CUBAN SITUATION REPORT

Cuba remains a Communist thorn in the side of the Western Hemisphere, but progress is being made to bring about the economic and political isolation of the Castro regime, to make Cuba an increasingly expensive burden for the Sino - Soviet bloc to maintain, and to prevent the spread of Castro-directed subversion in Latin America. Guerrillas within Cuba are becoming more active. Hit-and-run actions by small bands of Cuban patriots will not in themselves bring down the Castro regime. But they keep it off balance. They keep the Red militia under arms and out of more productive endeavors that could bolster the faltering Cuban economy. They provide a nucleus around which a more active resistance movement may someday form. These anti-Castro activities on the island are said to have "a professional touch."

As if to punctuate the increasing discontent within Cuba, a bomb exploded in Havana a week ago as Fidel Castro told a political rally that the United States is, in his words, "tightening the economic noose." It was one of the few factual statements he made in what otherwise was the usual Castro diatribe against the United States.

I am in favor of every action we can take, alone and in concert with our allies, to restore freedom to Cuba. I believe that continuing pressure on the economic and political front can one day bring this result without the need for overt military action.

Here are the facts pointing up the economic problems afflicting the Castro regime: Cuban trade to the Free World has slowed to a trickle. Free world exports to Cuba in 1959, Castro's first year in power, totaled $680 million; in 1962 they were $85 million and are declining this year. Free World purchases from Cuba, primarily sugar, have similarly declined. Cuba's trade with the Communist bloc (Cuba now does more than four-fifths of her trade with the Communist world) will total about $1 billion. $600 million in bloc exports to Cuba and about $400 million in Cuban shipments to the bloc. This trade gap must be financed by the Soviets, and it's expected to be equally large next year. The Cuban gross national product last year was estimated to be 25 percent below the 1958 level. With most basic food-stuffs rigidly rationed, the average caloric intake of Cubans is estimated to be 15 to 25 percent lower than it was in pre-Castro years. Consumer goods are in short supply. Spare parts for the Cuban industrial machines are scarce and often unobtainable. The Castro failure has been most apparent in agriculture, particularly in the production of sugar. This year's harvest was 3.8 million tons in contrast with the average of 5 million tons in the last 5 years. Castro in betraying his own people has yoked Cuba to the modern-day mercantile system of Soviet imperialism. Russia uses its colony, Cuba, as a source of raw materials and a captive market for manufactures.

These are among recent actions taken to cause Castro further trouble: On July 8, the Treasury Department instituted blocking controls against Cuba, restricting the movements of dollars to and from Cuba. The action, modeled on controls in effect against Communist China and North Korea, is expected to tie up more than $100 million of Cuban assets. United States owned and controlled oil companies are voluntarily refraining from furnishing bunkers to vessels and aircraft determined to be in the Cuban trade. Free World shipping available for service to Cuba has dropped nearly 70 percent in the first eight months of 1963 as compared to the same period last year. Free World ships paid only 28 calls to Cuba in August, a marked decrease over the 45 calls made in July, and the lowest monthly figure since March. Earlier increases were related to the seasonal export of sugar—and many ships arrived in Cuba in ballast. Shipping to Cuba is more and more becoming restricted to small firms having no commerce with the U. S. A.

and firms with vessels under long-term charter to the Sino-Soviet bloc. To cripple further Cuba's ability to trade I introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to close U. S. ports to any ships engaged in carrying cargoes to or from Cuba. This bill is now before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and I believe its enactment would tighten the screw. There is no question but that the blight of Castro-ism must be eliminated.

High Heating Costs ?

Low Comfort ?

...not with Flameless Electric Heating!

Drafts are out... comfort is in... because electric house heating lets you wrap heat around each room — with separate room controls, too! And you can choose from a variety of built-ins — installed inconspicuously in baseboard floor, ceiling, or wall. Here's a treat for your budget, too; you save on installation because no flues or chimneys are needed. Annual operation costs for heating during the winter months in the territory served by WTU averages about 7¢ per square foot of living area in the home. Why not ask your electrical contractor or WTU to survey your home for flameless electric heat?

of "These, Too, Share" was made from the monthly magazine, The Methodist Story, by Mrs. Mary Pittman, in relation to the offering for Worldwide Communion Sunday. Miss Pam Curtis presented a special number for communion service, accompanied by her mother, Mrs.

Geneva Curtis, our very efficient organist.

It was hoped that several men would be present at Turkey on Wednesday evening to visit the Methodist men there.

Choir rehearsal began this past Sunday evening, that time replacing Wednesday evening as regular rehearsal time. This takes place immediately after the evening service.

Next Sunday afternoon the Caprock subdistrict of the Methodist Youth Fellowship meets at Lockney at 2:00, the theme being "Missions and Evangelism Review." Mr. Jarrell Rice is the counselor, with Larry Tipton serving as president; Walter Wayne Taylor as vice-president; and Pam Curtis as secretary-treasurer.

The pastor is to preach both sermons next Sunday, the one in the evening being the next-to-last in the Romans series, based on Chs. 9-11, entitled "Beseeching His Very Own People!" This concerns the puzzle of the rejection of Jesus by the Jews. The morning passage is on Discovery, taken from John 1:39-47, and called "Find Out For Yourself!" Columbus, one of the most noted explorers, was not the only one to hear a call.

The monthly family night program takes place at 7 the evening of October 17.

Mrs. William Lynn Cox

TENA TIFFIN WEDS WILLIAM LYNN COX IN SEPTEMBER

Miss Tena Tiffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil George Lockney, became the bride of William Lynn Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cox of Aiken on Friday, September 13 at the First Baptist Church at Aiken.

Rev. C. O. Haile, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church, Plainview, and former pastor at Aiken, read the double ring ceremony at 8:30 P. M.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of silk organza topped with a lace bolero designed with a round neckline, long sleeves and self covered buttons. The organza skirt was gathered full. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses atop a white Bible. For tradition she carried or wore something old, new borrowed and blue.

Miss Rita Dollar was maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of yellow polished cotton designed with a molded bodice featuring short puffed sleeves and round neckline. The bouffant skirt was topped with an embroidered silk organza over-skirt. She wore white patent accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Larry Perkins attended the bridegroom as best man.

Following a reception in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cox, the couple left for a short wedding trip. For travelling the bride chose a beige suit with white accessories.

Mrs. Cox attended Lockney High School three years. Her husband is a graduate of Plainview High School and attended West Texas State College. The couple is at home in Lockney and Mr. Cox is engaged in farming in the Aiken community.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Payne.

A description of the classes and subclasses of land in Briscoe County is included in the booklet. These classes and subclasses are groupings of land with similar characteristics and problems as used by the Soil Conservation Service. Charts and pictures of the different classes are shown giving acres and land treatments such as irrigated and dry cropland, rangeland, pasture, and woodland. Pictures included show problems of irrigation, erosion by wind and water, and brush control needs.

Conservation practices completed are illustrated by pictures of terraces, diversions, and waterways such as the one on the W. M. Currie farm near Quitaque. Range and pasture seeding will be needed on approximately 40,000 acres by 1975. One picture shows Indiangrass seeded on the Joe Oneal place south-east of Quitaque. Brush control will be needed on approximately 157,000 acres by 1975. A thick stand of mesquite brush is shown in a picture made on the E. A. Birdwell ranch prior to control. Pictures of ponds and erosion control dams constructed on the H. T. Luther and Tom Barbee places are shown. These are needed for livestock water, erosion control and some irrigation. Recreation areas are shown by pictures of Burson and Cottonwood Lakes.

Kent Creek Watershed is described by showing organization, needs of conservation practices inside watershed, and a map of the watershed. The map shows location of dam sites, channel, drop structures in the channels, roads, etc. Pictures are included which show conservation practices applied and needed inside the watershed.

These booklets are available for you at no cost at the Soil Conservation Service Office. Silvertown and Quitaque Banks also have the booklets for you. Some of them have been mailed to individuals throughout the county.
