Commissioners, city council, agree to purchase new radio system

by Wes Burnett

Garza County Commissioners voted to approve advertising bids for a new radio system, following an explanation of the need and costs during the regular meeting Monday morning. Joining in the discussion were Post City Council members Larry Waldrip and Jim Schooler, along with city manager Bob Turner.

Last week the city council voted to approve sharing the cost of the new radio system, pending approval by the two council members who serve on the law enforcement committee.

County Judge Giles Dalby explained the need for replacing the current radio transmitter, repeater, antenna and coaxial cable, and outlined the proposal.

Citing continuing high maintenance costs on the current radio system, which is 18 years old, Dalby said that the total cost for the new system should be under $15,000. This year the city and county have paid more than $2,000 for repairs to the old system, according to an estimate by county treasurer Ruth Ann Young.

The new radio system will provide law enforcement officials with 16 channels, compared to the current limitation of six, and during emergency power outages, a rechargeable battery will keep the system operating.

The current transmitter has a power generator that is designed to start when electrical power is lost at the site, "but it never works properly and we always have to send someone up on the hill to start it up," the judge added.

Bids for the new radio system will be opened at the March 25 meeting, with members of the law enforcement committee to review the bids.

In other action, commissioners authorized that bids be advertised for the purchase of a new police package vehicle. There were no bids received Monday morning from a previous advertisement for the purchase.

Commissioners authorized an insurance representative from AFLAC to contact employees to determine the level of interest in participating in a cancer supplement insurance policy.

County agent Lee Howard reported on the successful 4-H youth participation in stock shows at San Antonio and Houston, saying that $88,000 were paid to the youth in premium money.

Newly appointed home economics county extension agent, Anna Nobles told commissioners "I'm on the job, moved in and ready to go to work."

Judge Dalby informed the court that the county jail will be inspected by the state on April 11, which was announced by letter from the state jail standards commission. Sheriff Freddy Cockrell explained that repairs to one of the cells should be completed before the inspection.

"The broken toilet in the cell we use primarily for female prisoners has been broken," he told commissioners, "and it is of a design that is no longer

Taba'na Yuan'e ceremony March 22

On Friday, March 22, 1991 the Post Chamber of Commerce will host the "Sunrise Wind" ceremony, translated from the Commanche Indian "Taba'na Yuan'e." This ancient custom was used by the Commanche Indian to predict the good or bad conditions for the coming year. They later taught the early settlers this custom.

Once again Chief Frank Runkles will be performing the ceremony with the assistance of Ken LeBlanc.

Guest should arrive by 6 a.m. in order to observe the entire performance which ends with sunrise. The unique Indian ceremony will be held at the Post City Park located on the south part of town off of Highway 84. A full catered breakfast will follow the ceremony.

The Algeria Art Center will host their annual Collector's Show with exhibits from the Lubbock Art Exhibit. The Art Center will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on March 22nd and 23rd and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on March 24th.

Admission to the ceremony and art exhibit is free. For more information please contact the Post Chamber of Commerce at (806) 495-3461.

The ceremony, a careful observance of an ancient Plains Indian spring ritual, begins with the lighting of the fire and constructing the circle of council.

The Taba'na Yuan'e tradition, which dates to earliest memories of the Plains Indians, began here in 1906 when early pioneers in Garza County recalled the legend as told by the Indians.

The ceremony is held each year on March 22, as visitors and Garza County residents gather around a circular ceremonial ring to watch a dancer, clad in traditional beaded buckskins and feathered headdress, perform an Indian version of an extended weather forecast.

Taba'na Yuan'e translates to "The Sunrise Wind."

The Plains Indians used the dance to check the wind direction at the exact moment of sunrise, which would determine their success in the coming year.

According to the legend, the wind must be checked at sunrise on the day after the sun reaches the halfway point in its journey from the south to north.

Garza County farmers and ranchers have relied on the Taba'na Yuan'e for more than 80 years to provide a hint as to their success in the coming year.

"Chief" Runkles has been faithfully keeping the ceremony true to its original form since 1973. He is a long-time student of Indian lore.

He starts the Taba'na Yuan'e with the building of a small fire, using available, so TDC (Texas Department of Corrections) is specially building a replacement for us, and they say it'll be ready to pick up April 1."

The sheriff said that arrangements have been made with Aspermont to hold female prisoners until repairs in the cell have been completed. Other jails closer to Post are full, according to Cockrell.

Commissioners approved a variety of budget amendments, to reflect more accurately actual expenditures on four line items.

Donald Windham reported on the census results, explaining that details of location of racial and ethnic citizens has not been released by the census bureau, but the information is expected within the next 30 days, at which time planning should begin to determine voting districts.

Attending the meeting were Judge Dalby, commissioners Herbert Walls, John Valdez, Albert Stone and Sammy Ellis, clerk Sonny Gossett and treasurer Young.

Ground breaking ceremony set for April 19 at Lake Alan Henry

by Wes Burnett

The City of Lubbock has announced that special ground breaking ceremonies are scheduled April 19 at the Lake Alan Henry dam site near Justiceburg, with construction at the site already underway.

In a recent letter of explanation to Mayor Giles McCrary, Lubbock's Mayor B.C. "Peck" McMinn outlined the lengthy steps in completing the project.

"The design engineers completed the project plans and specifications in mid-1990," McMinn explained.

"Prior to construction of the dam, a permit had to be obtained from the United States Corps of Engineers.

"Through an extensive (and expensive) ordeal of working with the Corps, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the National Advisory Council for Historical Places and the Texas Historical Commission, the city received the necessary '404 Permit' from the Corps.

"This permit required purchasing additional land for wildlife mitigation complete with a management plan and staff wildlife biologist. The permit also required the development of an archaeological mitigation plan to ensure that the reservoir area's cultural resources were field investigated, documented and specific artifacts curated.

"The City of Lubbock entered into an agreement with the Brazos River Authority in May 1989, for the administration of the Lake Alan Henry project. The Authority will thus manage the construction of the dam, reservoir, intake structure and spillways and will manage the overall operation once constructed.

"Since the Brazos River Authority's function is the construction and management of large and medium sized reservoir projects, they will bring to this project the expertise necessary to efficiently manage this specialized project. Also, interest rates for Brazos River Authority bonds are lower than rates the City of Lubbock could obtain alone.

"The bids for construction of the dam and reservoir were opened at the Authority's offices in Waco on December 4, 1990. Low bidder was Granite Construction Company. You may recognize this name; Granite has performed the construction of all five phases of the State Highway Department's I-27 project through Lubbock.

"It is my understanding that Granite Construction, a California based firm, will actually assign another group from their company to construct the Lake Alan Henry dam and reservoir. The State Highway Department has been very pleased with Granite's work on the I-27 project, and we look forward to a similar association.

"Both the Notice of Award to the contractor and the Bond Sale occurred on January 21, 1991. The actual dam and reservoir construction began this month.

"Once the reservoir is completed in 1993, it will take quite some time to fill. Based upon historical rainfall records, the hydrological engineers have predicted it will take between two to six years to completely fill.

"As the reservoir fills over this lengthy period of time, considerable evaporation will occur. A relatively high total dissolved solids concentration in the run-off water from the Justiceburg area, coupled with the evaporation, will mean that the remaining 'salts' will concentrate in the reservoir.

"To offset this high salt concentration in the reservoir contents, it has been determined that as much as 20 percent of the water in the reservoir may need to be released each year until the reservoir is fully utilized as a water supply.

"Lake Alan Henry will be the third water source for the City of Lubbock. We do not plan to build the delivery and treatment facilities for this project until such time as we can economically use all of the water that it will produce.

"Last fall, the city enlisted the services of a firm of groundwater hydrologists to evaluate our existing ground and surface water supplies and to determine future water needs of the city.

"As a part of this project, we will attempt to determine when it will be most cost effective and logical to construct the pipeline to bring the water from the reservoir to Lubbock, pumping stations to lift the water from Justiceburg to Lubbock, a terminal storage reservoir to balance the system and final water treatment facilities.

"This firm has projected completion of this evaluation by the spring of 1992. At that time, it can be determined when the final treated water from this project should be available to the City of Lubbock and to other interested parties," the mayor said.

The City of Lubbock estimates the total cost of the project in 1990 dollars will be $140 million.

Poison Prevention Week: March 17 - 23

The theme for National Poison Prevention Week is "Children Act Fast - So Do Poisons." The theme is part of a campaign to alert the public to the problem of accidental poisonings among children.

According to the Poison Prevention Week Council, more than half a million children swallow some medicine or household chemical each year. While most recover, at least 30 children die annually in poisoning accidents. When young children are crawling, they can find poisonous products such as drain cleaners under the kitchen sink. As children get older and are able to stand, they may reach for medicines on counter tops or open medicine cabinets.

If chemicals or household products have been swallowed, offer a small amount of water to the child. Then call a hospital emergency room of the local poison control center for advice as to whether or not to make the victim vomit. Keep a one-ounce bottle of ipecac syrup on hand for each child or grandchild in the home.

Poison prevention starts with keeping poisons out of the reach of children. When these products are in use, children should be observed closely. Keep poisonous products in their original containers. Medicines are best stored in a locked cabinet or on a high shelf out of children's reach.

Talk of the Town

Post Chamber of Commerce by Ann Stelzer

Well this has been a very productive week. Got lots done and got this to the paper on time. I deserve the week-end off!!

Monday I had the pleasure of visiting with three ladies from Artesia, New Mexico. Inez, Steed, Verna Danning and Ruth Standard. Ruth is 94 years old. She lived in Post in the very early days and worked in the mill in 1914. She remembered C.W. Post as a very nice "good-looking" young man. She told me about living in Rag Town and when the explosives were set off to make it rain. It was great. Inez and Verna (Ruth's daughters) said that they had heard many stories about Post so decided to drive over for the day. They assured me that they would all be back.

It's been a long week without Wanda Mitchell. She's been on a over-duce vacation this past week. I'm glad your back.

The Post Art Guild will sponsor the Annual Collectors Show on Friday, March 22 thru Sunday, March 24. Doors are open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. The art on display is in the "Permanent Art Collection" from the Lubbock Art Association.

Don't forget Taba'na Yuan'e on March 22, 1991. The ceremony will start around 6 a.m. and end with sunrise. Breakfast will be served after the ceremony. Cost is $3 per person.

The Chamber is still sponsoring bingo on Tuesday nights at the Community Center. The doors open at 6:30 p.m. and the games start at 7:30 p.m. The concession stand also opens at 6:30 p.m. If you are interested in being on the volunteer list

Ann Nobles begins duties as agent

by Wes Burnett

Ann Nobles, newly appointed home economics extension agent for Garza County, is settling into her new spot at the courthouse, and unpacking after moving to Post.

"You should see my place, boxes everywhere, but it's okay, I'm ready to go to work," she says.

"You can't imagine how happy we are to have Ann here," extension agent Lee Howard adds, "there's so much work to be done and Diane and I just are thrilled to have her on board."

Nobles joins Howard and Diane Graves at the county agent's office on the first floor of the courthouse.

One of her first duties was assigned Monday morning when she met with the commissioners court. Judge Giles Dalby welcomed Ann to the staff, then asked her to participate with the courthouse committee designing improvements in the hallways of the building.

"We have a lot of visitors in here," Dalby said, "and everything looks okay to us because we see it every day, but some of the staff had the idea to spruce up the hallways, and we hope you can help." The committee is headed by tax assessor/collector Chita Hataway.

Nobles comes to Garza County from Plainview where she has been serving as an intern, under the guidance of Colleen Chadwick, former agent here.

"Colleen has taught me so much, and she has so many praises for the people here, I feel like I already know a lot of the people here," Nobles said.

The new agent holds the official title of County Assistant Extension Agent-Home Economics with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. But that's so much to say and write, that most people will simply call her the home extension agent.

She is formerly of Colorado City, where she served as a substitute teacher from 1968 to 1970, worked for a church sponsored pre-school and at the Mitchell County Library.

"I believe home economics helps families find a better way of living by teaching them to identify and use available resources effectively," Nobles said about her philosophy.

In Colorado City she was active in the 4-H program as a leader and the community action program as a volunteer.

She holds a Vocational Home Economics Education Certificate by the Texas Education Agency and is a 1990 graduate of Texas Tech University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics.

Ann is a member of a number of professional associations.

Head Start Prekindergarten

by Kathy Thornbury

Post has two programs for four year old children. One is the Prekindergarten class through the Post ISD. The other program is a federally funded one for low income families and handicapped children.

The Head Start program is home based meaning the teachers go into the homes weekly to spend approximately one and one-half hours with the child and parent.

There are five children enrolled for half a day in the Prekindergarten class and are also enrolled in the Head Start program.

These parents wanted their children to get used to being in a class and also felt their children needed individualized attention.

In the beginning of the school year Head Start screens each child to find her strengths and weaknesses.

Then through the year as the child learns colors and numbers the teacher is also working with the parent to help the child overcome her weaknesses.

The Head Start Program is comprised of six components. These are health, nutrition, education, parent involvement, social services and administration.

Also, at the beginning of the school year the children go through physical and dental screening.

If there is a need for a follow-up appointment, then Head Start also takes care of that.

When a child is handicapped those needs are seen to accordingly. A speech therapist who works with Head Start children comes to Post to work with the children individually who need that assistance.

The parents in the Post program hold monthly meetings to discuss business and plan fund raisers.

On these meeting days a workshop is also held for the parents. Topics include health, safety, nutrition, child guidance, and drug and alcohol abuse.

Through the course of the year a Social Service Coordinator makes a home visit to fill out a Family Needs Assessment (FNA) on the family to find out if there is anything else the Head Start program can do for that family. The FNA helps the staff coordinate services and the family.

On Friday of each week the children in the Post Head Start Program come together at the center for a half day of activities.

There are special activities and learning centers for the children as well as a nutritional snack.

In April Head Start will begin enrolling children for the next school year.

If you have a child or know of a child who would qualify for the Program watch the paper for the enrollment announcement at the end of March.

If you are interested in volunteering for the program, please call 495-4037.

Living on the edge of the cap...

by Lee Howard County Extension Agent - Ag
National Agriculture Day, Week Honors America's Providers

National Agriculture Week, March 17 - 23, will again honor America's providers -- the farmers and ranchers who provide food and fiber for domestic and global needs.

In addition, National Agriculture Day on March 21 will be marked by many special programs that increase awareness of the role of agriculture today and challenges it faces in continuing to meet the world's food and fiber needs.

Farmers are efficient producers. U.S. farmers today produce more than 80 percent more crop output on one acre of land than did their fathers. One hour of farm labor today also produces 16 times as much food and other crops as it did 70 years ago.

New technology has made these gains possible. The productivity of the land now depends on the skill and knowledge with which capital is applied. The larger the volume that farmers can raise and sell, the lower the product cost per item. Thus, consumers gain from the increase in farm production efficiency.

The productivity level of U.S.

farmers and ranchers, when compared with those of other countries, also illustrates their high efficiency level.

For example, one American farmer provides food and fiber for 114 people. This compares with one farmer who provides food and fiber for 3.5 people in China, 3 people in Japan, 8 in Argentina, 4 in Brazil and 11 in the Soviet Union.

Consumers spend $361 billion for foods produced on U.S. farms last year, about 4.5 percent more than in 1985. This amount includes purchases of farm foods in food stores, or roughly two-thirds of the total, and at away-from-home eating places.

About 25 percent of last year's food spending went back to farmers, who received about $89 billion. The remaining $272 billion, the marketing bill, went to the food industry for handling, processing and retailing foodstuffs after they left the farm. Direct labor costs for food marketing represented 45 percent of the marketing bill, and all labor costs were about two-fifths larger than the farm value of food commodities.

For each dollar's worth of food bought in food stores, 31 cents was paid for processing. Retailing charges added 23 cents. Another 10 cents was spent for wholesaling and 6 cents for intercity transportation. The farm share was about 25 cents. These shares of the food dollar have been relatively constant over the years because costs of each function have risen at roughly similar rates.

In food-away-from-home purchases, 16 cents of each dollar covered the farm value. Processing costs accounted for 15 cents, transportation charges for 3 cents and wholesaling for 6 cents, or a total of 40 cents. Thus, 60 cents was paid for food service, or the preparation and serving of food eaten away from home.

The American consumer is more health conscious today than at any previous time in history. But convenience is still a top priority in the consumer's selection of food products. Agriculture and the food industry are working hard to respond to these needs.

Research progress has been made in developing leaner meats and lower-fat dairy products. Food processors have developed high-fiber products and items with low sodium and less sugar. Ingredient labeling is another response to consumer needs.

Russia is the world's largest oil producer, followed by the United States and Saudi Arabia.

only natural materials. The fire is lighted by the friction of rubbing two sticks together.

Following the singing of a tribal prayer of thanks for the fire, the "Chief" performs a Four Winds dance where a pipe of peace is presented to the Four directions then to Mother Earth and to Wakantanka, the Great Spirit above, to seek their blessing.

A wad of grass is placed on the coals and as the smoke indicates the wind direction at the moment of sunrise, the Smoke Dance is ended by kneeling and pointing a feather in the direction from which the wind comes.

Award sized bass caught at Two Draw Lake in February

Johnny Threet of Lubbock recently won the Hockley County Bass Club Road Runner Bass Tournament with his catch at Two Draw Lake near Post.

According to a newsletter published for employees of Bergstein Oil Field Service, Sonny's Oil Field Service, Nickela B. Leasing and R&R Service, Threet won the tourney with a nine pound, five ounce bass caught at the local lake.

The tournament gets its name, Road Runner, from the fact that any lake may be fished as long as it is open to the public.

Two Draw Lake is privately owned, but open to the public for fishing.

"Threet has had excellent luck at the lake and also holds the lake record with a nine pound, 10 ounce bass from there," the article said.

Threet said he plans to release the fish back into Two Draw Lake following its live display in Lubbock at a bass shop.

"All I really wanted to do was beat Terry Wells and Bruce Kidd," Threet is quoted by the article.

Spare us please from more socialism

by Wesley W. Burnett

There are two developments in Austin that desperately need our attention...and here's an urgent plea from us to our State Senator John Montford and State Representative David Counts:

Give us back our schools...

And for heaven's sake stand up, speak up and fight to protect us from those socialist idiots who think it's time for a state income tax.

Enough is enough!

Texas, the state where individual freedom still has some value, is about to join the most liberal ranks of all those other socialistic states and in a double whammy slap us right smack dab in the middle of the biggest legal theft ever foisted on taxpayers.

First, the so-called "Robin Hood" school financing plan, is about to redefine school district boundaries, so that the constitution may be circumvented to satisfy the crazy notion that all schools should be equal.

Hogwash!

First of all, there is no such thing as equal, unless you want to pattern your life like those poor devils in the Soviet Union. They are equal, but look at what equal means.

That's what seems to be the goal of the socialists in Austin... "what you've got, we want."

The state constitution specifically forbids the transfer of tax money from one taxing district to another, so what do these brilliant public servants dream up to get around the restriction? Sure, they enlarge the taxing boundaries.

Next they'll force consolidation for administrative purposes, and we'll be told how to run our lives from a "regional center" such as Lubbock or Amarillo or Abilene or Midland or... well, you get the idea.

Here's an idea that might be just short of revolutionary... how about placing a constitutional amendment on the ballot to let the people decide whether or not they want to be forced into socialism?

How about a constitutional amendment that says something like this:

1. Repeal that portion of the state constitution that says the state shall provide for efficient schools.

2. Forbid the state legislature to enact any law which establishes state-wide funding for schools.

Either of these proposed constitutional amendments would eliminate the silly prattle coming out of the state supreme court that found the state constitution requiring equal funding state-wide.

If the voters believe that independent school districts ought to be independent, then so be it.

If the voters like the idea of socialism, then so be it.

But, please, let the voters have a say.

I believe Texans want the state to "leave us alone," and "we'll take care of our own business."

That would include of course the business of running our schools the way we feel is best, even if that doesn't fit the so-called professionals' viewpoints in Austin.

You know, people in Texas were more literate 100 years ago, even 150 years ago, than they are today, and what was different?

Decisions about education were made at home, in a community, not by so-called experts in Austin.

Education was a function of our churches, not by the state.

The current system has failed miserably, it's time for our elected officials to face up to the failure and bring back some common sense and freedom for people to decide for themselves what is best... at home, not in Austin.

And one more constitutional amendment we want to see on the ballot is even more central to our idea of freedom:

Forbid the state legislature to enact any law exacting taxes from income.

Without these protections, we go unprotected from the wild spread of socialism raising its miserable head in Austin.

How about it? Do our elected officials have faith enough in their constituents to allow the voters to decide?

Older worker week...

Each year Older Worker Week spotlights the contributions senior workers bring to the labor force and encourages employers to utilize their skills and abilities.

Joe Rankin, President of Texas Farmers Union, which sponsors Green Thumb, invites employers "to invest in experience by hiring an older Texan, it's simply good business." "We in Farmers Union take very special pride in our affiliation with Green Thumb and salute those senior Texans who are working hard and working proud to make life better for themselves and their neighbors."

Green Thumb, funded by the Department of Labor, currently operates in 119 counties and enrolls over 1,000 economically-disadvantaged seniors who provide supplemental manpower assistance to local community-supported organizations. The ultimate goal of the program is to assist the older worker in securing employment in the private or public sector.

"During Older Worker Week and every other week, employers who want experienced, dependable, and productive employees should hire an older Texan," Rankin concluded.
