

Football Teams Set for Home Games

The next meeting of the Anton Booster Club will be held Tuesday, September 25, in the cafeteria at 8 p.m. All parents are urged to attend these meetings to let the boys and coaches know they are supported.

Steve Eckstein and his family of Portales, N.M. visited at the Lawrence Avenue Church of Christ last Sunday in Anton. He spoke at both morning and evening worship services and also taught a special lesson in an afternoon session. He is director of the Church of Christ Bible Chair at Eastern New Mexico University at Portales.

Larry Wilkinson was elected president of the Seagraves Area Chamber of Commerce at a re-organization meeting of directors last week. Donnie Taylor was named vice president and Pat McAdoo was re-elected secretary treasurer. Four new directors were inducted at the meeting. They were Tilton Jones, Glenn Lewis, Leon Ragsdale and Melvin Young.

The 1973 Eagle Band of Seagraves High school is the largest band in history of the school, according to Bill Woods, band director. There are 134 students on the band roster, which also includes boys on the varsity football team and the cheerleaders.

The Food Stamp Program will be initiated on the South Plains of Texas beginning on November 1. All counties in Texas are included in the program which is designed to provide food stamps for all eligible needy person in the state.

Jim Wilson is the new minister of the 12th Street Church of Christ in Seagraves. His wife, Judy, and three daughters have moved to Seagraves from Lubbock. He replaces Pay Terry who recently moved to Las Cruces, N.M. as a minister of a church.

Three women from Seagraves received diplomas last week from Brownfield General Vocational Nursing School. They were Mrs. Wayne Day, Mrs. Jose Chavez and Mrs. Dale Thomas.

A former Seagraves resident, Jim Singleton, graduated from the 94th session of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Academy in Quantico, Va. last week. He has served as a Texas Ranger in the Lubbock District the past four years.

Mrs. T.C. Asbill of Morton has been selected as Outstanding Young Woman of America for 1973, according to Ms. Pandora Bemis, director for this awards program. She was nominated by Delta Kappa Gamma Alumnae (Theta Epsilon) of Levelland.

Frenship Tigers Drop Heartbreaker 13-12 to Lockney - Ready for Tulia Friday Evening

The third time is said to be the charm and Frenship hopes that the Tigers will take that old saying to heart as they begin preparations for a game with Tulia here Friday night at 8 p.m.

The Tigers, despite game efforts, stand 0-2 for the season, but hope that they can take the measure of the Hornets and hit the win column.

Last Friday, Lockney eked out a victory when a disastrous penalty and a bad snap from center thwarted a field goal attempt in the final six seconds.

Frenship, trailing 13-12, had the ball at the Longhorn 10, but a penalty moved the ball back to the 25. Still, there was time for a field goal that would have won. It never came off, as the bad snap ensued and Lockney hung onto its one-point victory.

Larry Van Gilder was one of the standouts for the Tigers, along with Travis Harney. They each scored touchdowns on runs of two and five yards respectively. Harney's score brought the Tigers within one point, but a try for the go-ahead extra two points failed.

First Baptist Church of Shallowater to Host Evangelist Bob Larson in March of 1974

Our church and community will be privileged to host Mr. Bob Larson on March 1, 2, and 3, 1974 for a series of meetings and lectures. Mr. Larson, from Denver, Colorado, is an outstanding singer, composer, guitarist, and recording artist. Prior

As an evangelist, he has twice circled the globe, authored five books and lectured on over fifteen hundred secular campuses.

We look forward to his coming.

Grain Costs Represent Small Part of Total

The housewife who sees the high cost of her succulent Sunday pot roast the result of increases in grain prices has unfairly placed the blame.

Fact is, grain costs are only 20 percent or less of beef's on the hoof price, according to a current study by Grain Sorghum Producers Association of Lubbock, Texas.

"If you deduct the entire cost of grain sorghum used in fattening a steer for market, beef still would be selling today for the price housewives were paying last January," said Elbert Harp, GSPA's executive director.

Harp points out that a 1,000 pound Texas steer will have consumed a ton of grain sorghum at market time. At today's price of $5 per hundred pounds, the cost of grain to fatten a steer will run $100 a head.

Subtracting the $100 grain cost from the steer's $500 price tag results in a price of $400 or 40 cents a pound for the 1,000 pound beef. And 40 cents was the total price of the animal last January.

"The point is," Harp explained, "the increase in the grain price is not the big increase in cattle production cost.

Harp noted that even with grain production cost.

Harp noted that even with steer is only 20 percent of the total cost when cattle sell for 50 cents a pound. With 60 cent cattle and $5 grain, the cost of grain would be about 16.7 percent of the animal's total sale price.

When the processing cost and store markup are added, the cost of grain to feed the animal is an even smaller percentage of the over the counter price paid by the housewife.

Young Farmers to Meet September 24th

The Frenship Young Farmers did it again. They were first in Area I for the Outstanding Young Farmer Award, and this year they also won first in the Radio-TV Award.

There was good attendance from the Frenship Chapter at the business meeting and also at the banquet.

At the business meeting Bobby Richie ran for Area office but was not elected. Garland Boozer ran for State Vice-President from Area I and was not elected. Garland did an outstanding job of presiding over the business session and over the banquet.

The next meeting will be their regular membership drive and cookout. They want to encourage everyone to attend. A.J. Strader and Joe Fletcher will be in charge of doing the cooking, and they will be needing some help if anyone wants to volunteer.

A program will be brought by Jimmy Nall of Plains Cotton Cooperatives Association. He will discuss the usefulness of "Cotton Contracts".

They will also have the election for the

Lions Club Holds Ladies Night Meeting

The Shallowater Lions Club met Thursday, September 13th at 7:30 p.m. at Vardeman's Restaurant for their regular meeting and supper with their wives as special guests.

After the roll call, business was discussed and plans made for the Harvest Festival which will be held in October at the Shallowater Community Club House.

Guest speaker, Mr. Caraway of Lubbock, U.S. postal employee, gave a very interesting talk on U.S. Postal equipment, machines and the Zip Code.

Hart Longhorns. And as the Mustangs take the field today, they are pointing towards a return to winning ways Friday night at 8 p.m. when they face New Deal's Lions here.

Shallowater fell behind early last week, bounced back to within one point and then grudgingly fell behind for keeps. But shining through was the work of Quarterback Bobby Reeves.

Reeves drove the Mustangs 79 yards right after the initial Hart tally. And it was end Ray Morris who brought the fans to their feet. He took a pass from Reeves and raced 52 yards to pay dirt.

On tap this week will be intensive work on shoring up a Mustang line that yielded too many long runs and an offensive line that accounted for Shallowater backs gaining only 55 yards.

Reeves made the Mustangs a threat with his passing. He completed 11 or 17 attempts for 136 and Don Grimes caught six of the aerials for 52 yards.

But Hart is behind and the Mustangs, 1-1 for the new season, look to the Lions to go above .500.

There will also be a discussin of the Frenship Young Farmer Pig Sale to be held October 24th in the Bus Barn. They will need some workers to make this activity a success.

Irrigation For Maximum Profits

Irrigation is likely to be a key factor in maximum wheat pasture forage production this fall and winter, according to a Lubbock based irrigation specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. If feed costs continue to be high, there will be an extra bonus for the lower-cost forage.

Two fall irrigations, especially in dry years, in addition to either a watering-up or preplant application will usually produce maximum forage, says Leon New.

Good, early fall grazing can normally be obtained from late August planted wheat with an irrigation in mid to late October and early November while temperatures are still up. Water use is low prior to this time, the specialist says, and deep rooting should be encouraged. By November 1, however, the water use rates is likely to be over one and a half inches every ten days.

"It is best and often more convenient to make the first application before cattle are placed on wheat pasture," says New. "This prevents trampling of valuable forage and compacting wet soil, and helps avoid rotating to dry fields.

"A second fall irrigation in December or January may be needed to insure good forage stored by this time. Irrigations early in the year and may be especially important during dry years to maintain forage quality and even stand survival," he adds. "Vegetative growth is usually slow during late January and February because very little growth occurs during temperatures under 45 degrees."

The Extension specialist cautions that high soil moisture during unusually warm periods can promote plant water uptake and cause freeze damage later, especially to less winter-hardy wheat varieties and oats and barley. Overgrazed plants may also be susceptible to freeze damage under similar weather and moisture conditions. Early to mid-December applications may help prevent freeze damage, depending on weather severity.

"Research has shown very little to no response to a third fall irrigation," New explains. "Adequate moisture is important, though, for forage production in early spring when soil and air temperatures increase. An irrigation in March is likely to boost forage production, especially if winter snow and rainfall are light and the wheat is to be grazed out."

In contrast, says New, grain yields have been influenced very little by early spring applications. Heavy irrigation is not recommended during tillering and jointing for grain production since it produces more straw and encourages lodging.

Good response is normally obtained for grain and forage production from irrigations at botting about mid-April and heading in early May when adequate moisture is critical, he contends. Forage yield is high during this time if moisture is optimum.

Another irrigation in mid to late May at the grain filling stage may be beneficial in grain production, especially in dry years, says New.

unless a few different techniques are used on these high carbon metals, according to Mr.'s Easter, Belew and Doss, vocational agriculture teachers at Frenship High School.

One of the biggest problems in the welding of pipe and sucker rods to build corrals and other farm structures has been selection of electrodes, according to Bill Hollenback, Farm Arc Welding Specialist with the Agricultural Education Specialist Program headquartered at Texas A&M University. Mr. Hollenback states that most weldors use 1/8"-E7018, or any other 1/8" low hydrogen electrode when an A.C. welding machine is used.

However, shifting to low hydrogen electrodes make it difficult to weld with 180-amp welding machines. At least a 225-amp A.C. machine is needed for satisfactory work. With machines that have high and low outlets, use the low side for providing more open circuit voltage.

The ideal procedure for welding high carbon steels is to begin with

by Joe Kelly

Coach Jim Carlen walked into the Texas Tech Media Hospitality suite Saturday night with a puckish grin on his face, which prompted me to ask if he had (that trilling game ending) planned that way all the time?

"Not on your life!" he exclaimed. "Nobody could ever accuse me of that!"

Jim obviously was pleased that Tech had won and remarked that he'd take them any way he could get them.

That about explained the reaction of the fans, too, and led one observer to remark that, by Sunday night, the fans would remember only that Tech had won, not things that happened during the course of the game that would have brought down their ire.

As it was, the Raiders won because they never gave up. They could have, because it began to look as though time had run out. Then, lightning struck twice so fast that Utah didn't know what hit.

Carlen had high praise for Rufus Myers, who came on strong in his first varsity game.

"He's the only runner I ever had who could run the way he does. He's tough enough to run up the gut. His footwork is something else. And he runs for daylight, too."

Carlen also had praise for Joe Barnes, especially when he called time out in a tough situation.

"Most quarterbacks would have gone ahead and run the play and gotten in trouble," he said, "but Joe was smart enough to recognize trouble and call time out."

The Tech coach also stressed the fact that he had said all along that Utah would be the toughest opening game for Tech since he'd been here.

"I was right, too," he asserted, and then, when a writer asked about the Tulane game his second year, he said: "That was the reverse situation. We had the game won and gave it to them, just like Utah had it won tonight."

Bill Meek earlier had echoed Carlen on Utah's giving the game away. "We just let it get away", he said, "but two bad plays killed us. I thought we played a good game, and we played a good team, too."

Meek and Carlen disagreed about the turning point, Jim saying it was the blocked punt and Bill pointing to Ryan's pass interception "that turned the game around."

"Even if we had had to punt," Meek said, "they'd have had the ball deep in their own end of the field, with a long way to go."

It was a far different opener than a year ago, when Utah came here with dissension on the squad and six regulars out. And, for sheer offense, the Utes had a superior club.

Tech received a good test, leading Carlen to observe that "they did a good job picking at us. They'd pick here, then there. They aren't like Texas. Shoot, Texas just rolls up its sleeves and says 'here we come'. Utah has a fine offense. That Odom will run back punts against a lot of teams before the year's over."

Anyway, the Raiders gave the crowd all the excitement it could have wanted and it will be surprising if there isn't a bigger crowd Saturday afternoon when New Mexico comes here.

The Lobos were tough last year, could be tougher this year. And, don't forget, Tech never has been a good TV team. If the boob tube jinx hangs on, the game Saturday could be a real barnburner.

Incidentally, the fans didn't leave last week, even when it looked hopeless, and Carlen said that they, the fans, never would know what they meant to the Raiders in helping fire them up.

Just a brief note: Before this hits the light of day, Hammerin Hank Aaron may well have tied Babe Ruth's record of 714 career homers. But whether he does it this week, next week or next week, Aaron is sure to be enshrined.

As I have said before, the man richly deserves the honor. He's been a credit to the game. He has been a super star. He already has earned a niche in baseball's shrine.

Also, one thing I plan to do is attend the dinner at which Jesse Owens will be the speaker. I have an idea that he is going to give one of the great motivational talks we have heard here.

It behooves the city to really lay out the red carpet for Owens, not because he was voted the half century's top athlete, but because, in the toughest testing ground of all, in pre-war Nazi Germany, he gave the United States one of its greatest hours in the Olympics.

Tech Stops Utah 29-22: New Mexico Saturday

Big rugged New Mexico furnishes the next test for Texas Tech's young football team this Saturday in a regionally televised game that has a 12:45 p.m. kickoff slated for Jones Stadium.

It's doubtful that Rufus Myers will be greatly impressed. The 6-0, 200-pound sophomore from Calhoun County certainly showed little respect for Utah last Saturday in the Red Raider opener. The strong black ripped the Ute line for 135 yards on 29 carries and scored the decisive touchdown with only 41 seconds showing.

"We just let it get away", a crestfallen Utah coach Bill Meek declared.

And that's just what happened, as the opportunistic Raiders struck for two touchdowns in the space of three minutes and five seconds to turn a 22-14 loss into a 29-22 victory.

Tech scored the first two times it held the ball, with Joe Barnes passing seven yards to Andre Tillman for the first and Myers scoring on a 4 yard run for the second.

But the Utes were even more effective. They scored on their first two possessions, but on only one offensive scrimmage. Flanker Steve Odom returned Tech's touchdown kickoff 93 yards for the tying score and then marched for a second when Don VanGalder passed two yards to Ike Spencer. Dan Marelli's missed placement gave Tech a 14-13 lead, which it held until Utah's first possession of the last half.

VanGalder drove the Utes 66 yards, with Spencer going over from two yards out. An unsuccessful try for two points left Utah ahead, 19-14.

Later in the third period, Tech's defenses stiffened at the Raider six and, on fourth down, Marelli booted a 24-yard field goal.

It stayed 22-14 until Gary Bartel slanted in front of Marelli, blocked his kick into the end zone and noseguard David Knaus fell on the ball for a touchdown. And Lawrence Williams followed with a sensational diving catch of Barnes' pass for the tying two points.

On the first play after the kickoff, George Herro tipped a pass and Curtis Jordan picked it off. Tech drove for a field goal to win, but Myers had other ideas. He carried on half of Tech's eight plays, his final carry going for nine yards and the winning touchdown.

The conference deals with basic principles of life, with scriptural references and explanations being an important part of the presentation.

Larry attended the institute in Dallas this past summer, and Bro. and Mrs. Cartrite plan to attend one soon.

Further details of cost, requirements, etc. will be available as soon as possible.

Dear Citizens of the U.S.

I wrote this letter to tell you how Savings Bonds can help you. A Savings Bond will replace your money if something happens to it. Why do you think people buy Bonds? To save more money. They pay back 5-1/2% for interest. Don't you think it's worth it? Why don't you get a Savings Bond, it's the safest way to save.

If your U.S. Savings Bonds are lost, stolen, or destroyed, it doesn't matter. Because all you have to do is report the loss, and you'll be issued a new one. It's another one of the reasons why you can't beat Bonds when it comes to safe, sure saving.

Take stock in America.

Buy U. S. Savings Bonds
Now E Bonds pay 8 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Tips for Arc Welders . . .

running a hot stringer bead or root pass to hold the assembled parts in place. A 1/8"-E6011 electrode should be used with the machine set between 130-160 amps for this operation. This assures ease in starting the arc and faster movement, saving time on the job.

After running the stringer, make the final welds with a 1/8-E7018 or any other 1/8" low hydrogen electrode with a setting of 130-160 amps. The weldor must hold a close arc and avoid whipping the electrode. If any movement is used, it should be a slight weaving motion.
