Lack of Cooperation Threatening Diapause Boll Weevil Program

Jane Duncan Was Second Runner-Up In Queen Contest

As this newspaper reported earlier, the Valley girls basketball players were not only fine athletes but they are pretty and this was borne out in the All-Star Queen Contest held in conjunction with the Golden Spread Girls High School All-Star basketball game last Saturday night at the Amarillo Civic Center.

Miss Jane Duncan, a starter on the Valley girls basketball team and representative of Valley High in the contest, was selected as second runner-up in the contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Duncan. Mr. Duncan is a teacher at Valley. She was escorted by her brother, John Duncan.

Miss Jeaneane Russell of Paducah was chosen as Queen and the first place winner.

First runner-up was Lori Francis of Silverton. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Francis and the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Davis, former residents of this community. Lori's mother is the former Macbelle Davis, a graduate of Quitaque High and was a fine basketball player herself at QHS.

Rev. Martin Will Be Guest Speaker Here

Bro. and Sis. Woody Enos, pastor of Quitaque Assembly of God Church are happy to announce the Rev. Don Martin will be the guest speaker for Revival Services from Monday, March 25, through March 31.

The public is invited to worship with us nightly at 7:45. (Reported by Mrs. Enos)

Lack of cooperation from a few cotton producers located below the Caprock north of the Middle Pease River in Motley, Floyd, Briscoe and Hall counties may cause this general area to be excluded from the High Plains Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program in 1974. That is the action recommended by the program's Technical Advisory Committee, made up of the nation's leading entomologists in the field of weevil control.

Farmers have refused to allow as much as 15 percent of the cotton acreage in key locations within this area to be treated with insecticide in accordance with the schedule recommended by program entomologists, and this voids the primary principle which provides the basis for the program's success, reports Ed Dean, Field Service Director of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the organization responsible for coordinating the program.

"Orderly treatment of all infested acreage in an area designated as part of the 'control zone' is a prerequisite to an effective control effort," Dean said, "and when for any reason it becomes impossible to treat virtually all acreage, it is no longer feasible or consistent with the objectives of the program to continue treatments in the general area where cooperation is lacking."

Officials of the program express regret that the area described will have to be dropped from the control zone, but are confident that by intensifying treatment of cotton acreage adjacent to the Caprock west of the described area as migration occurs, the overall effectiveness of the program can be maintained.

"And of course," Dean adds, "should the level of producer cooperation improve to the extent that effectiveness can be regained in the questioned area, the decision to exclude that area will be reconsidered."

Mr. and Mrs. Seburn Neatherlin were visiting their daughter in Brownwood when they received the call that his youngest sister, Ruby Jo Mills of Tullia, had passed away. Seburn told the editor Monday morning his mother is in the hospital in Anson, and another sister, Mrs. Lois Simpson of Amarillo was in the hospital there. Mr. and Mrs. Neatherlin came to Turkey where they met their daughter, Mrs. Alton Lane and a son of Ruidoso, New Mexico.

Grassland Being Broken For Crops

An estimated 1,600 acres of Hall County land now in grass has been—or soon will be—converted to cropland for the 1974 growing season, Henry D. Gregory, Soil Conservation Service District Conservationist, reported today.

Gregory said most acreage was converted last fall, with the remainder expected to undergo a land use change next spring. The new croplands will grow primarily cotton.

Gregory pointed out that while (some) of the new cropland is suited to growing cotton, much is subject to excessive soil erosion and on sloping land would be better kept under a cover of grass or trees.

"Our estimates show," he added, "that 1,200 acres of Class IV soils in Hall County are going back into crops. These soils have very severe limitations as cropland and will require good conservation measures if erosion losses are to be kept at a reasonable level. Landowners should consider rotating high residue crops in their conservation planning."

Jim Jordan of Dallas stopped in Turkey Monday for a visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gilmore.

Mack and Glen Niblett of Oklahoma City visited Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wellman this last weekend. Glen was leaving for Germany Sunday morning.

Two Valley Girls Named To All State Teams

The Amarillo Daily News has announced its girls all-state basketball teams and two senior members of the Valley Patriots were selected for a spot on the elite team.

Mary Brunson, a four-year letterman, has won just about every recognition possible for a high school basketball player, and was selected as a first team member for the Daily News all-state team. Mary was the only member of this year's Valley team to be selected on the District 2-A all district team by the district's "experts." (In the two years Valley has been a member of District 2-A the girls have had to win district and go to state before getting any recognition.)

Last year Mary was all-regional, all-state tournament and a second team selection as all-state by the News-Globe. She was a first team all-state tournament pick this year at guard. Mary wound up her high school career last Saturday night playing with the East high school all-stars at Amarillo Civic Center.

Bonnie Clary was a Globe-News second team pick this year. Bonnie, too, has won just about every honor in the books in her high school basketball career, winning all-regional honors a year ago and a first team all-state tournament berth. Miss Clary, a most versatile athlete, won her honors at forward last year, was switched to a guard position this year and was a standout there. Bonnie lettered three years at a forward position before being switched to guard for this season. Bonnie has been selected to play in the Coaching School All-Star Game at Brownwood in July. She has received at least one offer to play basketball on scholarship in college.

Joel Wassom Back In Hospital

The Baileys kept their children. The Wassoms returned home Saturday and had to go back Monday where he entered the hospital in Oklahoma City again. He was scheduled for surgery again Wednesday. Somehow, the doctors had to do their work over. Mrs. Bailey is in Plainview to keep the children in school and care for the one not yet in school.

KIDS WILL BE KIDS—A young visitor to the petting zoo at Six Flags Over Texas proves for himself that goats don't limit their diet to tin cans. The share-and-share-alike plan didn't work. After the photo was snapped, the baby goat made off with the whole ice cream bar, stick and all.

HISTORY CAN BE FUN — Miniature antique cars provide a "ride into the past" for visitors to Six Flags Over Texas. In the background is the Arlington theme park's landmark Oil Derrick. From observation platforms atop the 300-foot tower, guests can see the skylines of both Dallas and Fort Worth.

THE DALLAS/FORT WORTH METROPLEX GETS IT ALL (CLOSELY) TOGETHER

Arlington, Texas—In this year of the "energy crunch" vacation planners are searching for destinations where there's a lot to see and do with a minimum of driving.

The answer for thousands of vacationers is the Dallas/Fort Worth region, with one of the most compact and exciting recreation complexes in the country.

The two cities are only thirty miles apart, and the area between the metro centers boasts millions of dollars worth of entertainment facilities.

The hub of the family fun complex is SIX FLAGS Over Texas, the sprawling theme park located in Arlington, midway between the two cities.

A trip to SIX FLAGS tops the "must" list for those who choose the region as their summer destination. A visit to the big park will fill a twelve-hour day. SIX FLAGS boasts more than 95 rides, shows and other attractions spread over 145 lavishly landscaped acres. Since its opening in 1961, SIX FLAGS Over Texas has provided fun and relaxation for nearly 22,500,000 visitors from throughout the world.

The facility, staffed by more than 1,700 young hosts and hostesses, is open weekends in the spring and fall and daily in the summer.

Attractions range from thrill-a-minute rides like the 55 mph Big Bend to glittering shows. The largest of the shows, a full-scale musical called "Great To Be Here," features a cast of fourteen and a fourteen-piece orchestra.

SIX FLAGS also features big name entertainers in special concert performances at various times during the season.

Less than a mile from SIX FLAGS is the Seven Seas marine life park. It's the largest inland facility of its kind in the world.

At Seven Seas visitors can see a performing killer whale, dolphins, sea lions and other creatures of the deep. There's also an exciting underwater show and you can watch skilled divers as they leap from the rigging of a full-size sailing ship.

Just three miles down the Dallas/Fort Worth Turnpike is Lion Country Safari. Your car becomes your "cage" as you drive through Lion Country's huge animal preserve.

Exotic creatures from the plains of Africa roam freely around your car. Your windshield may be nuzzled by a lion, elephant, giraffe, rhino, cheetah or any of dozens of other species.

Lion Country Safari also features an entertainment area where you can pet small animals or enjoy any of several unusual rides.

Located in the same, general area are the Southwestern Historical Wax Museum and a number of other "walk through" attractions including collections of antique vehicles.

In Dallas, vacationers can visit Fair Park, home of the Texas State Fair. Numerous year-round museums and other attractions dot the grounds.

Dallas' famous shops, restaurants and night spots make a trip to "Big D" a memorable journey.

In Fort Worth, visitors discover a wealth of both fun and culture. That city's complex of art museums has become known as "The Acropolis of the Southwest." Some of the world's most famous works of art can be seen during a walking tour of the three, specialized art museums clustered around the Will Rogers Memorial Center.

For sports fans there's also much to see and do. Depending on the season, visitors can take in a major league baseball game at Arlington Stadium, home of the American League's Texas Rangers or watch the Dallas Cowboys in NFL football action at Irving's Texas Stadium.

At nearby Mansfield a weekly, indoor rodeo is staged.

For golfers there are numerous courses throughout the area. One, Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth, is the site of one of the PGA's new "super tournaments" each May.

For water sports fans and fishermen the region is an ideal destination, with major lakes located within minutes of the metro areas.

The new Dallas/Fort Worth Airport, opened in January, is a tourist attraction in itself. The huge facility, located midway between the two cities, covers some 17,500 acres of land. It's slightly larger than Manhattan Island.

For those taking "fly-drive" vacations, the futuristic aviation center is an impressive first stop. It's the Jet Age gateway to one of the nation's most exciting and interesting vacation destinations.

Mrs. Lon McKay is enjoying having most of her girls home this week for a pre-birthday anniversary celebration. Her birthday anniversary is March 26, but more of the girls could come this week. Those present are Mrs. Theresa Gregory, Lorenzo; Charlotte Kemp, Lubbock; Devorah Justus and son, Jeff, El Reno, Oklahoma; Renee Dudley and daughter, Lisa, Garland; and Gwen Martin, Kirk and Lori, Quitaque.

Later she was surprised when other guests arrived for coffee. They were Judy Colvin and Leann Tiffin. Tina Cox and Barbara Saul called to wish her happy birthday but they were unable to attend the coffee.

ther, Mrs. Jewel Lutts, and her sister, Mrs. Ed Whitehorn, in Hereford over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Birt Lane brought her mother, Mrs. W. E. Morrison, home Monday. She accompanied them on to Turkey where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lane. Mrs. Lane's mother, Mrs. P. T. Clark, joined the Birt Lanes in the home of the Leon Lanes for a visit also. Mrs. Morrison went to Plainview Wednesday of last week with her son, Murry, and wife as Murry entered the hospital for surgery. She visited the Lanes, Hubert Settiffs and the Lawrence Bedwells while in Plainview.

Mrs. W. E. Wellman, who was in the hospital last week, returned home Sunday.

EASTER — THE RESURRECTION
Luke 23:50, 55-56 & Luke 24:1-9

From The Living Bible

Then a man named Joseph, a member of the Jewish Supreme Court, from the city of Arimathea in Judea, went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. As the body was taken away, the women from Galilee followed and saw it carried into the tomb. Then they went home and prepared spices and ointments to embalm him; but by the time they were finished it was the Sabbath, so they rested all that day as required by the Jewish law. But very early on Sunday morning they took the ointments to the tomb — and found that the huge stone covering the entrance had been rolled aside. So they went in — but the Lord Jesus' body was gone. They stood there puzzled, trying to think what could have happened to it. Suddenly two men appeared before them, clothed in shining robes so bright their eyes were dazzled. The women were terrified and bowed low before them. Then the men asked, "Why are you looking in a tomb for someone who is alive? He isn't here! He has come back to life again! Don't you remember what he told you back in Galilee — that the Messiah must be betrayed into the power of evil men and be crucified and that he would rise again the third day?" Then they remembered, and rushed back to Jerusalem to tell his eleven disciples — and everyone else — what had happened.

Painless dentistry . . . Relieving the pain of dental work has progressed greatly since the No-vocainess days of early dentistry. Now, a new gadget has been created to reduce patient apprehension even more. It's a gas machine that produces a feeling of well-being or euphoria.

A loose-fitting mask is placed over the patient's nose, and a measured concentration of nitrous oxide and oxygen is administered to him. The patient remains conscious while the dentist works on his teeth. He can keep his eyes open, if he wishes; answer the dentist's questions; and follow his instructions — all without feeling a twinge of pain.

When the dental work is completed, pure oxygen is provided for three to five minutes to completely eliminate the nitrous oxide from the lungs.

Several million doses of the gas mixture have been administered to patients of all ages, from senior citizens down to toddlers, and no deaths or dangerous complications have been reported.

As one dentist comments: "That's not gadgetry, that's progress."

Brain pacemakers . . . A 50-year-old man, unable to bend his knee since age three, recently walked for the first time without a cane. This victim of a spastic condition is the recipient of a "brain pacemaker," a battery-powered device that can alleviate certain types of involuntary movement disorders.

Developed by Irving S. Cooper, M.D., director of neurological surgery at St. Barnabas Hospital for Chronic Disease, the Bronx, New York, the pacemaker produces its therapeutic effect by stimulating the cerebellum, the part of the brain that controls body movement. An antenna implanted in the chest stimulates electrodes originating from a mesh plate located inside the cerebellum. The wearer can turn the pacemaker on and off with a pocket size transmitter carried outside the body.

In preliminary results on 12 patients with spastic conditions, Dr. Cooper reports that stimulation of the brain by the pacemaker has "lessened spasticity or reflex spasms" in seven of ten patients and has produced moderate but incomplete relief of extreme body tension in two others.

6 WAYS TO CONSERVE AND SAVE ON WATER HEATERS

Normally the quantity of Hot water used in a household is about 1/4 to 1/3 of the total water usage. Here are some suggestions that can help you get the most out of your water heater.

1. With a little planning, you can arrange to wash only full loads of clothing in your washer and full loads of dishes in your dishwasher. Less than full loads consumes energy and wastes water needlessly.

2. To assure long life and efficiency, the water heater tank should have a small amount of water drained periodically. Once a month should be adequate. The purpose of draining water from the tank is to prevent sediment build-up in the tank bottom.

3. A water heater that's old, or too small for your family needs, can be wasteful because it's working too hard and using too much energy to keep up with your hot water demands.

4. It's amazing how much water a leaky faucet will drip in a month's time and if the leaking faucet is a hot water faucet, it will waste both energy and water needlessly. As an example, a faucet dripping 90 drops per minute, will waste 300 gallons per month.

5. The thermostat controlling the water temperature is pre-set at the factory to deliver hot water at 150°F. This setting has proven most satisfactory from the standpoint of operating cost and household needs.

6. The thermostat can be adjusted to provide warmer or cooler water temperatures. The thermostats are clearly marked for easy adjustment to increase or decrease the water temperature.

Americans Need To Take Postive Action
To Avoid Recession

LLOYD BENTSEN
United States Senator

As Americans, we must take forceful, positive action to avoid the strong possibility of recession in coming months.

Many people are beginning to feel that forces beyond anyone's control have taken over our country's economic destiny.

There is a deepening feeling that our high standard of living is endangered by run-away inflation, recession, and unemployment — compounded by the energy shortage, the steel shortage and an endless list of other shortages and scarcities.

People are weary of economic phases and empty phrases which bring no relief to the nation's economic ills. They are beginning to feel overwhelmed and to lose confidence in the ability of government and our economic system to meet the problems.

Yet the fault lies not in our system — but in mismanagement of the system. We are not the victims of sinister or uncontrollable forces, but of wrong-headed policies and leaders who are doing a poor job.

REDUCE INTEREST RATES

There are plenty of things being done wrong. The Administration has deliberately driven up interest rates through a Federal Reserve Board policy of tight money supplies. The theory is that this will slow the rate of money lending and stop inflation. But, as we've seen, it hasn't worked.

What we should do is work to lower interest rates — by loosening the money supply.

We should also take direct measures to help industries and employees adversely affected by the energy crisis. Federal guaranteed loans should be provided for industries to help them convert to cheaper, more abundant fuels or to produce other products. That would keep them moving, and their employees on the job.

There should be strong investment incentives to American industries that need help in meeting foreign competition.

And, we must make sure that our nation's farmers get enough fertilizer to produce the record crops we need to provide adequate food at fair prices. It would be hard to over-emphasize the importance of fertilizer in this time of rising food prices. I co-sponsored a Senate resolution urging the Administration to give a priority fuel allocation to fertilizer plants. This would enable them to produce an additional 300,000 tons of fertilizer this year, and help our farmers increase food supplies.

LONG-RANGE POLICY NEEDED

It is important that we take immediate steps to deal with our economic problems, and the steps I have outlined speak to that need. But at the same time, we have to look ahead. The Joint Economic Committee has named me chairman of a new Subcommittee on Economic Growth to make an intensive study of economic trends and prospects on which to base long-range planning.

The area of inquiry for this new subcommittee will be all the long-range measures we should be taking to ensure our future economic health. Our country's potential remains strong. And, with proper care and attention, we face a bright, healthy economic future.

But it would serve no purpose to deceive ourselves with optimistic talk about the short run. There are some sober times ahead — and to deny it would be foolish.

The Big Weekend Slated At Wayland

PLAINVIEW, Tex., Special: — The third annual Big Weekend at Wayland Baptist College will be held April 19-20, according to Marsha Sharp, Tulia senior and president of Student Foundation, sponsoring organization.

The Big Weekend, two days of activities designed for the high school student, is planned to acquaint prospective students with college life in general and with Wayland Baptist College in particular.

Proceeds from the weekend go into a special scholarship program. For a minimal price, high school students may come to the campus, spend three nights in dormitories, take their meals in the campus dining hall, attend classes, find answers to their questions concerning college, and have a "bang-up good time!"

Highlighting this year's program, which is billed as "bigger and better than ever", will be professional entertainer Bill Cosby, who will present a one-man show, "An Evening With Bill Cosby," at 8:00 p.m. in Hutcherson Physical Education Center on Saturday evening.

Special guests for a big show on Friday evening will be Miss Texas, Judy Mallett, Miss Texas of 1972, Mae Beth Cormany, Miss Texas of 1970, Bellinda Myrick, and other selected, talented beauties from across the state. Tentatively scheduled to participate are Miss Wayland, Joan Jeter, Miss White Settlement, Becky Bloomer, who was first runner-up to Miss Texas as Miss Dallas last summer, Miss West Texas State University, Sandra Skinner, Miss Lubbock, Sherry Jackson, and others.

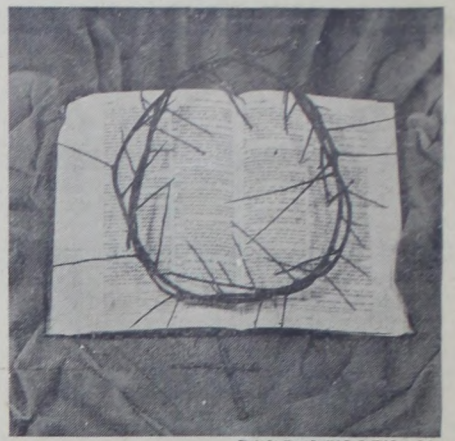

Activities get underway on April 18 when students arrive and settle into their dormitory homes. On Friday, students will have opportunity to visit college classes and set interviews with department heads.

On Saturday, activities include a golf tournament at Plainview Country Club, beginning at 9:30 a.m., and the Demolition Derby by Wayland students at 1:30 at Plainview Speed Bowl. A 5 p.m. barbecue will precede the Bill Cosby Show.

Students interested in attending the weekend should contact the Student Foundation at Wayland as soon as possible.

I would remind you, however, that we have had some bad times in the past—even some disastrous times.

And despite all that—in spite of bad times and even bad leaders, the true realists in America have always been the optimists.

GOOD FRIDAY — THE CRUCIFIXION
John 19:16-21 & Mark 15:33-39

From The Living Bible

Then Pilate gave Jesus to them to be crucified. So they had him at last, and he was taken out of the city, carrying his cross to the place known as "The Skull," in Hebrew, "Golgotha." There they crucified him and two others with him, one on either side, with Jesus between them. And Pilate posted a sign over him reading, "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews." The place where Jesus was crucified was near the city; and the signboard was written in Hebrew, Latin, and Greek, so that many people read it. Then the chief priests said to Pilate, "Change it from 'The King of the Jews' to 'HE SAID, I am King of the Jews'." About noon, darkness fell across the entire land, lasting until three o'clock that afternoon. Then Jesus called out with a loud voice, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?" ("My God, my God, why have you deserted me?") Some of the people standing there thought he was calling for the prophet Elijah. So one man ran and got a sponge and filled it with sour wine and held it up to him on a stick. "Let's see in Elijah will come and take him down!" he said. Then Jesus uttered another loud cry, and dismissed his spirit. And the curtain in the Temple was split apart from top to bottom. When the Roman officer standing beside his cross saw how he dismissed his spirit, he exclaimed, "Truly, this was the Son of God!"

MORE THAN THREE MILLION ACRES MAY BE PLANTED
TO COTTON IN 1974 ON PLAINS

Official 1973 planted acreage figures for all counties on the Plains have not been released, but information from Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices indicate that just over 2.8 million acres were sowed last year. The December 1 final estimate of "acreage for harvest" from the joint POG-Lubbock Cotton Exchange estimates committee, which allowed for acreage planted but later abandoned, was 2,709,836 acres.

"Over three million acres planted to cotton on the Plains in 1974 is a definite possibility," says Johnson, "but at this juncture there are any number of factors that could greatly alter the picture."

The biggest of these factors of course is rainfall, he says, pointing out that one-third or more of the area expected to go into cotton is totally dependent on timely rain to make planting possible. Most of this "dryland" area lies South and West of Lubbock where heavy planting in 1973 left little room for expansion this year.

As one observer put it "Dryland farmers last year planted their back yards to cotton and unless they plow up their front lawns they can't plant much more cotton in 1974."

A sizeable increase, in some areas as much as 25 percent, is now indicated in the sections lying generally North and East of Lubbock where irrigation water is more abundant. "But even here a large increase is not assured," Johnson cautions.

Cotton must compete for irrigated acres with grain sorghum, corn and other cash crops, he points out, "and much will depend on the action of prices for the various commodities between now and planting time and on producer evaluations of price prospects at harvest."

"So three or 3.1 million acres will be planted to cotton on the Plains only if moisture is forthcoming to permit full planting of dryland farms and only if prices, the availability of fertilizer and other factors do not upset present plans for irrigated acreage between now and planting time."

"And these are big 'ifs,'" he concludes.

Darlene Hale of Canyon was home visiting over the weekend.

New higher interest rate on U.S. Savings Bonds.

Now U.S. Savings Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity.

Here's how it works: The higher interest rate applies to all new Bonds purchased since December 1, 1973, raising their rate from 5½% to 6% when held to maturity. And the maturity period on Series E Bonds is shorter, too. Now E Bonds mature in 5 years, with a first-year rate of 4½%.

Series H Bonds, with a 10-year maturity, will earn 5% the first year; 5.8% for the next four years; and 6¼% for the last five years. This gives you an average 6% yield over the 10-year period.

It works for Bonds you now hold, too. There's no reason to redeem your older Bonds to buy new ones.

Their yield has improved, too.

All outstanding E Bonds will receive a ½% increase in yield for each semiannual interest period beginning on or after December 1, 1973, payable upon redemption. This also applies to any Freedom Shares you may still hold.

All outstanding H Bonds will receive a ½% yield increase for each semiannual interest period beginning on or after December 1, 1973. This is payable in the form of increased semiannual interest payments.

It all works to your advantage. Now, more than ever, it makes sense to buy higher-paying U.S. Savings Bonds and hold them to maturity or beyond.

Sign up now to buy Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or buy them where you bank.

The motorcycle cop stared in astonishment as the tiny foreign car sped down the road; it was jumping two or three feet into the air every half minute or so. The policeman sped after it.

"What's the matter with the puddle-jumper?" he shouted at the driver. "Not a thing, officer," said the man. "It's me. I've got the hiccups."

Upon the birth of their first child, a young father was asked if he did not think the new baby would bring him and his wife even closer together. "Certainly will," he said. "Now we have a common enemy."

The fellow on the crowded bus could stand it no longer. "Madam," he began politely, "you are standing on my foot."

"Put your stupid foot where it belongs," snapped the woman. "Don't tempt me," murmured the man, "don't tempt me!"

"Of course I spend more than you make, dear! I have confidence in you!"

Today's Health News

Published by the American Medical Association

Have you heard the joke about the Chicago auto mechanic who last winter missed three weeks of work because he had chapped hands.

Don't laugh. Dry, itchy skin can afflict anyone during the winter months — even those who stay indoors away from winter's brisk, cold winds. A heated house or apartment can dry out the skin just as easily as nature's own fresh air. The indoor air absorbs the water that the skin needs to keep its top layer (called the stratum corneum) moist, explains one dermatologist.

Marvin Chernosky, M.D., director of the program in dermatology at the University of Texas Medical School, in Houston, suggests the following seven steps to solve this indoor environmental problem.

- Turn down the heat in your house or apartment (trying to keep it below 72°F.).
- Feed moisture into the air so the humidity will protect your skin. If your home has a central heating system, you probably can have a humidifying unit attached to the furnace. If you've got steam heat, put pans of water either on top of or beneath the radiators, or buy an inexpensive room humidifier.

• Substitute a quick shower, or at least a short warm bath, for a long hot soak in the tub.

• Soaking in hot water forces the skin to absorb too much moisture," explains Dr. Chernosky. "It becomes 'super-hydrated' — and when it comes in contact with the dry air, it is 'super-dehydrated.'"

• Take it easy with the bath soap. It helps wash away the body's own protective oil.

• Apply a moisturizer to the skin immediately after bathing.

• Take extra care with baby's skin — the little body doesn't have well-developed oil or sweat glands yet. Bubble bath can irritate baby's tender skin.

• Use rubber gloves for indoor cleaning, including dish washing. After you've finished a job, rinse your hands thoroughly and apply a layer of cream.
