NUMBER 50

$1200 FOR FESTIVAL

It Will Take That Amount to Make the Big Doings a Success--Requa Plans an Alfalfa Palace

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alfalfa Festival and the chairmen of the various committees appointed, was held in the Club rooms Tuesday afternoon, to figure up about what the big blowout would cost. After conferring with the various committees, the Executive Committee decided it would cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $1200 to give Artesia and the Pecos country a show really worth while, and the financial committee was instructed to work with this amount in view. The money was apportioned as follows:

Broncho Busting	$ 85
Entertainment Press Ass'n	75
Fireworks	45
Band	50
Horse races	100
Live stock exhibit	100
Barbecue	250
Grounds	50
Decorations	35
Alfalfa	150
Grain	25
Fruit	50
Speaking	25
Advertising	100
General Sports	25

It was at this meeting that Chairman Requa, of the Executive Committee, brought up the idea of an Alfalfa Palace, and the suggestion was received with enthusiasm by all present. The Alfalfa Committee will look up the cost of such a structure and if it is anyway reasonable Artesia will have an exhibit building different from anything ever produced before.

By the time this issue of THE News is off the press the collectors will be out after funds for the Alfalfa Festival. When they come to you, don't wait or put it off until the next day, don't wait to see what your neighbor gives, but decide what you can do for Artesia's big annual celebration, and then SLAP IT DOWN, before you get cold. Remember, Artesia is to entertain all the civilized people of southeastern New Mexico, not to mention the members of the Press Association, so LOOSEN UP.

MRS. C. G. CALLANS

Carrie Orr Dead

Miss Carrie Orr died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Orr, at Mt. Vernon, Mo., Friday August 7. It will be remembered that the family left here about a year ago taking the daughter back to the old home as it was thought that she could live but a short time. For a while she seemed to improve and she wrote encouraging letters to friends here telling them of her improvement.

Latter word came that she was not so well and this week the sad news of death comes to us.

Miss Orr, and indeed the entire family won many friends during their brief stay here who will regret exceedingly the death of this estimable young lady.

Funeral services were held Monday of this week.

ALBUQUERQUE EXHIBIT

Will Send a Man to Artesia to Get it up if Necessary

C. G. Gallagher, special representative of the Santa Fe System, was in town Saturday morning to see what were the prospects of getting up a first class exhibit from Artesia to show at the Irrigation Congress. The Santa Fe is stretching every point to get up a fine show from the valley, and they will even go the limit and send a man to Artesia to get up the exhibit if it is necessary. The Company has offered to transport the goods to and from the Congress and furnish a building to put them in and a man to show them.

The main trouble with the Artesia exhibit is that the Festival and the Irrigation Congress come right together, and between the two we naturally think the Festival is of more importance to the town. There is some talk of trying to get the proportionment of expenses divided up differently between the Valley towns, and if Artesia can get out for less than $1,000, the chances are that we will be represented in Albuquerque this fall.

We understand that Mr. Gallagher will be in Artesia in a short time to confer with the Commercial Club on this subject, and for one, THE NEWS hopes some understanding may be reached whereby we can send an exhibit to the Irrigation Congress.

The Musical Halls

The Musical Halls' Company played at Artesia Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of last week, and the tent was filled all three nights. While small the company is a good one, consisting mainly of Mr. and Mrs. Hall and their children, Myrtle, Velma and Wilbur. Wilbur is the star of the organization and although only eleven years of age, he is a good musician and a fine dancer.

The company made a hit with the Artesia audience and should they play here again they will no doubt be well received.

HALL FINED $5 AND COSTS

Jury Decided Horse Died From Effects of Hard Driving

The case against Bud Hall, charged with driving a horse to death Sunday, was brought up in the Justice's court Monday afternoon, and Hall was fined $5.00 and costs. Owing to the amount of evidence and the delay in getting started, the trial took all Monday afternoon.

It seems that Hall and another man hired the horse in the morning and drove to Dayton, returning about noon. In the afternoon Hall and a young lady took the same horse on the same drive. Coming back from Dayton the horse became sick or tired and refused to eat when put in the stable after the first drive. Coming home the second trip it also showed signs of not being well and when the old waterworks lot was reached Hall tied the horse up and took the young lady home. On returning after the horse he found it dead. Monday morning Bud went to Batteroff, the owner of the horse, and told him he would settle if Batteroff considered him responsible for the death of the horse. Batteroff was willing to settle for $125, which amount we understand was paid at once. Later in the morning Marshal Cooper made out a complaint against Hall and Stokes, charging them with cruelty to animals, and in the afternoon the case was tried in the City hall with the result mentioned above.

When the suit was called there was no attorney to represent the Territory, so some of the business men made up the cash and J. C. Davis was hired. J. B. Atkeson defended Hall.

Roy E. Fox had two monkeys with him last year. Come out and see if he has any with him this time. Friday August 21.

Fred Spencer is parking the street in front of his residence in the south part of town.

John W. Poe, president of the Bank of Artesia, was down Monday of this week looking after his interests here.

E. R. Gesler was looking after business interests in Roswell last week.

Ed Terwilliger is now employed at the soda fountain in the City Drug Store.

Cecil Clayton is leveling down his yard and in a short time he will have one of the best looking lawns in Artesia.

Judge J. C. Davis is a deep thinker and a fluent speaker. Hear him at the Christian church August 28.

J. R. Blair, who perhaps has done as much for the real development of the Valley as any other one man, arrived Friday morning to spend a few days in this vicinity renewing acquaintances. He spent part of the summer in California gathering and marketing the crop from his apricot orchard and then came to Malaga to look after his peach orchard at that place. Both crops yielded him fine returns and he is especially pleased with his fruit prospect in the valley.

J. D. Christopher was up from Carlsbad this week looking after his business interests here.

CLAYTON OWNS BLOCK

Says the Lots Were Never Given to City But Were Set Aside to Be Sold for Park--McCrary Resigns

The City Council held their regular meeting Tuesday night in the City Clerks office, with three members present. E. A. Clayton appeared before the board in the park case, and claimed the lots were never given to the city nor did he expect to give them to the town. The block was set aside, for park purposes, and it was the intention of the owners to sell it to the city or to some person for park purposes. Mr. Clayton was approached by the school board who wished to buy the lots to locate the new building on, but he refused to sell as he considered himself bound to sell the lots only for a park.

G. U. McCrary resigned his position as City Attorney. No one has been appointed in his place, but we understand that James C. Davis is an applicant and he will probably get the job. The Council adjourned to meet tonight to take up the rest of the business.

Roswell Switchman Killed

Eugene Buster, a switchman of Roswell was caught between the upper connections of two vestibule coaches Sunday morning and instantly killed. He was standing by a day coach which was to be coupled on to the Pullman and was looking away from the approaching car. Four men were watching the train being made up and expected to see the switchman step from between the cars as they came together. At the last minute all of these men called out to Buster, but it was too late and his head was caught between the two vestibules and crushed.

Buster was a young man, about 25 years of age, and had formerly been employed on freight trains, where it is possible to stand between the cars as they came together and it is thought his mind was occupied with some other matter and he had forgotten about the vestibules on passenger coaches.

What is said to be the finest well in the Roswell neighborhood was brought in Saturday on the Long place. It flows 15 inches over an eight inch casing, and while this looks small by the side of Artesia's five and six foot wells, over eight inch casings, it is a fairly good flow for Roswell.

$1.50 A YEAR

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of commissioner from the second district of Eddy county, subject to the will of the voters at the election in November, and solicit the support of all.
J. W. TURKNETT.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET
For President WILLIAM H. TAFT
For V-President J. S. SHERMAN

As the campaign approaches, matters political are warming up as is evidenced by the extravagant expressions of the Democratic papers opposing the candidacy of Delegate Andrews. The mudslinging is not unexpected as, indeed, it is their only stock in trade. That they will descend to the level of vulgarity and profanity before the election is not improbable and as no paper of respectability and standing can afford to grovel in the dirt with them, much of the slush will pass by unnoticed. The papers supporting Mr. Andrews admit the personal worth of Mr. Larrazolo, opposing him only because being a Mexican, born outside the United States, and a Democrat, he would be without influence in a Republican Congress. There are many Republicans, good men, in the Pecos Valley who have little political influence here and Mr. Larrazolo would find himself in the same predicament as does the Pecos Valley Republican. However, Mr. Larrazolo has this advantage over the P. V. R., he is far removed from ungenial associations.

ONE of the funniest charges made by papers in northern New Mexico that claim to be Republican in politics, but are really enemies of the party, is that Delegate W. H. Andrews and the Republican leaders committed election frauds for their own benefit in the counties in which these papers are published. The charges are more than laughable when confronted with the facts. In San Miguel county it is notorious and can be easily proven that the election frauds there were committed against Delegate Andrews and in favor of his democratic opponent, the blue-blooded Spaniard, as the poll books plainly and unequivocally show.---New Mexican.

The special edition of the Roswell Register-Tribune was a hummer, and just what we might expect from a printing establishment in charge of Capt. Harlow and Will Robinson. The edition consisted of 32 pages, of their regular newspaper size, well illustrated, and filled with interesting writeups of different parts of the Valley. It is by far the biggest thing in special editions which has been issued in the Pecos Valley or in New Mexico.

WHEN Delegate Andrews returned from Washington, the citizens of Albuquerque tendered him a reception. In a complimentary address, Ex-Delegate Ferguson said: "Mr. Andrews, when it comes to appropriations, I take my hat off to you." And yet, Mr. Larrazolo states that Mr. Andrews' services has been exceeded by the accomplishments of Mr. Ferguson.

WE wish to assure our esteemed contemporary, the Roswell Democrat, that we never seriously considered Puckett, until we got a glimpse of his feet. It is impossible to get around his feet.

The new high school site has developed a whole regiment of Major Ozones who in their loquacious arguments overlook the paramount interests of the child, the only subject worthy of consideration. Evidently we have all made a mistake in moving to Artesia, we had far rather scattered ourselves abroad where we could imbibe ozone, pure and unadulterated. We are willing to admit the worth of college grounds for the purposes for which they were selected, but the placing of the high school building out there, even beyond the corporate limits of the town, would, because of the distance, deprive many of our pupils of high school privileges. There are excellent sites for power dams high up on the Penasco but they are too far from Artesia to be of use to us. Meal tickets are selling in the states for $3 per 21 meals but one would need long dinner hours to enable him to take advantage of the favorable rate. The writer has a quarter section of land six miles west of town, perfectly dry, quality of ozone guaranteed, easy of access by automobile, trolley or electric line, that he would sell for school purposes for less than $333 1-3 per acre. We are not pushing this proposition as we feel confident that the majority of the board are in favor of locating the school in town.

COMMISSIONER J. W. TURKNETT is to be opposed for re-election by some of the residents of this section simply because he is a Republican. However this is not the first time that men have allowed politics to interfere with their own interests. The republicans have to the credit of the home candidate that he is honest and honorable, truthful and sincere and that he is possessed of sufficient ability to ably represent his district. In case Mr. Turknett is defeated, the Democrats who oppose him will have to take the dose of no representation from this section along with the Republicans and if you can stand it, we will endeavor to do so. Allen Heard is for Carlisbad only and Mr. Graham is Allen No. 2. Mr. Beeman, like Mr. Turknett, is a fair man and will represent the whole county. The election of these two gentlemen would insure us excellent county management.

The official book of the Irrigation Congress to be held at Albuquerque has been issued and is a valuable work especially for the sections of the Territory that it evidently intended to boost. Page after page is devoted to Roswell and Carlisbad but Artesia, the center of the greatest artesian belt in the world and surrounded by the most fertile and productive land under irrigation, is not deemed worthy a passing notice.

W. B. ALLISON, for forty years senator from Iowa, died at his home in Dubuque August 4, of heart failure. It has been said of him, "He never made an enemy in his life."

RETURNS from the Kansas Republican primaries indicate that W. R. Stubbs has been nominated for governor over Cyrus Leland by a majority of 25,000.

SAY, PUCK, suppose you tell us something about the rottenness of the Chaves county democratic primaries. That is nearer home and of more recent date.

THE MISTRESS OF A FANCY

By ZELIA M. WALTERS

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The foreman of the rubber specialty department paused for a moment beside his desk to survey his domain. He was yet so new to his position that it gave him a pleasant thrill.

There was to be a dance at Hamlin's hall that night, a great social event for the rubber workers, because it was given to swell the funds for their relief association. From that thought to Sadie Wagoner, the belle of the room, was a natural transition. But from her his thoughts went to the serious problem that had occupied him during the two months that he had held his new position. Jim's income was now $25 a week, and he felt that he might indulge in the luxury of marriage. What pleasant visions this called up for him! A house of his own, a Brussels carpet on the parlor floor, plants in the window, a pretty wife who would always wear neat gowns, and never, never red calico ones such as were favored by the fat landlady of the boarding house, and last in his dreams came the picture of a white-robed baby. Usually Jim wanted it to be a baby girl with golden curls, though he wavered between that and a boy brave in diminutive knickerbockers.

The house was a reality. He had begun to save for it two years before, and in the last week he had found just the right one, and made his first payment. Now he must find a wife to make it home for him. He had thought of Sadie many times, and modest fellow as he was he yet could not doubt that she would take the place if he asked her. But a secret faint hope always said, "Wait."

He had walked home one dark rainy night behind two girls and he had overheard a scrap of their conversation. The slender girl with a long braid of hair had walked wearily, and at length she had exclaimed bitterly, "Oh! I wish I never had to go back again."

"You ought to get married," said her companion promptly and amiably.

"I wish I was married," she uttered this unlawful wish in a vehement voice. "I went to see my Cousin Jenny last Sunday. She always had all the luck. She went to school and graduated, and I had to go to the shop when I was 14. Now she's married and got a good husband and a lovely baby. When he went out Sunday he kissed her good-by and they've been married two years! And he never scolds her, and he's so nice and jolly around the house. I wish I had a husband like that. Oh! I'd be good to him! When he came home at night I'd have the house clean and warm and bright, and there'd be a nice supper ready, and I'd have on a pretty dress, and he'd kiss me, and then we'd sit down just we two—just we two—"

Her voice was trembling with emotion, and Jim noticed that it was sweet low voice.

"There might be more than two," were other reminded her with a reticent giggle.

"Yes," she said seriously, "A lit-tle baby with a white dress on in a chair laughing and playing at table."

Something new came into Jim's reckless boyish heart at that. Home and wife and child seemed suddenly the only things worth thinking out. As soon as he could he pressed the two girls and tried to see the face of the one who had spoken. But the rain and darkness obscured everything and he went on not sure that he would know her again. When he was promoted he tried to find her. There were a dozen girls with long braids in the shop, but this one had disappeared though she were indeed a maid of means. Yet whenever Jim was on the verge of speaking seriously to Sadie the dream girl's voice came in between, and he was willing to wait yet a little while.

Sadie pressed to his side going downstairs. "Do come early to-night," she said. "Us girls have a joke that will make you die laughing."

"All right," he said as they separated at the door.

When Jim entered the parlor of the boarding house that night a group of girls, waiting to go to the dance was gathered about Sadie. There was a ripple of suppressed laughter. Jim's gratified pride acknowledged that Sadie was the prettiest girl in the room, and her dress of diaphanous pink was most becoming. Perhaps after all—

"You tell him Sadie," cried one of the girls.

So Sadie, who was also bubbling over with laughter, told him. "We sent an invitation to Mary Wheeler to go to the dance and she thinks it's from you. She's all ready to go. She's always been such a stuck up thing, but won't she be mad when she finds out. The girls want me to call her down and tell her before the crowd so's we can see how she takes it. I guess I'll send for her now, you're here."

No one in the room had ever seen kind hearted Jim Henderson in a rage before.

"Since you wanted to dispose of me I'll stand by the word. You can go and tell her I'm ready," he said sternly.

Sadie was on her feet too. The astonished anger of a spoiled favorite showed in her face. "Do you mean that Jim Henderson?" she shrieked.

"Yes, I mean it. I'm going to take her."

"Well, take her if you want to, but you've been the last of me. And you just see if you like her better."

He left the room without answering, and sent the landlady to tell Mary Wheeler that her escort was waiting. He knew her as soon as he saw her on the stairs. The wrath faded from his face, and a wonder at the gracious order of the world took possession of him. He was smiling when she raised her eyes. It was the girl who had walked before him that rainy night. She was in white, and the heavy hair shaded a face that he loved at once. It was just the sort of face he had dreamed of as smiling out a welcome to him when he came home at night.

It was only a short distance to the hall, and outside the door he said, "Would you mind walking. I want to talk to you, and it's too important to wait."

"I should like to walk," she answered.

Then he told her something of his dreams, of the new house waiting for a mistress, how he had walked behind her and listened to her voice that rainy night, how he had been looking for her ever since. The small rough hand on his arm trembled more and more. Then in the shadow of a building in a lonely spot he stopped and kissed her and told her of his hope.

When they got to the door of the hall she pulled him back a moment. "I'm afraid to go in," she whispered. "Every one will know because I look so happy. And I've been sort of discouraged and sad lately."

"What do we care if they do know?" he said proudly. "The other fellows will just wish they were in my place. We're not going to stay long at the dance. I just want one or two turns with you, and then we're going where we can talk to each other. There are some things to be arranged because you see every one will have to know in two weeks."

And the answer to her whispered protests that two weeks was too soon he said firmly. "In just two weeks I'll be there with the ring and the license and I'm going to take you, my sweetheart, whether you are ready or not."

Political News

Reports from Roswell say the democrats of that city put up over $2,000 for Larrazolo to make his race on.

The Mora County republicans have instructed their delegates to vote for Chas. A. Spiess, of Las Vegas, for Delegate to Congress.

Adlai Stephenson, formerly nominee for Vice-President on the Democratic ticket, has been nominated by the Democrats of Illinois for the office of Governor. Charles Deneen is the republican candidate.

O. A. Larrazolo, democratic nominee for Delegate to Congress, was forced to abandon his Pecos Valley tour north of Roswell, as lack of sleep and a bad cold made it impossible for him to speak.

It is estimated that the ceremonies at Bryan's speech of acceptance will cost about $500. Only a few people will be present.

During the Irrigation Congress the Capital of the Territory will be at Albuquerque, as Gov. Curry and his entire staff will move there and transact all business at the Duke City from September 29 to October 10. There will be quite a number of big guns in attendance at the Congress who will be unable to visit Santa Fe on account of the altitude and railroad rates, both of which are very high in that neighborhood. As Curry wished to meet these men he obligingly moved the Capital of New Mexico to Albuquerque.

The McKinley County Convention, last week, instructed its three delegates to vote for W. H. Andrews for delegate to Congress.

The first county to instruct for Judge Mann, in the race for delegate to Congress, was Otero County. At the county convention last week, the five delegates to the Santa Fe Convention were instructed to vote as a unit for the Judge.

Tuesday evening the Chaves county convention instructed their four delegates to the Santa Fe convention to vote as a unit for Andrews. This makes the delegate situation one-sided in favor of Andrews, unless some unforeseen move on the part of Spiess or Mann, brings the majority of the remaining delegates over to their side. Following is the number of delegates instructed and uninstructed.

Andrews	35
Mann	5
Spiess	22
Uninstructed	22

While there are 94 delegates yet to be instructed, they will come mainly from the strong Andrews counties.

Marshal Cooper is taking a lay-off from his work in the Pecos Valley Drug Co., to see that the weeds are cut according to law, and enforce the other clean up ordinances of Artesia.

J. O. Kuyrkendall received five magnificent hounds Saturday from his old home and he expects to make the coyotes look small around these parts in the near future. Three of the dogs are mere pups but they have fine voices.

J. F. Lockney and son Glen came in from Four Mile Saturday morning and left for home Saturday afternoon. They were after supplies for the big two days barbecue which will be held at Pinon the 14 and 15 of this month.

A delegation of Artesia citizens, headed by Postmaster Hamilton, was in Carlsbad this week, to attend the Republican meeting Tuesday night. Editor Newkirk made the Argus a pleasant call and went from this office to the one presided over by Col. Mullane, and as he showed no evidence of having been in other than a wordy argument, it is to be presumed that he met with pleasant reception from the fighting editor of that paper.--Argus.

W. W. Meeks, Jeweler and Optician, will open his optical parlor August 15th. Office location at the City Drug Store. He will be prepared to do first-class work in his line and will guarantee satisfaction. Your patronage solicited. 4912

A. L. Haines, of east of Lake Arthur, was in town Saturday and paid the News office a pleasant call. Mr. Haines says Artesia is behind Lake Arthur when it comes to getting ready for a county seat, as the people of that town have a court house lot laid out with three year old trees on it.

From the advertising up the line we learn that the Roy Fox Minstrels are coming down the Valley. The Fox show made quite a hit the last time they showed in Artesia and no doubt they will have a good attendance this time. Many of our citizens will remember the badger fight which occurred during their last visit here.

Harry Hamilton, the genial postmaster of Artesia, accompanied by D. L. Newkirk, the chief pusher of the red hot republican paper of that town made this office a pleasant call Wednesday. They were down to represent the water town at the republican convention, held the same evening. They were shown over the irrigation works and some of the country adjoining by local republicans.--Current.

Thrown From Horse and Killed

Charlie James and a Mexican, known as "Indian Charlie," brought word to town Sunday that a James had been found dead in the James pasture south of town by them. The authorities immediately sent officers to the scene to bring in the body, and learn the particulars. The body proved to be that of Thomas Green, a laborer lately employed at the Vineyard Stock Farm and by Harper Silliman, and it is presumed that he was on his way to a homestead he had taken up near Lone Tree, when the accident which caused his death happened. He was riding a vicious horse, and it is supposed, was thrown or attacked by a dizzy spell, to which he was subject, and fell, causing his death as stated. The dead man had a wife in Tom Green county, Texas, who have been notified of the death of the husband and father. Mr. Green was not considered sound mentally, and often had spells of dizziness which would incapacitate him for his work. A coroner's jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts.--Argus.

Wool Brings 17 1-2 Cents Per Pound

As an indication that republican success is assured, the Argus publishes the following clipping from the Talpa, Texas, Reporter. After reciting that the sheepmen of that vicinity had stored their wool for a wool sale, the paper says of that sale:

"The average price was something more than 17 1-2 cents. More than 200,000 pounds of the staple were put on the market, and Mr. Stokes got something over 100,000 pounds, while Mr. McGuirn and Mr. Palmer took the rest of the offerings. During Monday and Tuesday the shipments were prepared and loaded for the Boston market."

The Carlsbad Argus says the estimated alfalfa seed crop of the lower valley will be in the neighborhood of 200,000 pounds.

W. A. Craig, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Carlsbad, was married in Chicago the 5th of this month to Miss Snow Valentine, who was visiting in Carlsbad a short time ago.

Of the $6,400 dollars bonds for the new Elida School house, $4,400 have been sold and there are good prospects for the sale of the additional $2,000.

Lakewood has a real thing in a ball team, one composed of Lungers and has-been Lungers.

The Lake Arthur Times has entered into its fourth year of boosting for the Middle Valley and is in every way a newspaper worthy of the town. The editor of the News well remembers the first issue which the present proprietor of the Times turned out, which could only be compared to the first issue of the News. Now, however, there is no nearer gotten up paper in the valley than the Times and the reading is worth while also.

The Chaves County Wool Growers went to Carlsbad Friday night and organized a similar association of the Eddy County sheep men.

Roswell is getting rottenly decent. Only last week 20 Chinks were pulled for hitting the pipe and the same night a white man was arrested for carrying a gun at a dance.

Rive Johnson, the Roswell negro who attempted to commit suicide a short time ago, died from his self-inflicted wounds Sunday morning. Johnson had tried to slash his throat and wrists with a razor and a knife, but it was thought he would recover.

Considerable excitement was manifested in the Lakewood country this week, when it was announced that gas had been discovered in the well being drilled for the cement company, located six miles south of Lakewood. The gas was found at about four hundred feet and burned when ignited. All the land near the well was covered with mineral filings, but now the flow has stopped and it is thought the gas was simply a pocket.

The school board has employed Miss Eula Brown of Rockwall, Texas, to teach the primary grade in place of Miss Winifred Tuttle, who resigned to accept a position in Artesia.---Times.

D. L. Meyers, of the Eastern Railway of New Mexico, was down to Roswell on a three days visit last week. Evidently the great talk about new railroads in those parts have caused the officials of the P. V. to believe there is really something in it.

The Carlsbad Milling and Gin Co. have contracted with the Public Utilities Co. of that town, for electric power to run their gin.

WILL PROTECT WATER SUPPLY

Cannot Interfere With Flow of Streams in Eddy County

The United States Reclamation Service obtained an order from the district court on July 29th restraining the Penasco Reservoir and Development Company, Geo. W. Temple and David J. McCanne from interfering with the flow of the Penasco and Walnut creeks. It appears that this company has constructed dams on these creeks and prepared to take as much water for use on the lands west of Dayton as they possibly could out of these streams, ignoring prior rights of the United States to the water for the use of the Carlsbad Project. The United States intended to restrain these people from using water that rightfully belonged to the Carlsbad Project. Before the case came to a hearing a small flood on the Penasco took out the works that had already been constructed, and the government obtained an order restraining the defendants from rebuilding the old works. The government is anxious to prevent the water supply of the Carlsbad Project from being interfered with---Argus.
