President Names Production Czar And Reorganizes Defense Set-Ups To Speed Up All-Out War Effort; Report Submarines Off East Coast

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Leon Henderson, director, Division of Civilian Supply of the Office of Production Management, trys out one of the "Victory model" bicycles produced by manufacturers at request of OPM. This lightweight model is constructed of less costly material, and shorn of all gadgets. The new bikes will be built for both men and women. Photo shows Henderson pedaling, and Miss Betty Barrett of York, Neb., in the luggage basket.

NELSON:

Production Czar

As the United States moved forward into all-out war production, Donald M. Nelson had been named production chief, placed in sole com-mand over OPM, SPAB and all other vital production organizations.

His position was compared to that of Bernard M. Baruch in 1917. Mr. Nelson had been, before his promotion to sole command, the head of SPAB, the priorities control board, and thus had been sitting with his hands on the needle valve which kept materials flowing smoothly to defense plants.

His post also was compared to that of Lord Beaverbrook in Eng-

He was given command by executive order, and though the order did not immediately make legally clear how far his power went, there was enough in President Roosevelt's statement to show that it would go far enough to put Nelson into sole

A board, including Messrs. Knudsen, Hillman and other chiefs of various vital groups, was to work under Nelson.

The President said, in part:

"Mr. Nelson will no longer serve British evacuation of Perka, Selanas director of the priorities division. He will devote his entire time to directing the production program. His decisions as to procurement and production will be final.'

Thus Mr. Nelson has authority over not only the industrialists and labor leaders who were in Washington to harness American production to a program for victory, but also over the army and navy themselves, in a way, because his decisions as to what they might have in the way of arms and munitions would be final.

They would still have legal contracting authority, but Mr. Nelson would have to pass upon these contracts before they could go into effect, and could, in effect, make them larger or smaller, quicker or slower.

LUZON:

Defense

When the history of World War II is written it will have become evident that the defense of Luzon by the American-Filipino forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur should be placed alongside of other famous "last stands.'

Conceded only the slimmest possible hope of hanging on until help might arrive, the MacArthur forces, entrenched in the Mariveles mountains back of Manila bay, had reported not only stemming an "allout" Japanese drive, but that they had driven the attackers back.

They had forced the Japs to remove their big guns far to the rear, out of range of the American batteries, had silenced 11 Japanese batteries, and had raised havoc with charging detachments of tanks and

Not in any way claiming that the Japanese advance had been permanently checked, General MacArthur reported to Washington that the 24hour battle had shown definitely that the American guns and gunnery were superior to those of the enemy,

The Japs claimed that they had taken Olongapo, naval base on a bay to the north of Manila bay, and this had been confirmed by Washington. There was more than a suspicion that the Japs were content to let the present armed forces now in the Philippines do the "mopping up" against the MacArthur army, and had turned their attention rather to increasing the tempo of the allimportant Malay offensive, and the general offensive against the Dutch East Indies, using Mindanao as a

Precautions About Handling NATURAL GAS

In Case Of Air-Raid Alarms!

Natural gas is the safest fuel you could be using during an air raid. BUT, the HANDLING of natural gas is a technical matter, requiring the services of trained men who know how to avoid the hazards involved.

It is therefore extremely important that everyone should study and follow the carefully prepared instructions relating to the handling of natural gas during air raid alarms. If these instructions are not followed, serious consequences may result. Untrained persons should not attempt to turn gas off and on at the meters.

Following are the official instructions which have been approved and adopted by local Office of Civilian Defense. They are simple. Read them carefully. Discuss them in the family circle so all will understand. Cut them out and post them where all can see them. Above all, follow them!

In Case Of An Air-Raid Alarm:

- __ Make no attempt to shut off the gas at the meter.
- Simply turn off all burners which you customarily turn on and off. Do not turn off pilot lights.
- Only in case the house or building is badly damaged should the gas be turned off at the meter.
- If, for any reason, the gas is turned off at the meter, do not turn it on again yourself. Call for a trained man.

SHE LOYED ASP

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, pretty secretary to Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, is amazed and angry when he unexpectedly discharges her with two weeks' salary and refuses any explanation. The bewildered girl arrives at the apartment she shares with her sister Sybil, feeling thankful that one of them still has a position, only to be told by her sister that the beauty salon where she works, is closing up. Over the pro-tests of Sybil, Joan answers a secretarial ad requiring some night work. The fascinating proprietor, Karl Miller, engages her at once, at a salary of $50 per week and insists upon paying her in advance, even though she lacks references. Sybil suspects something sinister and divines Joan's quick interest in Karl. She pleads with her not to take the job and the two quarrel. Joan accepts Karl's dinner invitation. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER III

Joan felt Karl's irritation towards Sybil. "My parents are both dead," she explained. "Syb feels that she has to look after me."

But even Joan was annoyed to find Sybil waiting up for them later that night. "It's almost two o'clock," Sybil snapped. "What's the idea?"

Karl Miller looked amused as he stood hat in hand in the doorway. "In that case, I shall say goodnight without further delay.'

When he had gone Joan turned furiously to her sister. "Why did you have to say that? I'm old enough to manage my own affairs."

There were deep circles of fatigue beneath Sybil's blue eyes. Her voice seemed to echo like a warning through the old-fashioned, high-ceilinged rooms. "You've got to quit working for Karl Miller! You've got to quit tomorrow!"

The sisters stared at each other in the dimly lit room. Joan threw her head back defiantly as she cried, "You've made Karl angry! You had no right to do that."

Sybil smiled ruefully. "He looked more amused than angry. "It's up to me to look after you, Joan. I feel responsible since mother and dad are gone. If anything happened,

I'd never forgive myself."
"I know, Syb! And we mustn't quarrel about it." She yawned and started for the bedroom but Sybil caught her arm. "Then you will quit working for Karl Miller?"

"No. I will not. I'm twenty years old, Sybil, and I'm not going to let you or anyone else run my life." The grandfather's clock in the corner chimed.

"Two-thirty," Joan observed, evading Sybil's worried glance. 'We'd better get some sleep. Don't you have to work in the morning?" "No. Today was my last day. From now on I'm one of the unemployed."

"And you expect me to quit my job? Oh, no, Syb! I'm making a good salary and whether you think so or ot, Karl is a gentleman."

"Maybe so," Sybil said as she snapped off the lamp, "but I don't trust him.'

The next day Joan Leland arrived at the Club Elite promptly at two o'clock. Karl Miller's office was filled with baskets of flowers. Tonight was opening night but Karl was unruffled behind his desk, impeccably dressed in a gray suit, a red carnation in his buttonhole.

She was glad that she had worn her best black dress. It was an expensive sophisticated dress, the kind of dress Joan knew Karl would approve. Heavy silver earrings were her only ornament, and she had used a touch of mascara, a dash of dark red lipstick. Joan had the assurance of a woman who knew that she looked her best. Her green eyes sparkled as she closed the office door behind her.

"Good afternoon," she said demurely.

Her employer was not the type to evade issues. "I've been thinking about your sister, Joan. Tell me something about her."

Joan removed her hat and coat and smoothed her black hair before she replied, "Sybil's a little low right now. You see, she's just lost her job. The beauty shop where she worked has been closed."

Karl laughed. "Then perhaps that was why she was in such a bad humor?

He said it with such apparent honesty that Joan was not angry. She sat down at her own small desk beside Karl's and mechanically inserted a sheet of paper in her typewrit-

Karl suddenly leaned forward. Would it please you if I could help your sister?"

The girl's lovely face lifted innocently to his. "Oh Karl, could you?" "I think so. A friend of mine, a Mrs. Murdock, owns the Ritz Beauty Salon. If I ask her, I feel sure she will be able to use another ex-perienced girl."

Joan's eyes were shining. "The Ritz Beauty Salon! Oh, Karl, that's wonderful!" It was one of the best shops in town. Sybil would be "Of course," Karl continued your sister may not want any assistance from me since she so obviously dislikes me.'

"I'm sure Sybil will appreciate it very much," Joan assured him. "It was sweet of you to think of her,

But with a swift change of attitude Karl had ground out his cigarette and when he turned again to "All right! From now on I'm not saying another word. You can do just as you like, Joan."

Joan his eyes were void of any emo-

"Get that orchestra leader on the telephone," he said. "I have some instructions to give him." "Yes, Mr. Miller!" and as Joan dialed the number she found herself more than ever intrigued by this man who had offered to help her sister. This strange enigma that was Karl Miller.

At six o'clock Joan decided to go home for dinner. In two hours she could easily make it and she was eager to tell Sybil of her good fortune.

Her sister looked up in surprise as Joan burst into the living room. "What on earth are you doing home? You didn't by any chance quit?"

"Don't be silly!" Joan cried, throwing her hat on the table. have wonderful news for you. Karl can get you a job at the Ritz Beauty

Sybil was genuinely surprised. "The Ritz? That smart new shop on Post street?"

"Nothing less! Isn't it wonderful? Karl knows the owner. He's going to call her and fix it up for you. "But it's one of the best shops in town," Sybil said unbelievingly.

"Of course! Wasn't it nice of him? Honestly, Sybil, how can you dislike a man who is so kind? Imagine his thinking about a job for you today, of all days, when he's so busy with the club opening!"

Sybil was standing by the window. "Doesn't look like a very good night for it. It's going to rain.

"Is that all you can say!" Joan cried indignantly. "Karl said maybe, since you didn't like him, you wouldn't want his help. But I thought you would."

Sybil turned, "You're right, Joan I do need the job. You may tell Mr. Miller that I appreciate it very much."

Joan did not notice the coldness of her sister's reply. She was hap-pily unconscious of the expression on Sybil's face.

"How about dinner? I'm starved. I have to be back at the club by eight.

Sybil broiled the chops while Joan made a salad.

"I see you're wearing your good black dress to work. What's the idea?" "Why not?" Joan retorted. "I'm making fifty dollars a week now and I have to look my best." "You didn't seem to think it necessary when you worked for Mr.

Mulford." Joan put the salad bowl on the table and set places for two. "You know how I feel about Karl, Syb!" she said in a low voice. "Why make it hard for me?" "All right! From now on I'm not saying another word. You can do just as you like, Joan. Maybe it's none of my business, after all."

Joan put an affectionate arm about her sister. "Don't feel that way, darling. But give me a little credit for knowing what I'm doing. I'm not a child, you know."

Sybil smiled as she turned back to the stove but she said no more. As Sybil had predicted, it was raining when Joan reached the club but the weather had not seemed to affect business. Already the first guests were arriving. The bar was crowded. Gay laughter, conversation, tinkling glasses made an exciting combination of sounds which spelled success for the future. Joan felt a little thrill of pride as she passed on down the corridor to the office. She settled herself at her desk and began to type. Karl was not there. Her mind wandered as she worked. Only a week ago she was working for Arthur Mulford. Now everything was different. Life had turned a fresh page, which Joan felt sure would be filled with adventure. It must have been fate that she answered Karl Miller's advertisement. Fate that Mr. Mulford had gone out of business and been forced to fire

She was thinking so intently that when he opened the door she felt the color rush into her cheeks. And she knew that his keen eyes had observed her embarrassment. Karl seemed pleased. "Every-thing's going fine. Couldn't be bet-"Everyter. By the way, I spoke to Mrs. Murdock. Tell your sister she can start work Monday morning."

"Oh thank you!" Joan cried. "It's so kind of you, Karl!" He rose, came around the desk "Has it made you happy. Joan?" "Of course," her eyes faltered beneath the steel-blue eyes. Karl Miller laughed softly as he drew her into his powerful arms Sybil's warnings rang in her ears but the pounding of her heart overcame them as her lips blindly met

There was strange magic in Karl Miller's kiss. How long Karl held her in that embrace. Joan did not know. When he released her he put a hand beneath her chin and looked deeply into the green eyes that were filled with emotion. "Oh, Karl!" Joan cried softly, but before she could say more the office door opened and a man entered.

His eyes caught the little scene and he turned to go. "Sorry, Karl! See you later." Joan turned back to her desk with flaming cheeks but Karl Miller did not seem embarrassed. "It's all right, Paul! Come on in. I don't think you've met my new secretary. Miss Leland, this is Paul Sherman.

Joan was forced to look into a pair of brown eyes. Their owner was tall and lithe. He had a quick smile, brown curly hair. It was a good-looking face, with its straight nose and square jaw.

"I'm very glad to meet you," Paul Sherman said emphatically.

Joan acknowledged the introduction and turned quickly back to her typing. What would this man think of her? Karl had said, "My new secretary," which implied that they had not been acquainted long. Joan told herself that she didn't care what Paul Sherman thought, vet some indefinable reason-she did.

"Paul is my right-hand man," Karl said, opening a panel in the wall which revealed a tiny but complete bar. "He manages the club. You'll probably be seeing a lot of each other. Have a drink, Paul?'

The other sat down and crossed his long legs. "A short one. I have to get out front again. Things look good, Karl . . . What do you think of the club, Miss Leland?'

At the unexpected question addressed to her, Joan started. very nice," she replied, dark lashes sweeping over her embarrassed green eyes. She had an uncanny feeling that Paul Sherman was staring at her, conscious of her embarrassment. She was so confused that she made three mistakes in one line. It was not easy for her to turn emotion off and on as Karl Miller did. She marvelled at his coolness as he sat on the edge of his desk and talked to Paul.

"By the way," Paul was saying, his eyes still on Joan, "Eric wants to see you. He's in the bar. Wants you to meet some people."

"I'll go then. Coming, Paul?" Paul finished his drink. "I'm right with you, Karl."

Joan was relieved when they had gone. She pushed back her chair and made no pretense of finishing the letter she had been typing. It was thus that Paul Sherman found her when he returned to the office a few seconds later. She started guiltily when he came in. "Oh, it's you again!"

"You don't seem too pleased to see me," Paul observed, shutting the door carefully behind him. "But as a matter of fact, I came back on purpose '

Joan stared at him in disapproval. "You mean that no one wanted to see Kari?" "Oh sure! That was legitimate.

but when I saw a chance to slip away, I took it." His friendly smile made it difficult to be offended. "Well," Joan asked flatly, "What do you want?"

Paul laughed, displaying even white teeth. "To talk to you. You. needn't be so annoyed. After all, I am the manager of the club."

Was there a hint of cynicism in his voice? "I'm sorry," Joan said. trying to smile. "I guess I'm not used to this type of work yet.' "That's what I am getting at." Paul said seriously. "How did yohappen to come to work for har Miller anyway?"

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT-Matthew 4:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—For we have an high priest . . . (who) was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.—Hebrews 4:15.

"We have not a high priest that cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but one that hath been in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin" (Heb. 4:15, R.V.). We recognize that Jesus was tempted as the Messiah (see Matt. 4:3, 6) and as One who had no sin, and yet He was tempted in all points as we are; and we may learn from His temptation how to meet temptation and be victorious over it.

I. Temptation.

It is the common lot of all mankind to be tempted (I Cor. 10:13). The strongest and most noble of men are subject to it; angels were tempted - yes, even Jesus was tempted. We need to know about temptation, so we note

1. What It Is (v. 1). Temptation is of the devil. It is, as Principal Fairbairn expressed it, "seduction to evil, solicitation to wrong. It stands distinguished from trial thus: trial tests, seeks to discover the man's moral qualities or character; but temptation persuades to evil, deludes that it may ruin. God tries. Satan tempts."

Note that temptation is not sin, but yielding to the temptation is sin. We are told by James (Jas. 1:13-15) that man is tempted by his own lusts. He also tells us that God may permit temptations or trials to test our faith (Jas. 1:2, 3), but His purpose is only to prove us able to stand. God does not suffer us to be tempted beyond endurance, but provides a way of escape (I Cor. 10:13).

2. How It Works (vv. 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9). Satan has only three temptations, although he is a master at giving them different appearances. The temptation of Jesus followed the same threefold line as that of Adam and Eve (Gen. 3:6), which is described in I John 2:16 as the general temptation of all men, namely, 'the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life." Observe how Satan worked on Jesus: (a) By appealing to the flesh (vv. 2, 3). Jesus had fasted 40 days, and Satan took advantage of that fast to suggest that He use His divine power of creation to satisfy His hunger. To do so would have been to deny His very mission on earth.

Satan observes in man the normal appetites of his body, excites them to a high degree, and then tempts him to satisfy them in an improper way. (b) By appealing to pride (vv. 5, 6). God had promised to keep Jesus "in all his ways" (Ps. 91: 11), but casting Himself from the temple was not one of God's "ways" for Him.

The devil wants us to be presumptuous and call it faith, and this is his pitfall for one who really wants to believe-cause him to become a fanatic and substitute foolish presumption for faith. (c) By appealing to the eyes (vv. 8, 9). By showing Christ the kingdoms of the earth in some kind of striking panorama, or moving picture, he offered a short cut to their rule by a brief act of worship of him, rather than by way of the cross. The devil showed his real purpose here. He wants worship-he wants us to bow to him instead of to God.

II. Our Lord Was Victorious Over Satan.

We, too, can triumph in His blessed name. To do so we need to study the way of victory.

1. How to Gain It (vv. 4, 7, 10). Three steps appear: (a) By the right use of Scripture. If our Lord needed and used that weapon, how can we possibly do without it? How can we use it if we do not study it, and hide it in our hearts (Ps. 119: 11)? (b) By complete dependence upon God. Every Scripture used by Jesus against Satan honored God the Father. We cannot fight Satan in our own strength. Luther was right-"Did we in our own strength confide,

Our striving would be losing." The real victory for the Christian is to bring Satan to the foot of the cross. Christ defeated him completely there, and we may plead that victory. (c) By denouncing Satan. Jesus sent him on his way. We may do the same, in Jesus' name. It is always a serious error to argue with Satan, or even to discuss matters with him. He is not divine, but he is a supernatural being with knowledge and cunning which are too much for us. Meet him with Scripture, honor God by your faith in Christ, then "resist the devil, and he will flee from you" (Jas. 4:7).

2. What It Brings (v. 11). When the defeated devil left Christ, angels came and ministered to Him. The overcoming of temptation brings victory, peace, and blessed rest. This is ever true in the life of the believer. Temptations victoriously met make one stronger in meeting the next temptation. There is always a next one, for we read (Luke 4:13) that the devil left Christ only 'for a season."

Wintry Snacks

The cold, frosty evenings with full program of basketball games, sleigh ride parties, skating call for piping hot, hearty snacks to take care of brisk appetites. While in warmer weather. the family could raid the ice box, now the problem is slightly different, as hot food, satisfying but still simple, is in demand. Here's a dish that just seems to fit the bill: the broiled wienies and hot potato salad pictured above. Of course, hot potato salad with wienies is an old favorite but there's a touch of something new in the wienies broiled with cheese and the green beans around the potato salad to add a touch of color. *Broiled Wienies.

Lynn Says:

Here are a few quick snack ideas you'll like to paste in your notebook: Baked beans garnished with brown bread, cream cheese sandwiches, placed around the bean pot. You might try the canned baked beans with sliced ham, too. It's quick, easy and delicious. Toasted buns with hamburgers, cheeseburgers, or ham and cheese slices go over nicely. too. Toasted English muffins with an egg fried or poached with ham are high in favor.

of spaghetti and so on until all sauce, cheese and spaghetti is used. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate (350degree) oven.

Another tomato-meat dish which is guaranteed to be aces with your guests dropping in after a basketball game, sleigh ride or what-haveyou is this:

Tamale Pie. (Serves 8)

medium-sized onion, chopped tablespoons oil 1½ pounds beef, cut in cubes teaspoon salt tablespoon chili powder large can tomatoes (21/2 cups) cup yellow bantam corn 1½ cups corn meal 5 cups boiling water teaspoon salt 1/4 cup grated cheese Brown onion in oil, then add beef and cook until brown. Add salt, chili powder, tomatoes and corn and cook slowly 1 hour. Add corn meal to salted water and cook 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool mush, then line buttered casserole dish with a 1-inch layer of the mush. Pour in meat-vegetable mixture, then top with remaining mush. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 11/4 hours. During last quarter hour, sprinkle top with cheese. Serve with a sauce made by heating one can of tomato soup to which has been added 1 can of ripe, pitted olives. Are you one of those homemakers who is always looking for one dish that can be modified and yet seem to be different every time it's served. I think baked beans is one of those dishes, and because of its hearty appeal you can serve it often, Bean and Sausage Bake.

(Serves 4) 1 small onion, sliced 1/2 pound link sausage

1 can baked beans 1 tablespoon pickle relish 1 tablespoon chili sauce

Place onion on bottom of casserole and lay sausage on top of onion. Bake in a moderate oven 15 minutes, then drain off excess fat. Combine beans with onion, sausage, pickle relish and chili sauce. Return to oven for 20 minutes to reheat. If you have only eggs, don't ever despair for they have excellent possibilities as snacks. Try scrambled eggs with cheese, bacon fried crisp and brown and crumbled, or broiled sausages. Omelets made with a slice of American cheese before they're folded are menu tempters, as are omelets made with a tomato sauce folded over them before serv-
