Jimmy Burson TEXAS IN THE SWING

This is a copy of the cover of the demo compact disc and tape that Jimmy Burson who is Briscoe County Judge has recently released.

Judge Burson Cuts Demo

The Briscoe County Judge, Jimmy Burson who has a smooth swinging style of singing and playing the fiddle recently fulfilled a dream of his. He recorded a demo at the Cowboy Connection Music in Muleshoe and then it was mixed at Johnny Mulhair Studio in Clovis, New Mexico.

Jimmy and Tom Morrell were the co-producers of the demo. Brad Billingsly was on the drums with Paul Goad at the piano. Lloyd Jordan played acoustic bass, Tom Morrell, steel guitar and lead guitar with Randy Elmore on the fiddle, mandolin or rhythm guitar while Jimmy Burson sang in his own great style and played the fiddle.

Two of the songs recorded were written by Jimmy, "I Left My Heart In San Antonio" and "Texas in the Swing"

If you like good "Texas music", you need to obtain a copy of this tape or cd for your collection. His "sound" is as great as we have come to expect it to be at the Caprock Jamboree each month.

Freeze Damages Wheat Crop

by Rebel L. Royall, CEA-Ag

With last week's low temperatures farmers can expect that this year's wheat crop suffered damage. The extent of the injury cannot be determined until temperatures warm up, and remain warm for four to seven days. There are three types of injury that will occur: leaf injury, damage to the stem, and death of spike and growing joint.

Damage to the leaves will have the least effect on wheat yield. It can vary from dead leaf tips to complete loss of the leaf. Severely damaged fields will have a strong odor similar to silage, once temperatures warm. Generally wheat will recover with little effect on yield from this type of injury. If wheat was rank, however, and a lot of damage occurred, there may be an advantage in flash-grazing the crop, or mowing to remove the dead vegetation.

Stem damage can be one of the most deceiving types of injury. Damage to the stem will appear as discoloration, splitting, collapse of internodes, and enlarged dark-colored nodes. A severely damaged stem will often die as temperatures warm up. The first symptom of a severely damaged internode is often little resistance of the tissue when the internode is pinched between the fingers.

The most serious injury occurs when the immature spike (head) is frozen. Generally, if the spike is damaged the growing point just below it is also killed. These may remain green for a period of time, but they will no longer grow. The spike will appear white or brown, and water-soaked, and will not produce grain. This type of damage can be evaluated by splitting the stem lengthwise with a razor blade and inspecting the spike. A healthy spike will be yellow-green and turgid.

Experience shows that a field sustaining 50 percent frozen spikes or severely damaged stem tissue during the jointing stage will not result in a 50 percent yield reduction. A 50 percent killed tillers (spikes) would translate into a loss in potential yield of about 25 percent.

Grazing the wheat is an option, if one has suffered major damage. A summer crop such as corn, sorghum, soybeans, or cotton could also be considered.

Comptroller Sharp Visits Quitauque

Friday afternoon, April 11, 1997, Comptroller of Public Accounts, John Sharp paid a visit to the Quitauque area. At 3 p.m. he was honored with a reception at the Quitauque Community Center. Plans were for the meeting to be at the Caprock Canyons State Park under the shelter but the bitter cold prevented the trip to the park.

After being introduced by Guy Young, Mr. Sharp gave a short speech and answered questions from the group that had braved the cold to attend the reception.

During his talk, he spoke about the reform to the food stamp program that he had instigated here in Texas. "The first month 22,000 were removed from the list of recipients. Many of these were found to have died and someone else was cashing in their food stamps," said Sharp. "It took four years to get the program off the ground and going but it has been well worth the effort. About 10 percent less people purchased four and one-half million dollars more. In all about 1/2 million people have been removed from the food stamp program because of the instigation of the cards."

On taxes, he told the group that 82 different taxes will most likely be levied to replace property taxes, if the bill on lowering property taxes passes, taxes that cannot be deducted from income tax. Residential taxes are set by local governing bodies while all others are set at the state level.

On the lottery, he stated that your chances of winning is about 16 million to one. Not very good odds!

He was asked, "Do you think Texas could bring more of the federal controlled programs back to be under state control?" "Yes, the closer to home the better it is controlled," he replied.

THEN and NOW!

by Eunice McFall

Thank You, Please, I'm Sorry, May I Be Excused? These are all polite words to hear and repeat. Do you use them every day in every situation that they are called for? Do we compliment someone when we think they have done an extra good job or look especially good? Do we teach our children how to reply when they receive a compliment? Do we teach our children that it is never out of line to ask to be excused instead of just jumping up and running out of the room? Many children have grown up learning that please is a magic word-it gets you much more what you want than to demand something!

As we grow older do we forget this magic word and start to think that courtesy is due us but we do not have to be polite in return? We must realize that we are going to get just what we put out! If we expect to be treated courteously we must also be courteous to others. Age has nothing to do with being polite. When we have hurt another's feelings we should rush to tell them that we are sorry for the hurt that we have caused, that it was not our intention to cause them pain.

According to Bits & Pieces "We must decide to be happy today, to live with what is yours—your family, your business, your job, your luck. If you can't have what you like, maybe you can like what you have."

"Just for today, be kind, cheerful, agreeable, responsive, caring and understanding. Be your best, dress your best, talk softly, look for the bright side of things. Praise people for what they do and don't criticize them for what they cannot do. If someone does something stupid, forgive and forget. After all, it's just for one day. Who knows, it might turn out to be a nice day."

After all this day and the future days of our lives are in our hands, by being polite we just might change quite a bit of what is wrong in this old world and make it a much better and happier place to live in.

Time to be thinking about Bob Wills Day. It will be happening next week. Time to break out the fiddles, the dancing shoes, the floats, the cameras and get ready to enjoy the week-end.

Caprock Enduro Races In Turkey

People traveling through Turkey last week-end probably thought that Bob Willis Day had probably started three weeks early. The City Park, the araea around the Fire Station and lots of vacant lots were filled with mobile homes, beautiful motorcycles and a variety of pick-ups.

The Caprock Enduro races were in progress. The races were sponsored by the post Enduro Association. They have sponsored the races since 1986.

Their headquarters were set up at the Fire Station.

On Saturday, the Mini-Enduro Races were held. This race is for the young motorcyclist, 12 years of age or younger. Twenty-one young riders entered this race.

Sunday races were held for the main Enduro Races. There were 350 riders entered in this race. The Enduro began at 8:01 as the first rider left. Riders left at certain intervals. This race required 4 1/2 hours to complete. Each contestant had to check in at several check points. Each rider has to check in at a specific time, not too early or too late or the rider will be penalized. Good riding and timing are essential.

Participants entering came from several states, including Texas, all parts; New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming.

The trail was staked out on the Cody Bell Ranch and the Burson Ranches.

Child Abuse Prevention Month

provided by Calley Payne, CEA-FCS

A presidential proclamation in 1983 declared April as child abuse prevention month. Since then the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse (NCPA) along with thousands of concerned citizens and groups have provided the impetus and support to institutionalize it. Joining Texas affiliates in this effort is the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the State's largest informal educational system.

Many Texas children are vulnerable to conditions which add stress to their families and which prevent healthy environments for their growth and development. While child abuse is not restricted to any particular group, it is seen more frequently in families where parents are troubled by alcoholism, drug abuse, marital strife, low self-esteem and joblessness.

The stereotype of the child abuser is a male authority figure—the child's father or stepfather, or the mother's boyfriend. However, the alleged abuser in Texas is more likely to be female, married and in nearly half of reported cases, the natural mother of the child, while a smaller percentage (about 10 percent) are stepparents.

Nitrogen Management

provided by Rebel L. Royall, CEA-Ag.

Recent heavy rains in many parts of Texas have left some farmers wondering about possible losses of fertilizer that has already been applied. The three plant nutrients required in greatest amounts by most crops are nitrogen (N), phosphorus (P) and potassium (K). These nutrients are essential for the normal growth and development of plants. Of these three, N is by far the most dynamic and the one most subject to loss. Weather condition and soil microbes play important roles in these processes.

For most agricultural crops, except legumes (such as clovers or alfalfa), the soil does not furnish adequate amounts for plant production. Once in the soil, N can undergo a number of chemical changes which influence its availability to crop plants and the potential for loss. When organic matter (plant or animal residues) containing a good supply of N compared to carbon (green manure, legumes) is applied to the soil, soil microorganisms break down the material releasing the N in a process called mineralization. This N is in a mineral form and is immediately available for plant uptake. In contrast, if the material is low in N compared to carbon (leaves, wheat straw), a process called immobilization occurs where the N is tied up by the microbes in a form not available to plants.

Mineral N also is subject to various transformations in the soil. After organic N is mineralized into ammonium N (NH₄-N), other soil microbes can convert it into nitrate N (NO₃-N) through a process called nitrification. Because of its positive charge, NH₄-N is attracted to and held by negatively charged surfaces which occur on individual soil particles. In contrast, the negative charge caused by the chemical structure of NO₃-N prevents it from attaching to the soil. As a result, NO₃-N is much more subject to loss

The cost to Texas society is tremendous. When abused children begin to enter adolescence, they are more likely than others to exhibit self-destructive, anti-social behaviors. They may run away, drop out of school, abuse drugs and alcohol, or commit a crime. When abused and troubled children become parents, they tend to perpetuate self-destructive conditions with their own children.

Individuals can personally help to prevent child abuse:

They can improve their own parenting knowledge, skills and practices.

They can report suspected cases of abuse.

They can work as a volunteer or counselor in programs designed to prevent abuse.

They can serve as foster parents.

They can financially support prevention programs.

In addition Texas citizens can work with policy makers to ensure that all families in need of basic life support receive adequate food, shelter, health care and opportunities for employment thereby reducing the risks for child abuse.

by leaching from the soil. This is of greatest concern in coarse-textured, sandy soils which have a high permeability and rapid water infiltration.

Nitrogen loss also can occur from fine-textured, clayey soils under high rainfall conditions. When the soil becomes saturated, some soil microbes may utilize the oxygen from NO₃-N for respiration. In this process, called denitrification, nitrate is converted into N gas which can volatilize into the atmosphere. This process is only of concern when the soil is waterlogged for an extended time (>12 hours), but can result in significant losses of N.

Several best management practices to leaching and volatilization. Applying N fertilizer as close as possible to the time of crop demand is very important. Thus, applications made just prior to planting are less likely to experience environmental conditions that may result in loss.

Understanding and considering crop growth patterns can also aid management. Most crops do not require large amounts of N in the early stages of growth, but do require an adequate supply throughout the growing season. As a result, split applications of fertilizer N can help ensure a steady supply, but reduce chances of loss due to heavy early-season rains.

Where there are concerns about the nutrient supply for crop growth, soil testing is the most effective tool to evaluate residual nutrient status of the soil. Special sampling methods (deep sampling) may be required in some cases. Contact Ag Agent, Rebel L. Royall, at the Briscoe County Office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at 806/823-2131 for assistance.

When fully ripe and ready for eating, tomatoes should be slightly soft.

Turkey Heritage Foundation Report

by Lawana Cruse
Thanks to Larry and Dustin Denton, the burlap has been removed from the ceiling of the Gem Theatre and the original, beautiful tin ceiling has been exposed. The Foundation is now in the process of getting electricity in the theatre so they can begin the cleanup. Plans are to extend the stage out about ten feet.

They will have a concession stand in the lobby of the theatre April 24, 25 and 26 which is Bob Wills Day week-end. Anyone who would like to help with this, especially members of the Turkey Heritage Foundation, could help by making brownies, cookies, rice crispie bars, etc. A table will be in the theatre lobby where the old ink bottles that were dug up out of the cistern at the old grade school will be for sale.

Chances will be for sale on two beautiful handmade quilts. One, donated by Margie Pinkerton's mother, is the Lone Star pattern in shades of blue. The other quilt was donated by Connie Holland. It is the Santa Fe Trails pattern in red, blue, green and yellow. The Foundation appreciates the generosity of these two ladies with their gift of the quilts. The drawing for these quilts will be on the July 4th weekend.

The foundation will keep the public informed as to the progress of the theatre and the museum and any donations will be most welcome and appreciated.

Russian Wheat Aphid Showing Up In Wheat

provided by Rebel Royall CEA-Ag
The Russian wheat aphid, dreaded by farmers because it menaces croplands, is showing up in a few area wheat fields now, says Dr. Carl Patrick, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"This is the time to look for spots of obvious damage in the fields," said Patrick. Starting now, and until mid-May, the insects will be active and begin to spread.

"If aphids are present, farmers will see tillers with obvious purpling and white lines, also known as chlorotic streaking," Patrick said. Oftentimes, the leaf will be rolled up like a soda straw. The insects are one-sixteenth inch long, lime green in color, spindle-shaped, and can be seen by unrolling the plant's leaves.

"Aphids prefer feeding on the younger leaves in wheat," the specialist said. Damage occurs when the insects inject a toxin as they feed. Dryland wheat will likely be most affected. Additional information on how to identify the insect, check for damage and appropriate control measures is available through local county Extension offices.

According to Patrick beneficial insects in the form of predators and parasites will feed on aphid. However, once the aphid is protected inside the rolled plant leaves, beneficial predators are less effective. In most cases, an insecticide application will likely be required to prevent significant yield losses when the economic threshold is reached.

Decisions on control are calculated using the cost of chemical applications versus the value of the wheat. For example, if insecticide control will cost $8.00 an acre and a value of the wheat is estimated at $100 an acre, then the producers may want to consider treatment when 16 percent of the plant tillers show damage and feeding aphids are present.

Several insecticides have been shown to be effective for controlling aphids in wheat, Lorsban 4E-SG, Dimethoate, and Di-Syston.

"Producers should check the label restrictions before any chemical application," said Patrick. There is 14-day non-grazing interval when using Lorsban or Dimethoate. There should be no grazing whatsoever if Di-Syston has been used.

For information about control and crop value determinations, contact any county Extension office. Dr. Patrick can be reached at 806/359-5401 in Amarillo.

Wayland Hosts "Big Weekend"

Students from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Colorado will converge on Plainview for Big Weekend, Wayland Baptist University's Spring college preview, April 4th and 5th.

This spring's event, sponsored by Wayland's Student Foundation and Admissions Office, features a concert by 1997 Grammy Award Nominee and best-selling author Rebecca St. James. With the release of her album, God, and her devotional book, 40 Days with God, Rebecca has burst onto the contemporary Christian artist scene.

With her full band in support, the Rebecca St. James Concert, to be held in Wayland's Herral Auditorium, promises to be an energetic portion of Big Weekend. A Late Night Breakfast and Midnight Movie will follow the concert on Friday night to close out the first day's events.

All students attending Big Weekend will be eligible for scholarship and prize drawings. Participants may also audition for band, choir and theater scholarships as well as tryout for men's and women's basketball, women's volleyball, men's golf, and coed cheerleading. Add Pioneer baseball doubleheaders on both Friday and Saturday and you can see we will have a full weekend.

WTAMU To Host Caprock Public Teacher Job Fair

More than 100 school district representatives from several different states are expected to attend the 20th annual West Texas A&M University Teacher Job Fair sponsored by Career Services. The fair will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, April 21 in the Virgil Henson Activities Center Ballroom.

Representatives from Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nevada will be on campus to talk with students about employment in their districts. Representatives include superintendents, principals and human resource personnel.

"At this fair, students have an opportunity to network with school districts regarding full-time employment opportunities," Suzie Hall, administrative secretary in Career Services and Cooperative Education Program said. "It gives prospective teachers a chance to discuss what each particular school district is looking for and what the student has to offer."

Students attending the job fair should dress professionally and bring multiple copies of their resumes, Hall said. The fair is open to individuals who will be certified to teach in the fall of 1997.

There is no charge for attending the Teacher Job Fair, and preregistration is not required.

Quitaque EMS Meets

by Deborah Wellman

The monthly meeting of QEMS was held Wednesday, April 2nd. The meeting was attended by six members. They discussed the things that continue to come up missing from the ambulance. They are asking that the public help them watch the ambulance bays. If you should see anyone messing around the ambulance that you feel does not have any business there, stop and ask them about it, or talk to Albert Castillo, Jack Wellman, Clyde Dudley or Sheriff Jerry Beck about what you have seen.

It is very important for the EMS to have all of their equipment and supply on every run. They never know what they will encounter on any given run and they must be able to depend on everything being in its place.

The group is very glad to have Rod Hinkle back with them. Rod has spent a month in Florida and decided not to move at this time. The group hopes he will be able to find employment so that he will be able to stay in Quitaque. He had several things to tell the Service concerning equipment the Services used in Florida. One piece of equipment they will be looking into is a Pulse Oximeter. Turkey has recently purchased one and Rod has visited with Jim Weeks about it. EMS will be getting prices with the hope of purchase soon.

There are seven volunteers for Bob Wills weekend, at this time. They will do as they did last year. The Quitaque EMS will ride with their personnel in their ambulances.

Interest Got Hot In The City Election

The city election in Turkey Tuesday resembled somewhat in appearance the month of March—came in like a lamb and went out like a lion. The election started off in the morning in a very quiet and usual manner. 17 votes being cast up to noon.

However during the afternoon "the wind came up" as a write-in campaign got under way, and at closing time (7 o'clock) 133 votes had been cast and voters were still coming.

W. B. Mullin was re-elected mayor and Drew Holcomb was retained in his job as street commissioner. Those were the only names on the ballot, the others being written in. Here is the unofficial tabulation of the count:
For Mayor, W. B. Mullin 83; George Stewart 41; Harry Barnhill 2; Bert Degan 1.

For Commissioner, Drew Holcomb 97; Bert Degan 28; George Stewart 1, F.O. Ham 1, Red Williams 1.

School Trustee Election

In the school trustee election Saturday, Jim Eudy was returned to the county board as trustee, a position he has held for several years.

In Turkey Independent School District, Roy Fuston and Fox Bolton were returned to their jobs which they have held for several years.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor,
I was visiting in Turkey last fall and run across a copy of your paper at the Hotel Turkey. I was raised up in Turkey. I was born there on February 28, 1941. My parents lived in the old Bob Wills home between the rivers. I was delivered by the fine Dr. Garner in that house. My father told me that I cost $25.00 and a fine pig.

My father was a cotton and more cotton farmer, we left there broke in 1956 after several years of the great drought. I went through the 8th grade there. I asked my father several times and got the same answer. Why did you ever settle in place like Turkey? He said it was grand cotton farming country.

I was looking through some of my father's old things the other day and ran across his old cotton records from 1951. That was a good year for cotton, he had gathered 116 bales of cotton. I remember when school would turn out so's most all the kids went to the bolley patch to pull cotton.

There was lots of the kids then who loved to work for my father. He would bring them soda pops and candy every day they worked. I was looking at some of the names in 1951; Ronald, Donald, Conroy Lacy, Sherron Arnold, Claton Lisenby, Gary Johnson, David Blume, Pat Lynn McGinney, Vickey Mahon, Roy Perkins, the Turners, Gafford boys and several others with first names only that I didn't know.

Noticed where Donald Lacy had pulled 1,042 pounds of cotton and was paid $22.34 (this was probably for one week).

All of this brings back lots of back hurting memories. I don't know what happened to everyone I knew there, I have only seen one person and that was Lowell Proctor about ten years ago.

I'm sending funds for a subscription.

Thanks,
B.J. Furrh

THANK YOU

We wish to thank each one for the love you expressed by your acts of kindness and your prayers at this time of sorrow.

Senate Votes To Crack Down On Internet Child Pornography

Lt. Governor Bob Bullock said a bill approved unanimously Monday by Texas Senators will decrease the distribution of child pornography on the Internet.

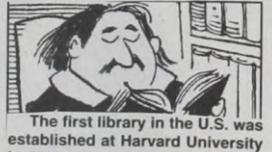

Bullock said the bill, sponsored by Sen. J. E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, strengthens Texas Law by expanding the current definition of "film images" to cover any type of "visual material" showing a child under 18 engaging in a sexual act. The change covers compact disks, negatives, slides, videos, photographs and any images that can be transmitted to a computer by cable, telephone or a satellite link, including items on the Internet.

"Technology is growing at such a rapid pace, it is absolutely imperative for state law to keep up," Bullock said.

"There is nothing more important to Texas than safety of its children. The new definition can make it easier to prosecute child pornography crimes."

Bullock noted that authorities recently have arrested several people around the nation on charges of using the Internet to distribute pornographic materials depicting children. "People who thought they could peddle this kind of thing behind the anonymity of the Internet are finding out they are wrong."

The bill now moves to the House for consideration.
