Trustees enter contract to save energy expenses

Iowa Park school trustees Tuesday night approved a contract with Energy Education, Inc., to initiate a plan expected to save as much as 25 percent of energy costs for the district.

The corporation's plan is to hire a staff educator as an energy educator/manager to put the program into place and monitor progress.

The four-year contract, according to corporation president Bill Spears, is projected to cost $96,461, but at the same time produce a net savings of $84,539 in "cost avoidance" from the projected costs.

Over a seven-year period, projections are that the total net savings will be $278,548, Spears said.

The projections were based on an analysis of past years energy expenditures.

During the four-year contract, the corporation is to be paid an annual fee of $23,400.

The energy educator/manager, through communication, is delegated to educate everyone that they are "energy savers, not just an energy user."

Should any determined period of the four years not result in the projected savings, Energy Education will write a check for the difference, Spears emphasized.

The local educator is to be named sometime in the near future, be trained by corporation personnel, and commence application of the program.

An explanation of a problem concerning a couple's movement to outside the school district was heard, but no action taken until the next board meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Brookshire explained they had moved from Iowa Park to Huntington Lane about two weeks earlier, and had been informed their children were not eligible to continue enrollment in the local schools.

The problem is, the Brookshires moved into a rented house on the east side of Huntington. The district's boundary extends only to the west side of that roadway, in the area where they live.

Supt. Glen Mitchell told the board the couple had provided the required paperwork to seek action by the board, and they would be on the next meeting's agenda.

Trustees approved acceptance of the resignation submitted by Candice McKee, high school English teacher, and also the hiring of Suzanne Ashlock, who has four years teaching experience, to fill the vacancy.

The board approved a motion to rescind action taken Sept. 15 to purchase computers, and at the same time to accept new bids submitted by the same firm, Computer and Software Library of Wichita Falls.

The new bid was for computers that were needed in classrooms, according to the instructors, at a cost of $35,768. The previous bid, by the same firm but for computers instructors said did not fit their needs, was for $35,113.

A bid on another computer, to be used in the high school library, also was approved. Submitted by Bowman Data Tech, it was for $2,469.

Classroom furniture bids submitted by Hoover Brothers also received trustee approval. The bid was for chairs, student desks, tables, chalkboards and storage shelf.

Bids submitted for tennis equipment - Total Sports for $1,036 for balls and $43 for ball carriers and $243 for nets by Wolverine Sports - were accepted.

The board approved rejection of bids from two suppliers whose equipment have demonstrated "poor performance." One is Sports Gear of San Antonio and the other L&D Supply of Arlington.

Authorization was approved to advertise for grazing rights on 23 acres of grass at the Valley View campus. Included in the specifications, swine are "specifically prohibited."

The district has been expending almost $1,000 annually to have the acreage mowed, trustees were told.

Transfers for seven students from the City View school district were approved.

Other actions taken by the board included:

- * approved junior high choir fundraiser to sell bagged Halloween candy again this year;

- * confirmed appointment of Linda Gray as chairperson for the Districtwide Educational Improvement Council;

- * approved committee appointments for the current year;

- * approved a one-year lease of personally-owned tools used by bus mechanic Tim Stewart, at a cost of $741.52;

- * set the regular cost per mile for transportation at $1.60, and $2.31 for handicapped mileage;

- * and also accepted transportation and tax reports.

Stolen vehicles recovered

Two stolen vehicles have been recovered and returned to their owners locally, according to the Iowa Park Police Dept.

They are a car taken last Wednesday morning from the 400 block of North Yosemite, and a four-wheel ATV taken Monday from the 700 block of Rebecca.

A 16-year-old local male juvenile was apprehended early Saturday morning by officers in Dumas with the stolen automobile. He reportedly was attempting to leave a business without paying for gasoline.

The youth was returned here Sunday, and taken to the county juvenile detention center.

The all terrain vehicle was taken from a garage about 10 p.m. Monday. A family member said the husband was at home at the time, lights were on, and the garage door closed with two other vehicles inside.

The man heard the garage door open, but believed it to be his wife returning from an evening bowling. A few minutes later, he checked, and saw an older-model pickup driving away, with the ATV in its bed.

County deputies spotted the vehicle the following afternoon at a residence on 77 Ranch Road. The resident explained he had purchased the vehicle the evening before.

It was confiscated and returned to the local owner. No charges have yet been filed against anyone, however, police believe.

Police are acting on a theory that the pickup's occupants also were involved in the theft of a flight bag from a storage container in a pickup, that same evening, in the 500 block of West Texas.

After the theft was reported, police received a call the next morning from a man who said he had found the bag, and its contents, abandoned in the yard of an unoccupied home in the 700 block of West Texas.

That location is believed to be the route taken by the pickup as it was headed to where the ATV was located.

Two other thefts were reported last week.

A business in the 400 block of West Park told police Thursday that someone had removed an ivy plant valued at more than $20.

Friday, the owner of a vehicle parked in the 300 block of West Poe reported a window having been broken out and the owner's purse taken.

Police arrested James Coy Williams, 27, in the 500 block of North Victoria at 12:05 a.m. Saturday, on charges of public intoxication and resisting arrest. He was transported to county jail.

Police are listing an incident that took place Tuesday night at a home in the 500 block of West Aldine as criminal trespass.

According to the report, the only person in the house at the time was a young female, who was taking a shower. When she walked out of the bathroom, she saw a male leaving out the back door and running toward the alley.

Investigation determined the master bedroom had been ransacked, but nothing apparently was missing.

The report was received at 8:16 p.m., according to the blotter.

News Briefs

Change clocks Saturday night

Clocks and watches should be set back one hour Saturday night, when the nation returns to Standard Time.

"Fall back" is the key to remember, when making the time change.

So, if you want to be on time Sunday, remember that if you are going to bed and the clock says it is 10 o'clock, you should set it back to 9.

Hawk Band to compete Saturday

Iowa Park High School's Mean Green Marching Machine will compete at 1 p.m. Saturday in the annual University Interscholastic League marching contest.

The event will be held in Memorial Stadium in Wichita Falls.

The Hawk Band will be seeking its 11th consecutive Division One rating. No junior high school bands will be competing.

Directors are Greg Miller and Ed Hefti.

Does city need public gymnasium?

How much need and desire exists in Iowa Park for a gymnasium that could be used by youth and residents of the community?

That is what the Iowa Park Optimist Club wants to know.

The civic organization is proposing to construct such a facility, probably on the property next to the Iowa Park Recreational Activities Center.

Public input is being sought at the meeting, according to Louis Sefcik and Mickey Boulware, co-chairmen of the proposed project.

A meeting to receive input will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Optimist Building, located at West Highway and Magnolia.

Sefcik and Boulware are asking everyone interested in such a project to attend.

Council meeting on tap Monday

Two ordinances, a resolution, a proclamation and a citizen's request are on Monday's meeting agenda for the city council.

The meeting is to begin at 7 p.m. in council chambers.

One ordinance, if approved, provides for mutual aid with the county and other cities within the county, in case of a disaster of some sort.

The other would abolish the city's ordinance requiring in-city residence for the city administrator, public works director and chief of police.

The citizen's request will be made by Paul Arrington, who in the past has discussed leasing land at Lake Gordon for a restaurant.

Arrington is to propose purchasing the tract, in the northeast portion of the area, for that purpose.

IPHS hosting parents Monday night

Iowa Park High School will host an open house from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Monday, according to Richard Davis, principal.

Parents have been invited to visit their student's classrooms and meet the teachers.

Members of the Student Council will be available to assist in finding the desired rooms, as well as answering questions. Refreshments will be served by the Future Homemakers of America.

4-H AWARD RECIPIENTS - Lori Kyle, seated, was named one of two Wichita County Gold Star recipients Saturday night, and Jolene Hodges received the Danforth "I Dare You" award. Both are students at Iowa Park High School, and the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Kyle of City View and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hodges of Kamay.

Hawks to take on Bucks

Friday night's game with Breckenridge could be a showdown of sorts for the Hawks.

Both teams have identical season records, 1-6. But the difference is that the Buckaroos posted their win against district opponent Bowie, while Iowa Park's victory was in non-conference play.

The clubs are to meet at 7:30 p.m. in Hawk Stadium.

The Buckaroos have had a lot more success defensively than offensively this season. They've scored only 63 points. But defensively, their points allowed are almost the same as Iowa Park's, 159-154, respectively.

Improvement is indicated as the season progresses for the Bucks. They lost 29-15 in the season opener against Abilene Wylie, 27-20 to Burk Burnett, 54-0 to Sweetwater, 21-14 to Sonora and 10-0 to Stephenville.

In their Dist. 4-AAA opener against Bowie, they came from behind to score with 23 seconds remaining in the game and won 14-13.

And last week they suffered their sixth setback of the season with Graham by the uncommon score of 5-0.

Iowa Park's score against Burk Burnett was similar, 21-19, but there was a vast difference in their Bowie scores. The Jackrabbits trounced the Hawks last week, 34-3.

The Hawks earned a share of the district's second place last year by defeating Breckenridge, 10-6. However, on a point spread method of breaking the tie with Iowa Park and Graham, the Bucks advanced into the playoffs.

They bested Denver City 21-6 in bi-district, and Childress 20-7 in area, before losing 13-34 in regional to Marble Falls.

That 8-4-1 season was a good beginning year for new coach Jerry Taylor, who took over from Bill Grissom with a move from his top position from Midland High School.

The big gun in Breckenridge's offense this year is Caleb Myers. He has carried the ball 82 times for 347 yards, an average of 4.23, and scored 25 points.

Complimenting him are running backs Clint Thurman, averaging 3.37 on 35 carries, and Bobby Alvarez, 4.26 on 26 totes. Both have scored a pair of touchdowns.

Buck field general Casey Pearce is completing only 30 percent of his pass attempts, 41 of 136, and has suffered eight interceptions. Those 41 snags have gained 584 yards, almost matching the runners' 806 this season.

Favorite target of Pearce is Randy Willice, who has 20 receptions for 304 yards. Scott Pitchford has more yardage

Chamber adopts '93 budget

Directors of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce, in their monthly meeting Monday, received a proposed budget for 1993.

No action was taken, as President Gene Jordan suggested it should be considered for discussion at next month's meeting, and acted on in December.

This is a departure from past years, receiving a budget in advance of the new year. Jordan pointed out that in previous years, a budget usually wasn't adopted until the third or fourth months of the new year.

The proposed budget called for expenses of $12,463, with anticipated revenue of $13,726.

Included in the revenue figures, Vice President Larry Dutton, was a 10-percent increase in dues. That would generate $8,500 on the income side, he said.

Other revenues anticipated were $2,600 from the annual banquet, $1,400 from the Whoop-T-Do and $1,226 from the golf tournament.

Expenditures include: $6,500 for secretary salary; $1,500, utilities; $1,113 golf tournament expenses; $1,600 banquet expenses, as well as office supplies, postage, payroll tax, public relations and "miscellaneous."

Next meeting of the Chamber will be the All-Membership meeting on Monday, Nov. 16.

That meeting will be a noon luncheon at the Recreational Activities Center. New officers who will serve during 1993 will be elected at that time.

Directors approved a proposal to change the booth fee formula for future Whoop-T-Do observations.

It was decided that organizations sponsoring booths would pay 10 percent of their net profits, rather than the current 10 percent of gross revenue.

The decision to change was made after it was pointed out organizations were actually paying 10 percent of the purchase price for whatever they sold or awarded, to the chamber. That cut down on the profits the organizations worked for.

Other topics discussed included: * contacts being made in an effort to attract a factory outlet mall;

- * nominations are being solicited for the annual individual recognitions announced at the annual banquet, which will be held Saturday, Jan. 9;

- * approved continuing promotion of a Thanksgiving turkey giveaway program by merchants in November;

- * and naming of a committee to discuss continuing, or alternatives to, the "Christmas Stroll Through Town" that was inaugurated last year.

Those who wish to receive a Christmas basket and/or toys must register by Friday, Nov. 20. Sign-up sheets are available at Bank of America.

Maxwell, Alvarez vows exchanged recently

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Thomas Alvarez are making their home in Wichita Falls following their Sept. 19 marriage and a honeymoon trip to Branson, Mo.

Mrs. Alvarez is the former Wendy Denise Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Herrington of Iowa Park. The groom is the son of the late Candeloria Alvarez of Wichita Falls.

The western style wedding was performed at the home of the couple in Wichita Falls. Judge Janice Ralston-Sons officiated.

For the recitation of vows, the couple stood before the fireplace that featured three mauve paper ribbon bows inserted with dried flowers. On the mantel were six votive cups holding light pink candles and a tapered candle in the center that was surrounded with frosted miniature hot pink roses. On either side of the fireplace hearth were baskets of white flowers.

The bride was escorted to the improvised altar by her father and her son, Dillon Maxwell, to the strains of "Unchained Melody". During the ceremony "Forever Is As Far As I'll Go", was played.

Matron of honor for the bride was Melissa Moss of Iowa Park. The groom's nephew, Mike Alvarez of Irving was best man. The groom's son, Willie Thomas Alvarez Jr., also stood up with him.

The bride chose for her wedding a delicate lace gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves with scalloped lace edging at the wrists. It was beautifully adorned with crystal beaded fringe on the front yoke and lower portion of the skirt.

Organa appliques embellished with sequins and pearls were scattered over the entire gown.

In her hair, the bride wore white silk roses with strands of seed pearls. She carried a traditional bouquet of light and hot pink roses tied with teal green and hot pink satin streamers.

Mrs. Moss wore a street length frock of hot pink moire and carried a colonial style bouquet of light pink roses encircled with ruffles of net and tied with light pink and teal green satin ribbon.

The groom wore jeans, boots and a western style shirt of teal green and pink stripes. His attendants also wore jeans and white western shirts.

The registry table was covered with a teal green cloth under lace. A procelain teddy bear bride and groom and an ivory pen in a heart shaped base provided the appointments. Michelle Alvarez, niece of the groom, secured signatures in the bride's book.

A reception was held in the couple's home. A pink cloth covered the food table. A miniature bale of hay and a child's boot with greenery formed the centerpiece. On the table was a vegetable tray, a sandwich tray and a meat tray.

A teal green cloth with lace overlay covered the bride's cake table.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Thomas Alvarez
(Wendy Denise Maxwell)

The two tiered cake was iced in white and trimmed with hot pink and teal green. The bottom tier was decorated with confection roses of hot pink and teal green leaves and swans. The first and second tier was separated with crystal wine glasses.

The second tier was topped with a cowboy and cowgirl bride and groom, backed by a lace encircled satin heart trimmed with hot pink and teal green roses.

The gold-rimmed crystal wine glasses used by the couple to toast each other had been handed down by the bride's maternal great-grandmother.

Jenny Alvarez, the groom's niece, and Pam Combs presided at the cake table.

Mrs. Alvarez is a graduate of Iowa Park High School where she was a member of the Pep Squad, and served as secretary of Future Homemakers of America. She is self-employed.

Alvarez graduated Valley Baptist Academy in Harlingen. He served 10 years in the United States Army Infantry Division. He served two years in Vietnam and received three purple hearts and the bronze star. He is employed by PPG Industries Corp.

Baptist Women begin review of India

Mrs. Eleanor Bell started the review of "India: Where Cross the Crowded Ways," by Marge Worten for the Thelma Smith Baptist Women of First Baptist Church Monday night.

The interest center featured a large map of the country and pictures of particular interest. One of these was a picture of Bob and Marge Wakefield, Southern Baptist missionaries, who are serving as itinerant missionaries there. They have only visiting visas because the country does not grant residential visas to missionaries.

The review revealed that there are 32 million considered to be Christians in India and only the United States has more Baptists, yet 81 percent of the people are Hindus.

Mrs. Bell said "to understand modern India, we must understand her history." She started with the dark-skinned Dravidians who were pushed away by the Aryans when the caste system began. Continuing, she noted the birth of Buddha, Alexander the Great, arrival of the first Muslims, Mogul dynasty, Marco Polo visits, British East India Company, Great Mutiny, Gandhi's passive resistance until the time India achieved independence in 1947, and the forming of Pakistan.

She stated that almost any fact about India is contradictory and she asked members to assist her by reading the facts and contradictory facts about: India being a beggar nation, a backward nation, unified country, its size, Hindu culture, metropolitan areas and poor rural villages, missionaries, and Christians.

She noted the contrast in Hindu temples with gaudy colors, having cartoon-like characters of their gods,

Study Club begins year with Texas heritage luncheon

Members of 23 Study Club began activities for the 1992-93 year at a brunch Thursday morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Singer.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Singer were Mmes. Riley Thompson, D.O. James and Raymond Cope.

The Texas Heritage theme dominated decorations throughout the home and in table settings.

"The Potter's Hand" provided inspiration for the program directed by Mrs. Delbert Todd. She opened with the pledges to the American and Texas flags. She then led members in repeating "The Earth Is The Lord's", Declaration of Dependence (on nature), and the Conservation Pledge.

The first indication of the Texas Heritage theme was noted in the entry of the home where there was a windmill welded out of iron rods.

Mrs. Thompson greeted members. They were dressed in denim frocks complemented with navy blue or red bandanas. She pinned red denim hearts on those who were born in Texas and blue denim hearts on those born in other states.

Covered with an antique Texas Star quilt, the food table was appointed with a crock filled with silk sunflowers and bluebonnets, and two grey leather boots. One of the boots was trimmed with a bronco, and the other one featured an Indian head picture in the clouds high above distant mountains, and a "SS" cattle brand.

All of the tables where members sat to eat were set apart with granite serving dishes and accessories.

Decorations on the dining table lent themselves to Texas Heritage through a silhouette of a horse cut out of sheet iron for the centerpiece, and a cowboy hat that had belonged to a pioneer of the area that was painted on the crown with a western scene.

Another table was marked with a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums in a vase etched in a brown cattle design, and spitterware.

The third table held interest with its granite dishes that had been collected through the years by the Singers, and a boot-shaped vase filled with autumn flowers.

Before the meal, Mrs. Homer Blalock offered the invocation. Following the meal, Mrs. Thompson presented the meditation using, "The Potter's Vessel" for the topic, and several verses from the book of Jeremiah for the scriptural background.

Mrs. Thompson demonstrated two vessels, one that had been marred by the potter's hand, and the other remade and unmarred by the same hand.

For the fine arts number, Mrs. Singer directed group singing, "Only To Be What He Wants Me To Be", with keyboard accompaniment by Mrs. Jim Medlinger.

Mrs. Todd presented the new yearbooks, noting that the theme was "Conserve-Preserve, A Better World for All".

She recognized other members of the program committee who served with her, including Mmes. Ross Roberts, Erwin Soell, Rollin Roberts, Singer and Medlinger.

Mrs. James gave the federation report and Mrs. Rollin Roberts contributed the local trivia as she recalled memories of Tom Burnett, noted cattleman in Iowa Park's earlier history.

Highlight of the meeting was the address by Mrs. John Rentschler, president.

She used a chart with names of the departments of both the General and Texas Federations of Women's Clubs on it and discussed their functions and goals. The departments are Home Life, International Affairs, Education, The Arts, Public Affairs and Conservation.

Climax of the morning was a tour of Jack Steven's Studio, where the noted Texas sculptor directed the tour.

The sculpture that claimed special attention was the project he is working on for Streams and Valley, which he said would probably take him another year and a half to finish.

In respect for the Comanche Indians and their contribution to the nation, he has already sculpted an Indian warrior sitting on his horse, his wife, who was responsible for finding safe passage for the Indian tribe, and their son. He arranged them at a pool of water on his front lawn.

Stevens took club members inside his studio where they saw a desk set of what the finished project will look like. It has three grown horses, one colt, the warrior, his wife and son.

Visitors viewed many of his other sculptures and works of art and went through his workshop.

One of the greatest thrills of the tour was when Stevens pulled out the Amish buggy that he had made and club members had the pleasure is sitting in it and having their pictures made by it.

ORIGINAL COUNTY AGRICULTURE BUILDING (COMPLETION DATE UNKNOWN)

As I See It

By Bob Hamilton

Was there any question that I was going to have a response to Saturday's editorial in Brand X -- the newspaper in neighboring Wichita Falls?

Oh, you didn't read it? Well, let me inform you that the editorialist is of the opinion that this community benefits so greatly from the County Agriculture Building being located here, that the city and Chamber of Commerce should contribute to the new building county commissioners have in mind.

There is no question that many of the employees of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, Soil Conservation Service office, as well as deputies of the county tax office are valued residents of our community.

But that's not the reason for those offices being located here. The agriculture offices are here for the center-of-the-county convenience to those who use it. The farmers.

It's also a point that aggressive Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce leaders, back in 1950 when the Conservation office was being booted out of the post office in Wichita Falls because of needed space, recognized an opportunity to be of service to the farmers due to the community's centralized location.

In fact, according to minutes of the Chamber's executive committee meeting dated Jan. 4, 1950, when the late Alan Berry was president, Iowa Parkans began putting together a package to build the original office building.

Does that not sound like Iowa Park has done its part? Well listen to this.

The land on which the building now sits was donated to the Chamber by its owner, Curtis Hill. And members of the organization reportedly collected about $5,000 (a lot of money in those days) to construct the building.

But I find a statement entered into the official minutes just as interesting:

"This building shall be the property of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce and shall be under the supervision of the Board of Directors of the Chamber with title vested in the Executive Committee and their successors in office.

"This building shall be used for the Soil Conservation office as long as they maintain their headquarters in Iowa Park, and at such time as the Soil Conservation Service shall vacate this building, and if no other Federal or State agency, that is of service to the general public, wants the use of this office building, it will be used for the benefit of the people of the community - according to the discretion of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce directors."

Again, does that not sound like Iowa Park has done its part?

Buck Voyles, now retired from many years as county commissioner, was named to the building committee along with Carl Sullivan, W.G. Steele and Lavere Thompson, according to the minutes.

I contacted Buck, and, because of so many years passing plus the fact he was recalled to active military service later that year, after the Korean conflict kicked up, was absent for a period of time.

Buck feels that title to the property was turned over to the county. "I don't feel they would have spent the money on construction and operation without owning it," he commented.

Nothing has yet been found in the Chamber's archives which indicate the board ever gave title to the county. But that doesn't mean it didn't. We're checking into that.

Anyway, the building was constructed. But it wasn't all that's there at this time. An addition was completed in 1964, according to a plaque on the wall, that included the large meeting room on the east side.

Because the structure does not now meet the standards set down by the Americans with Disabilities Act, the commissioners court has voted to buy a different tract of land and construct a new building.

It was pointed out that renovation and repairs would cost about $222,490, Commissioner Gordon Griffith said. Figures on a new building are estimated at $239,000 plus site acquisition.

Griffith said yesterday he was, at that time, working on buying the new site.

To sweeten the pot, ASCS manager David Robnett told me he has written a letter to commissioners court to the effect the agriculture offices will agree to pay all utilities, plus $300 monthly for repairs, on the new building.

"That is a great deal for us and a great deal for them (commissioners court)," he said. "It will be virtually cost-free operating for the county."

It's also worth mentioning, that Robnett allows the use of a room once a week for the Farmers Home Administration workers.

Why is that a convenience. Well, the FmHA office was closed in Wichita Falls, and the only one in this part of the country is in Vernon.

I really think the editorial writer was just picking up on a comment allegedly made by commissioner Woody Gossom, who apparently made the comment that Iowa Park didn't need a county tax sub-station.

That, like the multi-purpose center, is another of Gossom's inaccurate ideas.

The sub-station is here to serve the people of this area, just like the ones in Burkburnett and Electra. For our residents to spend time and transportation costs to travel to Wichita Falls, just to save the county money, is stupid. The cost to those who pay his salary would be even greater than maintaining the office here.

People are still helping me dig into records on how the original agriculture building was built and funded, as well as how and when title was transferred to the county, if indeed it ever was.

But if the title were transferred, whatever is realized from the sale of the property will assist greatly toward building a new structure.

And that appreciated value could be considered as Iowa Park's contribution to the new facility.

Couldn't it?

I have made it a practice not to answer letters to the editor but I feel the editorial in the October 17, Wichita Falls Times needs to be addressed.

This concerns Wichita County plans to construct a new county sub-station building in Iowa Park. At no time has the City of Iowa Park been contacted about the plans, size, location or any other aspects of this building.

Now that plans are finalized and negotiations are starting, we are being called on to pay a portion of the county project. I think something is wrong with this kind of a partnership.

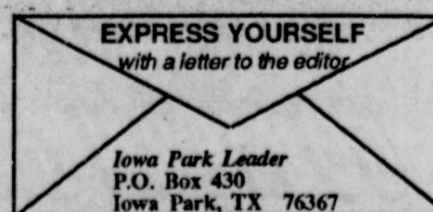

We are proud for the past 40 years to be home to the Soil Conservation Service and the ASCS office and we want the relationship to continue for years to come. Although our city is fiscally sound, I think out of common courtesy we should be given the opportunity to consider and budget what is expected from our city to pay on a county project before it is aired in the newspaper.

Wayne House
Mayor of Iowa Park

Tho we may not always agree we are so fortunate to have an editor so articulate and so active in our community. It is a pleasure to call him and his family neighbors.

On the darker side of our community we cannot believe the price we pay for water that is barely fit to put on the lawn. We buy bottled water to drink, make coffee, tea and cook in. Is there nothing that can be done or did we buy into this heritage forever? We pay big bucks for experts to figure out what to treat with and treat to no avail. The last water bill forewarned us of the upcoming increase and only today the water is funky again. The City might just as well saved their (our) money from the latest water treatment. Don't get us started on the water pressure -- summer, winter, spring and fall or you will not have enough room for your editorial which we would miss.

Worth Quoting

We have a strange way of analyzing things in this country.

If a business man tries to make more money, he's greedy.

If an employee tries to make more money, he's ambitious.

If a worker gets a much higher paying job in some foreign country, we all marvel at him for taking the initiative to do something like that in a foreign land.

If manufacturing companies move to a foreign country to make more money, they are condemned as mercenaries whose only interest is in making more profit for themselves.

Of course I didn't get much schooling, and most of what I got was in Arkansas, but I can't really see much difference in a business doing it and an individual doing it. I know I must be missing something somewhere, but it looks pretty much the same to me.

I am smart enough, though, to understand why our political leaders see such a vast difference.

There are more workers around than there are manufacturers. And that means the employees can out-vote the bosses.

And do you know what politicians are primarily interested in?

I sorta thought you would.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin

Much of the focus of the 1992 election has been placed on the Presidential campaign, and rightfully so. However, a single statewide race can shape the face of Texas politics for many years to come.

The race pits former Railroad Commissioner Lena Guerrero against Republican Barry Williamson. Up until last month, the race was between incumbent Mr. Guerrero and Mr. Williamson.

As you probably recall, Mrs. Guerrero came under fire for falsely stating that she had graduated with honors from the University of Texas. Further investigation revealed that she had not earned a degree and had failed at least five courses while a student at UT.

The issue grew and boiled until Mrs. Guerrero finally resigned from her position on the Railroad Commission and admitted that she had lied about her degree. Guerrero said that she so wanted it to be true that she held a degree and she told the lie so many times that she began believing it herself.

The bottom line is that Mrs. Guerrero lied to the people of Texas and perpetuated that lie during her career in the Texas Legislature and when she was appointed to the Railroad Commission by Gov. Ann Richards.

Now Mrs. Guerrero is out on the campaign trail asking for the voters' forgiveness and a chance to return to the state's payroll. Many have stated that Mrs. Guerrero has done a good job while in office while other Guerrero supporters contend that her opponent has too many ties to the petroleum industry.

Regardless of Mrs. Guerrero's past track record while serving on the commission, she lied to the citizens of this state. She was caught. She tried to cover it up with more lies and finally resigned because of the public and media pressure.

She was right to resign, but she is wrong to continue to seek re-election to the office. And if Texas voters re-elect her, we are only opening the floodgates for more lies and misinformation. Her re-election would send a bad message to Austin. Politicians would look at this as a "license to lie."

It won't matter what lies they tell to get re-elected. Nor will it matter if the voters know about these lies. "Just look at Lena, she lied, confessed and was still re-elected," the politicians will say.

Send a different message to Austin. Vote against Mrs. Guerrero and let the Austin crowd know that Texans won't stand for any more lies.

RICK CRAIG
Hamlin Herald

The Lena Guerrero story is having a ripple effect throughout the state.

First, the disappointing truth about Guerrero came out -- the fact that she abused the public trust, not that she doesn't have a degree or that she was a C student and not a Phi Beta Kappa.

Then came Gov. Ann Richards' assessment that the job Guerrero's done out-weighs the fact that she abused the public trust. (Part of what Guerrero's done while in office is lie about her credentials.)

And finally, there was columnist Molly Ivins' conclusion last Sunday that it doesn't matter whether Guerrero has a degree or not; what matters is the job she's done as railroad commissioner. Ivins would be right on target, except for the fact that she missed the point.

What matters is that Guerrero used blatantly false information in an attempt to gain election to the legislature -- a position of public trust. And now, in the powerful position to which she was originally appointed by Richards, she had continued to abuse that trust.

The whole situation is really hard to swallow. I've been an admirer of Guerrero's. Not because she is twice a minority -- Hispanic and a woman -- in a powerful position -- but because she has been a progressive and innovative member of the RRC. It's disappointing to see that her judgement is so severely flawed, or her character so weak, as to lead her to promote or condone false information about her academic record.

It gets real close to home because she is close to my age, a little younger and, don't hole me to the exact number, but I am -- or was when I dropped out -- about 15 hours short of graduating from the University of Texas. There is no question as to whether or not I have a degree! I don't know what my GPA was, but before you jump to conclusions, let me assure you that I was not a Phi Beta Kappa.

It is inconceivable that anyone in my position, or Guerrero's, could "accidentally" claim a degree or membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

It is inconceivable that that kind of conduct is acceptable or could be overlooked by others who also hold a public trust.

Ivins was right about one thing -- it is a shame. It's a shame that Guerrero lied (more than once), that the governor sees fit to overlook it, and that Ivins manages to accept Guerrero's conduct by burying the real issue and attempting to re-direct the focus of public attention on a point that is not the issue.

Guerrero's conduct is wrong by any code. What's right and what's wrong doesn't change based on race, gender or political party affiliation.

Picture this.

It's a warm Saturday afternoon in June and you finally get around to the yard work you've been putting off for a day or two. Actually you're enjoying the sunshine, as you forge ahead behind your lawn mower.

All of the sudden, out of nowhere, two men in dark suits and dark glasses appear in front of you flashing an I.D. "Sir, step over here please. We're from the L.M.P. and while my partner conducts the inspection I'll need to see your registration," says the officer.

You give the officer your registration card which is up-to-date, but unfortunately his partner has found a violation. You decide not to argue as they issue you a citation, and then they're on their way.

No, you haven't encountered the highway patrol, sheriff's department or local police. You've just been cited by the Lawn Mower Police!

If you think this scenario sounds farfetched, think again.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has a new victim on its hit list. Yes, the family lawn mower is the new villain under fire by this federal agency known for bureaucratic nonsense. According to the new proposed EPA standards for lawn mowers, engines will have to be modified -- change the design of combustion chambers and engines must be designed to run on a more efficient fuel-air mix.

Once again, the Environmental Protection Agency has found a way to do more studies, set more guidelines, and to fine more citizens: The name -- "Environmental Protection Agency" sounds so good and so noble yet the more I hear about this federal program, the more I think something's wrong.

Before long, we won't be calling it the EPA, we'll be calling it the Secret Police or Gestapo.

I can just see an EPA official now. He drives his car to the airport and hops on a plane to attend a meeting somewhere where he and other EPA staff members sit down to start new lawn mower guidelines.

There's just no logic to it.

Or as one New York writer said: in 1992, when the volcano in the Philippines has lowered the global temperature by two degrees and Saddam Hussein has set afire Kuwait oil fields, the EPA lawn mower guidelines are understandable. It's easier to attack lawn mowers than it is to attack volcanoes.

Everyone wants clean air, but is this really cost effective? Should businesses and individuals be forced to pay the cost of a benefit that is... minimal at best?

We just figured out why Ross Perot is a billionaire.

While Bush and Clinton are spending millions and millions on television commercials, Perot's getting the same publicity for free... and he's not even a candidate - yet!

Like Senator Everett Dirksen once said: "Save a few million here and a few million there and pretty soon, it adds up!"

Which reminds us of the Austin restaurant that features a Perot Taco:

"Nobody knows for sure what's in it, but everybody loves it anyway."

Sam Fairchild, our featured cook this week, says that he mostly cooks during the holidays or for special events. Since there is always a crowd at his house, you would think that would be quite often.

Sam and his wife, Mary Lou, have no children, but they are close to their nieces and nephews who have always spent a lot of time in their home.

Three of Sam's nieces, Mary Boren, Linda Frazier and Brenda England, said that one of the nicest memories they have of their uncle is, when they were small, he taught them how to roast wieners over a big black kettle in the barn.

Sam is not bashful when it comes to expressing the love he feels for his family, and the pride he takes in their accomplishments. He said that since he has turned 60, they refer to him as "Gentle Sam."

When asked if he likes to travel, Sam replied "I like to go anywhere if I can be home by dark."

Sam was born in Quitaque and grew up in Vernon and Wichita Falls. Sam and Mary Lou were married in 1952, when he was in the Army's 36th Missile Battalion. After his discharge, he worked for the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad, and then did bodywork at several automobile dealerships. In 1962, he moved to Iowa Park and worked for Shaw Motor Co. until he opened his own business, Sam's Body Shop, in 1966.

Sam is interested in antique cars and has a '64 Mustang convertible and a '65 Mustang hardtop. He likes football and has been a big supporter of the Hawks for many years.

In April of this year, Sam was elected Constable of Precinct Three. He is a member of the Texas Game

THE WORLD'S WAY VS. GOD'S WAY

The Beatitudes of Christ set forth a way of life that is contrary to the way of the world. People of the world do not feel that the Beatitudes could possibly bring them happiness. J.B. Philips suggests that the following should be the way to happiness according to the world: "Happy are the pushers: for they get on in the world. Happy are the hard-boiled: for they never let life hurt them. Happy are they who complain: for they get their own way in the end. Happy are the blasé: for they never worry over their sins. Happy are the slave-drivers: for they get results. Happy are the knowledgeable men of the world: for they know their way around. Happy are the trouble-makers: for people have to take notice of them."

Contrast the world's way with the way of Christ: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted. Blessed are the gentle, for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied. Blessed are the merciful, for they shall receive mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall be called the sons of God. Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the sons of God. Blessed are those who have been persecuted for the sake of righteousness, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are you when men cast insults at you, and persecute you, and say all kinds of evil against you falsely, on account of Me. Rejoice and be glad, for your reward in heaven is great, for so persecuted they the prophets who were before you." (Matthew 5:3-12).

QUARTERBACK TONY LOZIPONE STARTS OUT ON 63-YARD JAUNT

Jackrabbits outrun Hawks, 34-3

Iowa Park suffered a convincing 34-3 loss to Bowie Friday in Hawk Stadium.

The loss -- only the third-ever at the hands of the Jackrabbits -- dropped the Hawks to 1-6 for the season, and 0-2 in district play. Bowie is 1-1 in Dist. 4-AAA.

The Jackrabbits exhibited equal power both offensively and defensively, as well as the ability to overcome adversity.

Except for two plays, Bowie's defensive platoon held the Hawks in check. Iowa Park finished the contest with 90 net yards rushing and 115 passing. But 63 of those rushing yards were on one play, run by quarterback Tony Lozipone. And 59 of those passing yards were on Mark Tatum's lone reception of the evening.

The Jackrabbits lit the scoreboard early -- on the second play of the game, in fact, on a 68-yard scamper.

Iowa Park fumbled the ensuing kickoff, and Bowie was in business on the Hawk 24. But, after a three-yard gain, Bowie attempted a pass that was picked off by Don Ellis at the four yard line.

Lozipone's long run came on the following play, and an additional 15 yards penalty against Bowie put the ball on the 'Rabbit 17. Four plays later, the ball was on the one-yard line, but after a two-yard loss, it was decided that Ellis should attempt a field goal. The 20-yarder was good, and the score narrowed to 7-3 with 7:34 remaining in the first period.

A fumble, in the second period, on the Hawks' 24 set up Bowie's next score. But it wasn't that easy. Despite four penalties for 40 yards, Bowie scored on a 41-yard pass play.

An Iowa Park pass was intercepted immediately after the following kickoff, on the Hawk 42. Bowie drove the distance, aided by a pass interference call that put the ball on the Hawk 10, with a one-yard dive to cap the series. That was only 44 seconds before the halftime break.

Iowa Park was forced to punt four plays after the third quarter kickoff. Bowie didn't gain a yard on the first play, but then added to the scoreboard with a 64-yard pass play.

Again, the Hawks were forced to punt without picking up a first down, and Bowie had the ball on its own 43. Five plays later, and a 15-yard penalty against Iowa Park on one of those, a 14-yard run padded the Jackrabbit scoring. The following extra point kick attempt was blocked, and the scoring was over for the evening.

Iowa Park didn't attempt a punt in the fourth period, when Hawk drives ended on Bowie's 22, five, 49 and, when the game ended, on the nine.

Bowie's defense played most of the fourth period. The Jackrabbits attempted six passes and four running plays, two of which resulted in fumbles that were covered by Lozipone and Josh Johnson.

Lozipone was the only Hawk to finish the game in double digits running with the ball. He had 78 net yards on 11 carries.

Besides Tatum's 59-yard reception, Michael Frazier had two catches for 24 yards, Chad Thompson three for 18, and Ken Cooper two for 14.

Remnants of past linking woman to her heritage

By MYRNA SMITH

Charlene Parks has a fascination with searching for relatives she never knew.

She spent the greater part of two years digging up bits and pieces of history about her ancestors.

Charlene had vowed to have a book published on the genealogy of her father's paternal side of the family in time for the annual Raglin family reunion that was held here at the RAC in June.

Through many telephone calls, and "a ton of letters" to relatives she does know or that she has found out about through information she has gleaned from others, or by searching libraries, she made good her vow.

The book, which also includes many old pictures, created a lot of interest at the reunion and stirred a lot of memories, which is just what Charlene wanted it to do.

She found out a lot more from those who were at the reunion. "I am enjoying a whole new branch of the family now that I didn't even know existed," Charlene said.

When some of her relatives here for the reunion saw the book, they told her, "I didn't realize you wanted to know things like that."

"I never expected to get so much extra information," Charlene said.

She got enough that she is going to do some more "digging" now that she has new names to search for. Then she plans to publish a supplement to her first volume. She may have it ready for the reunion in Pine, Colo., next year, which will mark their 31st.

While she has been "finding" her father's family, she also has been working on her mother's maternal side of the family and is publishing a book about them, however, it is not complete.

In addition, she has found her husband's "roots" and has been collecting that information while continuing the search for her own. As soon as she finishes her family she will focus on his family.

Mrs. Parks found through census records that both her ancestors and her husband's lived in Hunt County, but she is sure they did not know each other.

Her husband, Marvin Doyle, has become almost as interested in tracing family as she has, and goes with her when she goes searching. "He doesn't do much about looking up the family, but he is a willing participant," Charlene said.

She suggests that those who want to start searching for their ancestors, might get a start by going to Tom Burnett Memorial Library, where there are some books containing the history of several areas, and also to the Kemp Library, that has a good amount of genealogical materials.

Charlene said that will probably give them a start, then they can go to Lawton, Okla., where they can find information from the Latter Day Saints Library in Salt Lake City, one of the most complete genealogy libraries anywhere. She also suggests the Fort Worth census archives.

Charlene actually became interested in beginning her search when a nephew found the census record that listed her grandfather, Price Raglin, who was born in Red River County.

When she found on census records that some of the individuals listed did not know the name of their mother's family, or the names of their great-grandparents, it made her more determined to find out about her own ancestry.

Mrs. Parks knows her Raglin ancestors came to America from Wales and her mother's family migrated from England. She has tracked some of them from Maryland to Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Texas.

Her great-grandfather Raglin came from Alabama to Texas and settled in Titus in Hopkins County. He belonged to the Civil War Titus Cypress Blues, "Whatever that means," Charlene commented. She said that her grandfather and great-grandfather both were Baptist ministers in Alabama and in Texas.

Charlene's ancestors have become well known to her and she talks about them, calling them by their first names, and tells incidents in their background almost as if she talked to them just yesterday.

Right now the Harrison and Dent clans, her mother's maternal side of the family, are on her mind since she is involved more in researching that lineage.

"You can reconstruct a lot of family history with what you find as you research, and if you have some heirloom pieces it helps," Charlene remarked.

She added, "You can learn something of the times in which they lived, their traditions and some things in general about their lives in the years they lived."

A brother and a sister of Charlene's mother are still living. The brother had an old trunk that was full of a lot of "keepsakes" of the Harrison and Dent families. He told Charlene he wanted the trunk, but that she could have anything in the trunk that she wanted.

In the trunk she found a bonnet that belonged to her grandmother Harrison. It has a lot of hand embroidery on it that Charlene believes was her "Sunday bonnet".

She also found some colorful wrapping paper that moved with her grandmother's family, the Dents, in 1878 from Kentucky. Most purchases in those years were wrapped, rather than put in sacks.

The paper is in rainbow colors. It has printed on it "Remember the Maine!" "But don't forget that the best place to buy hats, (furnishing goods) shoes, trunks and valises is at T.J. Straw & Sons, Benton, Kentucky. Charlene has framed the paper in order to preserve it.

Also rolled up in the trunk, Charlene found a large piece of paper on which "The Lord's Prayer" was printed and surrounding it was the 10 Commandments interpreted in pictures. She also has it framed.

There was a tin box in the trunk that held some small gold rimmed eye glasses that belonged either to Charlene's grandmother or great-grandmother. She found a hard back book, "Confessions of Faith". Her mother's family was of the Presbyterian faith.

A smaller tin box was in the larger box. Inside it were several coin purses that the men carried in the early days of this century and the latter days of the 19th century. It also held some cuff links that were probably worn by her grandfather Harrison.

But the smaller tin box and what it originally held was even more interesting. It was a Rawleigh's Antiseptic Healing Salve, "For Man or Beast". The price was 50 cents and it was highly medicated. It was guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906.

Charlene found that her grandmother Harrison was born as Genora Dent in 1874 in Kentucky and died in 1917. She eloped with Charlene's grandfather when she was 15 years old.

They had 11 children. When she died at the age of 43, she left nine children, one a two-year-old. Charlene's grandfather never remarried.

In the old trunk Charlene found many letters that gave her an idea of how things were at that time in their lives. One which she prizes was written by her great-grandmother Dent to her grandmother Harrison, on Dec. 4, 1917. The irony of it is that her grandmother Harrison died Dec. 25, 1917. Evidently her father also was ill.

The letter read, "Dear One. Will write you a few lines to let you know how your Pa is getting along. He is some better for the last 2 days. Hope it is a turn for the better. He don't suffer so much as he did. He was pretty bad last week. I sure was uneasy about him, but he is better now. We'll let you know ever few days if he goes any worse."

"Nora, how are you getting along. Are you pestered with your lungs much. I found the receipt that I sent you when you was sick before. I am sending it in this letter. Have it filled and use it. If it is two strong, don't have so much put in. Billie (Nora's husband) I depend on you to have her to take it and I believe it will do her good. I will have to hurry. I am getting along tolerable well myself. So with much love I will close for this time. Write when you can. Your mother."

The "receipt":
"Rx: Bleeding of King Good whisky, 1 qt., or blood Root Z2, Sanguinaria syrup, Wild Cherry 6 percent, Sweeten with Rock Candy."

Charlene also has a large Family Record that she had relaxed, acidized, matted and framed. After being rolled up in the trunk for years, it was dirty and every time she tried to unroll it a little bit would tear off.

At the top, printed in decorative lettering, was "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder," and "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." Following was a list of the Harrison family names. On either side of this large framed piece are the framed marriage licenses of her parents and her husband's parents.

On her walls are displayed many pictures of her's and her husband's ancestors. She has a wall kerosene lamp hanging on one wall that was used by her father in his "bachin" days. It hung on his wall near the stove where he cooked his meals.

Charlene possesses many antique pieces, all have been handed down in the family, or found in trunks.

In her dining room a china cabinet is filled with old dishes and glassware that had been in the family. She displayed a small necked bottle with a handmade cane bottom chair inside, and a decorative wooden top carved from one piece of wood the work of her uncle.

She had a Peruna tonic bottle that she said had been used for a rolling pin. Among all of the pieces in the china cabinet was a butter mold, depression glass water pitcher and glasses and other pieces, and a hyperdermic needle used for cattle.

On Charlene's piano in the den, two brogans that belonged to her father have a special place. Her sister took them, painted them and made them like pictures of the nursery rhyme, "The Old Woman Who Lived in A Shoe."

Her walls, especially in the dining room, are lined with shelves of various sizes that display figurines of different kinds that have special meaning. In this room is where she has her computer to do her desktop publishing. But they plan soon to build a study for her.

Charlene and Marvin both like clocks and one can hear all eight of them striking the hour and half hour in various parts of the house. Two are cuckoo clocks, one that she brought back from the Netherlands and one is from Germany. They have a Japanese clock in its original state.

They also have a collector clock that is a statuette of Franklin D. Roosevelt that bears the inscription "FDR--Man of The Hour". Another is a commemorative Liberty clock. The glass is etched with the dates, 1886-1986 and the inscription on the Statue of Liberty, "Give me your tired, your poor--".

The Parks have lived in Iowa Park 26 years. He commented, "Our roots are growing very deep right here on this corner." He is especially proud of Charlene "for all the work she has done and continues to do on our family records and the way she has stayed with it to complete what she starts out to do".

Parks spent four years in service with the Air Force. While in military service he was a crew chief during the Korean Conflict, but never left the U.S. They lived in Savannah, Ga. about a year after they married. He retired from Sheppard AFB where he was an instructor in jet engines and missiles in Strategic Command.

The Parks have a daughter, Debra Roberts, who works at the Wichita Falls State Hospital as a secretary, and a son, Charles, who drives a cab for All American Cab Co., and does sound and lighting for a local band. Both of them live in Wichita Falls.

They also have two grandchildren.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Amid the debates and headline warfare last week, Texas opened its early voting program.

As reporters watched, Gov. Ann Richards officially cast the first ballot at an East Austin grocery store to announce and underscore how easy it is to vote in Texas.

"This is the first vote in Texas cast for Bill Clinton, I'll tell you that," Richards said.

This is also the front line for electoral votes and Richards and her Democrats appear poised to win it in Texas.

Texas Democrats plan to score 1.75 million votes during the early voting period; Texas Republicans are just as serious. They are phone-banking reminders to voters.

Mobile Voting Stations

Texas Secretary of State John Hannah said mobile early voting sites — in motor homes and station wagons — can be used.

That means a vehicle can roll into a neighborhood and start collecting ballots, all supervised, of course.

But as opponents of the program point out, in these days of massive welfare fraud and other "credentials" crimes, how easy will it be to commit voter fraud?

Special Session Nov. 10

It's official. Gov. Richards has chosen Nov. 10 as the date legislators meet in special session on school finance.

Press secretary Bill Cryer said the date, a week from the November elections, would give lawmakers time to prepare.

The Texas Supreme Court three times has overturned school finance laws, ruling that they discriminated against property-poor districts.

Richards said she, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis are working on a new plan to present to lawmakers next month.

The last legislative effort created higher property taxes which the Texas Supreme Court ruled unconstitutional, but allowed to be collected.

Back Into Court

The Texas Supreme Court began hearing arguments on whether the Texas Constitution mandates that all citizens have equal access to public colleges and universities.

In January, Brownsville judge

Benjamin Euresti reversed a jury and ruled Texas has discriminated against Hispanics in the Rio Grande Valley by not building enough colleges there.

Attorney General Dan Morales appealed Euresti's decision; his staff lawyers argued last week that the Constitution makes no mandate for higher education equal access.

Attorneys for Hispanics in the Valley argued that the Constitution's "efficiency" requirement for lower public school systems also applies to higher education.

Euresti, in pushing aside the jury's finding of no discrimination, gave the Legislature until May 1, 1993 to draft a remedy or face a court-ordered halt of all higher education funding.

Mauzy, Enoch Duel

Allegations of misuse of public funds surfaced last week for opposing candidates in a race for Texas Supreme Court.

First, a former secretary for 5th Court of Appeals judge Craig Enoch alleged she did campaign work on state time. Enoch, a Republican challenger, denied it, then later wrote the state a check for about $570 to cover it.

That prompted Democrat incumbent Justice Oscar Mauzy, a former state senator, to comment the allegations "raised serious questions about Judge Enoch's suitability to serve on the state's highest court."

The ink was barely dry on Mauzy's quote when one of his former secretaries popped up with similar charges, that Mauzy required her to do his personal clerical work on state time.

Enoch has been asked by the Public Integrity Unit to supply documents; it is assumed Mauzy will be asked to do the same.

Latest Texas Poll

According to a Texas Poll survey for Oct. 1-8, Republican Barry Williamson has overtaken scandal-plagued Democrat Lena Guerrero in their railroad commission battle.

Williamson leads Guerrero by five points, 37 percent to 32 percent, with some 31 percent undecided.

Guerrero resigned from the commission last month, apologizing for making false claims on her resumes and biographies. Her negative rating in the poll was 50 percent.

The poll also reported that Gov. Richards has a 59 percent approval rating, down from 72 percent in August.

Stop Sludge Dumping

Attorney General Dan Morales urged the Texas Water Commission to immediately halt a company from spreading sludge in West Texas.

Morales told the commission last week to revoke permission granted to MERCO Joint Venture to spread New York City sludge on a ranch near Sierra Blanca, about 70 miles southeast of El Paso.

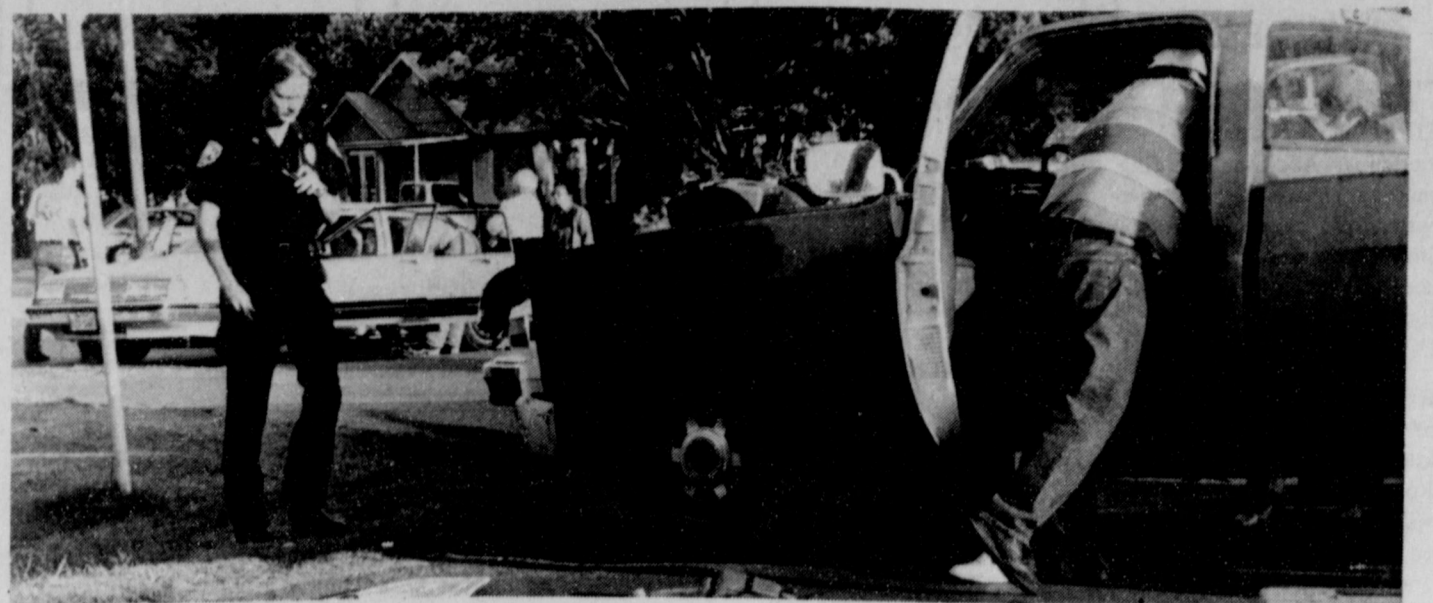

Morales said the MERCO project does not meet state regulations.
