The result of the Ohio election need not surprise. Ohio is traditionally a Republican State, won occasionally by the Democrats on local issues. There was no issue in the campaign this year on which party lines were drawn distinctly enough to give either party much advantage. The Democrats, although opposed to prohibition, coddled the Prohibition candidate for Governor with the hope that his continuance in the field would draw votes from the Republican candidate. This action of the Democratic managers displeased the Germans and they largely cast their votes for the Republican candidate in consequence. It should be noted that in the returns comparisons are made with the vote of 1883, when Hoadly was elected Governor by a plurality vote of more than 12,000. Blaine received a majority of nearly 30,000 last November, and the Republican candidate for Secretary of State had a clear majority over all of 11,242 last October, and a plurality over the Democratic candidate of 25,000.

THE OHIO ELECTION.

In making their campaign the Democrats made several mistakes. In the first place, it was a mistake to renominate Hoadly right in the wake of his stupid indorsement of Noyes for an appointment under Cleveland's administration. It was also a mistake to encourage and endeavor to conciliate the Prohibitionists.

The greatest mistake, however, was made in permitting it to be generally understood that in case of a Democratic majority in the Legislature Thurman would not be returned to the Senate. There was a well-grounded fear throughout the State that if the Democrats won a victory, John R. McLean in person or some tool of his in league with the Standard Oil ring would be sent to the Senate.

Unfortunately, on the other hand, the success of the Republicans will give the bloody shirt issue a new impetus, and give John Sherman a considerable boom for his party nomination for President

The Empire Mills on Fire.

The alarm of fire was turned on this morning at 2 o'clock, caused by the discovery that the Empire Mills, on Broadway between Main and Elm, were in flames.

The fire originated in the roof of the building just over the bran room, near its junction with the wooden elevator on the Harrison street side.

The engines were promptly on hand but owing to the difficulty of getting on top of the building, it took them nearly an hour before it was extinguished. The damage is principally from water. The Empire Mills are insured, but to what amount and in what companies could not be learned. There over 40,000 bushels of wheat stored in the grain room when the fire broke out, which, it is supposed, suffered but slight damage. On the streets is

THE ELECTION IN OHIO.

A Waterloo Defeat for the Buckeye Democracy,

Foraker Elected Governor and the Legislature Probably Republican.

The Plurality on the State Ticket Estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000-The Prohibition Party a Very Small Factor in the Result-A Light Vote Cast.

Special to The News.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14, 1:30 a. m.—The Repubicans are jubilant with bands and bonfires over the election news. The Democrats are correspondingly quiet and receiving the result with good grace. Chairman Powell, of the Democratic committee, concedes the election of the Republican State ticket by from 15,000 to 20,000, and thinks they have carried both branches of the Legislature. AT CINCINNATI.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13.—At 3 o'clock this morning a gentle dewy rain was distilling on the heads of policemen, newspaper re porters, houseless wanderers and belated couples going home from the ball. By daylight it had become a steady down-pouring rain. At the different precincts no difficulty was experienced in installing judges. The distance flags were planted, but in most precincts at less than one hundred feet. Some of them were not over thirty feet from the polls. Ticket holders stood for a while outside of the limits and peddled ballots from under their dripping umbrellas, but in less than half an hour they had encroached upon forbidden ground, and in most cases they came clear up to the polls. The ticket holders of the Republican and Democratic persuasion were abundant everywhere, but those of the Prohibition faith were scarce and timid. The registration seems to work successfully. There have been some bad breaks, due to the novelty of the plan and the inexperience of the judges.

AT ELEVEN A. M. Reports from a large number of precincts at 11 a.m. show that the two parties are polling a large and early vote, and that the Prohibition vote will need heavy reinforcements if it shall reach the figures set by enthusiastic leaders of that party. There is considerable scratching been done on both the State and county tickets. AT NOON.

At noon the sun shines brightly and the indications are good. At this hour about one-half of the voters of Hamilton county have cast their ballots. Two or three fights have occurred, but nothing of a serious nature has been reported. There are many drunken men on the streets and it is possible there will be a "breeze" before night. A FIST FIGHT.

Dan Dalton and Geo. Cox, opposing candidates for County Clerk, came to blows this morning at precinct "E," Nineteenth Ward. They were separated before any damage was done.

It is probable that the counting to-night will be finished sooner than usual. There are no large precincts and the many small ones, into which the city has been divided, will tend to facilitate matters.

AT TOLEDO.

TOLEDO, Oct. 13.—At 11 o'clock the weather is cloudy and threatening. Voting is proceeding very quietly. The poll will be light, as a good many of both parties are staying away from the polls. Political experts are unable to make predictions. The general opinion is that Hoadly will carry Lucas County and that Wade, Democrat, for Sheriff and the rest of the Democratic county ticket will be elected. AT TWO P. M.

At 2 o'clock a light rain was falling. The vote is light at nearly every precinct. No excitement. Absolute quiet prevails. The Democrats claim that they are polling their full strength and are confident of carrying the county by 500 majority. The Prohibi-Very few ticket tion vote is very light. peddlers are seen with their ticket. There is less cutting than in the morning, as the Democrats are confident of the election of Wade for Sheriff by a large majority.

AT CLEVELAND. CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—The election is pass. ing off without any unusual excitement-Considerable confusion resulting from the registration law, now in force in Cleveland and Cincinnati, has arisen. Quite a good many voters who imagined the law was unconstitutional refused to register, and when they present themselves at the polls are informed that they cannot vote. Through this neglect to comply with the requirements of the law, the vote will fall about three thousand short of that polled at the last presidential election.

THE RARLY CLAIMS. The Republicans claim Cuyahoga County. by five thousand plurality, and the Democrats claim it by one thousand. There is much cutting being done on the county and legislative tickets, but the vote for Governor is going straight. It is hard to obtain anvthing near accurately, as no person is allowed to go within one hundred feet of the polls, unless for the purpose of voting.

At noon half of the number of votes registered had been polled. Although the weather has been very threatening it has not rained, and it now looks as if it would clear off. In any event there will be a very full vote, which greatly encourages the Repub-

Quite a number of arrests for violation of the law prohibiting persons from congregating within one hundred feet of the polls have been made.

THE COLOR LINE.

The colored candidates on both the Republican and Democratic tickets are being cut, and it is probable that neither of them will pull through. WORKING FOR WHITTAKER.

A very hard fight is being made by the Democrats to elect their candidate for County Treasurer, Alfred Whittaker. In the Ninth Ward this afternoon the Republicans made strenuous efforts in behalf of their candidate, D. L. Kimbarly. This made the Democrats desperate, and they called on Congressman Foran for assistance. It is claimed he is trading the whole Democratic ticket for Whittaker. This is carried to a considerable extent all over the city and it is pretty certain Whittaker will be elected, but the rest of the Democratic ticket will suffer in consequence. Prohibitionists are very scarce. The weather is still very cloudy.

Youngstown, Oct. 13.—It is damp and cloudy, with occasional light showers. Up to noon the vote is not one-quarter in There is no excitement of any kind. The Prohibitionists closely guard the polling places and buttonhole voters as they walk up. The Prohibition vote in this county will be 5000.

AKRON, Oct. 13.—The weather is lowering, but not rainy. Up to noon the vote has been light. Men who were Democratic

The Prohibition vote in this vicinity shows considerable gain over last year. SECURED THE SENATOR. MARIETTA, Oct. 13.—The Republicans elect a Senator in the Fourteenth District and Representative in Washington county.

THE ELECTION WAS QUIET. COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Midnight.—As far as can be learned the election passed off very quietly. In the cities the votes compares very favorably with that of two years ago, when Hoadly was elected by 12,529 plurality. To overcome this the Republicans had to make a gain of six to each precinct in the RECEIVING THE NEWS At an early hour to-night the Republicans gathered in the City Hall to receive the returns. Chairman Bushnell and other members of the Republican State Committee occupied the stage, and their private dispatches and the press bulletins were read patches and the press billieths were read to the audience. Owing to the length of the ticket and the fact that the vote on the constitutional amendments had to be counted, the returns were meagre up to 9 p. m.

Those first to come indicated a Republican gain of about 30 to the precinct. Later returns cut this down to 21, and for a long time it touched 12. It then took an upward rise and remained stationary at 18, which turns cut this down to 21, and for a long time it touched 12. It then took an upward rise and remained stationary at 18, which would indicate that the Republicans had carried the State by from 15,000 to 20,000. The returns showed that Leonard, the Prohibition candidate, made big gains in several counties of the western reserve, the Republicans stronghold. In the counties largely settled by Germans, and in the cities especially, the Republican gains were the largest. This is accounted for by John Sherman's popularity. Two years ago the counties of Hamilton, Cuyahoga, Franklin, Lucas and Montgomery, containing the five largest cities in the State, gave Hoadly his plurality. The returns to-night indicate that Foraker will carry these by a small majority. If this is the case his plurality will exceed 20,000 in the State, though later returns may reduce that several thousand. Chairman Bushnell at 11 o'clock claimed the State by 15,000 and a voting majority in both branches of the a voting majority in both branches of the legislature, although he has nothing to base his claims upon except the returns on the head of the ticket. THE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE, with a few select friends, received the returns at their headquarters, and were inclined to concede everything at an early hour. Gov. Hoadly, who arrived from Cincinnati on a late train, was not so much discouraged, but admitted it would be very close. Their only hope of the Legislature is that Hamilton County is solidly Democratic. THE GAINS GROW.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.-Toledo County, sixteen precincts, 305 Republican gain.

Seneca County, eleven precincts, including four wards of Tiffin, 150 Republican gain. Stark County, seven precincts, including two wards of Massillon, 300 Republican gain.

from 645 wards and precincts give Foraker 118,637, Hoadley 103,937, Leonard 8409, a net Republican gain of 10,475.

COMMITTEE CLAIMS AT COLUMBUS. COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—The Republican executive committee claim Foraker's plurality to be 18,000. They have information from all the doubtful countries that their representatives are elected. They claim a majority of the Legislature on joint ballot outside of Hamilton County.

POLITICS ELSEWHERE.

MASS MEETING IN BALTIMORE. BALTIMORE, Oct. 13.—There was an immense outpouring of Democrats to-night to attend the mass meeting, which was the

the various churches and citizens convened at the opera house last night in the interest of the Y. M. C. A. The house was filled to repletion, and much interest was manifested. Mr. H. E. Brown, of New York, one of the secretaries of the international committee of the association, addressed the meeting. He explained fully the workings of the association in different parts of this and other countries, and showed the great amount of good that has already been done and is being accomplished for young men. The speaker congratulated the young association in this city, but cautioned the members not to undertake to do too much all at once. He said that Marshall promises to be the banner city of Texas in having a building of their own, and advised the assooutlaing of their own, and advised the association and citizens to erect two stories and make it in every way adapted to the use of the association. Mr. Brown is traveling in the interest of the association in Texas. He leaves here to-night for Galveston.

Trinity.

TRINITY, Oct. 13.—The north-bound passenger train was wrecked near the depot here at 9 p. m. day before yesterday. The switch had been left open accidentally by one of the yard brakemen a few minutes before the arrival of the train, and as it was running slowly only the engine was thrown off. But little damage occurred to the engine. No one was hurt, and there was only about nine hours delay to the train.

special to The News.

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 13.—Last night Gainesville was visited by one of the most destructive fires ever known in her history. About twenty minutes before midnight the grocery store of J. C. Drew, on the west side of the square, was discovered to be on fire. In less than one minute after the alarm was given the flames burst out of the doors and windows, and it was plain to be seen that the building was doomed. On the north of it was the Red River National Bank, perhaps the most elegantly furnished bank in North Texas, and on the south the large lrug house of Gilcreest & Block. The flames soon spread to the second story of the bank building, and also to the drug store. The grocery house and its contents were a total loss. The drug store was severely lamaged, but the building was saved. The upper story of the grocery building was ocupied by Hill, Baily & Hill for a law office In the second story of the bank building were the law office of Blanton & Wright, the insurance office of J. R. Cravens, the private office and bedroom of J. W. Baily, and the Western Union Telegraph Office.

WANTED TO SUPPLANT THE GIRLS.

Two Masculine Telegraph Operators Learn a

Lesson in Chivalry of Lamar.

Special to the Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—A good story is told by the Star about the efforts of a couple of well known young telegraph operators to secure positions in the government service. There are three ladies who are employed as telegraph operators in the department, one in the Interior Department, one in the Interior Department, and all are understood to be thoroughly efficient operators. One of these has influential connections, and is supposed to, be unassailable in her office. Of the others, one is a widow, and the other is a young lady making her own way in life. These two were thought to be friendless and easily dismissed. The young men referred to, therefore, set longing eyes on their positions, and proceeded to secure the necessary influence to supplant them. Armed with a goodly supply of recommendations, number one called upon Secretary Lamar. The Secretary did not reply to the strongly backed application, but instead rang his bell and asked for the lady employed as operator in his department. The Secretary looked over some papers until her arrival, and then, turning to her, said:

"Ms — do you intend resigning your position?"

"No, sir," replied the lady.

"Is your work so heavy that you require an assistant?" again asked the secretary.

"No, sir," was the reply. "I have no difficulty in attending to my work alone."

"I don't exactly understand what position you want," said the secretary, turning to the young man. "Do't you want to get this lady's place by having her dismissed?"

The young man had become very much embarrassed before this, and after mumbiling sometime about understanding changes were to be made, was glad to beat a hasty retreat.

"Mack" Got His Revenge. St. Louis Republican

The recent interchange of civilities beween Gen. Sherman and the editor of the Globe-Democrat has drawn from a gentleman who lived in Washington several years following the close of the war, and has since resided at different periods in New York and the West, an interesting reminiscence. His story, as he has been telling it lately, is as follows: "The personal animosities engendered between man and man," said he, "are not soon forgotten, and sometimes it takes a long while for one man to get even with another who has done him a wrong. When Mr. Johnson was President, Mr. J. B. McCullagh, now the managing editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, was the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer. Mr. Johnson had the highest regard for Mack's ability, and looked upon him as a wonderful correspondent and news gatherer. He had the entree to the White House whenever he choose to go there. Mack had once been driven from the Union camp by Gen. J. C. Davis, who was one of Sherman's right hand officers. The ground was covered with snow and the banishment was a severe one. Several Globe-Democrat has drawn from a gentlebanishment was a severe one. Several years elapsed and Gen. Davis had forgotten all about the mere youth whom he had treated so shabbily. He met McCullagh here and took quite a fancy to him, and one night Mack dropped into the Ebbitt House upon Gen. Davis and quite a party. The General said: "Gentlemen, let's have something. I am to be appointed have something. I am to be appointed Minister to Belgium to-morrow—no mistake about it. My name goes to the Senate to-morrow." McCullagh declined to drink, walked,out and to the White House he went. He saw the President and requested Mr. Johnson to reconsider his determination to appropriate Gen Davis, My Lohnson compiled. ler, of the Western Union Telegraph Co-las resigned.

FT. WORTH TO THE FRONT.

The Citizens Propose to Meet and Conmlt Jay Gould

Provided the Chief Magnate of the Southwest System Materializes in that Vicinity-The Court Records, Real Estate Sales, Personals and Local Pickups Generally.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 13.—The city is just now most concerned about the projected visit of a committee to confer with Col. Hoxie and Gov. Brown upon the opening up of streets across the railroad reservation. A meeting of citizens was held yesterday afternoon, at which it was determined to select the following gentlemen to represent the citizens: W. J. Boaz, A. M. Britton, W. A. Huffman, W. G. Turner, B. B. Paddock and C. H. Rinkleman. The City Council had only invited three citizens, but it was decided that all interests should be represented, and the number was increased to six. There is a hope that if Mr. Jay Gould should stop over at Fort Worth he may be induced to cast those piercing eyes of his over the much vexing territory, and that he may also be persuaded that this is, above all places, the spot whereon to build the long talked of machine shop.

Mr. Gould and party are expected to arrive here to-night or to-morrow morning. THE COURTS.

The District Court was mainly occupied to-day with the case of Reedes and wife against the members of the old wholesale dry goods house of Higbie, Randall & Darling Co. Hon. W. S. Pendleton appeared for plaintiff, and Messrs. Ball & McCart and Wray & Stanley for defendants. The firm sold goods to plaintiff, who formerly owned the store on the east side of the market square now occupied by W. B. Willingham, and took as security the house and the lot whereon it stands. Suit was brought to regain possession under the homestead law. The jury gave a verdict for plaintiff.

Immediately thereafter the trial of a suit for damages for ejectment was commenced, the same people being party to the suit. It was continued until to-morrow. It has been on the docket for nearly two years.

The civil term will end Thursday or Friday, leaving about 125 cases still untried. Among those likely to go over is that of the National Bank of Jefferson against the Texas Investment Co., already referred to in this column. Darling Co. Hon. W. S. Pendleton appeared Judge Beckham announced that Mr. Samuel J. Hunter, of the law firm of Hunter, Stewart & Peacock, had been appointed a special judge to try the cause of W. A. Aaron against the city of Fort Worth, Judge Beckham being disqualified by having acted at one time as counsel in the case.

In the County Court the suit of Casey & Swasey against W. A. Pounds and others on a note, judgment was rendered for plaintiffs for $523 64.

Judgment was also given in favor of Judgment was also given in favor of plaintiff in the case of Austin Tomlinson and Webster Manufacturing Co. against Jerry Reese and another on two notes of $240 each. The appeal case from the Justice's Court of E. A. Jacob against Stanley & Tomlinson was decided in favor of the defendant.

THE CRIMINAL DOCKET. The grand jury will probably get through their labors by Thursday or Friday, and the criminal docket will be taken up in the District Court on Monday. Among the indictments already found, most of which have been continued from previous terms, have been continued from previous terms, are no less than twelve for murder. The accused are Dallas Logan, Bill Heffson, Jake Grant, Henry Hittson, C. Herring, W. L. Rushing, J. Riley, James Rushing, Horace Matlock, Bill Randall, Tom and Sam Coffee, and Martin Davis.

Joe Hampson and M. Gunn will be tried for rape and C. D. Freeman, W. F. Lazier and others for swindling.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS. The County Commissioners have been in session for two days. The most important business transacted yesterday was an order for an election in the Keller School District to determine whether or not an additional to determine whether or not an additional tax of twenty cents on the hundred dollars shall be levied for school purposes. A proposition by D. H. Smith, nurseryman, to rent a portion of the courthouse yard was principle.

Thomas Austin and wife to John G. Johnson, 60 acres, a part of the John Edmunds' survey in Tarrant County; consideration $650.

G. A. Williams to E. W. Baker, lot 5, block 1, Clark's addition to Fort Worth; price $65.

Jackson Gallaway and wife to F. J. Chowning, lot 6, block 1, Clark's addition; consideration $25.

ROUNDING UP. Deputy Sheriff Thompson yesterday made a raid upon the cross timbers of Arlington, and succeeded in rounding up the following, who were indicted by the last grand ing, who were indicted by the last grand jury: Tom Ditto, indicted for disturbing the peace and for aggravated assault and battery; Webb Ditto, indicted for aggravated assault; John Ditto, indicted for aggravated assault; Bud Burford, indicted for aggravated assault; Bill Perry, indicted for aggravated assault. They were all placed under $100 bonds in each case to appear at the coming criminal term of the District Court.

SCENES ON THE STREET. Crowds followed a party of Comanches about the streets to-day. They consisted of Qua-na Parker, who calls himself their chief, Nano-tas, Too-wak-na, Tapietsa and Lara-po-ne. The "chief" was attired in a white felt sombrero and a handsome suit of brown, cut in the latest style. His braves were attired in blankets, with nether garments of parti-colored, bright-hued cloths, and their heads were adorned with cloths, and then heads were adolited what feathers and inexpensive gewgaws. THE NEWS FROM WACO.

The Bridge Case in Statu Quo-Some Additional Information as to the Legal Proceedings-The Day's Local Drift.

Special to The News.
WACO, Oct. 13.—There are no new developments in the dual injunction proceedings between the city and the Suspension Bridge Co. concerning the use of the fords across the Brazos. Both parties are preparing for a vigorous legal war, and are anxious for an early hearing. The city is confident of success, the question involved having virtually been settled by the Supreme Court on the injunction suit of the Suspension on the injunction suit of the Suspension Bridge Co. reversed and remanded. In this suit the Bridge Co. claimed that as the charter confers upon it exclusive bridge privileges for a distance of five miles up and down the river, and as the charter also prohibits the establishment of any other bridge or any ferry within that distance, it follows, especially as the company owns the land between the river and the terminion of streets leading to the fords, that all exstreets leading to the fords, that all ex-ng public fords within that distance were hibited and subject to be closed by the prohibited and subject to be closed by the Bridge Co.

Judge Watts, of Dallas, who rendered the opinion, held: Certainly it could not have been the legislative intent that all the fords for a distance of ten miles along the Brazos, the free and uninterrupted use of which had theretofore been enjoyed by the public, should be considered as interdicted, outlawed and subject to be closed at the whim or caprice of the Bridge Co. Before the earliest settlement by white men it seems that the Indians, while yet their campfires blazed along its banks, had by use established this as a ford where the tribes crossed and recrossed the Brazos at will; and when the Indian, obedient to his fate, moved on toward the setting sun and the white man settled the country, this ford was continued, and continuously used as a public crossing, interrupted only by high water, until 1876, when the injunction was sued out the bridge company.

The mandate and record in this cause have The mandate and record in this cause have been mysteriously lost or spirited away, hence so far as the bridge company is concerned, the injunction, which was virtually dissolved by the Supreme Court, is thus perpetuated. The City Attorney has secured copies of the papers from the clerk of the Supreme Court, and will force a new hearing by the substitution of papers. The fight will be earnest and lively.

A CELEBRATED CASE.

The Contest Over a Will in a Galveston Court-Probability of Damage Suit and Criminal Prosecution.

Special to The News. GALVESTON, Oct. 13. - The Bennison-Owens contested will case is still on trial in the County Court, and as the Sheriff of the county is a party to the suit it is attracting considerable attention, outside of the sensational developments that will result either way the case may be decided. If in favor of the plaintiffs, it will establish the facts, so far as a court decision goes, that bogus will has been probated and the beneficiaries have been enjoying the fruits for the past three or four years. If judgment be given for the defense, the fact will be equally well established that a very sensational fraud has been attempted, and in either event some lively damage suits, and probably criminal prosecutions will arise. The court was engaged all day to-day in hearing the evidence of plaintiff, the burden of which was to establish the family relations, going to show the motion for a will of the character sought to be probated. So far no direct proof has established the existence of a will of the character of the one sought to be established. A number of witnesses testify that they have heard of such a will, but the will itself is not accessible and plaintiff has yet failed to establish that such a will was destroyed. The general opinion is that it will be a very difficult matter to probate what purports to be its substance. The suit involves about $20,000 in realty in Galvesfor the past three or four years. POISONED SOUP.

New Orleans, Oct. 13 .- Twenty-five persons narrowly escaped poisoning at the coffee house of Charles Ross, Tchoupitoulas and St. Andrew streets, to-day. After dinner the wife of the proprietor was taken sick, and attributed it to soup. The colored cook, Kate Robinson, was called up and required to drink some of it. After the third spoonful she declined to drink more, and confessed that she had put "rough on rats" in it. She bore no ill will against anyone, but said that she saw the bottle lying on the shelf and could not resist an insane influence to put it in the soup. The large number of persons drinking the soup are still sick, but no fatal results are anticipated.

EXPOSURE OF THE ANTI-VACCINATIONIST. MONTREAL, Oct. 13 .- A complete exposure of the anti-vaccinationist, Dr. O. W. Ross, occurred in the Chicago express last evening. Soon after the train left Montreal the Ontario medical officer approached Ross and demanded that he should either exhibit his arm or produce a certificate of vaccination. Ross refused, and appealing to professional courtesy said that his word should be taken that he had never been vac-cinated. Finally he submitted to an inves-tigation, which demonstrated that the arm of the great advocate of anti-vaccination had been osculated very recently, and had the marks on his arm. Ross had done more than any one to work upon the prejudice of the ignorant, and has published a daily fly sheet denouncing vaccination.

A CONFLICT BELIEVED TO BE INEVITABLE. VIENNA, Oct. 13 .- A dispatch received rom Sophia states that the Turkish garrison of Salonica is now marching northward toward the Bulgarian frontier, and that the Bulgarians have thrown up entrenchments at Pristina, where they propose to await any attack. is located on the TEXAS AND PACIFIC RAILWAY, where it crosses the Pecos river, 432 miles west of Dallas and 400 miles west of Fort Worth, and 215 miles east of El Paso. It is geographically so situated that it is bound to control the trade up and down the river for hundreds of miles.

was created in 1882, and was organized November 4, 1884. Pecos City being chosen the county seat. The taxable values for 1885 amounted to $2,500,000. This county is 50x100 miles in extent. The Pecos river is about 1000 miles long, from 50 to 100 feet in breadth, is from 5 to 20 feet deep and has a fall of from 3½ to 5 feet per mile. It has a current of 4½ miles an hour and flows more water than any river in Texas. There is but little change in its volume of water during the year, and it is unsurpassed as a stream for irrigating purposes.

THE VALLEY OF THE PECOS.

That vast territory lying east of the Guadalupe, Davis and other mountains of the Rocky ange and west of the Sand hills, extending from Santa Fe, New Mexico, to the Rio Grande, is coperly speaking the Valley of the Pecos.

The following figures show the number of cattle, horses and sheep in the Pecos Valley, tributy to Pecos City:

	Horses.	CATTLE.	SHEEP.
Reeves County.	5,000	75,000	20,000
Pecos County		75,000 15,000	30,000
El Paso County		50,000 60,000	50,000
Seven Rivers and Black River, N. M	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •	7,500	20,000
Total	20,000	272,500	121,500

making a total of 424,000 head of stock. The supplies to care for this stock must be furnished from Pecos City, and the products shipped from that point.

IRRIGATION—Reeves county has a frontage on the Pecos river for 100 miles. Toyah Creel runs through the county for about 40 miles. It is estimated that 275,000 acres can be irrigated i Reeves county alone. There are 10,000 acres in Reeves county and 7500 at Roswell, N. M., no under irrigating ditches. All the cereals, fruits and vegetables are raised to perfection.

That part of Pecos Valley which may be irrigated is from two to eight miles wide, on eith side of the river, and embraces almost its entire length. The PECOS VALLEY LAND AND IRR GATION COMPANY, chartered under the laws of Texas, will open twenty miles of ditches in the near future. The soil of the valley is a sandy loam, from 15 to 20 feet deep. The upland soil is gray loam, underlined with gypsum and rotten limestone.

WATER—Wells are being dug in Pecos City, and good water is found at a depth of from 15 to 20 feet. The water is impregnated with mineral ingredients, not unpleasant to the taste, and possesses valuable medical properties, being a sure cure for dyspepsia and diseases of the throat. CLIMATE—The climate of the Pecos Valley is delightful. The winters are mild and free from northers, and the summers are more pleasant than the weather in the Northern States during the same season. The altitude is about 3000 feet above the level of the sea. Bronchitis and catarrh disappear in this climate.

A KALEIDOSCOPICAL LAND BOARD.

In July last the State Land Board modified its repeal of the seven section clause in | ferred classes. If ever an immigration the land sales act of 1883 by providing for sales of three sections of school lands to any one person who should be an actual settler. The law that the board had repealed permitted any one person to purthase as many as seven sections. Under the repealing resolution of the Land Board, for about two years sales were limited to one section to any one person. The modification in July last, when the board proseeded to codify, revise, remodel and enact anew and for the second or third time in two years the land law of the State, was a compromise between the views of the Legislature and the demands of a portion of the Land Board. Under this new law three sections, instead of seven permitted by the legislative act, might be purchased. It was a concession, based on the argument advanced by Comptroller Swain, of the board, that the actual settler needed in the western districts to have more than a section of land for grazing purposes, and that it would encourage the settlement of the country by small farmers and stockraisers. It is presumed from the reports of the grass commissioners that the concession has been used to circumvent the purpose above indicated. If it works to enable speculators to take up the land, it works to contravene the policy of the Land Board, and it was proper, upon trial with such result, to promptly repeal it and abandon the experiment, always of course provided that the Land Board has any settled policy which it would be for the public interest to carry out to final and complete execution. By resolution No. 18, passed at a recent session of the Land Board, accordingly the three-section experiment was discontinued. This capricious action of the Land Board is another illustration of a chronic instability in the land system which is of advantage to retrospect only once was he found apparentnone save the ever-vigilant landshark. In three months the class of well-to-do farmers who could be induced to make the experiment of mixed farming and stock-rais- cate grab, the Statesman took the opposite claimants in England. The old original fers dreadfully with nightmare. When his have arranged to secure their lands, but just when the new law began to be understood and arrangements, it may be presumed, were far advanced to avail of it, the board, without notice, repeals it. It seems as though the board has decided to continue no policy that upon trial promises results. If frauds were suspected the board has agents to expose them, and to protect the lands from the speculator and to promote their occupation by actual settlers engaged in the mixed industry of agriculture and stock raising. The $\begin{pmatrix} 1 & 40 \\ 1 & 25 \\ 1 & 15 \end{pmatrix}$ theory of the board seems to be that the grass agents are paid to discover what improper and injurious advantage is being taken of the law with a view of repealing the law so abused, and not with the view of instituting measures to protect the law from fraud and evasion. This implies that nothing satisfactory is expected until a law is found which will admit of neither operation nor evasion, that a constant succession of experimental measures is to be tried to test the capacity of land jobbers to outwit the board, or that no system is wanted that will result in sales and leases of the lands. It might be amusing-this legislative kaleidoscope of the Land Board-if the people were not harried by the tax collector to keep up the show. ABOUT AN IMMIGRATION POLICY.

As money is raised by taxation upon people of all conditions, and as the promotion of immigration is a matter more especially interesting to some classes than to others, there is more justice in allowing immigration movements to take a natural course at the expense of those who are prepared to contribute voluntarily to the desired end than in taxing the people generally for its accomplishment. The defense of life and property, the adoption and execution of all laws deemed necessary for the maintenance of justice, for the protection of life and property and for the vindication and security of the proper liberties of the citizen, of commerce and industry, do not imply a breathless need of hurrying the process of filling all vacant spaces. That is more especially an interest of speculative landowners, and if the State is a landholder in trust, it is more reasonably so in trust for those who are here, and by a liberal construction for those who have a right to come and do come of their own motion and at their own expense, than for people in foreign countries who might be indisposed to come without solicitation and some sort of bounty. The interest of all taxpayers in this matter is not common, equal or mutual. It is also to be observed that an official immigration commission which should do its duty would be compelled in decency to solicit only certain classes of immigrants, as there is now too great a proportion in some occupations. Thus the labors of such a com mission would be in the nature of special rather than general service at the best. But special aid by the State to some interests at the expense of all leads to claims for return favors, equally without immediate consideration. The larger class interests might thus get somewhere nearly even, while taxes would be increased. But there are in every State a number of citizens who must pay taxes for all objects, and yet who could not participate to any perceptible degree in favors so divided. There are other citizens who would be directly antagonized in their employment by the competition of foreigners inducted into the State by a paternal system. It is all very well to leave them to stand or fall under competition, but to tax them in order to import competitors is unjust to any active, laborious or skilled class of workers. The constitutional inhibition and Gov. Ireland's recently expressed views on this subject are obviously correct according to justice and the dictates of circumstantial equity. There have been administrations that have rushed States headlong into debt, and they have such a policy as slowcoaches, even when the debts were unwarranted in their terms and proposed objects. So it is with every measure involving public expense to procalled old fogies. It is old fogyish, of course, to adhere to strict equity and refuse to spend money collected from all classes to promote the interests of one or two preagency is established at public expense it should be partly to warn away such immigrants as could not come in a reasonable condition of independence or find employment without distressing those who are here, and the commissioners would have to be very good and very resolute men to do such a duty.

The Richmond Opinion remarks on one of the remaining defects of the jury system. The illogical idea that a man who has read the partial account of a crime in a newspaper and formed an idea of the guilt or innocence of the accused from it without prejudice, is slowly giving way to more reasonable rules. It would be as rational to dismiss a jury when they had heard only one side of a case on trial, and would be governed by what they had heard if the other side was not presented, as to reject a man as a juror because he had heard a partial account of a supposed crime and would form an opinion from what he had heard if nothing more was told him in regard to the affair. The Opinion says, speaking of the case of Colbert Brown:

The duty of the Sheriff to find twelve jurymen seemed light, but when it came to finding twelve men who had not thought or formed an opinion on a noted murder case, the task became somewhat formidable. With all alacrity the [Sheriff and deputies summoned everyone eligible or not eligible. with all alacrity the Isnerii and deputies summoned everyone eligible or not eligible, and with about as much dispatch were they told "they were not required." Up to Wednesday night eleven jurymen had been selected out of 114 summoned, and after some fifty more had been summoned, the twelfth man, who had "not formed an opinion" was found

Manuel labor claims far more respect than formerly, and, in truth, it is worthy to be placed on the same pedestal as every other labor, except intellectual labor prop-erly so called. The labor in the cotton field is equal to the mechanical labor of the pen. Invention has endowed us, too with machinery which frees man from the more laborious and exhausting kind of labor, and the horny hand of toil has become almost a figure of speech. That which now retards the advancement of the working classes in ngure of speech. That which now retards the advancement of the working classes in the social scale is the prejudice of the laborer to established methods and their slow recognition of a system which involves a gradual working out of the problem by time and the natural course of events. A man sees no appreciable advantage in earning a few dollars which he may have over on each periodical pay day, and the temptation to spend it in pleasure for himself and family during the day of repose following the week's work is irresistible. Thus he cannot make a beginning in saving. It is not by grumbling at his condition or in labor organizations that the unknown can advance his condition so much as by his own efforts. Legislation has placed education within the reach of the humblest, increased material prosperity will improve its quality, and thus establish a quasi intellectual equality amongst classes which the common schools for rich and poor alike have almost produced throughout the United almost produced throughout the United The Ennis Commercial Recorder says:

The Ennis Commercial Recorder says:

The next State convention will be the warmest thing of the kind that has occurred in many years. Aside from the hard fight that will be waged by friends of certain candidates, and leaving out lease-lawism and free-grassism, the prohibition question will come up with tenfold more interest than ever before. There is no question that there will be an effort made to antagonize Democracy and prohibition. It is equally there will be an effort made to antagonize Democracy and prohibition. It is equally certain that some over-zealous prohibitionists will try to engraft their favorite plank in the State platform. The adoption of the first course will place many life-long Democrats who favor prohibition in a trying position, and many of them will not hesitate to desert the Democracy. Discord and factionalism will be bred that can only end in the disruption and utter ruin of the nationalism will be bred that can only end in the disruption and utter ruin of the Democratic party in Texas. Then, if the second course is adopted the result will be about the same. So we say to both prohibition and anti-prohibition factions, let it alone in our next State convention. The Rockdale Messenger says:

Besides, his friends in North Texas will now be necessarily compelled to return the compliment by pulling for Gov. Ireland for United States Senator. So you see the The Gordon Courier remarks:

An Important Decision to Insurance Interests -More Photos.

Some members of the insurance branch of the business profession have objected to the reproduction of the pen pictures of prominent general and special agents commenced in The News day before yesterday. It is true these sketches have seen the light of day once several months ago in the Vindicator, but members may remember that a journal devoted exclusively to the technique of insurance is not devoured by the eyes of the general public, and it is for the enlightenment of this latter class of readers that these brilliant sketches, written by a graphic and truthful "expert," are reproduced sporadically in the columns of THE NEWS.

First, however, the Risk reporter pauses ong enough to observe that in insurance circles yesterday general satisfaction was expressed over the verdict rendered at Waxahachie the day previous in the case of A. M. and Dan Morrison vs. the Insurance Company of North America. The case was tried before Special Judge J. W. Ferris, as Hon. Anson Rainy, the District Judge, had been an attorney in the case before his elevation to the bench. Under instruction of the court that "other insurance without notice" renders the policy void, the jury found for the defendant. This decision is the first precedent covering this explicit expressed over the verdict rendered at the first precedent covering this explicit law of insurance established in Texas, and settles for all time to come that the insured must always before taking out a policy on his property give notice if he has been previously insured in another company. Omitting to give notice, his policy under the law as it now stands is null and the age recovery nothing in wear of void, and he can recover nothing in case of

J. J. Carnes, of the German American, is forty-three years old, a native of Georgia, five feet eleven inches high, weighs 175 bounds, good looking, black hair and beard, blue gray eyes and ruddy complexion. He was for many years a local agent in Dallas; is brusque in manner and emphatic in expressing himself. Has his own ideas about most things and is not afraid to ventilate them. He is naturally belligerant in temperament and aggressive in method, but his perament and aggressive in method, but his business experience enables him to hold himself well in hand. Is a fine business man, owns valuable property in Dallas, and Pres-ident Murray showed his usual good judg-ment when he selected Carnes as special for the German American. He drinks when he feels like it, smokes all the time, swears on propagation and instead of going to shape he provocation, and instead of going to church Sundays, stays at home with his charming family of eight children.

Covington, of the Hartford, is another Georgia man. He was fired at us last winter from Atlanta, and is well known to most of your readers for years past as special for the North British and Mercantile. He seems about 53 years old; his whole make-up indicates caution. He is 5 feet 9 inches high, a little stoop shouldered, very small hands and feet, which he seems a little proud of from the way he keeps them; very gray hair, beard, and mustache, large nose, gray eyes, soft voice, and unruffled manner. The Hartford has not made a mistake in engaging him at $5000 a year. His long experience is worth a great deal of money to any company, and the State Association of Texas placed him at once on the executive committee, although he had been in the State hus four months. in the State but four months.

J. P. Murphy, of the Phoenix, is a "daisy." He is the handsomest man in the field, and could be a masher if his inclinations ran in that direction; is from Wilkesbarre, Pa., thirty-six years old, six feet tall, perfectly symmetrical figure, blue eyes, brown hair and a charming manner, which makes you overlook the fact that he is beautifully dressed, and wears a "stovepipe." He looks like he was "from the States;" has looks like he was "from the States;" has been here four years; was formerly a local agent at Wilkesbarre. He is immensely popular; gets a big business for his company, and losses being light this year, stays a great deal in Dallas with his bride. But for this fact I might say that he smoked, drank and swore, sort of a "go as you please" with the small vices. His wife takes him to the Episcopal Church, where she is the envy of all the girls.

Striking for Pecan Springs. SWEETWATER, Oct. 13.—It is rumored that the engineer corps of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad, during the orado and Santa Fe Railroad, during the last week, made a second survey through this county, crossing the Tap about eight or ten miles west of this place. From Pecan Springs, in Coleman County, up Valley Creek, through Runnels and Taylor, to its head, in Nolan, thence in a northwestern direction to Sunder, in Scurry County, seems to be the line of this road, as indicated by knowing ones. The route is practicable, but few fillings, or excavations, or bridges, and over a magnificent stretch of fertile agricultural country.

At nine she heard a fall, rushed to the room and found Miskelley on the floor in a pool of blood. He had cut his throat with a dull pen knife, used to cut tobacco, but had missed the jugular vein by a hairs breadth. He still lives, but is raving crazy. He has been Recorder for two terms.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

The Texas Trunk as Good as Sold to an Eastern Syndicate.

The Road to be Pushed Rapidly to Athens-Dallas Sure of Another Through Connection With all the Great Commercial Centres of the Country-Down Where the Pine Trees Whisper.

Some days ago the railroad editor of THE NEWS was admitted to a knowledge of the inside facts connected with the negotiations pending between the stockholders of the Texas Trunk and two powerful Eastern syndicates looking to the purchase of that property. The respective sums offered by both sets of bidders was large and tempting. Telegrams have been passing for some days between Dallas and Philadelphia and New York. Yesterday the sale of the Texas Trunk was consummated, so far as the figures at which the property should change hands and the acceptance by both sides of the agreed terms of sale are concerned. All the neces sary papers for making the transfer to the Eastern syndicate, signed by the Dallas parties properly attested, were forwarded by mail last night. As soon as they receive the signatures of the parties of the second part in the East, the Texas Trunk will have passed into the hands of men with abundant capital to push it to its original destination, Sabine Pass.

One of the paramount conditions insisted on by the original stockholders, who are all Dallas men and have the welfare of the metropolis of North Texas at heart, was that the purchasers shall bind themselves to push forward the Trunk toward comple tion with reasonable dispatch.

As soon as the title is perfected the new owners will begin the work of extension and rush the work rapidly until Athens is reached on the Texas and St. Louis. There is only a gap of twenty-four miles between is only a gap of twenty-four miles between Cedar, the present terminus of the Trunk, and the point of junction with the Texas and St. Louis, and the route extends through a country offering the most easy conditions for railroad construction in the State. Completed to Athens, the Texas Trunk opens up another through freight and passenger line for Dallass with St. Louis, Kansas City, Memphis, Cincinnati and New Orleans.

Thirty miles southeast of Athens the road will enter the long-leaved pine region of Texas, extending through Anderson, Houston, Angelina, Trinity, Polk, Hardin and Jefferson counties, all heavily timbered and with the best milling facilities in the State. The immense lumber trade which will be thus centered at Dallas will pour into the lap of her commerce millions of dollars and will make her the great depot and distributing point for every town that can be reached by rail in the entire State.

JAY GOULD AND PARTY. OMAHA, Oct. 13 .- Jay Gould and party, consisting of Russell, Sage, Geo. J. Gould, H. M. Hoxie, J. M. Hawkins, Dr. Shackleford and other prominent railroad people, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. In an interview with a United Press corre spondent Mr. Gould admitted that aside from the announced purpose of the party in inspecting the Missouri Pacific, they were on an important errand. It is proposed to build a road direct from this city to the Block Hills, running through the Elkhorn Valley. The announcement of this fact produced great enthusiasm in Omaha.

They will meet the visiting committee representing the road at 9 o'clock Wednesday.

FIRE CAUSED BY AN ENGINE. Special to The News.

LONGVIEW, Oct. 13 .- As freight No. 13 whirled by the railroad storeroom at the junction at noon to-day the heavy wind blew enough sparks from the engine to ignite the oilroom, which, with the store room and contents, the roundhouse, foreman's and bookkeeper's offices attached, were destroyed. But little resource, beside main strength for use in such cases, was to be seen, water being carried by buckets to the roundhouse roof, which frequently caught fire from the heat of the burning oil. The flames being blown directly away from the building alone saved it. To-morrow being requisition day, the storehouse was comparatively empty. As it was, the loss will doubtless aggregate $4000.

TUNNEL AT VICKSBTRG. Chief Engineer Elliott, of the Louisville New Orleans and Texas Railroad, spent Sunday in Vicksburg inspecting the work being done in the tunnel. This work has been very difficult and of slow progress. It is under contract to J. P. McDonald. The change of the line of the track required a new road bed for a distance of about four miles, including the tunnel, which is about eight hundred lineal feet through the hill. About 75 per cent of the work is completed, and it is thought it will be finished by Jan. 1.

remain in effect until further notice."

The South Pennsylvania injunction suit has progressed sufficiently to indicate what the facts in the case are. The testimony of President Roberts several days ago practically decided it. The deal was practically completed twelve hours before the injunction was obtained. High legal authority holds that this fact will vitiate the injunction proceedings, that a transaction which has olready taken place cannot be questioned by injunction, and that if Attorney General Cassidy would accomplish anything, he would be obliged to begin action anew by procuring a writ of quo warranto, asking of the Pennsylvania Company why the proceedings should not be declared null and void.

From the Alta Californian.

Passenger business among the Eastern agencies is quiet since the first of this month, the date when the new agreement for maintaining schedule rates went into effect, and the agents are whistling for passengers. This noticeable difference in volume of traffic is not easily accounted for, and its coincidence with a sturdy purpose to pay only the agreed street commission of $3 to New York and $2 to Chicago, instead of $15 to $20, as was the case a few days ago, suggests the idea that cut rates make travel through the agitation consequent upon the inducements to those studying economy. This peculiar position has From the Alta Californian. its precedent, as statistics will show—so some among the agents claim; still their purpose is to hold up rates "while the others do."

ABILENE IN A QUANDARY.

A correspondent of the Globe-Democrat, writing from Abilene under date of the 10th inst, says: The right of way agents of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad have been instructed to secure right of way from Coleman to Pecan Springs, about twenty miles west of Coleman and forty-five miles south of Abilene. This movement is considered by some as threatening to Abilene, as, if the road goes to Pecan Springs, it will hardly come here; but as the right of way costs nothing many regard it as a mere feint to scare Abilene and draw from her as way costs nothing many regard it as a mere feint to scare Abilene and draw from her as big a subsidy as possible. Be that as it may, if the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe builds to Pecan Springs, it will take away from the Texas and Pacific a very large trade, which it cannot well afford to lose. All the trade of San Angelo, and the counties of Tom Green and Concho, now comes to Abilene, and as Pecan Springs will be fifty to seventy miles nearer to these localities, of course the trade will go there. In addition the Texas Pacific will lose the entire trade of Runnels County, and nearly half of that of Taylor County. The interesting query is what will the Gould people now do about it? Will they build a branch road from Abilene to San Angelo, and thus retain all this vast trade, or will they sit quietly down and be slaughtered. That they can make a hard old battle when they make up their minds to it, no one can doubt.

INDIANAPOLIS FREIGHT MOVEMENT.

INDIANAPOLIS FREIGHT MOVEMENT. A total of 21,510 cars were received and forwarded at Indianapolis last week. There was an increase of 906 loaded cars and 357 empties over the figures of last year. As compared with the movement of the previous week there was a decrease of 1027 loaded cars and 1084 empties. There are several causes for this marked decrease in business. First, the restoration of east-bound rates, the effect of which in decrease of traffic became quite noticeable the latter part of the week; second, all of the oats, wheat and old corn crop, which will be shipped to the seaboard, has gone forward; third, the prices of lumber have gone off so much in the Eastern market that Western dealers have stopped shipping until the demand improves. Then the advance of west-bound rates on Monday last, toward the latter part of the week caused a decided falling off in west-bound through shipments. This lull in business, of course, will be but temporary. In fact, on Satur day there was an increased inquiry for cars to load at the advanced rates, but naturally it will be a little slow until the new corn and hog crops begin to move. North and South roads are doing a heavier business than at any time for some months. The freights are miscellaneous in character, and 90 per cent of it carried at local rates, local business being heavy in all directions. several causes for this marked decrease in

WAXAHACHIE.

A Hired Hand Who Skipped by the Light of the Moon-His Employer Anxious to Recover a Horse.

WAXAHACHIE, Oct. 13.—On Thursday last a man giving his name as Dick Harris, applied for work to O. B. Sims, who owns a gin a few miles from town. Mr. Sims employed him, and Harris began work the following day. Sims finding out that he had no use for the man, ordered his superintendent to pay Harris off, but on Sunday morning Harris refused to receive the morning Harris refused to receive the money, and going to the lot saddled a black pony belonging to Sims, saying he would come to town and see Sims in person. The pony or Harris have not been heard from since. Harris is about twenty-five or twenty-eight years old, about 5 feet 10 inches high and weighs about 140 pounds, has deep scars on his face like smallpox and wears a moustache. He was arrested here in town by Constable Contrell last summer, but when tried for vagrancy was dismissed, he having $1 50 in his pocket.

The Saintly Saints.

The church organ at Salt Lake printed five olumns and a half of an address from John Taylor and George Q. Cannon. It is devoted to strictures on the judicial proceedings there, calling them prejudiced and harsh. It says: "We join with all saints in invoking blessings upon the noble men and women who have exhibited their integrity to God and the cause and their devotion to principle by submitting to bonds and imprisonment rather than deny the faith and break the covenants. Their names will be held in everlasting honor in time and eternity, not only as martyrs for religious truth, but as patriots who suffered in defence of the principle of religious liberty." Those who promised to obey the laws and so eswho promised to obey the laws and so escaped imprisonment are referred to as the foolish virgins who will not be ready to get the bridegroom. Although both Taylor and Cannon have for months been hiding from the officers, who have warrants for their arrest, this epistle is dated Salt Lake, Oct. 6.

Imprisonment for Debts Due Women. NEW YORK. Oct. 11.—There is consterna tion for impecunious theatre managers in a verdict of $43 against George Holland, the actor, in favor of Genevieve Brett, an inconspicuous actress, who was employed in a disastrous venture last year. There is a special law in this State intended to protect workingwomen against loss of wages. It provides that an employer, under certain conditions that are bound to technically exist in nearly every case, can be imprisoned after a judgment is obtained until it is paid, or at least security for its payment given. In effect it revives the law for the imprisonment of debtors so far as their dues to female employes are concerned. The counsel for Miss Brett took advantage of this statute, the Judge holding that an actress is a woman working for wages. Already the term "bretting" has gone into the showman's vocabulary, and the fear of being "bretted" will possibly deter some managers from going into reckless adventures not backed by sufficient capital to cover the pay roll. provides that an employer, under cer-

MARY ANDERSON'S RETURN. A Chat With Her on the Steamer-The Gleeful Girl Talks About Various Things and Gives Some of Her Ocean

> Experience. New York Tribune.

The Tribune reporter who climbed on the steamship Gallia from the revenue cutter early yesterday morning and conversed with Miss Anderson for an hour was an object of envy to some thirty press men on the Cygnus who who were not permitted to go aboard the Cunarder. The falling mists gently clung to the bright blue apparel of the famous actress as she came on deck from her stateroom-a picture of glowing beauty. Passing tugs tooted a hearty welcome; passengers crowded around the center of attraction, smiling when Miss Anderson smiled and enjoying the general greeting apparently quite as much as she. Miss Anderson was in great spirits, and talked to everybody all at once without waiting for replies, and laughed heartily at every amusing idea or incident. She asked the names of almost every object from the quarantine station to Pier 40, saying that she was never very well acquainted with New York anyway, and couldn't recall what she did know. "But don't I remember." she said, "how dreadfully blue I was to leave the dear old city two and one-half years ago and see its shadows fade out of sight? Although I learned to love England, I was in no way affected when I finally bade it good-by."

Miss Anderson's conversation with the Tribune reporter was a rambling, merry informal talk, free from all restraint.

informal talk, free from all restraint.

"I suppose those are reporters on board of the Cygnus," she said, and modestly added: "I guess they are all shouting at me." Then, as if shocked at the idea, she turned to Mr. Abbey and entreated: "You'll stand by me, won't you, and not let them eat me up when we get ashore. Get me away from them as soon as possible, please."

Some one asked if she had posed for a photograph recenty. "Oh, yes," she replied. "But those English photographers are so clow and take so long to adjust the camera! "Our Americans," she added in a lively way, "go click. click, and in a second it's over." Mr. Abbey suggested that she go down stairs and sign the customs papers. She went down to the long table where all the passengers were waiting in line. "Miss Anderson will be next," said the official frowning at the man to whom that place really belonged. She sat down and looked over the blank. "I don't know how many boxes there are," she said petulantly. "Where is the man who has the list?" Five minutes were expended hunting up the "man." She looked over the list and volunteered the information that there were thirty boxes and three baskets. Then she signed hher name twice and went on deck.

"I got up at 5 o'clock," she remarked, "and went on deck to enjoy the view. I must tell how seasick we all were. Every member of the compary was sick. The sea was terribly rough. I called it riding across on the rail, don,t you know, because we all patronized the rail so much." Then she laughed and everybody laughed.

"My room was right next to an officer's and the partition between was very thin. The officer told me that he used to hear me say to my maid when I was so sick, "Bartol, oh Bartol! Why can't the ship sink?" As she said this she spoke in deep ghostly tones and made a heavy stage gesture.

"There was poor Mr. Falls. He was the sikest man in the lot, and when I went to him to see how he was getting along and ask him some questions, he just leaned his head on his hand and said, "Leave me, leave me and let me die. I am not Pygmalion.' The Gallia rolls so dreadfully that I was sorry we did not take the Eutruria, although some one says it rolls worse than this boat."

"I read that you are fond of Dickens, Miss Anderson," said the reporter, looking at a green-covered book in her hand.

"Oh; this is not Dickens. This is 'V sase." Some one asked if she had posed for a

"I am so glad to hear it," she went on.

heard of Broadway, Wall street and Fifth ave."

"You do know something about us, don't you?" she commented. Then, "Where do we land?" she asked of the reporter.

"At about the foot of Eight street."

"Then we are quite up town, and shan't have so far to ride through the dismal rain. I want to get right at work rehearsing. I shall be so busy for a week that I cannot see anyone or do anything. My dearest Boston friend can't be with me because her daughter is sick, and that quite discourages me."

"Miss Anderson," said the reporter solemnly, "does it occur to you that your return here quite the foremost American woturn here quite the foremost American wo-

The actress turned with a startled look, blushed and looked back, out through the Narrows toward the sea. "Is that so?" she mused quietly. Then she laughed merrily and remarked: "That being the case, although I don't believe it, I must comport myself with great dignity."

All the while she kept her maid running back and forth, getting this thing and that, until all the gettlemen around had something to carry for her. She threw her ulster over the reporter, gave him her dainty silk umbrella for his left hand and thrust a wellworn portmanteau in his right.

"Does the portmanteeau contain all your valuables?" he asked.

"Not quite, but you mustn't carry it off,

"Not quite, but you mustn't carry it off, because I use it as a weapon of defense." Then she took it in one hand and hit the rail with it.

"I have heard that poor John McCullough is dying," she said. "It is one of the saddest things I know of. He was one of our greatest tragedians."

Mr. Abbey approached. "The customs officials have volunteered to examine our baggage first," he said.

"That is very kind of them. Let us proceed to that disagreeable duty at once."

There was little trouble, and Miss Anderson bore the ordeal calmly.

She was asked if she had any new engagements to report. She laughed. "Who was the last one?" she inquired. "Really, I am reported engaged so often and to so many people that I am quite bewildered. You can say that my latest is for the American tour."

Then she turned and tripped down the plank, rewarding the eager crowd below with a smile, but holding Mr. Abbey to his yune.

promise of protection, and hurrying to the Hotel Buckingham.

A small party of friends left Pier No.1 on board the Cygnus in the grey dawn, intending to receive Miss Anderson and Mr. Abbey on board at Quarantine. The delay occasioned by waiting for a young man who had overslept himself, however, marred the carefully laid scheme, and the Cygnus arrived at Quarantine just in time to see the Gallia start for her dock. Those on board shouted a welcome to Miss Anderson. As soon as she reached the hotel it was evident that she was completely overcome, and she soon as she reached the note: It was evident that she was completely overcome, and she was forced to retire at once. She was not able to see any visitors throughout the day, and by evening the cold she had contracted on the voyage was so aggravated that it was considered doubtful whether she would be what to play to play to play to to day. considered doubtful what able to rehearse to-day.

Mahone's Schemes.

St. Louis Republica: WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.-While Virginia Democrats continue confident of the election of Gen. Lee they begin to suspect that Mahone is conducting a still hunt for the Legislature, or at least the lower branch, which may give them trouble. They are satisfied he does not expect to elect a sufficient number of Senators to constitute with those holding over a majority of that body, but believe he does hope to choose a majority of the 100 members of the House of Delegates. If he succeeds in getting fifty-one seats filled with his own men it will be his victory. Fitz Lee will be Governor. There will be a Democratic Senate to check Mahoneite legislation, but there will be a Mahoneite majority on joint ballot. Mahone will go to the Senate, and all officers who are elected by the Legislature will be Mahoneites. Fifty-one members of the House of Delegates will be enough, as there is a clear majority of two. As the Democrats will have more than two majority in the Senate the Mahoneites will turn out enough Democratic delegates and seat enough Mahoneites to make a good working majority on joint ballot. This is the scheme which is being worked in the cross-roads and by-ways in Virginia, for Mahone is making no open canvass to count on. What Wise and Blair do on the stump and his Richmond organ publishes are not relied upon to hold or gain votes.

The fight is a dark one. Circulars to this, that and the other county, are prepared expressly for local circulation, filled with lies and slanders; they are not published in his organs to provoke Democratic comment, but are passed from hand to hand to do their uninterrupted work. The published meetings of his canvassers are all for effect. Their labors to be performed secretly are out of all proportion to those openly carried on. They rely upon such influence as they can exert in little neighborhood gatherings of the faithful and those whom they hope to convert rather than at meetings advertised beforehand and attended by staunch Democrats as well as by bitter Mahoneites.

One speaker, who a day or two ago received a list of nearly sixty appointments to be filled between now and Nov. 3, is under sealed orders, like the commander of a naval expedition, and does not actually know what he is to do or how he is to do it. Dark lantern proceedings of this kind cost money, but it is stated there is plenty of evidence that Mahone has obtained an ample fund in some way. The Democrats are waking up to the ity of the 100 members of the House of Delegates. If he succeeds in getting fifty-one

Cleveland Leader. It is said that drinking is decreasing at Washington. I do not believe this to be so. Fewer people drink at the saloons, perhaps. But it has come to be that every public man has his cellars stocked with wines and brandies, and liquors are sold by the quantity instead of the glass. All the grocery stores in Washington keep large stocks of liquors, from Mumm's extra dry champagne down to a very cheap article of whisky, and you will find wine stores in nearly every block. In no city in the United States, except, perhaps, New Orleans, is there so much wine drank in proportion to the population. Many families never sit down to a meal without having wine on the table, and at a Washington hotel, where public men stop, it is the rule to take a bottle of wine with your dinner. Within the last few years punch has become very popular at Washington, and you will now find a big punch bowl at almost every fashionable gathering. It is quite an art to make fine Washington punch, and it takes very little of the regular article to cause the knee to quiver and the head to swim. One recipe contains the ingredients, whisky, rum, claret, champagne, sugar and nearly every block. In no city in the whisky, rum, claret, champagne, sugar and lemons. A little water added to this, and you have a drink that will put an old toper under the table after half of his usual allowance. Still this stuff is given to young men and maidens.

There is a good deal of difference in the United States as to drinking. Men from the North and East and from California drink wine, while those from the West and South take beer or whisky. Kentuckians usually take whisky straight, and Wisconsians are fond of their own Milwaukee lager. Senators Frye and Blair are said to be the only Senators who are teetotallers. Attorney General Garland likes a good article of bourbon. President Cleveland drinks beer sometimes. The Speaker is a good judge of liguors, and he often takes a bottle of wine with his lunch.

There was a Congressman named Jadwin in the Forty-seventh Congress who never sat down to a meal without having a tea cup of hot water placed before him. He seasoned if with cream and sugar and drank it as other people do coffee. Congressman Hatch, of Missouri, is also a hot water drinker, and Breckenridge, of Arkansas, takes it with every meal. These hot water drinkers advocate the practice as a cure for dyspensia and indigestion, and they say they become as fond of the drink as of tea. become as fond of the drink as of tea.

First Railroad in America.

In the course of a paper read before the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, bearing the title, "Transportation Facilities of the Past and Present," Mr. Barnett Le Van corrects the commonly received statement that the Granite Railroad, built at Quincy, Mass., in 1827, by Gridley Bryant, for transporting stone for the Bunker Hill Monument from the granite quarries of Quincy, was the first railroad built in the United States. On this point he presents interesting testimony to prove that, far from being the first, the point he presents interesting testimony to prove that, far from being the first, the Granite Railway was really only the fourth in order of precedence in the United States. We quote from that portion of the paper relating to the subject as follows:

"Railroads were also first introduced in Pennsylvania. In September, 1809, the first experimental track in the United States was laid out by John Thomson (the father of John Edgar Thomson, who was afterward the president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.), Civil Engineer of Delaware county, Pa., and constructed under his direction by Somerville, a Scotch millright, for Thomas Leiper, of Philadelphia. It was 180 feet in length, and graded one and a half inches to the yard, The gauge was 4 feet, and the sleepers 8 feet apart. The experiment with a loaded car was so successful that Leiper in the same year caused the first practical railroad in the United States to be constructed for the transportation of stone from his quarries on Crum Creek to his landing on Ridley Creek, in Delaware County, Pennsylvania, a distance of about one mile. It continued in use for nineteen years. Some of the original foundations, consisting of rock in which holes were drilled and afterward plugged with wood to receive the spikes to hold the sleepers in place, may be seen to this day.

Irish Parliament will take, but I have claimed that no parliamentary assembly in Ireland will work satisfactorily which has no free power over Irish affairs; which has not free power to raise a revenue for the purpose of our government, as shall seem fit to that assembly. I have an opinion that it would be wise to protect certain Irish industries—at all events for a time—in order to make up for a loss at the start which we experienced, owing to the adverse legislation of times past. Ireland could never be a manufacturing nation of such importance as to be able to compete with England, but several industries could be made to thrive here, although we should be compelled to seek other than our own supplies from the English markets on account of natural causes. But I claim for Ireland that, if an Irish Parliament considers there are certain industries in Ireland which could be fostered by protection, that Irish Parliament should have power to protect them. It is not for me to predict the extent to which that power would be used, but I tell the English Radicals and Liberals that it is useless to talk of their desire to do it would be wise to protect certain Irish but I tell the English Radicals and Liberals that it is useless to talk of their desire to do justice to Ireland when, from motives of selfishness, they refuse to repair the most manifest inequalities of all, namely, the destruction of our manufactures by England in times past—when they refuse to repair the injustice by giving us the power to build up those comparatively few industries to which Ireland is adapted by circumstances to excel in.

tries to which Ireland is adapted by circumstances to excel in.

A claim has been put forward that some guarantee should be given that the granting of legislative independence to Ireland should not lead to separation. This claim is one which at first sight may seem fair. It would be preposterous to ask England to concede to us the engine which we announced our intention to use for bringing about separation; but there is a great difference between having such an intention and giving counter guarantees against carrying it out. It is not possible for the human intelligence to forecast the future in such matters, but we can point to the fact that under telligence to forecast the future in such matters, but we can point to the fact that under the eighty-five last years of her parliamentary connection with England Ireland has become intensely disloval and intensely disaffected; that, notwithstanding the alternate policy of conciliation and coercion, disaffection has broadened and deepened from day to day. Am I not, then, entitled to assume that the root of disaffection and of this feeling of disloyalty is the assumption by England of the management of our own affairs? It is admitted that the present system cannot go on. What are you going to put in its place? My advice to English statesmen in considering this question would be to trust the Irish people altogether or to trust them not at all. Give with free and open hand! Give our people power to legislate on all domestic concerns and you may depend on one thing—the desire for separation at least will not be increased or intensified.

Whatever chance English rulers may have whatever chance English rulers may have of drawing to themselves the affection of the Irish people lies in their destroying the abominable system of legislative union by conceding fully and freely to Ireland the right to manage her own affairs. We can show that the power has been freely conceded to the great colonies to protect their industries against those of England. In these colonies disaffection has disappeared and while Irishmen going to America carry with them a burning hatred against British rule and bequeath it to their children, the Irishman who goes to Australia and finds a different system of English rule becomes a loyal citizen and a strength and prop to the community in which his lot is cast.

I say it is possible, and it is the duty of English statesmen of to-day to inquire into and to examine these facts for themselves, and to cease the task they admit to be impossible—that of going forward in continued misgovernment. If these lessons can be learned, I am convinced that the English statesman who is great enough and who is powerful enough to carry out these teachings and to enforce them on the acceptance of his countrymen, and to give Ireland a full legislative liberty and a full power to manage her own domestic concerns, will be regarded in the future by his countrymen Whatever chance English rulers may have manage her own domestic concerns, will be regarded in the future by his countrymen as one who has removed the greatest peril to the English Empire—a peril, I firmly believe, which, if not removed, will find some day, perhaps not in our time, but will certainly find sooner or later, an opportunity of revenging itself by the destruction of the British Empire for the oppressions and misgovernment of centuries.

Escaping a Board Bill.

"Did you ever hear how Harry I. Shellman, the poet, got out of paying a board bill in Texas?"

I replied that I had never heard the story, and could not believe that Mr. Shellman would try to get out of paying a board bill.

"Oh," said the Indianapolis gentleman, "I don't mean that he jumped his board or anything of that sort. It happened in this way: He had been spending a part of the summer of 1875 in Texas, and boarded for a portion of the time with a nice, pious old lady who was hedged in and guided by all the superstitions within reach. One day, just before Mr. Shellman was to leave Texas, he went to a photographer to have himself "taken" in the rough Texas costume he had worn during his stay there. In that day the double photograph was a comparatively new thing, and the photographer expressed a desire to make one of Mr. Shellman in his two characters of rough Texan and polished gentleman. Accordingly the double picture was made, and Mr. Shellman was delighted to find the counterfeit of himself as a ranger standing beside the presentment of himself as a sleek-dressed gentleman on the one card. The difference between the bushy bearded Texan and the smooth shaven Northerner was very striking. When Mr. Shellman went to pay his landlady and bid her good-by he showed this dual picture to her, but instead of being delighted she looked at first perplexed, then frightened, and finally, throwing the picture on the table, fled from the room, declining to receive money from the room, declining to receive money from the hands of any person in league with the devil. Nor would she, when pursued, listen to any explanation of the strange picture. It was enough for her to know that her boarder could stand before a camera and have his picture taken in two characters at once, with his own self standing beside himself in another garb, and his own hand laid on his own shoulder as if he was two persons. The idea was too deep for the old lady to grasp. She could only think he was an ally of Satan, and that to take money from him would be to sell her soul to the old boy himself. Mr. Shellman knew enough of human nature to be sure that he would do the old lady a real and could not believe that Mr. Shellman would try to get out of paying a board bill.

Bad Pets at the Zoo.

Philadelphia Press. The three surviving members of the halfdog and half-wolf family, born at the Zoological Gardens three months ago, are showing their savage nature more every day. Yesterday afternoon Keeper McCadden heard a noise in the pen in which they are kept, and in which was also a little red fox. Running to the cage he saw the three dog-wolves attacking the fox. The keeper made a rush for the cage, but before he could get in the little red fox had been torn limb from limb by his vicious companions and was being eaten up. Head Keeper Byrne said he had been expecting some trouble from that quarter for some time, and as the wolves grow older they exhibit a very bad disposition, on account of being half-breeds

Other animals, in addition to the half-breed wolves, are showing some pretty bad traits of character. A big, wild looking animal, called the huanico, has a habit of spitting at people as they pass, and when the children feed him with cakes, after he has satisfied himself, he will get a big mouthful and blow it into their faces. In the next pen is an ibex, who has been so teased by the boys that he is quite wild and almost broke a boy's arm the other day with his long horns. There is also a very miscievous monkey, who is now chained up for punishment. Every morning for a week all the other monkeys went hungry because the milk was turned over. Nobody could account for it, so a man was set to watch the other morning, and no sooner had the milk was turned over. Nobody could account for it, so a man was set to watch the other morning, and no sooner had the keeper put the milk in and gone away than this monkey would come down from the top of the cage, and, after drinking up all he wanted, he pickep up the pan and emptied all the rest out.

Yesterday the work of moving to winter quarters commenced at the Zoo. The first animals moved were the kangaroos. They were taken from the large open yards in which they have passed the summer farther down the garden to a much warmer place. The work of moving was attended with much difficulty. Two stout keepers caught the kangaroos by their long tails, while two others with brooms guided them. Every time the animals gave one of their long leaps the men having hold of their tails would be jerked along the ground in a most ludicrous manner. After that came the more difficult work of moving the gnu or horned horse. This required eight of the stoutest keepers, two of whom lassoed his horns, and then they all hung on to the ropes for dear life. As they neared the deer pen, on their way down the garden, about fifty little negroes from the Colored Home came trooping down the path, and as soon as the gnu saw them he took after them, dragging his keepers after him. Probably there never was a crowd of more thoroughly frightened young sons of Africa than those. thoroughly frightened young sons of Africa than those.

Queer Mistakes of Bridegrooms.

Most people the moment they enter a parsonage to get married become so em barrassed they are hardly conscious of what they are doing. One fellow I heard of was dreadfully afflicted in this way, and without realizing his act pulled a cigar from his pocket and twirled it around in his hands. When that portion of the ceremony was reached in which the lady and gentleman join hands, he happened to have the cigar in his right hand. What to do with the cigar he evidently didn't know. The clergyman paused for a moment and then repeated the instruction that they join hands. By this time the poor fellow's embarrassment had increased so that it was painful to behold. He gave one agonized look at the minister and then stuck the cigar in his mouth. Before the ceremony could be concluded the minister had to take the cigar from between his lips. Another prospective groom was in the same dire condition of mind. He was making a great effort to regain his composure by whirling around on his outstretched finger a silk hat when the minister announced his readiness to begin the service. The fellow quickly jumped up. For a second he did not know what to do with his hat, but only for a second, for he solved the problem by sticking the castor between his knees. The clergyman told me he could hardly refrain from laughter as he married that man standing in the ridiculous position he was forced to take.

DALLAS, Oct. 13.—The cold weather has put a quickness on business. The day's trade was good and merchants were cheerful and happy. The clothing market was quite brisk; the the department of liquors it must be said that more than one prohibitionist concluded to "not count" this winter owing to the real good taste of the article. There might be a little sermon written on this but the prohibition editors might think these columns are encroaching on their rights and "scourge us much for old malaria. In leather there is noted a rise in the Northern markets, but whether it will last long enough to cause a change in Dallas quotations is doubtful. At present local prices are as found elsewhere.

COTTON GOODS. The New York Mercantile Journal of the 9th

The New York Mercantile Journal of the 9th inst. says:

Staple cotton goods have not shown much animation at first hands during the past week. There was a fair movement of some descriptions on account of previous transactions, but the current demand was unimportant. The jobbing houses have made a fair distribution of staple cottons and department goods, but business on the whole has ruled quiet as compared with the activity recently displayed. The market though quiet is generally sustained with a good degree of firmness, and the present lull in business is regarded as temporary, and renewed activity is anticipated with the advent of cooler weather. From the export trade there has been some inquiry for modrate selections for near by markets, but for China and India the demand has been of light proportions. Supplies held inforeign markets are not excessive, however, and prices are well sustained. The week's shipments have been light, comprising 2290 packages from this port and 223 packages from Boston and elsewhere, in all 2513 packages, and making for the expired portion of the year a total of 163,779 packages, against 122,571 packages for the same time last year, an increase of 41,203 packages, or 33 per cent.

The New York Journal of Fabrics, Oct. 9th, says: There was a fair amount of transactions realized in the wool market this week, larger in the aggregate than the week before. Coniderable quantities of old spring Texas, Territory and Mexican wools changed hands. The wants of manufacturers were conspicuous in the demand, some of whom admitted that they the demand, some of whom admitted that they had a very light supply in store. Speculation was also manifest, for which it is believed that there is still a fair margin to operate in. The tone of the market continues strong and values have again shaded upward. Fall Texas brings 20c and 22c, which is but a small advance over the prices said to be paid in the original market. Fine fleeces are firmer and more in demand. They are believed to be good property and relatively cheaper than Texas wools at current rates. Territory wools are well thought of and at 25 cents for the best they are also cheap.

Although there is a fair quantity of fleece in the country, many descriptions of wools are getting quite scarce, including Ohio No. 1, which is worth 35c; also, combing and delaines and pulled wools. New supplies of the latter will be coming in next month, which, however, are not expected to make prices any easier, the range being now from 30c. to 36c. The advance in wools has caused some buying in foreign markets, including combing, pulled and East India wools; 7600 bales of the latter were bought at Liverpool for American account. The demand from the United States has caused improvement in the values of such wools as are wanted here, and this movement, therefore, tends either to restrict future operations of the kind, or to give a further lift to values here. In either case the position of the home market cannot but be maintained.

LOCAL LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—At the opening there was a disposition to bull wheat on light receipts, heavy weather, and the New York visible supply, which showed an increase of only a little over $400,000 bushels, and as a consequence November sold up from $9% to $90% c. On withdrawal of a portion of the support there was an irregular reaction to $9% c, from which point good buying again sent the market up. Such small selling as was indulged in was done by the crowd generally, rather than by any particular house. The close of the morning session was steady and strong at an advance of $14@1% c over yesterday.

Corn was given its full share of moral and financial support by heavy buyers, who loaded up with about $125,000 bushels of December and January, advancing the market about $c$ by so doing, and bluffing it into a state of firmness by an apparent design to wager large sums of money on a 10 cent advance.

Oats and minor grains showed very little fluctuations, prices keeping about steady with yesterday's figures.

Wheat closed in sharp demand, strong and higher; 90% to for October, 91% for November, 83% c for December, 94% of or January, $1 00% for May.

A Big Deal.

Special to St. Louis Republican. KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11 .- The papers in an mportant equity suit were yesterday filed in the United States Court, the plaintiff being the Cedar Valley Land and Cattle Co., and the defendants Messrs. Coburn & Ewing. The Cedar Valley Land and Cattle Co. was organized in London for the purpose of purchasing a large cattle ranch situated in Deal, Smith and Randall counties, Texas, and owned by Col. Munson. Coburn & Ewing were, it is said, selected as agents for the company, and were instructed to purchase the ranch at the lowest price possible. One of the firm went to Texas and possible. One of the firm went to Texas and made the purchase, paying a certain price per head for stock, and so much per acre for land, the whole amounting to $600,000. The company, it is said, sent this amount to the agents in payment for the ranch and stock it contained. A few days ago suit was brought against the Cedar Valley Land and Cattle Co. to prevent the threatened removal of Mr. Ewing as manager of the company. The present suit explains why the injunctions were instituted. It is alleged in the petition filed by the company that Coburn & Ewing reserved $40,000 of the amount furnished to pay for the ranch as commission money. This, the company alleged, was not expected, as Coburn & Ewing were stockholders in the association. It is also alleged that the agents induced Col. Munson to take as part payment an interest in the old First National Bank property, on the corner of Fifth and Delaware streets, the price being set at a figure which yielded a neat profit to the agents. These are the allegations made by the company, and the flegal fight which is bound to occur will be one of the most interesting ever fought in the courts of Jackson county. The Cedar Valley Laud and Cattle Co. is represented by Messrs. McCrary, Adams & Fields. The defendants have employed Messrs. Karnes & Ess of this city, and Walters & Chase of Topeka.

Inter Ocean.

When Frederick August Froebel began talking and writing about kindergarten work, the wise ones of Germany laughed and called him "a crack-brained crank." He was not an eloquent talker, and made little effort to defend himself. He was poor and could spend but little money, but he plodded along and persevered in his work, and whenever he had money enough he produced in cheap form a pamphlet. But he died before his great work was appreciated. Died in his seventy-first year, partly from grief of the cruel act of the German authorities who closed his schools under the excuse that "he was developing too much freedom in the minds of the youth of Germany." If he could revisit the world he would find his name on many lips, and spoken only lovingly; and rightly so, for he was the friend of children. Inter Ocean

The Morning News.

THE CITY.

To the Public.

It is the desire of the management of THE DALLAS MORNING NEWS to have that paper on sale, in sufficient quantities to supply the demand, on all railway trains running into or connecting with trains to and from Dallas. The traveling public are kindly requested to bear this fact in mind and report to the business department any failure on their part in being able to purchase copies of the paper in the manner indicated, giving date, train and other particulars.

Notice to the Public.

THE DALLAS MORNING NEWS will work off the second edition of its weekly issue this (Wednesday) forenoon, commencing operations about 10 o'clock. Residents of the city and visitors from the surrounding country are invited to call at the office of publication to-day, where they may see the perations of The News' fast Bullock perfecting printing press, now in good working order. All having a taste for fine machinery should come and witness the workings of this press, which prints both sides of the paper at the same time and easily cuts, folds, pastes and delivers at the rate of 200 copies a minute. THE NEWS is now in smooth running order, and will be glad to have the public look over its establishment.

To City Subscribers.

We beg to announce that the failure of our city circulator to call upon a number of citizens for their subscriptions is not due to oversight, but is the result of his finding it necessary, for the time being, to devote his entire time and attention to the systematizing of the routes, and the supervision of his carriers, to insure the prompt delivery of the paper each morning to the subscribers already obtained This work has prevented him from making a thorough canvass of the city. He expects, however, to resume this canvass this morning and continue daily until every section of the city has been visited. In the meantime be pleased to send names and addresses to the counting room, where they will receive receive their papers with regularity and promptitude will please notify us.

Plan of Assignment Adopted-Rendering an Account of His Stewardship-A Depleted Treasury.

The members of the Dallas bar met in full force yesterday pursuant to adjournment. The attendance about filled the courtroom and the profiles denoted strength. A lookeron observed that it ought not be a difficult thing to pick a good governor out of the crowd. This seemed out of place, as the Lieutenant Governor did not happen to be present; but it was suggestive of the fact that the Dallas bar has within a few years been honored by the selection of several of its members for offices of honor and trust, including Judge J. M. Hurt, Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals; Judge Sawnie Robertson, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court; Hon. Barnett Gibbs, Lieutenant Governor; Hon. Olin Welborn, member of Con gress, and Hon. A. T. Watts, Commissioner of Appeals.

Mr. Philip Lindsey, treasurer of the as sociation, also resigned, accompanying the undertaking with a lengthy report on the condition of the treasury, of which the fol-condition of the treasury, of which the following is an extract:

"No committee has been appointed to pass upon my accounts, but gentlemen, and I say it with pride, my conduct as your treasurer will, I trust, bear the closest scrutiny, and I beg to say further, I hold myself ready night and day, to be investigated by any individual member of the association who may choose to appoint himself a committee of one for that purpose. In tendering my resignation it is proper that I render a brief account of my stewardship, which I now proceed to do, with the joyous feeling of a citizen, freed of the shackles of responsible office. By a provision of the charter of the association, the initial fee for membership was placed at $2.50, and by its terms all those who subscribed to it at the first general meeting were to be the charter iven date therein named, to the treasurer, he membership fee of $2 50. President eake on leaving the chair as the the membership fee of $2 50. President Leake on leaving the chair as the Association adjourned promptly paid me his fee of $2 50, and that, gentlemen, is every cent that has been received by your teasurer from that day until this. Not a single other member of the association has ever paid said membership fee of $2 50. Indeed, Col. Leake, seemingly by way of explanation, remarked sadly as he paid his fee, he felt it incumbent on himself to do so, as he was president of the association. Fifty cents of this $2 50 I that day invested in a blank receipt book, to be used in giving members receipts for their dues. At the ensuing next regular meeting it was numerously moved and unanimously carried that the membership fee be fixed at 50 cents instead of $2 50. Col. Leake promptly called upon the treasurer to refund him $2 of the $2 50 paid by him, to which he became entitled by the reduction of the fee, stating, by way of apology to the treasury department he had a special investment he wished to make with the $2. Not a single member of the association has ever paid said membership fee of 50 cents to your treasurer. So that, by the very terms of your charter, which gave it life, the association ceased to have a legal existence within three months after it was born, because only one member paid his terms of your charter, which gave it life, the association ceased to have a legal existence within three months after it was born, because only one member paid his initial fee, and no attorney was to be considered a member unless said fee was paid by the date named in the charter: And yet, sirs, no man can successfully say this fact ever disturbed the moral, intellectual or professional equanimity of any member, or of the association as a body. That all of its acts were illegal, has never for one moment kept it from coming together, and advising his honor how the business of the court should be run, nor, when one brother passed over the river, of meeting in subdued feeling, passing touching and eloquent tributes to his memory."

During the reading of the above, several legal lights were discovered fumbling with their pockets, but the only development was a plug of tobacco, which was freely passed around as a symbol of harmony. The office of treasurer is still open, but it is not likely to prove a rock for the Democratic party to go to pieces on.

sketches, and will not slight the old favorites, which have been so enthusiastically ruceived on previous occasions. His "Dorcas Pennyroyal," his "Stuffed Goose and Inyuns," "I am Not So Young as I Used to Be," are all masterpieces of character delineations, whilst his awkward schoolboy act was brimful of delightful humor. He will be supported by a splendid company, and it is to be regretted that his stay in Dallas will be confined to a single performance.

On Friday and Saturday evenings and at the Saturday matinee, "Skipped by the Light of the Moon," with the Lennoxs in the chief roles, will be given at the Opera House. The play is a very funny one, having enjoyed long runs at the Northern theaters, where the originators, Harrison and Gourlay, are making fame and fortune.

Hymeneal. The Episcopal Church last evening presented a scene of beauty and gavety, the occasion being the solemnization of the marriage of Miss Mollie Betterton, of this city, the beautiful daughter of Col. Betterton, and Mr. C. M. Shannon, of Silver City, New Mexico. Long before the arrival of the wedding party the "upper crust" commenced arriving to witness the happy union of one of Texas' fairest daughters and a gentleman worthy of so fair a jewel. With a marked beauty of form and features Miss Betterton combines all the mental attractions and accomplishments that adorn her sex, and not a few felt their State pride wounded at the fact her sex, and not a few felt their State pride wounded at the fact that the one most worthy of her heart and hand was not a Texan, though a resident of a friendly Territory. As the wedding party entered the church the crowds gathered around the door gave way with respectful obeisance, and the organ struck up the beautiful wedding march of Tannhauser. The attendants were Mr. Rufus W. Miers and Miss Mary Thomas, Mr. Paul Furst and Miss Virgie Melone, Mr. Royal Ferris and Miss Virgie Melone, Mr. H. B. Burr and Miss Mary Leake, Mr. Frank Cockrell and Miss Minnie Slaughter. The ceremony was conducted by Dr. Mumford, after which Mr. and Mrs. Shannon, accompanied by the attendants as far as Fort Worth, took their departure for their future home, there to continue life's journey—

THE BAPTIST STATE CONVENTION. Consolidated Universities with a Brilliant Professorship-A Successful Year's Work and Other Matters.

A News reporter yesterday learned from Dr. Hanks, pastor of the Baptist Church, the following facts of general interest relating to the Baptist State Convention, which met last week in Lampasas. His denomination has in Texas two schools-"universities"-one at Independence, and the other at Waco. It was resolved at Lampasas to consolidate these schools and to build up one grand college worthy of the Baptist denomination. This measure was also indorsed in July by the Baptist General Association in Ennis, and befathered by these two large bodies makes its consummation certain. The consolidation is to be upon terms of perfect fairness to both institutions, and the consolidated college will be located in the city which offers the finest inducement. Hence Dallas can have a chance to secure its location, but it must be remembered that Waco, with its central location, its magnificent climate and railway facilities and some hundred thousand dollars start in the assets of Waco University will be a fordable rival to any city in the State, and the general opinion seems to be that Waco will be the favored place.

There is also a movement on foot to unite into one body the Baptist State Convention and the General Association, and this was most heartily indorsed at Lampasus. When these two measures are completed, say a year from this, it will give to the Baptists the strength of union in their missionary and educational enterprises.

It was also an interesting feature of the Lampasas Convention that its corresponding secretary reported the best year's work accomplished during the the history of the convention. Some forty-eight missionaries had been employed, who reported over eight hundred converts baptised by regular pastors, with whom the missionaries occasionally labored, and every dollar of indebtedness had been paid.

Dr. O. C. Pope, of Austin, who has been corresponding secretary of the convention, resigned to accept the position of manager of the Church Edifice Department of the Home Mission Society, New York, to which city he removes this week, and Rev. W. R. Maxwell, of Belton, was elected to fill the vacancy. The convention adjourned to meet next year in Gonzales.

LOCAL NOTES.

A meeting of the Board of School Trustees is called for Friday next, 7:30 p.m.

The Commissioners' Court has made an appropriation of $2000 for keeping up and building bridges.

Professor Black's meetings at the Commerce street Christian Church, are drawing large congregations.

Mr. John Cullen, of the fire department, is not the gentleman whose name appeared on the calaboose register Sunday night. The members of Engine House No. 1 are erecting suspending floors for sleeping apartments. Sliding posts will be attached to the bunks.

Marriage licenses were issued vesterday to Mr. Charles M. Shannon and Miss Mollie Betterton, and Mr. G. W. Keown and Miss Ella Perkins.

rested and placed in jail at that place. Hilburn is wanted here for an assault with intent to murder, committed some time in the early part of last year, since which time his whereabouts has been unknown until a few days since, when he was arrested by the Sheriff of Commanche County, who telegraphed Sheriff Walton to come for him. Mr. A. A. Killingworth, Sheriff of Gregg County, passed through the city to-day en route for Groesbeek, after Mike Dickson, colored, wanted in Gregg County for an assault with intent to murder an old negro named Doc Sherman. There were fourteen suits filed in Justice Walton's court to-day. Isaac Robinson and J. D. Hurt came before the Recorder and turned in $8 20 each, all on account of being drunk and disorderly. Real estate transfers; W. R. Bright to L. H. Cantine, a lot 50 by 125 feet on the corner of Bois d'Are and Hunt streets; consideration $1500. The party arrested last night on the suspicion of robbing the clerk at the Pacific Hotel proved to be the wrong man, and the police are on a fresh scent.

Eighteen bales of cotton, partly burned up at Burns' gin near Mesquite, a few days ago, were brought to Dallas yesterday and purchased by Mr. A. N. Bryant.

The banks of this city have advanced an aggregate of about $1,000,000 within two weeks to bankers in adjacent towns to meet the demands of the cotton market.

Alderman Loeb proposes at the next meeting of the Council to invite an inspection of the calaboose by the Mayor and committees of the municipal board.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry K. Leake announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Mattie L. Leake, to Mr. Will M. Waters, Wednesday, Oct. 21, 4 p. m., at the First Presbyterian Church. Hon. J. H. Biggar at 4 p. m. yesterday, received a telegram from a prominent Ohio Republican, advising him not to bet on Foraker, and adding that Dr. Leonard's vote would determine the result.

The calaboose register last night showed ing arrivals with charges aga R. Johnson, drunk and down; John Fleming, drunk and down; James Bell, vagrancy; G. G. Seward, drunk and down; Charles Williams, refusing to pay hack hire; W. Foster, theft; Isaac Brinkle, theft; Frank Devier, assault and battery on G. G. Seward; Will Gark, drunk and down; Ed Fay and Tom McHugh, sleeping in a sand

An idea of the amount of business transacted at the Dallas Postoffice may be reached from the fact that from the 1st to the 10th instant 1111 money orders and 369 postal notes were filled out. Last month there were sold 125,000 2-cent stamps and 50,000 postal cards, with sales of stamp 50,000 postal cards, with sales of stamps of higher denominations in proportion. In the same time 176,057 letters and 18,207 postal cards were delivered, exclusive of the local delivery, which reached 9849 letters and 9820 postal cards, and a grand total of 78,541 newspapers. The collections amounted to 187,986 letters and 23,852 postal cards.

to 137,986 letters and 23,852 postal cards.

The thermometer from which the temperature readings of Dallas published in The News are taken may be seen at Mr. Reinhardt's store. It is the best heat measure yet invented, having a glass tube, six feet long, of an even width throughout, and terminating in a coil at the lower end, by which an exactitude of measurement is assured, impossible to instruments wherein the liquid rises from a bulb or reservor. The figures are plainly visible from the sidewalk, and the instrument attracted a large walk, and the instrument attracted a large crowd yesterday. It's inventor, Mr. Myer, now of New York, was formerly optician for the Emperor of Austria.

Yesterday about 8 p. m. M. J. Benedikt's residence was entered by a tramp, who immediately proceeded to the dining room while the family occupied the parlor. Before the vagabond could confiscate the spoons, a servant, happening to have some business in the dining room, proceeded thereto, lamp in hand. Upon discovering a man in the house who had no business there she screamed clear up to G above the line, like a country opera singer, and before the tramp, who scudded like 2:40, had gained the street, everybody in the house was screaming. Mr. Benedikt was not at home and there was nobody present who could hasten the departure with a shot gun. This occurred in the neighborhood of Mr. Howland's house, from the parlors of which a purse in the neighborhood of Mr. Howland's house, from the parlors of which a purse filled with money was stolen while the family were in the dining room. It is believed that the man in the parlor while the family were in the dining room, and the man in the dining room while the family were in the parlor, is one and the same, and that if he does not live somewhere in the neighborhood he has, at least, a thorough knowledge of the interior of the residences.
