The pretty weather that we are having during the daytime is helpful to the farmers trying to gather their crops.

THENN

Have you ever heard the expression "You are what you think?" Most of the motivational material that you see will begin by asking if you are a postive thinker. When you begin a project do you go about it with enthusiasm or do you think of all the reasons why it will not happen? Many a project has failed, not for the lack of talent but for the lack of foresight and enthusiasm! Really when someone tells us that it can not be done, perhaps we should just set our eyes on the finished project and SHOWTHEM THAT IT IS POSSIBLE.

If we always think negative thoughts, we soon get into the habit when something new is mentioned of questioning the purpose of the change, questioning the motives of the person purposing the change and try to convince everyone who is in favor of the project that it JUST CAN'T BE DONE! Now do you want to be that sort

Maybe our negative thoughts come from feelings of jealousy, dishonesty, weakness, or just plain meaness. When has jealousy ever helped anyone to be a better person? Jealousy can only cause problems in any relationship whether it is between children, families, co-workers or husband and wife. No good comes from our thinking when we let jealousy enter in

A person who has gained by being dishonest also will always have negative thoughts as he feels that nothing can be gained by doing honest work--it must be gained by being sly. They certainly are not in favor of any changes unless it is to their benefit. Do we want to fall into this category and have the reputation of being downright dishonest about others, family or jobs. When we think this way we can never be happy because we are too busy trying to outsmart someone about something which if the truth was known, we probably could gain the same thing honestly and with a lot less stress on the old body and mind, not to mention the spirit.

If we are weak in character or body, it is very easy to think negatively. We want to take the easy way out of any job so as to not put too much stress on ourselves. How about the stress that we put on ourselves when we realize that we have not done the best that we can do! NOW THAT IS STRESS!!

And last, but certainly not least, are we negative thinkers just because we are mean? No one wants to be known as the meanest person in town, now do we? We would certainly become mean to everyone around us if all we thought about was what we wanted for ourselves and how we acquired it was of no importance. to try to put others feelings before ours and see how good we feel at the end of the day. We might just like the feeling so much that we would like to think good thoughts tomorrow

WOW! What a great world this would be if everyone would try to remember that we are what we THINK. It might change some of the ways that we THINK very quickly!

How Reorganization Affects USDA Customers

October marked the reality same USDA service center that of USDA's implementation of President Clinton's Reinventing Government initiative," said George Ellis, Rural Economic and Community Development (RECD) Texas State Director. Our customers should not notice any real changes in our service, except that it should get better and better.

The agencies which will make up the service centers include: The RECD, which is the housing, community, and business programs of the former Farmers Home Administration (FmHA); the Farm Service Agency (FSA), which is the former Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) and the farm programs of the former FmHA; and the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), which is the former Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The purpose of Reorganization is to "right size" the federal government and create "one-stop" service concept for USDA customers.

Wintertime Driving

During November through February last year, there were over 19,000 weather related accidents in Texas. Trooper L.B. Snider with the Texas Dept. of Public Safety stated that with taking just a few precau tions, many of these collisions could have been avoided.

Trooper Snider went on to say that skidding is always a threat but "Mother Nature's tricks" seem harshest during the winter. In the wintertime, "replace quick accelera-tion and quick braking with slow and gradual acceleration and earlier braking."

Try to avoid skids by staying aware of road conditions. Be espe-cially alert to bridges and overpasses, intersections and areas where windblown snow can hide ice riddled roads. If a skid should occur, "Don't panic". Back off the accelerator, stay off the brakes and turn your wheel in the direction youwant to go. With anti-lock brakes your reaction will differ. Be sure not to pump the brakes, depress them evenly until you regain control of the vehicle

When traveling: (1) check your battery, tires, windshield wiperblades and anti-freeze; (2) remove all ice and snow from all windows; and (3) start early; remember, posted speed limits are for ideal conditions and winter driving may require slower speeds.

We played a very good game de-fensively. I know the score looks a lot different than what we played. The kids really got after it.

It's Time To Start Thinking About Fall Foods

By; Ronda Alexander Vegetables are one of the most versatile foods from which to select. These high fiber, low-fat and nutri-ent dense foods help us reduce risks for many chronic diseases. The cooler weather vegetables that we will start seeing in abundance like cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, brussel sprouts, carrots and sweet potatoes, pumpkin and winter squashes are also high in antioxidants - those vitamins and minerals that help us reduce the risk for certain cancers. To make things more interesting, the advances in agriculture, transportation and food-handling technology have enabled several states to produce and provide a year-round stream of egetables throughout the country. Consumers are now no longer limited to the seasonal foods from their own locality.

Hunter Orange Bright Idea For Hunters

It's opening day and the sun is still a faint glow when the doe is spotted by the anxious hunter. He peers through his scope as she disappears into the brush 75 yards ahead, pausing only to look back over her shoulder as if being fol-

The hunter turns his head slowly to his left as he hears the movement of something easing through the brush. Surely it's the buck that the doe was looking back at. The hunter again raises his rifle and puts the crosshairs on an opening in brush. The small opening offers his only shot, and it will have to be a quick one

Slowly the grey form moves into the clearing, an indistinguishable hulk in the pre-dawn brush. The hunter's trigger finger inches backward, ever so slowly until...wait that's not a buck, it's a camo-clad hunter sneaking among the brush. He eases his finger off the trigger and his .270 back to his lap.

A cold chill grips him as he realizes how close he came to making his unannounced comrade an unfortunate statistic.

Hunting, by statistical measures, is a very safe sport. However, each year five to 10 Texans are seriously wounded or killed in a hunting accident, said Dr. Dale Rollins of San Angelo, Extension wildlife special-

Some of those are unfortunate cases of mistaken identity as nearly happened above, he added.

Hunters being mistaken for game can be completely avoided with two basic rules of hunting safety. The first is to positively identify the intended target. Never take "sound shots," he said.

Next, practice "defensive hunting." Wearing some item of blaze orange clothing makes hunters easily identifiable to others.

Blaze orange clothing is a requirement only for those on public lands, but it's a good idea for anyone hunting, especially deer hunters during the gun season.

"Wearing a blaze orange cap and or vest is very cheap life insurance," he advised. "We lose one or more hunters each year who could have, and probably would be alive today if they'd been wearing blaze orange.
