May we especially give thanks for His all-wise guidance that has kept our country at peace with all the World, and to implore His aid and assistance in helping us to maintain that peace at home, and aid us in our efforts to establish the principles of peace of Nations now at war.

May He grant us that material prosperity, commensurate with our ability and inclination to use for His glory and for the benefits of those, who by reason of adversity, are in want. It is hoped that all business, so far as possible, will be suspended that day.

Assigned a quota of $6.50 as O'Donnell's part of the Junior Red Cross, school students here went "over the top" with a bang and poured $18.60, according to Mrs. Lenore Tunnell, county chairman.

Both pupils of the High school and grades participated.

O'Donnell Lagging In RC Memberships

O'Donnell is lagging in Red Cross memberships, so far as the quota assigned is concerned, according to C. H. Doak, local chairman, and "hard work" will be necessary to bring O'Donnell's part to par.

As in past years, O'Donnell was given a quota of $150.00, and $108.00 had been raised late Wednesday when Doak left for a trip to Abilene.

The local chairman is hopeful, however, that those who have not secured memberships will do so at once. They may leave the money at the bank, and it will be allocated to the Red Cross fund. Only a small percent of the money raised in the county is sent elsewhere, contrary to general opinion.

MAGAZINE SECTION OF PRESS READS "INDEX"

As you have noticed, the outside magazine section reads O'Donnell Index instead of Press. The former newspaper, purchased by the Press, used this section as a feature, and a change in the printing of the heading occurred when sent in too late for this week. The sections are printed several weeks ahead.

Youth Is Jailed For Car Theft

TAHOKA, Nov. 20 (Special)—A youth, probably not more than 17 or 18 years of age, giving his name as Ray Hanna and his residence as Ohio, was arrested by Lubbock officers Tuesday morning on the northern outskirts of that city while trying to make his getaway with a car which he had stolen near Tahoka an hour or two earlier. He was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Ed Sanders of this city who placed the youth in the Lynn county jail.

The car, said to be a 1933 Chevrolet, was stolen from a cotton picker, who gave his name as Harold Dunlap, out a few miles east of Tahoka. Upon missing his car, Dunlap notified the Sheriff's office here, and Mr. Sanders got busy on the telephone, resulting in the arrest of the young fellow as above stated.

GUEST DAY PROGRAM GIVEN BY STUDY CLUB

Mrs. Fay Westmoreland was hostess Wednesday for a guest day program for members and guests of the 1939 Study Club.

Guests were greeted by the hostess and Mesdames Ben Moore Sr. and John Earles served punch, canapes and mints in the dining room. Mrs. A. W. Gibbs gave piano selections.

The program was given in the form of a fashion review with Mrs. Burley Brewer commentator and fashions modeled by members. The costumes went back to 1888 and then on up to the modern ones.

Those modeling were Mesdames Wells, Boyd, Moore, Koeninger, Earles, Hagood, Shoemaker, Bowlin, Carroll, Wells, McLaurin, Middleton, and Howard.

Mrs. E. T. Wells modeled a "dress up" dress of 1888 that belonged to Mrs. Burley Brewer's mother, it was complete with bustle, basque, gored skirt, fur neck piece and muff.

Mrs. B. J. Boyd appeared charming in the wedding dress of Mrs. J. P. Bowlin, a lovely creation of white satin and lace.

Others were costumed in "what used" to be the height of fashion.

Mrs. Leath Higginbotham was a guest, also Mrs. J. T. Routh of Ballinger, and Mrs. Lenore Tunnell of Tahoka were out of town guests. There were about thirty five present.

Congressional Neutrality Act Revision Permits Armed U. S. Merchant Ships To Sail Through Belligerent Zones; U. S. Faces Serious Labor Situation

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Everyone in Soviet Russia is learning the soldier's trade these days. Even the students in school. Here an instructor is shown teaching secondary school students methods of bayonet fighting. Note that girls as well as boys are present for instruction in this class.

NEUTRALITY: Revision Complete

When the house voted 212 to 194 to permit the arming of U. S. merchant ships and allow them to sail through war zones into ports of nations at war it amounted to a repeal of the neutrality act's main provisions. For as the senate had already adopted the same measure, the administration's battle on this vital issue was over.

As a vote neared on the measure a warning came from President Roosevelt that its defeat would be evidence to Hitler that "the United States is disunited." For a while there were strong indications of a Democratic revolt in the house, as many members were reported to be demanding a firmer presidential stand on defense strikes in return for "going along" with the Roosevelt foreign policy.

When the President's warning, in the form of a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn, was read before the house, it was inferred that assurances were being given that the strike situation would be dealt with and many members were reported to have then fallen in behind the White House revision plans.

Marked by a hectic battle on the issue, the principal fight centered repeal of the combat zone and belligerent port provisions. For shipping arming had already been approved by the house and senate tacked on the controversial provision when it passed the broader bill and returned it to the house for concurrence.

GERMANS: Fighting Front

Frank admissions from Berlin that the attack on Russia was entirely stalled no longer had been withheld as the Germans were finding it necessary to explain to the people the failure of their armies to capture Leningrad, Moscow or the defenses in the Donetz basin.

German press announcements blamed entirely the weather. It also was claimed that the Russian defenses, especially around Moscow, were based on the knowledge that the German mechanized army could not operate over fields and through woods on a terrain covered with snow and rain.

One communique said: "This has forced us to use roads instead of traveling cross-country, and these roads are literally minefields, especially the shoulders."

The defenses around Moscow were described as extremely powerful and intricate, including subterranean tank garages from which Red tanks would dash directly into battle and then circle and re-enter their "bunkers" after firing a few shots, and before the German attacking forces could organize their defense.

This system really gave the Russians movable fortifications. The German communique also said they were encountering flame throwers so concealed in the ground that only the nozzles were showing, and which could be operated from a considerable distance with devastating effect.

The Russians thus have been able to hold back the Nazi attack, Berlin frankly admitted, though it was claimed that at one point the assault had reached within 31 miles of the borders of Moscow.

Nothing was said about Russian claims that her troops were actually taking the offensive at many points.

FINNS: To Continue

Finland, in a lengthy reply to Secretary Hull's message urging withdrawal from the war against Russia, had politely rejected the plea of the United States, and, in effect, said that her objectives were not yet accomplished.

Thus the pressure from the hard-fighting and winter-acustomed Finns had continued on Russia's northern front, keeping a big portion of the Red's planes and armies in action, and complicating her defense.

BRITISH: Loss

Loss of the aircraft carrier Ark Royal was admitted by the British who said that the craft (claimed many times as being sunk by the Nazis) had been torpedoed in the Mediterranean east of Gibraltar. The 22,000 ton floating airfield was sunk while in tow after a submarine torpedo had struck her.

STRIKES: Galore

Highlighting the news of a troubled labor situation in the United States was the strike called for December 7, by 350,000 operating employees of the nation's railway systems.

The American Federation of Labor trades in San Diego, 2,000 members of which had walked out, crippling navy and marine defense projects, went back to work.

At the same time the C.I.O. chieftains in the coal dispute in the captive mines walked out of the conference, and it began to look as though the army would have to take over and operate the mines.

In the steel-coal-mine strike, however, after a quadruple plea by President Roosevelt to John L. Lewis had temporarily halted the threatened walkout of 53,000 workers and had sent them back to work pending negotiations before the national mediation board, trouble developed as soon as the board decided adversely to the closed shop demand.

Lewis had set his deadline, and only three days before that time the board, on which Philip Murray and other C.I.O. chieftains were sitting, declined to vote the closed shop. Murray and his aides had announced that they were quitting.

WAR: And Mr. Welles

Administration forces saw the approach of America's entry into actual hostilities as closer, not because of repeal of the neutrality act's main restrictive paragraphs, but as a result of increased pressure on this country by Japan and Germany.

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, and President Roosevelt himself, in their Armistice day addresses, had issued most solemn warnings.

Mr. Welles, in particular, said: "Another war may be forced on the United States at any moment by Japan or Germany."

"The tides are running fast. The heart-searching question every American citizen must ask himself is whether the world in which we have to live would have come to this desperate pass had the United States been willing in those years which followed 1919 to play its full part in striving to bring about a new world order based on justice and on a steadfast concert for peace."

He said that President Wilson, dying five years after he had laid the groundwork of such co-operative effort, "was laid to rest amid the apathy and the sneers of those of his opponents who had, through appeal to ignorance, to passion and to prejudice, temporarily persuaded the people to reject Wilson's plea that the influence, the resources and the power of the United States be exercised for their own security and their own advantage, through our participation in an association of nations for peace."

And Secretary Knox told a Providence audience that "the hour of decision is here," and that the nation should maintain itself in "instant readiness for defense." Of the Japanese situation, he said: "We have co-operated with every liberal and peace-loving element in Japan and we are still ready to co-operate."

"We have been patient while our rights have been violated. We are moved and actuated in the Pacific, no less than in the Atlantic, solely by considerations of self-defense."

Speaker Rayburn Signs War-Zone Act

Speaker of the house, Sam Rayburn, is shown signing neutrality act revision measure shortly after it had passed the house with the amendment allowing armed U. S. merchant ships to enter war zones. The bill passed by a vote of 212 to 194, after one of the fiercest undercover battles for votes ever waged in congress. Those who were for and against the bill got together at the signing. Photo shows, left to right: Patrick J. Boland of Pennsylvania, house Democratic Whip (for); Rep. John W. McCormack, majority leader of the house (for); Speaker Sam Rayburn (for); Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia (against) and Rep. Lansdale G. Sasser of Maryland (against).

Ambassador Meets Yanks in Britain

On a recent visit to the camp of the Sixtieth Rifles (King's royal rifles) of the British army, John G. Winant, American ambassador to Great Britain, met five Americans who had enlisted in the regiment. Ambassador Winant is shown here (right) chatting with the Yankee volunteers who have cast their lot with Britain.

Biggest Naval Bomber Launched

The world's largest flying boat, the navy's new 67-ton four-engine patrol bomber, slipped down the ways at the Glenn L. Martin plane plant at Baltimore, Md., in colorful ceremonies heretofore reserved for surface vessels. The ship is capable of carrying a bomb load to Europe and return, non-stop. Mrs. Artemus L. Gates, wife of the assistant secretary of the navy for air, was sponsor of the ship which was christened "Mars." Many notable personages, including Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief, Bureau of Aeronautics, U. S. navy, were present at the ceremony. Photo shows the huge aerial battleship after the launching.

Over the Hill Lie Russian Troops

In the lee of a hill a motorized division is awaiting the command to attack the Russian positions on the other side, somewhere in the U.S.S.R. Infantrymen, not shown, were used in collaboration with the panzers in this attack on Russia's mighty mechanized army which has been making a heroic effort to stop the onrushing Nazi war machine.

Jail Campaign

Former Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis, serving a nine-month sentence for criminal libel at Newburyport, Mass., bested a five-man field in Newburyport's mayoralty campaign. The jailed candidate, whose campaign was conducted by his wife, Louise, polled 1,850 votes. He is shown here at the Middleton county jail coal pile.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander:

The Story Tellers: The Satevepost is publishing so-called humorous stuff from Wodehouse, who wrote it between licks at Nazi boots. Humor that comes out of that form of environment doesn't make you laugh. It makes you shiver. . . . If you want a note of thanks from your mind—let it drink Willie's smarticle in Reader's Digest. It's common-sensational. . . . William Allen White's tug-at-the-hearticle in the same issue is a "must," too. . . . James W. Barrett's exciting book, "Joseph Pulitzer and His World," quotes the great publisher as saying: "Every reporter is a hope, every editor is a disappointment."

The Confession of the Week: H. Allen Smith in the Nov. Cosmopolitan: "And talk about your gossip. Why, we've raised gossip to a fine art in New York. We put it in the papers and pay the experts fabulous sums of money. And I love it. I've always loved gossip. So have you. Maybe you won't admit it. Maybe you'll say gossip is not polite, not noble. But don't try to tell me you stop up your ears or run or hide in the cellar when someone begins whispering about the thing Joe Schwog's wife did at Fred Phlebby's party Saturday night." It was Friday night.

Haw! Buddy Clarke of the Park Central's Coconut Grove relays the silly-dilly about the little boy who was run over by a steamroller while playing in the street. He was flattened like a pancake. A passerby picked him up and brought him to the child's mother on the third floor. "What is it?" she yelled in response to his knock. "Your son," he replied, "he's been run over by a steamroller—ac's all flattened out!" "Well," the mother grumbled, "I'm not dressed. You'd better slip him under the door."

Man About Town: New York's Horatio Alger Jr.: Marvin Schenck, the talent scout, likes hamburgers. So the other day, while munching on one in a Sixth Avenue beany, he noticed a youth who impressed him as the "most typical good-looking young American" he had ever seen. . . . The chap's clothes indicated he could use a job. . . . Schenck introduced himself and took him to MGM's Broadway offices, where a producer ejaculated: "That's the handsomest guy in New York and Hollywood!" . . . After an ordinary camera test, it was rushed to the Coast. . . . Magnate Mayer of MGM telephoned and ordered "the new find" rushed West. . . . On Friday, then, Jim Wittlig, 6 foot 4 nephew of Uncle Sam (who only the other day was hunting for a job on Sixth Avenue) will be riding in class out to Hollywood with a year's MGM contract. His build-up will be "Movieland's No. 1 Hero."

Henny Youngman would have you believe that this happened in Berlin. . . . A storm trooper carelessly stepped on the foot of one of Youngman's relatives trapped in Germany. . . . It so infuriated him he socked the trooper right on the nose. . . . His pal took a sock at him, too. . . . For which they were arrested. . . . In court the judge asked the defendant why he hit the Nazi. "Judge," said the man, "he stepped on my foot, the one with the corn, and it hurt me. I lost my temper and hit him." "Your friend had a reason," said the judge to the other fellow, "why did you hit this storm trooper?" "I thought," was the retort, "it was being allowed again."

Then there's the one about the visitor to Berlin who asked a native: "Is it true that Germans are eating horsemeat?" "Ah," said the Nazi, "those were the good old days!"

Jean Sablon overheard a couple of songwriters on Broadway. . . . "Let's go to Carnegie Hall," said one, "they're playing a Tschalkovsky piece nobody's swiped yet!" . . . Just before the Network-Ascap war ended, the song-writer group was boasting: "They'll be coming around our way. We've got them crawling on our knees!" . . . How to Make Your Table-For-Two Companion Feel Sappier: Ask her if she knows the meaning of the word "Twip". . . . When she says she doesn't know, tell her it's a wide on a twain.

Typewriter Ribbons: Robert Quillen: The press has the right to be free; but the more free it is, the less right it has to be wrong. . . . Osborne Enterprise: A critic is a person who knows more than you know and wants you to know he knows it. . . . Anon: She drove me to drink, the one thing I am indebted to her for. . . . Ed Howe: Make a woman mad and she is no more polite than a man. . . . Marjorie B. Greenbie: Beautiful young people are accidents of nature. But beautiful old people are works of art.

Panholders Make Interesting News

PANHOLDER time is here—as transfer Z9364 illustrates. Two cute kittens with perky bows, a sunbonnet girl and her straw hat playmate, two cages holding applique birds, and a demure maid with full panholder skirts—these are for kitchen decoration and your protection.

It all had turned out so differently from what she had expected. You would think that Larry was in the habit of making calls and having ten-thousand-dollar gifts returned to him.

"I saw Vince a little while after dinner," Jacqueline said, for want of something better to say. Larry brightened perceptibly.

"Did you? I saw him a few minutes this afternoon myself. Looks like a chipper, don't you think?"

Honeymoon

By JOSEPH McCORD W.N.U. Service

THE STORY SO FAR: Larry Cutter startled pretty Jacqueline (Jack) Anthony, public stenographer at the Hotel Raynear, by telling her she can realize her globe-trotting ambitions by marrying him.

Jacqueline hurried to the wardrobe and commenced burrowing into a hiding place she had contrived. She was glad to escape for a moment.

Larry accepted it silently. He stared at the envelope for a moment, one of his fingers toying with the stout rubber band that circled it.

"Thanks," he said. "Was there anything else . . . in particular?" "No . . . But we're still friends, aren't we?" "Sure."

"I suppose not . . . but I'll miss him."

"Naturally. After spending every evening with him. I still think it would be a good idea for you to go up there with him for a little time.

"Thank you, but I must stay here and attend to business."

"I suppose so. You're the busy member of the family. What about running up some Sunday to see Vince after he gets settled? Then you wouldn't worry about him. I'll be glad to drive you up."

"That might be very nice."

"Then it's settled."

Anyone would conclude, to see Larry lounging there so comfortably in that chair, that everything was "settled."

And it wasn't at all. Life merely had slipped back where it was, or nearly so. Jacqueline Anthony was married, but all there was to show for it was a ridiculous contract and a wedding ring.

Gone, too, the alluring dreams of travel. In the first excitement of the adventure, Jacqueline had allowed herself to associate those bonds with that longed-for "crossing."

"I didn't stop to eat dinner to-night," she said impulsively. "Just had a sandwich and a glass of milk on my way to the hospital. I think I'll make some coffee. Won't you have some with me?"

"Sure!" Larry sat upright. Activity in the kitchenette served to ease the tension for Jacqueline, although she could not help contrasting the situation with that other little dinner party.

He remained until nearly midnight, apologizing contritely for the lateness of his departure when he signed a contract providing that Jacqueline may continue her present mode of living for six months, after which she could tear up the contract.

caught up his hat and made ready to go. "Oh, by the way, Jack . . ." He said that at the door, as if it were something that very nearly had escaped his mind.

CHAPTER X

True to his suggestion, Larry arranged to take Vince to the country the following Monday morning. It was something of a shock to Jacqueline when she found her patient dressed and sitting in a chair when she called Sunday afternoon.

"It doesn't seem fair," Jacqueline attempted to say it lightly. "I no more than find you, than you're running off again. I believe you're glad to go away and leave me."

"No, I'm not," Vince said it thoughtfully. "It's been nice . . . You're a lot like your mother, Skipper."

"Am I?" "Yes . . . I never noticed it before, somehow. That's why I'm anxious to get away now. I know I'm going to make good this time. And then I can start doing things for you . . . the things I should have done."

"Of course you're going to make good, Vince," she said presently.

"We were here before!" she exclaimed.

"And, best of all, you're going to get strong and well. I quite envy you your chance of being out in the country away from all the noise and dirt here."

"Larry said he'd bring you up to see me some time. You'll come, won't you?" "I expect so."

The next morning, Jacqueline felt a peculiar sense of loss. It was difficult to think of Vince anywhere except in his little room at South Side hospital. Instead, he was off on an excursion . . . he and Larry.

Larry must have decided to stay up at the farm for a few days. It was not until Wednesday afternoon that he came into the office.

"Is Vince all right?" was her eager question, before Larry had time to seat himself.

"Fine. I hung around part of two days to get him settled. He and Mrs. Brown took to each other like old pals. She'll see that he has everything he needs. You needn't worry. Can you take a few letters?" "I'm waiting."

The letters finished and read, Larry gravely paid his bill and made ready to leave.

"If you're not in a hurry, I'd like to ask you more about Vince."

"Think it's safe?" he asked teasingly. "I'm sorry. Please go."

watching him. When her father, Vince Anthony, became ill, Larry invited him into the country. Because she felt she had sold herself, Jacqueline prepared to return the money he had given her.

highway that led to Terryville. The road of memories. "We were here before!" she exclaimed, not realizing how pointless it must sound.

"So you recognize it?" Larry laughed over his shoulder. "I wish we were going to do it all over again. But we're not going to Terryville this time," he added hastily, seeing a warning glint in her eyes.

Then he volunteered some information about the farm. Mrs. Brown was a widow and had two sons and a daughter. The boys did the work on the place. Larry thought they were in comfortable circumstances.

"Through Rannie. I told him I was looking for a quiet place, you know. Seems he used to spend his vacations with the Browns when he was a kid. The place is just made to order for . . . us."

Jacqueline was forced to agree when she saw the comfortable farmstead, met the cheery owner and her healthy trio of children. They greeted her in friendly fashion and left her to be entertained by her father.

"A man has to be in good shape to tackle one of Mother Brown's dinners," he explained.

He had a large, bright room on the ground floor. Best of all, the boys had supplied him with a work bench and unpacked all his cherished gadgets. Larry, it appeared, was quartered on the floor above.

Vince explained, "so that I wouldn't have to climb the stairs. He says he's coming up to stay before long. Then we're going to get to work on something he has in mind. I hate to slow up on my invention right now, but if I can do something to help make expenses, I'd better do it. I want to pay my own way as soon as I can."

"Of course. What sort of work is Mr. Cutter going to have you do?" "I don't know exactly. He says he's working on something, and that he's sure my experience will come in handy. He's an engineer."

Larry's prediction about the dinner, served early in the afternoon, was more than correct. Jacqueline quite gave herself up to the delights of home cooking. Stewed chicken in rich gravy, with vegetables fresh from the garden. An imposing array of jellies, pickles and preserves.

After the meal, she insisted that she be allowed to assist with the dishes. "Just to keep me from going into a coma," she explained. But her offers were smilingly refused. She had come all the way from the city to see her father. The two of them must "visit."

Accordingly, Jacqueline found herself reclining in a steamer chair under an oak tree, fighting off a delicious drowsiness as she listened to Vince's account of proposed work, riches, travel. He lay in a hammock close by, giving his dreams free range.

By fall, he and the Skipper should be ready to go places. This was to be one winter when there would be no snow or cold weather for either of them. It ought to be pretty decent down around the Mediterranean. He always had an idea he'd like to see Africa, too. Had the Skipper ever read any of those ads about round-the-world trips?

"Lots of times." Vince chuckled suddenly. "What a fraud you are, Skipper!" The blue eyes opened wide. "What do you mean, Vince?" "You know. Talking so innocently to your old dad about 'Mr. Cutter' this and 'Mr. Cutter' that!"

"I don't know what you mean." Jacqueline sat up with a jerk. "Sure you don't?" Vince chuckled delightedly. "Come now . . . why didn't you tell me what you two kids had been up to?"

The color slowly left Jacqueline's face as she stared at her father. "Will you please tell me just what you mean?" she asked in a low voice.

The quizzical smile on Vince's face vanished. He shifted uncomfortably in his hammock and stole an apprehensive glance in the direction of the house.

"I mean that Larry's head over heels in love with you. He told me so," Vince added defensively. "And did he tell you that I was in love with him?"

"He didn't have to. I got eyes. I couldn't imagine you, or any other girl in her right mind, turning down a chap like Larry."

My Week by Eleanor Roosevelt

PLEDGE AGAINST WASTE

I have taken the pledge which Miss Harriett Elliott is asking all house-holders in the country to take during civilian defense week.

Knowing quite well that, in the White House, it would be impossible for either Mrs. Nesbitt or me to sign this pledge honestly without the co-operation of the whole White House staff, I asked all those who were on duty to meet me.

I explained its meaning, particularly in not wasting anything. I urged them all to sign the pledge individually when it comes out, and to try to live up to it in the White House. I hope, also, that they will persuade their own families to join with us.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSE

We hope very shortly to have a correspondence course available in the Office of Civilian Defense. It is a fairly simple study on nutrition and the duty of the consumer.

COST OF LIVING

I had some quite appalling news on the rise in the cost of living last week. The average housewife must now spend 14 per cent more money for the food she will need for the family dinner than she did a year ago.

Table with 3 columns: Item, 1940, 1941, Increase %

In other staple products, the prices have gone up very considerably also. For instance, here is a table which may interest you.

Table with 3 columns: Item, 1940, 1941, Increase %

The greater part of these increases occurred since last February, and in October of this year prices were still rising. Some of these prices should undoubtedly have increased, particularly if the increase reflects itself in the farmer's pocket.

HYDE PARK VISIT

Miss Thompson and I caught the 4:30 plane one day for New York city. We were joined there by Mrs. Helm, and after dining at the house, drove up to Hyde Park.

It was raining fairly hard, but I liked the sound of it as I sat on my porch and rejoiced in the country quiet. I was sorry, however, to wake to a gray day and steady downpour the next day in spite of the fact that we need rain badly.

At 10 o'clock, I met the prime minister of Canada, Mr. Mackenzie King, and Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, with her two children, at the Poughkeepsie station. They settled down very quickly, and at 12 o'clock, our two small granddaughters, Sara and Kate Roosevelt, who are staying with friends in Rhinebeck, came down to lunch with the two little Princesses.

The rest of us, with the addition of Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau, and several girls and their friends from Vassar, intended to have an outdoor picnic, but we ended by using the next playroom. It proved a great success and after lunch we sat around the fire and asked the President, the prime minister and the secretary of the treasury, innumerable questions.

We all argued with each other, which always brings out many points of view. Since Vassar is at present having a conference on the post-war world, there was much talk of both present and future defense. The rain was forgotten and I think, perhaps, it even added to the sense of companionship, for a gray outer world makes one all the more conscious of a fire and cheerfulness within.

After tea at the big house, the Vassar guests were taken back to college. We had no guests for dinner and the President and the prime minister settled down to a long talk.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world, the feeling of being adequately prepared.

When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an old toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

Chicken a la King for Fifty (See Recipes Below.)

Church Supper Ideas

What is so gay as a grand, big get-together full of informal fun, the hum of pleasant conversation and plenty of good food thrown into the bargain? A church supper, of course!

The fun will take care of itself and the food—well, almost if you get the right amount of it, for the cooking's as simple as only simple can be. Chicken's a treat any way you serve it, but very easy to prepare and serve if you do it this time-tried, old-fashioned, favorite way ladled out of a big kettle with plenty of cream sauce onto feathery light hot biscuits:

- *Chicken or Turkey a la King. (Serves 50) 4 4-pound chickens, stewed, then cut meat into pieces Or 1 18-pound turkey, stewed or roasted, meat diced 1 pound fat (chicken or turkey fat and butter mixed) 4 cups flour 2 gallons scalded milk 1 pound fresh mushrooms or 2 large cans 2 tablespoons minced onion 1 1/2 teaspoons more salt 3/4 teaspoon white pepper 1 1/2 teaspoons paprika 2 sweet green peppers, chopped (optional) 2 pimientos, chopped (optional) 1/2 cup egg yolks (6 eggs)

Melt about three-fourths of the fat, add the flour, and blend thoroughly; add scalded milk, stirring rapidly with a wire whisk to keep well mixed. Cook until starch taste is gone—about 10 minutes. Cook the mushrooms, sliced, in remaining fat, until delicately browned and add to sauce with the onion. Beat egg yolks and mix with a small amount of the hot mixture to blend and add to the sauce, stirring thoroughly. Cook 4 or 5 minutes more. Add turkey meat. Season to taste (with paprika and pepper mixed into salt). Add peppers and pimiento, if used. Serve on hot biscuits.

The simplest way to prepare the chickens is to cook them in seasoned water, to which a small onion, 2 carrots and a small bunch of celery are added. Chickens are handled best if disjointed and the breast and back sections cut into convenient-sized pieces.

- Baking Powder Biscuits. (Serves 50) 4 pounds flour 3/4 cup double-acting baking powder 2 tablespoons salt 1 pound shortening (2 1/2 cups) 5 cups milk Sift the dry ingredients together, add fat and mix lightly. Make a well in the center and add the milk.

LYNN SAYS:

Attractive salads pep up meals besides adding nourishment plus to menus. Salads in winter are a little hard to plan because of the scarcity of fresh fruits and vegetables, so I suggest you try these for solving your salad problem: Prunes stuffed with cream cheese and nuts, served with orange sections and lettuce. Cooked beets and cooked carrots diced with celery, mixed with mayonnaise. Orange sections served with tiny cream cheese balls. Marinate oranges in french dressing first.

Canned pineapple and fresh oranges served in alternate sections on lettuce. Alternating orange and grapefruit sections are a good idea, too. Chunks of lettuce with crumbled hard-cooked egg and a few leftover peas, tossed together with salad oil, salt, pepper, vinegar.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- *Chicken a la King *Scalloped Potatoes *Sunset Salad Bread and Butter Assorted Cakes *Coffee

*Recipe given

Mix just until the dough holds together. Divide dough into fourths and make 1/4 at a time. Roll on a floured board, pat to 1/2 inch thickness, cut and place on baking sheet. Bake 12 to 15 minutes in a hot (450 degree) oven until golden brown.

- *Scalloped Potatoes. (Serves 50) 10 pounds (6 quarts) sliced potatoes 2 quarts hot milk 1/2 cup flour 1 1/2 cups butter 3 tablespoons salt 1 tablespoon pepper

Peel potatoes before weighing. Before measuring, peel and slice. If large, cut in two lengthwise before slicing. Into six baking dishes put a layer of potato, then a slight layer of flour, and repeat until all potatoes are used. Dissolve salt, pepper and butter in hot milk. Pour over potatoes, cover and cook in slow oven for 1 1/2 hours or until done.

Best idea for a salad is this one that's made in advance and needs only to be sliced and placed on lettuce leaves for serving. It's as gay and colorful as the get-together itself.

- *Sunset Salad. 18 ounces lemon gelatin 2 1/2 quarts hot water and canned pineapple juice 1 1/2 quarts grated raw carrots 1 1/2 pints canned crushed pineapple, drained 2 teaspoons salt Dissolve gelatin in hot water and pineapple juice which has been heated to 130 degrees F. Chill. Combine carrots, pineapple and salt. When mixture is slightly thickened, fold in carrot and pineapple mixture. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise and grated carrots. Makes 32 portions.

Just in case you want to make up a church supper menu of your own, I'm listing additional recipes:

- Meat Loaf. 10 pounds ground round steak 2 pounds ground pork or salt pork 4 eggs 1/2 pound bread crumbs 2 onions 2 tablespoons salt 2 teaspoons pepper 1 quart cold mashed potatoes 1 quart milk or canned tomatoes Mix thoroughly, mold into five loaves, and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees F., until done. Makes 50 servings.

- *Boiled Coffee. (Serves 50) 1 1/4 pounds coffee (6 1/4 cups) 2 1/2 gallons water 2 eggs Mix shells, whole eggs and 1 additional cup of cold water with coffee. When the water comes to a boil, add the coffee egg mixture which has been tied in a bag, to the boiling water, and boil for 3 to 5 minutes. Test for strength. When ready, remove bag, let coffee stand 10 to 15 minutes before serving.

The wife of one of our famous football coaches, Mrs. Lou Little, likes to serve a simple but hearty meal after the game. Jot this one down as an idea for an after the game supper or church supper idea: Hot mulled cider, casserole of pork and beans, buttered hot date-nut bread, celery, pickles, and chili sauce; jellied cole slaw; doughnuts and coffee.

For the casserole, use canned pork and beans with tomato sauce; heat in the oven about 20 minutes. As a decoration use half slices of date-nut bread. Put them around the top of the beans for 5 minutes before the casserole comes out from the oven. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PRAYER AND THANKSGIVING

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:5-15; Ephesians 5:20; 1 Thessalonians 5:16-18. GOLDEN TEXT—Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks.—1 Thessalonians 5:17, 18.

Being one with Christ, the Christian finds prayer to be as natural as breathing. As he walks with the Master he talks with Him, praises Him, thanks Him, makes his petitions and his needs known to Him. We feel, however, like Christ's disciples who asked Him to teach them to pray (Luke 11:1).

I. Instruction in Prayer

Approaching the subject from the negative viewpoint, Jesus told them

1. How Not to Pray (Matt. 6:5, 7). Prayer, which is the highest privilege of the Christian, is beset by some deadly dangers.

a. No hypocritical performance (v. 5). Some who wished to be seen in prayer managed to be in a conspicuous place at the Jewish hours of prayer (nine, twelve, and three o'clock). There, before a crowd, they put on a "show" for the benefit of the onlooking audience. Such a prayer is designed for the ears of men and never reaches God.

b. No vain repetition (v. 7). We do not need to repeat our petitions. God knows our need (v. 8). When repetition is the outpouring of an earnest and urgent heart it means much, but that is different from just repeating phrases.

2. How to Pray (Matt. 6:8, 14, 15; Eph. 5:20; 1 Thess. 5:16-18). Public prayer is sometimes both necessary and proper, but usually our prayer should be a. In secret (v. 6). When we pray we should be free from distracting influences or personalities. We are talking to God and should give ourselves entirely over to communion with Him.

b. In faith (vv. 6, 8). God knows what we need even though He waits to be inquired of concerning it. He will answer prayer so as to honor His name in our lives and in our testimony before others.

c. With forgiveness (vv. 14, 15). No one who comes before God with an unforgiving spirit toward his brother is ready to ask God for the forgiveness which he himself so greatly needs.

d. With thanksgiving (Eph. 5:20). To give thanks is altogether fitting as we come to God in prayer. Note that we are to be thankful "always" and "for all things," not just when some special blessing or favor has come to us.

e. Without ceasing (1 Thess. 5:16-18). Union with Christ enables us to pray without ceasing, even as He ever prays for us. This does not call for the constant utterance of words, but the moment by moment prayer of a heart and life lifted to Him. With such praying comes constant rejoicing (v. 16).

II. A Model of Prayer (Matt. 6:9-13)

The prayer which our Lord taught His disciples was intended to be a model rather than a form of prayer. We may repeat it, however, if we put into it the prayer of our hearts.

1. God and His Glory (vv. 9, 10). Recognizing Him as our Father to whom we may and must come for all things, we in all humility ascribe all honor to Him. Then we pray that His kingdom may come, not only in the future (and we look forward to it!), but now, in our own hearts. The true believer wants the will of God done in his own life and throughout the earth, even as it is perfectly done in heaven.

This prayer begins at the proper point. A right relationship with God brings true blessing on earth. The one who prays is now ready to present to God

2. Man and His Needs (vv. 11-13). Daily bread is mentioned first, for without it life could not continue. This is the constant need of man, and his great struggle. God is able for that problem, and only He is able. Unless He gives "seed to the sower and bread to the eater" (Isa. 55:10) we are gone.

But man has even greater spiritual needs. Sin needs forgiveness, weakness needs strength, the power of the enemy of our souls calls for deliverance. Again God is able and ready to hear man's prayer.

One of the sad things about the study of prayer is that we are all so ready to talk about it, discuss it, even preach about it, and then do so little praying. Knowing how to pray, and admiring a model of prayer, will profit us nothing, unless we pray.

Good Work Never Fails

So, then, Elijah's life had been no failure after all. Seven thousand at least in Israel had been braced and encouraged by his example, and silently blessed him, perhaps, for the courage which they felt. In God's world, for those who are in earnest there is no failure. No work truly done, no word earnestly spoken, no sacrifice freely made, was ever made in vain.—F. W. Robertson.

Aged Joe Bailey Lady Is Dead

TAHOKA, Nov. 20 (Special)—Few persons indeed live to the advanced age of ninety years. But that was the privilege of Mrs. Sallie Ann Arnold, mother of Mrs. Lonnie Williams of the Joe Bailey community, who died at the home of her daughter at 2:30 o'clock last Saturday morning at the age of ninety years and nine months, having been born on February 16, 1851.

Funeral services were conducted at the Harris Funeral home here at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. B. G. Richburg of Big Spring officiating.

Immediately following the funeral rites, W. O. Robertson left with the body in a hearse for Chriesman, Burleson county, former home of the aged woman, for interment. Following the hearse were Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Williams, in whose home Mrs. Arnold had been living, for the past 11 years, their daughter, Mrs. Jessie Russ, a teacher in the Draw public school, and a nephew, Charlie Beckham. Mrs. Edna Holt of Brownfield, a daughter of deceased, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lucas of Sweetwater, Mrs. Lucas also being a daughter, and by the officiating minister, Rev. Richburg.

A second funeral service was held in the Methodist Church in Chriesman at 2:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. Richburg again officiating, for the benefit of numerous relatives and friends there, who filled the church to overflowing. Relatives were there from Waco, Rosebud, Houston, Somerville, Rogers, and several other towns in that part of the state. Following this service the body was interred in the cemetery there beside the grave of her husband, E. D. Arnold, who died in 1921.

Although Mrs. Arnold, whose maiden name was Sallie Ann Williams, was born in Mississippi, she was brought to Texas by her parents when she was only four years of age, and she spent eighty-six years of her life in this state, most of it in Burleson county. She was nine years old when the Civil War broke out, and although Texas was not so situated as to be in the thick of the fighting, yet she could remember much about the excitement and the privations of that conflict.

Soon after the war, on December 3, 1868, she was married to E. D. Arnold at Hooker's Prairie in Burleson county, and she continued to reside in that county until she came to Lynn county in 1930 to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Williams.

Six children were born of her marriage. One of them died in infancy, but five of them are still living. They are: Lee Arnold of Chriesman, Burleson county; Mrs. Edna Holt of Brownfield; Mrs. Tom Wright of Slaton; Mrs. J. M. Lucas of Sweetwater, and Mrs. Lonnie Williams.

All of them attended the funeral services here or at Chriesman, but Mrs. Wright of Slaton, herself being in poor health, did not follow the remains back to Chriesman.

Other survivors of the aged woman include two brothers and one sister, T. S. Williams of San Angelo, Mrs. Mary Trammell of Houston, and Green Williams of Houston, 20 grandchildren, 26 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Arnold had been a member of the Methodist Church ever since she was eighteen years of age. She was a true Christian and a noble character. Although blind the last five years of her life, she bore the ills incident to old age in a fine spirit, and left to her children and loved ones memories of a long life well spent.
