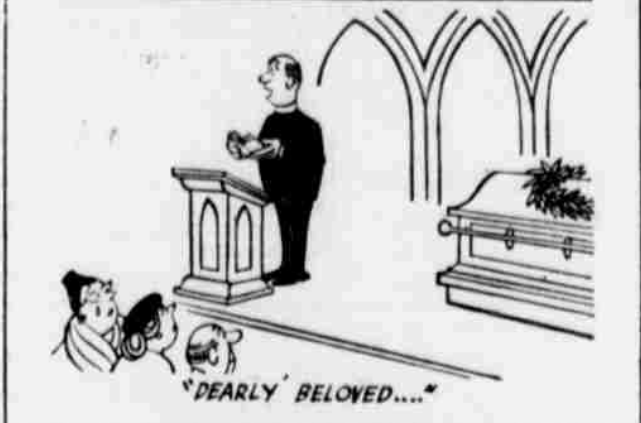

two basic reasons for the increasing volume of filth in the mails," he continued. "First, the tremendous profits that are realized from a relatively small capital investment, and, secondly, the very broad definition of obscenity handed down by certain courts—including those in certain metropolitan areas—notably

Los Angeles and New York."

These rulings, he concluded, "have established virtual sanctuaries." From these sanctuaries, he explained, filth dealers have operated with impunity in developing their high business in filth; flooding this community and others with materials which constitute "one of the most serious moral and social problems in the United States today."

More than 253,000 pedestrians were killed and injured in 1958.

LOSSES WERE HEAVY IN 1957 AND 1958

Small grain diseases is subject of experiment station's bulletin

COLLEGE STATION — Small grain losses due to diseases in the excessively wet seasons of 1957 and 1958 were estimated to be more than 20,000,000 bushels. Damage to the crop may result in reduced stands, reduction in amount or quality of forage or in reduced yields and quality of the grain produced.

Diseases which caused these losses are discussed in a bulletin released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station titled, "Diseases of Small Grains in Texas."

The control or reduction of losses from many small grain diseases in Texas is not only of local importance, but has national and international significance. The fall infection, winter survival and spring increase in South Texas of airborne pathogens, such as the cereal rusts may endanger the small grain crops throughout Texas and other states.

Diseases of wheat, which consistently cause losses or are potentially dangerous to the crop, include leaf rust, stem rust, speckled leaf blotch and loose and covered smut or bunt. These and diseases less frequently found are discussed and control measures are suggested where known.

The two most serious diseases of oats in Texas are crown rust and the Helminthosporium blights. These are described along with stem rust, smuts, Septoria diseases, powdery mildew and yellow dwarf. The control measures for reducing losses are given.

Net blotch, leaf rust, mildew and the smuts which cause some damage to barley nearly every year are discussed. Bacterial blight, false stripe, scald and yellow dwarf, which are less frequent in Texas, are also discussed. The suggested means for controlling or reducing these losses are given.

Extension staffer is in trade study group

COLLEGE STATION — Robert G. Cherry, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is one of seven state extension employees in the nation named as a team to study agricultural relations and trade progress in several European countries. The group will leave Washington, D. C., on May 23 and return on June 28.

The team will visit in England, Italy, Greece, Germany, Sweden, The Netherlands and France. The team members all have state responsibilities in the field of public affairs. The objective of the foreign study is to train a limited number of extension workers for educational leadership in developing a public affairs program in foreign agricultural trade and policy, said Director John E. Hutchison, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

City gains 99 more oil wells in recent annexation

The city of Post gained some 99 more oil wells in its recent expansion of its city limits which will bring in an estimated $8,500 annually in city oil production taxes alone.

E. R. (Buster) Moreland, manager of Brown Brothers, et al, met with the city council Monday night to propose a simple method of computing the city's two-cent-per-barrel oil production tax.

In his discussion, Moreland revealed that his firm has 53 more wells in the annexed area besides those on the original square mile townsite and estimated they would produce some 25,471 barrels monthly for a city oil tax of $509.22 monthly.

This compares with some 33 wells on the original township which average only 7,100 barrels of oil monthly for a $142 monthly tax.

Moreland estimated there were some 46 additional wells in the newly annexed area not operated by Brown Brothers.

The city's two cents per barrel production tax already is in effect in the annexed area.

Moreland proposed that the easy way to determine the city production tax would be to figure the percentage of wells on the 16 leases operated by Brown Brothers which lie within the city limits (some 53 of 104 wells on the leases) and to take that percentage of the pipeline runs from the leases to determine the barrels on which to pay city tax.

He explained the wells inside and outside the city limits on the leases in question would average out and that such a simple method would save the cost of an expensive metering system.

The council took Moreland's suggestion under advisement and promised an answer in the near future. Mayor Powell Shytles pointed out that while Moreland's plan looked to be workable enough the council would have to be sure other oil producers involved would not object to this kind of procedure.

Busy summer for farm instructor

School Supt. R. T. Smith, announced this week some of the summer activities for the local vocational agricultural teacher, D. H. Koeninger.

According to Supt. Smith, the duties of the local voc ag teacher do not stop at the end of the school year. The summer calls for research to be done in search of information which would be helpful to the boys farming in this area. Koeninger will give supervision to the student on the farm and some adult educational work will be done in the community.

More work will be done in trying to get the school shop in better shape for the coming year. Plans are also being made to obtain additional breeding stock for the ag classes to enter in the State Fair this fall.

Koeninger is to attend an electrical short course sponsored by the Texas Educational Agency, at Texas Tech June 1-6. Approximately six students are expected to attend the State Future Farmers of America Convention which is to be held in Austin July 15-17.

City Council—

(Continued From Front Page) municipality's capital improvement program with future requirements set forth, zoning and land use, streets, subdivision control, and a complete analysis of the water and sewer systems.

With the 10 per cent supervisory costs paid to the state a complete city plan would cost Post almost $6,000.

The council took the city planning proposition under advisement.

The council also verbally approved for later vote a city zoning ordinance which would set up a three-member zoning commission.

Mayor Shytles said he would call a special session of the council to pass the ordinance and appoint the new zoning commission just as soon as he could find capable local men to accept the appointments.

In other actions, the city leased the Little League Ball park from the Double U Company for $225 for $1 and approved a $165 advertisement in the Parade of Progress, a South Plains promotional yearbook.

Rites held Monday for Walter Underwood

Funeral services were conducted Monday in Gorman for Walter Underwood, former resident of Post. He was 67 years old.

During his residence in Post he was a rural mail carrier and was well-known in this area. He is survived by his wife.

Burial was in Gorman Cemetery, May 5.

Public housing—

It is expected that the PHA in the near future will advance a portion of the loan funds for new units to help finance a housing survey here which would be conducted within a few weeks under the supervision of a PHA survey expert.

The final determination of the number of units to be approved for construction here would be based upon housing needs as shown in the survey.

Two injured when car crashes into concrete

Two Stamford Negroes, George Albert Sheppard and Eugene McDonald, were knocked unconscious early Saturday morning when the 1951 Mercury in which they were driving south on US-84 crashed into a concrete water drain, just above the Cap northwest of Post.

The two were taken to Garza Memorial Hospital by ambulance and were later released. Sheppard suffered a lacerated lip.

City Marshal Otis G. Shepherd Jr., who investigated the crash said Sheppard, who was driving, apparently went to sleep at the wheel and the car veered off the highway and crashed into the water drain.

Both Al and Billy are well known and well liked here and we know everybody wishes them luck in their new business. But the dirt business isn't exactly new to either of them. Al has had some 12 years of it and Billy four.

WHAT MY TOWN CAN DO TO IMPROVE INDUSTRY

By FRANCES BARRON

The town in which I live is a very thriving town. Post, Texas, was founded in 1907 by C. W. Post. Already it has grown to a population of about 5,000 and is still growing by leaps and bounds. On April 14, 1959, more land was an-nexed into Post. This made it four square miles in area.

Post has very many good points. Many of these have been overlooked or taken for granted by the citizens of Post. For instance, Post has one of the nicest and most efficient hospitals in this part of the state. Many people can testify to the fact that quick action on the part of the doctors and nurses at the hospital has saved their lives or the life of someone they love.

Another very important business that Post excels in is banking. Nowhere is there a better banking system than there is in Post. The First National Bank meets all the needs of its customers which is the most important part of banking.

Post also has a telephone company which is always trying to improve. For instance, they are now planning to put in a dial telephone system.

Post has a newspaper that has received literally dozens of awards for its good work. It has a grain elevator for the convenience of a railroad which plays a vital part to all industry. The citizens of Post are also exceedingly proud of our churches. No matter what a person's faith may be, he can find a church in which to worship as he pleases.

Post has an active 4-H Club. Just to attend the county fair and view the works of the members will satisfy anyone who questions the quality of it. Post also has good schools and is planning for better. It also has city and county officers that are as good as can be found. One of the most important industries in the country is the Postex Cotton Mill. One thing that has made all this possible is our efficient Chamber of Commerce and its branch organizations.

John Gay once said: "In every rank, or great or small,

"Tis industry supports us all." Most Americans and citizens of Post have come to realize this and have already started searching for ways of improving industry.

Post really is an unusual town. However, nothing is perfect and Post certainly has some places where industry can be improved. Here are a few things I think would do a lot toward making a better Post.

Perhaps the most important aid to Post's industry has already been started. It is the White River Dam Project. Natives and even short time residents of this area realize the importance of water in this country. The White River Dam will furnish water that is badly needed for the industries and the surrounding country. With plenty of water on hand, new industries which depend on water will be encouraged to begin companies or branch companies in our area. It will also make it possible for the Postex Cotton Mill to have a "dye room" added to their present plant. There is no end to the improvements that are made possible with the White River Dam Project.

The biggest industry in Post is the Postex Cotton Mills, Inc. The mill, as it is commonly known, has saved many people from failure. It has furnished jobs for hundreds of people in and around Post. During the seven-year drought from 1951-56, many farmers would have had to sell their farms and move if they had not been able to get a job at the mill. However, improvements could be made at Postex Cotton Mill, too.

About three miles west of Post lies a Caprock. After climbing to the top, you will find that almost all the country is farmed and most of the farms are of cotton. Until now, Postex Cotton Mill has been purchasing their cotton from Tennessee and other Southern states. However, now the farmers around Post have improved their cotton and its staple enough that at least some of it could be used at the mill. This would enable the mill to buy at a lower price or give the local farmers a higher price. It also keeps the money in our area and that naturally helps all industry.

Many of the farms around Post have irrigation wells, and many of the farmers could be encouraged to grow truck crops. However, if any one would grow something like tomatoes, he would find that he could not sell them to any local merchant. It would be necessary for him to ship his produce to a distant market which would profit less money too.

If local merchants would buy produce from the local growers many good things would result. First, the merchants would receive fresher products. It would not have to be shipped from some distant place so it would be fresher. Second, it would save money on shipping cost. Third, it would save money because the local producers probably would not charge as much as the distant ones anyway. Fourth, such an exchange would keep the money in our district. If the people around here receive the money, they will be more likely to trade with local dealers.

Here are only four things that would result in the merchants trading with local growers. It must be realized that only in certain seasons would there be a crop or item for sale. But I think that most merchants will find that a little more trading with the citizens will bring a lot more trade for them by the citizens. Also there are some things that would be year-around such as milk, butter and eggs. Buying and selling products in the manner I have just mentioned would save money all the way around because it eliminates the middle man who gets a large share of any profit.

Another industry that has not been tried in Post is that of a hatchery. A hatchery in Post would provide not only people around Post but from other communities or even from other states with baby chicks. Why should we have to ship in baby chicks when we can do the shipping ourselves? A hatchery would promote chicken farms. This would furnish merchants and citizens with poultry and eggs at lower prices. It would also be another industry which could bring in profit from other parts of the country too. Therefore, a hatchery would be an aid to industry.

Another important product from the land around Post is a rather precious substance called oil. It has already provided jobs for many people and brought new residents into Post. During the last ten years the oil industry in and around Post has experienced a continual growth. It has grown from a small trickle to a production that places Garza County near the top of the list in oil production. Shell Oil Company reports that more and more people are turning toward Garza County with high hopes for a future in oil.

All the different oil companies are working very hard. For instance, one company is just completing a great undertaking. They have started at the west side of the county with a seismograph crew and are now finishing going across the entire county with it.

It seems that Post has a great future in oil. We must encourage this all we can. Perhaps the best thing we can do is build an oil refinery. This would really be an aid to our city and industry. It would not only create a greater interest, it would also furnish jobs for people, which would encourage more people to come to Post. This in turn would bring more business.

One very important thing that we must enlarge along with the growth of our town is the law enforcement. Steps have already been taken to improve it. One suggestion is that a police force be organized. Such an organization would be welcomed by the merchants. It would encourage business and lend a spirit or feeling of security. There are several suggestions that could be made in this line but the most important thing is this: We must make our law enforcement grow along with our town. In this case, what was good for our fathers is not good enough for the time in which we live today.

These are simply suggestions that could be considered in deciding what our town can do to improve industry. Many of these are helps to the country around Post and not in the city itself. Still, it can be used as improvements to the industry of the city of Post.

However, we must realize that these or any other improvements do not take place over night. It is a continuous process with an aim which is gained only by hard work and planning.

WHAT MY TOWN CAN DO TO HAVE MORE INDUSTRY

By JIMMY SHORT

The city of Post, Texas, is showing signs of growing daily. The population is increasing rapidly, and the opportunities for more industry should be arising to meet its demands.

Naturally, one of the main inducements for industry to come to Post is keeping our city as clean and inviting as possible. The recent passing of bonds for a new high school program will increase the attractiveness of our community to the industries and especially to the families employed by the industrial companies. Parents are concerned about their children's educations, and are selecting the towns where they will work with increasing discrimination. A new and modern school system could well prove an important factor in industry's coming to Post.

The improved recreational facilities at our city park and swimming pool hold the interest of the young people, who so often wield an impressive influence on their parents. A clean, attractive city is conducive in drawing industries near.

An essential commodity to any industry is water. An industry can only be as thriving as the abundance of the city's water supply. Post is more than fortunate to be included in the White River Dam Project, which will bring ample water to our community. The world is rapidly turning to production through chemical and electrical power, which cannot be properly achieved without the ever-important nearness of water. With proper advertisement of its ready water supply, Post could easily have many industries within a short number of years.

Nearness to the market is also important to an industry. They will naturally settle in places where their products can be adequately distributed through available railroad and highway systems. We could perhaps improve our railway and highway accommodations even further. There has already been a marked improvement of our highways in recent years, which has added to the effectiveness of our community.

Post, perhaps more than surrounding communities, has many raw materials to offer incoming industries. You may take, for example, our crude oil. I grant that our oil has done very much towards the benefiting of our city, but it perhaps could do so much more! With the proper utilization of our oil materials, which are found so frequently beneath the soil of the surrounding areas, Post could draw innumerable industries. If just an oil refinery could be induced to come here, a broad field of industry would suddenly open to us.

Such a refinery as this could take our crude oil and process it into such finished products as phalt, carbon, petroleum, gasoline, methane, propane, butane, many more fuel oils, as well as See ESSAYS, Page 11

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD
Last week I started to write a column about the various natural things about the state. Properly speaking, fish like best bait that's native to the area, which means that the spottail minnow is the Texas favorite.

In the spring it's no trick to catch spottails in a net or trap. They are near the surface and easily seen in clear water. They like swift water with a rocky or sandy bottom, for the spawning season.

LET ME remind you now, however, that there are all kinds of local laws about capturing and transporting Texas minnows. So check with your game warden if you propose to take a large quantity and move them across county lines.

In off seasons—that is, when the minnows are deep and can't be readily taken, you save time by buying Mexican, Oklahoma and Minnesota minnows from the bait shops.

Some fishermen don't like these minnows, for one reason or another, but my experience is that fish will strike them all, or any of them. Frankly, I don't think when a fish is hungry, he stops to look up a minnow's pedigree.

To catch minnows, the seine is an ancient and still effective article, the use of which is too familiar to be explained here.

A more recent tool is the drop, or umbrella type net, which is handy because one man can use it. I've seen commercial baitmen take thousands of spottails out of streams with this kind of net.

There are various kinds of minnow traps. All are effective when placed in a good spot where minnows live, and especially when baited with cracker crumbs. When you fail to catch minnows by these methods, there's always the tackle and bait shop.

Wherever you get your minnows, the big problem is to keep them alive and transport them to your favorite fishing hole. That may be miles from where you live.

IN COLD weather, this is not much of a problem. But when the hot summer sun boils down, your minnows will start to turn belly up if not handled properly.

Your best bet is to use the so-called "porous" bucket. It allows a certain amount of breathing, or aeration, in the water. Keep the top on. Minnows will live a long time in this kind of bucket. In case of doubt, drop in a few ice cubes. They give off oxygen as they melt.

One caution about porous buckets. Never dip one into the water. If you do, it will lose its breathing ability. From then on, you might as well haul your minnows in a lard can.

When you select your minnows,

Scholarships for 20 Texans

HOUSTON — Five of Texas' top health leaders were today named members of the professional committee that will select the state's 20 winners of The National Foundation's 1959 Health Scholarships.

Members of the committee, announced by Dr. Catherine Worthingham, director of professional education of The National Foundation, are: Dr. Allen L. McMurrey, Houston, Medicine; Mrs. Helen B. Kapiloff, Houston, Medical Social Work; Mrs. Joan Y. Johnson, Baytown Nursing; Mrs. Lucille L. Lacy, OTR, Houston, Occupational Therapy; and Robert G. Maul, Lubbock, Physical Therapy.

The 20 Texas students to be chosen by the committee in the summer of 1959 will be the first contingent from the state to receive the new Health Scholarships supported by March of Dimes funds. The scholarships pay $500 a year, or $2,000 for four years. It is anticipated that at least 20 Texas students will be offered such scholarships every year for the next 10 years.

countless useful products which are used around the nation and over all parts of the world. If we could just manage to draw an oil refinery, one can only imagine the benefits that could be derived from it.

Such an occurrence as this can only be brought about in one way, which may well be the underlying factor in attracting more industry. There must be in the minds and hearts of the citizens of Post a burning and lasting desire for our town to prosper—we must want our town to have industry, and then, perhaps, we will be fortunate enough to gain it. However, not until the citizens of our community are concerned enough to really make a concentrated effort to have more industry will we have the industry that should be prevalent in our city. Action must be, and inevitably will be, taken toward this end.

Reduction in output called greatest loss to farm production

COLLEGE STATION — "Reduction in output, which is not always apparent, is by far the greatest loss to the production phase of agriculture," says Dr. Wayne G. McCully of the Range and Forestry Department of Texas A&M. He said that injurious plants, such as shinnery oak, increase labor and may lower the quality of the marketed commodity.

Vegetation control is the establishment and maintenance of a particular kind of vegetation on a given area. Land managers have long used the practice of intensive cultivation with a planted crop as a means of vegetation control, he added.

The recent development of selective phytocides has furnished tools to use in vegetation control over large areas of non-cultivated range and timberlands. Aerial applicators are important in the development and use of these new tools in agriculture, he said.

Dr. McCully pointed out that the concept of vegetation control implies that some plants are more desirable than others in furnishing a monetary return to the farmer, rancher or forester. These undesirable plants have long been known as weeds or brush. Management programs have been directed toward minimizing or overcoming their effects on the production of desirable plants.

Mrs. Ray N. Smith was faculty sponsor of the annual.

Class representatives to the annual staff were Jimmy Short and Victor Hudman, seniors; Bob Cato and Linda Wilks, juniors; Donnie Hays and Catherine Hester, sophomores; and Roger Camp and Melinda Newby, freshmen.

Class favorites revealed in the new yearbook include: Jerry Windham and Frances Barron, seniors; Horace Smith and Kathryn Collier, junior; Richard Ray and Peggy Ramsey, sophomore, and Jerry Stone and Ruthell Martin, freshman.

The annual has full-page pictures of Jimmy Short, "Mr. PHS"; Kay Martin, "Miss PHS"; John T. Brown and Frances Barron, "Who's Who"; Barbara Shytles, football queen; Peggy Butler, band sweetheart; Melanie Thompson and Jerry Windham, FFA and FHA sweethearts; Patricia Wheatley and Charles Morris, basketball sweethearts.

The yearbook also contains a full-page picture in memory of Barbara Kay Gary, who was killed in an automobile accident last summer. She would have been a senior this school year.

Social Security promptness aim

One of the goals of the Social Security Administration is to pay benefits as promptly as possible to those persons entitled to payments, John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock office said today.

To do this, Hutton said, it is necessary for the person claiming benefits to make inquiry for payments before he retires if he knows he will be retiring on a certain date. This will give the Social Security Administration and the person claiming benefits time to get the information and evidence together to establish his rights to the payment before the time his first check is due.

Generally, evidence will be required to prove the age of the retired person and the age of his wife. This may be a birth certificate or other record of age that is old and reliable. Also, evidence of the worker's earnings in the taxable year that ended before he plans to retire is necessary. This may be a copy of the income tax return for self-employed persons or the W-2 forms for wage earners.

Hutton again stressed that for prompt payment of your first social security check "inquire before you retire" at your Lubbock social security office.

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security Office will be in Post on May 12 at 9:30 a. m. at the district courtroom and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to social security.

Junior Set

By CHRIS CORNISH

Great, Junior high has three students walking on air these days. They found out who has the high scores this year. Pam McCrary is the victor. Chris Cornish is the historian and Ronald Tallent is the historian.

Parts of this week in the 8th grade have been devoted to meaning the students to find out who they will walk with May 22, graduation night. I don't know about the boys but we girls are really anxious about finding out. We will give them this valuable information next week.

Only 17 more days till the big day (graduation) and most of the girls have already selected their outfits. Some are as follows:

Kay Murray will look especially nice in her full white dress. The dress is cotton, has little sleeves, square neck and has a delicate beaded design around the waist. Kay will wear black pumps. Elaine Wheatley is wearing a strapless formal, ballerina style with white heels. Dorothy Fogarty has chosen semi-formal of yellow nylon net with a cotton top with a V-neck. Ann Pennington will wear a mint green strapless formal with white pumps. Wheel!

Jan Herring will be an angel in her white silk organza semi-formal of dress length. It has a satin cummerbund with a rounded neckline going back into a V neck. She will wear baby doll heels.

Cheri Moore has chosen a white strapless formal with the top out of tulle and the skirt of net. A red cummerbund sets off this formal perfectly. She will wear white pumps.

Ann Long in her blue semi-formal, square neck and V back will look very cute. White pumps set off her dress.

Wow! Barbara Mills in her pale pink strapless ballerina formal will look "breath-taking." She is wearing white heels.

Gloria Blacklock's pale blue nylon net formal over taffeta white has a square neck which will certainly bring notice to her blonde hair and pale complexion.

Sunday morning at 7:30 (yawn) the junior and senior Sunday school class of the Methodist Church had a sunrise breakfast at Cooper's Canyon, and a Sunday school service was held afterwards. The John Lotts were very kind to take their time to prepare the breakfast and sponsor it. Everyone had a wonderful time and took a nap that afternoon.

Mrs. Williams, 6th grade teacher, was ill with the flu Monday. Mrs. Pearl Storie substituted. Hope you're feeling better soon!

Ug! Six weeks test, next week—and then final tests and then . . . then . . . we're free! I mean schools out. Whoopee! Wow! Yum Yum!

State Capital NEWS

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN—"They said it couldn't be done. And, sure enough, it couldn't."

This is the attitude of many tired lawmakers toward the session-long struggle to raise $200,000,000 in new tax money.

As the regular session drew near to a close, House members, in effect, admitted they couldn't agree on a program that would do the job. House sent to the Senate the scraps of selective sales tax measure (HB 727) and a bill to increase the corporation franchise tax for one year only.

There was off-the-cuff talk among House members of someone's proposing at a later date to solve the problem by cutting the appropriation bill across the board to 4 per cent less than the 1958-59 budget. This would bring such violent reaction, it was thought, that both lawmakers and their constituents would be more receptive to new tax proposals.

Senate State Affairs Committee has indicated it has no intention of trying to shove through a tax program just to beat the May 12 deadline of the regular session. Full hearings have been promised for all viewpoints.

FIRE-POLICE Bill Passes — House voted 83-to-56 for a bill that would shorten hours of city firemen and policemen.

Senate already has given the bill final passage. After one more favorable vote in the House, it will be ready to go to the Governor.

Opponents tried, unsuccessfully, to get the bill amended to give local citizens a chance to vote on whether the bill would affect their cities. Supporters protested this

Traffic fatalities up over last year

AUSTIN—The Texas Department of Public Safety reported today 50 more persons have been killed in Texas traffic accidents during the first quarter of 1959 than in the same period last year.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director, said this means motorists apparently have reversed the trend which resulted in the lowest traffic death rate in the state's history in 1958.

The Department reported 551 persons have died in traffic accidents during the first three months of this year, including reports received up to April 18. This total compares with a death toll of 501 during the comparable period of last year.

"This 10 per cent increase in traffic fatalities indicates we are off to a bad start which could completely wipe out the eight per cent decrease in motor deaths for the whole of 1958," Garrison said.

"Equally alarming is the fact that the total number of accidents has increased 24 per cent over last year, indicating an urgent need for every motorist to take stock of his driving habits and join in a campaign to save lives and restore our improved record of last year."

Wooden derrick to be exhibited at oil exposition

Wooden derricks that once dotted the oil fields of the nation are a thing of the past, but there will be one of them at the International Petroleum Exposition in Tulsa, Okla., May 14-23. It will be a replica of the Drake Well, drilled at Titusville, Pa., 100 years ago. In the tradition of covered bridges of that era, this derrick was boarded in from the derrick floor to the top of the mast.

Later came the open derricks, such as covered famous Spindletop at Beaumont, Tex., and for many years in Oklahoma, Texas, California and the other oil states. The rig builder was rugged and rowdy, but an important man, drawing as much pay as the driller himself. The wooden derricks were erected at the drilling site, and when the well was complete, either dry or as a produce, the derrick remained right there.

At the forthcoming Oil Show only steel derricks will be seen. Almost one and a half million pounds of steel are needed to drill and complete a 10,000-foot well today, including drill pipe and casing.

Portable derricks, also to be shown at the IPE, and portable well servicing units, have eliminated permanent derricks at oil wells. One petroleum engineer predicts that oil well depths will reach 50,000 feet by 1975. He estimated the cost of such a well at more than $5,000,000. In the early days of wooden derricks a whole new oil field could be drilled for that.

This year an estimated 50,000 wells will be drilled in the United States and everything that goes into that operation, as well as the subsequent transportation, refining and marketing of the product will be graphically portrayed at the International Petroleum Exposition in Tulsa.

But the only relic of the "old days" will be the weather-worn wooden replica of that first commercial well that Col. Drake drilled 100 years ago.

SHORT SNORTS — Examinations will be held May 19-21 for 75 vacancies in the Texas Highway Patrol. Those accepted will receive six months training at the State Police Academy, six months on-the-job training, all with pay.

State taxes cannot be collected on beer sold on U. S. military posts, according to an Attorney General's opinion. Similar opinion was made earlier in regard to cigarette axes.

A bill to move forward two months the dates of state primaries and conventions also drew liberal protests. It would move primaries up to the first Saturdays in May and June. State convention to name delegates to the national presidential nominating convention would be the last Tuesday in May.

Opponents claimed it was intended to let Senator Johnson get his state politicking out of the way before national convention time. Changing parties in mid-stream would be outlawed under a bill that has received final approval of both houses. Each poll tax would be stamped "Democrat" or "Republican" the first time a person voted in a primary. For the period he used that poll tax, the holder would have to stick with the party of his stamp, in the primaries and party conventions.

3 STUDIES Suggested — Senate has approved three studies to be made by the Legislative Council before the 1961 session.

- Recommended for consideration are:
  1. Possibility of adding the generously endowed University of Houston to the state college system, sponsored by Sen. Robert W. Baker of Houston.
  2. Ways to simplify the tangle of special funds which pay for state government, sponsored by Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo.
  3. Special fees charged by state agencies for licensing and other

SMALL BUSINESS

By C. WILSON HARDE

Judged by correspondence received by this column, the majority of the people in this nation are all in favor of fighting inflation. And in nationwide polls of the country's independent businessmen through the National Federation of Independent Business, nobody is in favor of inflation.

Basically, inflation is caused by spending more than you can reasonably receive. When businessmen adopt inflationary principles, they can very well end up in bankruptcy. It takes longer for a government to reach this point, but it has happened in history.

Thus, there is wonderment in the land as to just how the nation can hold down inflation and in the same breath demands are made for even greater funds for foreign give-aways.

In the vernacular of the time, the question is being asked "what gives?" For there is still unspent some $3 billion in foreign give-away funds, on top of over $2 billion more readily at hand.

For the U. S. Treasury now holds in foreign currencies a value of more than $1.5 billion, plus over another half billion dollars derived from the sale by foreign governments to their people of give away commodities from the U. S.

Thus, at a time when a drive is underway to make the state schools systems dependent on federal aid, there is in the United States Treasury unused, about as much money as is required for the super-colossal, socialistic plan to give federal aid to schools.

Actually, however, most of this money should probably be applied toward paying off a part of the gigantic debt incurred by the farm program.

For most of this over $2 billion was realized from the disposal of surplus American farm products. In most cases the deal worked out revolved around the U. S. turning over to foreign nations big shipments of these farm products taking in return their foreign currency on deals worked out on an individual basis with each government. It suffices that at no time did any nation pay anything near the equivalent of their American dollar value.

These foreign governments in turn, sold their peoples these commodities and deposited money realized with the U. S.

Now under the various foreign give away laws, in theory, after taking 10% off top to defray expenses of sending a lot of bureaucrats around world to administer projects, these funds were released for projects to rehabilitate war torn economies of Europe.

But of course, by this time the economies of Europe, if they are torn, are no longer torn by the war. It would appear the only economy still torn by the war is the American economy.

Perhaps it would be quite undiplomatic for the United States to lay claim to these funds to pay off a portion of the American deficit, even though they were derived from the sale by foreign governments of goods received from America to their own people. But a nation with money on hand should not stay on the gravy train.

Highway Patrol tests due in May

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Public Safety today urged young men interested in becoming patrolmen to make sure they have their applications filed by the deadline of May 11.

Colonel Homer Garrison Jr., Director, announced that competitive examinations will be given on a state-wide basis May 19, 20, and 21 to fill approximately 75 vacancies in the patrol.

"This is an opportunity for young men between the ages of 21 and 35 to become a part of one of the most respected organizations of its kind in the Nation and at the same time to occupy an essential position in our society," he said.

"We are searching for qualified young men who want a life-time career with prestige and security for themselves and their families. Applicants who make the grade will emerge from the 14-weeks of training at the State Law Enforcement Academy in Austin as commissioned patrolmen."

Garrison said applicants who successfully complete the examination will be trained with pay and, upon graduation from the Academy, will be assigned to one of the six regions in the State. They will receive an additional six months of on-the-job training under the supervision of experienced officers.

NEPHEW VISITS

Rev. John D. Nichols and family visited recently with his aunt and uncle, Henrietta and John Nichols of Post. Nichols is formerly of Baldwin Park, Calif., and is en route to Birmingham, Ala., where he will be the new pastor of the Church of God.

There's a way to 'child-proof' your home against fatal accidents

Last year 936 Texans under 15 years old were killed in accidents. Most met death on the highways—or at home. Last year 1,142 Texans in all died in home accidents. That old saw about being as "safe as in your own home" just isn't based on fact.

National statistics show a little more than half of non-fatal accidental injuries to children under 15 occur in the home. Nearly 5,500 children die each year as a result of home accidents.

Just how safe is your home? Especially—how safe is your home for your children?

Even if it is fireproofed, moth-proofed, leakproofed, and rust-free—is it child-proofed?

Here are some suggestions for helping your children avoid accidents in and around your home:

Always keep matches in metal containers, out of reach from small hands.

Be absolutely certain none of your gas fixtures leak. Use metal pipe connections, not flexible tubing which may fray and leak with use.

Check all your electrical connections, wires and appliances for frays, shorts, and bare wires. Either buy new or repair any which look dangerous. Tape over unused electrical outlets or plug in the special appliances available for that purpose.

Keep stairs free of all objects to prevent tripping and falling. Train your child from the start to put his toys away. It isn't only safer, but much easier on a busy mother. While children are young, use table mats rather than table cloths that hang over the table edge. A pot of hot coffee or bowl of soup can easily be pulled down on himself by a toddler.

Keep sewing baskets, scissors, and other constantly used hazardous articles on a shelf or in a drawer that can't be reached by children. This applies to all kitchen utensils as well.

Turn handles of pans on the stove away from the front of the stove, so that your child can't pull them over. Buy a stove whose controls are out of reach of toddlers.

Three more new Garza oil tests

Three new drilling locations for Garza County — all shallow tests — have been announced.

Joe Blalock of Longview will drill the No. 7-C I. N. McCrary, in the O. S. Ranch (Glorieta) field eight miles north of Justiceburg. The test will be drilled to 2,900 feet.

Clarence Angle of Lubbock plans the No. 2 Rex Welch in the East Huntley field nine miles north of Post. This test will go to 3,750 feet.

The Anderson - Pritchard Oil Corporation will drill the No. 3 Connell Estate in the Ariene field seven and one-half miles east of Post. It is planned for a 3,600 foot test by rotary rig.

Second producer for Loflin Field

A second producer and a south east pool extension has been assured for the Red Loflin (Strawn and Ellenburger) field in south west Garza County.

The new oil is General American Oil Co. of Texas No. 10 Koonsman, which flowed at rate of 14 barrels of oil an hour from Strawn perforations from 7,702 to 7,500 feet through 10-4 inch choke.

At last report the project was preparing to perforate and tie the Sprabery for a dual completion attempt.

Previously it flowed at the rate of 25 barrels of oil hourly through 1/4 inch choke from perforations 7,702 to 7,500 feet, after a 500 gallon mud-acid wash.

The location is 330 feet from north and east lines of Section Block 2, T&NO Survey, 14 miles southwest of Post.

3 GOOD REASONS FOR COOKING ELECTRICALLY!

- 1 FAST
Electric cooking is fast! Just a simple water boiling test proves the speed of electric cooking. And, it's because all the heat goes into the pan to cook the food—none escapes up and around the sides of the pan to heat up the kitchen. This means cool cooking—best of all, fast cooking.
- 2 CLEAN
There's just no cleaner way to cook. Electric elements clean themselves as this dramatic molasses test proves. The electric element in the photo, just like the surface unit on top of the range, when turned on and immersed in a pitcher of sticky molasses comes out clean. With electric cooking, walls stay clean, elements stay clean and drip pans wash clean as easy as saucers.
- 3 ACCURATE
You've noticed that where automatic controls are used in your home they are electric. That's because electricity controls accurately and is, in turn, easy to control accurately. That's why, on an electric range, you can melt chocolate without burning and without a double boiler—so gentle, so safe, so accurately controlled in electricity.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

HIS FIRST GREAT LOVE — THE GIRL WHO COULD TURN CARTHEELS

ACCORDING TO U. S. WATER SURVEY CREWS

Ground water supply outlook is 'poor' in South and Southwest

The ground water supply outlook this year is "poor in the South and Southwest" and "fair to good in the North," according to U. S. water survey crews.

This rather dim outlook contrasts sharply with last year's generally abundant water supplies in Texas and other western states. It also recalls some vaguely disturbing reminders of the earlier seven-year trend during the bad drought years in Texas.

Snow survey supervisors report, however, that carryover storage from the high 1957 and 1958 runoffs will provide supplemental and late-season underground water where the snowpack is normal. The carryover will also tend to alleviate any disastrous shortage during the 1959 season where the snowpack is low.

The forecast virtually eliminates any damaging high streamflows resulting from snow melt. With average of less snow accumulated in the mountains at the April 1 measuring time, the prospects for spring floods are very slight in the Southwest.

Commenting on the irrigation water outlook, D. A. Williams, administrator of the Soil Conservation Service, had this advice: "Farmers and ranchers in areas faced with deficient water supplies should seek expert help and advice in planning their water programs. The Soil Conservation district agents can also offer aid in planning cropping and grazing patterns to fit area soil and available water supply."

The seasonal forecast covered 18 states and British Columbia. Of particular interest to Texas was the Rio Grande sector report which read, in part: "Water outlook is poor in both Colorado and New Mexico with the April 1 snowpack near a recorded minimum. Mountain soils are dry. An above-normal carryover storage provides good prospects for New Mexico's Tucumcari and Carlsbad projects but only a minimum inflow is in sight to add to Elephant Butte reservoir's near-average storage."

The Colorado and New Mexico mountains are an important factor in supplying underground water for the Panhandle and West Texas areas. A survey of carryover supplies in underground storage was not included in the report.
