Spike Dykes

Dykes Featured at 'Lope BBQ

A few surprises and a guest appearance by Texas Tech Red Raider defensive coordinator Spike Dykes is on tap at this Thursday's barbecue honoring the 1984 Post Antelope football team and coaches.

The $2.50 per plate barbecue starts at 7 p. m. at the Community Center, "and at such a low price for a full meal, we expect everyone in town to come out to help us celebrate this team's accomplishments," Post Antelope Booster Club President Jimmy Redman emphasizes.

He also asked for volunteers to help set up the center Wednesday evening.

In addition to the meal, Redman promises a few surprises for those in attendance.

Dykes, a veteran of 26 years in coaching, has established himself as one of the sharpest defensive minds in the Southwest Conference, taking over the Red Raider defensive coordinator duties last spring.

The Tech defense, under his guidance, led the nation in pass defense in 1984 and finished 20th in the nation and third in the Southwest Conference in total defense.

Before joining Tech, Dykes was head coach at Midland Lee, guiding the team to the Class 5A finals in 1983.

A former All-State center from Ballinger and a Stephen F. Austin graduate, Dykes began his coaching career in 1959 at Eastland and returned to Ballinger to serve as an assistant for two seasons.

He was an assistant at San Angelo Central, under Emory Bellard in 1963 and took his first head coaching job in 1964 at Coahoma, and after a 24-2 two year record, he went to Belton, Big Spring and Alice.

In 1971 Dykes went to Texas University as freshman coach for Darrell Royal, and later was offensive line coach, special teams and defensive line coach.

After a tour at New Mexico he moved to Mississippi State in 1979 joining Bellard as offensive line coach.

In 1980 he took the head coaching job at Midland Lee.

Sales Tax Rebate Down

The City of Post has received an $8,166.46 check from State Comptroller Bob Bullock, representing the one percent city sales and use tax allocation for the period ending December 28, 1984.

The payment is 9.06 percent less than the same period of 1983, when Post received $8,979.61.

Tahoka's payment reflected a 50.33 percent decrease, receiving $1,952.08 this year compared to $3,930.15 in 1983.

Slaton also showed a decrease, getting $7,546.44 this year for a 23.1 percent drop from last year's payment of $9,813.22.

"The cuts we've had to make in expected state revenues are coming from the slump in the oil industry and reduced receipts from oil companies aren't yet reflected in these payments," Bullock explains.

Bullock added that sales taxes from a disappointing Christmas retail season are due in payments to cities next month.

Wedding Vows Read Here

Miss Judy Mae Tanner became the bride of Mark Dale Stark Thursday evening, December 27 at 7 p. m. in the Post Church of Christ.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Paul Jones, pastor.

Miss Tanner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tanner and Stark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Terpening all of Post and Mr. and Mrs. James Stark of Fort Gibson, Oklahoma.

The altar was centered with a white arch decorated with greenery and in the center of the arch was a large orchid bow, flanked on either side with large sprays of orchid gladiolas mixed with white and lavender carnations with large orchid bows.

The bridal aisle was marked by orchid bows.

Acting as ushers for the ceremony were Berry Tanner, brother of the bride and Bobby Smith, friend of the bride and groom.

The bride was escorted to the altar and presented in marriage by her father.

The bride chose a gown with a sweetheart neckline, sprinkled with crystal sequins, chantilly lace fitted bodice with puffed sleeves to the elbow, then fitted to the top of the hand to a point. The full skirt was multiple chantilly lace tiers and swept back to a multiple lace tier chapel train. Her veil was a traditional finger tip of silk illusion edged in matching chantilly lace with a chin length blusher veil cascading from a cap of matching chantilly lace, seed pearls and crystal sequins. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of purple roses, plum pansies, orchid lillies and an occasional white rose outlined in chantilly lace with purple and orchid streamers mixed with pearl strands to match her veil.

Carrying out the tradition of something blue, she wore a blue garter brought back from Greatlakes, Illinois Naval Base by the bridegroom; something borrowed, a slip and pouch for her pennies given to her by her cousin, Mrs. Cy Wilson; something old, a 40 year old gold heart locket belonging to her late maternal grandmother, Ida Mae Smith and something new, her gown and veil.

Serving as matron of honor was Miss Dana Smith of Post and Janie Tanner, sister in law of the bride served as bridesmaid. They wore floor length pansy violet gowns trimmed with double ruffles on the sleeves and carried round bouquets matching that of the bride.

The bridegroom was attired in his Navy uniform. Serving as best man was the bridegroom's brother, Nathan Stark of Tyler. Tim Tanner, brother of the bride was groomsman. They were attired in matching grey tuxedos with deep purple bow ties and cummerbunds.

Steven Eversole, nephew of the bride and Justin Wilson, cousin of the bride were ringbearers. They wore matching grey pants, white shirts and grey ties and wore purple carnation boutonnières and carried bridal satin heart shaped pillows made by the bride's mother.

Wedding music was provided by Todd Wilson and Belinda Reece who sang "You Needed Me," "Twelfth of Never," and "Annie's Song." The wedding march was recorded by Mr. Georgie Willson and the tape was operated by Cy Wilson, cousin of the bride.

Wedding guests were registered by Betty Tanner, sister in law of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with an orchid underlay and topped with white lace. The cake was a three tier heart shaped white cake with cupid columns, purple and orchid roses, on side of layers deep purple outline hearts, trimmed in light purple beading. The centerpiece was a crystal basket filled with purple roses, with the handle tied with dark purple bows draped over roses. Other refreshments were purple heart shaped chocolate mints and white punch served in matching crystal punch bowl. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a white underlay topped with a navy blue cloth. The chocolate cake was a frosted grey anchor shaped cake with USN written in the center. Two of the groom's navy caps were used in the front of the table as decorations. Other refreshments were blue and white sea shell mints, nuts and coffee. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

Peanut Theology

Pastor Steve Traw
First Christian Church

We strive to make a name for ourselves. Our home is called our palace. It is claimed by a privacy fence as our domain. In the driveway the family autos are stamped with our very own vanity plates. Five times each week our sleek car is driven to work where the day's routines are carried out behind a personal desk labeled with a slightly oversized nameplate.

Inherent to our human nature, we feel we must make a name for ourselves. Often as in the panic of a personal land rush, the territory is staked out prematurely. Little regard is given to what best suits our needs, talents and abilities.

Our task is to be diligent. Obedience to the Lord directs his own to do their very best. Personal abilities and life situations have no smallness or insignificance when accomplished as for the Lord.

Your world may be as small as the peanut. It was for George Washington Carver, born physically handicapped to slave parentage. That was not much of a niche to make a name for oneself. The man who was to become a researcher for all of agriculture found 300 products from the peanut. Carver stated his knowledge of the plant came from the Bible. His reasoning was simple, "The Bible does not teach anything regarding the peanut. But it told me about God, and God told me about the peanut."

One individual given to the continual conversation with a living God, turned faithfulness in the study of the peanut to great advances for agriculture in the South and ultimately for all of mankind.

Faithfulness in the seemingly insignificant details of our today's is never lost when accomplished for Christ. We have every right to seek big gains as we fulfill God's plan for our lives. True gain comes as we use our talents diligently and fully as God gives us opportunity.

And the Master said to him, "Well done, because you have been faithful in a very little thing, be in authority over ten cities."

Montford Gets Assignment

Lieutenant Governor Bill Hobby appointed State Senator John T. Montford as Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on water. The appointment came as the Texas Senate began their first day of the regular Legislative session on Tuesday, January 8, 1985.

Senator Montford was also reappointed to his seat on the Senate Jurisprudence Committee and named as a new member of the Senate Economic Development Committee.

"I am very pleased with these assignments, especially being named Chairman of Water," Senator Montford said. "I feel that this position is one of the most important assignments I can get for the district I represent."

Senator Montford also commented on the legislative session. "This is going to be a tough session in Austin. With the financial crunch we are now in, there will be many cuts. I will work hard to make sure that West Texas is not treated unfairly in the budget cuts," Montford said.

The Legislature began the 140 day session in Austin on January 8 and will remain in session until midnight May 27, 1985.

Cotton Talks

Unless the legislature intervenes, Texas soon will have its own pesticide regulations. Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower promised same and via the January 1, 1985 Texas Register, he has delivered, effective January 21.

The originally proposed set of rules, published in the Texas Register of October 23, elicited volumes of testimony at Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) hearings across the state and at a two-day hearing called by the Texas House Committee on Agriculture and Livestock.

Pesticide user representatives, including Lubbock's Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the Texas Farm Bureau and some 50 other commodity and farm-related organizations were unanimous in outright opposition to the proposal. Farm worker-related groups, i. e. Texas Rural Legal Aid and United Farm Workers Union, along with the Sierra Club and assorted other environmental activists were equally united in their endorsement.

At the close of the Committee on Agriculture and Livestock hearings, Chairman Robert Saunders of LaGrange said a need for changes in the proposed regulations had been shown and appointed a committee to work with Hightower's office to that end.

PCG Board Chairman and Chairman of the Texas Association of Cotton-Producer Organizations Tommy D. Fondren of Lorenzo served on the committee and attended four day-long meetings with TDA officials.

All suggestions from agriculture that the Commissioner's proposal be withdrawn or postponed were denied, but all the committee's efforts were not in vain. The latest version of the regulations, from the standpoint of agricultural interests, is a significant improvement over earlier proposals.

Meanwhile, an effort in the legislature to restrict TDA's regulatory authority over farm chemical use is virtually assured.

4-H is designed to foster leadership, to help give direction to the lives of young boys and girls. The 4-H leadership program takes that charge a step further. 4-H'ers in the leadership program learn to develop their personal skills and talents so as to lay the groundwork for the future.

In the 4-H leadership program, youth learn to:

Identify and understand roles, attitudes, tasks and functions necessary for effective leadership.

Seek guidance in leadership development, which will provide opportunities to develop self-confidence.

Strengthen local 4-H units by becoming involved in leadership responsibilities and encouraging other youth to do so.

Actively participate in program planning, development and implementation, and help recruit new members and leaders.

The 4-H leadership program is supported by Reader's Digest, which provides numerous awards to top individuals. These include medals of honor, an expense paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago each fall to one member per state, and nine $1,000 scholarships and two silver trays at the national level.

For additional details about the 4-H leadership program as well as other phases of 4-H, all youth are welcomed to contact the Garza County Extension Office at 495-205

National Meat Week January 20-26

This week is designated to honor the special partnership between consumers and industry in recognizing meat's important contribution to health fitness and good nutrition.

Beef, today, it's lower in fat, lower in calories and lower in cholesterol than ever before — a result of new breeding and feeding techniques. That's good for everyone who enjoys eating, but wants to right.

Beef offers a great tasting package of nutrients for its relatively low calorie cost. And the ease of preparing beef makes it ideal for feeding today's active American families. The fact is, beef fits into all our busy lifestyles.

For more beef information call Jana Middleton at 629-4263 or Colleen England at 495-2050.

Saving Money on Clothes

Anyone can use shopping mechanics, principles and tricks to save money when buying clothes.

Shopping "mechanics" simply means the nuts-and-bolts of when and where to buy clothes to get the most for your money. For example, knowing about different types of sales can help you find good buys. Late December means winter clothing special and after-Christmas sales. January is the month of store-wide clearance sales on resort wear, furs, towels and sheets, shoes, coats, dresses, men's suits and infant's wear.

Shopping "principles" are guidelines for developing a good quality wardrobe for less money. The first principle is to invest in a trend, not a fad. Trends come on relatively slowly, evolve over a period of time and fade gradually. Fads, however, spring up quickly and vanish overnight.

The second principle is to make as many of your purchases all-season clothes as possible. You can use different accessories to make the outfits look seasonal. The final principle is to calculate the cost of an item, not by the price tag, but by the cost per wearing.

Shopping "tricks" are just hints about ways to save money shopping. For example, if you're on a budget and you can't buy the latest in clothing, buy the latest accessory instead. Always buy your basic hosiery on sale. And to avoid high cleaning bills, buy as many machine — or hand-washable garments as possible, if they are good looking.

Any or all of these money-saving methods can make a difference in your clothing costs.

Elders Beware of the Cold
Everyone's sensitive to the cold — especially the bitter cold Texans experienced last winter. While we may have milder temperatures this year, older Texans will still need to be on the alert for potential health problems from cold weather.

With age, the body becomes less able to respond to long exposure to cold. The most severe danger in cold weather is hypothermia, a condition where the body temperature drops below about 95 degrees F. Accidental hypothermia can happen to anyone who is exposed to bitter cold without adequate protection. But some older people may develop accidental hypothermia after exposure to even relatively mild cold.

The chronically ill elderly, those who can't afford enough heating fuel and those who don't take normal steps to keep warm, are most likely to develop accidental hypothermia.

A small number of aged people have defective temperature regulation. For unknown reasons, these people do not feel cold or shiver, so they can't produce body heat when they need it. So if you have "felt cold" for years, it may be a good sign that your temperature regulation is functioning.

Follow these simple precautions to avoid accidental hypothermia:

Set the heat at no lower than 65 degrees F in living and sleeping areas. If you are ill, you may need more heat. If you are trying to save on fuel costs, heat only one or two rooms of your home.

Dress warmly, even when indoors, eat enough food and stay as active as possible.

Since hypothermia may start during sleep, keep warm in bed by wearing enough clothing and using blankets.

If you take medicine to treat anxiety, depression, nervousness, or nausea, ask your doctor whether it might affect the control of body temperature.

Ask your friends or neighbors to look in on you once or twice a day, particularly during severe cold spells. See if your community has a telephone checkin or personal visit service for the elderly or homebound.

A special low-reading thermometer is the only sure way to detect hypothermia. But a regular thermometer that has been shaken down well can detect a possible problem. If the person's temperature is below 95 degrees F, or does not register, get emergency help immediately.

Other signs of hypothermia include an unusual change in appearance or behavior in cold weather such as slurred speech, sluggishness and confusion. A slow, and sometimes irregular heart beat or shallow, very slow breathing can also be signs. Treatment consists of re-warming the person under a doctor's supervision, usually in a hospital.

Take the cold seriously and you can avoid the dangers of hypothermia.
